Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Now, let us link arms so we are not separated. Good lord, man. Your arms are as thick as tree trunks!"

Suldae Westwind: She does want to see what happens if Hiere gets coffee in him.

Hiere Unthere: "Thanks, I've been working on them"

Baron Vargas Vallakovich puts himself between Henry and Izek, hooking elbows with them.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has to bite her lips to keep herself from replying to Hiere, there.

The two cooks emerge from the kitchen once again, bearing a crate of candles.

Servants: "This is everything we have for candles, sir."

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "So few? Quickly! Before the night falls in earnest, one of you must run to the Arasek stockyards and purchase more."

Suldae Westwind: "The witches might be aiming to keep us on edge to muddle our thinking," Suldae speaks up. "I could play some music to clear up our heads."

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Take one of the guards with you!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rolls his eyes with all his might hoping it would help

Suldae Westwind: "It's important to keep our emotional equilibrium."

"A little known yet important element to fighting witches."

The Servants look at one another, eyes wide with panic. None of them seems to want to be the one to leave the house.

Suldae Westwind:

DC14

Dexterity Save

10

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame

Suldae Westwind

(sorry)

(misclick)

GM: (Whoosh! The Burgomaster ignites.)

(JK JK -- although Henry might enjoy that)

Suldae Westwind: (look its not my fault all the spells on my char sheet suddenly have extended descriptions and i have to click i to hide them >x>)

(I know he would...

GM: (Yeah what's up with that?)

(They must have pushed out an update)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

Hiere Unthere: (yeah that happened to all spells below level 4 for me for some reason)

Suldae Westwind: (Did the Burgomaster note Suldae's suggestions?)

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "No no, no music! We must keep our ears open, to listen for the muttering of incantations and the casting of spells."

(To the servants:) "Come along now, hurry! Unless you wish to be quick to find another job!"

Hiere Unthere: Hiereye decides to snoop under the bed.

Cook: "I'll go."

Suldae Westwind: Well, there goes that plan.

The other servants look at her fearfully, but the relief is plain on their faces.

The Cook leaves.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts quietly humming under her breath instead. No magic flute, but she can just blame this on nerves if the Baron protests.

Detect Evil and Good

Divination 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, you know if there is an aberration, celestial, elemental, fey, fiend, or undead within 30 feet of you, as well as where the creature is located. Similarly, you know if there is a place or object within 30 feet of you that has been magically consecrated or desecrated. The spell can penetrate most barriers, but it is blocked by 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt.

She also steps a little back so it's not right in his ear.

Baron Vargas Vallakovich leads the way to the kitchen and busies himself (and the cook. And the maid) with the making of several large pots of coffee.

Meanwhile, Izek begins lighting candles all throughout the lower floors. Through the windows, you can see guards patrolling outside with torches.

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "There now. Drink up! We have a long night ahead of us."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere downs a pint and starts vibrating softly.

"m-many thanks"

Marcus Veranius murmurs to himself. This was a bad idea; no way he'd be able to provide further support till the beast arrived.

The ginger-root coffee is coal-black and bitter as sin.

Suldae Westwind: (Hey, what do I see?)

(Detect?)

(Feel?)

So far, Suldae feels no untoward presences.

Suldae Westwind: (augh dammit i forgot to make tiny servants before coming in, ah well)

Outside, the last ray of the sun begins to fade. Night has fallen.

Marcus Veranius decides to focus his senses inward to detect undead within the city, ready for when the beast finally showed itself

Suldae Westwind: Suldae drinks a sip politely before putting the cup back.

Marcus senses the sudden appearance of one powerful undead entity. It seems to have manifested on the roof of the Burgomaster's mansion.

Suldae Westwind: "Detect magic," she whispers in Hiere's ear, momentarily leaning forward.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Shall we begin the search then, to make sure the house is save of witchly machinations?" Henry says

Suldae Westwind: (Does Suldae feel it as well?)

(30 feet up)

With his keen eyes, he can see the pale figure wrapped in shadows. Its form is humanoid, by some interpretations of the word. It is not within 30 feet of Suldae, so she does not feel it yet.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (to much stuff in the way)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

(Let's all remember Ireena's familiar)

(and the Message cantrip)

Hiere Unthere: "I-i'm trying to concentrate on something hiere" he whispers back

Suldae Westwind: "Okay," she whispers and focuses on her own spell instead.

Nothing, yet. That doesn't make her much less nervous, especially considering the size of the house.

Marcus Veranius: "Ireena, it's on the roof of the Burgomaster's house."

"Why would it be there..."

Ireena Kolyana: (Via Message, to all party members present) "It's here. On the roof."

Marcus Veranius: "Either that's where it starts its nights come sunset, or... is it ALSO investigating the weathervane?"

Marcus watches the sparkling eyes of the beast turn, gazing over the city. For a single moment it seems almost to lock eyes with him -- even across the distance.

Then it continues its searching gaze. Its eyes seem to alight on the form of a servant girl and a guard, headed towards the Arasek stockyards.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae finds herself torn. She wishes Marcus was here, to make a plan.

"If we go on the roof, we can see farther out for threats," she finally suggests.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere diverts the eye right up there.

Marcus Veranius turns his attention to the Burgomaster's son's room. Is there any developments there?

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "On the roof? How do you plan to get up there? We would have to send for a ladder."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to consider before opening a window and leaning out

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Suldae Westwind: Actually confronting the creature would at least give them a good excuse to knock out the Baron and Izek and blame it on witches later.

There are no notable developments from the window on the third floor of the house, which appears to be the Burgomaster's son's workshop -- not his bedroom.

Suldae Westwind: The perfect crime.

Henry senses the beast on the roof, on the east side of the house.

Suldae Westwind: "How do chimney sweeps get on there?" Suldae asks one of the servants present.

Cook: "Chimney sweeps bring their own ladders," she says. "Usually."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh."

"Surely there must be ladders in the house?"

Maid: "One time he had to use a rope, remember? That was pretty funny. Up until he broke his leg, I mean."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How do you get on the Roof" Henry asks closing the window whilst rolling his shoulders

Marcus sees the beast vanish in a swirl of shadows.

Henry no longer senses the beast. Marcus senses it farther to the east, reappearing in an alley on the way to the stockyards.

Marcus Veranius resumes his senses, trying to pick up where it went to Suldae Westwind: Suldae wishes she could cast magic silently.

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Come now, let us get this expedition underway!"

"Oh, goodness. This would be exciting, if it weren't so terrifying!"

Marcus Veranius: "It's making its attack for the night. If we think the son's behind it, we might want to barge into the workshop for an emergency call back home."

Suldae Westwind: (Hiere, where's your Eye?)

Marcus Veranius: "Otherwise I'm going to need to leave the light room to stop it, and that won't end well."

Ireena Kolyana: (via Message) Ireena conveys this information.

Suldae Westwind: (Has it found the workshop yet?)

Hiere's Arcane Eye makes its way to the roof of the house, as instructed. It sees an empty roof.

Marcus Veranius: "Third floor by the looks of the window."

"Beast has moved. We have no time."

Suldae Westwind: (We know where the workshop is by the window, right? Can figure it out inside the house?)

(with an Intelligence check or something?)

Ireena Kolyana: (Via Message): "Third floor. East side. Should be where the flashes of light were coming from."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6

WISDOM (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Hiere Unthere: Hiere looks to Ireena. Goddammit. Better go there instead Ireena Kolyana: (Via Message): "Wait, he must mean the attic!"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere is now quiet miffed.

quite*

Hiere's Eye struggles to find the way to that room, since it cannot pass through solid barriers.

It seems the route to the attic must be concealed somewhere on the second floor.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (welp) Henry reaches through the telepathic link to his steed to summon it to the manor

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hums a different tune while bending down and tapping her fingers on a small knife she sees.

It ultimately arrives in a bedroom. Time has faded the grandeur of this master bedroom. The furnishings have lost some of their color and splendor. A short pull-rope hangs from a wooden trapdoor in the ceiling.

Suldae Westwind: It's flat enough to pass under not-too-well-secured doors.

The sound of galloping hooves can soon be heard.

Suldae Westwind:

Tiny Servant

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature

Components: V, S

You touch one Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature. The target animates and sprouts little arms and legs, becoming a creature under your control until the spell ends or the creature drops to 0 hit points. See the stat block for its statistics.

As a bonus action, you can mentally command the creature if it is within 120 feet of you. (If you control multiple creatures with this spell, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one.) You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a simple, general command, such as to fetch a key, stand watch, or stack some books. If you issue no commands, the servant does nothing other than defend itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the servant continues to follow that order until its task is complete.

When the creature drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original form, and any remaining damage carries over to that form.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can animate two additional objects for each slot level above 3rd.

(NOT concentration, so the other spell is still up)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere looks to Ireena and shakes his head no. Maybe Marcus could help.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He breaths out loudly before turning to his friends "I refuse to let anyone else suffer so I apologise" he says before running of towards the front door

 Sulda Westwind: The knife is given instruction to find the room Sulda approximates the location of.

GM: (So the Tiny Servant does not mention you being able to see through it, but it can carry out your commands)

 Sulda Westwind: (Yeah, we discussed this)

GM: (Yes, you should be able to 'feel' what it feels, iirc)

 Sulda Westwind: (Mhm)

 Marcus Veranius: "...bollocks, Henry's moving."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: As soon as he reaches the outside he bounds on to his horse

 Marcus Veranius: "We need to set up in a different room. Which window faces the stockyard?"

 Hiere Unthere: "HenRY???"

 Sulda Westwind: "I think he felt the monster elsewhere," Sulda says.

"He's a paladin, he can get divine insights..."

"I believe your guards and Izek might be sufficient for your safety, if we find the monster elsewhere."

GM: (I'm going to need a Sleight of Hand roll for the subtle spell casting, or a Performance roll to distract from it)

 Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "My goodness, he left in a hurry."

 Marcus Veranius: "Ireena, tell Sulda and Hiere to continue their investigation. I'll support Henry."

 Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "What a magnificent horse, too!" (He can see it because the doors are still flapping after Henry freight-trained through them)

 Sulda Westwind: Sulda had made a show of tripping, when she did that.

11

PERFORMANCE (9)
Sulda Westwind

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rides hard for the place Ireena mentioned it apparated to

 Sulda Westwind: (well, FUCK)

 Marcus Veranius prepares to move the lanterns to a stockyard-facing room

GM: (With advantage, due to Henry's genius distraction tactics)

 Sulda Westwind:

28

PERFORMANCE (9)
Sulda Westwind

(THANK YOU HENRY)

The small knife sprouts little steel arms and legs and scuttles away, unnoticed in the commotion.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (HA Tactic ggod one) good

Meanwhile, Henry's galloping steed races through the streets of Vallaki. Within seconds, he has caught up with the Cook and the guard. It is the same Cook from Lady Wachter's house.

He senses the being in the shadows of an alley up ahead, waiting to ambush.

Hiere Unthere: (uh is hiere supposed to be alone)

Suldae Westwind: (no you're supposed to cme back and be with us)

"...Ah, I suppose we'd better stay."

"We'd only hold him back."

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Izek, don't you go anywhere!"

Hiere Unthere: (he was still in the living room, moved him to the kitchen)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has to suppress a pang of worry.

(ah)

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Why did that stalwart young chap race off like that?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "oh no you won't" Henry murmurs to him self unslinging his new weapon and Shield"

Suldae Westwind: (did you miss Suldae's commentary)

(she provided some)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: (I did miss that, saw it now)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Branniding smite wont show up)

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Ah, well, that's good then. At least we know the monster is not within the house."

Suldae Westwind: "It might not be the only threat... in fact, it might even be a distraction from an attempt on your life," Suldae goes back to the previous tack.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Suldae Westwind: "I'm sorry, I might be too paranoid..."

Marcus Veranius aims the Oathbow street-side, ready to support Henry's charge

Suldae Westwind: "It's just that it's hard to think of a worse-case scenario."

Boneclaw:

STEALTH Boneclaw

Skill: 16

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: The Baron's fear seems to be escalating in the excitement.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus has Passive 20)

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Perhaps... Perhaps Izek and I should just stay here. In the kitchen. Surrounded by candles."

"The rest of you should be good on your own, no?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: No hiding from Divine Sense either

Henry senses the creature lurking in the shadows, much to its surprise.

Boneclaw: Deadly Reach: In response to a visible enemy moving into its reach, the boneclaw makes one claw attack against that enemy. If the attack hits, the boneclaw can make a second claw attack against the target. (15 foot reach)

Suldae Westwind: "...The kitchen should be safe, yes," Suldae agrees.

Marcus Veranius: (REVERSE OPPORTUNITY ATTACKS!)

Suldae Westwind: "Especially when we investigate outwards from it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "RUINATION" Henry yells as he hurls his weapon at it from 50 ft away charged with the branding magic Marcus has a clear shot.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

31

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

31

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

17 + 4 Piercing	4 + 7 Acid
---------------------------	----------------------

Suldae Westwind: (HOLY SHIT)

Hiere Unthere: (TWO NAT 20S))))))

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling 2d6

(6 + 4)

= 10

rolling 2d6

(4 + 6)

= 10

Marcus Veranius:

12	23
-----------	-----------

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

18	24
-----------	-----------

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

20
Magical Piercing

Hiere Unthere: (YO WHAT THE FUCK)

Marcus Veranius:

14

14

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

17

Magical Piercing

(Precision)

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

1

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

Hiere Unthere: (Imao)Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls the rest of the party out of the room with her, taking advantage of the Baron's fear.GM: (Final numbers?)Suldae Westwind: Hieria, Ireena, Rictavio are coming with her, correct?GM: (Yes)Marcus Veranius: (Will a 15 hit?)GM: (No)Marcus Veranius: 49 Magical Piercing after Favored EnemyHenry of Willowsbrook: 89 total with 20 radiant and 30 acid rest is piercing oh and what is the Bone Claws CR ?

it is higher than 5 right

so no instant death

Suldae Westwind: The knife is scurrying in search of the aforementioned room.

Suldae is leading the party in the same direction.

Two arrows strike in the moment before Henry's war-pick hits its target. The Boneclaw screeches horrifically as the arrows stick into its 'flesh.' Then the Warpick lands. There is a pulse of light visible throughout the city. A shockwave of arcane power ripples across the street, knocking road-dust out of the cobblestones. Several nearby windows burst.

The Boneclaw is completely obliterated.

 Boneclaw: 3

It will reappear at the end of 3 hours.

 Hiere Unthere: "did you guys feel that?"

The Cook faints from the sheer awesomeness of Henry's smite.

The Guard faints on top of her.

 Marcus Veranius returns the Oathbow. As he suspected; didn't need the full party

 Marcus Veranius: Not when Henry is angry
"It's down... for now. We still need to find its origin point."

Suldae, Ireena, Rictavio, and Hiere make their way through the second story of the house, and find themselves in the master bedroom.

Suldae has a funny feeling about the door on the southern wall.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (We never agreed on how long it stays activated did we how about 10 minutes? or 1min which would say sounds plenty deadly)

 Marcus Veranius: "Someone check the workshop; its master might have suffered some kind of feedback from the beast being knocked out."

A rope hanging from the ceiling seems to be connected to a trapdoor, which might lead into the attic.

 Suldae Westwind: Can the knife fit under doors here?

 Marcus Veranius: "At the very least he's not gunna be happy."

 Hiere Unthere: Hiere yanks on the rope, just managing to not cast rope trick.

 Suldae Westwind: (It's a kitchen knife, with a relatively flat handle)

 Marcus Veranius says to Ireena

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls the door's handle.

GM: (The knife can fit under doors, yes)

 Suldae Westwind: (regardless of the answer, though I also want to have it)
(ty)

Suldae pulls the handle. Is the door locked?

 Marcus Veranius attempts to re-assemble the Bright Room to the original location just in case
As Hiere pulls on the rope, the trapdoor to the attic opens and a ladder drops down into the room.

The door to the south is not locked.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry checks on both the Cook and the guard to make sure they are okay

The Cook and the Guard are fine, and easily roused.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae opens it and looks inside.

When the Cook awakens and sees Henry's face over her, she faints again.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere sends up Hiereye

Suldae sees a room which smells of powder and fine perfume. A vanity with a mirror stands against one wall next to a faceless wooden mannequin wearing a white bridal gown. Mounted on another wall is a full-length mirror with a gilded frame. A door in one corner leads to a garderobe. The mirror radiates an aura of conjuration magic.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae narrows her eyes at the mirror.

"Well, we found the dress."

"Also, this mirror..."

Hiere sees a small room above the trapdoor. This dusty, twenty-foot-square room has a high-pitched ceiling that reaches its peak twenty feet above. The wooden rafters are shrouded in cobwebs. Except for an old table with a lantern on it, the room is empty.

There is a door in the south wall.

Hiere Unthere: "There's another door up there, who wants to have a look?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Are the two of them Okay?)

The Guard and the Cook are both fine.

The Guard thanks Henry profusely, blushing like a schoolgirl, overawed by the glory of his presence. He says he can stay to keep an eye on the Cook, and make sure she gets home safely.

Suldae Westwind: (oh btw: we already know this coz Marcus told Ireena's familiar and she told us, right?)

GM: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns at the mirror.

"Isn't conjuration the thing for summoning?"

"This mirror..."

"Ireena, Hiere, Rictavio, mind taking a look?"

Hiere Unthere: "Say what?"

(arcana?)

Suldae Westwind: It's a little disorienting to be in a room of magic experts.

And pleasant.

Ireena Kolyana: "It's definitely magical..."

"I could cast Identify, I suppose?"

Hiere Unthere:

11

ARCANA (9)

(really having fun with these rolls)

Hiere determines that the mirror is, in fact, magical.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thank you I'm glad the two of you are save" He says before turning his horse around to return to the Burgomeisters home "Let's move Corazon"

Within seconds, Henry is back at the Burgomaster's mansion.

Ireena Kolyana: "Do you think we have the time to spare, if I wanted to cast Identify? It only takes a minute."

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Ah! Brave warrior! Were you successful in your quest?"
"Is the beast dead?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: He dismounts patting his steeds thick neck before moving inside
"It is gone for now but with beings of undeath it is hard to be certain Rictavio what do you think?"
Henry says

Rictavio: "I'm up here!" Rictavio says, his keen ears hearing Henry even through the floorboards.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere, satisfied with his assessment of the mirror, leaves it alone and heads up into the attic to test out the new door.

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: Looking abashed, the Burgomaster says, "Yes, I, er... I sent your friends to search the house. They are upstairs at the moment."

Suldae Westwind: "We have a minute," Suldae assures her.

The door in the attic is not locked.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods and moves to join them

Ireena begins to ritually cast Identify.

Hiere Unthere: He opens it a crack and sends in The Eye.

Hiere's Eye finds a large attic room full of old, forgotten things draped in white sheets. Piled around them are barrels, crates, trunks, and old furnishings covered with cobwebs and dust. He sees a clear footpath through the maze.

A single set of human footprints in the dust leads to the eastern side of the attic.

Hiere Unthere: He points through the floor towards the others.

Message

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S, M (A short piece of copper wire)

Duration: 1 round

You point your finger toward a creature within range and whisper a message. The target (and only the target) hears the message and can reply in a whisper that only you can hear. You can cast this spell through solid objects if you are familiar with the target and know it is beyond the barrier. Magical silence, 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood blocks the spell. The spell doesn't have to follow a straight line and can travel freely around corners or through openings.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Blinsky is terrifyingly good at what he does" Henry comments hand briefly righting his new weapons lay on his hip

Hiere Unthere: "He's up here"

Ireena Kolyana: "Almost done..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Upon noticing the bridal gown Henry nudges Suldae "Should we just?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Alright, I'm done."

Hiere Unthere: "you guys coming or what"

Ireena Kolyana: "There's some kind of spirit bound to this mirror. An assassin of some kind? I've also managed to reveal a small inscription."

GM: (See handout for inscription)

Suldae Westwind: "...How likely is this to be the Boneclaw?" Suldae inquires from the expert.
That's Ireena.

Ireena Kolyana: "It doesn't seem that likely, to me. It's alarming that they would have something like this in the house, but I don't know that it's related."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns thoughtfully.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anyone else reminded of something" Henry says drily after reading the inscription

Suldae Westwind: "Too many things," Suldae admits.
"My recollection is being unhelpful here."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hiere I'm coming up"

Rictavio climbs the ladder to the attic.

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Marcus Veranius: "If we're talking literally, that Monster was summoned from the Burgomaster's house when night fell, then went on a murderous rampage."

Suldae Westwind: "We should probably offer to buy the dress from the baron."

Marcus Veranius: "Sounds like the boneclaw situation in a shellnut."

Suldae Westwind: "Say we have a friend who collects them."

"Not untrue."

Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus thinks it's related. He says it sounds like the boneclaw situation in a shell nut?"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere waits for the literal holy warrior to take the lead.

Ireena Kolyana: "Should we try to break the mirror?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You think on that" Henry says "So what is going on up here except my desire to bathe"

Ireena Kolyana: "There might be unintended consequences, of course..."

Marcus Veranius: "It's bad luck, but maybe? Can we remove curses yet?"

Hiere Unthere: "There's a path through there." he points to the door. "I'm scared"

Marcus Veranius: "At the very least it'll piss off the Burgomaster if we don't get his OK first."

Ireena Kolyana: "Judging by the decor in here, I'd say this was probably his wife's room."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I think I could make you fearless if you want"

Ireena Kolyana: "His deceased wife's room, I should add."

"He probably won't take kindly to us breaking something of hers."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How is the lighting in the attic?)

The attic is completely unlit.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can't see shit"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere stops concentrating on the eye and throws up some lights.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll say it again, the Burgomaster's sun has a sufficient Revenge motive against the earlier targets. The wife that rejected his marriage, then maybe an uncaring mother."

"Maybe the Boneclaw continued afterwards because once it starts it can't stop."

The lights illuminate the gloomy chamber, revealing a great deal of junk, and one winding set of footprints which passes through the dust, to a door on the eastern side of the chamber. Someone has carved a large skull into that door. Hanging from the doorknob is a wooden sign that reads "ALL IS NOT WELL!"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

A young man's voice can be heard beyond the door.

Marcus Veranius: "Where IS the Burgomaster's son anyways?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus has a pretty good theory..."

(Ireena conveys Marcus's message)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry raises his shield and pick now that he his able to see "Let's see what is behind ominous door number I don't remember shall we?"

Henry waits until Rictavio and Hiere are close before opening the door whilest holding his shield up to cover them best he can

Ireena Kolyana: 18

There is a blast of light! Lightning crackles across Henry's shield and armor, and a blast of thunder rolls through the room.

Rictavio, Henry, and Hiere all take 18 points of lightning damage from the triggered Glyph of Warding.

Henry of Willowsbrook: halved

The sound is audible throughout the house.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae,deciding to roll the dice on how cursed one person can even _be_, picks up a chair, mtions for Ireena to stand aside, and breaks the mirror.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 9 points if Lightning

GM: (Correct, 9 points of lightning)

Hiere Unthere: (to all?)

GM: (Yup. Already applied it)

Rictavio: "Ow."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah"

The mirror cracks like any ordinary mirror. For a moment, Suldae sees a shade -- a reflection of someone who is not in the room with them. Then the image fades, and the mirror's magic seems to break.

Rictavio: "Shall we attempt to open the door again?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry kicks it

21 Lightning damage crackles across the trio once again, halved by Henry's shield. (Roll Athletics to see if you busted the door in)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

11

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Seems to be a very sturdy door, unfortunately.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 10 to all

Rictavio: "Good gods, how many glyphs are on this door?"

"Can we smash it with something from a distance?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "hm what are the odds they warded the walls around it?"

Ireena Kolyana: (To Suldae): "I think that did it. I don't sense any more magic from the mirror."

Rictavio: "If the son is anything like the father — that is, bloody paranoid — I'd say the odds are good."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: (To Marcus): "Can you see anything?"

"This is torture, not knowing what's going on..."

Suldae Westwind: "Well, good. We'll say we had a fight with some witches."

"I'm pretty sure the Baron will buy it."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere steps back so as to not get fried. He points his rod straight at the door in preparation.

Suldae Westwind: "At this point."

"Let's go upstairs."

Suldae goes up.

Ireena Kolyana: "Even if he doesn't buy it I'm sort of past the point of caring."

Ireena Kolyana follows.

Suldae Westwind: "I can relate to that," Suldae agrees with her.

She takes the knife with her.

oops

(ty)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So anyone have anything to bust through here"

Hiere Unthere:

Telekinesis

Transmutation 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: See text

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You gain the ability to move or manipulate creatures or objects by thought. When you cast the spell, and as your action each round for the duration, you can exert your will on one creature or object that you can see within range, causing the appropriate effect below.

You can affect the same target round after round, or choose a new one at any time. If you switch targets, the prior target is no longer affected by the spell. Creature. You can try to move a Huge or smaller creature. Make an ability check with your spellcasting ability contested by the creature's Strength check. If you win the contest, you move the creature up to 30 feet in any direction, including upward but not beyond the range of this spell. Until the end of your next turn, the creature is restrained in your telekinetic grip. A creature lifted upward is suspended in mid-air. On subsequent rounds, you can use your action to attempt to maintain your telekinetic grip on the creature by repeating the contest. Object. You can try to move an object that weighs up to 1,000 pounds. If the object isn't being worn or carried, you automatically move it up to 30 feet in any direction, but not beyond the range of this spell. If the object is worn or carried by a creature, you must make an ability check with your spellcasting ability contested by that creature's Strength check. If you succeed, you pull the object away from that creature and can move it up to 30 feet in any direction but not beyond the range of this spell. You can exert fine control on objects with your telekinetic grip, such as manipulating a simple tool, opening a door or a container, stowing or retrieving an item from an open container, or pouring the contents from a vial.

Rictavio looks very pointedly at the enormous warlock in Henry's hand.

Rictavio *warpick

Hiere Unthere: (whoops was looking at the description)

GM: (Make an Arcana check, Hiere)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sends the knife under the door with the order to unlock it from inside.

GM: (Or not, if you're not casting it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how big was the shok radius?)

The knife scuttles under the door.

GM: (About ten feet in all directions)

There are strange, screeching, monstrous sounds inside.

Suldae feels teeth latching into her psychic sides — then the knife disappears from her senses. It seems to have been 'killed.'

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well sure I can try" Henry says rearing back to hurl his weapon at the door from 15 ft away

26

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

16

Piercing

2

Acid

13

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

15

Piercing

2

Acid

Suldae Westwind: "Be careful," Suldae informs everyone.

"Something killed my... knife."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere takes note.Suldae Westwind: She likes standing directly behind Henry very much.

The warpick smashes cleanly through the door, leaving a few ragged wooden shards swinging from the hinges.

Someone has taken old, mismatched furniture and created a study in this dusty, lamplit chamber. Tables are strewn with pieces of parchment, on which strange diagrams are drawn, and a freestanding bookshelf holds a collection of bones. A dusty rug covers the floor in front of a pine box, on which lounges a skeletal cat. Several more skeletal cats skulk about. Most unnerving of all is the sight of three small children standing with their backs to you in the northeast corner of the room.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "House keeping sorry for the disturbance"

One of the skeletal cats has a kitchen knife on the floor, and is playing with it as though expecting it to move again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So is going to shook us again?" Henry murmurs to the othersHiere Unthere: "Henry there's no fuckin door left"Rictavio: "Those cats... There's something about them. I don't sense them as undead."Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do I look like I understand magic?" HEnry asks over his shoulder walking through the doorRictavio: "Perhaps some kind of animating spell? Not quite necromancy, then. Temporary, perhaps?"

Rictavio muses to himself.

"They don't seem dangerous to me."

Hiere Unthere: "Is that still not raising the dead?"Suldae Westwind: "Constructs?" Suldae suggests, remembering the fake brides.Rictavio: "Perhaps..."Hiere Unthere: "Dammit blinky was this you"

Rictavio: "Do you see that? They're held together with wire."

Suldae Westwind: She is still concentrating on her Detect Good and Evil spell.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Or something like Hiere did with those wine barrels"

Suldae detects that the cats are neither good nor evil, but simply unaligned constructs of some kind.

Hiere Unthere: (are either of the windows open?)

Both windows are closed.

The shutters are open and the curtains are not drawn.

Rictavio: "I could have sworn I heard someone speaking in here a moment ago."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere raises his Rod and casts detect magic.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"I really wish I picked a different side of the house to spy on."

Hiere senses evocation magic under the rug.

Marcus Veranius attempts to sense for undead again

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up to the children.

30

PERCEPTION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Hiere Unthere: "Hey guys might wanna not go near that rug"

He also senses an aura of magic around the cats. It reminds him of the animating magic he used on the barrels.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Is it going to explode as well?"

Hiere Unthere: "Probably."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry begins to look over the tables and paracements

Hiere Unthere: (what about magic from the children?)

Suldae, meanwhile, realizes almost instantly that these are not, in fact, children. They are child-sized mannequins, crudely made of scrap parts. They wear the old clothing of a young nobleman — possibly something he grew out of in the past. She also notices two footprints in the dust — very fresh — as though someone very quickly ran to this corner of the room and stood there for a time. She does not see footprints leading away from the spot.

Hiere detects no magic in the 'children.'

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks up.

Hiere Unthere: "Anything, anyone?"

Suldae, make a Wisdom save.

With advantage!

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and +2)

Hiere Unthere: (You want a portent?)

Suldae Westwind:

10

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

4

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

(holy SHIT)

(I think I might be fucked)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (12!)

Suldae hears a young man's voice. He sounds terrified. She does not sense the magic working its way into her mind as he whispers to her. "Please don't let them know I'm here!"

She feels oddly compelled to help.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we rollin like gods y'all)

Victor Vallakovich:

Suggestion

Enchantment 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell.

The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do.

You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't preformed.

If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe he teleported?"

Hiere Unthere: (animate objects is concentration if that changes anything)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Possibly"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae walks off to the side, still looking up.

This occurs to her as a good way to make others think she's already seen everything that's there to see.

Hiere Unthere: (also if he is invisible detect magic would've popped off)

Ireena Kolyana picks up a few of the notes on the table. "These look like instructions to make some kind of teleportation circle."

Suldae Westwind: (guess who's not a good liar to people whose intelligence she DOESN'T despise!)

(Hiere, wouldn't Detect Magic have sensed the Suggestion?)

(Or does it not work that way?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nah he is just hiding in the rafters)

Marcus Veranius: "We already knew about the circle."

Hiere Unthere: (Not sure)

Marcus Veranius: "Sensed it the many times it didn't work."

Hiere Unthere: (For the duration, you sense the presence of magic within 30 feet of you. If you sense magic in this way, you can use your action to see a faint aura around any visible creature or object in the area that bears magic, and you learn its school of magic, if any.)

(YUP)

Marcus Veranius: "Do we have sight of the circle he was trying to draw? Maybe we can figure out its intended destination?"

Hiere does sense another source of magic in the room, but he can't see its aura. It feels faintly like illusion magic.

Suldae Westwind: (Hiere should be able to sense the spell being cast, yes?)

Hiere Unthere: "SOMEONE'S HERE" He plants his Rod into the ground, activating it's protective aura.

Instantly, a young man appears in the corner.

Ireena Kolyana: "What? NO!"

(Dammit that should have been Victor one sec)

Victor Vallakovich: "What? NO!"

Suldae Westwind: "Where?"

Marcus Veranius: (That young man looks older than Rictavio)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh well hello there young man mind if we ask you a couple questions? We won't be long I swear"

Victor Vallakovich: "You'll never catch me!"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere casts polymorph, the man's dice is a 7.
die*

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is wildly looking around.

TheThen she realizes the jig is up.

The compulsion wears off.

She glares at the buy.

Hiere Unthere:

Polymorph

Transmutation 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A caterpillar cocoon)

Duration: Concentration Concentration, Up to 1 hour

This spell transforms a creature that you can see within range into a new form. An unwilling creature must make a Wisdom saving throw to avoid the effect. The spell has no effect on a shapechanger or a creature with 0 hit points. The transformation lasts for the duration, or until the target drops to 0 hit points or dies. The new form can be any beast whose challenge rating is equal to or less than the target's (or the target's level, if it doesn't have a challenge rating). The target's game statistics, including mental ability scores, are replaced by the statistics of the chosen beast. It retains its alignment and personality. The target assumes the hit points of its new form. When it reverts to its normal form, the creature returns to the number of hit points it had before it transformed. If it reverts as a result of dropping to 0 hit points, any excess damage carries over to its normal form. As long as the excess damage doesn't reduce the creature's normal form to 0 hit points, it isn't knocked unconscious. The creature is limited in the actions it can perform by the nature of its new form, and it can't speak, cast spells, or take any other action that requires hands or speech. The target's gear melds into the new form. The creature can't activate, use, wield, or otherwise benefit from any of its equipment.

Victor Vallakovich: Victor casts Misty Step a split second before Hiere's Polymorph takes hold.

GM: (What form does he reappear in?)

(With a 7, his final roll is only an 8, so that's an automatic fail)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (what can he even see 30ft away from where he is?)

GM: (He can see out the window, for one thing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (right windows forgot about those)

GM: (Form of: an artichoke? I've always wondered if you can polymorph into plants)

(I suppose 'beast' rules that out though)

(Magic is funky)

Hiere Unthere: (Elephant)

Poof! Victor Vallakovich disappears. Simultaneously, a large grey elephant manifests on the front lawn, looking utterly bewildered.

Hiere Unthere: "So you guys might have to catch an elephant."

"It's the caffeine"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks up to the window and Misty steps onto the elephants back but not before saying "Really couldn't you have picked something more managable??"

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE
Elephant

Initiative: 8

Hiere Unthere:

12

INITIATIVE (3)

GM: (Is it even worse going to initiative order for this? Seems like kind of a foregone conclusion) (worth*)

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE

*Ireena KolyanaInitiative: 14Hiere Unthere: (I mean he isn't getting away while in the city)Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE

*RictavioInitiative: 19Henry of Willowsbrook:*6.1INITIATIVE (0.1)
Henry of WillowsbrookHiere Unthere:*23

INITIATIVE (3)

(I had advantage on init)

Marcus sees a large elephant spontaneously appear on the front lawn of the manor, and has a sneaking suspicion that Hiere might have something to do with it.Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Is that... Is that an elephant?"Henry of Willowsbrook: (Did I Misty Step before Initiative?)Marcus Veranius: "Well Ezmerelda, you got your wish."

"You can see what's happening now."

"Pretty hard to miss that."

GM: (Sure, the misty step can happen before initiative)Marcus sees Henry appear on top of the elephant's back.Marcus Veranius doesn't shoot yet, unsure if it's Hiere or someone else.Henry of Willowsbrook:

Misty Step

*Conjuration 2Casting Time: 1 bonus actionRange: SelfTarget: SelfComponents: VDuration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

Marcus Veranius: Wait, no. Definately Hiere

Ireena Kolyana:

HIT POINTS

Elephant

Hit Points: 70

Hiere Unthere: "I think someone should inform the Baron his son will be an elephant for a while."

GM: (Suldae and Marcus, initiative?)

Hiere Unthere: "Not it."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think we should just let the elephant rampage a little bit. Just a teensy little bit."
"Preferably through the burgomaster's mansion."

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus isn't going to act yet)

Hiere Unthere:

TRANCE

Racial: Elf

Elves don't need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. (The Common word for such meditation is "trance.") While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

(eek sorry)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 7.15

Henry of Willowsbrook: What do I roll do cling to its back btw?

GM: (That's a grapple, so athletics)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

20

ATHLETICS (9)

Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Hiere's narcolepsy strikes again)

(Hiere, you're up)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena rapidly conveys the situation to Marcus.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere shrugs. "I got nothing."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is really annoyed at herself for getting Suggested.
Again>

Marcus Veranius bangs his head against the wall

Suldae Westwind: She's too busy doing that to react faster than the elephan.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What is it? What's wrong?"

Suldae Westwind: t

Marcus Veranius: "That elephant is the Burgomaster's son."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Ahahahahahaha!"
"Oh, you're serious."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere spends his turn concentrating on maintaining such a ridiculous spell. Even if fate demanded it and all. (EoT)

Marcus Veranius: "I wish I wasn't."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "That makes me wonder what his mother looked like."

Hiere Unthere: "If anyone hits me he turns back to normal so don't"

Rictavio: "I don't... I don't know what to do with this situation."

Suldae Westwind: "Hiere," Suldae says. "Maybe we should hit you."
"Have you considered that?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is Viktor even CR or level 4?)

GM: (He's CR 6, believe it or not)

Marcus Veranius: "Whatever happens it's not ending well. Someone tell Danika to expect trouble."

Rictavio: "Suldae, shall I?"

"Oh, what the devil. I'll just shoot the blasted thing."

Hiere Unthere: "He was going to escape! Be thankful he wasn't still in the room!"

Rictavio: Rictavio kicks out the window and shouts: "Heads up, Henry!"

HAND CROSSBOW*RictavioAttack: 21*Damage: 2 piercing + 11 piercingHAND CROSSBOWRictavioAttack: 17*Damage: 3 piercing + 14 piercingHiere Unthere: "HENRY'S ALREADY ON IT WHY WOULD YOU SHOOT THE ELEPHANT"Two crossbow bolts stick in the elephant's leathery hide. It seems not to notice.Rictavio: "WHAT ELSE WAS I SUPPOSED TO DO?"Henry of Willowsbrook: "WHY IS HE AN ELEPHANT IN THE FIRST PLACE AND NOT SOMETHING LIKE A FERRET" hIreena Kolyana: "At least we know where he is, now!"Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shouts back upIreena Kolyana: Ireena casts Feather Fall on herself and Suldae, then leaps through the window.Feather FallTransmutation 1Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you or a creature within 60 feet of you fallsRange: 60 feetTarget: Up to five falling creatures within rangeComponents: V, M (A small feather or piece of down)Duration: 1 minute

Choose up to five falling creatures within range. A falling creature's rate of descent slows to 60 feet per round until the spell ends. If the creature lands before the spell ends, it takes no falling damage and can land on its feet, and the spell ends for that creature.

Ireena Kolyana lands lightly in the grass nearby.Elephant: A very confused elephant trumpets loudly and attempts to shake the big man off its back.

STRENGTH
Elephant

Ability: 25 | 24

Henry lands heavily beside the elephant, not falling far enough to take any damage.

The elephant, seeing red, turns and rears on its hind legs, and smashes its feet against the walls of the house.

Elephant: 23 for 21 melee damage.

The front wall of the house caves, just above the door. Luckily, no load-bearing pillars are harmed. The Burgomaster's screams can be heard from within the house, along with Izek's shout of alarm.

Hiere Unthere: "Oh no."

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (im fucking dying laughing @ all this)

GM: (same)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fucking magic bullshit" Henry hisses standing up

Hiere Unthere: (can someone calm emotions or some shit)

Suldae Westwind: (I can cast suggestion)

(close enough right?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Action surge 4 attacks if anyone of them kills it I grapple Viktor instead

Hiere Unthere: (HENRY NO)

(HE HAS MAGIC HE'LL FUCK OFF)

GM: (...Which would prove that he's a witch, right?)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

29

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

17

Piercing

5

Acid

27

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Piercing

6

Acid

Hiere Unthere: (no one would see him though right)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

22

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

13
Piercing

6
Acid

Hiere Unthere: (welp)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

26

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

12
Piercing

4
Acid

Hiere Unthere: (85 damage)
(approx)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 23 18 19 16 are the intervalls

Three dizzying blows take the elephant down, and as it shrinks into the form of a battered-looking young man, Henry puts him firmly in a headlock, even managing to grip his hands and cover his mouth.

Victor Vallakovich: "Mph mph mmmmh!" (How dare you!)

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh. That wasn't as bad as I thought it would be."

Hiere Unthere: "All part of the plan"

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "What is the meaning of this? Unhand my son!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "THE WITCHES CURSED YOUR SON AND TURNED HIM INTO A RAMPAGING BEAST! I BARELLY MANNAGED TO STOP IT FROM BE COMING PERMANENT" HENRY YELLS towards the BaRON

Izek Strazni: "Sir, we saw it with our own eyes!"

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "I DON'T CARE! TAKE YOUR HANDS OFF MY BOY!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure " Henry lets go of him

Marcus Veranius: (Are we out of initiative?)

Victor Vallakovich: Victor bursts into tears and runs to his father. Racked by huge, false sobs, he begins to splutter: "These people attacked me! I w-w-was j-j-just s-s-studying and they broke down the door and tried to hurt me!"

Izek Strazni: Izek rolls his eyes.

Victor Vallakovich:

INTELLIGENCE

*Victor Vallakovich*Ability: 19*Baron Vargas Vallakovich:

INSIGHT

*Baron Vargas Vallakovich*Skill: 12*Hiere Unthere: (intelligence??)Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "There there, my boy. You're safe now! They were only trying to protect you from the witches."Marcus Veranius: "Why can't we just be invited to dinner and NOT destroy the place?"Henry of Willowsbrook: "You were clearly locked in there with magical means" Henry says indicating the lightning marks on his armor#Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "You see how they turned you back to human?"Victor Vallakovich: "They turned me into an elephant in the first place! It wasn't witches, it was him!"
He points to Hierle.Baron Vargas Vallakovich: The Baron looks at the lightning blast marks on Henry's armor.
He looks at Hierle.

He does not seem to know what to believe. For a single moment you see genuine pain and fear on his face.

A piece of him seems to know the truth.

His pride may yet prove too strong.

Hiere Unthere: Hierle looks at the Baron, wondering whether he can see the 29 points of lightning damage.

He coughs up some blood.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (19)Suldae Westwind: "There are still some traces of the witches' magic up there," Suldae says.

She's betting the Baron will go with the witches explanation over admitting it was his son's magic.

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "Witch magic. In my house?"

"Within my very home?"

"Dark times indeed..."

"Come, my boy. You must be confused. These kind people have helped us. You are only safe because of them."

Victor Vallakovich: "I hate them. I hate them all."

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "I can deal with this from here. Your services are no longer required. I would suggest not lingering within the city limits. Izek, see that they are paid for their aid."

Izek Strazni: Izek seems confused. Even he can see that there is a leap in logic happening here.

"But sir, they just proved themselves capable of fighting the witches! We may need their aid!"

Baron Vargas Vallakovich: "DO NOT DEFY ME, IZEK! I MADE YOU. NEVER FORGET THAT. Get them their coin and get them out of my city."

"Come, my boy. Would some nice wine cheer you up?"

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17

CHARISMA (2)
Henry of Willowsbrook

They begin to enter the house through the wrecked front entryway.

Marcus Veranius: "Ez."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Yes Marcus?"

Marcus Veranius: "We don't know if the beast is gone for good."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Do you have a shot?"

"Are you sure he's the one?"

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know."

"In fact, I'm having second thoughts."

"But if we're kicked out of the city, we won't know for sure."

"..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Unless it comes for us again..."

"Over and over... No matter how many times we put it down..."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10

CHARISMA (2)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: "There's a kind boy in the city dungeons. You haven't met him, but I think he'll be someone great someday."

"Burgomaster has him locked up. Might stay that way for a while."

"Might not."

Marcus Veranius draws the Oathbow and aims it towards the house

Marcus Veranius: "...should I? Knowing what chaos it'll bring to the town, if it means that boy might live to his potential?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm with you. Whatever you choose."

Marcus Veranius nods.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry keeps trying to control his breathing to fight down his anger but right now he fails "LISTEN HERE YOU PATHETIC BLUEBLOODED HEMEROIHD I AM DONE WITH THIS FARCE" He roars stalking after the VAllakovichs

Marcus Veranius: "Swift death to my enemies."

18

25

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

11

Piercing

17

Magical Piercing

27

9

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

9 + 11

Piercing

23 + 5

Magical Piercing

9

19

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

8

Piercing

23

Magical Piercing

27

19

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

5 + 13

Piercing

18 + 3
Magical Piercing

10 | 16
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)
(+7)
Marcus Veranius

10
Bonus Damage/Piercing

20
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius:

12 | 8
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)
(+7)
Marcus Veranius

11
Bonus Damage/Piercing

24
Magical Piercing

GM: (Intended targets?)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus fires 6 shots at the Burgomaster

Six arrows streak in over Henry's head, practically ruffling his hair. The Burgomaster, pincushioned, gives a single gasp of surprise before collapsing.

Victor Vallakovich: "NO!" Victor screams, a bloodcurdling cry.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae respects Henry.

So she's not doing anything right now.

Hiere Unthere: "WHAT THE FUCK"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I AM DONE PUTTING UP WITH YOUR DELLUSIO..WHAT?!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls out her flute.

Time to deescalate.

(im going to cast Sleep)

Victor Vallakovich: "I HATE YOU ALL!" Victor screams, turning to the party. His eyes have turned a bright, piercing yellow.

He raises his hand, and mists and ice swirl around his palm. The shadows darken behind him and candles gutter throughout the house.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh Fuck of you whiney prick"

Marcus Veranius: "...and now the second monster shows his face."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere once again casts polymorph, replacing his die with an 11.

Suldae Westwind:

13

Higher Level Cast

25

Hit Points of Creatures

90 feet

Sleep

Suldae Westwind

(Suldae is casting it to get as many guards/servants/whoever else, and also the guy)

(If any of the party are in the radius she ignores that, betting they can shrug it off)

(It targets lowest HP first)

Hiere Unthere: (hiere is at 30)

Victor's eyes roll back into his head. The shadows fade, and he collapses.

Marcus Veranius: (Now would be a good time for pause)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You are responsible aren't you you little shit, you had it kill all these woman even your own mother. Answer ME!!" Henry yells Several guards collapse where they stand.

GM: (Yes, this is a good place to end the session -- but I want to see where Henry's rp goes here)

Hiere Unthere: "well someone got there first"

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, he' cannot hear you," Suldae informs him, lowering the flute.

Ireena Kolyana: "This isn't over. If he lives, that thing will only keep hunting us."

Suldae Westwind: "I can keep them asleep for as long as I keep playing, but we might want a plan from here."

"Like... what happens to Vallaki now?"

Marcus Veranius: "Let the people decide."

"Maybe even the Feathers."

Izek Strazni: "What is this madness?"

Hiere Unthere: (Marcus you're 20000000miles away)

Izek Strazni: "The boy was..."

"But the burgomaster..."

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus assumed to be talking through Ireena relay)

Suldae Westwind: "He was the one summoning the monster, Izek, most likely. The Baron guessed, but got in the way of the investigation. You saw it."

"We might have been able to make sure, if not for..."

Rictavio:

SLEIGHT OF HAND

Rictavio

Skill: 18

Suldae Westwind: "And now the Baron is dead."

"And we don't know what the boy will do next."

"I doubt he's fit to rule the city."

Rictavio: Rictavio, stepping casually over the unconscious boy on his way out of the building, casually performs a subtle coup de grace. He continues walking. His walking stick and its concealed blade provide the perfect cover. Without much more than a calm, benign smile, he steps away from the 'sleeping' boy, approaching the rest of the party.

"Well, I'm glad that's over with."

"Witches, am I right? Awful things."

Henry of Willowsbrook: A wordless scream works itself out of Henry's lungs. Light fills his form before turning to Izek with a low growl. "I would carefully consider the situation Izek before making a decision you might not live to regret."

Rictavio: "You had a narrow escape there, Izek."

"A narrow, narrow escape."

Izek Strazni: Izek's eyes narrow.

He looks from one member of the party to the next, weighing his options.

He swallows firmly.

"Thank you for your service to Vallaki."

"I will see that you are paid well."

"Please do not come back."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, there was one other thing!"

"We noticed a wedding gown. Is that in use? May we take it? It is a bargaining chip in a war far beyond your understanding."

Izek Strazni: Defeated, Izek says: "Take what you want. I cannot stop you."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm sorry," Suldae says quietly. "We did not start this. We are only doing what we can to help."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "It was a good, clean kill," says Ezmerelda to Marcus. "I believe you did the right thing."

"I understand if that doesn't mean much, coming from me."

Izek Strazni: Izek looks at Suldae. Confusion and pain whirl behind his eyes.

Marcus Veranius: "No, it means the world."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fuck this town. fuck this realm and Fuck the one responsible" Henry mutters sitting down on the steps of the manor before praying with a defeated look on his face "..and may the gentle light guide them to peaceful rest, Latom" he finishes

Suldae Westwind: "You are telling us not to come back, Isek, but this town still needs protection, maybe now more than ever."

In death, Victor Vallakovich's face relaxes. He seems at peace.

Suldae Westwind: "Are you really willing to bet we won't be needed again?"

GM: (Roll Persuasion)

Suldae Westwind:

12

PERSUASION (9)
Suldae Westwind

(HOLY FUCK)

(To GM):

WISDOM
Izek Strazni

Ability: 7

Hiere Unthere: (mate just take the damn portent)

Suldae Westwind: (can i do that)

(please)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Would the entire display here warrant advantage?)

Suldae Westwind: (also a good point, kind of got a lot backing up this here lol)

Izek Strazni: Izek sighs heavily.

"Fine. Stay. Go. I do not care. It is time I left Vallaki. The Burgomaster was not wrong. He made me, and now that he is gone, I am unmade."

"I shall seek out other opportunities."

Suldae Westwind: "We'll take care of the people you've been protecting, Izek, I promise."

"Your work will not be forgotten."

"And it will not be for nothing."

Izek Strazni: "I don't care. All I want are my dolls."

"I will take them, and I will seek her out."

"And when I find her, we shall be reunited at last."

Hiere Unthere: "???"

Suldae Westwind: She's not sure how right she is in attributing Izek altruistic motives, but it never hurts to pile it on.

Marcus Veranius: "Dear me, I've been so worried all day that I forgot to have breakfast. Care to join me?"

Suldae Westwind: She steps closer to Ireena, half-consciously.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Izek with a strange expression, as though wondering if she recognizes him somehow.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm famished. Let's eat."

"We should order room service. That way we can... Stay in."

Marcus Veranius takes Ezmerelda's hand and heads downstairs.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry removes the arrows from the Baron both to give him a bit more dignity than he might even deserve and to reclaim them for Marcus

Suldae Westwind: "If you have any idea what that was about, it might be important," Suldae murmurs to Ireena, squeezing her hand.

She no longer cares about the pretense.

Also, it's night.

Izek Strazni: Izek raises an eyebrow, confused by the relationship between this elf and the old man. Realizing that the elf could be hundreds of years old, he shrugs slightly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (tops left probably for his other game)

Izek Strazni: Perhaps she was the one robbing the cradle, and not the other way around.

GM: (We should wrap it here, it's as good a place as any)

(In fact, it's probably a better place than most)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Man I did not expect all that coming into today It was great really glad I get to play with y'all)

Hiere Unthere: (don't think anyone did)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah Imao)

(bless Ireena for remembering the dress, I forgot entirely)

(To GM):

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 24
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Damage: 15 Slashing + 15 Necrotic

(To GM):

VORPAL LONGSWORD (ONE-HANDED)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 16

Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Damage: 13 Slashing +
16 Necrotic

(To GM):

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 30

Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Damage: 18 + 5 Slashing
+ 8 + 15 Necrotic

(To GM):

DANCING SILVER SWORD
(X3)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 18

Requires attunement

You can use a bonus action to toss this magic sword into the air and speak the command word. When you do so, the sword begins to hover, flies up to 30 feet, and attacks one creature of your choice within 5 feet of it. The sword uses your attack roll and ability score modifier to damage rolls.

While the sword hovers, you can use a bonus action to cause it to fly up to 30 feet to another spot within 30 feet of you. As part of the same bonus action, you can cause the sword to attack one creature within 5 feet of it.

After the hovering sword attacks for the fourth time, it flies up to 30 feet and tries to return to your hand. If you have no hand free, it falls to the ground at your feet. If the sword has no unobstructed path to you, it moves as close to you as it can and then falls to the ground. It also ceases to hover if you grasp it or move more than 30 feet away from it.

Damage: 14 slashing

(To GM):

DANCING SILVER SWORD (X3)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 17

Requires attunement

You can use a bonus action to toss this magic sword into the air and speak the command word. When you do so, the sword begins to hover, flies up to 30 feet, and attacks one creature of your choice within 5 feet of it. The sword uses your attack roll and ability score modifier to damage rolls.

While the sword hovers, you can use a bonus action to cause it to fly up to 30 feet to another spot within 30 feet of you. As part of the same bonus action, you can cause the sword to attack one creature within 5 feet of it.

After the hovering sword attacks for the fourth time, it flies up to 30 feet and tries to return to your hand. If you have no hand free, it falls to the ground at your feet. If the sword has no unobstructed path to you, it moves as close to you as it can and then falls to the ground. It also ceases to hover if you grasp it or move more than 30 feet away from it.

Damage: 12 slashing

(To GM):

DANCING SILVER SWORDS

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 16

Requires attunement

You can use a bonus action to toss this magic sword into the air and speak the command word. When you do so, the sword separates into three identical blades which all begin to hover, fly up to 30 feet, and attack one creature of your choice within 5 feet of it. Each sword can move and attack a separate target, or they can move in tandem and attack the same target. The swords use your attack roll and ability score modifier to damage rolls.

While the swords hover, you can use a bonus action to cause them to fly up to 30 feet to another spot within 30 feet of you. All three swords move simultaneously but individually (I.E. Each can select a different target). As part of the same bonus action, you can cause each sword to attack one creature within 5 feet of it.

After the hovering swords attack for the fourth time, they fly up to 30 feet, join into a single blade, and try to return to you. If you have no hand free, the united sword falls to the ground at your feet. If the sword has no unobstructed path to you, it moves as close to you as it can, then falls to the ground. These swords also cease to hover if you grasp them or move them more than 30 feet away from yourself.

Damage: 14 slashing

(To GM):

DANCING SILVER SWORDS

Strahd von Zarovich

Requires attunement

You can use a bonus action to toss this magic sword into the air and speak the command word. When you do so, the sword separates into three identical blades which all begin to hover, fly up to 30 feet, and attack one creature of your choice within 5 feet of one of the blades. Each sword can move and attack a separate target, or they can move in tandem and attack the same target. The swords use your attack roll and ability score modifier to damage rolls.

While the swords hover, you can use a bonus action to cause them to fly up to 30 feet to another spot within 30 feet of you. All three swords move simultaneously but individually (I.E. Each can select a different target). As part of the same bonus action, you can cause each sword to attack one creature within 5 feet of it.

After the hovering swords attack for the fourth time, they fly up to 30 feet, join into a single blade, and try to return to you. If you have no hand free, the united sword falls to the ground at your feet. If the sword has no unobstructed path to you, it moves as close to you as it can, then falls to the ground. These swords also cease to hover if you grasp them or move them more than 30 feet away from yourself.

ATTACK 1: 30 to hit, 13 magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 2: 30 to hit, 9 magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 3: 21 to hit, 15 magical slashing damage.

Damage: 12 slashing

(To GM):

DANCING SILVER SWORDS

Strahd von Zarovich

Requires attunement

You can use a bonus action to toss this magic sword into the air and speak the command word. When you do so, the sword separates into three identical blades which all begin to hover, fly up to 30 feet, and attack one creature of your choice within 5 feet of one of the blades. Each sword can move and attack a separate target, or they can move in tandem and attack the same target. The swords use your attack roll and ability score modifier to damage rolls.

While the swords hover, you can use a bonus action to cause them to fly up to 30 feet to another spot within 30 feet of you. All three swords move simultaneously but individually (I.E. Each can select a different target). As part of the same bonus action, you can cause each sword to attack one creature within 5 feet of it.

After the hovering swords attack for the fourth time, they fly up to 30 feet, join into a single blade, and try to return to you. If you have no hand free, the united sword falls to the ground at your feet. If the sword has no unobstructed path to you, it moves as close to you as it can, then falls to the ground. These swords also cease to hover if you grasp them or move them more than 30 feet away from yourself.

ATTACK 1: 25 to hit, 8 magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 2: 23 to hit, 14 magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 3: 13 to hit, 8 magical slashing damage.

(To GM):

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

GM (GM):

Misty Step, 3/day
Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

Zanshukun:

GM (GM): Howdy!

How's everybody doing today?

Zanshukun: Still dealing with sickness induced tiredness but otherwise quiet well

GM (GM): Seems like everybody is getting sick these days

My whole family has had something kind of like the flu

It just lingers and lingers and lingers

Henry of Willowsbrook: Holidays did a number on me

GM (GM): I think I gained like 15 pounds over the winter holidays

Liliet (Suldae): nice

GM (GM): Most of those calories probably came from alcohol

Liliet (Suldae): ok thats less nice

GM (GM): And my mom had whatever this flu thing is first, so we all got it from her

Liliet (Suldae): oof

GM (GM): <

<. <

Hmm

That's weird

GM (GM): _

When you try to do < and _ and < to make the little face

It makes a blank line instead

I wonder why?

Liliet (Suldae): huh

Henry of Willowsbrook: I had to sit out my grandparents 50th wedding anniversary cause I got to sick to move

Liliet (Suldae): i kno i had to make a note to use E> for the heart emoji
oof

GM (GM): Oh jeez, that's rough

I haven't been too sick to move yet

My brother was like that for a day or two

I think I just got lucky and got a lesser version of whatever it was Either that or the alcohol fought off the infection

Henry of Willowsbrook: I have the terrible habit of getting migranes whenever I get sick so I usual become utterly useless for atleast 1 day when sick but anyway let's dungeon some dragons

GM (GM): Alrighty

So there are two ways we can approach the fundamental problem of the power vacuum

Option 1: We RP it out tediously over the course of four hours

Option 2: Y'all collude on an acceptable solution and we implement it off-camera, and pick up the journey with y'all leaving Vallaki with the wedding dress, to go (presumably) rescue what's his face

Marcus Veranius: Kasimir

GM (GM): That's the guy

Liliet (Suldae): I like option 2 if we manage it

Henry of Willowsbrook: I'd also prefer 2

Suldae Westwind: and I'm still nominating the Martikovs

They are reasonable and reliable so far, have a lot of tools for managing the city and likely a lot of contacts, are aware of everything we've found out so far (I assume lol) and they put us close to power in Vallaki since the wereravens in the party are basically adopted into the family

Marcus Veranius: I second the Martikovs. They hold the wine, which means they hold the power. Speaking realistically, it's them or anarchy.

GM (GM): Aight, so there are some ground rules:

Whoever takes over as "Burgomaster" must be a single character you already know. You'll spend some coin getting them elected, because everyone knows it's all about advertising costs. At this point you have the Guard faction on your side. In the Burgomaster's mansion you found a calendar of all the parades and ceremonies, so those traditions can be carried on.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Or them working with whoever else we put into power

Marcus Veranius: Strahd is declaring war on Ravenkind. We're going to need a defensive perch and Vallaki is as good as any.

Suldae Westwind: I'd nominate Danika, but honestly she can nominate whoever she thinks is right for the job

Marcus Veranius: Having the Feathers control Vallaki directly reduces Izek-like complications

Suldae Westwind: Mhm

I don't think we have the information on who in the Martikov family / Keepers of the Feather does what best, but I bet Danika does, so going to her for this sounds reasonable. So effectively we're putting the power in her hands, but she's not necessarily the one holding the seal in the end

I admit I also don't remember any other Martikovs separately

>x>

Tops has the NPC hart right

Marcus Veranius: Her husband Adrian, their children, and 15-20 randomly named wereravens

Suldae Westwind: *chart

GM (GM): I believe the husband's name is Urwin

Suldae Westwind: that ounds right

Marcus Veranius: Err

Yes

Urwin

GM (GM): Danika is the one who runs the bar, though, so she is more likely to have name-recognition in Vallaki

Now, did you want to do anything about the prisoners?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Who are those?

Marcus Veranius: Milivij goes free.

GM (GM): Supposed rebels, mostly

Danika will take whatever recommendations you give her

Hiere Unthere: (sorry I'm late forgot about the timezone change)

GM (GM): Father Lucien still has not been seen, so the church is currently unmanned.

Marcus Veranius: Father Lucien has his church boy and the church boy has Milivoj

Suldae Westwind: We don't actually know these people personally and she presumably does

GM (GM): Aight

I think that puts things in a relatively stable position

If nobody objects to the arrangements so far, or has anything else they'd like to do before leaving Vallaki

Oh, advertising costs: 82 gold pieces

Marcus Veranius: In addition to Milivoj, assuming we have arrest records: Pardon any prison arrested for crimes against the burgomaster's pride

Suldae Westwind: i'll put that in the ledger

oh yes lol

good point

Marcus Veranius: I'm not saying release the guys who actually murdered people. Or evaded taxes.

But I assume the prisons are full of those that looked at the Burgomaster funny and got brigged for it

Suldae Westwind: honestly it would be fascinating to try and make sense of how Vallaki is run and how it should be run but I don't think all of us would love to spend 4 hours discussing that GM (GM): To be completely transparent, it would be very painful to me. The notes on Vallakian government are very slim, and I would have to make up a bunch of BS about their laws and tax codes. It also will have almost no bearing upon future gameplay.

Suldae Westwind: Oh, we should talk to Danika about exactly how much of an asset Blinsky can be, if given tasks he finds interesting and creative space

GM (GM): Basically, all of the ruling class is dead

Suldae Westwind: and especially assistance, funding and whatever he needs yeeeeep

Hiere Unthere: all 2 ruling class?

 Suldae Westwind: that's p much what I thought so

 GM (GM): Yes

 Marcus Veranius: ARREST STRAHD FOR TAX EVASION UNDER THE ALIAS OF VASILI VON HOLTZ

 GM (GM): Basically it's the Burgomaster and the Wachterhouse, and that's as far as they get for having nobles in Vallaki, at least per the module

 Suldae Westwind: oooo Marcus how did you do that

 GM (GM): Asterisks, I believe

 Suldae Westwind: like this?

ooooo

neato

 Marcus Veranius:

 Suldae Westwind: I'm not going to abuse this I promise

 GM (GM): You can do italics too

 Suldae Westwind: yeah i found those already XD

 Hiere Unthere: ~~whaaaat~~

 Suldae Westwind: rip

 Hiere Unthere: oh wait nvm

 Suldae Westwind: i was just going to try that

 GM (GM): ~does it do slash through?~

Nope

 Suldae Westwind: third!

`\can I do this?`

no

rip

 GM (GM): But you can do Bold And Italics

 Hiere Unthere: what about `

 GM (GM): And `Code`

`code``

 Hiere Unthere: `code``

 GM (GM): Code `

 Hiere Unthere: `reeee``

GM (GM): Why so glitchy

Henry of Willowsbrook: Barovia is a county or a mark so having three nobel houses next to strahd sounds about right

GM (GM): Code

Suldae Westwind: anyway Blinsky is a priceless asset and the Martikovs need to appreciate hat

Hiere Unthere: code?`
`codee`

GM (GM): On your recommendation, they will do so

Hiere Unthere: ok got it

GM (GM): He will be taken as a member of the fledgling government

Marcus Veranius: o-o

Maybe don't make Blinsky a government official?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, as a bard, would emphasize that they need to 1) keep an eye on his projects and 2) not pressure him into anything he doesn't want to do

GM (GM): Not necessarily an official

Hiere Unthere: dew it

GM (GM): More like a consultant

Marcus Veranius: He's an artist and a brilliant man but not the kind of brilliant I want in Vallaki's government

Kindof the same Brilliant the Burgomaster had

GM (GM): Basically it's an excuse to give him a steady income and refer to him with technical problems he might be able to solve Suldae Westwind: I was thinking more like magic anti-vampire crossbows for the city guard, etc and that!

Marcus Veranius: Oh, yeah. That'd be good enough

GM (GM): Also, this way they can pay him specifically to do research projects

Suldae Westwind: Mhm!

Marcus Veranius: Just... I dont want to come back and see Vallaki's walls replaced with bone pillars that giggle menacingly to ward off intruders Hiere Unthere: do we need an official festival holder?

GM (GM): You're more likely to come back to autonomous guards
Or autonomous festivals

Suldae Westwind: Have I mentioned 'keep an eye on his projects'?

I think I did

Henry of Willowsbrook: Only thing I can think of for Henry would be checking in on the Cook before we leave town (we should give her a name at this point to)

Suldae Westwind: those two options sound good lol

So, a fascinating question. Is there anyone left in the town who'd make trouble for Ireena if she showed her real face?

* who'd make effective, real trouble that would have long term negative consequences for the party or for the town?

Marcus Veranius: Strahd. :u

Suldae Westwind: in the town

Marcus Veranius: Implying he doesn't have eyes on the town

Suldae Westwind: He already knows she's with us

Marcus Veranius: Fair...

Suldae Westwind: If his eyes are stupid enough to mess with us if she shows her face, we get bonus 'flushed out Strahd's spies' points

GM (GM): Izek was the last threat to her safety within the town, actually Suldae Westwind: Thought so.

GM (GM): Although Strahd does have loyal followers here still Suldae Westwind: Makes sense :)

GM (GM): Most of them are rats

BRB

Suldae Westwind: While the advertising campaign is ongoing, Suldae takes the opportunity to make as much of it as possible an ongoing date with Ireena

I'm going to assume most of the advertizing actually falls on the party bard, but Ireena can be there too.

Copious abuse of Thaumaturgy and Prestidigitation is to be assumed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: I would assume having Henry around to publicly endorse Danika helps with the advertising

Suldae Westwind: I imagine so :D

Marcus Veranius: "I want YOU, to vote Danika as mayor!"

Suldae Westwind: I never said it was only Suldae and Ireena who were doing this.

Marcus Veranius: >Henry pointing

Suldae Westwind: Henry presumably gets the city guard to be visibly, audibly and tangibly with us putting up fliers and whatnot

Henry of Willowsbrook: That or "extra drills"

Suldae Westwind: The important part is taking care of Ireena.

Suldae trusts Henry to figure it out, really

Henry of Willowsbrook: So thats the Leadership sorted, Blinsky employed and Ireena and Suldae get to be lovy-dovy in public for a bit anything else?

GM (GM): Any last-minute purchases?

With gooseberry, rations become sort of meaningless

goodberry*

Arrows, Crossbow bolts, Lantern oil, Alchemist's Fire?

Anybody want to make some Holy Water in the church's big fancy bowl?

Henry of Willowsbrook: hm no my Pick takes care of Henrys lack of reliable ranged options so

Suldae Westwind: (I'm not going to rp dates in detail, but I would like to formally note that Suldae is attentive above all and what opinions/wishes/etc Ireena has she'll know. If something comes up, I'll be asking the DM what Ireena thinks about something as if Suldae would know that)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus will receive his toy crossbow commission and restock up on rations. Inner Birb is particular about meals and would be upset about cheating with Goodberry

Suldae Westwind: Goodberry is not cheating, it's a quality magic banana

Hiere Unthere: Hiere will pick up some alchemists fire just in case

GM (GM): Ireena will spend some time researching the magic gems that we all forgot about, which were taken from the dragon's gullet

Suldae Westwind: OH

I know what Suldae wants to buy

Henry of Willowsbrook: Right we had some of those

Marcus Veranius: I think we put a few of them in the items in hopes ot makes them magic Suldae Westwind: Dear party! What are your sguggestions about useful Tiny Servant items?

Marcus Veranius: Tiny servant items?

Suldae Westwind: I remembered the gem, it was in my notes

Hiere Unthere: ooooh we gotta get something for Animate Objects too

Suldae Westwind: Suldae can use the 3rd level Tiny Servant spell that lasts 8 hours

GM (GM): I've always heard caltrops or ball bearings are good for both of those Suldae Westwind: last time i used it on a knife so it could get through doors ooooooooo

GM (GM): Although an animated Net wouldn't be a bad idea

Henry of Willowsbrook: Caltrops was what I was going to suggest

GM (GM): For the purposes of Tiny Servant I am going to treat it as though they have spider-climbing abilities, because it's just more humorous that way

Anybody recall how many of those little magic gems there were in total?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry wants to check in on the Cook before we leave just out of concern for her wellbeing nothing else nope no other reason)

Cook: "Oh! It's you! Every time you come into town, I lose an employer!"

Suldae Westwind: hmm, would connecting them with a thin chain make it so I can animate several at once as a single Servant?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "well I uh hmm I'm sorry? It's not on purpose"

The Cook comes closer, drying her hands on her apron. She extends a strong but graceful hand to shake. "My name is Joan. You've now saved my life, and saved me from a bad employer — twice."

Joan: "Say, you wouldn't happen to be hiring, would you?"

"I've always wanted to travel, more."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh gods no I mean I-We would certainly hire you but well travel in Barovia is a dangerous affair" Henry sputters out eyes wide "But when it comes to time to leave here I-we'd certainly be glad to have you accompany us"

"I'm Henry by the way" he adds taking her hand

The Cook smiles.

Joan: "I'm not afraid. As long as you're around, what's to be afraid of? I have lived my whole life in fear, but knowing someone like you is around, I feel safer than I ever have."

"I promise I don't cost much, and I mostly keep to myself. I'm very tidy, and my cooking is worth it."

"Please, sir. It would be an honor to work for a knight such as yourself."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm no knight and Joan, we are going to get into a whole lot of danger in the time to come and I couldn't live with myself if I were to drag you into it" Henry says

Joan: "Well, I don't see how you're going to physically stop me, and I've already packed a bag."

"You'll see after the first meal if I'm worth the coin or not."

Suldae Westwind: (Henry, are you following the horses discussion in the chat?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh Light have mercy there is no stoping you is there" Henry whispers

Suldae Westwind: (Presumably by the time this talk takes place you're already aware we're buying horses)

(Which means that either Joan needs one, or she can't keep up)

Joan: "I won't even need a horse, I can ride with you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Lorelei all over again" Henry whispers to himself "Okay fine Joan consider yourself hired" He says with an overly defeated tone "Now let's introduce you to the others"

Suldae Westwind:

13

PERSUASION (9)
Suldae Westwind

25

PERSUASION (9)
Suldae Westwind

Joan smiles

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Friends, Rictavio meet our new employee Joan who'll come with us from now on" Henry says to the rest meeting them in the Inn

Joan: "Hello all! Thank you so much for hiring me, I won't let you down!"

Hiere Unthere: (is hiere floating midair)

Danika: "Oh, that reminds me, the food from the Burgomaster's mansion. I had Urwin take it into the storehouses because it was only going to rot. We will be distributing it to the poor and needy, but I wanted to send some of it with you."

"At least now you'll have someone who knows how to prepare a traditional Vallakian feast."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We basically had to hire her" Henry says tersely "Practically no choice"

Ireena Kolyana: "Eureka!" Shouts Ireena, loud enough to shake the rafters. She comes barreling down the stairs two at a time. Something small and pink is flashing as it circles her head. "I figured out how to activate them! They're a few magic words away from being loun stones!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Amazing" Henry says before turning to look at Ireena and tilting his head "What's an loun stone?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, hello. Who's this?"

Joan: "Joan. I'm your new cook!"

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh! Pleasure to meet you. About time we had a proper cook."

"Right, sorry, loun stones."

"An loun stone is a magical item that grants a certain power or protection. It orbits the bearer, like so:" She points at the small pink gem currently floating around her head, pulsing faintly with pink light.

"This one is acting as a stone of Absorption. It can absorb spells that are cast at me! Well, as long as the spell doesn't have too much energy, at least."

"Each of the gems we got seems to have a natural harmonic energy, and by enhancing that, I've been able to bring out the attributes of each of them."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere nods sagely from wherever he is.

Ireena Kolyana: "This one is a Stone of Absorption. That one is a Stone of Awareness. This one is a Stone of Fortitude. This one is a Stone of Mastery. This one is a Stone of Protection. And this one is a Stone of Intellect!"

As she speaks, she holds out a handful of small, colorful gems, and points at each in turn with her fingertip.

Suldae Westwind: "Can I have the Mastery one?" Suldae perks up. She knows what these are from her arcane studies, and is pretty sure that particular one will be more useful with her than with anyone else in the party.

Ireena Kolyana: "Sure!"

Suldae Westwind: (my dicord froze)
(and this too)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Just talking loun stone distripution

GM: (Suldae, you still alive?)
(Also, Able?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae reverently holds her hands out and touches the stone. She'd hoped she would get to see some of the legendary treasures she'd learned about at the temple, but actually owning one is far beyond her imagination. Many things have been, on this journey - including the woman holding the stones right now - but it's still special special when her vision tints green for a moment, and she feels her memory and focus, vision and hearing, even touch and reflexes sharpen. It's as if a veil had been removed from the world. This actually scares her - what will she feel like if it's ever gone? But the mission they're on right now is too dangerous for her to avoid the stone because of that hypothetical. She asks her raven sister - who is enjoying the benefits of it just as much as she is - to remind her to practice parting with it as soon as it's safe enough, and she reluctantly agrees. Relying on one's own wings is always better.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm I'll take these if noone minds" Henry says reaching for Apsorption and Awareness

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena reluctantly gives up her Absorption stone so that Henry can have it.

Suldae Westwind: (ok so I could not read the flavor text wwhile everything was frozen, just pretend the second half of this takes place after a short rest of attunement)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Lliet we totally picked up that Magic Armor we had definately made)

GM: (No attunement required for these particular stones -- no worries)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "hm" Henry decides to let Ireena keep the absorption stone "Know what I'll take this one instead" reaching for Fortitude

Suldae Westwind: have i mentioned my everyting froze?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Yes

Suldae Westwind: (actually ill rewrite the hole thing) i hate it when things freeze ok gotcha

Ireena Kolyana: There's no need to rewrite the thing :)

GM: (There's no need to rewrite the thing -- it works because there's no attunement required for these particular loun stones, so you're all good)

Suldae Westwind: oh, no attunement okay

GM: (Looks like Able's computer died, but he can pop back in when he manages to)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can we ignor my last thing with the Absorption stone)

Suldae Westwind: i had not yet seen wht you typed when i wrote that you see

GM: (I'm confused: are you taking the Absorption stone or not?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I take it and Awareness)

GM: (Okie doke)

(Ireena will take Fortitude, if no one else wants it)

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, should we get a move on? We're wasting daylight here."

GM: (BTW, what time is it?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (In game or irl?)

GM: (Shall we assume it's the morning following the assassination of the Burgomaster?)

(In-game, naturally)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Morning to early afternoon after seting everything up and talking to Joan I'd say)

GM: brb

Marcus Veranius: Marcus (and presumably Ezmerelda) return from shopping with all the equipment requested by the party. Nothing like an afternoon of shopping for hunting gear!

"I see, so THESE arrow points are the ones I ought to be investing in? Kindof just assumed anything pointy and aimed at the enemy would do."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus, Ezme this is Joan our new cook,"

Joan: "Pleased to meet you."

Marcus Veranius blinks. He recognizes this person.

Marcus Veranius: ...he never figured out of she caught on to Suldae's 'condition' during their raid of the Wachter estate.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over to Marcus and whispers in his ear "She hired herself when I went to chek on her this morning"

Marcus Veranius: "Pleasure to work with you again! My apologies for our earlier meeting."

Joan: "Think nothing of it. You've now saved me from two bad employers, and I'm happy to have the chance to work for some heroes for a change."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, we'd better start thinking about hitting the road. If Kasimir has died, we're on a tight schedule to get him back."

Joan: "You would revive the dead?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Don't worry, it's not in a necromantic way."

Joan: "Yes, there's nothing romantic about the idea..."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I mean it's not dark sorcery or anything."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry suppresses a chuckle before turning serious "It is a complicated story"

 Marcus Veranius smirks. *"I'd worry about who we're stealing the corpse from before we talk about how its coming back to life."

 Marcus Veranius: "Did you mention we were going after Baba Lysaga?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Yes," says Ireena.

Joan gasps audibly.

Joan: "The Baba Lysaga?"

"How exciting!"

 Marcus Veranius: "Ah, so you've heard stories about her!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Not the reaction I would have ho-expected" Henry weakly says

 Marcus Veranius: "...please inform me of them, because I have no idea who she is outside of being some witch."

Joan: "It's said that she is a powerful old hag who lives in a swamp, surrounded by evil, animated scarecrows. She steals children, or her cultists do — or that was always the rumor, anyway. There have always been rumors that she had some connection to the haunted windmill outside town."

"I don't know much about her."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Excuse me, when you say 'hag'..."

Joan: "Yes, that kind of hag."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Ah. Well, this should be fun."

 Marcus Veranius: "Excuse me when you say 'Haunted Windmill Outside of Town'."
"That wouldn't happen to be the Bonegrinder?"

Joan: "Yes, that's the one. Old Bonegrinder."

"Creepy name, right? I always wondered why it was called that."

 Marcus Veranius frowns. *So Lysaga was the one responsible for his windmill's supposed squatters...

GM: (Did y'all ever clear the windmill? I can't recall)

 Marcus Veranius: (A bird told us not to go in there so we didnt)

GM: (Oh, excellent)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hag you say" Henry says dismayed remembering the stories his Nan had told him and his sister about those "Well this ought to be interesting"

GM: (I mean oh, good to know)

Marcus Veranius: (GM hastily merges two encounters into one)

Ireena Kolyana: "We should be very cautious. Hags usually live for centuries, and they don't do that by being stupid or weak."

"Hags can produce more hags, too. It's said they can consume a human child in a dark ritual, and produce another hag by that means."

"One hag is a terrifying threat. Multiple hags? That's a real danger."

"It's said that their coven-magic is equal to that of powerful wizards."

Marcus Veranius: "...should we clear the Windmill out first then? Cut Baba Lysaga off from her coven?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Do we have the time?"

Rictavio: "In my personal experience, killing the leader of a coven first is the wiser approach."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I don't know... If there is a coven of them, leaving them alive is a sure-fire way to ensure that they seek out vengeance."

Marcus Veranius: "It's been a single day. Given that I can help us cut through off-roads brush without a speed delay, we have time to remove both."

Rictavio: "Personally, I would rather take a powerful hag unawares, and suffer the vengeance of her brood, than to eradicate the brood, and leave an enraged arch-hag on the loose."

"Hags are crafty and devious, and they can disguise themselves at will."

Marcus Veranius: "We are NOT catching Baba Lysaga unawares. She's naturally our next target."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Marcus has a good point there."

Marcus Veranius: "Where else would we go? She has our friend."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "And if we're fast enough, we can wipe out the whole coven in one day."

Ireena Kolyana: "What if they slow us down, though? We don't have unlimited time. Even if we get to Kasimir in time, we still have to take him all the way to Krezk."

Marcus Veranius: "Our travel times are in hours. Assuming one day has passed and one more in total of travel..."

"Five days. We have five days to destroy a coven."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I say we go after Lysaga first even if the coven comes after us later we would both get Kasimir back and deprive Strahd of another asset" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "Aight then, we go straight for the head."

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae? What do you think?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs, busy trying trills on her flute with the new clarity of the stone floating around her head.

"I would be onboard with either plan."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well then let us go kill a witch...and her posse" Henry says

The party leaves Vallaki, mounted on their new black warhorses.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (mines brown tho)

Henry's heavenly steed is a heavenly shade of brown, unlike the black warhorses ridden by the rest of the party. After journeying west across the Luna River bridge, the party heads south along the river's edge.

Halfway along the journey, they see, to the west, a quiet promontory upon which looms a sepulchral mansion, its turrets capped with fairytale cones, its towers lined with sculpted battlements. A third of the structure has collapsed, as has part of the roof, but the rest appears intact. A dark, octagon tower rises above the surrounding architecture. As the party sees Argynvostholt for the first time, there comes a distant peal of thunder through the fog, quickly accompanied by the howling of wolves in the woods nearby. The house stands silent, seeming like the fossilized remains of some long-dead thing smote upon the mountainside.

Rictavio: "That, then, must be Argynvostholt."

Marcus Veranius: "Revenant castle."

"That's where that Silver Dragon soldier hailed from, per his claims."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "According to my map, that means we're getting close. Berez should be just up ahead. How do we want to proceed?"

GM: (Naturally, Ismark has reunited with the party by this point, to much fanfare)

Marcus Veranius: "She's expecting wereravens to retaliate for the mill. I don't see a feasible ambush point."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae's horse is named Twilight)

(This is important information)

Ahead, the dirt and grass of the trail soon turns to mash as the trail dissolves into spongy earth pockmarked with stands of tall reeds and pools of stagnant water. A thick shroud of fog covers all.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We should avoid putting our backs toward the river, wouldn't want limit our way of retreat ourselves"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is tooting on the flute as quietly as is possible. The fog helps mask the sound - only the party can hear her.

Rictavio: "I would argue that the odds are very good that she already knows we are here."

"Stealth seems to me to be a pointless waste of effort."

"Scouting the terrain is not a bad idea, though."

"Who knows what kinds of ambushes might be possible, here in the swamp?"

Marcus Veranius: "A number too many. I could guide us through the more difficult mountainside and we can attack from high ground."

Suldae Westwind: "That sounds good to me," Suldae offers, pausing her playing for a moment.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I agree"

Suldae Westwind: Oh! Also, we got only 7 horses, with the assumption that some of the party members will be traveling in raven form.

This sounds like Ireena and Ezmerelda are birds rn either that, or sharing the saddle

The party journeys along the mountainside, approaching Berez from the northwest.

GM: (One word of warning -- this map is gigantic, each square is 100 feet)
(The fog makes it impossible to see more than 120 feet)

Tops K.: (Well GOOD NEWS. The fog extends to my max crossbow range)

Hiere Unthere: (charge has returned)

Scattered throughout the marsh are old peasant cottages, their walls covered with black mildew, their roofs mostly caved in. These decrepit dwellings seem to hunker down in the mire, as though they have long since given up on escaping the thick mud. Everywhere you look, black clouds of flies dart around, hungry for blood. From your vantage point on the hillside, you can see down onto the lake of fog which seems to swirl and twist its way above the marsh. The dark structures emerge from it like the bones of some ruined beast, languishing in a sea of white mist.

To the east, the nearest structures seem like crumbled peasant cottages. To the south you see the empty shell of an old stone church, and beyond it, something that resembles a mansion.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stops playing, so it's easier to hear anything off.

On the far side of the river, to the east, the fog seems thinner. A circle of standing stones is there, and in the midst of them you see what looks like a lantern's light.

The fog lies thickest in the middle of the village. It seems to swirl there with an almost unnatural movement...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae points towards the light.

"I'd suggest we check whatever's there first"

Rictavio: "And how do you propose we cross the river?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "One or two of us could just fly over."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry unslings his shield from his back and quietly says to Joan "When things get dangerous get on Corazon here okay? She'll keep you save"

Suldae Westwind: (Joan has her own warhorse and is leading another one)

(Well, okay, someone's probably riding that one, probably Ezme)

(But Joan had her own horse)

(Remember, we're mounted now)

Joan: "Alright." She seems quiet and pale, in the chilling atmosphere of the swamp.

Suldae Westwind: (That horse was the spare one in my calculations)

(And one more for Kasimir)

Joan: "Should I stay with the horses?"

"I can try to get us set up for some dinner."

Marcus Veranius: (Err, there isnt a river between us and the stone circles?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Mine can telepathically tell me if they are under attack and I can find it eaasily if it is not dead)

Suldae Westwind: > On the far side of the river, to the east, the fog seems thinner. A circle of standing stones is there, and in the midst of them you see what looks like a lantern's light.

Marcus Veranius: (Wew, its not drawn on the map)

GM: (The stone circle is (rather stupidly) not drawn on the map)

(It is marked, however -- I'll drop the marker so you can see it. It's "U6")

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is off her horse in a flash. Her guitar stays strapped to the saddle, and after a second's trepidation she leaves the bag with the tiny servant miscelany behind, too. This does not seem like the best environment for that.

Marcus Veranius: "May I make a suggestion before we move any further?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (river is 300ish ft wide we are not getting over there easily)

Marcus Veranius: "Another casting of Locate Object on Kasimir's belongings, assuming the corpse isn't too far from them."

"...hopefully not a corpse either."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere holds out his Dragoneye rod. "We can do better than that"

Suldae Westwind:

Blink

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

Roll a d20 at the end of each of your turns for the duration of the spell. On a roll of 11 or higher, you vanish from your current plane of existence and appear in the Ethereal Plane (the spell fails and the casting is wasted if you were already on that plane). At the start of your next turn, and when the spell ends if you are on the Ethereal Plane, you return to an unoccupied space of your choice that you can see within 10 feet of the space you vanished from. If no unoccupied space is available within that range, you appear in the nearest unoccupied space (chosen at random if more than one space is equally near). You can dismiss this spell as an action. While on the Ethereal Plane, you can see and hear the plane you originated from, which is cast in shades of gray, and you can't see anything there more than 60 feet away. You can only affect and be affected by other creatures on the Ethereal Plane. Creatures that aren't there can't perceive you or interact with you, unless they have the ability to do so.

SORRY

this was not intended

"Take care of Twilight," Suldae tells Joan seriously, patting the horse.

Joan: "I will."

Ireena Kolyana: "Before we go, I'd like to set up a place of security," says Ireena, dismounting. She takes Joan a short ways away from the horses and casts Tiny Hut.

Hiere Unthere:

Srying

Divination 5

Casting Time: 10 minutes

Range: Self

Target: A particular creature you choose that is on the same place of existence as you

Components: V, S, M (A focus worth at least 1,000 gp, such as a crystal ball, a silver mirror, or a font filled with holy water)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You can see and hear a particular creature you choose that is on the same plane of existence as you. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw, which is modified by how well you know the target and the sort of physical connection you have to it. If a target knows you're casting this spell, it can fail the saving throw voluntarily if it wants to be observed. Knowledge Save Modifier Secondhand (you have heard of the target) +5 Firsthand (you have met the target) +0 Familiar (you know the target well) -5 Connection Save Modifier Likeness or picture -2 Possession or garment -4 Body part, lock of hair, bit of nail, or the like -10 On a successful save, the target isn't affected, and you can't use this spell against it again for 24 hours. On a failed save, the spell creates an invisible sensor within 10 feet of the target. You can see and hear through the sensor as if you were there. The sensor moves with the target, remaining within 10 feet of it for the duration. A creature that can see invisible objects sees the sensor as a luminous orb about the size of your fist. Instead of targeting a creature, you can choose a location you have seen before as the target of this spell. When you do, the sensor appears at that location and doesn't move.

Ireena Kolyana: The ritual takes only a few minutes to complete, and when she is done, a dome of apparent darkness surrounds Joan.

Suldae Westwind: "...Couldn't you have set that to cover all of us in need?" Suldae asks, having been distracted for the duration.

GM: (Let's assume she did)

(The hut cannot move, but it will provide a place of safety if you retreat. It cannot cover the horses, unfortunately.)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere focuses on the thought of sweet, sweet, Kasimir.

"Does anyone have anything that previously belonged to Kasimir?"

Kasimir Velikov:

WISDOM SAVE
Kasimir Velikov

Save: 9

Suldae Westwind: (Looks like he's alive!)

Hiere's sensor manifests in a place of complete darkness. He can hear Kasimir's steady breathing in the gloom. The space feels tight and narrow. He smells dirt and fresh-cut pine.

Kasimir seems to be meditating.

Hiere Unthere: "He's alive! In the forest somewhere? It smells of freshly cut pine."

Marcus Veranius: "Freshly-cut pine... what else?"

Marcus Veranius is visibly happy to hear the news

Suldae Westwind: Suldae perks up as well, gladly.

Ireena Kolyana: "He's alive!?"

Rictavio: "Yes, that is very troubling..."

Marcus Veranius: "He's alive!"

Hiere Unthere: "Dirt.. I think he's trapped or hiding"

Rictavio: "The question we must ask ourselves is this: Why has he been kept alive?"

Marcus Veranius pauses.

Marcus Veranius: "...dirt, and fresh cut pine."

Rictavio: Rictavio laughs. "Well, that's grim."

Marcus Veranius: "Do... do you know anything else?"

Marcus Veranius doesn't look so happy anymore

Rictavio: "Suldae, my dear, how long do you think an elf in trance can control their breathing?"

Hiere Unthere: "It's completely dark, I can only hear his breathing"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Buried alive..."

Marcus Veranius clenches his fist

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh for fucks sake, burried alive ...really? What is this chapbook villaniy?"

Rictavio: "It does make him harder to find. And it keeps him as a bargaining chip."

Marcus Veranius: "We need to get to the center of the ruins. I can pinpoint his belongings with Locate Object, but it's range can't hit everything from here."

Rictavio: "One has to assume intent here."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena starts counting on her fingertips.

Suldae Westwind: (What do I roll to estimate that?)

(Suldae does not trance and has not grown up with her elf parent, but she is very well-educatd and would have paid attention to elf things)

GM: (Roll History with advantage)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says "If she used magic to bury him, he could be as much as 120 feet down."

"Maybe deeper, if she can fly."

Hiere Unthere: (hiere is an elf- just saying)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we keep forgetting that)

Marcus Veranius: "Well we

"We can just un-bury him."

Marcus Veranius doesn't sound confident...

Suldae Westwind:

15

10

HISTORY (7)
Suldae Westwind

"Hiere?" asks Suldae, who was paying more attention

(I wasn't but she was)

Hiere Unthere: (does he just know?)

GM: (Hiere would know from personal experience that a skilled elf can maintain the trance state indefinitely, breathing as little as a cubic foot of air per day.

(Suldae knows that an elf in trance can stay there, and that their breathing slows significantly. She does not have exact measurements.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait Hiere how much room is around him?"

Hiere Unthere: "It's quite tight, I cannot see _anything_ though" anything

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, we know who does know where he is."
"And I, for one, am eager to meet her."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (don't elves have dark vision and scrying says as if you were there so you should see something) "Ismark that thing you did when we were falling, do you think you could do that twice?"
"You would need to have space where ever you come out right?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Do you mean Dimension Door?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes that

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yes, I can do that. But I have to know the exact direction and distance, if I can't see the spot or visualize it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "hm something to keep in mind than" Henry says scratching his head
"Anyway let's go kill a witch"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in and out. If Kasimir has held out for this long, he should be fine for the time it takes them to get to him, too.
"I still propose we circle around and check out the stones first."

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait, Hiere... You say you can't see anything? Not even shades of grey?"
"I thought elven eyes could pierce the darkness?"

Hiere Unthere: "absolutely nothing"

Marcus Veranius: "Magic horseshit maybe?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Magical darkness, maybe..."

Suldae Westwind: "We could detect that if we're close"

Ireena Kolyana: "It does make me wonder why he hasn't tried to teleport out..."

Marcus Veranius: "Do you think magical darkness counts as an object per Detect Objects?"

Ireena Kolyana: "It couldn't hurt to try? Maybe?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we need to get closer no matter what" Henry says dismounting

Marcus Veranius: "Unless Henry can interrogate the swamp for more details."

Marcus Veranius starts heading towards the ruins

Suldae Westwind: Suldae perks up.

"Why Henry?"

Marcus Veranius: "Because... because I was being sarcastic."

"Don't tell me that's an option."

Suldae Westwind: "I can ask plants what happened. In a fairly small circle, though."

"30 feet radius or so."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not how that works unless you are up to solving some needlessly cryptic riddle"

Marcus Veranius facepalms. Magic is nonsense

Suldae Westwind: "As long as what happened was within the circle and within a day, they'll tell me."

"Only, it's been more than a day.."

Ireena Kolyana: "Plants have short memories, I suppose."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

"Anyway, Marcus, do keep that in mind... for future opportunities that are not now because it took too long," her voice gets quieter towards the end of the line.

GM: (Who is casting the gigantic grey aura?)

(Ah, I see)

(I presume that's for Locate Objects)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

(That be the radius for Locate Objects when its cast)

(Smaller grey aura is the 120 vision ran-oh no)

Almost as soon as Marcus and Henry enter the fog, they are accosted by a swarm of biting flies.

GM (GM):

BITES (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)
Swarm of Wasps

Attack: 14 | 4

Damage: 10 piercing

Luckily, the flies are not able to get past their armor — for now.

Marcus Veranius: "BEES"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ugh"

Suldae Westwind: (Wait, what's the plan? Why are just Marcus and Henry going somewhere? What did I miss?)

The flies are huge and hideous, with distended bodies and visible, spiked proboscii. They have clearly been enhanced by magical means, and are no natural beasts.

GM: (They were just the first to mention walking towards the swamp)

Marcus Veranius: "Oh god they get bigger every year!"

Suldae Westwind: (Ah, okay)

Suldae toots her flute and tries to blow the flies away.

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

The sound is long and breathy.

GM: (They are physically incapable of resisting)

The flies are instantly blown away, and the fog is pushed back by about ten feet.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae keeps playing, encouraged by the effect.

The melody sounds more like a giant creature inhaling and exhaling, than anything.

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe just... Keep playing that tune for a bit."

By the power of Suldae's magic, the fog is kept 30 feet away, increasing the visibility to 150 feet.

Marcus Veranius attempts to fire an arrow at bees

Marcus Veranius:

24

10

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork)

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Piercing

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings his Pick at the closest large cluster Suldae Westwind: The flies cannot approach.

Henry of Willowsbrook: cluster

31

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

11 + 6
Piercing

2 + 5
Acid

(AHAHAHA)

Marcus manages to kill half the flies in the swarm with a single shot. Henry's huge Warpick comes hurtling through the remains of the swarm, and returns to his hand a moment later.

Suldae Westwind: (This strongly reminds me of shooting a crossbow at the broomstick that one time)

GM: (Well, they have resistance to piercing and bludgeoning. But Marcus is a damn good shot.)

Suldae Westwind: (Perhaps our mages should do something)

GM: (I'm picturing him shooting the wings off the flies.)

Suldae Westwind: (Well, if the flies are larger, the arrow would do more than just push them away with wind as it's flying through)

For the moment, the flies seem to be taken care of.

Marcus Veranius: (I'm imagining Source Film Maker quality as Marcus takes an arrow and smacks the bees)

"Goddamn bees!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stops playing for a moment. Not putting the flute far away from her lips she says: "Not to discourage our brave warriors, but perhaps if we're accosted by flies again one of our mages would be more effective"

"Who can blast fire that's smaller than fireball?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "These aren't be-y'know what I don't really care"

Hiere Unthere: "My fire is quite a large fire"

Suldae Westwind: "Or not fire, literally anything that's not trying to shoot a fly swarm."

"I know it worked, but it cost an arrow."

"It didn't have to."

"Those are flies."

"Don't... I'm not sure why I have to say 'don't shoot at flies' but apparently I do."

"...Ironically, Kaisimir seems like he would be the most helpful here," she adds in a quieter tone.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I don't know, I thought it was pretty impressive."

Hiere Unthere: "On the other hand- Marcus you are ridiculously good at shooting flies"

Suldae Westwind: *most

"It was. Just.. No. I'm not commenting on this any more."

Suldae resumes playing.

To the south, through the fog, you see a cemetery of leaning gravestones enclosed by a disintegrating iron fence. Half the cemetery has sunk into the mire. Beyond it, you see the empty shell of an old stone church.

To the east, through the fog, you see the crumbled walls of peasant huts. All that remains of them are stacked stone walls no more than three feet in height.

Marcus Veranius points towards the church. "If we can get closer to there, I can hit about half of the ruins with Detect Object."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So do we go through there to quickly learn if the graves occupants can visit us for a quick bite or do we go around and save us the surprise?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'd be surprised if they were. Strahd has to be running out of corpses by now."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I wouldn't bet on it."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir points to the cemetery, where several standing figures can be seen among the gravestones.

Marcus Veranius: "Well one can hope."

Marcus Veranius approaches the cemetery, hoping to get a better reading for his spell

Suldae Westwind: "There's probably a pretty good chance of Kasimir being in one of the graves," Suldae notes in between restarting the melody.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stays in front of Marcus as he approaches

Suddenly, from the fog just to the southeast, you see a figure standing on a single wooden post, arms akimbo.

At first, it seems human. Then you realize that it is a scarecrow.

Marcus Veranius raises his crossbow in surprise, then lowers it

It seems to be stuffed with raven feathers.

Marcus Veranius: "...what is this, Halloween?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "A Scare-Raven?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Animated scarecrows was it? Joan mentioned them"

Marcus Veranius: "Oh."

"Well that's a bit less tacky."

Marcus Veranius raises his crossbow again

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait! We can save the bolt."

Suldae Westwind: "Can anyone burn it easily?" Suldae asks.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

Eldritch Blast

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah, like that."

Ismark Kolyanovich raises his finger and looses three bolts of crimson energy, which spear into the immobile creature. 10 to hit, 23 to hit, 29 to hit, dealing 8, 11, and 12.

The Scarecrow bursts into flames, and soon withers in a shower of sparks and burning feathers.

Within seconds, all that remains is a wooden pole.

Rictavio: "She can't seriously think that this would protect her from us..."

Suldae Westwind: (I just checked, and boht Ezmerelda and Hierie have Fire Bolt) (Which is what Suldae was heavily hinting at)

Marcus Veranius: "From us? No. Does make a good assurance that only we show up for the big guns."

Suldae Westwind: "Let's just keep moving," Suldae suggests and starts playing again.

Marcus Veranius moves towards the side of the graveyard, hoping to get as much ruins into his spell range as possible

Marcus Veranius: "Alright, I think this is good."

The fog to the east is impenetrable — it seems to have closed down around something in the midst of it, shielding it from view.

Marcus Veranius: "That... is concerning."

Suldae and Henry both sense a malevolent presence there -- an arcane presence like the feeling of a nature spirit, but twisted into darkness.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns at that direction.

"There's something... there. Like a nature spirit, but corrupted."

"What would have happened at the winery if we weren't there, I'm guessing"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fuck a fowl that feels rotten"

Marcus Veranius: "Baba Lysaga IS in posession of one Winery seed of three."

"Perhaps she's corrupted it for her own uses."

"I can only assume anything that can give Strahd a finger on his no-farms policy has to be innately powerful."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Keep looking or home visitation?"

Suldae Westwind: "I'm going to repeat my suggestion to check whatever's across the river first."

"The fog was thinner there."

Marcus Veranius: "Let's pause for a bit and do some arcane recon. If Kasimir is within the primary ruins, I'll be able to find him."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Only you two Ireena and Ezme can easily cross the river"

Suldae Westwind: "Good point."

"And yeah."

"But we should all get closer first."

Marcus Veranius casts his spell

Marcus Veranius:

Locate Object

Divination 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S, M (A forked twig)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Describe or name an object that is familiar to you. You sense the direction to the object's location, as long as that object is within 1,000 feet of you. If the object is in motion, you know the direction of its movement. The spell can locate a specific object known to you, as long as you have seen it up close—within 30 feet—at least once. Alternatively, the spell can locate the nearest object of a particular kind, such as a certain kind of apparel, jewelry, furniture, tool, or weapon. This spell can't locate an object if any thickness of lead, even a thin sheet, blocks a direct path between you and the object.

(OH! its 10 minutes!)

(I can just hold this)

Suldae Westwind: (I was assuming you already were lmao)

GM: (What are you attempting to locate?)

Suldae Westwind: (and then I realized you weren't and thought it didn't work like that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can as well with this but I'd have to swim and I'd rather not this close to Baba Lasgas haunt"

Marcus Veranius: (Well you see, I'm a dumbass)

Suldae Westwind: (This is not worse than the Rope Trick fiasco)

Marcus Veranius: (Nothing can be worse than Rope Trick)

Suldae Westwind: (dont SAY that)

Marcus Veranius attempts to sense for Kasimir's specific style of clothes with the spell, assuming he hasn't been stripped naked in his prison

Marcus senses that Kasimir's clothing is within the large structure to the south of the church.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we lost our Elf Wizard...the funny one I mean)

Marcus Veranius: "Kasimir's clothes are there."

Marcus senses Kasimir's clothes are several hundred feet underground.

Marcus Veranius: "...he's several hundred feet underground."

"Let's hope for an extensive basement."

Marcus Veranius starts following the spell's direction

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I have been slacking with my church going, my Ma would be disapointed"
Henry says rolling his shoulders to limber up following Marcus

The structure seems to be a mansion, which was once built on higher ground. It has been reduced to piles of stone and rotting timber. Empty, arched windows stare at you. South of the ruin, an untamed garden runs rampant, surrounded by broken walls that are no longer able to contain it. East of the ruin, someone has erected a crude wooden fence, forming a circular yard in which several goats are penned. Surmounting the fence posts are human skulls.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae snorts and follows, abandoning her flute playing for the moment to clutch the holy symbol.

The church lies to the west of the crumbled mansion. As you pass towards the mansion's doors, you can see through the crumbled windows of the church, and see the vast bell, sitting atop the altar, where it fell when the tower collapsed.

Marcus Veranius: "This might have been quite the town back in its day."

"Shame it's ended up like this."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I wonder what happened here?..."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae shivers.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena seems oddly thoughtful, as though she is remembering something from long, long ago.
She seems puzzled.

 Marcus Veranius: "If Vallaki is a good example, plenty of things."

 Rictavio: "One imagines that Strahd happened here," says Rictavio.

 Suldae Westwind: For once, her bard curiosity takes the back seat to pure horrified "I don't want to know"
She doesn't say that though.

 Rictavio: "A wizard of his power could easily cause the river to flood, forming the marsh."

 Suldae Westwind: And she notices Iren's condition.

"Ireena, do you know anything?"

"I'm not sure the river just flooding once would be enough for a marsh, but... this place is messed up."

"The whole of Barovia, I mean."

 Marcus Veranius: "If intuition says anything, this is what Valakii will look like if we don't stop Strahd."
"Maybe a bit less wet."

 Rictavio: "Once they no longer entertain him, yes. I imagine the lake to the north of Vallaki could be easily made to do something similar."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Quit empathizing with the ancient Vampire, Ricky. It makes you seem macabre."

 Rictavio: "I am macabre! I have spent many years cultivating just such an appeal."

 Suldae Westwind: "That was empathizing?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "You have appeal?"

 Suldae Westwind: "I suppose Rictavio doesn't know how to do it properly."

 Marcus Veranius ignores the bickering and enters the mansion proper, hoping his spell might reveal a way downwards soon enough

 Suldae Westwind: (we lost most of the party)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Shows that effort spend doesn't equal resluts" results

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae abandons the spell as she looks around and listens carefully instead.

26

PERCEPTION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: (This already compressed map isnt big enough for 8 tokens walking about)
(We'll jump them over when combat starts)

Suldae Westwind: (fair)

Suldae notices that there are nine goats in the pen to the east of the mansion. They appear to be ordinary goats. There are fifty human skulls, impaled on the fenceposts of the gateless enclosure.

The ruined mansion is littered with the rotted and mildew-covered remains of furniture and grand decor. It must once have been even grander than the Wachterhouse or the house of the Burgomaster of Vallaki.

There are several doorways leading onward into other parts of the mansion. The stairs rise halfway to the crumbled second floor, then they break, and their remains litter the floor.

Marcus Veranius treads carefully, trying not to test what remains of this house's durability

Marcus Veranius: "Right then, start looking for a basement."

Suldae Westwind:

8

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius peeks about for a ladder or trapdoor

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is too busy looking at everything to actually search for trapdoors.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean it's not that bad, a couple nice rugs and a bit of work and this place could be a nice little home" Henry jokes

Quite suddenly, the fog races in through the gaping windows, and swirls tightly in the middle of the grand entry hall. A figure takes its shape from the fog, assuming the form of a giant of a man, his features mutilated and his entrails hanging out like frayed ropes. Despite its intimidating presence, the apparition has a cringing light in its eyes. "Why do you invade my home? Begone, I beseech you!"

Marcus Veranius is rather sick of this land's ghostly lords and their haunted estates

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh sorry we took the lack of door...or walls as a sign this lot was open to all comers2

"

Marcus Veranius: "Assist me in removing my stolen friend from your property and you will have all the peace you desire."

"Not a second sooner."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We really won't trouble you long"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae bows to the guy.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'one way or another' He adds mentally

The ghost looks over the gathered adventurers.

"Aren't you frightened? You should be frightened."

"Is not my visage horrific?"

Marcus Veranius: "You are quite frightening ser, I will give you that. But I care very much for my acquaintance, whom I would be dead without."

"The devil himself wouldn't keep me out of this estate."

Suldae Westwind: "We're frightened of everything around here," Suldae pipes in.

"You just stop reacting after a while."

Ireena Kolyana: "We've seen worse."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Eeh I have seen worse in my nightmares, even the ones that weren't personal" Henry says "I maybe shouldn't have said that out loud"

At the sound of Ireena's voice, the ghost seems to freeze in place. His eyes widen. His lip trembles.

"Marina...?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae touches her holy symbol and sends a whispered prayer to Corellon for insight into what kind of creature this is

23

RELIGION (11)
Suldae Westwind

"..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ah...Shit"

Suldae Westwind: Ah, reincarnation.

Suldae realizes that this man is, in fact, a ghost. He has been bound by a curse, and a great evil power binds him to this plane. He cannot rest, because this power will not let him.

"Forgive me, Marina... It seems I was not strong enough to save you."

Suldae Westwind: ...Well, that sounds bad.

"Her name is Ireena, these days," Suldae says gently.

"You can help."

"She is still not Strahd's."

That this man would be happy about that is a guess. An educated one, though.

The ghost collapses to the floor, and struggles against tears.

Marcus Veranius holds firm, polite as he can but with unbreakable resolve. It may seem almost cruel, but more cruel were these circumstances.

Marcus Veranius: "Where did the hag bury my friend?"

"I killed you for nothing..."

Ireena Kolyana: "What do you mean?"

Ireena's voice shakes.

She seems, almost, to be remembering something...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae edges closer to Ireena and takes her hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Light be kind" Henry murmurs

"Of course, you don't remember... You were my daughter, once. Marina. The bastard-king saw you, and loved you, and by his power he seduced you. You were turning, my child. You were becoming like him. I could not bear it. I and the priest, Brother Grigor, killed you -- to save your soul from damnation."

"Strahd slew us in his rage, and cursed me, and cursed the village. The river rose. The people fled. The marsh crept in."

"And all this time, I have lingered here, not knowing... Not knowing if what we did was wise..."

Ireena Kolyana: A tear rolls down Ireena's cheek.

"It was wise."

"You can rest now. But not before you answer my friend's question."

Marcus Veranius: "There are no right choices when fighting a monster. But there are also no wrong choices."

The ghost points behind himself, into the garden. "She did it there. She buried the elf in a box, deep beneath the garden. She laughed as she did it."

Marcus Veranius: "Ser. I have met other lords of this land who have been forced into the same decision."

The ghost seems to take some solace in this.

Marcus Veranius: "Some with heavy hands. Some without resolve to do what they thought was right."

"Guilt hurts, but it is the surest sign of good men. For to be guiltless is to truly be lost."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hugs Ireena from the side, as tight as she can.

"It won't come to that this time," she murmurs.

"We'll just win."

Ireena Kolyana: "Listen to him, father. Listen to him. It won't be like last time... Or the time before."

Marcus Veranius: "Be at ease, good ser. You did what you could, and that's all that matters."

Ireena Kolyana: "Rest."

The ghost smiles for the first time in what seems like centuries.

A moment later, there is no ghost -- only a dissipating gust of mist.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena buries her face in Suldae's shoulder and cries.

Suldae Westwind:

12

RELIGION (11)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana: "How many fathers have I lost, Suldae?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae holds her tight, too busy clutching her to really pay attention to the ghost.

Ireena Kolyana: "How many lives...?"

Marcus Veranius puts his hat to his chest for a moment. Half out of respect, but by now, almost out of instinct.

Suldae Westwind: "More than anyone should ever have," Suldae murmurs her the only answer she has.

Marcus Veranius: It was cruel how often he had to pay respects in this land.

"Baba Lysaga may be laughing, but it is her own shovel that shall free our friend."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "There will be no more" Henry "My the light shine gently on him forevermore"

Marcus Veranius: "Hiere; remember that devil mole that attacked us back at the winery? That shape the druid took?"

Henry feels power move from him, and enter the world of spirits. He senses a powerful curse breaking, like ice under rain.

Outside, the sounds of the marsh grow eerily silent.

Suldae Westwind: "...I could summon something like that, probably. Or turn someone into it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "'Let#s get him out and BURN her out after"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's still holding Ireena.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Evening the score one small victory at a time' Henry thinks 'till the levie breaks and drowns you Strahd'

GM: (And on that note, let's pause the session here. Thank you all for playing! This was a fun session for me, and we can pick up next session with some interesting encounters.)

Suldae Westwind:

E>

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I had a lot of fun even with the choppy first 1/3 of the session)

GM: (Yeah, we probably should have done that all during the week, but I was unfortunately busy)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Eh no worries I wasn't in the Headspace for DnD either during the week)

GM (GM): (Good morning all!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: hello

Marcus Veranius is looking about for a shovel

Marcus Veranius: GOAT

Liliet (Suldae): hi ^^

Marcus Veranius sees a shovel leaning against one wall of the garden.

Beside it is a pickaxe and a hoe, and a number of other gardening instruments.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let's start digging" Henry says grabing the pickaxe

Marcus Veranius: "You wouldn't think a pickaxe would be necessary for gardening, but when you're digging as deep as Baba Lysaga..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae eyes the gardening implements.

"Yeah, I'm contributing with magic..."

There is a hint of fear in her eyes

Conjure Animals

Conjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: Unoccupied spaces that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

You summon fey spirits that take the form of beasts and appear in unoccupied spaces that you can see within range. Choose one of the following options for what appears: One beast of challenge rating 2 or lower Two beasts of challenge rating 1 or lower Four beasts of challenge rating 1/2 or lower Eight beasts of challenge rating 1/4 or lower Each beast is also considered fey, and it disappears when it drops to 0 hit points or when the spell ends. The summoned creatures are friendly to you and your companions. Roll initiative for the summoned creatures as a group, which has its own turns. They obey any verbal commands that you issue to them (no action required by you). If you don't issue any commands to them, they defend themselves from hostile creatures, but otherwise take no actions. The GM has the creatures' statistics.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using certain higher-level Spell Slots, you choose one of the summoning options above, and more creatures appear - twice as many with a 5th-level slot, three times as many with a 7th-level slot, and four times as many with a 9th-level slot.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You haven't dug a lot have you?"

Marcus Veranius: "We still have the Hiere Mole."

Suldae Westwind: "And I do not plan on starting," Suldae says and takes the flute to her lips.

15

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

(trying to summon something that can help us dig helpfully)

Quite suddenly, the Pickaxe jolts in Henry's hands, and takes a swing at his head. 27 to hit.

Suldae Westwind: The melody is slow and rhythmic.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I meant Marcus, pickaxes are quite helpful and even nesscar ouch
"

The pickaxe deals a whopping 21 bludgeoning damage.

Suldae Westwind: "The broom..." Suldae whispers as she finishes the song.
(so what do I summon)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fuckin bullshit ow" is the pickaxe still moving or did it stop after I tried to grab it

The pickaxe is still frantically jerking around in Henry's hands, and will likely whip him again.

Whap*

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tosses it

Marcus Veranius aims his crossbow at the pickaxe. Why did every tool in Barovia have to hold grudges?

Suldae Westwind: "The crossbow, Marcus? Really?"
(What do I summon)
(I did a spell)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry draws his war pick "can have one thing in this damn shit hole that isn't full off hate can you?"

Suldae's song summons eight magnificent giant badgers.

Marcus Veranius: "YES THE CROSSBOW! It's a nice crossbow!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings at the moving pickaxe

Marcus Veranius: "Blinsky carved my name into the bottom of it with a little heart. Do you know how nice that is?"

Henry of Willowsbrook:

23

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook13

Piercing

6

Acid

15

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook15

Piercing

3

Acid

Marcus Veranius:*22

120

>Sharpshooter (ClockworkCrossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius22

Piercing

13

120

>Sharpshooter (ClockworkCrossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius18

Piercing

25

120

>Sharpshooter (ClockworkCrossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius18

Piercing

The Pickaxe flies from his hand, hovers briefly in the air, seems to gesture towards its companion tools with a jolt of its spiked head, and darts straight for Henry again. A split-second before it can hit him, Henry smashes it to pieces, and Marcus kills the pieces.

The shovel and the hoe decide that maybe it's better to continue pretending to be inanimate... For now.

They hold pure hatred in their wooden hearts, however, and bide their time maliciously.

Marcus Veranius gives them the stinkeye

They return the favor.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in and out, then turns to the badgers and gives a bow.

"Our friend is buried in a box underground here. Could you please help dig him up?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Smash the rest while we're at it?" Henry says trying to ignore the ache in his temple

Suldae Westwind: "Meanwhile," Suldae turns to the gardening implements and closes her eyes, holding her holy symbol in her hands.

DC14Dexterity Save*13Radiant60 feetSacred Flame

Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12*30ftDagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

14*Piercing6Acid2230ftDagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

14*Piercing2Acid*

The badgers turn as one, and march out like a tiny army, into the wild garden. Moving down the path, sniffing the grass, they wind between the sculptures of nude, handsome men and women, warriors, knights, wizards, elves, dwarves... There are a lot of statues. They stop in the middle of the garden.

Something moves in the underbrush.

Four somethings, actually... (Roll Perception)

Suldae Westwind: (Uh. A lot of statues you say)

25PERCEPTION (10)

Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius:

27

PERCEPTION (10)
 Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14

PERCEPTION (4)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae and Marcus both spot four enormous, brightly-colored snakes. This is not the kind of "enormous" that Mother Nature likes to do — this is the kind of "enormous" that only magic can create. These poisonous serpents could constrict an elephant — and eat it, after it was dead.

They move with mindless intensity, headed straight for the badgers.

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 20

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Did I kil the shovel?)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 14

Marcus Veranius:

27

INITIATIVE (8)
 Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10.1

INITIATIVE (0.1)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry smashes the shovel, but fails to smash the hoe.

Suldae Westwind:

24.15

INITIATIVE (4.15)
 Suldae Westwind

oh what the fuck

~no token was selected~

The hoe bursts into flame as Suldae's Sacred Flame falls upon it, and the radiance of her power cleanses its black heart. The hoe is now inanimate.

Henry of Willowsbrook: yeah same I also forgot

Suldae Westwind: (EXCELLENT)

GM: (You're on the initiative now)

(The badgers will have a single shared turn)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE

Giant Badger

Initiative: 15

GM: (It's sort of fitting that Marcus and Suldae will act first, since they saw the serpents just in time.)

Marcus Veranius spots a snake loom up at his position.

Marcus Veranius: "No, no, NO, NO, NO!"

Marcus Veranius solves this problem the normal way

Marcus Veranius:

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22

Piercing

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22

Piercing

(these should be with advantage)

12

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20
Piercing

28		22
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19 + 5
Piercing

20		14
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Piercing

Marcus Veranius:

27 | 25
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Piercing

11 / 12 / 28 / 20 / 27 to hit

GM (GM): (Two hits, the 27 and the 28)

Suldae Westwind: (give me a minute I'm trying to figure something out)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d8 Dread Ambusher (last attack)

(5)

= 5

51 damage

GM: (This map is too damn big)

Marcus Veranius:

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to maneuver one of your comrades into a more advantageous position. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and you choose a friendly creature who can see or hear you. That creature can use its reaction to move up to half its speed without provoking opportunity attacks from the target of your attack.

3

Bonus Damage

[Maneuvering Attack]

Marcus Veranius

"SULDAE! Get back!"

Suldae Westwind: (is it possible to make a smaller one out of this segment)

Marcus Veranius: (These snakes are 100ft across by map measurements)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae calmly breathes, backs away, then takes up the flute and starts playing a new melody. She is not sure if it will work, but she is fairly confident it's the best move if it does. The music is rhythmic and soothing, just quiet enough to be on the edge of hearing.

The Weave shifts around the snake at the rear.

(Flute) Charm Monster, 1/day

Enchantment 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 hour

You attempt to charm a creature you can see within range. It must make a Wisdom saving throw, and it does so with advantage if you or your companions are fighting it. If it fails the saving throw, it is charmed by you until the spell ends or until you or your companions do anything harmful to it. The charmed creature is friendly to you. When the spell ends, the creature knows it was charmed by you.

(Flute) Charm Monster, 1/day

Enchantment 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 hour

You attempt to charm a creature you can see within range. It must make a Wisdom saving throw, and it does so with advantage if you or your companions are fighting it. If it fails the saving throw, it is charmed by you until the spell ends or until you or your companions do anything harmful to it. The charmed creature is friendly to you. When the spell ends, the creature knows it was charmed by you.

(nm just one of these)

Marcus Veranius: (I'm waiting for the map situation to be settled before I have Marcus retreat behind the badger wall)

Suldae Westwind: (good plan)

GM: (This is lazy bu it will work)

Marcus Veranius: (Can I not have rolled the "Suldae may Retreat" maneuver now that she isnt next to snake?)

GM: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind: (this is an excellent solution btw)

Marcus Veranius retreats behind the manor's rubble

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Suldae Westwind: (oh shit distance)

GM: (I have adjusted the squares to make them more manageable, but yes, you are far)

(The squares on the original map were 100 feet. I don't know who the fuck thought that would be a good idea.)

Suldae Westwind: (uh, this seems a bit much)

(these seem like normal 5ft squares)

Marcus Veranius: (It's a mansion's garden)

(Seems to-scale to me)

GM: (These are 10 ft squares now, to keep the distance accurate to the original map)

Suldae Westwind: (or if they are not can we have smaller tokens?)

(gotcha)

(smaller tokens pls?)

(I have a question. Are those teleporting badgers? That's awful fast they got all the way over there)

(though I guess it was in the narration, rip)

GM: (Yup, that'll get ya)

Suldae Westwind: (smaller tokens? please?)

Marcus Veranius: (The initiative is also on the other map)

Suldae Westwind: (ty!)

Marcus Veranius: (

GM: (Can y'all see the initiative order? I still have it)

Suldae Westwind: (I don't)

(Also Suldae was close to Henry the enter time)

Marcus Veranius: (Its linked to tokens in another map so we can't see it)

Suldae Westwind: (And I think Marcus wouldn't have gone that far either, no?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (which snake got marcused?)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus's tactic is always "Shoot and Scoot")

GM: (For my own record to recreate the initiative: Marcus: 27, Suldae: 24, Snake 1: 20, Badgers: 15, Snake 2: 14, Snake 3: 14, Henry: 10, Snake 4: 7)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Initiative: 15.1

INITIATIVE
Initiative: 23.15

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Initiative: 25

-- please stand by

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake
Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE
Giant Badger

Initiative: 5

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Giant Poisonous Snake

Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE

Initiative: 10.1

INITIATIVE

Initiative: 21.15

Marcus Veranius: (We gotta get the rust off from two/three weeks. Its k)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE

Initiative: 11

GM: (Aight)

Suldae Westwind: (Nevermidn the spell, then. It doesn't work from that far)

GM: (Go ahead and reposition yourselves within 10 feet of the walls of the mansion, however you think you would have been arranged at the time.)

Suldae Westwind: (retcon my entier turn)

GM: (I mean, they can hear the flute)
(I'm fine with it)

Suldae Westwind: (Okay, so my question sticks: which snake got Marcus'd?)

GM: (It's circled)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

(Huh, can I stick with the rearmost snake?)

GM: (Yup)

Suldae Westwind: (TY)

Suldae attempts to charm the snake!

GM (GM):

WISDOM
Giant Poisonous Snake

Ability: 4 5

GM: (It's not very wise)

(It is now charmed)

The rear-most Snake hears the lilting lullaby of Suldae's flute, and raises its head to turn its yellow eyes upon her. Its tongue flickers out curiously. It has never heard music quite so fine...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lowers the flute, locks eyes with the snake and lowers her head in a bow. Then she keeps playing.

*lowers herself

a bow, not a nod

GM: (EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (The next turn is for the charmed snake)

The charmed serpent begins to slither towards the party, entranced by the music.

The Giant Badgers sense that something is wrong. They immediately set to digging.

Working together, within six seconds they are 40 feet underground.

A massive serpent slithers towards them, and half of its body enters the tunnel. It does not quite reach the badgers, as they are busily flicking dirt in its general direction.

The Serpent's tongue tastes the air irritably. Why was lunch so hard to manage?

The other Serpent, seeing its sister take the crossbow shots, turns towards the party and races through the underbrush at sickening speed.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

(Marcus, are you positioned the way you want to be?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "..And I'm already tired of this" Henry says hurling his warpick at the approaching snake after taking measure

FIGHTING SPIRIT*Class: Fighter 3 Samurai*

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a long rest.

12

26

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

16

Piercing

6

Acid

13

24

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

11

Piercing

2

Acid

GM: (That's a hit and a miss)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lowers her flute for a moment, taking advantage of a pause between beats. "Henryoneofthemisfriendly" she says quickly, then resumes the melody.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (25AC? boy that seems harsh)
22 damage

GM: (They are a special breed of quick snek)

Henry's warpick crashes through the underbrush like a steel meteor, and slams into the approaching serpent before returning to his hand.

GM: (Any additional actions/bonus actions/movement?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

The serpent wounded by Marcus's crossbow bolts makes a beeline straight for him, racing through the undergrowth. It moves swiftly, but it passes by Henry's feet as it does so.

GM: (AoO)

Henry of Willowsbrook:30

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook13
Piercing1
AcidGM: Niiiiiice

Henry gets a good swipe at the massive serpent during the several prolonged seconds in which it is slithering past him. His hammer smashes into scaly flesh, dealing considerable damage. The serpent seems injured, but its movements are not slowed. If anything, it seems to get more frantic...

GM: (Marcus, you're up)\

(Also, if you are not positioned the way you wanted to be for the start of the battle, go ahead and reposition yourself before you start your turn.)

(Oh derp, where's all the NPCs)

Zanshukun: (right we had those)GM: (It really has been a while lmao)GM (GM):*INITIATIVE
Ireena KolyanaInitiative: 3*INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda d'AvenirInitiative: 12*INITIATIVE
RictavioInitiative: 15*INITIATIVE
Ismark KolyanovichInitiative: 16*Suldae Westwind: (oh lmao i wanted to bring them up when we were talking about the gardening tools)Marcus Veranius takes more shots at the snake, rather nervous about how close it was to their front line*Suldae Westwind: (and then got distracted)Marcus Veranius:*26

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

20
Piercing

17

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Piercing

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Piercing

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

2
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

(Throwin a lucky die on the second attack)

rolling 1d20

(7)

= 7

Marcus Veranius: (oof)

GM: (Oof indeed)

(Well, that's one hit)

Marcus Veranius: (Feck it, all the NPCs are there. ACTION SURGE)

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Piercing

15

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork)

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

20
Piercing

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

4
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...)

Marcus Veranius: 22 to hit

A flurry of shots flies from Marcus, but only a single bolt in that storm of ammunition strikes the swiftly-slithering serpent.

Marcus Veranius: (22 is a miss!?)

Luckily, it's a very good shot, and it half-blinds the massive, obviously magical serpent.

Marcus Veranius: (OH NO)

[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: (I mean you're trying to shoot a snake from a crossbow)

GM: (Also what's Marcus's passive perception. For reasons.)

Suldae Westwind: (dodging is part of AC)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah 25 seems to be the lucky number)

Marcus Veranius: Passive 20

GM: (Suldae is up)

Ok cool

Suldae Westwind: (I have a hard time seeing what's happening because of the nametags)

(lets go though)

With the snake right in front of her, Suldae alters the melody for a moment, changing it to a sung prayer to Corellon.

17

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+6)
Suldae Westwind

8

Radiant

(wait no)

(does that target AC)

GM: (It does)

Suldae Westwind: (im retconning this decision)

GM: (That's probably wise)

Suldae Westwind: (before any result is announced)

DC14

Dexterity Save

11

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Faerie Fire would work without targeting AC)

(That works too)

Suldae Westwind: (this is also not great but better)

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY Giant Poisonous Snake <hr/> Ability: 16
--

Suldae Westwind: (I have three damage dealing spells and one of them is concentration)

(rip)

(that didnt work)

GM: (Care to RP it?)

(And also take any additional actions/bonus actions/etc)

Suldae Westwind: (I did already rp the music change above)

(I don't think I have anything to do with my bonus actions but I should remember i have disrupt lol)

(should I rp the failure of the spell? I could)

Holy fire wraps around the serpent, which slithers through it effortlessly, unscathed.

GM: (You can if you want to)

(I need to feast on some quality RP)

The charmed serpent continues to approach the music curiously.

Suldae Westwind: The prayer works, but there is only so much divine aid can do when the foe is well-matched.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Ismark Kolyanovich steps past Marcus, raising a hand. "Here, let me help!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands between her friends and continues playing for the snake that is listening. She hopes it likes the music.

Ismark Kolyanovich points his hand at the approaching snake and Commands it:

Ismark Kolyanovich: "FLEE."

The words that come out of his mouth are no ordinary speech, and even the air around him darkens at the sound as his eyes hollow to voids of inky black, lit by crimson stars for pupils. The reverberating tones of the strange language seem somehow noxious, foul, unholy. Abyssal.

GM (GM):

WISDOM Giant Poisonous Snake <hr/> Ability: 17

GM: (That's his exact DC...)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (max DC at our level unless your casting stat is >20

)

The Serpent hears, and understands — and feels no fear.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, fuck."

Suldae Westwind: (note to self for spell selection in the future - do NOT make all your best spells concentration)

Rictavio reaches out and touches Marcus, bestowing Protection from Poison upon him with hardly a muttered word.

Suldae Westwind: (wait, where is he?)

Rictavio: Then he draws his blade, and lunges for the serpent.

Suldae Westwind: (ah okay lol)

Rictavio:

SWORD CANE (AS SILVERED SHORTSWORD) Rictavio <hr/> Attack: 15
--

Damage: 6 piercing

SWORD CANE (AS SILVERED SHORTSWORD) Rictavio <hr/> Attack: 12
--

Damage: 7 piercing

Rictavio makes two swift stabs, but the serpent is swifter. It rears back, coiling and writhing, hissing wildly.

The badgers continue to burrow, reaching 80 feet of depth.

Swiftly, the serpent that Henry managed to strike with his thrown hammer comes straight for him, baring foot-long fangs as it strikes!

Rictavio:*BITEGiant Poisonous SnakeAttack: 20

and the target must make a DC 19 Constitution saving throw, and suffer the poisoned condition on a success, or one minute of paralysis on a failure. Whether they pass or fail the save, they take 6d6 poison damage.

Damage: 33 piercing +
24 poison

GM: (Lmao. Rictavio bites you, apparently)Rictavio: Let's disregard that, and do it againGM (GM):*BITEGiant Poisonous SnakeAttack: 19 and the target must make a DC 19 Constitution saving throw, and suffer the poisoned condition on a success, or one minute of paralysis on a failure. Whether they pass or fail the save, they take 6d6 poison damage.

Damage: 17 piercing + 25
poison

OK, you were saved by my flub

Henry of Willowsbrook: My Ac is 22GM (GM): Well, it would have missed either way*The serpent's fangs clash against Henry's shield and glance off with a scream of bone on steel.The serpent in the burrow continues to pursue the badgers, although it is in no hurry...Ezmerelda d'Avenir:*9*Higher Level Cast

14

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile

Ezmerelda, seeing Rictavio in peril, snarls furiously and unleashes her most powerful casting of Magic Missile. Six darts of power spring from her hand and strike the serpent, punching into its body no matter how swiftly it moves to dodge them. Within seconds, the serpent collapses, dead.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Henry, bring it down!"

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Marcus feels someone tap him on the shoulder.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No nneed to tell me twice"

27

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14

Piercing

2

Acid

27

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14

Piercing

3

Acid

GM: (Niiiiiiice)

(That's two hits)

33

(It's still very much alive, do you want to smiiiiite?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hacks down twice letting the momentum carry him light dripping of him

I very much would

2 first level

rolling 4d8

(5 + 6 + 4 + 7)

= 22

Henry's massive strikes send thunder rolling through the garden and cast brilliant flashes of light through the fog. Both strokes make contact, and the serpent twists away from him with rage in its beady yellow eyes, rearing as if to strike.

It is badly injured, singed, bruised, and enraged.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Action Surge and fighting Spirt

GM: (By all means)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

24		25
30ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11) Henry of Willowsbrook
15 Piercing		5 Acid
20		14
30ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11) Henry of Willowsbrook
17 Piercing		6 Acid

GM: (The first is a hit, the second is a miss)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 20 more

In a frenzy, Henry strikes again. The serpent is on its last metaphorical legs, but it seems intent on taking someone with it to the afterlife...

GM: (It is at 3 HP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Could I smite still?)

GM: (By all means)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling 2d8

(6 + 6)

= 12

GM: (Please RP your smite blasting this things scales off)

(thing's)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh I don't thing so" Henry says to the beast thrasing after the third strike and sets the last bit of divine engery clinging to its wounds of in a secondary expolsion of heavans fury

The serpent is no more. A pile of scale-less sludge, slightly steaming, lands in the grass.

GM: (EoT?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena points a finger at the charmed serpent and seems to concentrate.

"Don't worry, I'm not going to do anything yet... I just want to gain some insight on these creatures."

9

ARCANA (2)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods gratefully.

Ireena Kolyana: "Whatever magic did this... It's powerful. And old."

Suldae Westwind: She was not going to interfere with whatever Ireena wanted to do, trusting her, but a clarification was much appreciated.

"Idontwanttoharmit", Suldae says, taking a moment between beats.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think we will have to. It's pure evil."

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus feels a second, more insistent tap on his shoulder.

There is a very faint "hem hem," as of someone clearing her throat delicately.

Marcus Veranius turns around in a panic, aiming his crossbow

GM: (Make a DC 14 CON save.)

Marcus Veranius:

16

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)

Marcus Veranius

Marcus finds himself face-to-face with a Medusa.

The Medusa smiles politely and gives him a little wave, expecting him to instantly turn to stone. He averts his eyes just in time.

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE
Medusa

Initiative: 19

Marcus Veranius: "WE GOT COMPANY!"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What?"

Ezmerelda and Ismark, the nearest, both turn to look...

Marcus Veranius: "DON'T LOOK BEHIND YOU!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "MORE SNAKES?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

CONSTITUTION*Ezmerelda d'AvenirAbility: 11*Suldae Westwind: (WELP)

(AMAZING)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:*24*CONSTITUTION (5)*GM: (The 24 was Ismark's, not Ireena's)Suldae Westwind: (you mean not Ezmerelda's)Marcus Veranius: (Can they turn to look off their turn? o-o)Suldae Westwind: (I'm sorry Marcus I think they can)

(it's no less a free action than yelling)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda gets a full glimpse, and grayish flakes suddenly begin to cloud her skin as she stiffens. She is beginning to turn to stone, and is restrained. She will repeat the saving throw at the end of her next turn.Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark catches a glimpse, but manages to avert his eyes. "MEDUSA! IT'S A MEDUSA!"GM: (You're still up, btw)Marcus Veranius has no idea what that means, but fires more shots regardlessMarcus Veranius:*27

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

21*Piercing26

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20*Piercing14

120

>Sharpshooter (ClockworkCrossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius21Piercing*

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

5*Bonus Accuracy[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

27, 26, 19

GM: (Three hits)Marcus Veranius:

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to frighten the target. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Wisdom saving throw [DC 18]. On a failed save, it is Frightened of you until the end of your next turn.

>A frightened creature has disadvantage on Ability Checks and Attack rolls while the source of its fear is within line of sight.

>The creature can't willingly move closer to the source of its fear.

6*Bonus Damage[Menacing Attack]

Marcus Veranius

(I'm the medusa now)

Suldae Westwind: "HANG ON!" Suldae cries out as she feels the Weave shift around Ezmerelda and glimpses what's happening with the corner of her eye.

Medusa:*WISDOM
*MedusaAbility: 19 | 13

Marcus Veranius: (68 Piercing regardless)

Medusa: The Medusa takes three crossbow shots to the chest, and unhinges her jaw to hiss, baring massive fangs. Despite the menace in Marcus's eyes, she is not afraid.

Quite suddenly, her scales ripple and she becomes as transparent as glass. (Reaction to camouflage)

Medusa:

STEALTH
Medusa

Skill: 20 | 14

She becomes almost impossible to see...

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind:

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Suldae Westwind: (on Ezmerelda)

GM: (A d10, right?)

(That should help)

Suldae Westwind: (it does not clarify if its character level or bard level in the text~)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (bard level)

(sorry)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

(then d8)

GM: (Should still help)

Suldae Westwind: a question: does the 'creature you can see' requirement on the Command spell necessitate that Suldae look at the Medusa with her eyes, or is knowing her general direction and her being right there in earshot enough?

GM: (RAW it would require you to look at her)

(Since you're playing a flute and we've been rolling with sound, I'm fine with fudging it for ya)

Marcus Veranius: (Look at her tail)

GM: (Also, you can't see her right now)

Suldae Westwind: (Yeah that is also part of my question)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (she camouflaged btw guys)

GM: (Unless you roll above a 20 on perception, or have passive perception 20 or higher)

Suldae Westwind: (actually my passive perception is 20)

GM: (Hmmm)

Suldae Westwind: (coz wereraven)

GM: (Then I'd say you're good)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs her fingers along the flute, producing a commanding trill. She turns in the direction where she understands the Medusa is without attempting to focus her eyes on the faint movement she spots, but addressing it.

"Grovel," she speaks, one hand on the holy symbol on her neck. It is, in truth, more comfort than need right now - Corellon is a god of music, as well.

(I am going to go with musical prayers too if you don't mind :D it should make sense for Suldae to figure out)

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Medusa:

WISDOM
Medusa

Ability: 2

Suldae Westwind: (OH I LIKE THIS)

The Medusa becomes visible, falls to her serpentine "knees", hands flat to the floor, and bows her slithering head.

Medusa: "Please don't kill me!"

Suldae Westwind: ...This should not be as difficult as it is.

Suldae takes out the mirror from her bag. "Marcus, catch!" She tosses it to him.

EoT

The charmed serpent continues to approach the source of the delightful music.

Medusa: "Please don't kill me, I don't want to die!"

Suldae Westwind: (fuck, shoulda tossed the mirror to Ismark)

(alas, initiative order is not in-universe obvious rip)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Then I suggest you continue to GROVEL."

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Medusa:

WISDOM
Medusa

Ability: 16

Sulda Westwind: (mental high five from Sulda)

GM: (To keep her trapped next round too)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wuhu for chain cc)

Medusa: "I WILL! I WILL!"

"Please don't kill me, please don't kill me, I have babies!"

"I'm under an awful curse!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark pointedly moves far away.

The Giant Badgers continue to burrow, reaching 120 feet in depth.

Sulda Westwind: Babies, Sulda wonders, glancing at the snake moving in her direction.

Rictavio: Rictavio's glasses flash as he looks at the kneeling serpent-woman.

His blade turns slowly in her direction, as though he is contemplating his action carefully.

Sulda Westwind: (our favorite loose cannon)

(okay at least hes contemplating lmao)

Rictavio: Rictavio sheathes his sword, and approaches her.

He places a hand upon her head.

Sulda Westwind: (Marcus has a mirror)

(Suldae tossed it to him)

Rictavio: "I absolve you from your curse."

Suldae Westwind: (ooooooooo)

Rictavio:

Remove Curse

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

At your touch, all curses affecting one creature or object end. If the object is a cursed magic item, its curse remains, but the spell breaks its owner's attunement to the object so it can be removed or discarded.

The spell has no effect.

Medusa: The Medusa begins to weep black, oily tears.

"Alas, no simple spell can break my curse!"

"I am bound by the will of Baba Lysaga!"

Rictavio: "Ah, well. In that case, you're in luck. We are going to kill her. Will that free you?"

Medusa: The Medusa shakes her head, still sobbing pitifully.

"Alas, no. As long as she has my soul, I will be hers to command."

"She keeps it in a chest. She guards it jealously. For all your might, I do not think you will be able to take it from her."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can henry hear this?)

GM: (Yes)

The serpent in the burrow continues to work its way deeper into the tunnel.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

CONSTITUTION

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Ability: 14

Ezmerelda manages to shake off the effects of the Medusa's gaze.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Oh, thank the gods."

"I was sure I was going to be the prettiest statue in this garden!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't normally condone grave robbing but eh well how about we grave robb the Hag" Henry yells over

Marcus Veranius looks to Ezmerelda with a sigh of relief. He wasn't looking forward to marrying a sculpture

Suldae Westwind: Suldae swallows an automatic comment about how she would be. They are both otherwise involved and it does sound like flirting to her own ears.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how deep intop the burrow is that snake?)

GM: (The snake is 90 feet into the 120 foot burrow)

(At least, its head is)

(Its tail is about ten feet in)

Suldae Westwind: (l o v e l y)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Imma Moonbeam its butt)

DC14Constitution Save*6Radiant120ft. (5ft. r 40ft. h cylinder)Moonbeam

Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (the badgers are digging so there will be ground between the snake and them)
(they should be fine)

GM (GM):

CONSTITUTION
Giant Poisonous Snake

Ability: 7

CONSTITUTION
Giant Poisonous Snake

Ability: 12

The Moonbeam sears the snake's tail. There is a hiss of pain, and a popping sound as something that used to take up a lot of room suddenly takes up a lot less.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's eyebrows shoot up as she hears that.
She looks at 'her' snake.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What in the ever resplended Light"

Suldae Westwind: "Can someone try to detect magic on it in more detail? I know you already did, Ireena, but it seems there's more to be found."

"I think you should look, Henry."

Babies, huh.

Ireena Kolyana: "Does that mean some of them are... Shape-changers?"

"All of them...?"

"But a shape-changer usually reverts to their normal form upon death..."

Marcus Veranius: "That wasn't the case at the Winery..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe it depends on their affinity for the form..."

Suldae Westwind: "Could it be a curse?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I guess?"

"If the Medusa is telling the truth, it would make sense."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (could I have a Moon token plox?)

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE

Medusa

Initiative: 12

Henry of Willowsbrook: (5ft radius circle)

GM: (There ya go)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (thanks

GM: (Any additional stuff on your turn?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (EoT)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena crouches by the body of one of the serpents and begins to concentrate.

"This will take about a minute..."

"But I think Identify should tell me everything we need to know about these serpents..."

Identify*Divination 1 (ritual)Casting Time: 1 minuteRange: TouchTarget: One object that you must touch throughout the casting of the spellComponents: V, S, M (A pearl worth at least 100 gp and an owl feather)Duration: Instantaneous

You choose one object that you must touch throughout the casting of the spell. If it is a magic item or some other magic-imbued object, you learn its properties and how to use them, whether it requires attunement to use, and how many charges it has, if any. You learn whether any spells are affecting the item and what they are. If the item was created by a spell, you learn which spell created it. If you instead touch a creature throughout the casting, you learn what spells, if any, are currently affecting it.

Suldae Westwind: (thats 10 rounds)GM: (So that will take 10 rounds...)Suldae Westwind: (heh)GM: (But as long as nothing distracts her from it, she'll get there)

(Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius takes a deep breath, mind no longer clouded with worry. He holds out the mirror towards the Medusa.

Suldae Westwind: (well, charm monster lasts an hour)Marcus Veranius: "If your word is true, then we shall recover your soul. But you must first bind yourself outside Baba Lysaga's immediate control. That is my offer to you; we will return."Medusa: "I won't be free as a statue," says the Medusa, with disgust. "You lie. Just like all the others who have died here.""I don't even believe you can defeat her."Marcus Veranius: "That is my only offer. Be petrified for however long it takes to defeat her, or be dead this instant."Medusa: "Please don't kill me!"Marcus Veranius is firm.*Medusa: "Please, don't kill me..."

"If you turn me into a statue, I'll be dead just the same!"

Marcus Veranius: "You will not. My word is true; I will have you restored."

"But nothing will fix your death if you do not take this mercy."

Marcus Veranius holds out the mirror for Medusa to take Medusa: The Medusa is too busy groveling to lift a hand and take it. She clenches her eyes shut and looks away.

"No, I won't give up like that! I can't!"

"Your mercy is cruelty!"

Suldae Westwind: "It's nothing you haven't done to others."

(my turn is next)

(can I take it rn?)

(for conversational flow)

(mid Tops's turn)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is about to finish her off if you don't have an alternative solution)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We will not fight that witch with you around one way or another" Henry calls over

Suldae Westwind: (I do)

(I feel like I should at least try and I feel like it fits well before you make a decision)

Marcus Veranius readies an attack to finish off the medusa, pending Suldae's solution

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Suldae Westwind:

Suggestion

Enchantment 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't performed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

"Look, or die."

Suldae's voice fills the yard, resonating with the Weave.

Medusa:

WISDOM
Medusa

Ability: 17

Suldae Westwind: (dc 17)

(beh)

Medusa: "Even when you offer me a choice, you force me to choose as you wish. What mercy is this? What heroes are these?"

Suldae Westwind: (this unlucky medusa)

Marcus Veranius: (Advantage for being within 5 ft of a prone target)

"I'm not a hero. I'm a shoemaker."

19

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22

Piercing

Marcus's crossbow bolt punches through her skull, and the Medusa slumps forward, dead.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Goddamn, babe."

Rictavio: "Bravo."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Is it dead yet? Can I look?"

Marcus Veranius: "...there's no winning when prisoners are the guards."

[End of Reaction]

Rictavio: "For all we know, she may have been lying. My spell did not break her curse, after all."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in, then out.

"I tried, at least."

Rictavio: "A forked tongue is more than a metaphor, with such creatures."

Suldae Westwind: There's a measure of peace, in that.

Ireena Kolyana: "You did try," says Ireena.

"It was worth the effort, I think."

A charmed giant serpent slithers through the grass towards the musician who has entranced it. Ismark nearly jumps out of his skin as it stealthily glides past him.

Ismark Kolyanovich bolts through the garden, vaulting over bushes and low walls and zipping between statues to get to the moonbeam.

The Giant Badgers continue to burrow, reaching a depth of 160 feet. They have found something...

Everyone make an Arcana check.

Marcus Veranius:

19

ARCANA (0)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6

17

ARCANA (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

whoops forgot that

GM: (You too, Suldae)

Suldae Westwind:

13

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

(fucking wow)

(well its still a 13)

Ezmerelda, Ireena, Rictavio, and Ismark all look towards the middle of the garden. The Weave around Suldae is too disturbed by her recent casting for her to sense the ripple that moves through it, seeking souls. Henry and Marcus both feel it. It seems to be coming from deep in the burrow. The spell seems to be... Counting.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Did you feel that?"

Ireena Kolyana: "That felt like... Like an Alarm spell?"

"Sort of..."

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae glances around worriedly. She felt nothing, but very much takes everyone's word for it.

 Rictavio: "CALL BACK THE BADGERS! CALL THEM OUT, NOW!"

 Sulda Westwind: "Come out!" Suldae calls.

 Marcus Veranius: "WHAT ABOUT KASIMIR!?"

 Rictavio: "BRACE YOURSELVES!"

The Badgers stop their burrowing — a moment too late.

A coffin is touched. An arcane sigil of ludicrous power is triggered.

Instantly, the earth in the middle of the garden bucks as a tremendous explosive force detonates. Clods of dirt and rock rain down upon the garden as the shockwave spreads its wings. The Badgers are atomized. Ismark and Henry must both make DC 18 Dexterity saves. Everyone else must make a DC 14 Dexterity save.

 Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 2

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

 Ismark Kolyanovich:

7

DEXTERITY (3)

 Marcus Veranius:

24

DEXTERITY SAVE (10)
Marcus Veranius

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

DEXTERITY
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Ability: 22

 Rictavio:

DEXTERITY
Rictavio

Ability: 13

 Sulda Westwind:

24

DEXTERITY SAVE (7)
Sulda Westwind

 Ireena Kolyana:

4

DEXTERITY (1)

Henry and Ismark both take 34 Bludgeoning damage and are temporarily deafened by the explosion. Rictavio and Ireena are both knocked prone, taking 21 damage each and becoming temporarily deafened. The rest are able to cover their ears in time, and find cover from the blast wave.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (is this magical?)

GM: (Yes)

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY Giant Poisonous Snake <hr/> Ability: 10
--

Marcus Veranius: "NO!!!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: then only 17 damage for Henry

GM: (Have you already adjusted his HP)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 2

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(yes

He'S at 71 now)

Rictavio: "WHAT? DID YOU SAY SOMETHING?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and maintains concentration)

Ireena Kolyana: "KASIMIR!"

GM: (We are no longer in initiative order.)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae finds herself oddly calm. She'd never truly believed they would find him alive, she realized.

Not since Strahd delayed them from getting to him immediately.

Marcus Veranius: Maybe... maybe that wasn't the right coffin. The badgers couldn't have dug several hundred feet in a minute, right? It's just another trick, right?

Suldae Westwind: Perhaps there's still hope.

Or maybe not.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "AHH RADIANT DAWN MY EARS"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena runs to the edge of the smoldering crater and looks down into it.

Marcus Veranius runs for the crater

Ireena Kolyana: She turns to wave to the others. "THERE'S STILL SOMETHING HERE!"
"IT'S BURIED, BUT IT'S CLOSE TO THE SURFACE!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps within range of everyone who was hurt.
She takes out her flute and begins playing a calm, soothing melody.
First things first.

14*Healing60 feet*

Mass Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius readies to jump into the hole, short of someone stopping him

Ruptured eardrums are swiftly repaired.

Deafness fades, and hearing returns.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who all got healed?)

GM: (Everybody)

Suldae Westwind: (up to 6 people)

GM: (Already distributed it)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark accidentally steps into the Moonbeam. "Ow!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll go ahead Ok?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Be careful!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hesitates, looks at her friends who still are rattled, then keeps playing.

Ireena Kolyana: "There may be more spells."

Suldae Westwind: She then steps back to keep an eye on the snake.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves it aside for the time being

Suldae Westwind:

5

Higher Level Cast

11*Healing60 feet*

Mass Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

GM: (You should be able to control the moon symbol, Henry)

Suldae Westwind: (more healing for everyone who got hurt)
(except for the snake, alas)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nope)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae then starts playing again. The snake is dangerous, but she has something it wants.

GM: (Try it now)

The snake approaches her like a tame kitten.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (back at 101hp) "Anybody able to teel me if I'm about to triiger another trap?"

Anyone with a Passive Perception score greater than 19 hears a strange whizzing sound from the above and to the east.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena reaches out to the Weave, attempting to feel the magic in the area.

It takes a few seconds...

Marcus Veranius: "Well, now she knows we're here for sure!"

Ireena Kolyana:

Detect Magic

Divination 1 (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, you sense the presence of magic within 30 feet of you. If you sense magic in this way, you can use your action to see a faint aura around any visible creature or object in the area that bears magic, and you learn its school of magic, if any. The spell can penetrate most barriers, but it is blocked by 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt.

"There's definitely more magic down there... I see a coffin under the dirt. It's... It's coated in sygils."

"We only triggered one..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Off how many?" Henry asks unsure if he really wants to know the answer

Ireena Kolyana: "Hundreds..."

"This must have taken years to create."

"It can't have been meant for Kasimir..."

Marcus Veranius: "...Strahd maybe?"

"That'd be a good way of keeping someone off of Strahd."

Ireena Kolyana: "I suppose, if he ever wanted to rest for a while..."

"Or if he needed to be sure that a particularly dangerous enemy couldn't get to him..."

Marcus Veranius: "Given that the coffin is untouched, it'd make a sufficiently sturdy bunker."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay so, what are WE gonna do about it now?"

Marcus Veranius: "There's gotta be a way to break more than one of these at a time."

Ireena Kolyana: "I've got a really dumb idea."

"Rope trick."

"The sigils should break after they've been triggered."

"But we have to trigger all of them."

"There are probably smarter solutions."

Marcus Veranius: "Would... would it be possible to levitate the coffin without triggering the sigils? I have an even worse idea."

Rictavio: "Perhaps they can be dispelled?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I have Floating Disc. That could work to levitate it. But I'd have to get close."

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena. Can I ask you to try with the snake again?" Suldae ask tensely, taking a momentary breather from playing.

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, right."

Ireena Kolyana turns towards the charmed snake and touches it with one hand, concentrating.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus what was your Idea?2

"

Marcus Veranius: "What if we threw the coffin at Baba Lysaga?"

Suldae Westwind: Hope is cruel. Suldae keeps playing, concentrating on doing what she can think of right now.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If you were to make a coffin full of hundreds of magical traps how dumb would you have to be to make it so they could blow up in your own face ...literally" Henry asks Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes anotehr breather from playing.

"So can we verify whether Kasimir is there rith now?"

Marcus Veranius: "Exactly. If redirected at its creator, she'd either die or be forced to trigger its failsafe."

Suldae Westwind: (...funny and unfortunate thing about Hiere's absence)

(thats why i asked someone else to play Suldae in my absence for yalls i)

Marcus Veranius: "Either of which solves our problem."

Ireena Kolyana: "That's a good idea, I... think... But Floating Disc doesn't work like that. We'd have to use Telekinesis or Catapult, neither of which are in my repertoire."

"Say, where did the wizard with the funny hat go?"

"I could have sworn he was with us..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay i get where your coming from but what if they don't even trigger around her? besides us not being able to touch or probably even get near the damn thing"

Marcus Veranius: "Hiere can animate the coffin like those barrels and return the coffin to its maker."

Suldae Westwind: "I repeat again."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah wait where is that clown?2

Suldae Westwind: "Can we tell if Kasimir is there?"

Marcus Veranius: "I... have Locate Object still."

(Has it been 10 minutes about?)

Suldae Westwind: "And can we be sure the coffin can withstand all of them triggering?"

(Marcus, have you been concentrating on it?)

Ireena Kolyana: "Whether it was meant to contain Strahd or to protect him, it's designed to withstand the effects of the sygils. That much is clear."

Marcus Veranius: (...probably? I dont see why he wouldn't be concentrating on the Kasimir Locator)

GM: (Marcus would sense that Kasimir's belongings are inside the coffin.)

Marcus Veranius: "His belongings are inside the coffin at the very least."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Uh what are we gonna do about the remaining snake by the way?2

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Stand back and have it touch the coffin?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Ok," says Ireena, after a long moment of concentrating on the snake. "There are several spells in effect on this snake. First off, it's not a snake. It's a Medusa who has taken this form by magical means. Second off, it's not a Medusa in the traditional sense of the word. It seems like it was once an ordinary human being, but it has been put under a profoundly powerful curse..."

Suldae Westwind: "A nesting doll," Suldae says blandly. "Wonderful."

"Any ideas on what to do about that?"

"I still don't want to harm it, if there's another way."

Ireena Kolyana: "Not really..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Kill the Witch" Henry says blandly and automatically

Suldae Westwind: "Hmm, I have an idea."

She plays another trill of the flute and motions for Ireena to lean to her to hear a whisper.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ought to solve a lot of problems"

Suldae Westwind: "A moonbeam from Henry and Marcus's mirror, surprise it and it might work"

"Yes, Henry, but are you sure we can do that within the hour?"

Ireena Kolyana: "That could work..."

Make a Perception Check.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can end the snake form for now"

23

PERCEPTION (4)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry, out of the corner of his eye, catches sight of something flashing in the air directly above the party. A large glass bottle seems to be falling through the fog — very quickly — directly above him.

Suldae Westwind:

14

PERCEPTION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae does not notice it.

Marcus Veranius:

11

PERCEPTION (10)
Marcus Veranius

(lucky)

21

PERCEPTION (10)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus spots it as well.

Suldae Westwind: (our passive perception is 20)

(im p sure this is the exact case passive perception is for)

Marcus Veranius: "SHIT, SHE STOLE OUR PLAN!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "SCATTER!"

Marcus Veranius attempts to shoot the bottle while it's still high in the air

Marcus Veranius:

24

120

Clockwork Crossbow (+13)
Marcus Veranius

13*PiercingSuldae Westwind:*(Flute) GustTransmutation CantripCasting Time: 1 ActionRange: 30 ftComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

Suldae alters the melody of the flute.

The Crossbow bolt strikes the gigantic bottle of Alchemist's Fire, which bursts into a dramatic nova of falling, flaming liquid.

Which is instantly buffeted away from the party by Suldae's wind.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "that could have been real ugly"

Liquid flame falls all around the party, encircling them in an inferno of unnatural heat.

Suldae Westwind: "...Marcus. I appreciate your reflexes. But."

Above, there is an insane cackle.

Suldae Westwind: "You know what would have worked better?"

"If you did not do that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Correction it is real ugly"

Suldae Westwind: This is hard to make out, as Suldae mutters it in between blowing into the flute. She keeps playing to keep the fire away from them.

She just feels it really needs saying.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ez how long would you reckon this much will burn for"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Half an hour, maybe more..."

"WATCH OUT!"

Two more bottles are now falling.

Suldae Westwind:

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

The wind is still poofing around at the flute's command.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "ISmark grab Ric and door out rest of you FLY!"

Suldae Westwind: (I know it says one object, but if ther'es two bottles...)

(Like if theyre together)

(a single blast of wind should affect both equally)

GM: (A gallon of oil weighs about 8 pounds)

(Alchemist's Fire is essentially a kind of oil, so the weight is about the same)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Could we leave The Ring Of Fire?)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Ireena Kolyana: "SULDAE, MAGE HAND!"

Marcus Veranius: "SAFETY HUT!"

Ireena reaches skyward and a spectral hand shoots from her palm, grasping one of the falling bottles.

Suldae Westwind: "I DONT FUCKING HAVE IT" Suldae would say if she wasn't too busy casting something else she is still thinking of what give me a second

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ric and ismark can DD out if need be and I have Misty step so all can leave the circle)

Suldae Westwind: (oh yeah good)
"Get OUT!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark grabs Ireena and instantly vanishes in a blast of crimson smoke, taking her with him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shifts and flies up
Ireena can also fly but a protective brother's instincts are understandable.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "She can fly you godsdamn ugh"

Marcus Veranius does the same

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda reaches skyward, and a mage hand shoots from her hand as well, catching the second falling bottle just in time.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (dimensions of the fire ring width and height?)

The Ring of Fire is now 70 feet in diameter and a towering 30 feet in height.

Marcus Veranius: (The hole is 170 ft down. Ring ought to be crossable there)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (welp there goes my 'chuck Ricky over the fire plan')

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grabs Rictavio's hand.
She glances at Ezmerelda.
(Hybrid forms have wings AND arms by earlier rulings)
(we can fly and do shit, right?)

Ezmerelda carefully begins to lower the bottle.

A faint ticking sound is coming from it...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's gaze shifts to Marcus.
"CHUCK IT!"
she says at the same time as glowering at Marcus suggestively.
Multitasking!

Ezmerelda d'Avenir shifts into hybrid form and flies over the flames, still clinging to the bottle with her mage hand.

Marcus Veranius hurls it as far as he can (which I think is 60 ft thrown)

Suldae Westwind: "MARCUS EZME SOMEONE HELP ME FUCKING CARRY HIM"

Marcus Veranius: "I GOT THE BOMBS OR THE PALADIN! TAKE YOUR PICK!"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir begins moving the bottle north, towards the mansion. It is still ticking.

Ireena Kolyana moves her bottle in the same direction, taking it away from the party.

Marcus Veranius: Oh, Marcus doesnt have either. He lifts with Suldae

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

Suldae Westwind: Together they fly Rictavio over the fire.

(there he is lmao)

(couldnt see him bc of the hp bar)

(why are we going in different directions)

The charmed serpent, still in the ring of fire, looks around — confused.

Marcus Veranius: (Because the fire ring is lower to the south cause of the crater)

It slithers towards the center of the ring.

Suldae Westwind: "GO THROUGH THE CRATER!" Suldae yells to it, feeling momentarily bad for it even though it's Evil.

The flames are thinner on the sloping walls of the crater, but they still burn with fierce intensity, although there is nothing but earth and stone to burn. The serpent, trusting Suldae, slithers that way.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shifts the Moonbeam cylinder up where the jugs came from hoping to clip something before it disapateds dissipates

The beam of Moonlight strives to reach whatever is above the party, but with the fog and the distance, it is unable to get near. (Moonbeam is 40 feet in height, she's floating higher than that)

(Which kind of doesn't make a lot of sense, since the visual I have of Moonbeam is a literal beam of moonlight descending from on high)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can't lift it of the ground can I huh?)

(But a 40 foot cylinder, apparently)

GM: (It just says "a point within range")

(So there's no reason that couldn't be in the air, same as a fireball)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (floating cylinder time)

GM: (Which means you could hypothetically get it to reach as high as 160 feet)

Henry of Willowsbrook: for however much is left of the 1 min concentraion time

Suldae Westwind: (Maybe it's a beam reaching not from the skye but like through a portal)
(and you gotta move the portal)

GM: (That visual works for me)

(We will allow the dice to decide this)

(There is a 75% chance that the moonbeam does not touch her, since she is a moving target that you cannot see)

Suldae Westwind: oh btw

Suldae looks up

Henry of Willowsbrook: (What should I roll?)

GM: (So on a 25 or lower on a d100 roll, it hits her)

Suldae sees thick fog above the party, blanketing the sky completely.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (K here goes)

rolling d100

(18)

= 18

Suldae Westwind: (BOOM)

(I wish I had stronger airbending spells lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry casts Searchlight apparently)

The Moonbeam moves through the Fog, illuminating it as it goes. It manages to center upon something — something huge, and round, and gleaming almost like the moon. It seems to be a gigantic skull.

GM: (Roll damage)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DC14

Constitution Save

13
Radiant

120ft. (5ft. r 40ft. h cylinder)

Moonbeam

Henry of Willowsbrook

The holy light gleams upon the skull, searing its surface and blistering the bone.

With a gleeful cackle, the unseen pilot of this strange vehicle urges it to move.

It moves with tremendous speed, zooming away to the east.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "FOUND YOU YOU DAMN BITCH!"

Baba Lysaga: "Oh my, what a foul-mouthed young man!"

Make a Constitution saving throw.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21 + 2

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook

(pass?)

Baba Lysaga: 63

Henry feels a power move over him. He takes 31.5 points of necrotic damage.

(Which is probably reduced by his features)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I just got finger of death didn't I?)

(I take 15)

"GAH_HAHAHAH THAT ALL YOU CAN DO YOU DAMN HAG"

Baba Lysaga: With these words and this curse, Baba Lysaga zooms off into the mist, vanishing completely into its swirling white.

Simultaneously, both gallons of Alchemist's Fire explode. Luckily, they are far from the party.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays a sing-song prayer that does not in any way express her exasperation.

Goodberry

Transmutation 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: See text

Components: V, S, M (A sprig of mistletoe)

Duration: Instantaneous

Up to ten berries appear in your hand and are infused with magic for the duration. A creature can use its action to eat one berry. Eating a berry restores 4 hit points, and the berry provides enough nourishment to sustain a creature for one day. The berries lose their potency if they have not been consumed within 24 hours of the casting of this spell.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell at a higher level, the berry restores 1 more hit point for each level above 1st.

Ten bananas appear in the air in front of her and she snatches them up.

Marcus Veranius scowls in frustration. This damnable fog was the bane of his bow!

Suldae Westwind: Suldae walks around the party distributing bananas.

Ireena Kolyana: "Thank you."

Suldae Westwind: 10 times 4hp

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ooh, I love bananas!"

Rictavio: "What a strange-looking fruit!"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Now what?"

Suldae Westwind: No less than three bananas go to Henry.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Do we just wait for her to come back and bomb the hell out of us again?"

Suldae Westwind: "No," Suldae says, looking into the circle. How's the serpent?

Marcus Veranius: "Given how many runes were on that coffin, I'd say she might be the only one with more alchemist fire than you do Dearest."

The Serpent is curled up under a large rock which was exposed by the explosion. It has not yet worked up the courage to attempt to cross the circle of liquid flame.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I burn my Channel divinity to get a 1st level spell back)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I mean, she can't have an unlimited quantity."

"But I, for one, would prefer not to tax her reserves."

"Especially since they could be useful to us, if we can get them after she's dead."

Marcus Veranius: "How many bottles did you have, Ez?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I had a thousand."

"I was well prepared."

Marcus Veranius: "Then let's assume that much at the minimum."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how much healing was a banana again?)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Incidentally, that was a lot of money. It's lucky killing ancient vampires is such a lucrative business, or I would be holding you in my debt."

Suldae Westwind: 4hp each

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm sure you could find some... Interesting... Ways to repay me."

Marcus Veranius: "Well you've got my heart already. But that's a payment plan we can work on later."

Suldae Westwind: "Could you two keep to a private room?" Suldae says, wrapping herself up obviously around Ireena.

But quietly, which is an advantage.

*keep it

(best hypocrisy is blatant hypocrisy)

Rictavio: "Come on, focus. Kasimir still needs our help."

"You... You young people."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Henry, I'm single. Are you single?"

Suldae Westwind: "Mhm." Suldae looks into the crater. Some of the fire would have landed on the sigils, but didnt' activate it?

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Just feeling a bit left out, is all."

It seems the sigils are activated only by living beings.

Suldae Westwind: Well.

A curious, but understandable stipulation. An undead creature is unlikely to trigger it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what are we gonna do about that" Henry says around the three bananas Suldae had handed him "Well no but techincally yes Ismark"

Suldae Westwind: Can the sigils be disrupted by physical damage?

Marcus Veranius: "...I REALLY hate to push the subject, but do you think Ismark might be able to open the coffin without worry?"

Suldae Westwind:

20

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

"There are easier ways."

The sigils cannot be disrupted by physical damage.

Suldae Westwind: "It's possible a charmed object can work."

"...assuming I can come up with something for it to do."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we have an undead buddy is what the Dm is trying to signal here)

Suldae Westwind: "But the same holds for Ismark."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Sorry, what are we wanting me to do?"

Suldae Westwind: "Exactly. I have no idea."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Guys, dying isn't fun."

Marcus Veranius: "If it was meant for an undead like Strahd to open, a Revenant might have just as much ease."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks to the snake..

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh."

"It might also blast me to a fine powder."

Suldae Westwind: "Stay there for the moment," she says after some hesitation.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "And then I'd have to find another corpse to... To... To come back in."

Suldae Westwind: "The fire might die down with time."

"Yeah let's keep that to a backup backup backup plan."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I would estimate another twenty minutes on that, at the very least."

"Alchemist's fire burns for a long, long time, especially in large quantities."

Suldae Westwind: "Let's assume that one way or another we CAN touch it. What do we actually do?"

Marcus Veranius: "...open it?"

Suldae Westwind: "Well, there's one way to check if it's locked."

There is a large and obvious padlock on one side of the coffin.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your valliant sacrifice will be remembered well Ismark"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out a ball of string.

"Shut up," Suldae says gently.

Marcus Veranius: "We aren't trading Ismark for Kasimir."

"Everyone makes it out."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Aw, shucks. If you think it's valiant, then I'm all for it."

Suldae Westwind:

Tiny Servant

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature

Components: V, S

You touch one Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature. The target animates and sprouts little arms and legs, becoming a creature under your control until the spell ends or the creature drops to 0 hit points. See the stat block for its statistics.

As a bonus action, you can mentally command the creature if it is within 120 feet of you. (If you control multiple creatures with this spell, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one.) You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a simple, general command, such as to fetch a key, stand watch, or stack some books. If you issue no commands, the servant does nothing other than defend itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the servant continues to follow that order until its task is complete.

When the creature drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original form, and any remaining damage carries over to that form.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can animate two additional objects for each slot level above 3rd.

A length of string of about 10cm sprouts arms and legs.

Suldae sends it down to try and tinker with the padlock from the inside.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I was mostly joking unless he reall wants to try it"

Suldae Westwind: "Hopefully my tiny servant can manage it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (is the coffin in our outside the Johnny Cash song?)

The tiny string-being descends into the crater and approaches the flames currently covering the majority of the coffin. It is able to access the padlock without touching the fire.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae commands it to try to unlock it.

It's kind of like a tiny sentient lockpick.

The string works its way into the mechanism and struggles to affect it in any meaningful way...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae contemplates the situation.

She cuts off two more lengths of string.

Tiny Servant

Transmutation 4

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature

Components: V, S

You touch one Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature. The target animates and sprouts little arms and legs, becoming a creature under your control until the spell ends or the creature drops to 0 hit points. See the stat block for its statistics.

As a bonus action, you can mentally command the creature if it is within 120 feet of you. (If you control multiple creatures with this spell, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one.) You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a simple, general command, such as to fetch a key, stand watch, or stack some books. If you issue no commands, the servant does nothing other than defend itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the servant continues to follow that order until its task is complete.

When the creature drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original form, and any remaining damage carries over to that form.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can animate two additional objects for each slot level above 3rd.

*three more lengths of string

There are now four tiny servants trying to unlock the padlock.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "how about something sturdie"

Marcus Veranius: "If an explosion won't break that lock, we probably won't be able to either."

Suldae Westwind: "It could be magically protected against an explosion"

By the power of four strings combined, the lock's keyhole is now full of string.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "String doesn't make for great keys in my experience)

"

Suldae Westwind: It sprouts ARMS AND LEGS

and has Str 4

The lock's keyhole is now full of ludicrously weak strings with arms and legs.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Maybe a bit of wire?"

Suldae Westwind: "Well, that doesn't work," Suldae says after it becomes clear it doesn't, and calls the strings back.

"Won't make a difference."

"You can push, drag, or lift a weight in pounds up to twice your carrying capacity (or 30 times your Strength score)."

(This is a quote from the rules)

(Not Suldae saying this)

(sorry)

Ismark Kolyanovich: 600

120

GM: (So... A creature with Strength 4 can move 120 pounds)

Suldae Westwind: (mhm)

Marcus Veranius: "Can we animate the lock to unlock itself?"

Suldae Westwind: (and theres four of them)

"No, it cannot be attached to anything else"

"And I cannot animate the whole coffin."

GM: (For a tiny creature the weight is halved)

Suldae Westwind: (fair)

GM: (But that's still 60 pounds)

(Which is insane)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Also she seems to need to touch it and well we established thats a bad Idea

Suldae Westwind: (its 5e RAW)

(i do not insist on it if theres a saner version)

(my point is more that 4str is in fact noticable)

(and 4x4str is also noticable)

"Yes, also what Henry said," Suldae says, cringing.

She got some feedback from the badgers.

It seems the strings are not quite coherent enough to work the complex mechanism of this well-made lock. It may not be a matter of strength.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (would they be strong enough to break it open if I where to give them a crowbar)

GM: (It is highly unlikely)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (i figured)

GM: (It's possible)

(But it's not likely)

Suldae Westwind: (coherent?)

GM: (They would need to work together and figure out the mechanism and pick the lock)

Marcus Veranius: (I can't get a team of 6 to push the cart in Overwatch. How's a team of 4 string pieces gunna pick a lock?)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae can coordinate them to a degree)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Could Marcus shoot the Lock open? or would that blow us all to Kingdom come?"

Suldae Westwind: "That is highly unlikely to work"

(rip, 2 int)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Cause we would blow up? Or because the shoot won't work?"

GM: (Suldae can command them, but they have their own stats)

Marcus Veranius: (That's two int higher than most of the randos I play overwatch with)

Suldae Westwind: "Hmm. If I could draw a scheme of the lock, then figure out how to open it, then command them to do that specifically..."

(boom)

(I refuse to give up on the tiny servant lockpick idea unless anyone has a better one)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (doesn't Marcus have thieves tool prof?)

GM: (He does! He would have to get close to use them, however)

Suldae Westwind: "Is anyone here an expert on lockpicking? Ismark, you wouldn't happen to be? Not that there's a particular reason I'm asking you in specific."

Marcus Veranius: "Have your servants check the lock for arcane runes. I'll risk it for Kasimir."

"It's only fair. He did the same to deliver a message for us."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae commands the servants to check the locks for arcane runes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (give lock pick to the tiny servants and have Marcus relay instructions)

Suldae Westwind: (Marcus would need feedback to do that)

GM: (-4 Arcana)

The Strings detect no arcane sigils on the lock.

Marcus Veranius: (It'd be perception to spot a visible sigil, wouldn't it?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae commands the servants to check the lock for any ink or embossing.
Or any continuous line-like changes in the surfaces at all.

Marcus Veranius starts flying down towards the coffin lock

Marcus Veranius: (assuming he's been given the clear)

Suldae Westwind: "Wait!"

(16 Perception)

Suldae Westwind: No, he has not

The Strings do embossed lines and engravings.

Marcus Veranius: (He waits to be given the go-ahead)

Do detect*

Suldae Westwind: "There are absolutely arcane runes on the lock. Do not."

Marcus Veranius stops

Suldae Westwind: Just in case, Suldae commands the servants to check for any gap between the coffin and its lid that a string could possibly fit into.

Not that that would help much.

Although...

it could.

If.

The coffin appears to be hermetically sealed...

There is no gap — none whatsoever.

Ireena Kolyana: "Damn, I wish I had learned Dispel Magic."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey, I've got a dumb idea."

Suldae Westwind: "Rictavio, anyone?"

"What is it?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Dimension Door. I'd have to do it perfectly, but as long as there's enough room inside the coffin for me to teleport in, I could get him out."

Suldae Westwind: "Coud you Dismension Door into the-"

"That is the exact thing I was thinking of"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I proposed that excat thing last session lol)

Marcus Veranius: "Do we have something to shrink Ismark? It was pretty cramped in there according to our scrying earlier."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "If I could see inside the coffin, it would work better."

"It seemed risky before, and it's still risky, obviously, especially if there are traps to prevent just such an attempt. But now that I think about it, it's not a terrible idea. The coffin is a lot bigger than I would have thought."

Suldae Westwind: "Is there a variation of Polymorph that-"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait does Ismark have 2 casts in him still?)

Suldae Westwind: "Hmm. If we turn you into a pixie, could you still get him out?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You can't cast when shapeshifted I believe right?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Into a what now?"

Suldae Westwind: (Also, can Polymorph do that, or is it beast-only?)

"A kind of creature I've read about. They are tiny."

"No, it probably couldnt work in the first place."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I... I think I would prefer to avoid turning into anything."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Polymorph is beast only and he couldn't cast Dimension door while transformed not to mention Dimension doors size limitation for taking a passenger)

"Ismark could you go in and out right now? Assuming it would work"

Suldae Westwind: "Right. Ireena, can you Message Kasimir inside that?"

"Huh, wait. If he's tracing, perhaps I could..."

"No, he's an elf. It won't work"

*transing

"It won't work with trance"

Ireena Kolyana: "I can use Sending to communicate with him."

"What would you like me to say?"

Suldae Westwind: "That he should press against one wall. We, uh, need to figure out a way to determine which"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is the coffin laying flator is it tilted?)

Suldae Westwind: (OH GOOD Q)

GM: (The coffin is laying flat, at the exact center of the bottom of the crater)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Damnit

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, could you cast your floating disk spell to tilt it?"

"Alternatively, could we make it easier and just - Ismark, can you try to do it as is?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I can try, but if it doesn't work, we'll have wasted our only shot. I only have enough left in me to cast the spell twice."

Ireena Kolyana: "I can tilt it, but I'd have to get within 30 feet."

Suldae Westwind: "You can fly"

"I'm pretty sure the runes did not trigger before they touched it."

Ireena Kolyana: "Alright, I'll try it."

Ireena Kolyana shifts into hybrid form and flies down into the crater. Hovering 30 feet above it, she casts Floating Disc. The coffin tilts as desired.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns into hybrid form as well to go with Ireena.

"Now if you can Send for him to curl up into a ball at the bottom probably?"

Ireena Kolyana: *"Kasimir. We are here to save you! Curl up at the bottom of the coffin, and cast Light!" (18 words. Anything you want to say with the remaining 7 words?)

Suldae Westwind: (The message seems perfect to Suldae)

Marcus hears the whizzing of a familiar floating skull...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ismark if this works I will do you any favor you ask of me with in reason"
Henry says to encourage the nobelborn

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh my, how kinky."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels like he might regret that.

Ismark Kolyanovich vanishes with a blast of crimson smoke.

Ismark Kolyanovich does not, immediately, reappear.

Marcus Veranius readies his bow

Marcus Veranius: "We're running out of time..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is definitely not freaking out.

Ireena Kolyana: "Ismark, quit fucking around!"

Suldae Westwind: She's hovering close to Ireena, ready to... protect her in any way it takes, if anything.

Marcus hears the whizzing of the floating skull, moving into position directly above the party.

Marcus Veranius: "Right then."

Marcus Veranius says his oathbow chant and begins firing arrows directly above

Marcus Veranius:

22

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

15

Bonus Damage/Piercing

22

Piercing wrong weapon)

20

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)
(+7)
Marcus Veranius

18

Bonus Damage/Piercing

20

Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: Suldae drags Ireena out of the crater.

Marcus Veranius:

25

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

13

Bonus Damage/Piercing

18

Magical Piercing

23

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

15Bonus Damage/Bonus
Damage/Piercing24

Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: While she's at it, she picks up the snake and moves it outside.

Assuming she can lift it

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the snake is Elephant eating big ... IO would assume no)Marcus Veranius: "We need a new plan, now!"Suldae Westwind: (Snakes tend to be long and thin)

(Relatively to length)

(Suldae gives it a valiant try, at least)

Four arrows fall back to earth, tips broken. It looks as though they struck some kind of completely immovable object...

Henry of Willowsbrook: (form does very little to weight)Suldae Westwind: (yes but length:mass ratio depends on shape)

Suldae is able to lift a ten-foot-long portion of the 80-foot-long snake, and move it outside. The rest of the snake sort of... Flops along the ground.

With Ireena's help, they are able to lift the snake above the flames — just barely — and get it out of the circle of fire.

Ireena Kolyana: "ISMARK GODSDAMMIT HURRY UP!"Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus the moment she tries to attack us shoot her I doubt she can hit us while protecting herself...well I hope she can't"Suldae Westwind: Suldae flies up, looking for the attacker.

CLANK. A massive iron cauldron spontaneously appears near the coffin and lands heavily.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...oh I'm gonna hate this aren't I" Henry grunts eyeing the cauldron

Suldae Westwind: okay so this is not the greatest moment to cliffhanger the session on but its nearly 11pm

Marcus Veranius: "I'm going up to kill her ride. Smash the lock, hex the lock, plead with the lock. Do SOMETHING!"

Suldae Westwind: and tomorrow is monday)=

Suldae, rising into the fog, suddenly finds herself face-to-face with what seems like a huge wall of glass in the mist.

She recognizes it as a Wall of Force.

GM: (We can end the session here)

(It's a good cliffhanger)

Suldae Westwind: (how is the wall oriented?)

(yeah it is)

love yall E> E> E>

GM: (It is horizontally oriented, making a barrier between the ground and her — assuming she is still above it.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (probably parralel to the ground)

GM: (Thank you all for playing! This was a fun session, and an especially fun session to get back to this campaign in.)

Suldae Westwind: (wait, it's between the ground and her? while she's flying up?)

Marcus Veranius: (How'd she send a cauldron through it if it blocks off ethereal as well as physical?)

GM: (She didn't send the cauldron, she summoned the cauldron.)

Marcus Veranius: (Oof)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well Good Game Everyone)

Suldae Westwind: (yasss)

Marcus Veranius: (Wouldn't Wall of Force also block summoning if she doesn't have direct line of sight? Glass blocks magic)

Suldae Westwind: (not if she moved to the side of it)

GM: (This is also her lair, technically)

Suldae Westwind: (if its flat then it has boundaries)

(is it flat?)

GM: (It is flat)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

(10 10x10 panels)

"POOF!" Ismark and Kasimir both appear nearby. Both of them take a huge, gasping breath of air, and fall to their knees, sucking in the fresh oxygen.

GM (GM): Good morning all!

Now, where were we...

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Sorry about the delay," says Ismark.

Marcus Veranius:

(<https://media1.tenor.com/images/e9adf53122215f27381c51a5f4777ee3/tenor.gif>)

"THERE IS FIRE EVERYWHERE! WE NEED TO REGROUP!"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seems weak. He is covered in bruises and cuts. It looks as though Baba Yaga tortured him for a while before locking him up, and he has not had time to recover.

"You... Came for me...!?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well shit's fucked but it kinda was before you did your thing Izzy so no problem here hi Kaismir how are you" Henry says with affected calm

Kasimir Velikov: "You fools! Baba Lysaga will kill us all!"

Marcus Veranius: "Good news! That was her plan BEFORE we came here!"

Marcus Veranius moves to help Ismark in carrying Kasimir

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Should we retreat?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark helps Marcus carry Kasimir.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks closely at the cauldron which has spontaneously appeared on the battlefield.

Marcus Veranius: "Yes! Very much! Reunion can happen when we aren't being lit on fire!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What? NO! We have her right where we want her, lording over us with all the aces up her sleeves" Henry says "No way she can beat us now!"

Ireena Kolyana:

13

ARCANA (2)

"This cauldron...! It's an opening portal!"

"Something's about to come through!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Of cause it is why couldn't it be just soup for once I miss vegetable soup"

Rictavio: "I am genuinely beginning to dislike this old lady."

Marcus Veranius is not in the mood for reinforcements

Marcus Veranius: "I'm gunna mess with the recipe then!"

Marcus Veranius reaches for his pocket, uncorking a vial of holy water and hurling it towards the cauldron. Maybe, just maybe, it might be enough to sabotage the brew in their favor

Marcus Veranius:

26

Thrown Object (+12)
Marcus Veranius

20

*Bonus Damage/Bonus
Damage/Piercing*

(Ignore the damage. I forgot to turn off my attack mods)

Rictavio:

(<https://media.giphy.com>

/media/GQnsaAWZ8ty00/giphy.gif)

The vial of holy water explodes inside the cauldron, and the scream of ten thousand demons echoes over the marsh. The cauldron sizzles and seethes, and suddenly its sides split, and greenish, crackling liquid gushes out, searing the grass and blackening the earth. It puddles outward, inert. Baba Yaga's summoning potion has failed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well lets get moving then my lovelies our dear host doesn't seem inclined to show us her face even after we took time out of our day to come see her" Henry says with fake cheer

Baba Lysaga: "YOU BRATS! I SPENT AGES ON THAT POTION!"

"Oh, I'll have your skins for a handbag and your spines for a chair!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "EAT SHIT" he yells upwards

Marcus Veranius: "You look like you spent ages on it!"

Liliet (Suldae): While all this happening, Suldae navigates her way around the force pane

Baba Lysaga: There is a faint whizzing sound as Baba Lysaga's curious vehicle zooms off into the mist, headed east. Within a second or two, she is completely out of sight and hearing.

Liliet (Suldae): which she knows is limited in size okay too late

Suldae manages to get around the force plane a moment before it dissipates.

She sees Baba Lysaga's vehicle, and she is not far behind.

Suldae Westwind: Realizing she's late, Suldae lands.

Marcus Veranius: "Right then. Let's not be here when she brings Brew Number 5."

Suldae Westwind: ooh can we wait a minute so i can think? please?

like just pause the dialogue

a split second decision is being made

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And 6,7,8,and 10" henry says "9 might just be alright" he jokes

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows Baba Lysaga at the top speed her feathery wings can muster

Baba Lysaga's flying skull moves with a speed few mortal creatures could match. Every six seconds it is 80 feet farther than it was a moment ago.

Suldae would soon begin to lose her, if not for the lucky fact that Baba Lysaga is not going far. In the middle of the marsh, she begins to descend...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is in raven form, and tries to stay out of immediate sightline as she follows.

GM: (Roll stealth with advantage.)

Suldae Westwind:

19

24

STEALTH (4)
Suldae Westwind

Unseen, Suldae descends into the fog...

She sees what appears to be the stump of an old tree, standing on four roots. The top half of the stump has been made into an ugly hut, from which an eery light comes.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does a flyby looking inside

GM: (Actually, let me redo that description real quick -- there's an official one)

Someone has built a ramshackle wooden hut on the stump of what was once an enormous tree. The rotting roots of the stump thrust up from the mire like the legs of a gigantic spider.

An open doorway is visible on one side of the hut, beneath which floats the upside-down, hollowed-out skull of a giant. Flanking the hut's doorway are two iron cages that dangle like hideous ornaments from the eaves. Scores of ravens are trapped in each one. They squawk and flutter their wings excitedly as you approach.

The ravens are screaming, and Suldae can hear them. "Run away! Run away!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how far away are Baba and Suldae from us now?)

Peering through the window during her flyby, Suldae sees that the hut is fifteen feet on a side and packed with old furniture, including a wooden cot, a wicker cabinet, a slender wardrobe, a wooden table, a stool, a barrel-topped wooden chest reinforced with brass bands, and an iron tub stained with blood. In the middle of the room is a ghastly wooden crib with a small, angelic child sitting in it. All the furnishings except for the crib are bolted to the floor. Beneath the crib, green light seeps up through cracks between the rotting floorboards.

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus does NOT have the resources to take on Baba Lysaga until we take a short rest)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae appreciates the thought of the ravens and will take that under advisement)

GM: (Suldae and Baba Lysaga are about 600 feet away)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae really wishes she had Sending, OR thought to invite Ireena along.

Suldae examines the cages as she flies by. How difficult would it be to break them so the ravens can leave?

The cages are not locked by any visible lock, but Suldae senses a powerful magical binding spell on each. It seems it would take great force, or else magical means.

GM: (brb)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers her options. What's the worst thing that can happen? Well, obviously, Baba Lysaga killing her. Although, the environment is conducive to hiding, and she does have a couple of tricks up her sleeve...

She turns into hybrid form at an angle that will make her invisible from the hut, and plays a short prayer on the flute.

DC14

Dexterity Save

11

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

While she has time, she also does a second one.

DC14

Dexterity Save

9

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

With hope, this will be enough to disrupt the enchantments.

Suldae Westwind: (She also prepares to turn back and dive into fog out of the way immediately after, whatever the results are)

The Sacred Flames flash in the mist, to no effect upon the cages, but to startling effect upon the hut itself. It rises suddenly, creakily to its full height, each of its massive roots extending like a leg. It begins to turn around, roots stamping the earth. It seems Suldae has frightened it.

Baba Lysaga:

WISDOM
Baba Lysaga

Ability: 5 | 18

Baba Lysaga is unable to see her attacker, but she takes precautions anyway.

Baba Lysaga opens her wardrobe with a word, and a torrent of bats comes pouring forth! They fill the hut and surge out the windows and the swarm expands like a cloud, surrounding the hut entirely and obscuring it from view.

Suldae Westwind: Fortunately, Suldae can still see the bat swarm herself. She is dissatisfied with the result, but she appreciates not being dead yet.

Within a few seconds, Suldae is back with her companions.

Suldae Westwind: (Wait, am I? How?)

GM: (Oh wait, I misread your prepared action)

Suldae Westwind: (the prepared action was to dive out of the way, not leave entirely)

GM: (You're just diving into the fog, not back to your buddies, gotcha)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah - yet)

GM: (Sorry about that)

Suldae Westwind: (sorry everyone)

(yall can like. have time to rp while Suldae is observing)

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey, where's Suldae?"

Suldae Westwind: (i dont mind a timeskip where Suldae is just playing spy and nothing much happens)

Ireena Kolyana: "We can't leave without her!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh light don't tell me of all the times to mimic Marcus now's really not one of them"

Kasimir Velikov: "I cannot fight today, I am sorry. I have nothing left to give."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Don't worry pal, we've got you."

Rictavio: "I second the motion to retreat and recuperate," Rictavio says, his glasses flashing in the light of the flames.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I think we can still take her. She doesn't have her potion, we've got her unprepared."

"It is worrying that Suldae's not back yet..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay quick sign off who is still able to go full force? and Who is not?"

The swarm of bats begins to methodically expand... It seems she is determined to find the one who has dared to cast at her.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda raises her hand. "I'm good to go."

Marcus Veranius: "Kasimir, you being alive is giving enough. Let's retreat to camp."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark makes a thumbs-down. "I don't have any more high-power magic in me."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae stays out of the range of the swarm, darting from tree to tree)

Rictavio: "I am content either to retreat or to continue."

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know where suldae went but I'm sure she knows where camp is. I trust her intuition."

The expansion of the swarm continues unabated, and the cheeping roar of the bat's sonar fills the mist.

The party hears a sound like millions upon millions of bats from the northeast.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could keep going but I could use a bit to recollect"

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm not leaving without Suldae."

Marcus Veranius: "We are NOT leaving! We are retreating to our camp to prepare for the next assault."

"Because our ability to fight is running thin and we're sitting ducks if we stay."

Ireena Kolyana: "We just dug up Kasimir. Do you really want to have to dig up Suldae too?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm sure it won't come to that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (does it look like the fire is spreading?)

Marcus Veranius: "We aren't going to be doing any digging at all if we keep getting pelted with brews!"

The fire is not spreading, nor is it diminishing. It continues to burn, nearly as bright as it was in the beginning.

Marcus Veranius: "Suldae knew we were retreating. She'll meet us at the camp."

Suldae Westwind: (To the degree that she can without compromising her stealth, Suldae is going in a spiral around the swarm, hoping to catch it if anything else goes out of the radius)

Marcus Veranius starts directing the others to evacuate the mansion

GM: (Roll stealth once more, this time without advantage. The fog does not affect the bats' ability to detect things, since they are not using their eyes to do so.)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at the snake.

"The snake is still charmed. That means Suldae is still alive..."

She looks into the mist.

"Be careful."

She leaves with Marcus, Ezmerelda, Rictavio, Ismark, and Kasimir (and, presumably, Henry and Hiere)

Suldae Westwind:

24

STEALTH (4)
Suldae Westwind

(omg)

(the dice are on my side today)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves to leave slower than the others looking east

By using the trees and the buildings as cover, Suldae is able to avoid detection by the bats. She intuitively grasps the echolocation of these creatures, and at one point she creates — with her raven beak — the exact sound required to nullify the sonic waves. She is effectively invisible to these creatures.

She is able to get within the swarm, if she so chooses. She does not see anything other than bats leaving the area, but through the swarm and the mist she does see the eerie green glow of the hut, marching steadily to the east, farther into the gloom.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows the hut.

She is well aware this is a terrible idea and the party will be worried, but... well, they'll be able to find her eventually, at least.

And this is the one advantage they have.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sends a Message which Suldae can reply to with up to 25 words.

"Are you safe? Why are you taking so long to come back?"

Suldae Westwind: "Following Lysaga's hut. Safe for now. Where the bats are. Rest and recuperate, then find me. Love you"

Ireena Kolyana: "She's alive," says Ireena. "She's following the hut. I don't know what the hell she's thinking."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "She's thinking like a Vistana," says Ezmerelda. "I like it."

Soon the party is back at the camp — without Suldae.

Marcus Veranius: "If she has the energy to do so. It's not like we're in a condition to chase after her."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Stupid ideas are part of the culture?" Henry asks sarcastically

Joan has a pot of stew going already, and she smiles broadly to see you all.

Joan: "Hey! You're back! How did it go?"

Marcus Veranius thousand-yard stares at the pot

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We got expolded!"

Joan makes a beeline for Henry while saying this and it's hard to tell if she means it for anyone other than him.

Joan: "Who is he?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Kasimir Velikov, at your service."

"After a nap, perhaps..."

Marcus Veranius: "He's the reason we declared war on Baba Lysaga."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "And nearly got our asses handed to us."

Rictavio: "I wouldn't say that. She retreated as well, did she not?"

"Round one: a tie."

"Round two will go all the better for knowing what we're up against. Suldae's decision is a wise one, if a dangerous one."

Marcus Veranius nods

Suldae Westwind: (If Suldae can get close enough without compromising her stealth, she tries to get within sight of the hut and look inside again)

Marcus Veranius: "It was foolish to not consider what brews Baba Lysaga had at her disposal. We are dealing with both magic and alchemy."

"I don't think she'll get the drop on us again."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And of cause she can fucking fly too" Henry says sitting down with a grunt

Now that Suldae is within the outer limits of the swarm, she is easily able to get another view of the interior of the hut. She sees Baba Lysaga leaning over a table, poring over a heavy tome. With her keen Raven's eyes, Suldae is able to tell that it is written in Abyssal.

Rictavio: "I think, not of her own power."

"That seemed to me to be a vehicle of some kind."

Suldae Westwind: (What's up with the kid?)

Rictavio: "Hags are not known for flying without brooms or similar magic."

Marcus Veranius: "That skull will be her bane should she rely on it to escape."

"Do you think it's undead?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "hm it say no I'd guess it is closer to Hieres and Suldaes tricks"

Marcus Veranius: "One way to find out."

Baba Lysaga: "Now, my little Strahd, we shall make them pay for trespassing on Mama Lysaga's land..."

"Yes, yes we shall, my sweet, my pet. We shall make them pay..."

Baba Lysaga appears to be speaking to the child.

Marcus Veranius:

PRIMEVAL AWARENESS
(UNDEAD / DRAGONS)

Class: Ranger 3

You can attune your senses to determine if any of your favored enemies lurk nearby. By spending 1 uninterrupted minute in concentration (as if you were concentrating on a spell), you can sense whether any of your favored enemies are present within 5 miles of you. This feature reveals which of your favored enemies are present, their numbers, and the creatures' general direction and distance (in miles) from you. If there are multiple groups of your favored enemies within range, you learn this information for each group.

Suldae Westwind: (Does the child seem okay, physically? Not mistreated or upset?)

Marcus does not sense any undead presence nearby.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we are short resting right?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

The child seems fine. It appears to be an angelic little human child with dark hair and eyes. It burbles happily as Baba Lysaga speaks to it.

Marcus Veranius: "...bollocks, you're right. A construct of some kind."

GM: (Make an investigation roll, Suldae)

Suldae Westwind:

13

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae is able to determine that the child is not a vampire, at least, not yet. She recalls stories of the many awful things that hags are known for. Not least among their horrors is the reproductive cycle, which involves the eating of a human infant, which is ultimately reborn as a baby hag. Baby hags appear normal until they reach thirteen years of age, then they become the spitting image of their hag mother.

Suldae Westwind: (Appear normal - as in 'age normally'?)

GM: (Hags are not human, they are a separate species. A baby hag will appear human until it is thirteen, then it begins to look more like the hag which spawned it. There are many varieties of hags, each with different powers and habits.)

Suldae Westwind: (basically I'm asking - does it looking like a baby mean it IS a baby?)
(of age, that is)

GM: (Oh, yes, hag babies age just like normal human ones)

Suldae Westwind: (aha ty)

Rictavio examines Kasimir's wounds and applies some Spellcraft to them, sealing cuts and mending bruises.

Rictavio: "Now, my boy, you must tell us everything that she knows about us. Everything that was extracted from you. Feel no shame about it! Hags are notoriously devious creatures, with powerful spells and magic. It would be a miracle if you were able to keep anything that she wanted from you."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seems ashamed, in spite of Rictavio's advice.
"I..."

Marcus Veranius nods. "Given that Ireena is still here, the absolute worst has not come to pass."

Marcus Veranius: "Anything else is inconvenient at best."

Ireena Kolyana: "The absolute worst?"

Marcus Veranius: "You're Strahd's target number one. His raid failed, so that's probably the worst that could have come out of an interrogation."

Kasimir Velikov: "She knows your names. Your abilities, such that I have seen. She knows the tale of your journey from beginning to end. I saw her use a crystal to communicate with Strahd. He cares not for her, but uses her endlessly. She is mad with love for him. She sees herself as his one, true mother."
"Strahd knows everything... Everything..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Even about the Keepers of the Feather?"

Marcus Veranius: "He doesn't know about our deal in Krezk. Or the dragon's fate."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir clenches his eyes and nods.

"What deal in Krezk?"

 Marcus Veranius: "...oh."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Wait, you slew the dragon?"

 Marcus Veranius pauses

 Marcus Veranius: "...one problem down, ten more in its place."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Gods above, you have become mightier than I could have believed..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well I kind of kicked him in his pointy teeth when Ireena here tried to to play the hero so Strahd is more than 'familiar' with my capabilities anyway"

 Kasimir Velikov: "He will prepare for you. He will not leave his castle now, not when he knows that you must come to him if you wish to leave."

 Marcus Veranius: "A mixed blessing."

 Marcus Veranius ponders their circumstances

 Kasimir Velikov: "I fear that he will send his manservant to Vallaki, if he believes the Keepers pose a genuine threat to him. Or if he believes that harming them will harm you."

"You must warn them! Rahadin is a terror."

 Marcus Veranius: "...the Keepers have full control of Vallaki at this current moment. He'd have to siege against the entire city."

"Subtlety won't work anymore."

 Kasimir Velikov: "No, he would not."

"Rahadin is a powerful spell caster and a subtle mind. He would arrive in disguise, penetrate the city, and slay them in their sleep."

"He is a living elf, a traitor to his whole race."

"They say that to stand near him is to hear the screaming of the many souls he has murdered."

 Marcus Veranius: "That's... not good. Ireena; can you get a message out?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "You must warn the Keepers to seal the city and keep constant watch. No traveller can be permitted entry, no matter how benign they may appear."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I can."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "If you would"

 Ireena Kolyana: "What would you like me to say? Has to be 25 words or less."

 Marcus Veranius: "Let's hope then that he hasn't breached the walls then."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Seal the City none enters, Strats attack hound might be on the loose" Henry proposes

 Marcus Veranius: "Ought to throw a name in there"

Meanwhile, the hut finally settles down into the marsh with a squelching of deep mud. The terrain she has selected is nothing but sinking mud.

Baba Lysaga: "Yes, yes, this ought to really foul them up. Hehe. Hehehe. HEHEHEHE..." (continued cackling)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena casts Message. "Seal the City, none can enter. Rahadin the mage is on the loose. May appear to be normal traveler. Keep guard at all times!"

Ireena stares into space, concentrating for a while.

Suldae Westwind: (Does Baba Lysaga appear to be doing anything, or does the remark seem to be related to where she is?)

Ireena Kolyana: "Danika's responding. She says... Gates already sealed... Antimagic fields in force at east and west gates... Militia training continues... Winery attacked... Family all here. Be safe out there."

Baba Lysaga speaks a long sentence in Abyssal, hands upraised. The mud begins to churn as strange creatures beneath it come to life, animated by a powerful curse. The mud settles and lies still, odoriferous and dank.

Ireena Kolyana: "Alright," says Ireena. "That's me spent. I need some time to rest."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae really wishes Ireena would message her right now but has unfortunately not mastered telepathy herself.

She sends a silent prayer to Corellon that everything work out for the better (and maybe, just maybe, that her friends get a genius idea to contact her, even though it's not really his domain) and continues to track the situation.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (short rest is 1 hour right?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes)

GM: (Yes)

Ireena Kolyana: "Gods dammit, where the hell is Suldae?"

"If I had the energy left I'd try to contact her..."

(Ireena is out of level 3 spell slots)

GM: (She's been using Sending to send the 25-word messages, not Message -- my bad. Message has a range of only 120 feet.)

Marcus Veranius: "It can't be that hard to track a moving house."

Rictavio: "In this mud and fog, it might be difficult. Although I do not doubt your skill would be equal to the task."

Suldae Westwind: (level 3 and higher?)

(wasnt short rest like 15 minutes?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Maybe she plans on us meeting up with her after we rest up?" Henry says "So she stays and has an eye on things "

Suldae Westwind: (nm, 1 hour)

GM: (She still has two level 4 Spell slots, but she is likely to hang onto them just in case she needs to cast Counterspell or Resilient Sphere)

Suldae Westwind: (v fair lol)

Ireena Kolyana:

ARCANE RECOVERY

Class: Wizard

You have learned to regain some of your magical energy by studying your spellbook. Once per day when you finish a short rest, you can choose expended spell slots to recover. The spell slots can have a combined level that is equal to or less than half your wizard level (rounded up), and none of the slots can be 6th level or higher.

For example, if you're a 4th-level wizard, you can recover up to two levels worth of spell slots. You can recover either a 2nd-level spell slot or two 1st-level spell slots.

GM: (Forgot about this feature, one sec)

Suldae Westwind: (OOO)

(What are the mud creatures doing, meanwhile?)

GM: (The mud creatures are lying under the mud, apparently inert. They are undetectable from above the mud.)

Suldae Westwind: (aha ty)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so do we just skip the 1 hour ahead now?)

Ireena Kolyana: "Ok, I feel like I've had my second wind. I'm going to try to contact Suldae."

Casting Sending. "Suldae? Where are you? What's going on?"

GM: (Yes, let's skip the end of the hour)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

(Rahadin and the Deva added to our to-do list)

Suldae Westwind: (Oh, one thing Suldae would have done by now: tried to rise above the hut and see if there are any landmarks by which she could find her way to the hut precisely)

(if she were to go elsewhere)

GM: (Suldae would see that the hut is now on the western bank of the river, just to the northeast of a set of abandoned cottages.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So how is everyone feeling? Up for some Hag hunting with a side of revenge?" Henry asks rolling his shoulders

 Sulda Westwind: "Near hut. Seems to have stopped. Mud golems under it. Going back now. Wait for me where camp was"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Well, she's still alive. She's coming back to camp now."
"Something about 'mud golems'?"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae flies off towards the camp, keepign careful track of where the hut is and how to go back to it.

 Marcus Veranius: "Mud golems."
"Do you think we might be able to fly at the hut directly?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry points at himself Rictavio kasimir and Ismark "Still can't fly" he says deadpann

 Marcus Veranius: "Then we have problems."

 Sulda Westwind: (...Suldae has totally updated the party on her spell list and she has 1/day Fly she hasnt used yet)
(gotta edit the spell list on discord)

 Marcus Veranius: "WAIT! THE RIVER BANK!"

 Marcus Veranius grins widely, scheming a nasty plot. "She's expecting birds coming in from the air. What if we swam to her hut from downstream?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "You want to attack her from the water? That... would be pretty surprising I guess"

 Sulda Westwind: (How does Marcus know about the river bank?)

 Marcus Veranius: (I misread the message and assume Suldae gave us a location >.>)

 Sulda Westwind: (Suldae didn't say anything about it to Ireena and isn't back yet, I think)

 Marcus Veranius: (Marcus does NOT suggest the Navy Seals approach)

 Marcus Veranius considers the situation.

 Marcus Veranius: "We can't exactly walk in if she's going to rise an army around our ankles. Armor or not, that's suicide."

Suldae arrives.

 Sulda Westwind: "Hi everyone!" she says brightly. "Sorry for flying off like that. On the bright side, I know where she is!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait Kasimir made us fly before is that in the cards right now?"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae proceeds to describe the directions to the hut and what she saw both in and around it.
She does not mention the child yet.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena seems like she wants to slap Suldae and kiss her at the same time.

"Don't... Do that again."

Kasimir Velikov: "I could cast that spell a single time. I have the power yet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah" Henry agrees lazily chopping her on the head

Suldae Westwind: "I wished you were with me," Suldae admitted. She looks at Kasimir.

"Oh thank the gods you're okay."

Marcus Veranius: "Are you sure Kasimir? You're still in bad shape."

Suldae Westwind: "I was just so... angry. Nothing seemed to be working."

"She just came and went as she liked, and we could only react."

"This gives us back the initiative."

Kasimir Velikov: "I would prefer a day to rest, if you wish to know my honest opinion. I am in no state for a drawn-out conflict."

Ireena Kolyana: "Honestly I'm mostly spent too."

Suldae Westwind: "That's probably a good idea," Suldae agrees.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm doing fine, honestly."

Suldae Westwind: "I don't figure she'd be in much of a hurry."

"I'm exhausted myself."

Rictavio: "It is irritating that we must come to her..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We would also allow her to recuperate and prepare"

Rictavio: "Especially given that she will have that flying contraption, while we will wrestle in the mud."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "By the morning she might have moved the hut a hundred miles. I'm sure she wasn't always here in the swamp."

"This might be our only chance to take her."

Marcus Veranius: "No, we can't afford to let her leave."

Suldae Westwind: "She has prepared a welcoming committee for us," Suldae points out.

"Does anyone have any idea what it might be or how long it would last?"

Marcus Veranius: "That wall and cauldron trick has to have been as draining to her as our defense was to us."

"Golems couldnt have been easy either."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae was too on edge and busy with stealth to check herself)

Marcus Veranius: "She's depleted as much as we are, but there's only one of her to our numbers."

Suldae Westwind: Now, in retrospect, Suldae tries to figure out if those were mud golems or something else.

Ireena Kolyana: "I might have something for the mud, actually."

Suldae Westwind:

20

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana: "Actually..."

Marcus Veranius: "Did you mention her hut camped by the river? Most of us that can't fly can swim instead."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, I have the nastiest plan."

Marcus Veranius: "I'll bet you mud creatures can't swim."

Ireena Kolyana: "Have you heard of the spell Control Water?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Magic can control the water?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes out her spell book and briefly describes the spell.

Control Water

Transmutation 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 300 feet

Target: Any freestanding water inside an area you choose that is a cube up to 100 feet on a side

Components: V, S, M (A drop of water and a pinch of dust)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Until the spell ends, you control any freestanding water inside an area you choose that is a cube up to 100 feet on a side. You can choose from any of the following effects when you cast this spell. As an action on your turn, you can repeat the same effect or choose a different one. Flood. You cause the water level of all standing water in the area to rise by as much as 20 feet. If the area includes a shore, the flooding water spills over onto dry land. If you choose an area in a large body of water, you instead create a 20-foot tall wave that travels from one side of the area to the other and then crashes down. Any Huge or smaller vehicles in the wave's path are carried with it to the other side. Any Huge or smaller vehicles struck by the wave have a 25 percent chance of capsizing. The water level remains elevated until the spell ends or you choose a different effect. If this effect produced a wave, the wave repeats on the start of your next turn while the flood effect lasts. Part Water. You cause water in the area to move apart and create a trench. The trench extends across the spell's area, and the separated water forms a wall to either side. The trench remains until the spell ends or you choose a different effect. The water then slowly fills in the trench over the course of the next round until the normal water level is restored. Redirect Flow. You cause flowing water in the area to move in a direction you choose, even if the water has to flow over obstacles, up walls, or in other unlikely directions. The water in the area moves as you direct it, but once it moves beyond the spell's area, it resumes its flow based on the terrain conditions. The water continues to move in the direction you chose until the spell ends or you choose a different effect. Whirlpool. This effect requires a body of water at least 50 feet square and 25 feet deep. You cause a whirlpool to form in the center of the area. The whirlpool forms a vortex that is 5 feet wide at the base, up to 50 feet wide at the top, and 25 feet tall. Any creature or object in the water and within 25 feet of the vortex is pulled 10 feet toward it. A creature can swim away from the vortex by making a Strength (Athletics) check against your spell save DC. When a creature enters the vortex for the first time on a turn or starts its turn there, it must make a Strength saving throw. On a failed save, the creature takes 2d8 bludgeoning damage and is caught in the vortex until the spell ends. On a successful save, the creature takes half damage, and isn't caught in the vortex. A creature caught in the vortex can use its action to try to swim away from the vortex as described above, but has disadvantage on the Strength (Athletics) check to do so. The first time each turn that an object enters the vortex, the object takes 2d8 bludgeoning damage; this damage occurs each round it remains in the vortex.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well I can swim faster than I can walk" Henry says pulling at the collar of his cloak Ireena Kolyana: Well, she thinks it's a brief description, but it's actually very thorough.

Suldae Westwind: "I love this spell," Suldae says with feeling.

Marcus Veranius: "...if we can pull her hut into the river with a whirlpool, and if she's keeping the skull underneath as she described..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay that is the spell what is the plan?"

Marcus Veranius: "That locks her away from an army of golems and into our favored terrain!"

Suldae Westwind: "Honestly, in a bog, do we even need a plan with that spell?"

"Incidentally, I think I can make everyoen fly who normally cannot."

Marcus Veranius: "Yes. Bend the bog to our will and we'll only need to deal with one caster."

"The Oathbow is good at handling a single entity."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we are attacking now?"

Suldae Westwind: "...okay, no, I can only make one person fly, sorry."

"Can still summon mounts though."

Ireena Kolyana: "I can only cast this spell twice, so we'll have to be careful how we use it. I think we could raise the water level to drown the hut and force her out."

Marcus Veranius: "Whoever can't swim or fly, Kasimir can make fly."

"Hiere might be able to help with some of the others."

Suldae Westwind: "There is a baby in the hut," Suldae says. "It's probably a hag baby, but - well, it's a baby."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "She, uh, also called it little Strahd. Seemed like a normal baby though."

Kasimir Velikov: I can cast it upon myself and two others."

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait, I'm sorry, what? A baby?"

"Well, there goes that plan..."

Marcus Veranius: "...is the baby an immediate concern or can we handle it after?"

Suldae Westwind: "I can cast it only on one person, sorry," Suldae says. "It's not exactly a bard thing, and - well, the flute is only willing to do so much for me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How about this we circle around Berez to the north till we hit the river and thenmove sou-what."

Suldae Westwind: "I was bringign up the baby regarding the 'drown the hut' thing."

Ireena Kolyana: "I won't have the kind of refined control over the water to protect a baby while smashing everything else."

Suldae Westwind: "Of course, she would likely protect it, I think."

Marcus Veranius: "...would it at least be possible to flood the mud and anchor the hut in place?"

Suldae Westwind: "She seemed fond of it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Uhm are are we sure it is real?"

Suldae Westwind: "But... I don't know."

"I don't think she knew I was looking."

"And like I said, it's not very likely to be a human baby."

"Even though it looked like one."

"Can't say I advocate that as a reason for baby killing..."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think I could flood the mud easily, or maybe even dry it out."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I-I admit I'm not sure the baby isn't a trap"

Suldae Westwind: "Fact is, it can be a hostage for one side or the other, depending on the hag's attitude and ours. Or it can be safe, or it can be a casualty."

Marcus Veranius turns to Richten

Ireena Kolyana: "I can maintain control over the spell for up to ten minutes, so that would give somebody time to get in, get the baby, and get out before I drop a wall of water on everything."

Rictavio: Van Richten looks at him steadily.

Suldae Westwind: "Well," Suldae breathes in and out. She is not sure about this. "Rictavio, what do you know about hag babies?"

"Or their habits of making babies as illusions, or-"

"Whatever that can be."

Rictavio: "The reproductive cycle of a hag coven is a bit horrific. They devour a human baby, which causes them to become pregnant. A few short weeks later, they give birth to a baby hag. It appears much like the original child, and grows normally until it reaches the age of 13, at which point it reverts to its nightmarish true form and joins the Coven or the network of Covens, as the case may be."

"I've never heard of a hag using an illusory baby for any reason, but if Baba Lysaga does consider herself the true mother of Strahd, and if she is as mad as Kasimir indicated... Well, I suppose it's not out of the question."

"So it's either a human baby she has not eaten yet, a hag baby she has already produced, or some third option."

Marcus Veranius: "Is there any reason she WOULDN'T convert a baby outright?"

Rictavio: "Sometimes they wait for opportune moments in the cycles of the moon. Their habits are poorly studied, and much of their magic remains mysterious to scholars."

"The few hags that have survived conflicts with hunters and have later been interrogated often lie through their teeth."

"It's possible that is a true, human child."

Marcus Veranius: "...then we'll just anchor the hut somehow. Sink its legs in the mud and dry it out. Make it a non-option."

"Storm the place and handle whatever horrors are inside."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not like the inside of her head right now, which is whispering that perhaps they should not worry about the baby at all.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns inward for a moment 'Oh Lands I know I have asked for much already but again I must beseech you, Offer me guidance Oh Great and Wise Spirits what is the child in the Hags domain' He asks for a sign

(Do you want a roll for that?)

Suldae Westwind: Many more babies than that one are at stake, in the long term, and there is a boundary between honorable and stupid. Allowing the knowledge that the hag has a child in its care hobble them... As if it wasn't a dangerous enough enemy already.

She prays as well.

Marcus Veranius: (We can't flood the hut anyways cause there are cages of ravens tied to it)

Suldae Westwind:

12

RELIGION (11)
Suldae Westwind

(we should unlock the cages somehow yeah)

GM: (Yes, a roll would be appropriate for that)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae has told everyone)

Marcus Veranius: (RPG logic says that killing the boss undoes all magical locks they set)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Please guide my hands so they shall not spill an innocents blood' He asks (what do I roll? Nature?)

GM: (Nature or Religion)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Neither Suldae nor Henry feels any answer from their gods... This land is cursed, and this patch of land doubly so. It denies their prayer mindlessly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what Do we do now?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not happy to realize that maybe she would rather kill a baby than allow Strahd to win, here.

Maybe there's no need for extremes though.

Kasimir Velikov: "I can cast Greater Invisibility."

Marcus Veranius: "What we do is ignore the baby and focus the hag."

Rictavio: "There must be something she wants. There must be some way to lure her out of a fortified position."

Marcus Veranius: "Unless its got a knife, babies are typically non-issues."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Rictavio: "Marcus is right, though. She is unlikely to harm the child, and if we are cautious we will not harm it either."

Suldae Westwind: Nodding is a great strategy, she feels.

Rictavio: "Whether it is a human baby or a hag one, she needs it intact."

Marcus Veranius: "If we nullify the mud be it attacking from the river or sabotaging the terrain, all we have to worry about is the caster."

"I like those odds."

Suldae Westwind: "But we should probably not attempt to use the baby as a hostage against the hag," Suldae says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We should start to move if we want to attack her now better not give her more tiime then nescessary"

Suldae Westwind: "That would be wrong, right?"

Rictavio: Rictavio shrugs.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda boxes his ear.

Suldae Westwind: She blinks apologetically, not looking at Henry.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Yes, Suldae. That would be wrong."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let's deal with that when it gets to it"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We are not our enemies. We must continue to be clear in what defines us."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not sinking to Strahd's level."

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah, I thought so. Just thought to clear that up."

Marcus Veranius: "If the baby becomes a problem we'll deal with it then. But I'm not about to make it a problem."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well... Shall we prepare to approach?"

"Do we feel like we have a plan?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well no but plans are like seedlings in a garden, best not to get overly attached they die easily"

Suldae Westwind: "Everyone flies, you control the water, who thinks they can do anything to unlock the cages? I really think we should try to do that as soon as possible."

Marcus Veranius: "Here's the plan as I understand it."

>We approach from the river. Anyone that can't swim or fly, Kasimir casts Flight on.

(As an aside, Kasimir is not leaving camp. He's sitting this out.)

>Ireena manipulates water to sink the hut and dry up the mud, locking down Baba Lysaga's means of movement.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "They are magic? Pass I'll deal with Her and her bag of tricks"

Marcus Veranius: >We storm in from the river, attacking a cornered hag with no place to run/

Suldae Westwind: "Except backwards," Suldae points out.

"She still has that... flying thing."

Marcus Veranius: "You said its parked under the hut? If the hut sinks, so does her skull."

Suldae Westwind: "So what?"

"So it's underwater, what does that do?"

Marcus Veranius: "Under MUD preferably."

"Preferably to the point where the hut's entrance is ground level."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well I think we reached the bottom of our tactical acumen so lets get going"

Marcus Veranius: "At that point, we climb to shore at its entrance."

Ireena Kolyana: "Point of order: I can control water, but not mud. I can draw the moisture out of the mud to solidify it, or add moisture to it to make it runnier. I can't actually control the mud itself."*

Suldae Westwind: "If you make water flow everything in the water goes with it," Suldae points out.

Ireena Kolyana: "And it's possible she knows the same spell."

Marcus Veranius: "You'd just need to make the mud runnier to the point where the hut sinks, then drain moisture so it stays there."

"Which is more than possible on the shoreline."

Ireena Kolyana: "That works."

Marcus Veranius: "If she was anywhere else this would be impossible."

Rictavio: "Time is wasting. Shall we?"

Joan: "Oh, be careful Henry! And the rest of you, I suppose."

"Don't sink in the mud!"

Suldae Westwind: "We'll try," Suldae tells her seriously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We'll try not to"

Kasimir prepares to cast Fly on whoever requires it.

Rictavio: Ezmerelda and Ireena both take hybrid form.

Rictavio accepts a casting of "Fly."

"Oh, I hate this part," he says, as he begins to weightlessly rise into the air.

Suldae Westwind: (Henry and Ismarck)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a deep breath and nods to Kasimir "I'll stay low if you all don't mind"

"Give me wings Magic Man" he says with a entirely fake board grin

Marcus Veranius: "Err... as a reminder to those who have my fine quality boots!"

"They walk on water."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns into hybrid form. She has her guitar with her - she can play the flute when she turns human, on a tree branch or something, but not while having a beak.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so Marcus and Ezme can jesus around)

Marcus Veranius: (So can Henry and Suldae)

(And Hiere, if he was Here)

(Peter Pan strats are for the NPCs and anyone who wants to not be water-locked)

Kasimir casts Fly on Ismark and Henry as well.

Kasimir Velikov: "I am spent. I shall retire. Happy hunting."

"When you are finished... Bring me her head."

"I would look into her eyes as the light fades."

Marcus Veranius smiles. "Glad to have you back Kasimir."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shivers at that mental image.

"...Rest well," she says.

He probably has good reasons for that attitude, really.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Welll let's go kill this witch bitch" Henry says floating of ahead

Marcus Veranius readies his arrows. Time for the marine approach

Marcus Veranius: (We probably want to approach from the south cause that area's already cleared out)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (noone said anything about my proposed way of approach)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sticks close to Ireena

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sure)

Suldae Westwind: (what wsa your plan?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (mine waas the blue line)

Suldae Westwind: (ah)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so we follow the Red line)

Marcus Veranius: (MICROSQUARES)

GM: (This map is so stupid, I don't know why they didn't give smaller sections of it. The map of Berez is supposed to be 100ft per square which is just useless for combat.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls up the hood of his Cloak of the Manta Ray

Marcus Veranius: (The best part of killing Baba Lysaga now is that this map goes with her)

GM: (I will be very happy when it does)

(Ok, so you have the drop on her for now, so you can arrange your approach however you wish and begin when you are ready.)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

CLOAK OF THE MANTA RAY

Other: Item

While wearing this cloak with its hood up, you can breathe Underwater, and you have a swimming speed of 60 feet. Pulling the hood up or down requires an action.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae wants to stick with Ireena, but also to the shore, because trees as perches and the flute)

(Can we both be at the shoreline?)

Ireena Kolyana: "Let me know when you're ready for me to cast. I have to get within 300 feet of the hut."

Marcus Veranius joins Henry underwater with his Swimming boots

GM: (Feel free to position yourself where you want to be, and I'll move the NPCs in accordance with your plan.)

Suldae Westwind: (one sec)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is not underwater he just has the hood up)

Marcus Veranius: (oh)

GM: (brb)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae moves A LITTLE closer but she'll stay there) (Ireena to her pls)

Marcus Veranius: (Would Hiere be able to give Marcus a casting of Haste or does Able need to be here for that?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I think he would have to be here)

Marcus Veranius: (I miss him already) 29

STEALTH (10)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is in a tree, also)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry now drops into the water keeping his head above the water to communicate

Marcus Veranius follows suit

Suldae Westwind: So anyway as action one Suldae positions herself on a tree branch comfortably, takes out the flute and plays.

The music is like the coming of storm, low and slow and swelling.

DC17

Dexterity Save

21

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

no wait wrong one sec

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Conjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A point in the air where a storm cloud could appear 100 feet directly above you

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

A storm cloud appears in the shape of a cylinder that is 10 feet tall with a 60-foot radius, centered on a point you can see 100 feet directly above you. The spell fails if you can't see a point in the air where the storm cloud could appear (for example, if you are in a room that can't accommodate the cloud). When you cast the spell, choose a point you can see within range. A bolt of lightning flashes down from the cloud to that point. Each creature within 5 feet of that point must make a Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes 3d10 lightning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. On each of your turns until the spell ends, you can use your action to call down lightning in this way again, targeting the same point or a different one. If you are outdoors in stormy conditions when you cast this spell, the spell gives you control over the existing storm instead of creating a new one. Under such conditions, the spell's damage increases by 1d10.

THERE

Suldae Westwind: A storm brews up above the hut, but no lightning is striking yet.

...im calling this close enough lol

there :D

Ireena Kolyana: "Good idea, Suldae..."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Now you're a weather witch too?"

"Cool."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles at him without pausing the playing.

The melody is still slow and rumbling, brewing bit by bit.

She feels the air currents and the weave shifting with them, the power of the storm, the danger of the sky.

For the moment, it's dancing to her tune.

As the party approaches the hut, they notice several strange orbs of light dancing around it, much like the lights of a Dancing Light spell. These pulse with a varying intensity, gradually getting brighter before fading back to dimness. They are oddly enchanting to look at...

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Bless

Enchantment 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Up to three creatures of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A sprinkling of holy water)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You bless up to three creatures of your choice within range. Whenever a target makes an attack roll or a saving throw before the spell ends, the target can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to the attack roll or saving throw.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 1st.

Rictavio: "When the time is right, I can signal everyone at once..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry casts on himself Marcus Rictavio and Ezmeralda

"Light guide us"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda walks on the water near Henry and Marcus, still relatively well hidden in the fog, despite her brightly-colored clothing.

Rictavio: Rictavio hovers nearby, between the two groups.

He casts Guidance upon Marcus.

Guidance

Divination Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You touch one willing creature. Once before the spell ends, the target can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to one ability check of its choice. It can roll the die before or after making the ability check. The spell then ends.

"If you have a clean shot, take it..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ability check)

Marcus Veranius: "Will do."

GM: (Derp)

Marcus Veranius: (It's good advice either way)

Suldae Westwind: Before Suldae goes into position, she briefly hugs Marcus, Henry, Ezme and Ireena.

Rictavio: Rictavio actually casts Death Ward, not Guidance.

Suldae Westwind: (4 bardic insps)
(each of you take one)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark whispers: "What, don't I get a hug?"

Marcus Veranius: (whats the die?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs and dances away through the air. Hug inspiration strikes as it will.
"Another time, maybe~"

Marcus Veranius gives Ismark a soggy, sea hug

Suldae Westwind: d8

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Suldae Westwind: d8 yeah

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ready when you are" Henry says to all of them

Rictavio: "Beware," says Rictavio. "Those little lights are Will of the Wisps."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Will-o'-Wisps," Ezmerelda corrects him.

Rictavio: "Are we ready?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes"

Marcus Veranius: "Ready. Sink the hut at your liesure."

Rictavio: Rictavio casts Thaumaturgy. His voice booms with thrice its ordinary volume, and he shouts:
"BABA LYSAGA. FOR YOUR CRIMES, YOU SHALL FACE JUSTICE. PREPARE TO DIE!"

Baba Lysaga: Baba Lysaga screams back: "Wait! I have a baby! You wouldn't hurt a baby!?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nearly goes off tune at hearing that.

The first thing, that is.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "WE DON'T FUCKIN BELIEVE YOU HOW ABOUT THAT!"

Marcus Veranius: "We know you would!"

Marcus Veranius aims his shot for when Baba Lysaga is in sight

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's eyes glow with arcane power. She draws back her hands as her hair begins to flow around her as though she is underwater. The waves of the river become still, as though holding their breath. The water beneath the hut begins to rise, drenching the mud. The hut instantly begins to sink more deeply. It thrashes its wooden legs around, but they are unable to find purchase in the swamp, and the hut sinks, crushing the skull into the mud. It settles with its foundation flat to the earth.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry dives and aproaches further

Ireena Kolyana: Then Ireena parts her arms, and the water rushes away, seeping through the mud. The mud hardens and shrinks, cracking and splitting as the liquid seeps from it and back into the river.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae readies lightning for whenever Baba Lysaga emerges

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena cups a hand, and the hut becomes surrounded by a 20-foot-tall standing wave which does not move.

The wave is only on the right-hand side of the hut, where it can still be connected to the river without having to rise from the mud.

Marcus Veranius: "OK ramblers, let's get rambling!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hopes the hag does not emerge holding the baby.

Baba Lysaga: A mad cackle begins, inside the hut. The doors and windows remain sealed.

The Will-o'-Wisps spiral more energetically around the hut.

"Arise, my pretties! Arise, my lovelies! Arise, and defend your maker!"

The mud cracks, and breaks open, and unleashes eight horrors of tangled vine and madness. Eight shambling mounds have emerged!

Suldae Westwind: Lightning flashes down to one, as the melody goes high for a moment.

(are we goign to... roll initiative)

(at any point)

GM: (Yup, roll initiative)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...really shambling mounds with will-o-wisps? GM you are cruel)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 24.15

Henry of Willowsbrook:

4.1

INITIATIVE (0.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (holy shit)

Marcus Veranius: (I don't like these numbers...)

GM: (The Shambling mounds literally cannot harm four of the characters)

Rictavio:

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 6

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 0

Suldae Westwind: (omg)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 1

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 0

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Shambling Mound

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 13

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 26

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 25

Marcus Veranius:

19

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Will-o'-Wisp

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE
Baba Lysaga's Creeping Hut

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Baba Lysaga

Initiative: 16

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I know the chees that monster combo can do and I am scared

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE Rictavio <hr/> Initiative: 4
--

INITIATIVE Ireena Kolyana <hr/> Initiative: 12

INITIATIVE Ismark Kolyanovich <hr/> Initiative: 8
--

GM: (Is that everyone?)

(Go ahead and unleash your lightning, Suldae, before the round begins properly)

Suldae Westwind: Lightning flashes down on the Mound nearest to Suldae (the southernmost one)

GM: (Roll it)

Suldae Westwind:

DC17

Dexterity Save

21

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
 Suldae Westwind

Shambling Mound:

DEXTERITY Shambling Mound <hr/> Ability: 2

Suldae Westwind: (the distance indicated is inaccurate - it needs to be within the 60ft circle indicated by the blue circle)

Lightning strikes the Shambling Mound, and crackles through its form. It seems... Unfazed.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cannot say this is particularly unexpected.
 Worth trying though.

As Suldae watches, she sees it sprout several new tendrils and crazed extensions, as though he lightning has in fact added to its power.

Rictavio: "Shambling mounds... Shambling mounds! Don't use lightning! Whatever you use, not lightning!"

Suldae Westwind: Okay, maybe trying was also a bad idea.

A Will-o'-Wisp hovers daintily over to the nearest Shambling mound and touches it briefly.

Will-o'-Wisp:

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 24 | 24

Damage: 10 + 9 lightning

Marcus Veranius: 900F)

There is a crackle of electricity at the contact, and the Shambling Mound it touched suddenly increases in size.

Will-o'-Wisp:

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 23 | 16

Damage: 9 lightning

Suldae Westwind: Okay, so maybe she should not have given Baba Lysaga ideas

Another Will-o'-Wisp attempts the same maneuver on another creature.

Rictavio: "These are distractions!" Rictavio shouts.

"We must get to her, and destroy the hut!"

"If she dies, they will die with her! I'm sure of it!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae chooses to take the wise advice, and targets the hut instead.

DC17

Dexterity Save

22

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

The hut, unable to move, takes the full brunt of the lightning blast.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (why do the sips have advantage?)

GM: (They're hitting a friendly target that wants to be hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ah)

The blast of lightning damages the roof and ignites the thatch, which continues to burn slowly.

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Will-o'-Wisp:

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 23

Damage: 11 lightning

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 19 | 20

Damage: 5 lightning

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Two Will-o'-Wisps perform the same maneuver as before.

Marcus Veranius: (Question from discord still stands)

(Is Marcus under the affects of his oathbow oath against Baba Lysaga, or is it not in affect cause Forcewall blocked the attacks)

(I'm weapon-restricted if it is)

GM: (the target of your attack becomes your sworn enemy until it dies or until dawn seven days later, so hitting the sworn enemy doesn't really factor into it)

Marcus Veranius: (Blocking obstacle means she couldn't be targeted)

GM: (Ah, fair enough)

(In that case, you're good)

Marcus Veranius draws the clockwork crossbow, readying a number of shots at the hut

Marcus Veranius:

25 + 3

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21

Piercing

16 + 3 | 14 + 3

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19

Piercing

28 + 1 | 15 + 1

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21 + 6

Piercing

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 12 + 2 & 27 + 2 \\ \hline 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Piercing

(Action, action, bonus action, first round ambush) rolling 1d8 Dread Ambusher

(4)

= 4

GM: (I'm going to say anything above a nat 1 will hit this non-moving side of a barn)
(So final damage?)

Suldae Westwind: (Note: because Suldae got her pick of the tallest tree around, and because the hut sunk, Suldae can actually see the roof from above, albeit at a fairly flat angle)

Marcus Veranius: 89 damage
Magical Piercing

Marcus's flurry of arcane-boosted shots rip into the frame around one of the windows methodically.
A second later, the window and both shutters simply falls off the hut.

Baba Lysaga: "Egads!"

Marcus Veranius adjust the clock

Marcus Veranius: "IT'S MIDNIGHT!"
[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: "I'm going to say anything above a nat 1 will hit this non-moving side of a barn"
I'm going to guess you meant miss also its like 2 in the afternoon or someshit

Marcus Veranius: Blinksy says its midnight

Will-o'-Wisp:

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 16 | 19

Damage: 14 lightning

Henry of Willowsbrook: (read the Item on Dicord Lil)

Suldae Westwind: (excellent)

(oooh nice)

Baba Lysaga: "Oh, you little brats! Oh, oh, oh, my poor hut!"

"I'll show you all!"

Baba Lysaga chants a word and moves her hands in a grand gesture.

Baba Lysaga:

Enlarge Reduce

Transmutation 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S, M (A pinch iron powder)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You cause a creature or an object you can see within range to grow larger or smaller for the duration. Choose either a creature or an object that is neither worn nor carried. If the target is unwilling, it can make a Constitution saving throw. On a success, the spell has no effect.

If the target is a creature, everything it is wearing and carrying changes size with it. Any item dropped by an affected creature returns to normal size at once.

Enlarge. The target's size doubles in all dimensions, and its weight is multiplied by eight. This growth increases its size by one category - from Medium to Large, for example. If there isn't enough room for the target to double its size, the creature or object attains the maximum possible size in the space available. Until the spell ends, the target also has advantage on Strength checks and Strength saving throws. The target's weapons also grow to match its new size. While these weapons are enlarged, the target's attack with them deal 1d4 extra damage.

Reduce. The target's size is halved in all dimensions, and its weight is reduced to one-eighth of normal. This reduction decreases its size by one category - from Medium to Small, for example. Until the spell ends, the target also has disadvantage on Strength checks and Strength saving throws. The target's weapons also shrink to match its new size. While these weapons are reduced, the target's attacks with them deal 1d4 less damage (this can't reduce the damage below 1).

Henry of Willowsbrook: (what grows?)

With a creak and a groan of ancient timber, the hut begins to swell ominously. It splits the hardened mud as it thickens and grows, slowly doubling completely in size.

With increased strength, it prepares to wrestle against the dirt, and it seems likely that it will free itself. On its newly enlarged legs, it will stand with its base approximately thirty feet above the ground. (It cannot attempt to free itself until its own turn.)

Baba Lysaga: "Eheheheheheheheheeeee!"

Shambling Mound: A Shambling mound surges closer to the general direction of the party.

Will-o'-Wisp:

SHOCK
Will-o'-Wisp

Attack: 12 | 15

Damage: 11 lightning

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh god, oh fuck... What should I do?"

Suldae Westwind: (question to DM: how tall are you willing to allow the tallest tree in the area, which Suldae is in, to be?)

Suldae pauses the playing for the moment.

"You could try to wash those away?"

"Our folks can fly"

GM: (Since it's a withered dead tree in a swamp, it won't be super tall. Taller than the hut was when it was short, but not tall enough to see over the hut now that it is grown.)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha ty)

Ireena Kolyana: "Perfect, that's perfect. I'll try it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles, then resumes the melody. It ebbs and flows, matching the air currents' dance.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena raises the water level once again, saturating the mud and causing the river to flood its banks and pool out towards the hut and the Shambling mounds.

The rising tide lifts all the Shambling Mounds, and a powerful wave carries them to the north.

The Will-o'-Wisps spark fitfully in the sudden wash of water, and die.

Baba Lysaga's Creeping Hut struggles in the swamp. It weighs many times more than it did previously, and its strength has grown at a different scale.

Baba Lysaga's Creeping Hut:

STRENGTH
Baba Lysaga's Creeping Hut

Ability: 13

Baba Lysaga's Creeping Hut is unable to free itself from the mud.

Shambling Mound: The Shambling Mounds drift on the water like mats of sentient algae, swimming lazily towards the party.

Suldae Westwind: (Does the river have a current? Is it strong?)

GM: (It has a southward-moving current but it's not terribly strong. Ireena has changed the flow here, to push them north. They are technically dashing (40 ft) but only managing to move 20)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

Eldritch Blast

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

ELDRITCH INVOCATION:

ELDRITCH SPEAR

Class: Warlock

When you cast eldritch blast, its range is 300 feet.

PACT OF THE BLADE

Class: Warlock

You can use your action to create a pact weapon in your empty hand. You can choose the form that this melee weapon takes each time you create it (see chapter 5 for weapon options). You are proficient with it while you wield it. This weapon counts as magical for the purpose of overcoming resistance and immunity to nonmagical attacks and damage. Your pact weapon disappears if it is more than 5 feet away from you for 1 minute or more. It also disappears if you use this feature again, if you dismiss the weapon (no action required), or if you die.

You can transform one magic weapon into your pact weapon by performing a special ritual while you hold the weapon. You perform the ritual over the course of 1 hour, which can be done during a short rest. You can then dismiss the weapon, shunting it into an extradimensional space, and it appears whenever you create your pact weapon thereafter. You can't affect an artifact or a sentient weapon in this way. The weapon ceases being your pact weapon if you die, if you perform the 1-hour ritual on a different weapon, or if you use a 1-hour ritual to break your bond to it. The weapon appears at your feet if it is in the extradimensional space when the bond breaks.

GM: (Whoops, wrong thing, one sec)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

ELDRITCH INVOCATION: AGONIZING BLAST

Class: Warlock

When you cast eldritch blast, add your Charisma modifier to the damage it deals on a hit.

Ismark Kolyanovich casts Eldritch Blast, launching two powerful beams of arcane power at the roof of the hut, where it was formerly struck by Suldae's lightning. 15, 3 to hit for 7, 12 damage.

Suldae Westwind: "Ezme, Rictavio!" Suldae calls out, lowering her flute for a moment. "Get to the shore! Ireena, next time get them south! Get them into the river!"

"Let the current do our job for us!"

The blasts of arcane power both strike the roof, but only one strikes the spot which was formerly struck by lightning.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How far is the Window Marcus blasted open away?)

GM: (The window is on the southern side of the hut, about 35 feet away from you)

(The water comes high enough you could swim to it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well lucky me)

"Watch me do something mind numbingly stupid Marcus" Henry says before rocketing of in the water before rising up and dive bombing the open window

(Do I get inside and do I see Baba?)

Henry rockets in through the window and lands lightly inside the hut. Baba Lysaga says: "Oh fuck."

The hut is fifteen feet on a side and packed with old furniture, including a wooden cot, a wicker cabinet, a slender wardrobe, a wooden table, a stool, a barrel-topped wooden chest reinforced with brass bands, and an iron tub stained with blood. In the middle of the room is a ghastly wooden crib with a small, angelic child sitting in it. All the furnishings except for the crib are bolted to the floor.

Beneath the crib, green light seeps up through cracks between the rotting floorboards.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "As Dawn arrives there is only one thing left for Creatures of the Dark" Henry says slowly rotating the arm holding his War Pick "Ruination" he says in draconic before hurling the Pick at her

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

28 + 2

22 + 2

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Radiant Smite Damage

16

Piercing

5

Acid

23 + 4

24 + 4

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

9

Radiant Smite Damage

11

Piercing

7

Acid

Baba Lysaga: As someone who understands Draconic, Baba Lysaga is very much afraid. She has not encountered adventurers of this caliber before, not in all her many hundreds of years in the service of Strahd. She fears for herself, but she fears even more for Strahd. As the hammer falls upon her, she screams out: "Strahd! Strahd, help me! Help your Baba!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: 27piercing 12 acid 21 radiant

The twin blows deal devastating damage, spinning the old hag completely around. She glares angrily past a swelling eye, raising her finger as though about to cast a curse (on her turn)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (concentration please 33 first attack 27 second)

Baba Lysaga: "Strahd, help me!"

CONSTITUTION
Baba Lysaga
Ability: 17 6

Henry of Willowsbrook: (you know what lets live a little Action Surge)

$$15 + 3 \quad | \quad 22 + 3$$

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

4

Radiant Smite Damage

17

Piercing

9

Acid

$$29 + 3 \quad | \quad 19 + 3$$

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

11

Radiant Smite Damage

11

Piercing

8

Acid

Baba Lysaga's concentration holds for the first blow, but the second blow breaks it. The hut begins to shrink...

WHAM, WHAM.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (without smites I'm sorry

She can't take much more of this.

GM: (30 and 30)

Correction, she can't take any more of this.

Henry of Willowsbrook: no simte damage sorry
I have no spell slots left for the last two attacks

GM: (Shhhhhh, shhhhhh)

(It's ok)

(You're near a powerful nature artifact so you're ok)

Suldae Westwind: (its a smite because the spirits of the land just really dont like her XD)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (well ok then nevermind)

The final blow whips her head completely around, three hundred and sixty degrees, with a ratcheting sound like the sudden twisting of a damp piece of wood. She drops where she stands. The baby instantly disappears. The Shambling Mounds dissolve. The hut continues to shrink and settle, becoming less magical by the moment.

Henry senses something beneath the floorboards, under the crib. A greenish light glows there...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "huh" Henry lets out

Marcus Veranius sees the hut shrinking and immediately books it for the raven cages

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to look outside "SHE IS DEAD" he yells out

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait, what?"
"Really?"

Marcus Veranius: "It's midnight somewhere in the world!"

The ravens in the cages are squawking noisily as they begin to sink into the water.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I DO NOT WANT TO TOUCH ANYTHING CAUSE IT IS STILL A HAG HOUSE CAN YOU MAGICY FOLK PLEASE COME OVER"

Marcus Veranius: "LITTLE HELP HERE!"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena swings her hands, and the water recedes as swiftly as it arrived, leaving the hut sunk in dry mud.

Marcus Veranius attempts to shoot out the wood holding the bird cages to hut since he lacks anything else to fire at Suldae Westwind: Suldae finishes the song with light, airy notes, as the cloud dissolves.

She flies over to the hut.

Ireena Kolyana: 3085.7142857142862

GM: (You each gain 3086 points of XP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh and the Baby wasn't real I think? It Disappeared as she died so..." Henry says shurging seeing his friends come closer

Marcus Veranius: "Incidentally, I'm getting married in a few days! Do clean yourselves up; gotta look your best for the bride yes?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lets out a breath as she hears about the baby.

She approaches the seed.

22

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (glowing under the crib)

Marcus Veranius: (GM is gone. Someone wanna set up a downtime channel in discord?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Gm left so no exposition for now on roll20)

GM (GM): Hello all!

Does it feel a bit like being late to class but the professor coming in five minutes after you do?

Tops K.: If Strahd is late by 15 minutes we are legally allowed to leave Barovia

Suldae Westwind:

E> E> E>

Ismark Kolyanovich examines the skull of the Giant, which still protrudes slightly from the mud.

Suldae opens the wardrobe and examines the inside, careful not to touch anything she's not confident about.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

Suldae sees a large mirror in a black crystal frame, and a set of wooden pigeonholes containing dozens of rare and mysterious dried ingredients, some of which appear to be distinctly human. She also spots three spell scrolls and a wand of twisted bone. There is also a pewter mortar and pestle, and several bottles, beakers, and vials, all corked and empty. On the door of the wardrobe are three red potions and three blue potions, and a seventh potion with strange and swirling patterns of color.

Ireena Kolyana: (Previously:) "Well, it's disarmed but still locked." (Ireena speaking about the chest)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae carefully picks up the scrolls one by one and examines them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Want to see a magic trick?" Henry says walking over to the chest and fishing out a crowbar

Marcus Veranius leaves the others to their meddling of the witch's belongings, not feeling like getting cursed today

Marcus Veranius: He instead consorts with the other Feathers outside

Henry of Willowsbrook: (do I roll for opening the chest?)

Marcus Veranius: "So, I don't suppose you overheard anything about that third Winery Seed from the baba's lips? We've still not a clue as to where it might be."

Suldae determines that the first spell scroll is a scroll of Contagion. The second is a scroll of Dominate Person. The third is a scroll of Greater Restoration.

GM: (For the chest that's athletics with advantage due to the crowbar. DC 20)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

11

11

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(wow)

Wereraven: "I'm afraid their origins are a true mystery, but they long helped our brethren in the winery to support living vines and fruiting plants. Without these, I fear the vineyard will begin to crumble..."

Henry strains against the lock, but finds it too sturdy for simple force to break — even for his mighty muscles.

Marcus Veranius: "Not so worried about where they came from so much as where they went. One's here, one's with the druids in their camp. But a third was stolen before those, and I've not the slightest clue where."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "okay slightly annoying" Henry says putting the crowbar away and again drawing his Pick "if you can't find a way, make one" and he takes a swing at the top of the chest

Marcus Veranius: "I had thought Baba Lysaga might have arranged its theft but if she was silent..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae calls Ireena over to look at Lysaga's storage. This all seems more like a wizard thing, though she does tuck the scrolls into her own bag - after showing them to Ireena, of course. Nasty, these.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Piercing

2

Acid

19

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Piercing

5

Acid

SMASH. SMASH.

Henry makes a large hole in the top of the chest.

Dust begins to settle into the dark innards of the chest. Then, quite suddenly, something like a huge, hairy-knuckled spider scuttles out of the hole and scurries down the side of the chest, lickety-split.

A moment later, three others follow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh what?"

Crawling Claw:

CLAW Crawling Claw <hr/> Attack: 4 23 claw's choice.
--

Damage: 2 + 4 bludgeoning or slashing

Something suddenly leaps across the room like a disembodied fist, socking Henry in the jaw.

It continues to hang onto his face. Suldae sees that it is, in fact, a hand.

GM: (You may roll initiative if you want to, but these things are stupidly easy to kill so it may be faster not to)

Suldae Westwind: When in doubt, play. This old bardic wisdom. Replace "l" with "r" and you'll get the cleric one. Either way Suldae raises the flute to her lips.

DC14

Dexterity Save

7
Radiant
 60 feet

Sacred Flame
 Suldae Westwind

Crawling Claw:

DEXTERITY Crawling Claw <hr/> Ability: 11
--

FWOOSH. The Crawling Claw on Henry's face is consumed in flickering holy radiance, and falls to the ground, immediately curling in on itself like a flash-fried tarantula.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh fuck this" Henry hurls his pick at two of the other ones

16

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

15
Piercing

4
Acid

27

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

17

0

Two Crawling Claws find themselves turned into a fine paste of rot, smeared across the floorboards.
Henry's Warpick returns to his hand.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks over the chest to make sure there aren't more of these.

Ireena Kolyana:

Mage Hand

Conjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A point you choose within range

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

A spectral, floating hand appears at a point you choose within range. The hand lasts for the duration or until you dismiss it as an action. The hand vanishes if it is ever more than 30 feet away from you or if you cast this spell again. You can use your action to control the hand. You can use the hand to manipulate an object, open an unlocked door or container, stow or retrieve an item from an open container, or pour the contents out of a vial. You can move the hand up to 30 feet each time you use it. The hand can't attack, activate magic items, or carry more than 10 pounds.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (there is one more)

(for now)

Ireena's mage hand shoots out and grasps the last one, which was about to drop from the rafters onto Suldae's head.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena keeps it gripped in her mental grasp.

"Anybody want it?"

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Meanwhile, Suldae sees no signs of more in the chest.

Suldae Westwind: "Do you want it?" Suldae questions as she backs away from under the thing after making sure there aren't more.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It almost made me bite my tounge" Henry complains Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says, "It's giving me the heebie jeebies, honestly."

Suldae Westwind: "You're welcome," Suldae mutters, not taking her eyes off the one on the ceiling.
"Ireena, thank you"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's mage hand brings it lower, dangling it in front of Suldae teasingly.

 Suldae Westwind: It's not that Suldae has anything against spiders or spider-like creatures. She loves all nature, really. As long as it's not jumping on her head.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Careful, I might drop it!"

The severed, rotting hand makes a rude gesture in Ireena's direction.

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae backs away another step.
"Just as long as it's not on me, thanks."

 Henry of Willowsbrook:

24

30ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

15
Piercing

4
Acid

GM: (Go ahead and RP that)
(Goodbye, piñata)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm not dealing with this langer than I have to" Henry says swinging overhead down at the hand-thing

SMASH.

The Claw feebly twitches, and lies still.

 Ireena Kolyana: "I feel kind of bad for whoever she took those from," Ireena says.
"Probably previous thieves..."
"Oh well. Shall we look inside the chest now?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah" Henry says leaning over to look into the chest Pick at the ready this time

 Suldae Westwind: "You know, that's very fair," Suldae says, even though she wanted to protest the reason she didn't kill the thing was that Ireena sounded like she wanted it. For... something.
Probably just to tease her.
But you can't just ASSUME.

The chest contains a large sack of coins, a small silver box, a vial of clear, gelatinous oil, sparkling with tiny, ultra thin silver shards, two crumbling scrolls of great power, a small leather pouch containing what sounds like ball bearings but feels strangely magical, and a set of bone pipes with a skull motif.

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda looks at Marcus. "Sounds like they're making something of a Ruckus in there. Should we help them out?"

 Rictavio: Rictavio and Ismark are now both interested in getting the skull out of the mud, and are working on doing so. "Don't mind us," Rictavio says.

Suldae Westwind: (Bone pipes, as in?...)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well let's take all this and the potions and meet up with Kasimir and Joan we can look at all these when we are somewhere less ,,this"

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "I genuinely don't want to poke around in there. It's probably all fancy shmancy magic stuff."

Marcus Veranius: "What's your take on the seed hunt then? If Baba Lysaga and the Druids aren't responsible for the third seed's disappearance, then who might?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I imagine the only person left who could have any use for it would be Strahd himself."

"Unless it was taken by someone benign, to protect it. But I think, in this land, we must not assume that."

Marcus Veranius: "Except Strahd's only recently woken up, yeah?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Did someone say that? I don't recall."

"If that is the case, then maybe we should be asking around a little more."

Marcus Veranius: "Davian said the seed was stolen under Urwin's watch. Assuming that was when he was a lad... maybe 10-20 years ago?"

"Not ancient times, but long enough that the seed's power might have noticeably leaked into the area around it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around for a sack or pouch to put all the magic things into so that they can work out what it all does later

Marcus Veranius: "Has the rumor mill mentioned anything of a wellspring of life around Barovia as of late?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena casts Floating Disc. The chest lifts off the ground silently.

"We can take the whole thing."

Wereraven: "Not that I am aware of..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I have to say, Barovia and Ravenloft are both known for being rather... Desolate.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Right I keep forgetting you can do that" Henry begins to place the potions and alchemy supplies carefully in the now floating chest

Marcus Veranius turns his attention to the hut. "I suppose if the seed was implanted in a construct then it wouldn't have improved the land's quality as its intended purpose."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "That's fair... Now we have to wonder what kind of horrifying constructs one might be able to raise with it."

Marcus Veranius: "Only ones I can think of that are manipulating life at the moment is the Deva and his flesh golems..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Flesh golems..." Ezmerelda mouths, thoughtfully.

Marcus Veranius: "...well, Henry's been pretty good at growing trees everywhere."

"Maybe HE'S the third seed and we don't know it!"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I think... Didn't the Deva say he's been working on that little project of his for a while now?"

"Although it's not out of the question to assume that he could use his own power to raise such things... The powers of angels are mysterious, and their magic is far mightier than that of mortals."

Marcus Veranius: "We don't exactly get a second chance if we kill him over a seed that may or may not be in his possession."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So all done let's get out of here" Henry says shooing Ireena and Suldae out of the hut

Marcus Veranius: "...although the proximity to the Winery checks out."

Ireena Kolyana: The Chest floats along behind Ireena.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "And he would feel entitled to it. And like he was protecting it..."

Marcus Veranius: "Bollocks. Well, I could try a Detect Objects spell in proximity to his estate."

Suldae Westwind: "Maybe we can talk him into giving it back," Suldae suggests.

"He is still in principle driven by wanting to help."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Assuming he has it, that is."

"He may not."

Ireena Kolyana: "With his senses, he may know who does."

Rictavio: "Aha!"

Rictavio and Ismark have managed to pull the skull from the mud.

They are oohing and aahing over it like a pair of teenagers with a shiny red Porsche.

Ireena Kolyana: "Don't play with that thing, Ismark. You don't know what it can do."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You're not the only one with some magical know-how, sis."

Ismark hops into the hollowed cranium of the skull.

He begins to make zooming noises with his mouth, and pretend that he is piloting it.

Rictavio: Rictavio clumsily heaves himself over the side.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits until he is alone in the hut to turn to Lysagas corpse "Kaismir you morbid git well I said I would" he murmurs looking for a cleaver as to not have to use his sword

Rictavio: "Here, budge over."

There is a conveniently placed silver dagger on the wardrobe dresser, beneath the mirror in its black crystal frame.

Henry senses a dark power in that mirror... A dark, and ancient, and watchful power not of this plane.

Marcus Veranius: "We still need to go back to the Deva's estate with that dress. At least to revive the Heir of Kresk."

"Wouldn't be a bad time to do some poking around."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Should that be our next stop?"

Marcus Veranius: "We'll want to be in proper sanctuary for when the moon comes in two days."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, look! Abyssal runes!"

Marcus Veranius: "Really should be our next stop."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I can read these. How much you want to bet it's a command word?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks into the mirror for a moment grabbing the dagger He flares his power, first deep emerald green to radiant gold "Oh I hope you are watching this whatever you are" he says beheading Lysaga

The dagger cuts through Lysaga like she is nothing but mist. Henry has never felt an edge cut like this...

Lysaga and her head are now separated.

The entity in the mirror suddenly seems to retreat... Henry has the strangest feeling that he has pleased it somehow.

The dagger feels warm in his hand. It has kept not a drop of blood on its strange, black-ish blade.

Henry has the strangest feeling that he does not want to share this dagger... After all, in the wrong hands, it could be very dangerous.

There is a scabbard for it on the dresser. It is simple, but it seems like craftsmanship beyond the skill of this world.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well atleast something here was well maintained" he says wrapping the head in a sheet

GM: (A sheet from the bed or a sheet from the crib?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (anything that would cover it the more mundae the better)

Taking a sheet from Baba Lysaga's bed, he wraps her head in it and makes a nice bundle with a grip-able knot.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He also sheets the dagger and places it on his belt absentmindedly before walking out

GM: (Was that sheets or sheathes)

(Because it will go right through anything you wrap it in, other than its own sheath)

Henry of Willowsbrook: sheath

GM: (Gotcha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (typo stikes again)

Suldae Westwind: (well now I'm imagining Henry trying to wrap the dagger in a sheet and it just kidn of ocming apart)

(like objects clipping thru each other in video games)

(collision turned off)

Henry emerges from the hut and sees the others gathered nearby. Ireena, with a chest floating behind her, next to Suldae. Rictavio and Ismark inside Baba Lysaga's Giant Skull vehicle. Ismark appears to be reading some ancient runes etched into the interior of the skull, which may or may not be a good thing. Ezmerelda stands beside Marcus and several were raven captives, recently freed.

Marcus Veranius: "I swear to god, we're all gunna end up under some Night Mother curse at this rate."

"All we need is one person who can't sleep in the day and one who can't sleep at night. Then our group is bollocked."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "You'd need to get the curse of the Day Daddy for that one," says Ezmerelda.

Rictavio: Rictavio grimaces.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So anything else? If not let's go place is starting to make everything I own slightly damp and I hate it"

Ismark Kolyanovich: ~~"NONE MOTHER LET YOU SERVE"~~

Marcus Veranius: "Agreed. Ismark; leave the..."

:|

Suldae Westwind:

13

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius starts stepping away from the skull

Suldae feels Arcane power gathering in the Skull. In the empty sockets, two yellow stars begin to glow.

The skull jolts suddenly, and begins to rise steadily into the air.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Haha! See! Told you!"

Rictavio: "Well, this changes our logistics a bit... I wonder how many it can carry?"

"Can you control it?"

Marcus Veranius: "ISMARK turn that thing off! The night mother very much doesn't like our group as is! I don't trust that thing to not bite us in the night!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Right," Suldae says, faintly worried. "We can trust his judgement, right?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, hearing Suldae say this, grows quite pale.

Suldae Westwind: She has warmed up to Ismark considerably since the beginning of their acquaintance, but...

Ireena Kolyana: "Right... No, no we cannot."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ismark I have to fight one more moving bodypart because of you I swear by the light I will deck y-oh huh neat" Henry breaks of his angry tyraid "Can we go now?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark concentrates.

The skull makes a quick orbit of the hut, then glides smoothly down to land before the group.

"Neat."

Marcus Veranius: "There is no way Strahd isn't going to be tracking his mom's car!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Anybody want a ride?"

Marcus Veranius: *cart

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, you can examine this thing to make sure it's not cursed, right?"

"Right?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "No offense, Ismark. I'm sure you checked," Suldae lies baldly.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena comes closer to the skull and places her hand upon it. She concentrates for several minutes...

Marcus Veranius grumps. He wants a ride but isn't going to break his pride

Suldae Westwind: "I'd just rather double check."

Ireena Kolyana: After a long time, Ireena straightens up and dusts herself off.

"Well, it's not cursed."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Just a flying skull"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's just a construct with some command words, and a permanent psychic link to one pilot."

"It's attuned to him now, so I think it's fine."

Suldae Westwind: "Permanent psychic link doesn't happento mean anything like 'if the skull is damaged he gets damaged too' or anything?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Of course, if Strahd knows we have it, he could very easily use it to scry upon us."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How long has it been since we left Kasimir and Joan to fight? more than an hour?)

GM: (Probably)

Ireena Kolyana: "But we have means to protect against that. I have Nondetection, and Private Sanctum."

"I don't think Ismark would be harmed by it being damaged..."

Suldae Westwind: "...So, how many people can fit inside this?"

Suldae eyes the skull quite happily.

Judging by the size of the skull, it seems able to hold about five people with standing room only.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Great well let's go" Henry repeats in a monotone

Suldae Westwind: "...Let's go back to camp. I think our logistics just improved."

And they just got horses. Ah well, more is better, right?

(Assuming there is no objection) The party is soon approaching the camp, where Joan waits anxiously for Henry. And the others, probably.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a runup and vaults into the skull

(no objection just showing off)

Marcus Veranius is walking to camp as everyone else rides the skull cart

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda walks with him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rides on top of the skull in raven form.

Marcus Veranius has a look of exhaustion, either from the fighting or the skull cartery going on behind him

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena has to walk, so that the floating disc doesn't lag behind too much. It cannot move as quickly as she could in raven form or by riding the skull.

Suldae Westwind: *Suldae rides on top of the chest.

Along the way back to camp, the party spots several rotting scarecrows. They have become truly lifeless, without their master.

Ireena Kolyana maintains a respectful distance from Marcus and Ezmerelda, so that she can just barely see them in the fog ahead. This is as much for their privacy as for her and Suldae's.

Marcus Veranius: "...so, I have a confession to make. Don't be mad."

The skull lands near the camp, some time before the walking members reach it.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Ok, I'm ready to be mad."

Marcus Veranius flinches

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Kasimir? Are you still awake?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm teasing, Marcus. What's got you so nervous?"

Joan: (Shushing) "No no, he's sleeping. At least, I think he's sleeping... His eyes are open and he's sitting up. It's a bit creepy, if you ask me."

Rictavio and Ismark hop out of the skull and proceed to chow down on Joan's latest stew with gusto, despite eating not that long ago.

Marcus Veranius: "...so you know how Kasimir was talking about Strahd's henchman running about? This Rahadin fellow?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Yes?"

Marcus Veranius: "Well, I assume he's going to be trying to cut at our party's heartstrings."

"I also assume Strahd is going to scry what went on at the Baba's shack at the time of her death, and knowingly talked of our wedding as the happiest time of my life."

Ireena Kolyana: "We make a pretty good team," Ireena says to Suldae, quietly, as she walks on through the mist.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda nods thoughtfully to what Marcus is saying.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Elves don't sleep I think" Henry says walking over to Kasimir "I got something for you if you can hear me sorry for waking you up"

Marcus Veranius: "...which, if I'm lucky, may have given Rahadin invitation to our wedding as a crasher."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I see."

"Well... We will have to make certain that we do it somewhere even he cannot reach."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns humanoid again and bumps her shoulder with her own.

"Yeah."

Marcus Veranius: "No, I think we should let him try to crash it."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's eyes — still open — suddenly focus on Henry's face. He sees the thing in the sack.

Marcus Veranius: "It's our best chance of cornering an invisible man."

Suldae Westwind: "I just... I keep trying to picture things being better after we're done here."

Kasimir Velikov: His face splits into an uncharacteristically wide and malicious grin.

Suldae Westwind: "I'm too scared."

"But it's not impossible, right?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Nothing is impossible."

"That's one thing learning magic has taught me."

"I never thought I'd be a wizard, Suldae."

"It's changed how I see a lot of things."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "You know what?"

"I like the way you think, Marcus."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Gods please don't do that it's freaking me out" Henry says seeing the smile but hands over the sack

Suldae Westwind: "Bards and wizards study magic differently," Suldae says, "but we both do. I think I know a little of what you mean."

"You tell me, though."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir unwraps the sack very slowly. He gazes — almost lovingly — down into the dead eyes of Baba Lysaga.

"Thank you, Henry. You are a good friend."

"I am in your debt."

Marcus Veranius: "...this DOES of course sabotage our special day a bit. Which is why I apologize for bringing business to the table."

"Can I make it up to you?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda grins mischievously. "Oh, I imagine there are... Certain things you could do."

"It might take a few hundred attempts to really satisfy me though."

"For starters, how about this: we kill Rahadin together."

"A wedding gift to each other — and a party favor for Strahd."

Marcus Veranius blushes

Henry of Willowsbrook: "About that could you take a look at this" Henry says offering him the dagger "I-I don't remember taking it with me and I don't want to freak out the others...this blade is wicked and I'm not just talking about it's cutting edge"

Marcus Veranius: "How many weapons do you think can be snuck under a wedding dress?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, to Suldae, says: "Well, it's like this. The world doesn't usually change for just one person. Not in a meaningful way, not in an immediate way. The will of one person doesn't shape the cosmos. But when you study magic, you learn... Well, you learn that your will can turn back rivers, and make a swamp into dry land, or make dry land into a lake. The world itself starts to reshape itself for you — just a little bit at first, but soon enough in bigger and bigger ways."

"I don't want to stop learning magic."

"But I have to admit that the power of it does frighten me a little sometimes..."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at the dagger. He refrains, very carefully, from touching it.

"That is a vorpal dagger. Take very, very good care of it."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "That depends on how magnificent the wedding dress is."

"Don't expect me to walk down the aisle wearing white, either."

"The Vistana wear bright crimson on their wedding day."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir places both hands to the sides of Baba Lysaga's head.

Lightning crackles quietly at the contact, and electric power pulses into the skull.

Marcus Veranius ponders. "Can we compromise to Raven Queen black? Given the arranged nature of this whole party, we might have more luck with a tailor there than here."

Kasimir Velikov: Baba Lysaga's face twitches horribly, revived temporarily by the sudden infusion of arcane power. Such is Kasimir's control of the lightning that he is able to stimulate her brain just enough to continue the patterns of her soul... He seems to enjoy the look of horror she gives him as the lightning begins to fade once again. The light fades from her eyes and her hair stops standing on end.

"There."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods thoughtfully.

"It's... different, for bards. We don't really change the world in that way, we just... nudge it. Push it along the lines it already wants to go. It's different, because it's - it's about other people. I can't cut down a mountain because just / want it, but I could get it done if others had reason to want it to."

Kasimir Velikov: "That's better."

"Now I can rest."

Suldae Westwind: "It's.. safer. It's also more dangerous, more fragile. When you grow stronger, you'll be able to protect yourself in ways I can't." Suldae does not sound concerned about it, because she isn't. This is right.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I suppose we could compromise, yes. Since we'll both be joining the traditions of our new culture."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait Vorp! Like Leonids sword in the Chronicles of the Griffon? Light be kind"

Suldae Westwind: "Maybe I'll be able to protect you from bad decisions, though," she suggests after a short pause. "It's a bard's job, in many ways."

Ireena Kolyana: "I'd like that."

Kasimir Velikov: "Where did you get this dagger?"

Suldae Westwind: "I like the idea of... being a powerful wizard's consort, among all other things I'll undoubtedly do," Suldae glances at her, smiling shyly.

Ireena Kolyana: "Consort? Consort?"

"I'm sure we can get you a better title than that."

"Concubine, maybe."

"Hmm..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "In her hut used it to cut her head of didn't want her blood on my sword"

Marcus Veranius: "We do have ONE advantage in identifying Rahadin at the very least. If Kasimir's testimony is true, to stand near him is to hear the souls of all he's killed."

Ireena Kolyana: She smiles teasingly.

Kasimir Velikov: "Be very cautious how you use that blade."

"Such things are... Complicated."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae giggles helplessly, pushing her forehead into Ireena's shoulder.

Marcus Veranius: "Just gotta keep an eye out for loners standing away from everyone else. Easier at the altar when we have a full view of the chapel."

Suldae Westwind: Ireena's like a head taller than her. It's excellent.

Joan: "Would you like some more stew, Henry?"

"Or perhaps some roast chicken? It's almost ready."

Suldae Westwind: "Words have power, Ireena. Trust a bard on that."

Joan: "I made some bread, too."

Suldae Westwind: "It's up to you which ones you want to say."

Ireena Kolyana: "I trust you," Ireena says, suddenly deadly serious.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well it's not really my style so worry not" He says gesturing at his weapons and armor "Thank you I'll take some when the others get here"

Ireena Kolyana: There is a pain and sorrow in her eyes — often masked, but for once unveiled.

Joan: "Surely you need the food more than they do. After carrying them on your back for so many long hours!"

Suldae Westwind: "I'm scared," Suldae admits to her. "I trust you, too, and - I'm so scared of what we're doing, of what's going to happen, of what can happen. We're trying to change the fate of an entire plane. Can you honestly tell me we know the slightest bit of what we're doing?"

Ireena Kolyana: "No."

"No, I can't."

"I know we're not the first to try, but..."

"I feel like we'll be the last."

"Somehow, I feel that."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae bumps into her with her forehead again, grateful. "Hopefully because we win and not because we kill everyone inside, right?"

"I'm happy enough doing it with you, you know. It's... it's enough to try. I'm not paralyzed by fear or anything."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir twists the Weave, and Baba Lysaga's head bursts into flame in his hands. The flame reflects in his eyes as the flesh blazes off the skull. Within a few moments all that remains is a pile of greasy ash.

Kasimir disperses it with a wave.

Suldae Westwind: "I think I just can't quite believe it until it's done. Call it a bard's silly superstition."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena puts an arm around Suldae's shoulders.

"I think, together, we're unstoppable."

"We just have to make sure everybody stays together."

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah," Suldae perks up. "We can do that work together, right?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands up and stretches before walking over to Joan placing a hand on her shoulder and looking at her sternly "They are my friends and also your employers same as me so I'd rather you take care of them as you would take care of me"

Ireena Kolyana: "As long as you don't go running off like that again."

Joan: "Well, do you know how much longer they'll be? The food is hot now. Oh, that reminds me, I'd better check on the champagne."

Suldae Westwind: "I was going to say that to you," Suldae jabs her side with an elbow slightly. "Okay, I promise I won't go scouting on my own again without taking you with me. Deal?"

Joan briefly leaves the circle of firelight and pulls two bottles of champagne out of the mud.

Joan: "Courtesy of the former Burgomaster of Vallaki," explains Joan. "The mud is cold enough to chill them a little."

Ireena Kolyana: "Deal."

Suldae Westwind: It would be reasonable to just say "without telling you", of course, but Suldae wants to get Ireena to agree to come with her, sneakily.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Well, there's the camp..."

Suldae Westwind: It feels like an excellent plan.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm ready for dinner, are you?"

Suldae Westwind: They finally reach the camp, at that.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "One moment" Henry says seeing the bootles walks a bit in the direction the others will come from " COULD YOU oh already here"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark seats himself next to Kasimir. He has been watching Kasimir's morbid display with interest.

He says nothing. Kasimir says nothing in return. They seem to be highly aware of one another's presence, despite the lack of words between them.

Joan: "Ah, they're finally here!"

"Come on in! I have roast chicken, fresh bread, and stew!"

"I also have ChAmPaGnE!"

"Enough for a glass or two all round!"

Rictavio: "Excellent, I'll take three."

Marcus Veranius nods, heading into camp fashionably late. Turns out walking is slower than flying skulls Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles broadly to everyone, plopping down in exhaustion.

Sure it's only mid-afternoon, but it's been a quite full day.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well Let's eat and check what evil we looted this time" Henry says with a morbidly wide grin before laughing and digging in to some food

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena commands the Floating Disc to deposit the chest near the fire, where everyone can check it out.

The chest contains a large sack of coins, a small silver box, a vial of clear, gelatinous oil, sparkling with tiny, ultra thin silver shards, two crumbling scrolls of great power, a small leather pouch containing what sounds like ball bearings but feels strangely magical, and a set of bone pipes with a skull motif.

It also contains three red potions, three blue potions, and a small vial of something translucent, in which silvery threads dance sparkingly.

GM: (Wait that last potion is not that one)

(Last potion is a multicolored concoction that keeps changing colors)

Marcus Veranius: "So about how much of this stuff do you think is cursed?"

Suldae Westwind: "So, how much of this is cursed?" Suldae asks, looking into it bright eyed. Her gaze keeps shifting to the pipes.

"HA"

Marcus Veranius: "Like minds!"

Suldae Westwind: She offers Marcus a high five.

Marcus Veranius accepts that offer

Ireena Kolyana: "Well..."

"Let's see."

"Kasimir? Ismark? Can you help?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir and Ismark stand at the same time and approach.

They both stare down into the chest with Ireena.

Kasimir plucks out the small vial of clear, gelatinous oil. "Oil of Sharpness."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark picks up the pouch of ball bearings and opens it. "Ooh, magic sling bullets!" (+1 sling bullets, 10 of them)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena picks up the pipes. "Fear-inducing magic pipes... I guess you could call them Pipes of Haunting or something like that."

Marcus Veranius: "Spooky."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir picks up the silver box and opens it. His expression does not change, but both Ismark and Ireena go "Oooh!"

Ireena Kolyana: "Gemstones!" Ireena says.

"Each of this must be worth... Gosh, 500 gp or more."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm not very intimidating," Suldae says cheerfully as she reaches for the pipes.

"I'm sure these can help"

Marcus Veranius: "Material components maybe?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Let's see... Two diamonds and three rubies. Each worth about 500 gold pieces."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark picks up something else from inside the silver box. "And what is this, I wonder?"

Kasimir looks over his shoulder at it.

Ismark's eyes blaze with darkness and hidden fire.

Kasimir Velikov: "A... A stone of good luck. I've never seen one in person."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena turns to examine the other potions.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the red and blue potions uncorking one each and sniffing them

Suldae Westwind: Suldae moves a foot away from others and starts tooting on the flute carefully, exploring its sounds and effect on the Weave.

(do i roll performance or arcana for this XD)

GM: (Henry can make an Arcana check for each type of potion, with advantage if he has an alchemy kit or alchemical proficiency)

(For the check from Suldae, either one will suffice)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18

ARCANA (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

10

ARCANA (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry is able to determine that the red potions are Potions of Superior Healing.

He cannot determine what the blue potions are, he is unfamiliar with the scent.

Marcus Veranius: "You know, this stone of luck might have helped a bit more if the Baba kept it on her person."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena wordlessly hands the sack of coins to Marcus. "Here, you have counting experience."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "These are healing ones more potent then the ones we have" he says putting the red ones away "These I got no clue" holding out the blue ones

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes one of the blue potions, uncorks it, and tips the tip of her finger into it. She dabs it to her tongue and concentrates thoughtfully.

"Oh wow..."

"This must be her own personal recipe."

"This potion, it... It restores arcane power."

"Drinking the whole bottle would probably restore even a powerful caster to a fully-rested state."

"We should save these."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir examines the last potion. He swirls it several times before his eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah we should"

Marcus Veranius flexes his counting experience and starts tallying the wealth

Kasimir Velikov: "This is..."

"Phenomenal. This is a..."

"This is a potion of Storm Giant strength."

He hands it wordlessly to Henry.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark frowns. "Hey, what if I wanted it?"

Marcus Veranius: "So we can be half as strong as Henry then."

Kasimir Velikov: "Your strength is in the force of your soul," says Kasimir, gently.

Suldae Westwind:

25

ARCANA (11)
Suldae Westwind

+2

Henry of Willowsbrook: "nah a Storm Gaint would snap me like a tooth pick if the storys are true"

The sound of the Pipes is a haunting, eery tune, which sends chills down the spines of all who hear it.

GM: (A potion of Superior Healing does 8d4+8 points of healing)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark seems flattered by Kasimir's remark, then a little terrified by Henry's.

"Gods. So if you drank it, maybe you could snap Strahd in half too?"

"Or maybe his whole castle."

Joan begins to pass around glasses of champagne.

GM: (Marcus, make an intelligence check with advantage)

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, thank you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could for damn sure make an effort for it"

Marcus Veranius takes a sip

Marcus Veranius:

2 | 15

INTELLIGENCE (0)
Marcus Veranius

The champagne is light, sweet, and slightly dry. It has a marvelously smooth fizz.

Marcus finishes counting. There are 1,300 gold pieces in the sack.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena picks up the two spell scrolls.

Suldae Westwind: (I don't get a more detailed description, do I?)

GM: (Check the popup for Pipes of Haunting, there's a handout)

Marcus Veranius: "1300 gold. Any objections to me putting it with the rest of our group funds?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not from me"

Marcus Veranius attempts to lift the bag

Ireena Kolyana: "No objection here," Ireena says. She can't seem to make heads or tails of the spell scrolls.

Marcus Veranius drops the back

Marcus Veranius: "On second thought, I have an objection."

Ireena Kolyana: She passes them to Kasimir, who shakes his head after a brief glance and hands them to Ismark.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark says "These are beyond me."
He hands them to Suldae.

Marcus Veranius: "This thing weights like 30 pounds!"
(Marcus does not have the carry capacity to hold this much gold)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae examines the scrolls as well.
(Do I make an Arcana check or?)

GM: (Go ahead)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we really need like a bag of holding or something)

GM: (With advantage)

Suldae Westwind:

$$14 + 1 \quad | \quad 33 + 1$$

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(wait, what?)

Marcus Veranius: (coinpurse of holding)

Suldae realizes instantly that these are both powerful cleric spells.

Marcus Veranius: (SKULL OF MONEY STORAGE)

One is a scroll of Mass Cure Wounds, and the other is a scroll of... Revivify.

Suldae Westwind: (right, ignore the +1, I'm turning that off)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Can't we just lug everything around in the skull now?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whistles slowly.

Marcus Veranius: "Sounds like a good way of getting robbed."

Suldae Westwind: "...Well, I'm taking those," she says after a second.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I resent that," says Ismark. "It's not like I would just fly away with all the party gold, cackling gleefully like an old witch as I got away Scott free."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir raises an artful eyebrow.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't mean you Ismark."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well, maybe you should have."

 Marcus Veranius: "Seems a poor idea to leave property in a flying vehicle."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "A flying vehicle which only I can pilot, but still. I see your point."

 Marcus Veranius: "We'd never be able to catch it if it goes rogue"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "So who takes what of this"

 Suldae Westwind: "I'm taking the scrolls and the pipes, unless someone else can play those?" Suldae raises an eyebrow.

 Kasimir Velikov: "I shall take none of it," says Kasimir, taking his glass of champagne from Joan. He seats himself once again, curiosity sated, and sips his champagne, and eats his dinner.

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "I'm good with the scraps," says Ismark. "I think I have an easier time recovering arcane power than the other casters."

 Rictavio: "Do any of us even have a sling?"

 Marcus Veranius takes the superior healing potion

GM: (There are three)

(And three of the Mana potions)

 Marcus Veranius: "We have enchanted weapons. Ammo's cost-inefficient."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Now I want to know if Baba Lysaga had a sling. That could have been funny to see."

 Rictavio: "I imagine these are items stolen from slain adventurers, with the exception, perhaps, of the potions."

 Suldae Westwind: "I fly above you in a flaming skull... fear my sling!"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Say, we never did find bottles of Alchemist's Fire..."

 Marcus Veranius: "No wonder they were slain if balls was their best trick."
"Must have been crushing for luck stone guy to realize his luck ran out."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'd take this If none of you object" Henry takes a Superior Healing potion the Giant Strentgh and a Mana Potion

 Ireena Kolyana: "I don't want to lay claim to something other people will want to use, but I would like one of those blue potions, please."

 Marcus Veranius passes one to Ireena

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes it gladly.

GM: (The Mana Potions restore full spell slots if the entire bottle is drunk. Can restore 1/3rd of total spell slot levels if you drink 1/3rd of it.)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pause for a moment holding up the Oil of Sharpness "Don't think this would help with working on that indestructible piece of bone would it?"

GM: (That's levels of spell slots — so Ireena has (4+6(3 second level)+9(3 third level)+8(2 fourth level)= 27) levels of spell slots)

Marcus Veranius: "I hope it wouldn't."

"Not that I don't want you having a shield faster, but it'd be a bit of a bummer if some plant juice can break through what weapons cant."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark seats himself by Kasimir again and clinks glasses with him. He seems chummier with Kasimir than one might recall.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You want it we are basicly the only ones who are going to get a use out of it"

Rictavio: Rictavio takes his champagne eagerly and downs it like a shot. He appears to have a habit of dipping his bread in the stew, too.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry asks Marcus

Rictavio: Mouth full, Rictavio says: "Thif if deliffous, Joan!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae eyes Ismark and Kasimir and holds back allllll the comments that occur to her regarding that and the long, long time it took them to get out of the coffin.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hear hear!"

Marcus Veranius blinks

Marcus Veranius: "I use a bow. They aint sharp; they're pokey."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Pokeys are but really tiny cuts my friend" Henry says grinning "but I can take it if you don't want it"

Marcus Veranius nods

Marcus Veranius: "You'll get more use out of it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae digs into the food. She smiles at Joan in between bites in a way meant to rather definitively get across how much she's enjoying it.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda says: "Who will be taking that little stone of luck? And the gemstones?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so we have one more healing potion, one mana potion and the luck stone)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Does anyone have a use for them?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes the last healing potion and hands it to Suldae, along with a mana potion.

Marcus Veranius: "I assume our cleric could use the diamonds. Being made alive again is pretty useful."

Ireena Kolyana: "Look, if we start dying..."

"You'll need these."

Rictavio: "You know, I imagine those sling stones could be useful for an animate objects spell. Perhaps that wizard friend of yours who keeps disappearing could use them if he returns?"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae shakes her head. "I cannot cast those spells yet, won't be able to for a long time, likely. You've been handling our resources."

She hesitates, then takes the mana potion.

"You keep the healing one. You're the one who can magically give it out to other people, not me."

Marcus Veranius will hold onto the stones for now

 Sulda Westwind: "And I can help people in other ways."

"And I am usually not the one who gets hurt."

Ireena Kolyana: "But if you were to fall, then where would we be?"

"You should take it."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae rubs her arm half-subconsciously in the place where she remembers Ireena's - yeah.

"I can take care of myself," she says. "I have a couple of last-ditch tricks up my sleeve."

"If people are injured, it's better if multiple people can treat them."

"Please?" she looks at Ireena imploringly.

Marcus Veranius offers the luck stone to Suldae

Ireena Kolyana: "Look."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae shakes her head at Marcus. "I thought Henry should have it."

Ireena Kolyana: "I am not the one that Strahd is likely to attack."

Sulda Westwind: "Yes, which is why you're likely to be the one standing to be able to give it to someone."

Marcus Veranius: (I didnt realise it was claimed. Henry's dibs override)

Sulda Westwind: Suldae glares at her.

(I don't think Henry had dibs)

(I just thought he should take it)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena glares right back.

Marcus Veranius: (I think it should go to whomever has the best diplomacy)

(Gotta stack those friendship points!)

Sulda Westwind: (you know what thats a great call, this sounds like an opposing Charisma check)

12

CHARISMA (5+2)
Sulda Westwind

Ireena Kolyana:

7

CHARISMA (3)

Suldae Westwind: (LMAO AND I THOUGHT I ROLLED BADLY)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena deflates.

Marcus Veranius: (All skill checks are ability checks. So it's a stone of +1 to skills and saves)

Ireena Kolyana: "Fine."

Suldae Westwind: (Marcus, yes, and when was the last time Suldae failed an ability check?)
(Well, okay, there have been a couple of times)

Marcus Veranius: (STACK STACK STACK STACK STACK)

Suldae Westwind: (FAIR)

Marcus Veranius: (SULDAE'S WORD IS LAW)

Suldae Westwind: (I just think Henry should get to stack, like, everything)
(note that he's also a party healer)
(see: concerns about being the last one standing)
(so what happens with the stone, again?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (none has the stone and the two potions are currently with who?)

Ireena Kolyana: (Ireena has taken 1 potion of Superior Healing and 1 Mana potion)
(I think she's the only NPC to take anything so far)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ok so one Mana potion is left and the stone

Suldae Westwind: (Kasimir is also a spellcaster)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I think Kasimir should have the last mana potion," says Ismark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fine by me"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir shakes his cowed head. "No, it should—"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "It should go to Kasimir."
Ismark seems quite firm on this.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods in agreement.

Marcus Veranius: "It should go to the person whose spells saved our group on multiple occasions."
"...so Kasimir."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir bows his head, seeming humbled by this statement.

Marcus Veranius smiles

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's mage hand flies across the campground, takes the potion, and zooms it back into Kasimir's lap.

"Look at it this way. We've missed you, and we don't want you to get captured again."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seems deeply touched.

He keeps his head low, over the bowl of stew, so that his hood hides his features.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Perhaps covering for his discomfort, Ismark turns to the group. "So," he says. "What's next on the agenda?"

"Where do we go from here?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We could go back to Krezk. We have the wedding dress now."

Rictavio: "We could examine that manor we passed on the way here... Argynvostholt."

Ireena Kolyana: "We could head to Yester Hill, and try to collect another one of those pinecones."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's voice shakes slightly. He says: "We could go to the Amber Temple."

Marcus Veranius: "I agree with Ireena. Yester Hill is on the way back to Krezk."

Kasimir Velikov: "It is... not far from here."

Marcus Veranius: "We DO need to visit the Amber Temple, but time has us pressed. It sounds deep enough that two moons might not be enough time to reach its depths."

Suldae Westwind: "Krezk, Yester hill, Argynvost, Amber Temple, and what Henry got told by an owl," Suldae suggests.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So I'll be taking this too then" Henry says tossing the Luck stone up and catching it

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What about the burgomaster of Krezk?" says Ezmerelda. "His son's death does not permit us much time, if we wish to have the angel revive him."

Suldae Westwind: "Or own first, Amber Temple next"

"Krezk first," Suldae agrees with Ezme.

Marcus Veranius: "We have five days on the resurrection."

"Stopping by Yester Hill, we'll be there within a single day."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir is thoughtful. "It depends on the means of resurrection."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So I take the Luck Stone everyone one OK with that?)

Marcus Veranius: (yee o3o_

Suldae Westwind: "I think the guy who promised it to us specified that it's that one," Suldae tells Kasimir.

"Incidentally, it's reallly great to find you alive."

Marcus Veranius: "AND, if the Deva truly has the missing pinecone, then we'll have all three within a day."

Suldae Westwind: "...and what do we do with them, actually?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"...return them to the winery on the way to the Amber Temple?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well, they'd make nice mantelpiece decorations."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes. "Let's go with Marcus's idea over that one."

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't think they'll be safe at the winery."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "They are the Hearts of Dryads that sacrificed themselves to give this land a chance" Henry says

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Henry. "Dryads?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's eyes widen.

"There have been no Dryads in this land since the curse began..."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm sorry, they're what now?" Marcus turns to Henry with a look of concern

"Except these ones apparently, which were planted before the curse took root."

Kasimir Velikov: "Spirits of the trees," says Kasimir.

"Beings of the Feywild, as ancient as the elves."

Rictavio: "And a right bitch to kill, when the need occasionally arises."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seems mortally offended by this. "You have slain them!?"

Marcus Veranius: "He hasn't slain these ones. Let's not get off track."

Rictavio: Rictavio shrugs. "Not all of them are good. Sometimes they take umbrage with the idea of human settlers near their woods."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "They will be freed once the land is freed" Henry says "Sylvanus himself sent them before the curse trapped them as well" he pauses "Who is Sylvanus?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at Henry blankly and shrugs.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena does not seem to know.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark shrugs.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda seems thoughtful, but she turns to Suldae. "Have you heard that name before?"

GM: (Religion check with advantage)

Suldae Westwind: (gimme a sec)

(oh nice)

29 + 2

15 + 2

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

(I was already waiting for my browser to let me access my skill rolls before Ezme's line lol)

(wait shit i need to turn that off again)

(ignore the +2)

Suldae Westwind: (found it)

Suldae remembers the Legends of Lathander, Son of Pelor, God of the Dawn, and his great champion: Sylvanus, God of Wild Nature. Sylvanus is known for his love of forests, his compassion for the wilderness, and his hatred of Talos the Storm Lord, Talona, the Lady of Poison, and the Beastlord Malar. He has many servants: Gwaeron Windstrom, god of Rangers. Lurue, the Unicorn Queen and Queen of the Talking Beasts. Shiallia, Protector of Seedlings. He is also famous for the glory and power of his two divine daughters: Mielikki the Forest Queen, Goddess of Autumn, and Eldath, the Green Goddess, She of the Healing Waters.

Suldae Westwind: (anything on his relationship with Correllon?)

She recalls that in the time in which Lathander and Correllon were lovers, before Correllon created the elves, Correllon gifted Sylvanus to Lathander as something of a house-warming gift for the creation of the First Feywild.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (one sec please Ignor the rolls need to test something)

10.1

INITIATIVE (0.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

19 + 3

CHARISMA SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

19 + 1

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(Kay everything works sorrry)

GM: (No worries)

Suldae Westwind: "God of Wild Nature," Suldae says.

"His domain is part of Correllon's."

"I..." she looks at Henry.

"I feel like this makes them my responsibility, but I'm honestly kind of blanking on ideas."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I knid of meet him sort of..." Henry says trailing of "Real indimidating fella even if weren't 7 feet tall and broad as a bull"

kind

Ireena Kolyana: "It seems, in some ways, they are sort of the responsibility of all of us," says Ireena thoughtfully.

"They gave themselves to protect this land. We have to keep them save, and free them if we can."

Marcus Veranius: "At the very least we owe them for like, the three trees they grew for us at convenient times."

"Three seeds sounds like a fair trade."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hmm" Henry fishes the seed out of his pouch and carefully holds it up

"Might aswell try asking"

Suldae Westwind: "Not sure what you're trying to say is being traded for what, but... yeah, asking is generally a great idea."

Suldae turns from Marcus to Henry as she speaks.

She looks at the seed with a new subdued awes.

*awe

Marcus Veranius: "Well, Sylvanus grew us a tree in the Vallaki gate that one time."

"And at the winery."

"And on top of a dragon."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm just saying I think that adds, not balances out."

Marcus Veranius: "And those were key to us not dying."

Suldae Westwind: "It's on the same side of the equation"

"And the other side is us hopefully managing to not kill everyone in Barovia."

So much optimism!

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'What would you want us to do until we we break the Curse' Henry pushes the question gently with his mind

Henry hears a voice in Sylvan whispering wildly.

Growing frustrated at his inability to understand her, the Dryad Queen touches something deep in the seat of his mind. A flurry of small vines sprout from his right ear, spreading themselves across a small area of his face and into his hair.

Henry has learned Sylvan.

The Queen repeats herself: "Protect me, and find my sisters. Our power is best dispersed from you."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is... a little startled by that.

A little.

It surely can't be bad, right?

Marcus Veranius: "Err. Alright."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So a she says to protect her and find her sisters" Henry repeats don't think leaveing them is in the cards

Marcus Veranius: "So we're cool with Henry as designated seed-bearer then?"

Marcus Veranius stares

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Can I take this out of my ear or will it have to stay?'

,

He asks in his mind

Marcus Veranius: "I like the Izek Strazni look you got going on, but it aint me."

Suldae Westwind: "I get the impression the dryad wants him to be..."

The vines recede... For now.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh Light that fells wierd" Henry says in Sylvan

Ireena Kolyana:

15

Alchemy

Marcus Veranius: This is why Marcus didn't touch anything in the witch shack. He KNEW this was gunna happen.

"WELL THEN! To Yester Hill?"

GM: (Ignore the roll)

Rictavio: "Works for me," says Rictavio.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Should we rest a bit first? Kasimir did just almost die."

Kasimir Velikov: "In your estimable company, I have no terror of death."

"You can take me in the skull. I can rest as we fly."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to make a joke out of it in her mind, but honestly it's too sweet.

Marcus Veranius remembers that he's exhausted

Ireena Kolyana: "I could use a rest, to be honest."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could be better"

Marcus Veranius: "A nap in the now-empty swamp, THEN Yester Hill."

Ireena Kolyana: "And Suldae will need to rest before the sun goes down."

"We've got a few hours before that, so hopefully that's enough time..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I'm fine, honestly."

Suldae Westwind: "...it's not," Suldae says, counting hours.

"I slept in the morning, it's fine."

Rictavio: "Personally, I should like to rest my aching, elderly bones for more than a few hours between killing sprees."

Suldae Westwind: "...Maybe let's just go to Krezk?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Might be better if we are not careful we might get stuck camping outside for the night"

GM: (For reference, Yester Hill is the "Y" on the map, to the west)

Suldae Westwind: "...Isn't Argynvostholt right next to us, by the way?"

"It shouldn't be dangerous, right?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We passed it on the way here, I think. Assuming that's the big manor house."

Marcus Veranius: "It's 8 miles if we go north around the mountain towards Argysvotholt. Nine if we go west towards Yester Hill."

"A day's travel either way."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes, we can't forget we're traveling with horses now. As convenient as it would be to just fly where we want to go, it would mean splitting the party up. Someone would have to stay with the horses."

Marcus Veranius: "I CAN guide the horses through difficult terrain. Offroading still isn't a problem, though sheer cliffs of a mountain is a bit much."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: (Looking at the map) "Yes, the elevation changes and the forest do make it a little rougher."

"I wouldn't count on our journey remaining undisturbed, either. We did just kill Strahd's mommy."

Marcus Veranius: "As long as we're not dealing with elevation, forest and swamp is as good as road."

"If anything, it'll give fewer ambush points like that bridge if we take the less traveled path."

NATURAL EXPLORER (GROUP BENEFIT)

Class: Ranger 1

You gain the following benefits when traveling for an hour or more:

>Difficult terrain doesn't slow your group's travel.

>Your group can't become lost except by magical means.

>Even when you are engaged in another activity while traveling, you remain alert to danger.

>If you are traveling alone, you can move stealthily at a normal pace.

>When you forage, you find twice as much food as you normally would.

>While tracking other creatures, you also learn their exact number, their sizes, and how long ago they passed through the area.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "That's a good point, actually."

Marcus Veranius points at the map. "I REALLY don't like the look of this mountain pass."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda looks over his shoulder. "Tsolenka pass... Yes, that does sound treacherous."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we cut west up the hill and head for Krezk via Yester Hill?" Henry says scratching his chin "Sounds good but we really should be ready to bolt if those Druids pull stuff like the things at the winery again"

Ireena Kolyana: "Which they definitely will."

Marcus Veranius: "We follow the mountain's edge south towards Luna Lake, then cut through Svalich Woods."

Ireena Kolyana: "After all, if Baba Lysaga was some kind of priestess of Mother Night... She's going to want revenge."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well If we can we decide if we want to fight today after having a look"

Marcus Veranius: "We do run into the small problem of traveling woods in Druid territory. At this point it's a tossup to see who has better control of the forest."

Ireena Kolyana: "True, as long as we're stealthy, it shouldn't be too much trouble to take a look around and get a sense of what we're up against."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Ooh, that's a good point."

Marcus Veranius: "Trackers or Treehuggers."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Home turf advantage is no joke."
"Especially with beings who can turn into creatures."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, it's my turf too."
"My vote is the forest. Let's get some fresh shoe leather."

Ireena Kolyana: "So, chilling thought..."
"Whatever happened to that snake Suldae charmed?"
"The 'shoe leather' comment made me think of it."

Marcus Veranius: "..."
"Witch is dead. Its curse is probably over."

Rictavio: "Assuming it was a curse," says Rictavio. "My spell could not break it."

Marcus Veranius: "Knowing our luck with people we spare, it's probably running to Castle Ravenloft with a report for Strahd."

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm pretty sure it was a curse. But if it was broken by killing Baba Lysaga... Where is she?"
"This human person who became a medusa?"
"And what was she before she became a Medusa?"
"What caught the eye of Baba Lysaga, and made her want to curse this person?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Unless anyone feels like going to go check we have no way of knowing"

Rictavio: "I am content with uncertainty," says Rictavio.

"She knows that if she follows us, we will kill her without hesitation."

Ireena Kolyana: "Or charm her into submission," says Ireena.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Also: other logistics. Do we want to hunt for Alchemist's Fire? Baba Lysaga must have had a stash of it somewhere."

"Unless she used her only bottles on us, which I find an unlikely possibility."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, if our less tired individuals want to check."

Kasimir Velikov: "The ingredients in her cabinet should be sufficient to create more, if I have access to a cauldron and a few hours of spare time."

Marcus Veranius: "Err."

"I broke it."

Kasimir Velikov: "Cauldrons are easy to come by," says Kasimir.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You know I wouldn't have minded this if we somehow remembered this earlier" Henry muses

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, I brought the ingredients," says Ireena. "I didn't think it was worth mentioning at the time, but I took everything from the cabinet."

"Picked it clean, you might say."

Marcus Veranius is willing to scout the swamp for supplies over the long rest

Ireena Kolyana: She gives several bottles, beakers, and vials to Kasimir, along with dozens of strange ingredients...

Marcus Veranius: (Wait no I'm out of spells)

Ireena Kolyana: All together, it constitutes an Alchemy Kit.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we really could use a long rest)

GM: (Yes, I think you could)

Marcus Veranius: (Long rest, maybe an hour to scout, then to Yester Hill)

Start of next week

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sure but we'd be in for A Night On Yester Hill... if that ain' the title for next session right there I'm down for a Long rest)

Marcus Veranius: (Sounds like an orchestra in waiting. I'm in.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So we pick up after the long rest next week)

GM: (Works for me. Thank you all for playing! This was a fun session :))

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GG thank you)

GM (GM): Good morning all!

Suldae, are you really there?

Fuck, this coffee is hot

Liliet (Suldae): im here!

^^

GM (GM): Yay!

Alrighty, where were we?

Ah yes, the swamps

You had just found a stash of Alchemist's Fire

Fifteen gallons, in fifteen separate gallon-sized containers

Henry of Willowsbrook: We decided to long rest before going to krzek via Yester hill

GM (GM): Probably wise

What time does this put your departure at?

And is there anything in particular you would like to do during the long rest? Any conversations or scenes you would like to have, any items you would like to examine, etc?

Henry of Willowsbrook: we Identified everything I believe (except for the Vorpall Blade9

Suldae Westwind: checking time: can Suldae do that with the remaining daylight?

Or does 'night' for this purpose start at midnight?

Henry of Willowsbrook: we are at 2-3 pmish

I think

So we would go at 10 or 11 pm

GM (GM): Does Suldae sleep or trance?

If she trances, she only needs four hours, I think

Night starts as soon as the sun goes down, for the purposes of her curse

Tops K.: Marcus is currently doing math to determine if this is enough Alchemist Fire to make up for that explodified cart back at the wizard tower.

Henry of Willowsbrook: when is Sunset in Baraovia barovia

Marcus Veranius: ~~Does Barovia recognise daylight savings time?~~

GM (GM): The sun tends to set around 7 PM

However, I have just realized something

Rictavio: "Suldae," says Rictavio. "I have been doing some thinking about the nature of your curse."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sleeps

Rictavio: "I believe it may be possible for me to cure it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae perks up

Rictavio: "Now that we seem to have the ear of Correllon and Sylvanus, I believe I can do it."

"Earlier, I hesitated to do so for fear of the reprisal of Mother Night."

Marcus Veranius: "Now's probably a good time to make the attempt. She ain't going to be too happy after we storm Yester Hill."

"Might not be all that happy we took Lysaga either."

Rictavio: "I shall attempt it," says Rictavio.

He approaches Suldae almost apologetically, and places a hand on her forehead as though checking for a fever.

His eyes seem to stare between the walls of the world, probing the spiritual essence of the curse.

He speaks an invocation which Suldae and Henry both hear like a whisper of half-forgotten prayer...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae quietly prays to Correllon that it work or at least, not backfire on Rictavio Rictavio: Suldae feels something break, some shadow which has long had its hold over her. The nightmares can no longer clutch her sleeping spirit.

She no longer feels the nightmares waiting for her.

"There," says Rictavio. "It's done."

"That was a... Powerful curse."

Rictavio seats himself once again by the fire, seeming lost in thought.

GM: (Are there any other logistical considerations or RP scenes you'd like to do during this long rest?)

Suldae Westwind: "Thank you," Suldae says.

After a brief hesitation, she gives him a hug.

Marcus Veranius: "So if a gallon of oil is 7 pounds, bottles of Alchemist Fire are in 1 pound, an we have 15 gallons, that's about 105 bottles worth in Baba Lysaga's stash."

Rictavio: Rictavio smiles. "It was my pleasure."

Marcus Veranius: "...which is a third of what was in your cart, Ezmerelda."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Damn, I would have figured she'd have more..."

Kasimir Velikov: "She had the means to produce more, certainly."

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know whether to be impressed or frightened."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir spends the downtime experimenting with the Alchemist's Kit he managed to assemble from Baba Lysaga's stores.

Suldae Westwind: "So, uh," Suldae speaks up. "Today we found out that we as a group don't really have a settled way to make use of our ability to fly. I flew off and, well, apparently worried everyone."

"And I still think I was right to do it, but, well. I didn't handle that the best way."

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, well. I think that less has to do with the flying and more scouting in a fog we could barely see through."

"What would have happened if you got lost somewhere? How'd we find you then?"

Suldae Westwind: "There will be problems like that in the future, too."

"I mean I do propose to form a scout squad with Ireena."

Henry of Willowsbrook: GM I wish to attune to the Vorpall Blade

Suldae Westwind: "Myself and her, and she can communicate from anywhere."

Marcus Veranius: "Not a bad plan for the future."

GM: (Henry, gib RP for how you are attempting to attune)

(And roll Investigation)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8 + 1

INVESTIGATION (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: "I also propose a similar buddy system for Marcus and Ezme - you two keep track of each other and don't go anywhere alone. How does that sound?"

Rictavio: "I think it might be wiser to stick together as much as possible," says Rictavio.

"But in circumstances where such a scouting party is required, it would be wise to go in pairs, yes."

Kasimir Velikov: "Ismark and I shall be one pair," says Kasimir. "I can communicate through magic just as easily as she can. Ismark's ability to slide between Dimensions should be sufficient to keep us from getting cornered."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes," Suldae nods, "that's the kind of thing I'm talking about. Sooner or later circumstances WILL force us to separate. Kasimir went on his own, and..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes. No one goes alone anymore."

Henry of Willowsbrook: whilst trying to avoid attention Henry takes the Blade from his belt and stares at his reflection in the blade 'When did I decide to take it with me? Did I ever decide? No I did not but I took it anyway so why?' "What are you?" He staring at his reflections washed out blue eyes he whispers

The blade reflects his eyes with mirror-like clarity. He seems to see his reflection as though staring through a black crystal window into the eyes of a twin.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (missed that)

The blade does not reveal its secrets.

Suldae Westwind: "Myself and Ireena, Marcus and Ezme, Kasimir and Ismark. Henry and Rictavio?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: He stares for a bit longer before putting the Blade away going quiet afterwards for a while Rictavio: "I would still prefer for us all to stick together as much as possible. If we are divided, we become easy pickings."

"Especially in a land where even the weather is at the whims of our enemy."

"Speaking of which, those storm clouds look ominous..."

Suldae Westwind: "I agree," Suldae tells Rictavio.

"But that is not logistically possible all the time."

Rictavio: Rictavio nods to the south, where thick, dark clouds seem to roll in off the mountains.

Suldae Westwind: "When we do have to split up, it's better to have agreed upon groups, so there's no need to spend time coordinating."

Marcus Veranius: "...well, least our choice of path has some measure of tree cover."

Suldae Westwind: "Split second decisions can be made."

Suldae squits at the horizon.

"...Yeah."

Marcus Veranius: "Pretty great how the fog cleared up enough for us to see how angry the sky is. That's how you know Strahd is miffed."

Suldae Westwind: She cannot quite muster worry. The relief from the curse being gone is too great. She hadn't realized how much it was bothering her until it was gone.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the storm approaches during the rest right?)

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, Rictavio, are you two down with specifically looking for and after each other if we ever have to split up?"

Rictavio: Rictavio licks a finger and holds it up into the wind.

INTELLIGENCE

Rictavio

Ability: 12

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don'T mind"

Rictavio: "Hard to say when we'll have to deal with that weather..."

GM: (A nature check can be made to determine when the storm will hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18 + 1

NATURE (7)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry ponders the clouds for a moment

Henry is able to determine that the storm will likely be dumping on the party by 10 PM.

In the mountain passes, any precipitation is likely to fall as snow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Should hit us right when we are about to leave, as is expected when the waether is controlled by a vindictive twat"

Suldae Westwind: "...we could spend the night in shelter, couldn't we? How long can it last?" Suldae looks at Rictavio.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena pipes up. "Tiny Hut lasts 8 hours, but it only takes ten minutes to cast a new one as a ritual."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm hard to tell could be 10 minutes, 1 hour or the entire night"

Suldae Westwind: "We can spend ten minutes casting in the previous Tiny Hut, right?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Actually, hang on, I've got something better than Tiny Hut now..."

Marcus Veranius shrugs. This wasn't covered in his ranger training.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gets to her feet, and twists the Weave.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at ther in wonder.

Ireena Kolyana: The air around the party seems to thicken with magic, and within a few moments a 100-foot cube of space is warded by Ireena's variation on Private Sanctum.

"There, that should keep the rain off our heads. And it should protect us against Divination and teleportation. Or Ethereal horses, as the case may be."

Kasimir Velikov: "Private Sanctum does not defend against rain," Kasimir says, quietly.

Ireena Kolyana: "It does when you know how to combine some of its effects with the power of Control Water and Tiny Hut," says Ireena.

"Just took a bit of fiddling, that's all."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goggles at the spell. For all that she is not without education of her own in magic, she hadn't actually met a powerful wizard before Barovia.

Kasimir Velikov: "And you're sure it will work? You have never tried it before."

Ireena Kolyana:

10

ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind: Her understanding of the Weave is just enough to really appreciate the intricacy of the work.

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, I'm fairly sure it should work."

(it might not)

Kasimir Velikov: "Hm."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands up to check, reaches for her flute.

20

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

15

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(ACCIDENTAL DOUBLE CLICK NEVER MIDN THE SECOND ONE)

Suldae realizes that the spell will be fine with rain, but it won't do a damn thing against lightning.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays and plays, attempting to guide the Weave into bending more closely to the shape Ireena had originally intended.

(Can I spend spell slots I still have to fix this?)

(I got 5th level 2)

GM: (Yes, you can burn a level 4 spell slot or higher)

Rictavio: "Well, if we have shelter... Do we want to wait out the storm?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I don't know if we can afford the delay."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Strahd is counting on it."

Suldae Westwind: The melody reaches for the power she'd accessed to guide lightning at her will. She cannot do that again so soon, but she doesn't need to - all she wants is to ward the lightning away, and the spell is already intended to do that. Any accidental tangles and eddies are smoothed out, and Suldae hopes Ireena is watching and can reproduce what she did next time.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Think about it. Why would he send a storm if not to make us hold our position?"

Suldae Westwind: (burning a 5th level - i dont have 4th level ones)

"..."

Suldae realizes that maybe investing in this position was not the best of moves.

Kasimir Velikov: "It may be a natural storm," says Kasimir. "Though I find the thought unlikely."

Suldae Westwind: "I suggest we change position to somewhere Strahd will not so easily find us, and then wait out the storm there."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It will hit us at the tail end of our rest as it stands"

Suldae Westwind: "So move first, and then rest?"

"I can do again what I just did, if only once."

She looks at Ireena.

Marcus Veranius: "I'd rather get a full rest then deal with the storm. If it's magical it'll only move with us."

Ireena Kolyana: "I can only cast Private Sanctum once more without a solid rest."

Kasimir Velikov: "Marcus is correct. If this storm is of magical origin, it would be foolish to think we can outrun it."

Rictavio: "I find myself more concerned with the idea of what sorts of creatures might travel under its cover," says Rictavio.

"We should fortify our position here."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "So we can stay here forever?"

"How long do you think a storm in Barovia can last?"

"Because I can remember storms that lasted weeks, when Strahd was displeased with the village."

 Sulda Westwind: "..."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Weeks?"

 Marcus Veranius: "aS IOnG aS tHe LaNd WiLiS iT!!!" Marcus states in a mocking tone.

 Sulda Westwind: "Okay, properly resting here, then moving through the storm if we have to is a good plan too."

"Though perhaps waiting for morning would still be wise."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we either press on with out rest and try to beat the storm to Krezkn or we brave the storm after resting up here"

 Marcus Veranius: "We're all exausted. Rest, forest, and pretend the storm isn't happening."
"Either way, it won't impede our travels with my guidance."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Looking at that storm I doubt waiting longer for the sunrise will help with anything but maybe slightly warmer rain"

 Rictavio: "I agree."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We may want to consider the nocturnal creatures, though."

 Sulda Westwind: "It will weaken Mother Night's power," Sulda points out.

 Ireena Kolyana: "That's a good point."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm but waiting for Sunrise would mean delaying for what 10 more hours after the storm hits us"

 Sulda Westwind: "It might also subside at some point during that time," Sulda adds.

Joan: "It would give me time to cook you all a proper breakfast before we set out," says Joan.

 Sulda Westwind: "It can last longer, but there's no guarantee it will."
"Also that is an important consideration," she nods to Joan seriously

 Kasimir Velikov: "On the other hand, coming upon the druids of Yester Hill in the night is likely to mean catching them unawares."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Or walking through a dark forest inhabited by a bunch of animal shapeshifters who worship Mother Night. At night."
"I'm with Sulda on this one."

 Marcus Veranius: "We're on multiple time limits and really can't delay."

 Rictavio: "I think the element of surprise — a little shock and awe — it could serve us well."
"I don't think we have much to fear from the beasts of the forest."
"It's whatever Strahd might send our way that bothers me."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Assuming he's not just toying with us."

Marcus Veranius: "What are they going to do? Bite us and turn us into lycanthropes?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda laughs.

Suldae Westwind: "Well, some of us," Suldae points out.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry coughs at that indicating Joan, Kasimir and himself and Rictavio

Marcus Veranius: "We have two days until the new moon, which is exactly enough time to reach Yester Hill and Kresk with a rest in between. If we rest longer than we need to, we forfeit the trip entirely."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "They might bite us and turn us undead," says Ismark, drily.

Joan: "They can do that?"

Marcus Veranius: "This is a decision we made before the storm. Strahd is going to throw his best at us regardless of what we do, so let's ignore his move until it tries to bite us."

"One long rest and we move. Rain or no rain."

"Time will do nothing now that two of Strahd's generals are in the ground."

Suldae Westwind:

15

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

(CAN they do that?)

(This is just curiosity, want to reply to Joan)

GM: (A particularly nasty bite from a Ghast or a Ghoul can become infected with a necrotizing disease that does end with the bitten person transitioning into a zombie, yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes of his armor before hitting the ground as gracefully as a sack of potatoes "Whatever we do I'm gonna take a nap"

GM: (It's rare though, since Ghosts and Ghouls both like to eat the corpses of their slain. Not much left to animate after that.)

Kasimir Velikov: "I shall meditate," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I don't sleep anymore," says Ismark, eyes flickering with inner hellfire.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks up at him, concerned.

"I think I'll catch some sleep as well."

Suldae Westwind: "Some of them can," Suldae confirms to Joan. "That's never not been true, and honestly, we did try to warn you away, didn't we?"

Rictavio: "We all should. We can take turns at the watch, and keep Ismark company."

Suldae Westwind: "You get a higher than average chance of getting bitten by something nasty, traveling with us."

Suldae nods to Rictavio.

Marcus Veranius rolls out his sleeping accommodations. "Rest while you can. We are packing up and moving out in..."

Marcus Veranius: >Checks his crossbow

"...seven and a half hours."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You can take that time than to think of what you want from me Izzy" Henry says yawning

Suldae Westwind: "Why?"

"We can take longer for those who keep Ismark company on watch to get more sleep as well."

Marcus Veranius: "Because Strahd likes to send dragons at us when we're indecisive."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, I already know what I want," says Ismark. "But I'm going to save that favor for later."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let's rest and asses the situation later as to if we go or not Suldae Westwind: "I don't think two hours will make a difference in whether there's another dragon after us," Suldae says dryly.

"Not compared to eight we spend as sitting ducks first."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry yawns again jostles around a bit and is now out like a light

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir sits cross-legged beside Ismark, his eyes glazing over as he enters the trance of his many past lives.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena watches him and Ismark curiously. Even in the trance, Kasimir seems to be conscious of Ismark's presence. He is, in some strange way, keeping him company even while dreaming.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes. "Fine, one person watch. Suit yourselves. I'm going to sleep. Mmm, sleeping at night..." She curls up in blankets beside Ireena.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena cuddles up to Suldae gratefully. She's missed the ability to actually sleep at the same time as her.

Rictavio: Rictavio looks from Ismark and Kasimir to Ireena and Suldae to Marcus and Ezmerelda to Henry and Joan.

He scoffs quietly beneath his breath, cleans his glasses, smokes the last of his pipe, and sleeps.

Joan: Joan finishes packing up the "kitchen" before bundling herself in her bedroll and sleeping with her cookbook for a pillow.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda sits by Marcus, watching the fire for a little while.

"Those mountains make me nervous," says Ezmerelda. "We'll have to cut through them quickly."

As the party rests, the storm rolls in...

Marcus Veranius: "We won't need to. Not if we stick by the river."

At ten o'clock, the storm is directly above the party. With a roll of thunder, it begins to unleash its watery burden — in the form of bitterly-cold, frighteningly blinding snow.

Everything within sight is now lightly obscured by the falling snow.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena wakes, and looks up to see the snow piling on the barrier she and Suldae made.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae presses closer to Ireena for warmth, half-awake.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir and Ismark seem to have spent the last several hours whispering to one another in low voices.

Marcus Veranius doesn't have enough feathers for this weather. As if Barovia wasn't cold and murky enough Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda wakes with a snort, throwing masses of black curls out of her face.

"Wazzat?"

"Snow?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry wakes felling sluggish from the cold decideing to wale himselv up with some light exercise

Suldae Westwind: "Mm," Suldae blinks blearily. "I'm surprised. This is my surprised face."

Joan: "I made some coffee,"

Marcus Veranius: "A downright awful blizzard, traveling north."

Suldae Westwind: Her face is not, in fact, expressing any particular surprise.

Rictavio: "It is probably headed to Krezk," says Rictavio.

Marcus Veranius: "Lovely. So we'll have it no matter which path we take."

Joan bustles around the camp, handing out tin mugs of piping hot coffee. She gives out each with a hand-knitted hotpad.

Ireena Kolyana: "Should we get a move on?"

Marcus Veranius: "Plan remains. Yester Hill has the second seed, and Kresk has the third. We'll have both by wedding day."

Suldae Westwind: "Food first."

"But then, yes, sounds right."

Henry of Willowsbrook: During some push ups Henry comments "It will be easier in the woods atleast the snow won't be as deep"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gets up enough to start twanging on her guitar, watching everyone else go throug their morning routine.

Marcus Veranius nods. "Mountain Path is right out. No way in this weather."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe Strahd was expecting us to take a proper road."

Kasimir Velikov: "The Tsolenka Pass is deadly even on the finest sunny day. Strahd may have assumed we would walk it."

"Or perhaps he is frightened that we intend to make our way to the Amber Temple."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Or perhaps he means to hurt Krezk for helping us."

Suldae Westwind: "Or all of the above, as an either-or," Suldae suggests.

"What does it really cost him to do this?"

Marcus Veranius: "Nothing."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We don't know," says Ezmerelda.

"Perhaps there are costly ingredients to the spell?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I doubt it."

Marcus Veranius: "Relatively speaking. If he's got full control of the environment, literally nothing to him."

Ireena Kolyana: "And even if there were, he has them all."

Marcus Veranius: "I haven't seen the sun once since stepping foot in Barovia. What's a few more clouds to that?"

Rictavio: Rictavio sips his coffee gratefully.

Suldae Westwind: "He probably doesn't want the entire population of Barovia to starve to death, as that would not leave room for reincarnation," Suldae says and winces at her own words.

"That's probably the real limit why he's not doing this all the time."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Standing up Henry begins to put on his armor and arms, sword left hip, pick right hip Vorpall blade small of his back and the Halberd across his back "Well then" he says checking the straps and clasps "Not like this changes much"

Suldae Westwind: She presses closer to Ireena.

Ireena Kolyana: "We knew we'd have a treacherous path to walk, no matter what. We'll just have to keep our eyes peeled."

Marcus Veranius is somewhat thankful this is a night trip. Wereraven hours meant a little more down to keep warm. Wouldn't be too bad a walk.

Marcus Veranius: "Around the Luna River till we hit Svalich Woods. Cross our fingers from there."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Let's go."

Rictavio: "Should we ride, or walk the horses?"

Suldae Westwind: "Sounds like a plan," Suldae says cheerfully, packing up.

Joan packs up the coffeepot and the mugs, once everyone is finished.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lights his lantern "A Night hike in the snow if we were anywhere else I might#ve even looked forward to this"

Suldae Westwind: The stone is orbiting her head, the guitar is on her back, the flute is on her belt, the bag is on her shoulder, Ireena is right there. Everything in place.

GM: 7

Marcus Veranius will lead the party on foot, using his intuition and training to pick an ideal path for the rest

Suldae Westwind: Suldae proposes that Joan take the skull ride with Ismark, with her pots and pans and everything.

The journey is, for the most part, uneventful. The snow continues to fall more and more thickly. After an hour, Marcus knows they should be almost to the forest.

Suldae Westwind: (can anyone remember offhand how many horses we have exactly)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ugh no)

Suldae Westwind: (we had fewer horses than party members i want to figure this out)
(gimme two minutes)

Before they can reach the cover of the trees, the snow begins to fall more thickly, heavily obscuring the view.

Suldae Westwind: (please give me two minutes before continuing)

Marcus Veranius: (We also had a wagon for the rest)

(To GM): 29

GM: A heavily obscured area--such as darkness, opaque fog, or dense foliage--blocks vision entirely. A creature effectively suffers from the blinded condition when trying to see something in that area.
Blinded

Rictavio:

GM: A blinded creature can't see and automatically fails any ability check that requires sight. Attack rolls against the creature have advantage, and the creature's Attack rolls have disadvantage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: We have one lit bullseye lantern currently

Marcus Veranius 's Natural Explorer prevents the party from getting lost regardless of weather conditions

Liliet (Suldae): 7 horses: Suldae, Ireena, Henry, Kasimir, Rictavio, Ezme Marcus is on foot, Ismark and Joan are flying if my suggestion was taken and one free horse

The snow falls more and more thickly. Looks like a white-out blizzard... Marcus still knows the way, intuitively sensing his directions.

All the same, the party seems almost closed in by a wall of blinding white.

Suldae Westwind: We ARE riding, right? All except Marcus, Ismark and Joan?
I would like to not be ignored on questions of logistics please

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark brings the Skull down a little lower to be close to the Party, within the limit of visibility. He has Joan in the skull with him and Kasimir.

Suldae Westwind: aha ty
two free horses

Henry of Willowsbrook: if the snow allows us to stay on the horses sure why not

Marcus Veranius: "We only need to reach the forest line! Blizzard won't be able to cut through trees as easily!"

GM: (Give me Perception checks with Disadvantage from Marcus and Suldae)

Marcus Veranius:

13

14

PERCEPTION (10)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (That is: Marcus and Suldae, make Perception checks)
(Both will be at Disadvantage)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+10 Lucky

(1)+10

= 11

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

Marcus Veranius: "Lucky"

Suldae Westwind:

32

PERCEPTION (12)
Suldae Westwind

22

PERCEPTION (12)
Suldae Westwind

(rolling twice is basically rolling with disadvantage right)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind: (this was a rhetorical question XD)

Suldae hears something... Something large, the heavy breathing of something on the wind. It seems to be directly in the party's path.

No one else notices the sound.

Suldae Westwind: "Stop!" she calls out.

"There's something ahead of us."

"I can hear it."

Marcus Veranius stops

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How far out?" Henry asks stopping

It is impossible to say, without knowing the size of the creature.

Certainly not far ahead.

Suldae Westwind: "...Close enough I can hear it, but that's all I can tell you."

"Would have to be near my ear if it was a kitten."

"Clearly it's not."

(The kitten thing is in fact an exaggeration, Suldae can hear a kitten's breathing further than that. Though, in this blizzard...)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Straight ahead?"

Marcus Veranius: "Let's play a game then. Who's more blind."

Marcus Veranius draws his crossbow and fires forward

GM: (Roll the attack with disadvantage)

Marcus Veranius: (Can the target see through this blizard?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry toses his Warpick the full 60 ft forward

GM: (It's not relying on sight)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

16	26
30ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook
17	6
Piercing	Acid
21	20
30ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook
13	1
Piercing	Acid

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to clear away some of the blizzard with her flute's sharp command.

(Flute) Gust Transmutation Cantrip
--

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

Marcus Veranius: (If the creature is ALSO blinded by the blizzard, I have advantage. Which cancels my disadvantage)

Suldae Westwind: (ahead of them, specifically)

GM: (The creature is not blinded by the blizzard, and is currently under cover and concealed)

Marcus Veranius: (Wew)

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 19 + 4 & 23 + 4 \\ \hline 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20
Magical Piercing

GM: (Was that supposed to be two attacks from Henry?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: yes

60 ft long range

Marcus Veranius:

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 10 + 2 & 11 + 2 \\ \hline 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22*Magical Piercing*

(I forgot to turn off Bless)

(Just the 19 on that first one)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 16 and 20 from meMarcus Veranius: (Should I make my Dread Ambusher attack as well?)

The gust of wind does not do much to affect the blizzard, other than causing the flurries to swirl more vigorously for a moment.

Crossbow bolts fly, and a hammer sweeps into the blinding snow. The hammer returns to its bearer's hand, unbloodied. It is impossible to say if the Crossbow bolts hit anything.

Suldae Westwind:*10120 feetGuiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind8Radiant*

Suldae decides to try something else.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well that went about as well as I thought it would"Suldae Westwind: (I dont think I need to roll for disadvantage w/ as low as the first roll is...)

Suldae's Guiding Bolt blazes through the snow, illuminating it like a lantern as it shoots between the falling snowflakes.

Suldae Westwind: (Does it let us actually see anything?)Rictavio: Though it does not hit anything, by the sudden passing light you see the glitter of two staring eyes, in a hill of snow just twenty feet before you.

Though it does not hit anything, by the sudden passing light you see the glitter of two staring eyes, in a hill of snow just twenty feet before you.

GM: (Sorry, not Rictavio saying that)Make a DC 18 CON save, HenryGM: (And roll Initiative)Henry of Willowsbrook:*21 + 3 | 23 + 3*CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of WillowsbrookMarcus Veranius:

21

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 5.15

Henry of Willowsbrook:

9.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (holy shit lmao)

Henry feels a powerful chill reach for his bones, but the light of nature burns through it before it can freeze him in place. The Chilling Gaze seems to have magical effects.

Rictavio:

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 3

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE
Abominable Yeti

Initiative: 17.1

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark spots the beast from on high in his flying skull.

"YETI!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh whatever you just tried I hope you are already regretting it failed" Henry says shaking of the magical chill "Cause your times is running out now"

Marcus Veranius: "He's about to."

Ismark Kolyanovich:

19*300 feetEldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

915

GM: (still with disadvantage due to falling snow, but he knows the general position)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

22*300 feetEldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

137

Ismark's blasts of eldritch power strike what seems to be the lip of a cave mouth where the beast is hunkered, waiting for passers by. The snow sizzles and steams but the Yeti is unharmed.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: (Am I still blinded?)

GM: (As long as the snow is falling, yes)

(You know his location, though)

(And Ismark's blasts would have illuminated the area briefly)

Marcus Veranius isn't quite sure where the beast is, but he can hear where attacks are going off. Time to trust in Blinsky's craftsmanship

Suldae Westwind: "Hey," Suldae calls out. "Ireena, can you do anything about the snow?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Uh... Maybe?"

Marcus Veranius:

19

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18

Magical Piercing

12

24

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

19

Magical Piercing

Ireena Kolyana: "I can try!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (if tis not in full cover marcus ignores cover)

Marcus's first shot strikes home, though his second misses.

Abominable Yeti: "ROAR."

Marcus Veranius: "You earned it!"

[EoT]

The beast springs from its shelter, enraged by the crossbow bolt. It roars, unleashing an icy blast of elemental power.

Marcus Veranius: (That

Marcus, Henry, Suldae, Ireena, Rictavio, and Ezmerelda must make DC 18 CON saves.

Abominable Yeti:

COLD BREATH
(RECHARGE 6)
Abominable Yeti

The yeti exhales a 30-foot cone of frigid air. Each creature in that area must make a DC 18 Constitution saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) cold damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Marcus Veranius: (That's probably an auto-fail if we're blinded)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6 + 3CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of WillowsbrookAbominable Yeti: 48*Suldae Westwind:*20*CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae WestwindIreena Kolyana:*17*CONSTITUTION SAVE (5)*Henry of Willowsbrook: anyone in 10 ft of me has +2 rememberMarcus Veranius: (Oh wait, Con save. Not dex)8 + 2 | 10 + 2*CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Marcus VeraniusGM: (Thanks to Henry's aura, Ireena passes)Marcus Veranius: (DIDNT MATTER)Ezmerelda d'Avenir:*CONSTITUTION
*Ezmerelda d'AvenirAbility: 13*Rictavio:*CONSTITUTION
*RictavioAbility: 8*Henry of Willowsbrook: (so the horses are fuckin dead)Suldae Westwind: (the horses are tough!)The blast of icy wind screams over the horses and their riders, sprouting icicles like speed lines.Marcus Veranius: (NOT EVEN KILLING THE DRAGON STOPS THE BREATH WEAPONS)Suldae Westwind: (i believe in our horses)The horses whinny, refreshed by the sudden chill. (They are immune to cold)Henry of Willowsbrook: (horses have about 20 hp)

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

does damage round down?

GM: (It does. It was 48 points of ice damage, so it would be 24 points for half) raises his hand and a star blazes with light in his palm.

Rictavio:

Beacon of Hope

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Any number of creatures within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

This spell bestows hope and vitality. Choose any number of creatures within range. For the duration, each target has advantage on Wisdom saving throws and death saving throws, and regains the maximum number of hit points possible from any healing.

Suldae Westwind: (it was 45 points)

(which is why i asked)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (45 is the average GM rolled 48)

GM: (45 is the average, I rolled 48)

Suldae Westwind: (ah gotcha)

(missed that)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena flips wildly through her spell book, looking for something that might help with the snow.

"Fuck it!" She says at last, and unleashes Dancing Lights. Orbs of pulsing light fly from her palm and surround the Yeti, revealing his silhouette in the falling snow and dazzling his sensitive eyes.

"Get him, Henry!"

Suldae Westwind: "Good plan!" Suldae calls out

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh I will! HO Corazon!" Henry charges his mount at the Yeti

The spiritual warhorse breaks into a mighty charge. By its speed, Henry's blows will be strengthened! (Henry can add a d12+4 to his damage dice for the first attack made while charging)

Henry of Willowsbrook: getting in close to it Henry Swings for its head and then back riding past it

25

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

10
Radiant Smite Damage

16 Piercing		2 Acid
-----------------------	--	------------------

29
30ft/60ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

4
Radiant Smite Damage

15 Piercing		6 Acid
-----------------------	--	------------------

rolling d12

(4)

= 4

GM: (Two solid hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 36 damage on the first and 25 second

Suldae Westwind: (holy shit)

Abominable Yeti: "RRAAWWRRGHH!"

STRENGTH Abominable Yeti <hr/> Ability: 25

Despite the fury of Henry's blows, the Yeti manages to keep its footing, and is not knocked prone.

The first blow dislocates its jaw, smashing a tooth away, and the second blow cracks against a mighty ribcage.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

SECOND WIND Class: Fighter 1

At first level, on your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level. Once you use this feature, you must finish a short or long rest before you can use it again.

GM: (EoT or any additional?)

(He's below half)

(Don't forget to maximize the healing from that, due to Beacon of Hope)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so 13 hp)

Suldae Westwind: (Also don't forget you're not the only healer in the party)

(but we did take a lot of damage)

(this is probably warranted)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Bringing his horse around Henry raises his weapon in a mock salute to the Yeti "Come and get me" EoT

Abominable Yeti: The Yeti's piggish little eyes are fixed on Henry now.

Ezmerelda d'Avenirir:

DC14

Half damage

Dexterity Save

32

Lightning

Self

Lightning Bolt

Ezmerelda raises a finger and unleashes a bolt of lightning, which streams through the Yeti. A crack of thunder echoes through the snow.

Abominable Yeti:

DEXTERITY
Abominable Yeti

Ability: 8

Shocked by the sudden jolt, the Yeti seems to reconsider these small animals.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays. The song is low and melodic, evoking warmth and light, healing light... and searing light.

12

Healing

60 feet

Mass Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

17

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)

Suldae Westwind

17

Radiant

(all healing is maxed, so 14 healing)

GM: (Healing is maximized, so that should be 14 points of HP I think)

Suldae Westwind: (yep)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (You can not cast 2 leveled spells in a turn)

Suldae Westwind: (one is bonus action)

Henry of Willowsbrook: cast

Suldae Westwind: (are you sure thats a rule?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: yes I know Action can only be a cantrip then

If you cast a spell with casting time 1 bonus action you can only cast cantrips for your action

Suldae Westwind: gotcha

DC15

Dexterity Save

7

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame

Suldae Westwind

changing that to this (action description stays the same :P)

Abominable Yeti:

DEXTERITY
Abominable Yeti

Ability: 14

GM: (EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Holy flame dances around the Yeti, singeing its hair.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir, in the flying skull, raises both hands. Two jets of flame stream from his palm and land in the snow, writhing beside the Yeti. The two Fire Snakes lunge!

Conjure Minor Elementals

Conjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: 90 feet

Target: Unoccupied spaces that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

You summon elementals that appear in unoccupied spaces that you can see within range. You choose one the following options for what appears: One elemental of challenge rating 2 or lower Two elementals of challenge rating 1 or lower Four elementals of challenge rating 1/2 or lower Eight elementals of challenge rating 1/4 or lower. An elemental summoned by this spell disappears when it drops to 0 hit points or when the spell ends. The summoned creatures are friendly to you and your companions. Roll initiative for the summoned creatures as a group, which has its own turns. They obey any verbal commands that you issue to them (no action required by you). If you don't issue any commands to them, they defend themselves from hostile creatures, but otherwise take no actions. The GM has the creatures' statistics.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using certain higher-level Spell Slots, you choose one of the summoning options above, and more creatures appear - twice as many with a 6th-level slot and three times as many with an 8th-level slot

INITIATIVE

Fire Snake

Initiative: 13

"Finish him," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I intend to," says Ismark.

His eyes darken with Eldritch Sight...

ELDRITCH INVOCATION:

ELDRITCH SIGHT

Class: Warlock

You can cast detect magic at will, without expending a spell slot.

Suldae Westwind: (brb, hopefully before my turn / before end of combat rp ends lol)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "He's... He's not a Yeti!"

"He's a druid!"

12

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

6

9

Ismark's blast of streaming eldritch power misses the yeti by several feet.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius takes more blind shots, considering a change in position to dodge further ice blasts

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wouldn't it be 2 blasts? you roll the attacks per blast)

Marcus Veranius:

15 | 28
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

23 | 27
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (for eldritch blast I mean)

Marcus Veranius bumps into a lizard.

Marcus Veranius: ...what?

[EoT]

(Shit, I forgot Second Wind. Can I use that too?)

GM: (You are correct, I combined them to simplify the damage dice rolls but you're right that there should be another attack roll.)

(Yes you may)

(Also, you just killed this thing)

(Care to RP it?)

Suldae Westwind: (back)

Marcus Veranius hides behind the lizard, waiting for a retaliation

Marcus Veranius: And waiting

And waiting.....

And waiting.....

....

"I'm not sure if it's dead. Can someone check if it's dead?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry watches as the Yeti gets hit by a crossbow bolt and collapses

GM: (625 XP each)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Dead"

Marcus Veranius: "I hate the snow so much!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae approaches the yeti and checks, just in case 20

MEDICINE (7)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we are still in innitiative)
or not?)

As she examines the Yeti, she suddenly realizes something is moving inside the Yeti. With a gory eruption, a humanoid figure — wrapped in furs and covered in blood — bursts from the corpse of the Yeti and flees into the snow, headed due west.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (reaction? I was I melee range?9

GM: (Go for it)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

13
Piercing

1
Acid

GM: (That hits

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh if Only I had Sentinel) "Shit" Henry lashes out at the figure

Henry manages to hit the escaping figure, staggering him but not dropping him completely as he flees.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "OI get back here!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Get him," says Kasimir, to the fire serpents, which slither swiftly forward, leaving steaming trails in the snow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry also gives chase on horseback

Unfortunately, the druid is just as swift as they are, and he knows the forest better. The serpents continue to illuminate his fleeing form.

Henry could drop him from horseback or Marcus could peg him with an arrow due to the extra illumination.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hops on her horse and motions everyone else to follow Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

11

Piercing

4

Acid

27

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

10

Piercing

3

Acid

Marcus Veranius:

27

10

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19

Magical Piercing

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I said Get back here"

Marcus Veranius:

13

15

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18

Magical Piercing

(Will 15 hit?)

(13 rather)

Henry's mounted blow turns the man's head into a flying polo ball, which Marcus's crossbow bolt strikes in midair.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I think you got him," says Ezmerelda.

Marcus Veranius: "On second though, a bit less gore to look at when it's blacked out."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...good shot"

Marcus Veranius: "Whited out."

Marcus Veranius checks the hidey-cave for good measure. Seems the Yester Hill druids were expecting them

Suldae Westwind: (Hidey-cave?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a look at the remains

Rictavio: Suldae hears Rictavio mutter what sounds like a Prayer.

GM: (Everyone takes 20 points of healing)

Rictavio:

14

Healing

30 feet

Prayer of Healing

Marcus Veranius: (Yeti was waiting for us at the mouth of a cave)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shoots him a curious glance, but does not press.

The cave is small, but it does seem to open into a tunnel that continues underground, into the darkness, headed northwest. Inside the hidey hole, Marcus finds two barrels of wine, obviously stolen from a caravan. He also finds several high-quality animal pelts; deer, wolf, elk, and bear.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pokes her nose in after Marcus.

How big is the tunnel? As compared to, say, a person on horseback?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry dismounts rolling over the corpse take a btter look

The tunnel is large enough for an ordinary human to walk in it, but not large enough for a horse or a flying skull.

Henry examines the corpse of the Yeti.

Marcus Veranius considers how the druid popped out of that beast and shudders a bit, considering the strange quality of these furs

Henry of Willowsbrook: (no the druid corpse)

Marcus Veranius: "Well, we solved our warmth problem."

Marcus Veranius takes the furs to their wagon

Henry examines the corpse of the Druid. The man is clad in leather and furs, and has antlers bound to his head. Small charms and trinkets — most of which seem to have been severed from animals — adorn his figure.

Suldae Westwind: (WE STILL DONT HAVE A WAGON())

(we have packs on horses and a flying skull)

Marcus Veranius: (What do you mean we dont have...)

(FAK)

Suldae Westwind: (We don't have a wagon!)

Marcus Veranius: (Why did I think we had a wagon)

Suldae Westwind: (I can double check in party expenditures but im like 99% sure we dont have a wagon)

Henry finds a small pouch of what seems to be potion ingredients or spell components.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (well we have one but we didn't bring it to the swamp)

Marcus Veranius: (...)

He also finds a small raven-skull necklace which is definitely magical.

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus has a concussion still from all those alchemy fire bombs)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, you brought us some padding for the skull!" Ismark says, causing it to fly down for Marcus to load the furs into.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the skull and pouch before looking at the fire snakes "ah all yours?" Before returning to the others

Marcus Veranius: "And whomever wants them. Given how our friend went west I can only assume the cave doesn't go where we want it to."

Marcus Veranius passes the furs up

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir takes them gladly and arranges them around the skull, to provide additional warmth and comfort for Jean and Ismark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Here found these on him" Handing of the Skull and puoch Rictavio: "Do we continue into the forest?" Rictavio asks.

"This accursed snow is such a nuisance..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Between the Fire Snakes and some Dancing Lights, I think we can manage. But we'll be announcing our presence everywhere we go."

Kasimir Velikov: "Unless we wish to Pass Without Trace," says Kasimir.

"Between my magic and Marcus's woodcraft... We could perhaps pass through the forest in secret."

"There is no telling what kinds of animal forms they will bring to bear to try and find us, if we assume that they are, in fact, looking for us."

"Even if they are not, we will be passing through the heart of their territory."

Suldae Westwind: "Wouldn't it be easier to pick them off one by one?"

"As opposed to confronting the whole lot at the heart of their territory?"

Marcus Veranius: "Stealth may be impossible if they're preparing ambushes, but perhaps we can get around some of the simpler ones that way."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Do we have the time for picking off druids one by one?"

"I have an idea, but it's kind of fucked up."

Marcus Veranius: "If they're all going to fight like that yeti, probably not."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh no," says Ireena.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do share Ismark"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark holds up a bottle of Alchemist's Fire.

"Firebomb the forest."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"We... umm... we're supposed to be SAVING Barovia. Right?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Firebomb the forest? the Very same Forest we plan on going through?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Make a direct line of flame from here to the hill, and while they're scattering, we take trips in the skull. Somebody will have to lead the horses around the forest to the north, but we could shuttle all or most of us straight to the hill."

Suldae Westwind: "...I propose we do not burn down the forest."

"Although the fire is unlikely to spread in this weather... I think?"

27

NATURE (8)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "This is the same forest connected to my extended family's winery. I don't like the risk."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Forset fires are many things and controlable isn't part of that"

Marcus Veranius takes a moment to look at henry's findings, squinting with concern at the raven skull trinket

Suldae Westwind: (I request roll of 27 worth of information on how likely the fire would be to spread XD)

Marcus Veranius: (I'd be surprised if the forest could light at all given Barovia's all-foggy status)

If this were a natural storm, Suldae knows, one could expect it to smother the flame. Since it is not a natural storm, conditions are less predictable. Hypothetically, however, given the current precipitation and the general wetness of this particular evergreen forest, when considered in hand with the rottenness and deadness of most of the trees, Suldae can say the odds are two-to-one that the fire will not spread badly.

Marcus Veranius: "Not to be a downer, but it's four miles to Yester Hill from our location... if the map reads right."

"Doubt we'd be able to stretch 15 gallons that thin."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "And the only way 'around' the forest is on the Tsolenka Trail, which is deadly even in the best weather."

Suldae Westwind: "...also, while the odds are against it spreading, they're not that badly against it."

"Let's not."

Marcus Veranius: "THAT BEING SAID, I do notice the hill itself is a mile-wide clearing with little vegetation to spread."

Suldae Westwind: "A lot of this vegetation is dead."

"That being said indeed..."

GM: (Unfortunately, I have to start getting ready to go out and get some things done, so we will have to do the rest of the planning on Discord before next weekend)

Marcus Veranius: "We'd need to get the Winery Seed out first. But after that..."

GM: (Thank you all for playing!)

Marcus Veranius: (Have a nice night!)

Suldae Westwind: (have a nice night!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (or day I think its noon in California)

Suldae Westwind: (whichever XD)

GM (GM): Good Morning!

Zanshukun: heyho

GM (GM): Looks like we may be starting an hour behind schedule to give Suldae a chance to catch up to us. I know our sessions are usually in the afternoon for her, so her schedule may not allow her to join us before the usual time in her part of the world.

Zanshukun: She'll switch to daylight savingstime on the 29th same as me so that might help
ARE.WE.READYYYYY??????????

Liliet (Suldae): IM HERE

Suldae Westwind: (in my defense, i'm a dumbass)

GM (GM): Ready!

Now, where the fuck were we...

Henry of Willowsbrook: we murderized a furry

Suldae Westwind: we were discussing NOT setting the forest on fire

GM (GM): And there was a raven-skull necklace that was magical IIRC

Henry of Willowsbrook: ye

Tops K.: Am here

Marcus Veranius: (Was a bit late managing a thing in a West Marches server)

GM (GM): No worries!

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we are not going around the forest because the pass is shit even if we weren't knee deep in snow and we are probably not setting fire to the forrest we are planning to travel through soooooooo what ARE we doing?" Henry says pulling his hood further down Rictavio: Rictavio leans on his cane, looking west, into the snow-covered forest.

Marcus Veranius continues to squint at the skull necklace

Suldae Westwind: Suldae notices Marcus studying the necklace and bends over hersefl

16

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

The necklace is a piece of twine looped through a raven's skull, which has been intricately covered in small carvings. It is definitely magical.

Rictavio: "Well?" says Rictavio. "What's the plan?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Relax, Ricky."

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, Ezme, Rictavio, Kasimir," Suldae says.

"Look at this."

Ireena Kolyana: "Ooh," says Ireena, examining the necklace.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Seems magical," says Ezmerelda.

Kasimir Velikov: "What curious little carvings... Druidic, perhaps?"

Rictavio: "Definitely druidic... But it's a bastardized druidic."

Ireena Kolyana: "If you want to know what it does, I can Identify it. Should take about ten minutes."

"Ten minute time-out while I identify?"

Suldae Westwind: "I think we can spare ten minutes."

Marcus Veranius: "Should I feel uncomfortable about this as a shapeshifter? Is that normal?"

Marcus Veranius mutters to himself, taking out the map to plan a route.

Suldae Westwind: "No, I agree," Suldae says.

"This is definitely uncomfortable"

Ireena Kolyana: "It is pretty disturbing..."

Marcus Veranius: "Ten minutes is plenty of time to chart a direction."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Can you do that while we are moving we really shouldn't stay still to long in this weather"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena hops into the skull and sits cross-legged among the furs, leafing through her spell book and concentrating on the necklace.

Marcus Veranius: "AHA! Here's an idea."

"Loud Stealth."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes to chat with Joan. Who is she, where is she from, why does she want to come with them?

Marcus Veranius: "Their sentries don't have a communication network, if our retreating druid is anything to go by."

"We go into the woods about halfway, but THEN..."

Marcus Veranius drifts his finger on the map across the river

Marcus Veranius: "Swap banks, let them prepare for an ambush on the route we're no longer taking. Enter Yester Hill from the back."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What if we can't cross the river?"

Marcus Veranius: "Why wouldn't we be able to cross the river?"

"Between shapeshifters and flying skulls anyways."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...". Henry wordlessly gestures at his and the others horses

Marcus Veranius compares the size of the skull to that of the horses

Marcus Veranius: "...well that's just inconvenient."

Joan: gives an interesting and extensive backstory with lots of surprise twists and turns. She wasn't born in Barovia, but stumbled into it one night with her family. Her parents and her sister were eaten by vampire spawn, and she spent many years in the village of Barovia before venturing west to Krezk. She has been academically trained as a chef for noble houses, and holds certifications in both soups and pastries. Joan is the kind of person who believes that you can feed the fate you want to triumph, and though she does have a vendetta of vengeance upon Strahd, she is not a vengeful person by nature, preferring to nourish heroes rather than to slay monsters. Between her and Suldae, she's mainly tagging along for Henry's sake — poor boy looks like he misses the comfort of home and hearth, but he puts on such a brave face.

Marcus Veranius: "Right, just the Loud then."

Kasimir Velikov: "I have another idea..."

Suldae Westwind: Joan used NEW BEST FRIEND on Suldae. It's super effective!

"...We could ask Joan to stay with the horses again."

"Admittedly this raises the question of creating a sufficiently protected shelter..."

"Or just the loud."

"Or?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Alone? In a blizzard? at Night?" Henry says befuddled

Suldae Westwind: "Not necessarily alone, too," Suldae says. "But no, I'm not insisting that this is a good plan."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir thinks for a moment. He looks at Ireena.

"Do you have Resilient Sphere?"

"I knew it once, long ago, but have since forgotten."

Marcus Veranius: "We don't have time for a return trip anyways."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes, I know that one. Why?"

Marcus Veranius: "No more splitting up for a while. We only just fixed our mistake the last time we made it."

Kasimir Velikov: "Are you familiar with the Elven game of Bowling?"

Suldae Westwind: "Okay, that is a very good point"
"Kasimir, what?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir summons a mage hand.
"Resilient Sphere ensconces one individual in an impenetrable barrier of force—a weightless sphere."
"In other words, a battering ram."

Marcus Veranius: "That... doesn't seem like it'd work well on a hill. Or in a forest. Or on a hill surrounded by forest."
"We could just go in the normal way."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, I think I understand what he's saying."
"Mage hand can lift the sphere and whatever's inside it. Then it's just a matter of getting enough speed going... But I don't think it would be very effective as a ram, since it loses all mass?"

Expeditious Retreat

Transmutation 1

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

This spell allows you to move at an incredible pace. When you cast this spell, and then as a bonus action on each of your turns until the spell ends, you can take the Dash action.

(ignore that)

Kasimir Velikov: "An idle thought, then. Forgive me."

Rictavio: "I have a thought."

"We are unlikely to deal with archers, if the druids are mostly in animal form."

"Any additional light is likely to serve us more than it serves them."

Ireena Kolyana: "I have dancing lights."

Kasimir Velikov: "I can summon the fire snakes once per hour, but I can only do so two more times."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I think, if we're all going in together, anybody who has some serious range on their hands should be in the skull with me and Joan."

Suldae Westwind: "My range isn't very good... except for one spell."

"But I can only cast that one once per day."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So do we have any other plans beside the tried and true 'kick in their front door'?" Henry asks "and yes I know forests don't have doors"

Suldae Westwind: "They might if there are houses in them."

"I don't have a plan."

She looks at Marcus.

"Except to actually try to get over the river."

"Before we give up."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "might as well have a look at the river before abandoning that plan"

Marcus Veranius looks a bit frustrated.

Marcus Veranius: "We don't need a super-complex plan for this. It's four miles of forest, and we killed a dragon last week."

Suldae Westwind: "It's four miles of forest with druids in it," Suldae points out.

"Doesn't pay to underestimate the enemy."

Marcus Veranius: "If we can't cross the river, fine. Let's save finer tactics for when we're at their compound."

"Doesn't do us good to tire ourselves out being flashy before the siege."

Suldae Westwind: "We haven't failed to cross the river yet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs turning to ride in to the forest "Current plan: we make one when we get there"

Suldae Westwind: "I think it's a good one"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Right then, who's where?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm done Identifying!"

"It's the skull of a wereraven. There's a command word which allows the wearer to step into a living creature and control it from inside. This is... Heinously evil magic."

Suldae Westwind: "...Congratulations on being right about that discomfort, Marcus," Suldae says faintly.

"...So how likely are all of them to have those, and how hard is it to use?"

Rictavio: "Right, let's stay on task here. I'm an old man and it's cold as the frigid wastes of Stygia out here."

Marcus Veranius: "I'd say there were only so many wereravens, but Baba Lysaga did a good job snatching them up..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What can't here you currently riding into a forest" Henry jokes calling back

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shrugs. "This skull is a few centuries old."

"There's no way to know how many might have been accumulated over the years."

Marcus Veranius nods to Rictavio and starts guiding the horses forward

Ireena Kolyana: "It's definitely not hard to use... You just have to be able to touch the creature."

Suldae Westwind: "No letting them touch us, then."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena and Kasimir both stay in the skull with Ismark and Joan.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "probably what happend to that Yeti"

Rictavio: Rictavio and Ezmerelda ride horses by Marcus.

GM: (Marching order?)

(Also, which path are you taking? Have you decided against aiming for the river?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry in front currently

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is riding and leading the extra horses.

In the back.

GM: (Cool beans 15)

(To be clear: we are not aiming at stealth here? The Fire snakes are out in front and dancing lights are flying around to illuminate the falling snow?)

(It's not a bad plan, all things considered)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Can horse even stealth?

horses

Suldae Westwind: relatively, i imagine yes

GM: (You can always travel stealthily, and with Marcus's aid it doesn't even slow you down)

(If you're charging in at top speed, not so much, though)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Iwas being facetious)

GM: (But I'm picturing a not-quite-top-speed but not-quite-sedate-and-passionless ride here)

Marcus Veranius: (Stealthily until someone's able to retreat.)

(Then we charge full speed)

GM: (Until someone's able to retreat?)

Marcus Veranius: (Right now we aren't caught cause Yeti Druid didn't sound the alarm fast enough)

GM: (Not sure I follow)

(Oh, so you'll be chasing down any fleeing guards)

(Gotcha, gotcha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (stealth until we get caught then CHARGE!)

The party moves into the forest. Kasimir releases the two fire serpents, but can call them again at a moment's notice.

The snow falls thickly all around you, even here, beneath the bare branches of the towering trees.

The ground is a slushy mess, which would ordinarily make movement more difficult. With Marcus's keen guidance, the party is not slowed down, and moves stealthily through the darkness.

Marcus Veranius: It wasn't a bad forest, troubling as the times and occupants were. Perhaps they could take another stroll through in more pleasant times.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry uses Channel divinity to regain a first level spell slot

There is a disturbing lack of sound here, amid the trees. No birds call, no wolves howl, and cold silence watches you from all sides.

An hour passes.

Suldae and Henry both have a sudden, violently uneasy feeling. Marcus hears the creak of pine bark, though there is no wind.

The horses, unaware, continue trotting on unless stopped.

Suldae Westwind: "Hold," Suldae says.

And pulls on her own reins.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda's horse stops. "What is it, Suldae?" She whispers.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Somethings off"

Marcus Veranius looks around, trying to catch the source

Rictavio: Rictavio has had his crossbow in hand the whole time, but now he grips it more tightly.

GM: (Make a Perception check)

(For Marcus, since he's looking around)

Marcus Veranius:

15 16

PERCEPTION (10)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind:

14

PERCEPTION (12)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae looks around as well.

"...Something feels off."

The mist and snow are thicker now than they were when you entered the forest. It is difficult to see the trees nearest you, let alone anything beyond them.

Marcus knows he has heard the sound before... At the winery.

Marcus Veranius: Strahd wouldn't be foolish enough to play his hand personally in this... would he? While the party was at full strength, with no traps?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (attack of the twigs 2; the reckoning)

GM: (Henry and Suldae, make Religion checks please)

Suldae Westwind:

21

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5 + 1

RELIGION (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(may I use Nature instead)

GM: (You may)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10 + 1

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: "...I thought we destroyed that staff of twig control. It can't be a second..."

Suldae hears, in the music of nature, a sorrow. A regret, a pain—the sound of an old forest doing what it does not want to do, and begging for forgiveness as it does it.

Suldae Westwind: "...I think they might have a second, yes..."

Henry feels the Queen Dryad twisting in the pinecone.

Suldae Westwind: "These are druids, Marcus. What do you think they do?"

Rictavio: "Well, we can't stand here forever..."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What do we do?"

Marcus Veranius: "We continue forward."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Keep moving on"

Suldae Westwind: "...As good a plan as any. I will note however that I have several spells that work on an area."

"So when there IS an engagement, it would be convenient to fortify."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No point swinging at shadows just yet"

Marcus Veranius: "You have as much right to this forest as the druids do, Henry. You bear the ancients' crest on your shield, their blessing in your pocket."

Suldae Westwind: "The forest certainly likes us better."

Marcus Veranius: "So long as you lead the march, this forest can have no sway."

Suldae Westwind: "Unfortunately they're not asking it."

The party continues onward.

A large old oak tree stands in a small clearing, surrounded by the dead pines. The oak still seems to have some life in it, though its sparse and balding head of leaves is crowned in snow.

The route continues on to the northwest.

Suldae Westwind: Wait, where's the oak? Are we passing it?

GM: (Yes, if you take the direct route, you will pass right by it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry separates slightly from the others to approach the Oak

He notices a long branch of curiously braided wood, lying in the snow nearby, half-covered by the snow. It looks like the staff of a giant.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes to the oak and dismounts.

She takes out the flute and begins to play.

Speak with Plants

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Target: Plants within 30 feet of you

Components: V, S

Duration: 10 minutes

You imbue plants within 30 feet of you with limited sentience and animation, giving them the ability to communicate with you and follow your simple commands. You can question plants about events in the spell's area within the past day, gaining information about creatures that have passed, weather, and other circumstances. You can also turn difficult terrain caused by plant growth (such as thickets and undergrowth) into ordinary terrain that lasts for the duration. Or you can turn ordinary terrain where plants are present into difficult terrain that lasts for the duration, causing vines and branches to hinder pursuers, for example. Plants might be able to perform other tasks on your behalf, at the GM's discretion. The spell doesn't enable plants to uproot themselves and move about, but they can freely move branches, tendrils, and stalks. If a plant creature is in the area, you can communicate with it as if you shared a common language, but you gain no magical ability to influence it. This spell can cause the plants created by the entangle spell to release a restrained creature.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks up the Staff after dismounting

The staff is fifteen feet long and shockingly heavy, as though it were made of iron and not wood.

Suldae Westwind: "I want to talk to this oak," she says for others' benefit before starting the music.

Suldae feels something strange about the way the magic takes effect on the Oak.

It feels as though it was... Already alive.

Suldae Westwind: "Hello?" Suldae says softly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how long a staff are we talking btw?)

Oak: *"Run, little one...!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sorry missed the 15 ft)

Suldae Westwind: "Run from?..." Suldae clarifies. "Are you speaking of the staff?"

GM: (Make an Acrobatics check)

Suldae Westwind:

14

ACROBATICS (7)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (23)

A branch whips around and slams into Suldae, crushing her to the trunk of the old tree.

Oak: "You must run!"

"It is too late for you! Tell your companions to flee!"

The Oak swings a huge branch at Henry. 23 to hit.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh that won't do" Henry jams the staff in to the ground

14 bludgeoning.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Shit"

Suldae Westwind: Do we roll initiative?

Marcus Veranius draws his crossbow

GM: (Roll Initiative)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

INITIATIVE
Treant

Initiative: 14.08

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 10.15

Marcus Veranius: "Right then. A not-so-nice tree."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 8

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Initiative: 22

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 5

Henry of Willowsbrook:

20.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

15

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "SULDAE!" Ezmerelda shouts, seeing her pinned to the tree.

Suldae Westwind: (Can I attempt to turn into a raven and flee as a reaction, or should I wait for my turn?)

GM: (On your turn)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

CURSE (RECHARGES
AFTER A LONG REST)
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Ezmerelda targets one creature that she can see within 30 feet of her. The target must succeed on a DC 14 Wisdom saving throw or be cursed. While cursed, the target has vulnerability to one type of damage of Ezmerelda's choice. The curse lasts until ended with a greater restoration spell, a remove curse spell, or similar magic. When the curse ends, Ezmerelda takes 3d6 psychic damage.

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

Treant:

WISDOM

Treant

Ability: 23

Suldae Westwind: "It's not the tree's will!" Suldae yells out.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "A CURSE UPON YOU, OLD TREE!" Shouts Ezmerelda.

Oak: "Ha... Ha... Ha... I am already cursed..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: ("oh tree what is your wisdom" "fuck of")

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

+1 HANDAXE (RANGED)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Attack: 8

Damage: 4 slashing

+1 HANDAXE (RANGED)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Attack: 7

Damage: 4 slashing

+1 HANDAXE (RANGED)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Attack: 12

Damage: 4 slashing

Ezmerelda d'Avenir hurls three hand-axes, all of which stick in the bark of the old tree without causing any apparent harm.

GM: (Henry, you're up.)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Searing Smite

Evocation 1

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Concentration up to 1 minute

The next time you hit a creature with a melee weapon attack, the attack deals an extra 1d6 fire damage to the target and sets them on fire.

The fire goes out if the spell is ended.

At the start of its turns, the target must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failure, it takes 1d6 fire damage. On a success, the spell ends. If the target or a creature within 5 feet of it uses an action to put out the flames, or if some other effect puts out the flames, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. The initial extra damage dealt by the attack increases by 1d6 for each slot above 1st.

20

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

11

Slashing/Piercing

21

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14

Slashing/Piercing

(hits?)

GM: (Both hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(2)

= 2

25 slashing and 2 fire

Henry shrugs of the hit he took from the branch anoyed he missed the timing to block proprely before drawing the short sword from his back and attacking the tree

The Vorpal Dagger cuts through the old wood like a hot knife through mist, and flame spreads from the cut, quickly growing on the old bark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Burn" he commands causing flame to wreath his blade and then the tree Eot

Oak: "Yes, yes! Burn me! You must destroy me! Please, I beg of you!"

GM: (Marcus, you're up. Suldae is still pinned to a tree that is going to be engulfed in flames in a minute)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is a little traumatized by hearing this.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't take orders from a tree."

Suldae Westwind: (Can anyone other than Suldae hear the tree)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ah shit I was gonna try to cut her free but forgot)

Marcus Veranius: (This is a good point. Can Marcus hear this?)

GM: (I believe Suldae is the only one who would be able to understand it ordinarily, but since the Treant is speaking Common at the moment, you can understand it as well)

Suldae Westwind: (ty!)

Marcus Veranius doesn't take orders from a tree. He draws a shortsword and attempts to prune the tree into nonlethal submission

Marcus Veranius: (First round advantage since the treant hasn't acted in initiative?)

23

19

Silvered Shortsword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

12

Piercing

20

29

Silvered Shortsword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

8

Piercing

21

18

Silvered Shortsword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

3

Bonus Damage

9

Piercing

GM: (Sure, that's from a Ranger feat?)

Marcus Veranius: (Ranger base)

GM: (Gotcha)

(Any additional damage? That's three hits)

Marcus Veranius:

NATURAL EXPLORER (PERSONAL BONUS)

Class: Ranger 1

At 1st level, you have the following benefits:

>You ignore difficult terrain.

>You have advantage on initiative rolls.

>On your first turn during combat, you have advantage on attack rolls against creatures that have not yet acted.

GM: (Also, are you attempting to cut Suldae free, or to hurt the tree?)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is attempting to knock the tree unconscious, which would in turn free Suldae)

GM: (So going for non-lethal damage, gotcha)

32

(EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: 9EoT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Con save please

Treant:

CONSTITUTION
Treant

Ability: 23

GM: (CON save for the fire)

Henry of Willowsbrook: no longer on fire

The old bark ceases to burn, too tough and old and long-ago water-damaged to really burn well.

Oak: "Please, I don't want to hurt you!"

Magical power pulses through ancient roots.

Two pine trees behind the party groan and creak, and burst to life.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I belive you"

Treant:

SLAM
Treant

Attack: 14

Damage: 15 bludgeoning

The Treant attempts to crush Suldae to itself, and here a curious thing happens.

Suldae knows that under ordinary circumstances, she would be squished like a mouse under a boot by the strength of this old oak. Her wereraven body is immune to certain forms of damage — which seems to include this form.

The tree wrestles and grapples and strains, but Suldae is not harmed. It's just a very uncomfortable and protracted wooden hug.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Treant:

INITIATIVE Treant <hr/> Initiative: 15.08

INITIATIVE Treant <hr/> Initiative: 4.08
--

Suldae Westwind: So my question is, what are Suldae's odds of success as-far-as-she-can-eyeball on the turn into a raven and flee thing?

Because once she becomes smaller, if she cannot escape, she probably cannot get bigger again.

GM: (I'd say 75% good odds)

(25% chance it doesn't work out)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to slip out by turning into a raven.

15

ACROBATICS (7)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (1 On a 1, it fails)

(Since that was a roll to escape the grapple, the Treant will contest it too)

Suldae Westwind: (augh)

Treant:

STRENGTH Treant <hr/> Ability: 9
--

Suldae Westwind: ^^

Suldae transforms into a raven at just the right moment of her own wriggling, and manages to burst free from the old Treant's embrace.

Oak: *"Yes, flee! Flee, before the others come!"

"Flee, and forgive me."

GM: (Can't believe I didn't think about the contested grapple rules, that's a way better way to deal with that)

(Any additional on your turn?)

Suldae Westwind: question does Suldae know how fast treants are / what to roll for that

GM: (Treants have a movement speed of 30 feet)

(Suldae would be cognizant of that, it's not her first experience with them)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is thoroughly unnerved by the treant's distress.

"Let's go!" she yells after turning back into her regular form on her horse. "There's more coming and / for one don't want to fight any of them!"

GM: (EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Ireena Kolyana: A thick cloud of fog suddenly billows into existence around the Treant, obscuring it completely from view. Ireena's eyes glow.

"Go! Go while it's distracted!"

Fog Cloud

Conjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A point within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

You create a 20-foot-radius sphere of fog centered on a point within range. The sphere spreads around corners, and its area is heavily obscured. It lasts for the duration or until a wind of moderate or greater speed (at least 10 miles per hour) disperses it.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the radius of the fog increases by 20 feet for each slot level above 1st.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark looks at the two pine trees awakened by the Treant.

"We can't let them escape... They'll warn the whole forest!"

Marcus Veranius: "They were summoned by magic. Would taking out the source work?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Yes!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's eyes fill with hellfire. He raises his hands, and the ground beneath the Treant suddenly bristles with flame. A jet of fire blasts forty feet into the sky, completely engulfing the old tree. 12 Fire damage on a failed DEX save.

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Treant:

DEXTERITY*TreantAbility: 4

Kasimir Velikov: "Ismark, I think you may have just done the job for them."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seems to assess the situation for a moment.

Suldae Westwind: "That staff," Suoldae says.

Kasimir Velikov: "DRUID! YOU SHOULD COME OUT OF THE TREANT, AND GIVE YOURSELF UP BEFORE YOU ARE BURNED ALIVE!"

Suggestion*Enchantment 2Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 30 ft

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell.

The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do.

You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't preformed.

If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

Druid:

WISDOM
Druid

Ability: 20

Kasimir Velikov: Seeing no response from within the burning Treant, Kasimir sighs. "Well, it was worth a shot."

Suldae Westwind: rip

Rictavio: "Wait a minute. The necklace!"

"I'd wager there's room in there for more than one person!"

"And if there isn't..."

"Oh, hold the quill, I've got a better idea.

"BEGONE!"

Banishment

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: One creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (An item distasteful to the target)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You attempt to send one creature that you can see within range to another plane of existence. The target must succeed on a Charisma saving throw or be banished. If the target is native to the plane of existence you're on, you banish the target to a harmless demiplane. While there, the target is incapacitated. The target remains there until the spell ends, at which point the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. If the target is native to a different plane of existence than the one you're on, the target is banished with a faint popping noise, returning to its home plane. If the spell ends before 1 minute has passed, the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. Otherwise, the target doesn't return.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 4th.

Treant:

CHARISMA
Treant

Ability: 21

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh my god)

Marcus Veranius: (ITS THE TREE OF CRITS!!!)
(SOURCE OF ALL NAT 20S!)

Rictavio's Banishment spell—which would ordinarily have sent the Treant back to the Faewild and, perhaps, freed it from the druid possessing it—fails.

Rictavio: "Dammit!"

Suldae Westwind: "..."

One of the pine trees begins to run away. It would be comical if it weren't so unnerving: the roots writhe, and the tree glides away, swaying like the mast of a ship.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Suldae! What should we do?"

"I don't want to hurt this tree, if you think we shouldn't."

Suldae Westwind: "...the staff," Suldae says.

She's not very coherent at the moment.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "The Staff?"

"What should I do?"

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Suldae is not very up to speaking right now.

That was as much input as anyone's getting out of her right now.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda dismounts from her horse and runs to the staff.

ARCANA
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Skill: 13

"I don't know how to use it!?"

GM: (Henry, you're up)

(Don't forget you can use Treestride)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Light guide me and let Night fade" Henry says wreathing himself in light 'hope this works' Henry charges the Treant hoping to possibly drag the druid out of it 'All I need is faith right?'

TREE STRIDE

Other: Magic

Once on your turn, you can use 10 ft. of movement to step magically into one living tree within reach and emerge from a second living tree within 60 feet of the first tree, appearing in an unoccupied space within 5 feet of the second tree. Both trees must be large or bigger.

GM: (Make a grapple check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

20 + 1

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Druid:

DEXTERITY
Druid

Ability: 20

Henry dives into the Oak, and bursts out of another tree nearby, clinging to a fur-covered individual in antlers.

He has the man firmly in a headlock.

Oak: "Sleep, my brothers! Return to your slumber!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (does that count as an action?)

The two fleeing animated Pine Trees both stop moving and root themselves in place.

GM: (It does)

(We are no longer in initiative order)

Marcus Veranius frowns. "Is nothing sacred then? Not the beasts nor the trees, nor the land itself as you so worship it?"

Marcus Veranius turns his attention to the druid

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out in relief.

She sways a little.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir summons a Cone of Cold with a minor alteration, carefully controlling the wind. The flames die down, and the old oak steams — injured, but not too badly.

Druid: The Druid says something that sounds like it might be a Druidic swear word.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let me ask you something 'Druid' do you regret the path you choose yet?"
Henry whispers in his ear

14 + 1

INTIMIDATION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Druid: The Druid begins to laugh.

CHARISMA
Druid

Ability: 7

Then, feeling the condemnation of Nature's Chosen, he stops laughing abruptly, and clamps his mouth shut.

He does seem ashamed.

Marcus Veranius: "...."

The old Oak quietly picks up his staff and leans on it, watching you all with mild interest.

Marcus Veranius doesn't know why he feels so disgusted by these disgraces to druidic arts.

Oak: "Who are you, brave adventurers?"

"You have saved me from a fate worse than death."

Marcus Veranius: "A shoemaker."

Oak: "I would be honored to repay you in any fashion I can."

Marcus Veranius: "Do forgive me, you're not my usual clientele."

Oak: "Alas, I have never needed shoes, though I have often admired them from afar."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae giggles helplessly.

She's not very okay right now.

Oak: "Are you alright, little one?"

Suldae Westwind: "..."

"Yes, I am."

Oak: "I am terribly sorry..."

Suldae Westwind: "No, it's fine, I am unharmed."

"Don't worry."

Oak: "I have never wanted to hurt one of the singing voices. I am truly sorry."

"It was the songs of your people that first awakened my kind, millennia ago, at the dawning of the worlds."

"To think that I should have betrayed that trust... It is unthinkable."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh no worries not like that smack almost dislocated my arm or something"
Henry sardonically says dragging the druid closer

Oak: "Shall I squish this little human for you? I have long desired to kill this living piece of rot and his companions."

Suldae Westwind: "Tell us more about them," Suldae requests.

"I wanted to ask about them in the first place."

Oak: "You are stout-hearted, Chosen of Sylvanus. I apologize to you as well... Have I harmed you?"

"The Druids were once a good people, many centuries ago, before the Devil-King came and poisoned all the land."

"They helped me care for this forest, and tend to its Dryads and Nyads. Now they have become evil, corrupted by the worship of their new master."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Would you happen to know how many of them there are?" Henry laughs at the question grinning broadly "I had worse certainly woke me up in this damned cold"

The old Oak shakes his leafy head sadly.

Oak: "Alas, I do not. I know there are at least seven, since they have rotated their duties in 'watching' me."

Marcus Veranius: "Before or after the five from the winery?"

Druid: "You should let me go. More will be coming soon... Always more."

Oak: "The winery? What winery?"

Marcus Veranius squints, turning his attention to the Druid

Marcus Veranius: "Of course, even shoemakers know the importance of respecting good sources of leather. Cycles of nature or something; it's all magic nonsense to me."

Oak: "I was not aware that grapevines had begun to take root again... That is a good sign."

Druid: "Leather...?"

He looks confusedly at the party, as if thinking: They wouldn't really, would they...?

"Human leather is no good," says the Druid.

"It always turns out too thin."

Oak: "May I squish him? Please?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Superior craftsmanship does wonders for poor materials"

Druid: The Druid swallows. He notices that the party's boots are very well made.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry says with a nasty chuckle

Marcus Veranius frowns. "I wouldn't even consider it. Not something so CRUDE anyways."

Druid: The Druid is now feeling self-conscious.

Marcus Veranius: "Let him go. If he returns to Yester Hill, he marches to death."

Druid: His skin isn't that bad. A bit muddy, sure, and a bit hairy, certainly. And the hair is a bit matted, maybe. And a bit stinky.

"You're going to Yester Hill?"

"You must be mad."

"Or suicidal."

Marcus Veranius: "Well I'm not happy."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How many more are there little one?" Henry coos in his ear "I charged a tree my 'friend' our sanity should be the least of your worries"

The old Oak bends low towards Suldae. "Little one... In days long ago, the singing voices used to heal my people with song. I don't suppose you... You would not happen to know any such songs? I am in considerable pain."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae begins to play.

She is not certain if she knows the song, but she can damn well try.

Druid: "There are two hundred druids in the coven," says the Druid.

Suldae Westwind: For as long as it takes.

Druid: "And you've definitely pissed off all of them!"

Oak: "Ah... That tune does good to my soul, little one."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 1

INSIGHT (4)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Oak: "Thank you."

GM: (The Druid is lying desperately)

(The number is probably far lower, and they don't know the party is coming yet.)

Marcus Veranius:

16 18

INSIGHT (6)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is playing a song of mending, of spring, of new growth. Of sun coming out and snow melting away, eventually. Of slow recovery and healing, of hope and knowledge taht even if days are bleak right now, spring will come again.

Marcus Veranius: "Two hundred... and they sent YOU?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry grabs one of his arms and dislocates it "Honesty is a virtue my friend"

Suldae Westwind: The sone of patience, of roots breaking stone.

*song

Druid: "AAARGH!"

"Twenty! Twenty! There's only twenty."

"Please let me go..." (The man begins to sob)

Oak: "Ah... What is your name, little one?"

Marcus Veranius: "You, your land, and your baba have threatened my family enough. That will cease being a threat before dawn breaks."

Marcus Veranius turns to Esmeralda

Suldae Westwind: "Suldae Catherine Westwind"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes anything that looks like it could be used for spell casting from the Druid before popping his shoulder back in without warning

Oak: "I am Yorhish M'wahassa, Treant of the Western Woods.

Druid: "Aaargh!"

Henry claims a component pouch and another wereraven skull.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does a bardic bow with a flourish.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ric catch" Henry says tossing the things over Suldae Westwind: "It is an honor and a pleasure to meet you.. Well, pleasure to help, at least," she adds with a slight smile.

Marcus Veranius turns back to the Druid's attention

As Suldae plays, the Treant's broken limbs begin to mend themselves. His charred bark heals, his branches thicken, and he even grows more leaves. He seems younger and more alive now than he did when the party first encountered him.

Rictavio: Rictavio catches the things.

Suldae Westwind: (Does this cost Suldae's spell slots?)

Marcus Veranius: "Enough people are going to die on the hill."

GM: (Not unless you feel it would be appropriate)

Marcus Veranius: "Consider this a second chance. I recommend you take it."

Druid: "I'll take it, I'll take it!"

"I'll be a better person, on me life I will!"

Suldae Westwind: (I mean it mostly determines whether I can ask for these effects whenever I feel like it would be appropriate and feel like im not asking for too much bc im paying with spell slots as a resource)

(so this is very much an up-to-you thing)

GM: (In that case, yes, it will cost one spell slot)

Marcus Veranius: "Prove it. Barovia Village could use aid."

Druid: "Barovia village?" The young man balks. "But that's so far from here!"

Marcus Veranius: "It happens to be the exact opposite of where we're going, yes."

"Because I don't want to see you near these druids again."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I recommend you rest that shoulder for a while or it might jump the socket"

Marcus Veranius:

18 24

INTIMIDATION (5)
Marcus Veranius

(Just the 18 on this)

(Forgot to turn off my toggle)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or Charisma checks due to a spell, a feature, or another magic item effect, grants a +5 to Intimidation checks instead.

Druid:

CHARISMA

Druid

Ability: 3

The Druid sees something in Marcus's eyes.

Marcus Veranius: (Oh wait, it IS the 24!)

Druid: It is the same thing that the Medusa saw, a moment before he perforated her skull at point-blank range.

Marcus isn't fucking around, and the Druid realizes this with cold and absolute certainty.

He nods silently.

"Barovia village, here I come—and gladly."

Marcus Veranius: "The woods will be kind. They always are, even when wounded."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lets go of him

Druid: The Druid bolts, fleeing due east.

Suldae Westwind: (GM, what level)

Marcus Veranius sighs

Suldae Westwind: (i have up to 5)

Marcus Veranius: "I really hope they don't march to the castle this time."

Suldae Westwind: (speak with plants is 3)

Marcus Veranius: "I've had bad luck letting people go."

Henry of Willowsbrook: What wicked and vile emotions Henry might have shown cascade off of him as soon as the druid is out of sight as he takes a deep breath

GM: (Any level)

 Sulda Westwind: (ok lvl 1 then because i am 100% not up to draning my own resources if i dont have to :P)

 Marcus Veranius: (Does the flute have charges? Count it as a charge for the flute)

 Sulda Westwind: (doesnt)

 Rictavio: Rictavio claps Marcus on the shoulder. "I have a funny feeling he'll be obedient..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "No complains about the arm thing?" Henry asks the others in a tone that seems to almost invite them to complain

 Sulda Westwind: (just individual 1/day spells)

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "So Yorhish, what are your plans now?"

 Sulda Westwind: Sulda shrugs.

"It seems like it'll heal, though I'd rather compel him magically."

"Which is something I can do, I'd like to remind everyone."

 Rictavio: "I was proud of you," says Rictavio, perhaps unsurprisingly.

 Sulda Westwind: "We don't need torture."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "It seemed a bit much, to me."

 Marcus Veranius: "Was?"

 Yorhish M'wahassa: "Plans... Plans... I have not been free enough to have plans in many years."

 Rictavio: "Well, am, but also was."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smiles slightly at Ezme and Suldaes comments before adopting a serious face "Yeah it might have been a bit much"

 Rictavio: "So, if there were only twenty druids to begin with... How many do we have left to face?"
"I've lost track."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Thirteen? I think?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Five from the winery, finished off."
"One dead in the snow, one retreating."

 Sulda Westwind: "Seriously, please remember what we can do with magic."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "6 at the vineyard 2 on the way here"

 Marcus Veranius: "Oh... that'd make 12 then."

 Sulda Westwind: "Five or six?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Hold on, that number doesn't add up. How many were inside the winery, how many were outside with the ritual?"

Rictavio: "Mister tree, if I may, I'd like to ask you a question. How likely do you think it is that the druids might control other trees?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I believe 6 2 badgers one died instantly 3 did the shadowwalker fusion macarena)

Yorhish M'wahassa: "There are no other Treants in this forest. I do not think their magic allows them to control unawakened trees."

Marcus Veranius: "There were five performing the ritual, and I think we caught an additional four in the vineyard."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

"So are there like three left"

(Suldae does not math)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "2 were in the Winerey one got Hiere the other was killed by Marcus ion the office"

Marcus Veranius: "No, there was one by the vats."

"And one in the basement..."

"One in the office."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Right yes"

Marcus Veranius: "And I assume Hiere painted the storeroom with a fourth."

"Unless he found a suitable supply of tomatoes at the last minute..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Should leave 9 or 8 remaining"

Marcus Veranius: "...we haven't been doing a good job sparing them. But in all fairness, Strahd's dragon finished off those we left alive."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces.

"We're doing what we can..."

Rictavio: "Cornered animals..."

"We must be cautious."

"The druids who remain are the ones who did not find it prudent to go to the vineyard... Perhaps the oldest, or the most powerful."

"Or perhaps the sickest, who can say?"

"That young fellow didn't look like he'd had a square meal in a few days."

"I would feel bad for them, if they weren't wearing the bones of your family members."

Marcus Veranius: "Remember, we HAVE to sneak into the hill. No going loud until we've secured the Dryad Seed."

"After that, let the cards fall where they do."

"I can track it once we get within sight of Yester Hill."

Suldae Westwind: "Let's just all remember that ravens randomly flying into places are NOT inconspicuous"

"They are very much aware of wereravens."

"As we can easily tell."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"How about Scarecrows?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the Staff from Ezme and fixes it to his saddle felling it might come in handy

Suldae Westwind: "Scarecrows randomly flying into places?"

"Honestly I think taht could work"

"They would be too confused to notice us sneaking in through the other entrance"

Yorhish M'wahassa: "May I have my staff, please?" Yorhish asks, almost sheepishly.

Marcus Veranius rolls his eyes. "Not what I meant! Very funny!"

Marcus Veranius: "Baba Lysaga's passing is not current news yet, and these druids hold to her some loyalty."

"Living Scarecrows were of her ranks."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives a deep bow with a flourish at the "very funny" remark

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh I apologize I didn't relize it was yours"

Marcus Veranius: "Look, perhaps someone more charismatic could disguise themselves as an animated scarecrow."

"Hell, Hiere could flat out animate one himself."

"I can hide well in shadows."

"We have options."

"And if those options fail, we have arms."

Suldae Westwind: "Also I think at least one of us had invisibility spells..."

Marcus Veranius: "But if it comes to that, any one of these druids could turn to Mother Night for aid, and I'd rather it didn't come to that."

"Not after our last round of fighting."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm just saying, stealth doesnt' ahve to be complex."

Kasimir Velikov: "I can cast both Greater Invisibility and Pass Without Trace."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hands over the staff placing a hand on his bruised shoulder Lay on Hands on myself for 15

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I have Greater Invisibility as well."

Marcus Veranius: "As long as I avoid light, I need neither."

"Although Pass without Trace would help."

UMBRAL SIGHT

Class: Ranger Gloom Stalker

At 3rd level, you gain darkvision out to a range of 60 feet. If you already have darkvision from your race, its range increases by 30 feet.

You are also adept at evading creatures that rely on darkvision. While in darkness, you are invisible to any creature that relies on darkvision to see you in that darkness.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We should get closer first I think we might get a better Idea of what to do once we see the place"

Marcus Veranius nods

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish takes up his staff.

Ancient Sylvan runes blaze down the length of it, flashing with emerald light.

He stiffens, sensing something.

He looks at Henry curiously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry winks at him

Yorhish M'wahassa: He bows deeply. Voice thick with emotion, he says: "My lady..!"

He says this in Sylvan.

It sounds like the wind moving through a forest.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well your presence has been requested milady" Henry says in Sylvan it sounds like a the splashin of a forest creek

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena leans over to Suldae and whispers in her ear: "Are we taking this big guy with us...?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks up at Yorhish.

"Would you like to come with us? You could be backup, if your duties don't need you elsewhere"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry also gently takes out the heart

The emerald pinecone pulses with light, and thin tendrils of vine suddenly sprout from Henry's tear ducts and writhe over his eyes. He is momentarily blinded. A pair of green and glowing eyes looks out from his face, and Henry sees, in the darkness, the glowing life force of the ancient Treant and the few living trees nearby. Most of the forest is dead, frozen, rotting from within. He sees the roots of something, stretching away to the west but connected to almost every dead tree in the forest. It looks almost like some vast tree has sucked the life right out of the others.

The green eyes that are not Henry's eyes look up at Yorhish. A whisper of Sylvan comes from somewhere near Henry.

"Your life is owed to this Saint."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Please do not call me that"

in sylvan

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish bows deeply once more, solemn, as though receiving a powerful benediction. "I understand."

In Common, and more cheerily, Yorhish says: "I have no duty now but to cleanse this forest of the disease at its heart."

"I will join you."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at what is happening to Henry. She is uncomfortable, but also... not. It seems natural, and that almost makes her more uncomfortable.

Rictavio: Rictavio balks. "How are we going to hide this guy?"

Suldae Westwind: "Just have him stay outside."

Yorhish M'wahassa: "I will hear you, if you call me in Sylvan. No matter where you are."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Issy my friend it seems your enthusiasm for lumber jacking and general arson will not be wasted tonight"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yay!"

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish seems a bit dismayed by this.

"Lumberjacking? Arson?"

"These are bad things..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We are gonna fell our self an evil life sucking tree"

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish raises a patch of moss that might be an eyebrow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Context my dear friend"

Yorhish M'wahassa: "A Gulthias tree... Of course..."

Suldae Westwind: "I think that was a joke," Suldae tells him softly.

Marcus Veranius: "Life-sucking tree?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "In that case sorry for not being familiar with tree humor" Henry retorts with an exaggerated eye roll and bow

The vines fall from Henry's eyes, aging through fall and winter in seconds. In a moment, the dry twigs of them slide out of his tear ducts and fall away. His eyes are a bit watery and itchy, but unharmed.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "What the fuck, my guy."

Ireena Kolyana: "Gulthias tree..."

"I've heard of that."

"It's a tree that grows from the stake which slew a vampire."

Suldae Westwind: *him being the tree not Henry

Suldae is elaborating on the lumberjack thing

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry was competely serious

Ireena Kolyana: "Well... Should we continue on?"

GM: (I have to leave in a minute, but I want to give you guys the lay of the land at least)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Lets get closer"

The party journeys on, unimpeded. As they near the hill, one imagines they begin to take precautions (which can be discussed in downtime). Unseen, they manage to get a view of the hill...

Marcus Veranius: (For reference sake, can you also mark where the Dryad Seed is? Assuming Marcus uses Detect Objects)

(The aura is my range)

The hill is covered with dead grass and cairns of black rock. Dark, ominous clouds gather high above, and a single bolt of lightning strikes the hilltop. West of the hill, the land, the woods, and the sky vanish behind a towering wall of fog. Dirt trails run along two concentric rings of cairns that encircle the hillside. Each cairn is a ten-foot-high mound of slimy black rocks. Atop the hill is a wide ring of black boulders and smaller rocks that collectively form a makeshift wall enclosing a field of dead grass. Lightning strikes the edge of the ring from time to time, illuminating a ghastly, fifty-foot-tall statue made of tightly woven twigs and packed with black earth. The statue resembles a towering, cloaked man with fangs. Marcus senses the seed within this statue, somewhere at the center of it.

As if this effigy of Strahd were not bad enough, hanging in the air behind it, black cloak billowing on the wind, staring west into the fog, you see the man himself. He is hovering two hundred feet in the air, backed by the lightning.

On the hill, nine elderly druids are frantically chanting, waving black and twisted staffs. Surrounding them is a small army of vine blights.

They seem to be casting some kind of ritual which involves the statue...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well looks like we came right on time to crash this party"

GM: (And with that, I have to leave! Thank you all for playing!)

(Go ahead and discuss what kinds of precautionary measures you are taking in Discord, and come up with the plan you want to execute next week.0

(The scale of this map is a bit wonky, btw—squares are 50 feet)

(Which... Seems excessive)

Marcus Veranius: (HERE WE GO AGAIN)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Its a big hill)

Suldae Westwind: (wow i dislike not getting a normal tactical 5x5 map)

SONG OF REST

Class: Bard

Beginning at 2nd level, you can use soothing music or oration to help revitalize your wounded allies during a short rest. If you or any friendly creatures who can hear your performance regain hit points at the end of the short rest by spending one or more Hit Dice, each of those creatures regains an extra 1d6 hit points.

oops

misclick

GM (GM): Good morning all!

Oh my, there are all sorts of little diagramd diagrams*

Zanshukun: tops been busy it seems

Liliet (Suldae): hell yeah

GM (GM): How's everybody's Sunday going so far?

Suldae Westwind: EXCELLENT

GM (GM): Hahaha

Well, I'm ready when y'all are

Tops K.: I have constructed a Tom Brady sports play to open our siege of Yester Hill
Just gotta wait for Hieres's piece

GM (GM): Well

In the meantime, let's get an initiative order going. We won't use it for the first round, since you're all acting practically simultaneously, but we will use it for round 2

(To GM):

INITIATIVE
Strahd von Zarovich
Initiative: 15

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Vine Blight
Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Druid
Initiative: 17

Tops K.:

24

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus VeraniusGM (GM):*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 14*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 4*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 12*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 18*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 10*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 8*GM (GM):*INITIATIVE
*DruidInitiative: 6*Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 20.15*Zanshukun:*18.1*INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook12.1*INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of WillowsbrookGM (GM):*INITIATIVE
*Kasimir VelikovInitiative: 17*INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE

Rictavio

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE

Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE

Treant

Initiative: 12.08

Suldae Westwind: (So I'm assuming everything has been explained/orchestrated and we don't have to rp Marcus ordering the team around, just write what we should do)

(Suldae default presumption: cast Call Lightning, then use the first strike on?... Strahd?)

Marcus Veranius: (Strahd if he's still up, free target if not. Big thing here is we're stealing his cloud)

(7+1 shots ought to botch his concentration)

GM (GM): (One thing to note on the map: those altitude lines are still based on the old map scale, which was stupid big)

(So the altitude lines don't actually represent 100 feet each, otherwise this would be a cliff)

Suldae Westwind: (how much did we reduce the scale?)

GM (GM): (by 5)

Suldae Westwind: (50 to 10, right?)

(so they represent 20ft)

GM (GM): (So 80 at the tallest)

(More of a molehill than anything)

(Although 80 feet is still significant, I suppose)

Marcus Veranius: (Strahd is like 200 ft in the air. Mountain won't affect the opener)

GM (GM): (Strahd is in midair, so he's still visible, but the blights and druids on the far side of the hill probably wouldn't be. We'll say you can spot the black tree. I'm not going to bother calculating how high Strahd is at the moment because you've already planned on being in a position where you can hit him, so he is within range)

Suldae Westwind: (doesn't Ireena have any buffs?)

(I just read the battle plan)

(it seems inefficient)

Henry of Willowsbrook: besides Marcus has 600ft range with his longbow so there is little thats not in range

Marcus Veranius: (LONGBow)

(Ireena dropping buffs would be alright. That would drop stealth though)

(Which we preferably want until Strahd is out of the picture. At least for Ireena)

Suldae Westwind: (He's going to presume she's here anyway)

(she can do buffs from forest - and treant - cover)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (If she had any according to the spelllist on discord the closest think she has to a buff is Mirror Image)

Marcus Veranius: (A turn stalled finding her location is an extra round of attacks to stop his advance)

Suldae Westwind: (fun fact! Suldae can cast her thing from forest cover too)

(if she casts buffs before we start, how tf would Strahd know?)

(ah, no buffs is fair)

GM (GM): (She doesn't really have anything that could be considered a buff, unfortunately)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

Marcus Veranius: (Strahd is a cheeky bugger and I don't want to make assumptions of what he can and can't do)

GM (GM): (I mean, she has... Resilient Sphere, Private Sanctum, Tiny Hut, Nondetection, Magic Circle...)

(She could cast some protective spells to shield herself and Jean)

Marcus Veranius: (Nondetection on self)

Suldae Westwind: (and Jean)

(and something protective from aoe effects)

GM (GM): (With 12 minutes of prep time she could cast Magic Circle, Private Sanctum, and Tiny Hut)

(That combination would prevent ... Wait wtf is this music)

Suldae Westwind: (is that... definitely music)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Rave on Yester Hill)

Suldae Westwind: (it doesnt sound music-y)

GM (GM): (That combination would prevent teleportation, vision, spell casting, sound, divination spells, and physically passing through)

Suldae Westwind: (good shit!)

(i think she should do that yeah)

GM (GM): Alright, we'll say she does that before you guys spring on Strahd

Magic Circle

*Abjuration 3Casting Time: 1 minuteRange: 10 feetTarget: A 10-foot-radius, 20-foot-tall cylinder centered on a point on the ground that you can see within rangeComponents: V, S, M (Holy water or powdered silver and iron worth at least 100 gp, which the spell consumes)Duration: 1 hour

You create a 10-foot-radius, 20-foot-tall cylinder of magical energy centered on a point on the ground that you can see within range. Glowing runes appear wherever the cylinder intersects with the floor or other surface. Choose one or more of the following types of creatures: celestials, elementals, fey, fiends, or undead. The circle affects a creature of the chosen type in the following ways: The creature can't willingly enter the cylinder by nonmagical means. If the creature tries to use teleportation or interplanar travel to do so, it must first succeed on a Charisma saving throw. The creature has disadvantage on attack rolls against targets within the cylinder. Targets within the cylinder can't be charmed, frightened, or possessed by the creature. When you cast this spell, you can elect to cause its magic to operate in the reverse direction, preventing a creature of the specified type from leaving the cylinder and protecting targets outside it.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the Duration increases by 1 hour for each slot level above 3rd.

Tiny Hut*Evocation 3 (ritual)Casting Time: 1 minuteRange: Self (10-foot-radius hemisphere)Target: A 10-foot-radius around and above youComponents: V, S, M (A small crystal bead)Duration: 8 hours

A 10-foot-radius immobile dome of force springs into existence around and above you and remains stationary for the duration. The spell ends if you leave its area. Nine creatures of Medium size or smaller can fit inside the dome with you. The spell fails if its area includes a larger creature or more than nine creatures. Creatures and objects within the dome when you cast this spell can move through it freely. All other creatures and objects are barred from passing through it. Spells and other magical effects can't extend through the dome or be cast through it. The atmosphere inside the space is comfortable and dry, regardless of the weather outside. Until the spell ends, you can command the interior to become dimly lit or dark. The dome is opaque from the outside, of any color you choose, but it is transparent from the inside.

Private Sanctum

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 10 minutes

Range: 120 feet

Target: An area within range

Components: V, S, M (A thin sheet of lead, a piece of opaque glass, a wad of cotton or cloth, and powdered chrysolite)

Duration: 24 hours

You make an area within range magically secure. The area is a cube that can be as small as 5 feet to as large as 100 feet on each side. The spell lasts for the duration or until you use an action to dismiss it. When you cast the spell, you decide what sort of security the spell provides, choosing any or all of the following properties: Sound can't pass through the barrier at the edge of the warded area. The barrier of the warded area appears dark and foggy, preventing vision (including darkvision) through it. Sensors created by divination spells can't appear inside the protected area or pass through the barrier at its perimeter. Creatures in the area can't be targeted by divination spells. Nothing can teleport into or out of the warded area. Planar travel is blocked within the warded area. Casting this spell on the same spot every day for a year makes this effect permanent. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, you can increase the size of the cube by 100 feet for each slot level beyond 4th. Thus you could protect a cube that can be up to 200 feet on one side by using a spell slot of 5th level.

(So Jean, the horses, and Ireena are secure)

(Are we waiting for Hiere)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

GM (GM): (Because this is becoming a long shower)

(Any other logistics to take care of?)

Marcus Veranius: (Starting positions)

GM (GM): (x)[<https://media3.giphy.com/media/tjpOYwb6PkIO0/giphy.gif>]

(<https://media3.giphy.com>

/media/tjpOYwb6PkIO0/giphy.gif)

Marcus Veranius: (We're gunna need the Skull Wagon somewhere next to Treant)

GM (GM):

(<https://media1.giphy.com/media/10GUjBGugMIHDa/source.gif>)

(This is the weirdest shit)

Marcus Veranius: (The nineties were a weird time for music)

Suldae Westwind: so everyone who can fit in the dome when its first cast does, right?
so everyone in the party can pass freely through it

Marcus Veranius: (Zeus raves while punishing you for all eternity)
(.mp3)

GM (GM): (Yes, the party members can pass freely through it)

Suldae Westwind: if Ireena moves 10 squares closer her hut will be within one move distance from Suldae's position

GM (GM): Where do you want her? You can ping on the map

Suldae Westwind: one sec

Henry of Willowsbrook: (funny how we all seem to have vastly different ideas what could be considered 'appropriate background music')

Suldae Westwind: ^^

Marcus Veranius: (And all are correct opinions! [except marcus])

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I am in a constant struggle to not go full weeb on all y'all)

Marcus Veranius: (We should probably space out when ending round 1, try not to be too close for AoEs)

(Do it Henry. Drop Snow Halation on us)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is staying at call lightning distance)

(that will hamper healing but yall know where she is)

(come back if you need it (tm))

Marcus Veranius: (Shower is at 40 minutes. Do we want to just give Hiero a "I predicted you would do that" surprise action when he pops in?)

GM (GM): (Works for me)

(But if you're relying on him for that Haste, well)

Marcus Veranius: (Haste is nice, we aint relying on him for anything)

(Or rather, Haste isn't a big thing for surprise round)

(Hiero dropping AoEs at a later point is just as cool)

GM (GM): (Alrighty then, your call)

(Y'all can vote on it)

Suldae Westwind: (im down

i think 40 min shower is reasonable but you should not start taking it literally as the session starts)

Marcus Veranius: (OH NO, MARCUS ONLY HAS [SEVEN] ATTACKS INSTEAD OF [EIGHT]! WHATEVER WILL WE DO?)

Suldae Westwind: (OH)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'm reved up and ready to rock)

Marcus Veranius: (Nevermind Able here)

Suldae Westwind: (can i use my channel divinity before the surprise round to grant Marcus 1 extra attack?)

CHANNEL DIVINITY: LIFE'S

FLOURISH*Class: Cleric*

At level 2, you can use your Channel Divinity to grant an extra attack or non-attack action to an ally that they can use on their next turn, as a standard action.

Marcus Veranius: (If so, my follow up question is how Henry can contribute to the Oathbow Spirit Bomb)

Able: (I am arrived)

GM (GM): (RE: Suldae's question: YES)

(And Henry might have something for that too)

Marcus Veranius: (Channel Divinity won't let you take control of the storm though [?])

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he can't his range ends at 60ft)

Able: (I heard someone needed a Haste?)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus could use Haste, unless you wanna drop another spell down for Round 1)

Able: (nope deffo haste)

GM (GM): (We're assuming the order of events here is: Suldae cats's Channel Divinity, then begins to take over the storm right as Marcus cuts loose an insane flurry of shots) casts*

Yorhish M'wahassa: (I am the Lorax and I speak for the trees)

Marcus Veranius: (Do you wanna ride with the other mages in the Skull Wagon?)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

Hiere Unthere: (the what now)

Suldae Westwind: (omg you missed so much)

GM (GM): (You've been on a vision quest for a while now)

Marcus Veranius: (We stole Strahd's Mom's flying skull cart)

GM (GM): (Luckily, you've never needed to not be confused)

Suldae Westwind: (we have aerial artillery now)

GM (GM): (There's a Giant's Skull that's been enchanted to fly, Ismark can pilot it)
(Currently, Kasimir and Rictavio are riding in it)

Suldae Westwind: (oh right whats Ezme doing)

GM (GM): (It's probably the fastest way to get around)

Suldae Westwind: (backing Suldae up from 120 ft distance?)

(does she have anything long range?)

(in principle shes a wereraven too and so can also attack from flight on her own)

(backing Marcus up works better i suppose)

GM (GM): (Ezmerelda has Magic Missile, Lightning Bolt, Greater Invisibility, Fire Bolt... Lots of options)

(I imagine she will want to stick close to Marcus after he aggroes the evil god)

Suldae Westwind: (move closer to Suldae? range isnt all that great on heals)

(nm its good)

(60ft)

GM (GM): (What about Suldae in the branches of the tree)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Okay everyone ready?)

Suldae Westwind: (just dont run away)

(yesss)

(Suldae is in a tree)

GM (GM): (I am absolutely sure your Treant friend would be more than happy to be your vehicle)

Suldae Westwind: (he isnt on the map hmm)

GM (GM): (He's next to Henry)

Marcus Veranius: (He smol)

GM (GM): (Yorhish)

Marcus Veranius: (One more size up)

GM (GM): (Made him a bit bigger)

Suldae Westwind: (aha i see him)

(yeah Suldae on a treant is an excellent option im down)

Marcus Veranius: (He's a huge boi)

Suldae Westwind: (pls make Suldaes token be on top of his)

(layering)

Hiere Unthere: (holy shit there's a battle plan and everything)

Suldae Westwind: (oh ok i can see it)

GM (GM): (He'll use his turn mostly to move as you command, unless you ask him to attack instead)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah we are springing a prepared attack for once)

(its great)

GM (GM): (You should have access to his stat block and attacks)

 Sulda Westwind: (i think im fine with sticking to tree cover for now lmao)

 GM (GM): (Tree in the trees, that's pretty well hidden)

 Sulda Westwind: (ty!)
(yeah lmao)

 GM (GM): (Aight, any other last minute things)
(Or should we get this party StArTeD)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (No sir)

 Hiere Unthere: (should I be at 30hp?)

 Sulda Westwind: (and branches positioned so Suldae has excellent visibility but basically cannot be spotted herself)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hiere is fully rested)
(PORTENTS!)

GM (GM):

(<https://media2.giphy.com/media/WMWiLplqngZHO/giphy.gif>)

(Suldae has $\frac{3}{4}$ cover because Yorhish is actively trying to shield her with his branches)

 Suldae Westwind: (I'm presuming that unless Yorhish throws a rock or Suldae somehow manages to play loudly enough to reach them from 120 ft away no-one can tell shes there without magic senses)
(ty!)

 GM (GM): (You'll have to remember that because I won't)

 Suldae Westwind: (i will :D)

 GM (GM): (And yes, roll those portents, Hiere!)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Did on discord 11 and 19)

 Hiere Unthere: (rolled and pinned)

 GM (GM): (Neat)
(Well, shall we?)

Suldae Westwind: (yup, im taking down the channel divinity)

(OH)

(BARDIC INSP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I always wanted to crash a party y'know" Henry muses "Never planned for it to be quite this violent but thats just the way things are here I guess"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whispers words of encouragement to party members, hugging them before the fight.

-counts- Marcus, Henry, Kasimir, Rictavio, Ismark

-5 Bardic insps

The hill looms, backed by the crackling lightning of Strahd's storm. The towering effigy seems almost to breathe in the chants of the druids and their dancing hordes of blights. A black tree atop the hill stretches its bare branches to the sky, and Henry senses the life-blood of the whole forest — trapped there. This, then, must be the Gulthias tree. It seems intricately connected to whatever ritual is being performed on the hill. In the distance, Strahd hangs in space, staring due west, out into the fog. He seems uninterested in the ritual.

Suldae Westwind: RECORD THEM

RECORD THE BARDIC INSPIRATION PEOPLE

Ireena Kolyana: From within her protective wards, Ireena waves goodbye to Suldae. This will be the first time since being together that they have not fought side by side, and it seems to be hard on her.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "You ready, love?" Ezmerelda mutters, standing by Marcus.

Marcus Veranius stares down Strahd in the distance, Oathbow aimed true.

Marcus Veranius: "Ready as ever."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark gives Kasimir's pale hand a squeeze.

Marcus Veranius: "More ready than our usual assaults."

Rictavio: Rictavio, in the skull, pretends not to notice.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pumps a fist so Ireena can see her and climbs into the branches after giving Marcus what blessing she can. This will work.

GM: (Will Hierie be riding in the skull?)

Hierie Unthere: (how far away from Marcus is the skull planning on going?)

Marcus Veranius: (All the way to Cone 2)

(Haste will go before the skull moves though)

Hierie Unthere: (oh I just need to be in range when its casted)

(so I'll get on and lay down a haste, yeah?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also roll initiative Able)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

(yours is turn 0, woo!)

Hiere Unthere:

22

INITIATIVE (3)

Suldae Westwind: (RECORD THE BARDIC INSPS ON THE NPCS PLEASE)

(Rictavio, Kasimir, Ismark)

(actually no)

(if Hiere is in the skull then Kasimir, Ismark, Hiere)

(insp'd: Marcus, Henry, Kasimir, Ismark, Hiere)

Hiere Unthere: (I won't be needing an insp)

Suldae Westwind: (not, in fact, Rictavio, sorry)

(okay)

(then Rictavio)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Now if Hiere would do the honor of gloriously return with his casting?so that we can get this show on the road)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah surprise round is not in init order)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere has been completely present this whole time. Dragoneye staff in hand, he starts to leave some heaving weave upon Marcus, adding one (1) Haste attack to the already ridiculous number of attacks he is capable of making in 6 seconds.

Marcus Veranius: [9 shots. 2 Normal +1 Dread Ambush, +3 Action Surge, +1 Snipe Maneuver, +1 Haste, +1 Channel Divinity]

"Swift death to you who have wronged me."

GM: (Merciful Christ)

Marcus Veranius releases arrowgeddon

Marcus Veranius: The Oathbow will help them hit their mark

Henry of Willowsbrook: (There is only one God here and He is fresh out of Mercy)

Marcus Veranius:

15

9

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

13

Bonus Damage/Piercing

22

Magical Piercing

19 | 16

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

16

Bonus Damage/Piercing

17

Magical Piercing

12 | 14

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

14

Bonus Damage/Piercing

18

Magical Piercing

20 | 24

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

16

Bonus Damage/Piercing

20

Magical Piercing

26 | 19

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

15

Bonus Damage/Piercing

21

Magical Piercing

10 | 21

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

17

19*Magical PiercingMarcus Veranius:*13*14

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)(+7)

Marcus Veranius

19*Bonus Damage/Piercing19Magical Piercing23*16

120

>Sharpshooter (ClockworkCrossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

17*Bonus Damage/Bonus
Damage/Piercing23Magical Piercing*

(Whoops, one of those was the wrong weapon)

1725

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)(+7)

Marcus Veranius

19*Bonus Damage/Bonus
Damage/Piercing18Magical Piercing*

(Droppin some precision)

GM: (When you're done, go ahead and give me the total damage. His AC is 16)Marcus Veranius:

As a bonus action, you can expend one superiority die and make a ranged weapon attack. You can draw a thrown weapon as part of making this attack. If you hit, add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll.

5*Bonus Damage[Snipe]

Marcus Veranius

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

5*Bonus Accuracy[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

3*Bonus Accuracy[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

7*Bonus Accuracy[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

(All hits after precision dice)

GM: (Total damage?)

Hiere Unthere: (many)

GM: (Accurate)

(But Strahd has the many of the hit points as the well)

Marcus Veranius: (...291 if I did my math right)

GM: (Looks about right... Give RP)

323

(The total I come up with is 323...)

(Oh wait... One of the attacks was the wrong weapon, right?)

(286)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (minus40)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

(+5 damage from Snipe)

(Also one of those precisions was on the wrong weapon cause Im bad)

GM: (291 it is then)

(Gib RP when you're ready)

Marcus Veranius lets his arrows fly forth, streaking across the sky. They drift between clouds of their own volition before correcting, converging on their chosen target. Missiles on all sides, aimed at Strahd's center of mass. One was bound to strike true in the heart.

Marcus Veranius: These white arrows were brought here by a fallen archer for this purpose. May they rest with the tyrant they were carved to slay.

"CHARGE!!!"

Suldae Westwind: (will Strahd roll Concentration?)

(or does it get dropped by default)

Marcus Veranius: (Nine rolls on concentration)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (or do we get a baba repeat of asking for redundant concentration checks cause got wiped)

Strahd Von Zarovich has never been so deeply or so suddenly wounded, save for the moment in which he learned that Tatyana loved another. Pain sweeps through him in a blinding tidal wave, shattering his concentration. Here has a vision: a crystal heart, pulsing with ancient hate, hanging in the darkness of a vast tower. It cracks, and screams, and begins to bleed... But does not break completely. Just as suddenly as the vision comes to him, it fades away.

Strahd von Zarovich turns towards the forest, eyes flashing with arcane power.

GM: (What's next?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts up the melody. It is one she has played before, and in truth, it would be too complex for her - but the flute is helping, she can feel her fingers move that extra bit faster, as though guided, and wind move through her lips faster, as though called.

The Weave shifts, connecting her will to the vast storm above, and for a moment she feels lightheaded. It is less like moving pieces on the board and more like riding a horse - a large horse, when you are a small child, and rely only on its goodwill to keep yourself seated.

But this place's nature holds goodwill towards her indeed.

DC18

Dexterity Save

19

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

rolling 1d10

(7)

= 7

Lightning streaks down towards these winds' usual master and hated foe.

(To GM):DEXTERITY SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 16

Strahd von Zarovich:DEXTERITY SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 30

Suldae Westwind: (the arrows knocked him out of the way lmao)Strahd von Zarovich moves so quickly it looks as though he flickers in place. The lightning streaks through him, still harming him but not severely.

GM: (Treant now?)

Tops K.: (Yee)Henry of Willowsbrook: (me please

(I need to ride through cone 1)

GM: (Lol go ahead)

Marcus Veranius: (Shit, ur rite)Suldae Westwind: (lmao)

(yep)

Yorhish M'wahassa hefts the gallon of Alchemist's Fire, flinching slightly at the thought of the flames inside. He hesitates, seeing Henry charge forward, and chooses to wait just a moment longer before throwing.*Henry of Willowsbrook: "You heard him Corazon" Henry says raising his War Pick and shield gathering holy light around himself "NIGHT FADES BEFORE DAWN!"Hiere Unthere: (holy fuck that is a fast boye)Henry of Willowsbrook: (I have a horse)Hiere Unthere: (ah)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Arriving at the effigy Henry leaps at it hacking away to get the seed

Suldae Westwind: (does the treant move to get cone 1 going?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: *A shining beacon thunders up the hillside as lightning booms
(so do I attack to get at the seed
?)

Henry sees undead roots rising from the ground, binding the massive statue in place. It seems it will not be possible to topple the statue unless the Gultias Tree is first slain. Up close, Henry can sense the Dryad Queen in the heart of the statue, which is 50 feet tall. He knows that he will have to climb to reach it.

Marcus Veranius: (Horse is dashing, not henry. You get an attack)

GM: (Yes, go ahead and make an attack)

Marcus Veranius: (And an object interaction to grab the seed should it be knocked free)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Piercing

1

Acid

27

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

10

Piercing

2

Acid

(25)

Henry's massive Warpick cracks into the structure, crunching through gnarled, undead roots... But as quickly as he breaks them, new ones sprout and spread, binding the statue into its form.

The statue's head turns and looks directly at him, and green arcane eyes blaze to life in the shadowed face.

Yorhish M'wahassa unleashes a gallon of Alchemist's Fire.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well shit you are even uglier upclose!" Henry says with an annoyed expression "Sorry they made you look like this when they made you"

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish covers his face as the flames burst up, brilliantly illuminating the night

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd snarls at the sight of the flames.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae leans back and touches the crown of her head to his trunk comfortably, still playing

[6] Fire damage right off the bat...

Marcus Veranius: (OOF)

Suldae Westwind: (ouch Imao)

Flames bathe the hillside, engulfing a dozen screaming twig blights and two druids.

GM: (The vine blights are vulnerable to fire, so it dealt double damage to them anyway)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ok, here we go, boys..."

Ismark speaks a word in Abyssal, and the skull rockets skyward, breaking from the tree-line.

[9] Fire damage right off the bat...

Marcus Veranius: (OOOOF)

Dozens of twig blights are vaporized, a number of vine blights nearly follow suit, and the entire Gulthias Tree goes up in flames. It screams like a thousand tortured souls. The statue, nearby, sympathetically bursts into flame as well.

Suldae Westwind: (aint it great Henry wasnt climbing it?)

Hiere Unthere: "WOOOOOOOOOOO"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nah he was in font of it smashing it up)

(wait you said ain't)

Marcus Veranius: (There's two ritual sites)'

(Henry is at Site A, skull at Site B)

(Wait I misread :O)

Kasimir Velikov waves his hand, unleashing a red star which jets down towards the Gulthias tree and erupts into a brilliant sphere of blue flame.

Kasimir Velikov:

DC16

Half damage

Dexterity Save

7

Higher Level Cast

36

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY
Tree Blight

Ability: 17

Blue flames engulf the Gulthias Tree, but its many branches flicker and dance, shaking off the main effects of the blast.

It seems this tree is somewhat arcane in nature...

21.5

All the same, the tree's natural weakness toward fire causes it to take severe damage from the explosion.

 Kasimir Velikov: "It's still alive. Hiere, finish it off!"

 Hiere Unthere: (back to me?)

GM: (Yup)

(Oh, also, that first fireball took out the vine blights near the tree)

 Hiere Unthere:

DC 17

Dexterity Save

3
Fire

Higher Level Cast

21
Fire

150 feet

Fireball

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY
Tree Blight

Ability: 2

The Gulthias Tree takes 48 points of fire damage.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (oof thats alot of 1s in that fireball, still effective but oof)

 Suldae Westwind: (the dice gods favor strahd today)
(its the ritual)

The Tree screams like all the blasted souls of the Abyss, but does not yet die. Fire dances all around it and over all its branches, and though it knows it is not long for this world, its hatred burns all the more fiercely in the midst of the fire.

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda stares at the distant Strahd, and her eyes narrow.

Marcus feels the power inside her suddenly concentrate and tighten, as though she were spending sorcery points or something odd like that.

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir opens her palm and looses a mighty Magic Missile with 240 feet of range.
The darts stream across the distance...

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

10

Higher Level Cast

7

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile

Strahd catches all the darts on his open palm, taking some damage but not enough to matter.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "It was worth a shot..."

Hiere Unthere: (wow the 1s)

GM: (Yeah no kidding)

(Alright, have I missed anyone?)

(Has everyone acted?)

Marcus Veranius: (What is Chef cooking?)

GM: (Do you want the skull to retreat? Ismark still has about 40 feet of movement on the skull I think)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ric still hasn't)

GM: (Chef is cooking a pot-roast)

(Rictavio threw the alchemist's fire)

Marcus Veranius: (Skull had to use all its movement to get there unfortunately)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh right)

Marcus Veranius: (Wait, it can retreat 10 ft)

(My calculations were based on it moving from the treeline)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I think they are now fully aware of our presence)

GM: (Alright, top of the round, the fire starts to expand downhill)

(Marcus, you're up)\

Marcus Veranius readies more shots on Strahd, hoping to draw his ire away from the others' efforts

Marcus Veranius: [2 normal, 1 Haste, 1 Snipe (last maneuver die)]

23

23

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)

Marcus Veranius

15

Bonus Damage/Piercing

18*Magical Piercing11*11

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)(+7)

Marcus Veranius

14*Bonus Damage/Piercing22Magical Piercing26*9

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)(+7)

Marcus Veranius

17*Bonus Damage/Piercing17Magical Piercing8*12

600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)(+7)

Marcus Veranius

17*Bonus Damage/Piercing21Magical Piercing*

As a bonus action, you can expend one superiority die and make a ranged weapon attack. You can draw a thrown weapon as part of making this attack. If you hit, add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll.

2*Bonus Damage[Snipe]

Marcus Veranius

Marcus Veranius: (Lemme check how many lucky dice I can use to fix this)

(One per attack, no limit per round. Using one each for the 12 and 11)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Bardic Inspiration d8 you have one)

Marcus Veranius: (OH, lets use that instead) rolling 1d8 Bardic Inspiration

(4)

= 4

12 now hits

rolling 1d20+7 Lucky Die

(7)+7

= 14

(11 still misses)

Henry of Willowsbrook: plus the 2 from snipe?

Marcus Veranius: (Snipe is a damage mod)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh)

Marcus Veranius: 107 Magical Piercing on Strahd

A flurry of arrows pierces Strahd. Hiere again has a momentary flash of imagery: a crystal heart, bleeding freely, cracked nearly through...

Strahd's voice booms over the battlefield.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Enough of this..."

GM: (EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Hiere Unthere: (again!?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "WHAT? I CAN HEAR YOU" Henry yells back at Strahd cna't can't

Marcus Veranius: (One preround, 1 ambush round, now for Round 2)

(I assume...)

GM: (This is correct)

Hiere Unthere: (wow i should really go easy on the conc spells)

Marcus Veranius: (Hiere is exploiting half A-presses for additional actions. Its why he wasn't casting during Baba Lysaga)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (able when in doubt Fireball (unless you actually have a plan))

Hiere Unthere:

DC 17

Dexterity Save

3
Fire

Higher Level Cast

29
Fire

150 feet

Fireball

Suldae Westwind: the fucking dice

GM: (Where are you putting that fireball?)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere drops another fireball on the G-man, wondering whether they were aware of their extreme susceptibility to being set on fire.

(I'll try getting the two twinges on the edge in range too)

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY
Tree Blight

Ability: 9

Hiere's fireball erupts, engulfing two vine blights and the Gulthias Tree. All three creatures are instantly blasted to ash.

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY
Druid

Ability: 21

16

A nearby druid survives only by hurling himself out of the way at the last possible second.

GM: (EoT?)

The statue standing over Henry screams with the voice of a thousand tortured souls, and stumbles forwards, falling to one knee.

It seems on the verge of collapse...

Hiere Unthere: (EoFT)

Ismark Kolyanovich raises his hands, and his eyes fill with hellfire. At his command, spoken in Abyssal, a roaring pillar of fire consumes a nearby druid and his vine blights.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

DC17

Dexterity Save

17
Fire

60 feet

Flame Strike

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY
Druid

Ability: 6

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark then speaks another word of Abyssal, and sends the Giant Skull hurtling northwards.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not giving the treant any of the pre-agreed-upon signs for him to move in an indicated direction or do any other action, and simply keeps up the melody, with the sky sending another strike at the vampire under it.

DC18

Dexterity Save

11
Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

rolling 1d10

(3)

= 3

Strahd Zombie:

DEXTERITY SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 28

Suldae Westwind: (fucking wow)

Marcus Veranius: ("You dare attack me with MY cloud!")

Once again, Strahd seems almost to shiver in place, and the lightning passes through him almost harmlessly.

Strahd von Zarovich: "You dare attack me with the storm of my own creation?"

"If you want lightning, I will show you lightning!"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes," Suldae wants to say, but her mouth is busy.

Also, she's in hiding.

And stuff.

GM: (Any additional action?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Druid: "MOTHER NIGHT, HEAR THE CALL OF YOUR SERVANTS!"

"HELP US, MOTHER! WE ARE OVERWHELMED!"

Suldae feels the whisper of a familiar spiteful soul. She senses what seems almost like an invisible smirk...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tenses up, ready for the inevitable Something Bad, but does not let it stop her playing.

The Druid's form begins to twist... Scales cover her flesh, and she seems, suddenly, to have too many arms, and too few legs...

Druid: 89

[[1d3

1

The twisted druid, now a six-armed, serpentine female with six black scimitars, speaks a word in some hellish tongue. Immediately, a blast of flames splits the ground nearby, and something scaly and red, with huge, lobster-like claws and a draconic head, pulls itself forth from the dirt.

Druid:

INITIATIVE
Glabrezu

Initiative: 20

"NIGHT MOTHER, PLEASE!"

It seems the Night Mother doesn't like this particular druid as much...

The druid's form shifts, and devolves, until is an eight-legged fur ball with glinting fangs and spinnerets.

Kasimir Velikov: "TAKE OUT THE DRUIDS!" Kasimir shouts, his voice carrying over the battlefield.

DC16

Dexterity Save

52

Lightning

150 feet

Chain Lightning

Henry of Willowsbrook: (damn Kasimir ain't playin around)

Kasimir Velikov raises a hand and unleashes the most powerful bolt of lightning he has ever produced. It strikes a nearby un-transformed druid and instantly leaps from him to three others, jumping nearly 30 feet each time.

Druid:

DEXTERITY
Druid
Ability: 19

DEXTERITY
Druid
Ability: 13

DEXTERITY
Druid
Ability: 9

DEXTERITY
Druid
Ability: 4

Four druids explode, atomized by the sudden streak of arcane lightning.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir slumps in the skull, dizzied by the effort of the spell.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "KASIMIR!?"

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

GM: (Suldae, make a Religion check AND an Arcana check)

Suldae Westwind:

14

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

21

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(fucking wow)

Strahd von Zarovich:

ARCANA
Strahd von Zarovich
Skill: 34

Suldae feels the power of the Storm slipping from her grasp. Someone whose power far exceeds hers seems to lay claim to it, and even the power of Correllon — weakened here, in Barovia, — is not enough to prevent it.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's eyes fill with lightning.
He makes a downward, striking motion with his hand...

Suldae Westwind: (hey can I ask Hiere for a portent)

GM: (Absolutely)

Hiere Unthere: (yup have the 19)

GM: (It won't beat the 34, unfortunately)

Hiere Unthere: (welp)

GM: (Unless you cast Bardic Inspiration on yourself as well?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (she can't atleast not at this level)

GM: (In that case, you might wish to save that portent for later)

Hiere Unthere: (now that that is probably a good idea)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)
(agreed)

Strahd von Zarovich:

DC23

Dexterity Save

34

Lightning

150 feet

Chain Lightning

Suldae Westwind: welp

Henry of Willowsbrook: (where's he casting?)

Lightning falls from the heavens and smites the Flying Skull, electrocuting everyone inside it with the exception of Hiere.

Hiere Unthere: (nice)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

6

DEXTERITY SAVE (3)

Kasimir Velikov:

20

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (they have d8 Bardic inspirations)

Rictavio:

DEXTERITY
Rictavio

Ability: 6

Kasimir 4

Hiere Unthere: (clutch)

Kasimir Velikov:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 ft

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

26

ARCANA (8)

As the lightning falls, Kasimir raises a hand with lightning speed, and catches the lightning in his palm. Lightning flares back into the sky, and Kasimir slumps to his knees with a shout of pain.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd snarls, and touches his chest with a spell. Power ripples around him...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena bites her nails.

Hiere Unthere: (lightning was used 4 times in that sentence)

(s)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how come Strahd can cheat the bonus action casting rule)

(I know he is a boss I'm just being petty)

Strahd von Zarovich: (Because he's cool)

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW*RictavioAttack: 8*Damage: 6 piercing + 8 piercingHAND CROSSBOWRictavioAttack: 20*Damage: 5 piercing + 10 piercing Rictavio looses two crossbow shots at Strahd.

Strahd catches the first one easily, but the second strikes him. He snarls irritably.

Marcus Veranius: (If Ric can hit strahd from double the max range of a Hand Crossbow, Strahd can extra spell)

(Its only fair)

Druid: The Druid in the flames takes 5 fire damage at the start of his turn.

The Druid flees the flames, and throws himself to the ground, rolling frantically to attempt to put out the fire.

DEXTERITY*DruidAbility: 13

The Druid manages to extinguish the flames.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks up at the effigy that is now slumping and looming over him looking for the heart

Henry spots it in the heart of the statue, clutched in many black and thorny vines.

It glows feebly, pained by the cursed contact.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "'Ruinatation' falls upon thee" he says hrling his pick at the vines holding the heart careful to not hit it

25*60ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+11)Henry of Willowsbrook12
*Piercing12
*Acid13

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

Henry of Willowsbrook

17
Piercing11
Acid

rolling d8

(2)

= 2

(does 15 hit?)

Henry's mighty warpick rips through the vines and rotting wood, and an explosion of holy fire erupts from the momentary contact with this being of darkness.

The crystal pinecone falls...

GM: (Make a Dex check to catch it)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8DEXTERITY (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Hiere Unthere: (want a portent on that?)

(well)

GM: (Do you take the portent?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'll take the 11 for a 12 with the luckstone)

Henry just barely catches the falling Dryad Queen.

He feels her gratitude bloom in him, and senses how fragile her crystal housing has become. In a few more moments, she would have been broken into, and the darkness of Barovia would have found her heart.

It's a good thing he didn't let her fall.

Henry of Willowsbrook: It is quite hard to catch both a precious heart and a weapon with the same hand who knew

Suldae Westwind: you have 2 hands

The weapon hovers beside him, waiting for his hand upon it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: and a shield in the other

Suldae Westwind: a shield is fixed on the arm more than held, right?

GM: (I think Henry is correct that it occupies his hand)

Suldae Westwind: (fair)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah yeah rub it in that Henry has turtle reflexes will you)

GM: (Otherwise you end up with all sorts of shenanigans)

(Any additional movement/bonus actions?)

Suldae Westwind: (i figure you can like hold something small in it but you cannot actually do anything much with it)

(but yeah most def not catch stuff)

Hiere Unthere: (two handed weapon with shields in both hands when?)

Suldae Westwind: (and a -10 to hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stows the heart next to the other one turning his horse south

GM: (Seeeeeee all it takes is one player who is shenanigan-minded and then the ruling 'shields don't occupy your hand' suddenly is broken to hell)

Suldae Westwind: (rulings should be visualized not looked up as text)

Hiere Unthere: ('shenanigan-minded' keeping this)

GM: (I think it's a good description)

(EoT?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: ye EoT

Suldae Westwind: (id rule 'you can hold things in the shield hand but you cannot make attacks with it or actions that require a dexterity check')

GM: (Well, it's not super relevant at the moment)

Hiere Unthere: (arcane focus time)

Yorhish M'wahassa: "What should I do, little one?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae taps M'whassa to move forward

Yorhish M'wahassa: "His power is so..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wouldn't help cause henry would still be a turtle reflex wise so whatever)

GM: (Where do you want him to move?)

Suldae Westwind: She is getting the impression they will be needed soon

one sec

hm actually dash

GM: (You can move his token)

Suldae Westwind: (right)

Suldae guides Yorhish closer to the party, but at a distance from the fire.

GM: (Vine blights in the fire take 4 Fire damage at the start of their turn (they are vulnerable to it, so it will be doubled))

The many Vine Blights on the hill all converge on Henry mindlessly, seeking the Dryad Queen.

GM: (They have a movement speed of 10 feet, so most of them will be dashing)

(Is Henry still within the circle of stones?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sorry he moved around)

Vine Blight:

CONSTRICT
Vine Blight

Attack: 22 | 9

and a Large or smaller target is grappled, escape DC 12. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained, and the blight can't constrict another target.

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

GM: (Sorry, not with advantage)

(So taking the first roll, a 22)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (hits just barely)

Vine Blight:

CONSTRICT
Vine Blight

Attack: 14

and a Large or smaller target is grappled, escape DC 12. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained, and the blight can't constrict another target.

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

ENTANGLING PLANTS
(RECHARGE 5–6)
Vine Blight

Grasping roots and vines sprout in a 15-foot radius centered on the blight, withering away after 1 minute. For the duration, that area is difficult terrain for nonplant creatures. In addition, each creature of the blight's choice in that area when the plants appear must succeed on a DC 12 Strength saving throw or become restrained. A creature can use its action to make a DC 12 Strength check, freeing itself or another entangled creature within reach on a success.

ENTANGLING PLANTS (RECHARGE 5–6)

Vine Blight

Grasping roots and vines sprout in a 15-foot radius centered on the blight, withering away after 1 minute. For the duration, that area is difficult terrain for nonplant creatures. In addition, each creature of the blight's choice in that area when the plants appear must succeed on a DC 12 Strength saving throw or become restrained. A creature can use its action to make a DC 12 Strength check, freeing itself or another entangled creature within reach on a success.

GM: (Henry must make two DC 12 Strength saves)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

19 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (He has also been grappled, escape DC 12)

Vine Blight:

ENTANGLING PLANTS (RECHARGE 5–6)

Vine Blight

Grasping roots and vines sprout in a 15-foot radius centered on the blight, withering away after 1 minute. For the duration, that area is difficult terrain for nonplant creatures. In addition, each creature of the blight's choice in that area when the plants appear must succeed on a DC 12 Strength saving throw or become restrained. A creature can use its action to make a DC 12 Strength check, freeing itself or another entangled creature within reach on a success.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (on my turn right?)

GM: (3 DC 12 Strength saves)

(The saves are right now, the escape DC is on your turn)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Vine Blight:

ENTANGLING PLANTS
(RECHARGE 5–6)
Vine Blight

Grasping roots and vines sprout in a 15-foot radius centered on the blight, withering away after 1 minute. For the duration, that area is difficult terrain for nonplant creatures. In addition, each creature of the blight's choice in that area when the plants appear must succeed on a DC 12 Strength saving throw or become restrained. A creature can use its action to make a DC 12 Strength check, freeing itself or another entangled creature within reach on a success.

GM: (That's a total of 4 DC 12 Strength saves now)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can I be restrained multiple times by the same thing?)

GM: (You're being restrained by multiple different 'spells')

Suldae Westwind: (im guessing its overlapping tangles)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (kay)

7 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

23 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

25 + 3

STRENGTH SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(two got me and I took 10 damage right?9

)

Dozens of little vine sprites lunge for Henry. The nearest ones explode into tangling vines, which snarl Henry up. He bursts free from two of them, but two manage to tangle him. One even manages to leap on his back and crush him a little bit, but not enough to make a huge difference.

GM: (Two got you with their entangle action, one got you with a constrict action for 10 damage)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Seeing Henry entangled, Ezmerelda frowns.

"Henry, duck!"

GM: (Henry will have advantage on the dex save)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

DC14

Half damage

Dexterity Save

28

Lightning

Self

Lightning Bolt

Henry of Willowsbrook: (restrained gives disadvantage)

GM: (In that case, it's a flat roll)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18 + 3

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(nice no damage)

SHIELD MASTER

Feat: Human Bonus Feat

If you take the Attack action on your turn, you can use a bonus action to try to shove a creature within 5 feet of you with your shield.

If you aren't incapacitated, you can add your shield's AC bonus to any Dexterity saving throw you make against a spell or other harmful effect that targets only you.

If you are subjected to an effect that allows you to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, you can use your reaction to take no damage if you succeed on the saving throw, interposing your shield between yourself and the source of the effect.

Hoping that Henry will be strong enough to survive the lightning, and knowing that he has the shield, Ezmerelda unleashes a crackling line of lightning.

Henry finds himself freed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait wh- OH SHIT!" Henry brings up his shield barely intime

A Druid takes 2 Fire damage at the start of her turn.

The Druid flees the flame, and throws herself to the ground, attempting to put out the fire.

Druid:

DEXTERITY
Druid
Ability: 3

Unable to put out the fire, she continues to burn, taking 3 fire damage.

GM: (Top of the round, the fire expands.)

Marcus Veranius: (HMM)

GM: (Marcus, you're up

Marcus Veranius: (This is getting dangerously close to the tree line...)
(I may have fucked up)

A Vine Blight, caught by the fire on its way to Henry, takes 7 fire damage.

Suldae Westwind: (we DID set a hill on alchemists fire in the course of trying to save nature, thats definitely a thing we did)

GM: (Doubled, due to vulnerability, so 14)

Suldae Westwind: (is that lot of vine blights in the middle of the fire dead?)

GM: (They probably will be next round)

Henry of Willowsbrook: ('We have a plan watch it go up in flames, no I mean literally look over there we did that')

GM: (3 or more on the 2d4 roll at the start of their turn and they're toast, they did manage to survive this round though)

Marcus Veranius aims more arrows at Strahd, fatigued from holding back certain doom. Why wasn't he retreating? Surely this assault was grand enough to warrant worry?

Marcus Veranius: [3 shots. 2 normal, 1 haste]

Marcus sees that Strahd's injuries are already beginning to mend...

Marcus Veranius: "Oh bollocks."

He also notes, however, that Strahd has made no effort to move closer to the party.

Marcus Veranius:

9 | 19
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

15 | 20
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

20
Magical Piercing

10 | 11
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

17
Magical Piercing

(Lucky roll)

rolling 1d20+7

(4) + 7 = 11

(LUCK PLZ)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh fuck I forgot my modifiers)

rolling 6d6

(3 + 3 + 6 + 4 + 2 + 1)

= 19

+8 favored enemy

Henry of Willowsbrook: 68

Hiere Unthere: (can we get a +1)

Marcus Veranius: 68 Magical Piercing

Hiere glimpses the cracked crimson crystal heart, bleeding now profusely down a spiral staircase.

As quickly as it comes, the image is gone.

Hiere Unthere: (what is all this about a crimson heart)

Marcus Veranius: "...why won't you stay down!?"

Marcus's three shots strike Strahd, piercing his black-cloaked form.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (don't worry about it)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd smiles quite evilly.

"Did you think you were the first to attempt to slay me?"

"I have murdered enemies far mightier than thee, little ranger."

Marcus Veranius: "...bollocks."

[EoT]

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Hiere Unthere: (I imagined him being more scandy)

GM: (More what now)

Hiere Unthere: (scandinavian)

GM: (...? Ok)

(He's, like, fantasy Transylvanian)

(But he's been 'alive' for so long that his accent is mostly gone.)

Hiere Unthere: (the line of blights near A are baddies right?)

GM: (All the blights are baddies, yes)

Hiere Unthere: (then they will burn)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You keep saying things like that yet your actions keep painting the Image of a coward hiding behind a horde of thralls and cheap magic tricks" Henry says somehow maneging to look down on Strhad despite him flying

Hiere Unthere:

DC 17

Dexterity Save

25
Fire

150 feet

Fireball

Hiere warms up the atmosphere a little and treats some vine blights to a spot of light spontaneous combustion.

(could I position the fireball?)

GM: (Remind me of the radius?)

Hiere Unthere: (20 iirc)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (20ft radius

GM: (All yours)

Hiere Unthere: (my laptop is glitching tf out)

Suldae Westwind: (ah that 2exp2l22a222i22ns2222 222t22h222a2t222222

GM: (Apparently)

Suldae Westwind: (sorry i have a kitten on the table)

GM: (LUCKY)

Suldae Westwind: (i know)

(her name is Bastet also known as Astie)

Vine Blight:

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 18

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 18

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 2

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 14

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 14

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 7

Vine Blight:

DEXTERITY
Vine Blight

Ability: 2

Hiere Unthere: (that's the best I can do w/o messing it up more)

Glabrezu:

DEXTERITY
Glabrezu

Ability: 10 | 15

GM: 12.5

Only two of the Vine Blights in the radius of Hiere's spell survive, the rest are utterly obliterated.

The Glabrezu shrugs off the flame.

Marilith:

DEXTERITY
Marilith

Ability: 6

The Marilith, on the outskirts of the flame, manages to be severely singed by it. Luckily for her, she is highly resistant to flame.

GM: (EoT?)

Hiere Unthere: (yup)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (btw how far up from the ground is the skull wagon)

GM: (I don't think we established that)

(Were you wanting to misty step into it?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nah just curious if my 10ft aura bubble might reach them up there) bubble

GM: (Not likely, they're higher than that I would assume)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

10

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

8

29

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

14 + 10

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I assumed but might aswell clarify)

(Ismark Kolyanovich as: the duality of man)

Ismark looses a twin Eldritch Blast at Strahd. One misses completely, but the other strikes Strahd right between the eyes.

Strahd von Zarovich: "AARGH!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark pilots the Skull out to the northeast, keeping high to avoid any wayward attacks from the two demons which have joined the battle.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(Also, BrB)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays, tugging the Weave back to herself.

(can I take Call Lightning back?)

16

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(what the fuck)

(ok im waiting for DM ruling on this)

(brb myself also, will take some food)

GM: (Sorry, back now)

(Go ahead and make a Religion check as well)

Strahd von Zarovich:

ARCANA Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Skill: 16

Suldae Westwind: (back)

29

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (You steal the storm and can immediately use it, so go ahead and give RP)

Suldae Westwind: (OH YES THE SPIRITS OF LANDS AND DICE DECIDED TO MAKE IT UP TO US XD)

GM: (You beat him not by spellcasting skill but by sheer religious power)

Suldae Westwind: The melody, momentarily disrupted by forced intervention, surges back with fury that is not born of Suldae's skill at all, but of the nature's hatred and desire to never again be its plaything. Suldae is herself only an instrument now, being guided by a greater power against something that would otherwise be much stronger than herself.

The next strike snakes down to hit, not Strahd, but the demon called up by the quick druid.

DC18

Dexterity Save

21

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

rolling 1d10

(9)

= 9

(THERE we go, the dice ar back with a revengeance :D)

Henry of Willowsbrook: I think you can hit both

Suldae Westwind: (oh yeah its on a 5ft area)
(the demon and the druid)

Marilith:

DEXTERITY Marilith <hr/> Ability: 8
--

Druid:

DEXTERITY

Druid

Ability: 3

Suldae Westwind: More critically, Suldae realizes she guided Yornish up the wrong side of the hill. They could still probably pass between the expanding flames... but that would trap them at the crest of the hill. Better circle around.

The Druid screams as lightning rips him to atoms, and the Marilith takes the brunt of the lightning blast without too much apparent difficulty.

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Glabrezu the druid transformed into a marilith)

GM: (No, the Druid turned into a Marilith, which summoned a Glabrezu)

11

The Glabrezu charges into the flames, and peers outward at the entity which has stolen the lightning once again...

Glabrezu:

Power Word Stun, 1/day

Abjuration 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: One creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

You speak a word of power that can overwhelm the mind of one creature you can see within range, leaving it dumbfounded. If the target has 150 hit points or fewer, it is stunned. Otherwise, the spell has no effect. The stunned target must make a Constitution saving throw at the end of each of its turns. On a successful save, this stunning effect ends.

Suldae Westwind: (i _meant_ to hit the glabrezu and the marilith which i referred to as the druid but im not saying no to a kill)

The Glabrezu speaks a word of awful, hellish power... Suldae's mind is momentarily consumed by a numbing darkness! (Suldae is stunned)

GM: (At the end of Suldae's next turn, she must pass a DC 16 CON save to shake off the stun)

The Druid which turned into a Giant Wolf Spider, realizing that it is going to be approximately useless in this battle, scuttles towards the largest threat it can reach (Henry) and attempts a bite.

Giant Wolf Spider:

BITE

Giant Wolf Spider

Attack: 7 | 14

and the target must make a DC 11 Constitution saving throw, taking 7 (2d6) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. If the poison damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, the target is stable but poisoned for 1 hour, even after regaining hit points, and is paralyzed while poisoned in this way.

Damage: 3 piercing + 7 poison

GM: (Not with advantage)

(So that's a miss)

The Spider's teeth glance off Henry's shield, which still crackles faintly with lightning.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swats the attack away with contempt

The Marilith looks up at the Flying Skull.

With a whisper of scales, she disappears/

A moment later, the Large fiend reappears on top of the Flying Skull, immediately overburdening it. Her tail flickers and snarls, gripping the Skull as she raises her six scimitars to kill those in the skull... Next round.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir makes a mental calculation.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere makes a mental calculation.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at Hiere.

Hiere Unthere: 2+2=4 Hiere thinks

Hiere nods sagely

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir swats out with his hands, casting Fly on himself, Ismark, and Rictavio. Then he heaves himself and Ismark out of the Skull, (triggering an Attack of Opportunity).

Marilith:

LONGSWORD
Marilith

Attack: 28

Damage: 14 slashing

Kasimir Velikov: "Aargh!"

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd spreads his arms, casting something...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena senses that Suldae is in trouble...

Suldae Westwind: (ok so roll20 only now unfroze for me to rp that)

Rictavio: Rictavio looks up at the Marilith as the Giant Skull begins to fall. Weightless now, due to the Flight spell, he flies southward towards Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: The Weave ripple, sending the counterstrike to Suldae, and even where she sees it coming, she cannot evade. If she were in a regular tree, she would have fallen...

The Marilith, lightning-swift, strikes at the fleeing Rictavio.

Marilith:

REACTIVE.

The marilith can take one reaction on every turn in combat.

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 20

Damage: 14 slashing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that snake must die)

Rictavio: "Aargh!"

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

GM: (Attempting a DC 18 Spellcasting check...)

Rictavio:

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 19

Suldae's mind clears.

Rictavio: "KEEP THAT STORM OUT OF HIS HANDS!" Rictavio shouts.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, kept aloft by the treant's branches, nods gratefully and resumes the melody

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

"...right none of that" Henry says watching the demon that did ...something to Suldae whilst wreathing himself in clear mist and dew

He hurls his pick at the Demon the moment he and his stead become corporeal enough for it

13

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

16

Piercing

8

Acid

29

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Piercing

3

Acid

GM: (First is a miss, second is a hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (action surge)

28

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

15

4

20

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick(+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook10
Piercing11
AcidGm: Both hits)Henry of Willowsbrook: 55 damageGlabrezu: "Tiny creature!"Ismark Kolyanovich: "Big enough to kick your ass!"Hiere Unthere: (fuckin hell)*The sudden exchange of Abyssal is a bit much for any ear to behold.The Glabrezu's piggy, demonic little eyes are fixed upon Henry, but one of its draconic-looking ears flicks backwards in annoyance to take in the sound of Ismark's voice.Henry of Willowsbrook: "..." Henry wordlessly rotates his wrist after catching the Pick again quirked an eyebrow at the demon "YA'done whining yet cause I got like so many better things to do then humor you, Imp"

EoT

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Are you alright, little one?"

"What should I do??"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods and after a little hesitation points him at the spider. They can still make it to the crest of the hill between the expanding fire, and Strahd can see them anywhere anyway.

She is still playing, maintaining her alignment with the storm. It is hard to keep any focus on the battlefield, not submerge herself fully in the power and detachment of it - the storm cares little for mortal woes, it covers far more than this little fight...

If only she could ask it to snow or rain and put out the fire...

*Yorhish charges with terrifying speed, his roots snarling and snapping at the earth. He plunges between the flames, fearfully shielding his face with his 'hands' as he does so. He crushes a druid, several vine blights, and a giant spider in his path, then stands atop their corpses, turning this way and that to look out upon the battlefield.GM: (Make a Religion check OR a spellcasting check, Suldae)Suldae Westwind:*31*RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

5

All of the vine blights still in the fire to the east of Yorhish collapse, consumed by flame.

Suldae Westwind: It is a request, a plea - to the nature to make up for their miscalculation, to back them up where they came up short.

Torrential rain begins to fall. Such is its power that the flames quickly begin to die away...

GM: (At the top of the round, the flames will shrink by 40 feet)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tilts her face up, letting rain wash over it and wash off the tears. Trust pays off.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir runs up to stand beside Marcus, and unleashes another beam of lightning — this time at the Glabrezu.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

DC14

Half damage

Dexterity Save

5

Higher Level Cast

16

Lightning

Self

Lightning Bolt

Glabrezu:

DEXTERITY
Glabrezu

Ability: 11

Though the lightning flies straight and true, and strikes the Glabrezu square in the chest, it seems to take little noticeable damage from it...

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Damn!"

"That's the last of those, from me..."

GM: (1)

Hiere Unthere: (16 on an 8d6 holy fuck)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes note of the fiend's apparent resistance.

(holy shit)

GM: (Wait, that Druid is already dead)

(Ok, top of the round)

(The fire shrinks by 40 feet)

Marcus Veranius nervously draws more arrows. He expected Strahd to put up a fight, but this is more shots than even that golem took...

GM: (Marcus is up)

Marcus Veranius:

11 | 18
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

24
Magical Piercing

22 | 14
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

17
Magical Piercing

10 | 14
600

>Sharpshooter (Oathbow)

(+7)
Marcus Veranius

24
Magical Piercing

Something is horribly wrong... The shots strike, and pass smoothly through Strahd. As though he might not even be there...

Marcus Veranius: rolling 6d6 Sworn Enemy

(3 + 4 + 2 + 3 + 3 + 2)

= 17

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "He cast something a minute ago!" Ezmerelda shouts.

Marcus Veranius: (oof)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "It must be a trick!"

"I swear you hit him earlier, it must be something he just cast."

GM: (EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

(There's a Marilith on top of you at the moment)

(Clinging to the Flying Skull)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere waves to the snake monster. He pulls up a sleeve to reveal the rope wrapped around his wrist and raises it, casting rope trick. "buh-bye"

(casting it in between the snake and himself)

GM: (To get in, you still have to physically move into the portal)

Hiere Unthere: (so technically not leaving its range as I climb through)

Suldae Westwind: (does the other side of the portal serve as a shield)

(what does it look like from the other side anyway)

Marcus Veranius: (Attacks cant cross through)

Marilith: The Marilith, who is quite familiar with teleportation and planar travel, is nonetheless not expecting this bizarre trick of rope and portal. She takes a swipe as Hiere begins to climb, but aims it at where he will be, not at where he is. Of course, where he will be is an extradimensional plane, so her blade sweeps through empty space harmlessly.

Momentarily perplexed, the Marilith growls and rides the falling Giant Skull to the ground, where it crashes down with a heavy impact.

GM: (Marilith and skull both take 19 bludgeoning damage)

Hiere Unthere: (EoT)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae aims the lightning strike at the demon in the fire, deciding she doesn't want to damage the skull.

DC18

Dexterity Save

20

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

Glabrezu:

DEXTERITY
Glabrezu

Ability: 20

Suldae Westwind: There is another note to the melody, of gratitude and another request.

(ah fuck)

(forgot bonus action rule again)

(NM)

The Glabrezu flinches just barely as the lightning streaks into its form, dealing no noticeable damage.

Glabrezu: (Glabby takes 5 points of lightning due to resistance)

Suldae Westwind: (fucking amazing)

GM: (Unfortunately we may need to pause the session here for today)

Suldae Westwind: (wait, using my standard action to call down lightning from a pre-existent spell is not the same thing as casting a spell, is it?)

(I should still be able to bonus action healing word)

GM: (I believe that is correct, although you cannot cast two leveled spells in one turn unless you are a BBEG who's cheesing the system)

(But since you're not technically casting the spell, just continuing its use...)

(It's fine by me)

Suldae Westwind: (exactly what im thinking)

Suldae weaves a plea for help into her melody, reaching out to the deity she has so little connection to on this cursed plane.

8

Higher Level Cast

12

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

GM: (Who are you healing?)

Suldae Westwind: (Rictavio)

(Henry can handle himself and the rest are out of range if they are even hurt)

Rictavio: "Thank you, Suldae!"

Glabrezu:

MULTIATTACK

Glabrezu

The glabrezu makes four attacks: two with its pincers and two with its fists.

Alternatively, it makes two attacks with its pincers and casts one spell.

The Glabrezu lifts into the air and flies nearly sixty feet straight for Henry, diving in with both pincers snapping.

Suldae Westwind: The Weave swirls around Rictavio, gently closing his wounds from the inside to the degree that the deity's faraway interference can.

Glabrezu:

PINCER (~-
M32F5AZJGEGQAN7G3U3|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M32F6FZM10CDVPXAEAV_NPC_DMG)
Glabrezu

Attack (~-
m32f5azjgegqan7g3u3/repeating_npcaction_- m32f6fzm10cdvpxaeav_npc_dmg)

:

10

If the target is a Medium or smaller creature, it is grappled, escape DC 15. The glabrezu has two pincers, each of which can grapple only one target

PINCER (~-
M32F5AZJGEGQAN7G3U3|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M32F6FZM10CDVPXAEAV_NPC_DMG)
Glabrezu

Attack (~-
m32f5azjgegqan7g3u3/repeating_npcaction_- m32f6fzm10cdvpxaeav_npc_dmg)

:

12

If the target is a Medium or smaller creature, it is grappled, escape DC 15. The glabrezu has two pincers, each of which can grapple only one target

GM: (Henry, you're up)

(No sense in breaking tradition at this point)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Really now what good are those muscles if you can't even hit me" Henry says directing his mount to avoid one swing and raising his shield to slap aside the other

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

Glabrezu: ~~"Will feast upon your soul!"~~

Henry of Willowsbrook:

31

27

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

14 + 13

Radiant Smite Damage

13 + 3

Piercing

10 + 4

Acid

27

21

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

12

Radiant Smite Damage

17

Piercing

7

Acid

Hiere Unthere: (holy fuck)

Glabrezu: ~~"MERCY"~~

Suldae Westwind: (AHAHAHAHA)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Can't understand a word you are garbbeling, Imp" Henry says swing wide and hard showing the demon How to attack with purpose

GM: (So that's... 132)

(You've obliterated this demon, mostly due to your radiant damage and his natural vulnerability to it)

(Please RP)

Suldae Westwind: (I LOVE HAVING A PALADIN IN THE PARTY)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings for its chest first burying his weapons fangs where I guess the should be then after watching the beast collapse under the blow he swings sideways into its head taking it of it's shoulders with out a change in expression he flings the head in the direction of the snake beast "I do apoligize I think I might have broken your toy" he says voice cold from the knowledge 'what' they had done to this place

Marilith: The Marilith, momentarily distracted by Hiere's Rope Trick, looks up at the head flying in its direction. It raises a hand and catches it effortlessly.

The Marilith's tail slithers horribly as it releases the Skull.

Then, quite suddenly, the Marilith is gone.

A moment later, it's 'standing' right next to Henry...

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 28

Damage: 9 slashing

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 13

Damage: 17 slashing

Marilith:

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 25

Damage: 9 slashing

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 16

Damage: 13 slashing

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 17

Damage: 15 slashing

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 14

Damage: 15 slashing

TAIL

Marilith

Attack: 20

If the target is Medium or smaller, it is grappled, escape DC 19. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained, the marilith can automatically hit the target with its tail, and the marilith can't make tail attacks against other targets

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

GM: (And with that, we have to break for today!)

(Thank you all for playing! This was a fun session and I look forward to how you finish things off next week!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 18 damage for me

GM: (Stay safe with all the quarantine stuff!)

Marcus Veranius: (Will do!)

(Thanks for running!0

Suldae Westwind: (THIS WAS SO GREAT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Wait I have an ending quip)

"Oh good you saved me the trouble of coming over" Henry says grinning through the pain of the swrods against his armor "Please, do try to keep me enteratained for longer"

Suldae Westwind: (GOOD SHIT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and done that was fun)

GM (GM): Good morning everybody!

Zanshuken: Heyho

Tops K.: Mornin!

Able: afternoon

Liliet (Suldae): IM HERE

SORRY

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Okay I believe it is my turn to deck a snake)

Hiere Unthere: (isn't it always)

GM (GM): (Yup, Henry is up)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

291560ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

8*Radiant Smite Damage13Piercing11Acid14*3160ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

9 + 6*Radiant Smite Damage13 + 4Piercing8 + 8Acid*

(hm let's action surge)

232360ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

1214Piercing9Acid25*1860ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

11*Radiant Smite Damage12Piercing6Acid*

GM (GM): (Four hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (hm the 3rd hit rolled only only 2d8s when it should be 3 one sec)

rolling d8

(3)

= 3

GM (GM): (147)

Henry's mighty blows crash into the six-armed demoness, and the holiness of his touch burns her flesh and blackens her scales. By the time his assault has ended, she is a writhing mass of molten flesh, more hellfire than living thing — but still very much alive.

She snarls in the darkness, fire flickering between her teeth.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Feel Natures wrath you afront to deceny" Henry says with barring his teeth at the monster he raises his shield in preaparation for the next exchange

EoT

In the midst of Henry's assault, the Marilith lashes out with one of her blades. (Reactive: can take one reaction on every turn in combat)

GM (GM):

LONGSWORD
Marilith

Attack: 25

Damage: 16 slashing

Enraged, on the edge of death and a return to hellfire, the Marilith unleashes all her fury on the knight who stands before her.

Marilith:

MULTIATTACK
Marilith

The marilith can make seven attacks: six with its longswords and one with its tail. It can teleport once per turn, either before, between, or after its attacks.

LONGSWORD
Marilith

Attack: 22

Damage: 14 slashing

LONGSWORD*MarilithAttack: 11*Damage: 10 slashingLONGSWORDMarilithAttack: 24*Damage: 15 slashingLONGSWORDMarilithAttack: 10*Damage: 17 slashingLONGSWORDMarilithAttack: 15*Damage: 17 slashingMarilith:*LONGSWORDMarilithAttack: 14*Damage: 12 slashingTAILMarilithAttack: 15

If the target is Medium or smaller, it is grappled, escape DC 19. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained, the marilith can automatically hit the target with its tail, and the marilith can't make tail attacks against other targets

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

TELEPORT*Marilith*

The marilith magically teleports, along with any equipment it is wearing or carrying, up to 120 feet to an unoccupied space it can see.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (i take 29

A Giant Wolf Spider twitches feebly under the roots of a Yor'hish.

Tops K.: (Oh shoot, when did this snake get here? o-oHiere Unthere: (just ported)Liliet (Suldae): (OOF)

(i wondered where it went)

(aaand that's what we get for splitting up)

Strahd's wounds begin to heal rapidly. Arrows fall from his flesh, and broken bones click back into place. He drifts closer to the party.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Come, come, haven't you ruined my evening enough?"Henry of Willowsbrook: "NEVER!"Strahd von Zarovich: "Where is Ireena?"Henry of Willowsbrook: "Eat shit!"

Strahd von Zarovich sneers.

"Come to me, my children! Rip them apart, and bring the girl to me."

You hear the swarming of many bats...

Rictavio: "Well, that ain't good."

Flying due to Kasimir's quick thinking, Rictavio soars west, towards Strahd.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae stiffens up. It is not so much the attack she's afraid of as Ireena's decision making process. Not again, please, let it be enough, let her choose the smart thing, let her stay safe this time...

Rictavio:HAND CROSSBOWRictavio

Attack: 11 | 17

Damage: 6 piercing + 8
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW*Rictavio*

Attack: 14 18

Damage: 5 piercing + 12 piercing

Rictavio looses two crossbow bolts, both of which Strahd deftly dodges.

Ireena Kolyana: Antsy in her protective wards, Ireena scries the battlefield from afar. She feels like the party has it handled.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "What should we do, little one?"

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae looks around, worried. She doesn't think the remained vine blights are important. She points south, then.

GM: (I believe you can control his token)

Suldae Westwind: They can pass between the diminished fires again, after all.

(yeah one sec)

(EoT for Yorhish)

(Rictavio is flying so the spider isn't important, I think?)

As Yorhish tramples the Vine Blights in his path, the ones to his sides attempt to strike him.

Vine Blight:

CONSTRICT Vine Blight
--

Attack: 19

and a Large or smaller target is grappled, escape DC 12. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained, and the blight can't constrict another target.
--

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

The Vine snarls its tendrils around Yorhish, who barely notices as he rips right through them.

Suldae Westwind: (and damage resistance to bludgeoning)

The Vine Blights mindlessly follow Yorhish.

GM: (Took it into account)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah just for my own reference)

Three of the Vine Blights are still in the fire. 5

Two of them collapse, and burn to death within seconds.

GM: (5)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "OH SHIT! MARCUS!"

Marcus Veranius: "WHERE DID YOU EVEN COME FROM!?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I know where we can send her back!"

Marcus Veranius: "Hell preferably?"

Ezmerelda's eyes blaze with light as a powerful curse falls from her lips.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

CURSE (RECHARGES AFTER A LONG REST)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Ezmerelda targets one creature that she can see within 30 feet of her. The target must succeed on a DC 14 Wisdom saving throw or be cursed. While cursed, the target has vulnerability to one type of damage of Ezmerelda's choice. The curse lasts until ended with a greater restoration spell, a remove curse spell, or similar magic. When the curse ends, Ezmerelda takes 3d6 psychic damage.

Marilith:

WISDOM SAVE

Marilith

Save: 16

The Marilith laughs, baring flaming teeth.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda draws her silver shortsword when the curse fails, and says: "Damn."

Deciding it is worth the risk, she bolts 30 feet away.

Well, ten feet away, and ten feet into Yorhish's branches.

Marilith:

REACTIVE.

The marilith can take one reaction on every turn in combat.

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 29

Damage: 15 + 7 slashing

Suldae Westwind: (well, shit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (thats just rude)

Suldae Westwind: (good thing the healer is here for next round)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Aaargh!" Ezmerelda screams as the Marilith's blade flicks through the darkness, splashing her blood into the grass.

Marcus Veranius: (Immune)

GM: (Magical attacks)

Marilith:

MAGIC WEAPONS.

The marilith's weapon attacks are magical.

Marcus Veranius: (OOF)

GM: (Top of the round, so the flames will shrink slightly)

Marcus senses ten powerful undead entities rapidly approaching. Above, the sky begins to fill with swarming bats.

Marcus Veranius: That opening salvo means nothing if Strahd can regenerate in peace. Marcus moves to cut off the snake demon's path, then attempts to pierce Strahd's ploy.

Hiere Unthere: (maybe we should gift?)

Suldae Westwind: (do we have a RUN THE FUCK AWAY strategy)
(we got the dryad)

Hiere Unthere: (gtfo*)

Suldae Westwind: (-high five-)

Marcus Veranius:

Locate Object

Divination 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S, M (A forked twig)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Describe or name an object that is familiar to you. You sense the direction to the object's location, as long as that object is within 1,000 feet of you. If the object is in motion, you know the direction of its movement. The spell can locate a specific object known to you, as long as you have seen it up close—within 30 feet—at least once. Alternatively, the spell can locate the nearest object of a particular kind, such as a certain kind of apparel, jewelry, furniture, tool, or weapon. This spell can't locate an object if any thickness of lead, even a thin sheet, blocks a direct path between you and the object.

Hiere Unthere: (fam)

(what)

Suldae Westwind: (is this a misclick)

(or a super clever strategy)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus attempts to locate the particular style of shoe he saw up close on the legs of Strahd back at the Death House.

If Strahd's hiding behind illusions, this ought to reveal the real one.

Hiere Unthere: (dear god)

(you have a marilith 3cm from your skull)

Marcus Veranius: (I have full hitpoints)

Suldae Westwind: (ok wow. just. wow)

(love this)

Marcus feels his spell glide off of something, as though the boots and their wearer might be shielded from divination magic. He does, however, sense ten very similar pairs of boots coming from the north. They feel oddly compressed, as though they have been shoved into the Weave somehow.

Marcus Veranius: ...no.

"HE'S GOT BODY DOUBLES! TEN SETS!"

Marcus Veranius braces himself for the snake demon's charge

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What?!"

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Marilith:

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 13

Damage: 14 slashing

The Marilith takes a swing at this spell casting ranger before her, but whiffs it. Marcus is too slippery.

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Hiere Unthere: (how far am I from Marcus?)

GM: (Well, you're currently in a rope trick about forty feet in the air if I'm not mistaken)

(Since you hopped into it when the Marilith was bringing down the skull)

(But we're not going to play "Find the Hypotenuse")

(So you're within 100 feet)

Hiere Unthere: "sorry Marco but I have to stop you being pulverised" Hiere whispers, as he pulls on the Weave around Marcus' very in danger of being snake chops face.

Fog Cloud

Conjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A point within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

You create a 20-foot-radius sphere of fog centered on a point within range. The sphere spreads around corners, and its area is heavily obscured. It lasts for the duration or until a wind of moderate or greater speed (at least 10 miles per hour) disperses it.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the radius of the fog increases by 20 feet for each slot level above 1st.

(EoT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wasn't marcus hasted still?)

Hiere Unthere: (maybe)

GM: (I think so, since we haven't dealt with the effects of the Haste fading)

(Speaking of which, how many rounds has it been since it was cast?)

Marcus Veranius: (6 rounds)

GM: (So you've got four more before the effects fade)

Marcus Veranius: (So maybe not fog cloud?)

GM: (Assuming Hiere doesn't lose concentration)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (fog cloud is concentration)

Hiere Unthere: (oh fuck)

GM: (Lmao)

Hiere Unthere: (right)

(why would it be conc reeee)

GM: (Do you want to make a different move instead?)

Hiere Unthere: (yes plot)

(plox)

GM: (Go ahead)

Liliet (Suldae): (dont forget Suldae is right there and her round is coming up) (* her turn)

Hiere Unthere:

26

120 feet

Fire Bolt (~-
Lm_GcyvTSH2s3u1Z4ex|repeating_attack_-
LmyqEn-1C3cgfAqps61_attack_dmg)

(+9)

rolling 1d10

(3)

= 3

Liliet (Suldae): (Is a Marilith resistant to lightning?)

Hiere Unthere: rolling 1d10

(4)

= 4

rolling 1d10

(7)

= 7

(14 fire)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it's 2d10 untill level 11 for firebolt btw)

Hiere Unthere: (are we not 11)
(we are not 11)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (still 10buddy)

Hiere Unthere: (make that 7 damage)

Hiere's firebolt splashes on the Marilith's scaly hide, adding to the fire within. She seems to take very little damage from it.

Marilith:

LONGSWORD

Marilith

Attack: 28

Damage: 7 slashing

One of her scimitars almost playfully introduces itself to Marcus's side.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(Mariliths are resistant to a number of elements)

Liliet (Suldae): (is a marilith resistant to lightning / does suldae know?)

GM: (Roll History)

Liliet (Suldae):

17

HISTORY (8)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Yes, and yes)

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae's music directs the storm to strike at Strahd again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait how does it make reaction attacks after taking damage? even with reactions every turn taking damage doesn't normally allow you to retaliate unless you are a level 14 Berserker barbarian)

Strahd von Zarovich:

DEXTERITY SAVE Strahd von Zarovich
Save: 29

GM: (She's a touch home-brewed, like the rest of y'all)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Okay)

(I was just hella confused)

The Lightning rips down from the sky, and Strahd once again flickers in place. This time, he seems to take no damage at all...

Suldae feels something strange about the lightning stroke. (Arcana)

Liliet (Suldae):

24

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(not even going to roll that damage lmao)

(fuck, i forgot we already found out there was something wrong there)

(welp paying my penalty)

The previous strokes of lightning had felt different, as though even while Strahd dodged them, they crackled through him. This most recent stroke felt like a stroke through the empty sky — there was no resistance at all.

Liliet (Suldae): The melody is suffused with the wrath of nature, the anger and the rising wave of rebirth and rejuvenation, splashing health around the young bard.

4

Higher Level Cast

12

Healing

60 feet

Mass Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

(Henry, Yorhish, Ezmerelda, Marcus)

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Ah, thank you little one."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae feels frustration rip through her. There is too much going on, she cannot keep track!... She does not allow it to disrupt her concentration on the spell, however.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Thanks, Suldae," Ezmerelda says with a groan, stretching her healing back.

Marcus Veranius is in eternal swords/unswords torment

GM: (EoT?)

Liliet (Suldae): eot

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (uhm GM what happend to ISmark and Kasimir btw?)

GM: (Oh damn, how'd they fall out of the initiative?)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

INITIATIVE Ismark Kolyanovich <hr/> Initiative: 10

INITIATIVE Ismark Kolyanovich <hr/> Initiative: 22

GM: (There we go)

(I'll have them act at the top of the round in addition to their turns, since I skipped them somehow)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

INITIATIVE Kasimir Velikov <hr/> Initiative: 22
--

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Running won't save you" Henry yells riding after the disappearing snake and hurling his Pick

21

31

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

19 + 11*Radiant Smite Damage15 + 4Piercing9 + 6Acid*

26

26

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

13*Radiant Smite Damage11Piercing3AcidFIGHTING SPIRITClass: Fighter 3 Samurai*

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

GM: (With the first attack, you killed her stone dead)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (shit ignore the smite damage I m out)

GM: (Go ahead and RP it, and save those other attacks)

(She was at 4 HP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Leaning back and standing up in his saddle henry puts his entire weight behind the throw turning the War Pick into a blur of steel and clawsmashing into the fiends head

Hiere Unthere: (nice)

The Marilith has no time to scream. Her head explodes in a cloud of burning coal, and her writhing corpse tumbles to the ground. She twists and rolls in her death throes, before tumbling messily down the hill. As she falls, the hellfire reclaims her, and her body immolates.

Marcus Veranius clutches his side reactively now that it was safe to do so. Sure the wound healed, but it still hurt.

Marcus Veranius: "Thanks for the save!"

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae takes a natural break in the melody, one that would be intended for her to take a breath, but insted uses it to utter: "Yorhish, listen to Marcus"

GM: (What would you like to do with the remainder of your turn?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And again he remained unsatisfied" Henry says with a solemn face before smirking and launching the returned pick at the closest blight "WHos next?"

Liliet (Suldae): (not only do I suck at this, it's also highly unrealistic for Suldae to be able to focus both on commanding the storm and fucking battlefield command)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can I use that attack?)

GM: (For sure)

Liliet (Suldae): (out of character i repeat my proposition for plan gtfo
(mine and Hieres's)

Henry's Warpick smashes into the Vine Blight, scattering it temporarily. It manages to remain intact, although it is severely wounded.

Marcus Veranius looks over the ruins that were Yester Hill. Burned trees, corpses of plant and personkind, corruption left as cinders. But no good either, long dead or remains dusted away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what's the Plan ?" Henry asks the others now that he is closer again EoT

Strahd von Zarovich: "Ah, my children... Take them down."

The bats swarm wildly in the sky.

Marcus senses that ten among them are not bats at all.

Marcus Veranius: "...there's nothing left worth fighting for here. Let Strahd have the remains of his hill."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Going so soon?"
"I don't think so..."

Marcus Veranius: "If you have to play the COWARD and hide behind cheap tricks, I see no reason to stay."

Liliet (Suldae): (Um, question. How does plan gtfo work with Ireena bunkered up. fuck we should have thought this part through beforehand also)
(note for the future)

Marcus Veranius: "Thought you were supposed to be frightening. Why do you rely on such a crutch as disposable minions?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Some people have better things to do then being an utter twat full time belive it or not Zarobitch!" HEnry replies loudly not looking at Strahd

Hiere Unthere: "OI DONT YOU DARE INSULT TWATS LIKE THAT"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Never said he was good at his Job Hiere"

Marcus Veranius: "You've lost the day, Strahd. Come back when you have a better trick."

Strahd von Zarovich: "I have lost nothing at all," says Strahd Von Zarovich.

"In fact, I've even found something..."

Ireena Kolyana: "SULDAE!"

The illusory Strahd disappears.

At the same time, ten bats dive out of the storm, falling swiftly towards the party. At the last moment before landing, they transform into humanoids: Vampires. They are dressed in a similar fashion to Strahd, but they are not duplicates. Each is pale, noble-looking, and well armed. Four of them bear staffs of black crystal.

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 24.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 21.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 9.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 16.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Warrior
Initiative: 21.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Warrior
Initiative: 17.18

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE
Vampire Warrior
Initiative: 20.18

INITIATIVE

Vampire Warrior

Initiative: 16.18

INITIATIVE

Vampire Warrior

Initiative: 6.18

INITIATIVE

Vampire Warrior

Initiative: 13.18

Strahd von Zarovich: "What's this? Footprints? How interesting..."

"And so many of them end... Roughly here..."

Retconning...

Strahd Von Zarovich's laughter echoes on the wind as his image disappears from the skies of Barovia.

You hear the howling of wolves, and the sound of bats is thick on the air.

GM: (We are no longer in initiative order)

(So you can clean up the remainder pretty free-form, with some fun RP)

(Give me a moment to calculate your XP)

Liliet (Suldae): wait, what point in the dialogue are we retconning to?

i wasnt keeping track so what's the last thing that happened before the retcon?

GM: (Back to "Going so soon? I don't think so...")

Hiere Unthere: (Marcus senses the bats?)

Marcus Veranius: ""I have lost nothing at all," says Strahd Von Zarovich.

And Strahd was right.

Liliet (Suldae): (THANKS)

GM: (Marcus sees the bats, but he never sensed the undead since that would have required mach-speed bats)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (pew my sick burn survived the retcon)

Liliet (Suldae): (why do you think i asked)

Marcus Veranius: This hill may have worshipped him, but so did Gustav Durst. So did Lady Wachter.

All lie in ashes now, as the plants do on this once sacred spot.

Strahd has personally lost nothing. It's Barovia that bleeds from this.

There is no victory here.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae keeps up the storm, directing lightning against the creatures coming.

GM: (47 Vine Blights, 19 Twig Blights, 1 Glabrezu, 1 Giant Wolf Spider, 1 Marilith, 1 Gulthias Tree)

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE Tree Blight
<hr/> Initiative: 16

GM: (Ignore that, misclick)Hiere Unthere: (LEGGGO)Liliet (Suldae): (So, okay, what IS going on? Is Strahd gone? Are bats and wolves coming? What's up with the skull?)Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches out to both of the Dryads with his mind before asking quietly in sylvan "Would you happen to know what is going to happen to these Blights now that the Druids are gone?"GM: (1867.857142857143 XP — I'm not adding Kasimir and Ismark to the distribution, since they didn't help at all)Liliet (Suldae): (Can we get a full snapshot of the battlefield cause I'm confused)GM: (So you each take 1800 XP)Hiere Unthere: (should we give Henry that 3 extra xp)

Suldae's lightning clears up the last of the Twig Blights. The storm remains in her control. In the forest nearby, you can hear the howling of many wolves, and in the skies above, the bats wheel wildly. At the moment, there are no immediate threats. Strahd seems to have fucked off for now, leaving his last laugh on the wind.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (1800 or 1868 ?)Hiere Unthere: (oh wait rounding off clean)Liliet (Suldae): (also, Strahd was also there)
(we didnt kill him but we sure as fuck fought him)GM: (Oh, one more for the Statue 714.2857142857143)Liliet (Suldae): (and a bunch of druids)GM: (3150)(450)Henry of Willowsbrook: (lol Gm)Marcus Veranius: "..."GM: (So it's actually 3031)Hiere Unthere: (450*7 immediately followed by /7 is a mood)

GM: (Lmao)

(Sorry, sorry)

(Me brain not braining today)

Marcus Veranius continues to look over the scortched remains of Yester Hill. He can't remember why it hurts so much to see a druidic site like this torn asunder, but it cuts deeper than demon blades.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere lies down.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Is he gone?"

Liliet (Suldae): (still not leveling up, apparently)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Did we win?"

Marcus Veranius: "He's gone at least."

Liliet (Suldae): (Hiere, are you still in the rope trick?)

(Above the crashed skull?)

(Guys, seirously, let's play, like... spatially)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir lands with Ismark beside the crashed skull.

Marcus Veranius: "Quite frankly, I think we ought to take his disinterest as a boon."

Hiere Unthere: (yes I am)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Do you think we can fix it?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Together."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae finishes the melody with a low note, allowing the clouds to dissolve at their natural pace.

She stumbles down.

Kasimir Velikov:

9

ARCANA (8)

Liliet (Suldae): The battle was fast, but it felt longer, and she feels utterly exhausted, for all that she didn't even walk.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

11

ARCANA (3)

Kasimir Velikov: "...Or maybe not."

Liliet (Suldae): She goes to the top of Yester Hill with Marcus and closes her eyes, sending a silent prayer to Correllon and everyone else local who might help.

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

At the crest of the hill, Marcus sees what Strahd was gazing at. Away to the west, buried in the sea of fog, there stands a white citadel, and the peaked rooftops of marble buildings. It seems it must be some kind of ancient place, once known to Strahd.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere rolls over to face the ground. "Hey can someone feather fall me before I faceplant!"

Amid the howling of the wolves and the screeching of the bats, there is a subtle changing of the sounds of the Forest.

Liliet (Suldae): "Just let your rope down!"

Yorhish seems to stand taller.

Marcus Veranius: "Hey Ez, what's that over there?"

Hiere Unthere: "Its me! Hiere!"

Yorhish M'wahassa: "The forest... It is healing, already!"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Over there?"

Marcus Veranius: "Oh, so it is Hiere."
"But what about the building?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda looks at the distant city.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae takes out the guitar, this time, and situates herself on one of the stones of the circle.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: She unrolls her map and checks it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ismark you can fly right now right? could you fetch the airhead?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "There's nothing there," she says.
"That's just... More forest."
"Must be some kind of illusion?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You got it, captain!"

Liliet (Suldae): There is no need for her to resort to the flute's stranger powers, here. This is a tribute from her, a prayer, a gratitude.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark flies up to the Rope Trick to help Hiere down. Kasimir goes with him.

Liliet (Suldae): *de

Hiere Unthere: Hiere pokes his head out the rope trick.

You hear a few dozen yelps of pain.

Marcus Veranius squints. Just an illusion? Seems like a silly trick of the light to keep up mid-battle.

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish smiles. "The forest has chosen to protect you..."

Marcus Veranius attempts to fire an arrow at the structure to test how solid it stands

Suldae Westwind: While everyone else is bustling around worrying, she devotes her mind and song to the hope of healing this place.

Marcus's arrow soars into the fog, and soon fades from view. It seems the blue sky above these structures is illusory as well: a temporary window into a world that no longer exists. As the fog ripples with the passage of Marcus's swift arrow, the image is briefly distorted like a projection of light.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Maybe Strahd's not the one doing it?"

"Maybe it's the land... Shaming him."

"A reminder of what he gave up, and what he cannot build."

Kasimir Velikov: "Hiere, you are something of a wizard yourself. Do you think you could help us take a look at the Skull? I believe it's not beyond repair."

As the last of the fires fades, Yorhish sits beneath Suldae where she is perched upon the high, rocky wall, and listens to her song.

Rictavio: "Well," says Rictavio. "We did it. Two stones."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry dismounts on top of the hill and sits down whinching a little as the beating he just took and the riding sores settle in "Ugh ow barely six months out of the saddle and I already lost my riding legs I'm gonna fell that for days"

Hiere Unthere: (what do I roll?)

The sound of the wolves abruptly cuts off. The forest rustles slightly, though there is no breeze.

Suldae Westwind: (does Ireena know we're fine and she can come)

GM: (Arcana)

Hiere Unthere:

12

ARCANA (9)

"hmmm."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's scrying has revealed to her that the battle is over.

Suldae Westwind: (cause unfortunately Suldae's head is a mess and her priority is after the tribute to the forest, rip)

Hiere Unthere: "this flying skull is made of skull."

Ireena Kolyana: A black cat emerges from the treeline and approaches Suldae, hopping easily up the wall in a few bounds. It sits on Suldae's lap. It says: "You did it."

Suldae Westwind: (you might have better luck when Suldae's over cause she has bard skillz (tm))
(expertise in arcana and all)

Kasimir Velikov: "Yes, Hiere. We are aware of what it is made of..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (bunch of big brain bois staring around the car looking at the open hood and wondering wtf to do is)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark scratches his head.

Marcus Veranius stares at the citadel. So he did have a heart after all. Pride to be injured, feelings to be hurt. Hard to imagine it.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shifts her seating to better accomodate the cat.

"We did," she says quietly while her hands pluck the rippling strings.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd DOES bleed then. But only in regards to a world that no longer exists."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "It makes sense. The only thing he cares about is himself, so of course anything that hurts his image of himself is painful..."

"I get the feeling nobody has told him NO in a long time."

Rictavio: Rictavio chuckles.

"Ah, the tragedy of absolute power."

Marcus Veranius shakes his head

Ireena Kolyana: The cat begins to purr in Suldae's lap.

Marcus Veranius: "If the swamp ghost means anything, he's told NO on the regular."

"Even by people with little to no influence in the grand scheme."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "He certainly doesn't take it for an answer, though..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So he is a spoiled brat with a bunch of deadly tricks and an ego that can blot out the sun" Henry says

"I believe they call that a Noble"

Marcus Veranius: "This has been a learning experience. Nothing we do to save Barovia will bring Strahd injury, for he cares not whether it stands in ruins or burns in flame."

"Even his own minions are fair game for disposal."

Suldae Westwind: "This is not about Strahd," Suldae says, fingers running up and down.

"We are not doing this to hurt him. That isn't the point."

"If he doesn't care, let him not care. Makes our job easier."

Marcus Veranius: "No, but that's the only way to free this country. Isn't it?"

"It's Strahd's mist."

Suldae Westwind: "I'd rather we free something more than smoking ruins."

Marcus Veranius: "Only those he chooses can pass."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: (brb, Grandpa needs help with sth)

Suldae Westwind: "Strahd's death is a necessity, but not the goal."

*point

Marcus Veranius nods

Marcus Veranius: "Still, if we are to get any closer to bringing a lasting blow, we need to look towards a past that still chains Strahd's heart."

"The Amber Temple may be our only means of doing so."

Hiere Unthere: "Speaking of which, I had a vision."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. She is content, feeling the light, diffused gratitude and relief of both the forest around her and the sky above her.

Hiere Unthere: "A crystal heart locked inside a tower. Maybe it is a metaphor for Strahd's existence."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well point or not I'm still going to turn Strahd into the worlds whineiest mulch before we leave this place"

Marcus Veranius: "I want to state that this 'heart' business I was speaking of was meant to be a metaphor."

Hiere Unthere: "Maybe there is literally a crystal heart. There is very likely an actual crystal heart."

Marcus Veranius: "Are you telling me he literally has a warded heart in that castle of his?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...2 silver says its a real giant heart hanging in his castle cuase he is a tacky liittle shit"

Hiere Unthere: "That is what fate has found convenient for me to know, yes."

Marcus Veranius: "Well it HAS to be big enough to pump blood for all the land." Marcus mutters sarcastically.

Suldae Westwind: btw

SONG OF REST

Class: Bard

Beginning at 2nd level, you can use soothing music or oration to help revitalize your wounded allies during a short rest. If you or any friendly creatures who can hear your performance regain hit points at the end of the short rest by spending one or more Hit Dice, each of those creatures regains an extra 1d6 hit points.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (are we short resting?)

Marcus Veranius: (May as well)

Suldae Westwind: (i doubt itll take less than an hour to fix the skull)

Hiere Unthere: (we leaving ireena hidden?)

Marcus Veranius: (...probably for the best.)

(At least for an hour)

GM: (back)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so I'll roll some hit dice then)

7

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Look," says Ezmerelda. "The bats are leaving..."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Indeed, the swarm of bats begins to disperse.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (song of rest was 1d6 per short rest or per hit dice spend?)

Hiere Unthere: (per hd)

(oh no per rest)

Marcus Veranius contemplates their situation over the course of their rest

Though it has been only minutes, the storm has also begun to disperse. By the middle of the hour, it is gone completely, and for the first time in a long time, you see the clear and beautiful skies of Barovia. Auroras dance below the stars, and the moon shines high and brighter than usual. It feels like the world outside Barovia, for a moment.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

4

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

8

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: "You know, I almost forgot what the moon looks like."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

9

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Ireena Kolyana: The cat looks up, over Suldae's head, and watches the stars and aurora with fully dilated feline eyes. "I've never seen the stars like this," Ireena says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(3)

= 3

Marcus Veranius: "Well, it's close to a New Moon. You don't have the moon's light outshining the other stars as much."

"Makes everything that much brighter."

Yorhish M'wahassa: In the moonlight of this sliver moon, several lilies bloom at Henry's feet.

"You have saved my forest," says Yorhish.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks up. She'd not given the weather much thought since she arrived. It hasn't even been a month, and she'd seen skies overcast for longer in a row, before.

But this was just her....

Yorhish M'wahassa: He turns to look at the party as though seeing them for the first time.

"Never have I seen the little creatures fight like you do."

Suldae Westwind: She stared at the stars again, enchanted, realizing for the first time how close she'd come to never seeing them again when she blundered into the mist.

Marcus Veranius: "Makes you think. Wereravens are most active when the sky is darkest. Empowered not by a celestial body, but by the lack of one."

Kasimir Velikov: "Damned blasted piece of hellshit!" Kasimir thumps the skull irritably.

Suldae Westwind: "I grew up looking at the stars," she tells the cat.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Woah, woah. Don't get temperamental with the vehicle, my friend. It's not its fault."

"Also, we need to teach you how to swear."

Marcus Veranius attempts to ignore the clanging and sailor talk in the corner as to not let it ruins his poetics

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Where now will you go?"

Hiere Unthere: "We definitely don't need to teach him how to swear."

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Will you take the Queen with you?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I wonder if Rhiannon and Lorelei are also seeing this night sky" Henry says with a whist full face ignoring the goings on with the vehicle

Marcus Veranius: "...same plan I suppose. Strahd's lack of heart changes nothing."

"North for the wedding, and possibly the third Dryad Seed."

"Then south towards the Amber Temple."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Oh that's right! The wedding dress!"

Marcus Veranius nods

Marcus Veranius: "We'll deliver it just in time. Kresk will have an heir."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We can get the angel's help, then. And perhaps distract Strahd."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You know, I've been thinking about that plan of his," says Ismark.

"It seems to me that it would be a terrible waste if we didn't leave some kind of signature on the angel's little gift to Strahd."

Kasimir Velikov: Grunting as he attempts to fuse a crack in the skull with nothing but his will, Kasimir says: "What...Are you suggesting?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll keep them safe until we vanquished Strahd Yorish, after that ... I'll ask them whjat they wnat"

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Thank you," says Yorhish, bowing deeply to Henry. "They will be safe in your hands."

He turns wistfully towards the trees, which sigh and dance now in a gentle breeze.

Marcus Veranius raises an eyebrow. "We still don't know what's animating that damn corpse-bride. Given how these dryad seeds seem to empower constructs, I can see no likely hiding spot than Strahd's wedding gift."

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish looks to the charred remains of the Gulthias tree, and his face darkens.

Marcus Veranius: "We may need to turn for the angel's help in Kresk's heir then betray him immediately after."

"I HOPE that isn't the case though..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Can we really hope to kill an angel?"

Rictavio: "Let alone a mad one?"

Suldae Westwind: "I would suggest going as far out of our way as it takes to make sure we don't fight him."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "Just my opinion."

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Something up Yorish? why are you staring holes into that burned out husk"

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish begins thunderously to walk towards the roots of the Gulthias Tree. The ground there is darkening in a slowly-expanding wave.

Marcus Veranius: "Stating facts though, we can't just leave that Dryad Seed in a construct if that's the case."

Yorhish M'wahassa: "No..."

"No, no, no, no!"

Yorhish M'wahassa charges towards the remains of the tree.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry bolts upright noicing what Yorish did "Oh helss no!" He follows ata brisk pace

Marcus Veranius turns his attention

Each bounding stride brings him ten feet nearer, but Suldae is swift enough to catch up to him. It feels as though the grass is lifting her feet... Hold on a minute. The grass really is lifting her feet. (Suldae's movement speed is now 40 as long as her feet touch living plant matter)

The Roots of the Gulthias Tree are bleeding. Thick, rich sap, black-red, pools out of its shattered roots, and bubbles up within it audibly.

Yorhish M'wahassa:

SLAM
Treant

Attack: 22

Damage: 21 bludgeoning

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lands on her knees, heedless of scraping her palms as she stops herself as close as she can without touching it, staring at the sap.

Yorhish M'wahassa makes a sweep of his vast wooden arm, bludgeoning the charred tree off of its rootbed. The roots drop into a pit 5 feet wide and horribly deep, and currently a bubbling well of what seems to be living sap.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "The trees," says Yorhish, looking around in sudden fear.

Suldae Westwind: Her fingers reach for the flute, and she begins playing, attempting to discern what is going on.

Speak with Plants

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Target: Plants within 30 feet of you

Components: V, S

Duration: 10 minutes

You imbue plants within 30 feet of you with limited sentience and animation, giving them the ability to communicate with you and follow your simple commands. You can question plants about events in the spell's area within the past day, gaining information about creatures that have passed, weather, and other circumstances. You can also turn difficult terrain caused by plant growth (such as thickets and undergrowth) into ordinary terrain that lasts for the duration. Or you can turn ordinary terrain where plants are present into difficult terrain that lasts for the duration, causing vines and branches to hinder pursuers, for example. Plants might be able to perform other tasks on your behalf, at the GM's discretion. The spell doesn't enable plants to uproot themselves and move about, but they can freely move branches, tendrils, and stalks. If a plant creature is in the area, you can communicate with it as if you shared a common language, but you gain no magical ability to influence it. This spell can cause the plants created by the entangle spell to release a restrained creature.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "They are still connected by the roots."

Suldae Westwind: (If I'm understanding this correctly: can Suldae ask the plants to tear the roots apart / move them out of the way?)

The roots speak to Suldae, carrying the whispers of a million trees. Each is slowly fading, their lifeblood draining into where the Gulthias tree used to be.

Marcus Veranius: "What's going on!?"

Marcus Veranius is running over to the tree site

Suldae Westwind: "The connection needs to be broken somehow," Suldae says. "We need to separate this tree from the forest"

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Wait," says Yorhish.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What do we do?" Henry asks both his companions and the dryads

Yorhish M'wahassa: "The forest has never been more awake."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks up at Yorhish.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know! Plug the hole with a new tree!"

Suldae Westwind: "What do we do?"

Marcus Veranius: "But like, not an evil one!"

Dryad: : We must keep it awake.

It will be needed.

Yorhish. Pay your debt.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "I... understand."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at him, scared, still playing.

Channeling her power and her will to allow the forest to do what is needed.

Yorhish M'wahassa: Yorhish lumbers over the gap, spreading his roots wide. Each root tangles with a root of the old Gulthias Tree.

"Will you do me one favor, little one?"

"Sing me back to sleep..."

Yorhish grimaces mildly at what seems to be an unpleasant sensation. He settles himself down over the well, and the blood ceases to flow.

Dryad: Put your hand upon him, Henry.

Suldae Westwind: The song takes on notes of grief.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Be not afraid, little one. I do not die. When I slumber, I shall wake. I will no longer be a tree, but the forest."

Dryad: He is a worthy protector of the Queen of Yester Hill.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sleep well Yorhish M'wahassa" Henry says gently placing a hand on his bark with a smile and sad eyes "Sleep well and dream the bright future we will bring" of the Ireena Kolyana: The black cat hops onto Suldae's shoulder and nuzzles her with its head, sensing her sadness.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods, but there are still tears in her eyes. She'd grown to like their large companion.

Grief shifts to melancholy, and hope.

One who plants a tree will not always see its fruit.

Henry's hand glows with green light just as Suldae's lullaby sends him into dreaming. Suddenly, he seems to be changed. Nothing in his shape is different, and yet somehow it is hard, now, to see that lump of wood as a nose, and those cracks in the bark as wrinkled eyes, and that knobbly branch as a hand. He seems to be just an ordinary tree.

Dryad: Will you give him the Queen of Yester Hill?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If that is what she wants" Henry says

The Sylvan voice whispers through the forest, a wind in the treetops.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Thank you..." Says the Forest.

GM: It would be prudent.

(Whoops, one sec)

Dryad: It would be prudent.

GM: (Forgot to put on my mask there for a second)

Kasimir Velikov:

10

ARCANA (8)

"DAMNBLAST!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Honey, give it a rest. Let me take a look."

7

ARCANA (3)

Hiere Unthere: "guys, guys. I got this."Ismark Kolyanovich: "~~Damn, damn~~"Hiere Unthere:

15

ARCANA (9)

(bullshit this is bullshit)

Hiere changes a Hylghota to a Zheglbless. The re-transcribed rune mends the chain of the spell, and the Skull hovers silently into the air.

Hiere Unthere: "It was made of skull, you see"

Ismark and Kasimir both look ready to swing hands.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment before gently retrieving the damaged Dryad heart "A queen is saved in her castle after all" he says gently placing against Yorhish placing it

The tree parts like a liquid to allow him to reach into the depths of its wood. The heart goes in its place, and the tree seals around it once again.

The wind picks up.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is playing, on her knees next to the tree, her hand bowed. She hears the wind, and answers it.

The mist seems to thin, and the forest greens. The grass shivers, and small flowers bloom in the moonlight. The forest has been restored.

The image of the castle of white stone grows brighter, and larger, swelling up until it is surely visible from the spires of Castle Ravenloft itself, many miles to the east.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "There... That ought to piss him off."Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Right, well, if we see any more living plants I'm going to have to go full carnivore."Suldae Westwind: Suldae muffles a sob-chuckle, trying to not let it disrupt the song.Henry of Willowsbrook: "Truely a tree after my own heart" Henry says with a grin wiping at his eyesRictavio: Rictavio claps his hands.

"Right," he says. "Well."

Suldae Westwind: The song ends, and after several seconds of silence, Suldae stands up.

Rictavio: "One Dryad Queen saved, one forest cleansed, one cabal of evil druids eradicated, one wedding dress in hand, one part of Barovia cleansed. Was there anything else on the checklist before Krezk?"

Suldae Westwind: Eager to focus on something else, she runs up to the skull and takes a curious look at the work.

23

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

 Ireena Kolyana: "Do we plan to travel more tonight? Joan has a feast going."

 Marcus Veranius: "We've got one day to reach Kresk if we take a rest now."
"...not much time to prepare for a wedding, but thankfully it's been arranged for us."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae can see that the skull has been wholly restored, and now hovers easily, obeying Ismark's test commands. It's wobbling slightly, and Suldae sees why: the bottom is still cracked slightly, damaging one of the runes of repulsion.

 Marcus Veranius trusts Inner Birb has somehow made the arrangements per its contract... right?

GM: (Should have been the /desc command, but that kinda works)

Birb: The Inner Birb nods its head seriously.

 Marcus Veranius: "Here's the tricky bit though. Full moon means the wereravens will be out of commission."
"Part of the contract."

 Suldae Westwind: (full moon or new moon)
(im confused)

 Marcus Veranius: "Which means if we're to trap and outmaneuver Strahd's prized minion, that falls upon Henry and Hiere."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Full Moon?"
Ezmerelda looks at the sky.

 Marcus Veranius: "New moon."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Oh."

 Marcus Veranius: (I meant new moon)

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "How many days would you say, until then?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Exactly one."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We should push on to Krezk, then."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae squats under the skull.
"Here," she points out to the two repairmen.

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir facepalms.

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark facepalms, then slides his hand down his face and leans his chin into his palm to hide his laughing mouth.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir drops his set of etching chisels in the grass with a clank and storms away, muttering to himself.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Can you repair it? I didn't take Mending."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whistles, her fingers wandering around the runes curiously.

Mending

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: A single break or tear in an object you touch

Components: V, S, M (Two lodestones)

Duration: Instantaneous

This spell repairs a single break or tear in an object you touch, such as a broken chain link, two halves of a broken key, a torn cloak, or a leaking wineskin. As long as the break or tear is no larger than 1 foot in any dimension, you mend it, leaving no trace of the former damage. This spell can physically repair a magic item or construct, but the spell can't restore magic to such an object.

She hadn't ever worked with a construct like this. This was so cool.

Suldae can see that a set of command runes are inscribed both inside and outside the skull, mirrored. Lines of runes descend from these: on the outside, they stretch downward over the curve of the cranium, stopping at one of five runes of repulsion that ring the cranium. On the inside, these lines of runes extend to complex runes surrounding the crystal sphere set into the place where the spine would be. At the bottom of the skull, in the center of the pentagram pattern which connects the outer runes of repulsion, the last rune — the cracked one which controls the overall height of the skull's flight — now begins to glow as the bone is mended.

The skull stabilizes, and flies evenly now.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll go and help Joan and Ireena bring the food over if we are going to Krezk tonight"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Thank you, Suldae!"

Suldae Westwind: "Uh huh," she assures him, greedily studying the runes. She could sort of follow how this worked...

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Guys we got the skull working!"

Suldae Westwind:

26

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae is able to understand what the runes do, and that they are powered by the crystal sphere, which seems to contain some kind of essence or spirit. It has been trained to obey the mental and verbal commands of its pilot, and speaks only Abyssal, using a fraction of its arcane power to imbue the runes with magic.

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae now intends to spend part of her time studying these runes and figuring out how one makes something like this. Just as a means of decompressing.
Especially if she can rope Ireena into it as a fun couple activity.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Fascinating," says the cat, pacing around the runes. "With these eyes, I can see the Weave..."
"I should teach you the Familiar spell, I think it's my favorite so far. I'm sketching right now."
The cat stares at the skull's runes, blinking occasionally.

 Sulda Westwind: "Ooh?" Suldae says, her lips widening in a grin.

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir approaches Marcus. "I think we're ready to leave."

 Sulda Westwind: She takes out her notebook and begins sketching what patterns she notes.

 Marcus Veranius wakes up from meditation. "Right then. Let's be off."

 Marcus Veranius: "Let's not plan for any big fights until the wedding. You know how I marked Strahd as my sworn enemy, and he escaped?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry arrives at the magical fortified hide hole and ...knocks? "Common girls we are moving"

Joan: "Who are you calling Common!?"

 Sulda Westwind: "We eat first, right?"

Suldae goes right through, because they are all allowed into the Tiny Hut, obviously.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Come on Girls" Henry enunciates rolling his eyes

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives Suldae a tackle hug.

Joan: "B-but — Food!"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae buries her face in her embrace for a solid minute, tension slowly melting off her.

"Food, we can eat THEN go."

"We're not no THAT tight a schedule, and skipping meals is BLASPHEMY"

 Hiere Unthere: (Joan??)

 Marcus Veranius: "Well, normally leaving a marked enemy alive means the Oathbow's effects last the week. Which means I have no ability to use any other weapon for that duration."

 Sulda Westwind: (NPC cook now travels with us)

Joan: "How did the fight go?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "A week?"

Marcus Veranius: "...we don't have that long, so I've unattuned it to cut the effect."

"It'll be a day before it can be used again."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Damn, that's a pain."

Suldae Westwind: "Well, we could also kill Strahd within the week," Suldae suggests innocently.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Our cook who hired herself after we kind of killed her last to employers)

Marcus Veranius: "Which means NO GIANT MONSTERS!"

"One day of peace, alright?"

Suldae Westwind: "I once again raise the idea of not offending the angel, not sabotaging the angel, not conspiring against the angel..."

"He's a piss poor ally but still an ally."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "For all we know, he could be scrying on us anyway."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think one of us would notice. He's an angel, not a god."

Rictavio: "Especially here."

"Barovia has clearly twisted his mind."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe we'll be lucky and the third seed won't be in his possession."

"I'll scout around with magic just to be sure."

Joan: Joan serves up a dinner of pot roast and potatoes, with slightly dry bread.

"I'll be happy when we're back in civilization, the bread is getting stale. I'll refresh my stores once I get the chance."

Marcus Veranius: This meets Marcus's contractual standards of fine dining.

Marcus Veranius smiles

Ismark Kolyanovich: "All tastes like ash to me!" says Ismark cheerfully.

Joan: offended sound

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pushes Ismark away from the food and stuffs her own cheeks.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir laughs slightly. "Ah, Ismark."

Suldae Westwind: She's not bothering with fine manners, but she's very much bothering with 'make it clear to the cook her efforts are appreciated' manners.

Hiere Unthere: "love the mango.. wait. what's it called?"

Joan: "M...Mango?"

"There wasn't any mango..."

"Did you mean onions?"

Suldae Westwind: "Fofafoes?"

Hiere Unthere: "It'll come to me in a second"

"YES!"

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe he's thinking of the next meal you cook."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thank you" Henry says accepting his portion "Ignore him he is wierd maybe even on purpose"

Marcus Veranius: "Divination wizards, right?"

Joan: "Aye, he's a strange one for sure."

Suldae Westwind: "Fofafoes, mango, waff we wiffewenfe"

Kasimir Velikov: "To a revenant, there is none," says Kasimir, looking at Ismark.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I'm with Hiere, pretty sure these are mangoes."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hopes Joan understands her intended meaning of 'your potatoes are tasty like fruit'

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae don't speak with your mouth stuffed like that what are you 12?"
Henry says mussing her hair

It seems Kasimir's intended joke — in similar dark humor to Ismark's original — has not landed as he hoped. He frowns slightly as Ismark tries to shift the subject.

Suldae Westwind: "I haf ad my twelfth birfday so yef I am," Suldae assures him.

She's hungry.

Rictavio: "Well, this is delicious."

"Thank you, Joan."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Try not to choke"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods vigorously.

She chews thoroughly,

Rictavio: Rictavio dabs at his lips with a handkerchief and sets his empty plate down.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry finishes his plate with vigor "So whose going up the hill to talk with the whack job this time?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's hand reaches out and lands almost casually on Ismark's shoulder. Ismark's stiff posture relaxes slightly.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We should all go," says Ismark.

Hiere Unthere: (gotta take care of a form brb)

Rictavio: "I agree. With the exception of Joan, of course."

Joan: "I'll be busy with the shopping."

"That is, assuming you wanted to eat in the near future."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What about Ireena?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't think it would be wise to have him meet Ireena"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "He hasn't met her yet, has he?"

Suldae Westwind: "I know I'm going," Suldae says, glaring at the others as she casually helps clean up with Prestidigitation, rapping her knuckles on the dishes in a rapid rhythm.

Ireena Kolyana: "Unless he's been scrying on us."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. "Would you like to meet him? Kind of up to you if you want to take the risk."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think there's no sense in not taking precautions."

"After all, he seems to think Strahd just needs to find the right voiceless lady to settle down and quit being such a douche."

"Personally, I like my voice."

Suldae Westwind: "Mm," Suldae says and nuzzles her briefly.

"Me too."

Kasimir Velikov: "Well, shall we be off?"

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, let's be off."

"Ireena can stay with Kresk's burgomaster. Probably for the best; someone needs to inform them of our deal with the Deva."

GM: (So you arrived at Yester Hill at midnight, you took an hour-long short rest, which I think can be used to include this meal time, so you're setting off at around 1:00 AM. Someone want to calculate what time you arrive at Krezk?)

Rictavio: "Deal with the Deva," Rictavio says, and chuckles. "Yes, when you say it that way, it sounds sketchier."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (6 ish miles to go)

Marcus Veranius: (I think its 2-3 hours back when we had travel times marked out)

(Mostly because we can go offroad)

Suldae Westwind: "We Arrivve At Dawn"

(shit imagije that was in brackets)

(also this is just a proposition for dramatic effect)

(we arrive at the darkest pre-dawn hour, when the sky barely starts to light up)

(also: are the clouds still gone?)

GM: (The clouds are still gone, yes.)

Suldae Westwind: (fuck yeah)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Let's say we arrive at 3:30 am)

Suldae Westwind: The party arrives to the gates of Krezk with the first dawning light at the horizon.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hello shiny disney castle)

Suldae Westwind: The sight people of Barovia had not seen in their entire lives, and a group of mounted riders exhausted, but clean and with flawlessly maintained equipment
And a flying skull.

Marcus Veranius murmurs. "On second thought, maybe we shouldn't be riding that thing around in public..."

To the east, over Lake Baratok, the fog thickens, and the skies are still overcast. Here, however, in the western depths of the Svalich Woods, the curse of Strahd seems to have begun to crack.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Anybody got a handy pocket dimension for it?"

"I don't think it would be smart to leave it lying around, either."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not saying DON'T hide it. Just... don't joyride it about?"

"Entry to Kresk typically requires proof of service, if our wine adventure meant anything."

"Let's see if our new visitors can be brought in with proof of the Baba's demise."

Suldae Westwind: "It's totally a trophy that we're showing off," Suldae agrees.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "... I'll go ahead and warn them anyways" Henry says shaking hi head
Henry rides a bit ahead to the gates

Marcus Veranius: "Don't cackle wildly or anything. I'm sure people have lost family to that skull, you know?"

The gate guards shout: "Halt! Who goes there?"

Guard: "Oh! It's the big guy!"

"Open the gates!"

The gates creak open sonorously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "This is going to sound weird but please do not freak out at the giant flying skull ok?"

Guard: "Flying... Skull?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: He calls out to the Guards

"Just ... You'll see it soon just stay calm okay folks"

Guard: One of the guards says "I'd better go get the Baron."

The other guards stand around awkwardly. One of them gives a nervous giggle.

Suldae Westwind: "Something of a trophy," Suldae says.

Baron Krezkov: "You're back!"

"There's a flying skull," he says.

Suldae Westwind: (Obviously she's in the ahead-riding committee)

"Used to be Baba Lysaga's."

Baron Krezkov: A guard whispers in his ear.

Suldae Westwind: "Now it isn't."

Baron Krezkov: "Oh, I see."

"So it's Henry's skull now?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Basically."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Nah i can#t even use the damn thing"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ahem. "It's Ismark's skull."

"Well, it's the skull of a dead giant. But it's mine now."

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think the detials matter."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "My skull is still in my head, you know. And it's not this big."

Suldae Westwind: "The point is it's definitely not Strahd's."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir elbows Ismark to make him shut up.

Suldae Westwind: "Unfortunately in a sense," she adds under her breath to Ismark's remark.

Rictavio: "Well," says Rictavio.

"We would like to come in. I'm sure you've noticed the weather is better now."

Baron Krezkov: "We were just remarking on it. I haven't seen a sunrise like this in... My whole life."

"What does it mean?"

Baron Krezkov begins to walk into the city, leading the group in the general direction of his house.

Marcus Veranius: "It means the land is in revolt, and seeks a new master."

"Just the fringes."

Guard: After the party enters the city, the Guards close the gates behind them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Lot's of things but most importantly" Henry says grinning widely "He is losing!"

Marcus Veranius: "For now at least. I doubt it's the same story the closer one gets to Castle Ravenloft."

Baron Krezkov: "Will you be in Krezk long? I am certain the villagers would be happy to house you again."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We'll be here for a bit I believe"

Baron Krezkov: "I see you have acquired a few more friends," says the Baron, noting Joan and the horses for the first time.

Marcus Veranius: "For a few days at least. Business in the abbey."

Baron Krezkov: "The abbey?"

The Baron shudders visibly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and Ismark and irrena who weren't with us the last time we showed up here)

Marcus Veranius: "...has something happened there since last we visited?"

Baron Krezkov: "Best of luck to you. These last few nights, we've heard the most wretched sounds from up there. We've been losing chickens, too."

"Haven't heard a peep out of the Abbot, though."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Wordlessly Henry rubs his eyes

Suldae Westwind: (is this a good place to end the session)

Marcus Veranius: "What do you mean? Has he not made visits?"

Suldae Westwind: (im REALLY hungry)

Baron Krezkov: "Have you been walking long?"

"You should rest first. Tomorrow, such things can be properly dealt with."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well that certainly is something" He murmurs

GM: (We should end the session about here)

Suldae Westwind: (also, it's the crack of dawn - tomorrow's starting Imao)

Marcus Veranius: (Indeed. But first, we do one thing.)

GM: (Go for it)

Marcus Veranius looks to the abbey and attempts to Detect Objects. He hopes the final Dryad Seed does not lurk within its walls.

Marcus senses it instantly. It has an almost human form...

It is pacing the halls of the Abbey. Step, step, twirl; Step, step twirl; — learning to dance.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "What is it?"

Marcus Veranius: "...I hate being right."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fuck"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at him, horrified. She can guess what this is about.

But she's still waiting for him to say it.

Ireena Kolyana: "We'll need a plan."

Rictavio: "And you'll need a safe place to stay out of trouble."

Baron Krezkov: "What is it? What's wrong?"

 Marcus Veranius: "You have shown us hospitality warmer than most homes in this country, and we will not hide anything from you."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "It is once again going to be a long long day huh" Henry says slumping a bit before straightening back up and taking a deep breath

 Marcus Veranius: "...but we cannot speak so easily overheard."

 Baron Krezkov: "Come with me into my office, then, and tell me what this is about."
"Unless you would prefer to rest first. I see you are weary."
"You seem so fresh and clean, however, that it seems strange to find you so human under all your power."

 Marcus Veranius: "...no, this involves you too. We talk first, then rest later."
[But in the next episode :v]

GM: (Thank you all for playing!)

 Zanshuken: thank you

 Suldae Westwind:
E> E> E>

 Marcus Veranius: (Thanks for hosting!)

 GM (GM): Good morning all!

 Tops K.: Mornin!

 Liliet (Suldae): yes, definitely morning...

 GM (GM): Good evening to you too

 Zanshuken: It is morning when I get up so morning was 3 hours ago

 Suldae Westwind: 7 hours ago for me :D

 GM (GM): Ok hey y'all
Greetings

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (I also am awake for 7ish hours but I only got up much later cause I am a lazy bum and it is Sunday)

The party passes briefly through the southernmost portion of Krezk to get to the Baron's house. Along the way, they notice a cold and subdued air to the village. There is less smoke in the chimneys, and the people who pass by seem harried and weary.

 Marcus Veranius pulls out a quill and parchment upon arriving at the Baron's house, proceeding to write out a letter posthaste

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae stays quiet and glances around in worry.
Is anything else out of ordinary?

 Marcus Veranius: "I can't say much, and do forgive me for this. But I've a few schemes that will work better with subtlety than with a direct strike."

"But what I >CAN< say is that the Abbot of Saint Markovia has promised a boon for the delivery of a wedding dress."

"That boon being the revival of recently-deceased."

The Baron's cottage comes into view. In the graveyard attached to the house is Anna, seated on a stone coffin, with a candle burning beside her. She is wearing a bathrobe and having what seems to be her morning coffee. There are piles of dirt in the graveyard which look freshly removed, but more than one would expect for a single grave. A woman who passes you in the street has tears streaming down her face, her expression otherwise blank, wide-eyed, staring as though beyond the world of the living. Dark bags are under her eyes. The Baron's hearth, it seems, is not lit: though it is early in the morning, no smoke comes from their chimney.

GM (GM): The Baron holds the gate open for you, leading the way into the front yard of his house. After you pass through the gate, he unlocks the front door of his house with a huge, ornate key. He pushes the front door open and holds it as well, beckoning you inside.

Baron Krezkov: "Things have been... odd, lately," growls the Baron.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Odd how if I may ask" Henry says moving inside

Suldae Westwind: "Bad odd?" Suldae guesses.

Baron Krezkov: "Well, this village has always had odd things, I suppose. But we've weathered it all without too much complaint because it's normal things. A chicken or a pig disappearing, a grave getting dug up in the night, things like that. Normal weirdness, ghosts or the curse or something like that. But lately, there has been a slight change to many of our lives, and it has proven to be... Harrowing.

"There is something in our dreams..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I take it this goes beyond nightmares and such" Henry says quietly

Baron Krezkov: "And to top it all off, we're still in the waking period. My wife and I have been trading watch over our son's body, burning the memory candle."

"So we weren't planning to get much sleep to begin with... But this, it's... Unnatural."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the others before turning back to the Baron "please tel us everything that you can "

Baron Krezkov: "You're asleep, but you know there's something in the room. You can't move your body, but you can hear and feel everything: every sound of your house, every hair on your nose. And the worst part of it is: you can see, but you can't close your eyes. You hear it break the window. You can see it crawling in, out of the corner of your eye, but you can't turn your head to look at it. It's like a shadow expanding from the wall to step into the room. It... glistens. It's humanoid in name only. It wanders the house, probing in every drawer, stepping into every stable, standing beside each bed, each sleeper. It steps to your bedside, and examines you as it has the others: leaning over you with those mindless yellow eyes, staring into your head. Then, you wake up in a cold sweat, but your house is secure. Window unbroken, family safe, all the same as it was."

"Until you learn that everyone in the house has had the same dream."

"As you can see, it has unnerved some of us."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae calls on all of her knowledge.

14

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

27

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry asks the land and the dryad queen whos heart is with him

8 + 1

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(...why do I even bother)

Suldae Westwind: (well it cant be a 1 every time)

(oh btw u rite)

21

NATURE (8)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae recalls a cabal of arcane vampires in a distant century, rumored to have mastered the art of drinking human souls in dreams. It is an obscure bit of lore from a long-forgotten book.

At the same time, she thinks about powerful hallucinogenic sedatives, and the effect that might have upon the experience of a break-in.

Suldae Westwind: "...Vampires," she murmurs.

(To the best of her understanding, would the Dream spell help with this?)

Hiere Unthere: "Strahd's.. most loyal cat burglar?"

Dryad: I sense my sister nearby, says the Dryad Queen. I sense a celestial presence as well.

Baron Krezkov: "That's the thing. In the morning, nothing is missing."

"Some people remember the intruder measuring them with an actual measuring tape."

"As if for a suit..."

Marcus Veranius nods absent-mindedly. Plenty of irons in the fire already. Any work into this investigation would have to happen tomorrow at the earliest.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius 's jaw drops

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Yeah the celestial presence sadly is being bth corrupted and losing it's mind'
Henry replies

Marcus Veranius: "That brazen..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Well that's disturbing," Suldae says, no more intelligent comment coming to her mind.

Marcus Veranius: "WELL MY GOOD FRIEND! I might have an idea to your problems, as it coincidentally coincides with my own."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh light be kind..." Henry says hand over his eyes and shaking his head

GM: (Suldae would understand that the Dream spell would possibly help with this, if the party wishes to enter the dreams of one individual)

Marcus Veranius: "For we know of one such individual who is creepy and arranging a wedding in the near future."

"An individual who also doesn't recognize how rude it is to visit one's home in the middle of the night..."

Suldae Westwind: And if that isn't it, Suldae thinks as her fingers find the flute at her belt, there is another way as well.

Baron Krezkov: (I'm forgetting how much you guys discussed the situation with this guy. Is there anything he doesn't know about the situation at the Abbey?)

Marcus Veranius: (Pretty much all of it. We didn't discuss anything with the Baron, but did inform the Baroness of shenanigans afoot)

Baron Krezkov: (Sweet)

Marcus Veranius: (The promise of a Resurrection is something left out from both individuals)

Baron Krezkov: "You think it's from the Abbey?"

Marcus Veranius: "The Abbot does not possess knowledge of social graces. He might literally be attempting to measure out suits for your townsfolk and think of it as a favor."

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Milady hypothetically if your sister were to be placed in side a flesh golem as a means to animate it what could happen' Henry asks the Dryad

Marcus Veranius: "As I mentioned, he even commissioned our group to acquire a Wedding Dress."

"...I do suspect trouble to come of the affair, even if the Abbot's intent isn't malicious."

"He simply lacks common sense as we understand it."

Dryad: Er, what? Inside a what now?

Baron Krezkov: "Well, we'd like to avoid angering him, if we can afford it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "oh boy" Henry murmurs in Sylvan

Marcus Veranius: "I don't think he understands the concept of 'Consent' either."

Marcus Veranius frowns

Baron Krezkov: "He has been here a century or more, and in that time he has occasionally been helpful. But if you could perhaps speak to him about this situation, and get him to fix it, we would be very grateful."

Marcus Veranius: "OH! But this brings me to our group's current business actually!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry explains the situation with the abbot and his marriage plans to the dryad to the best of his ability

Marcus Veranius: "For you see, we succeeded in acquiring this wedding dress. And in exchange, the Abbot has promised to revive the recently-deceased."

Dryad: I... See. I suppose that would work. It wouldn't be any ordinary flesh golem, though.

Marcus Veranius: "...remind me again, how long have you been in mourning?"

Baron Krezkov: Baron Krezkov's eyes widen and his jaw drops open.

It is a moment before he can answer.

"Seven... days. It feels like years."

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, within the time range of the Abbot's service then."

Baron Krezkov: "Tonight marks the last day of our watch, and we will inter him."

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Not ordinary how the DEva is trying to nurture something like a consciousness in his latest Vasilaka' Henry asks 'Could it be possible for her to truly come to live with your sister inside her?'

Baron Krezkov: He looks at Marcus, as though questioning him.

Marcus Veranius: "We unfortunately are a bit too alive to take up the Abbot's offer."

Baron Krezkov: "Is such magic really within his power?"

Marcus Veranius: "He is a very potent cleric. I believe he speaks the truth."

Dryad: It's possible.

Marcus Veranius: "I also believe the offer genuine and without condition, as he lacks deceit "

Baron Krezkov: "Then..."

"You must bring him down here before nightfall."

Marcus Veranius: "I was perhaps thinking of a different arrangement. For I need something delivered to the Abbot."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well thats just fantastic" Henry says suddenly without thinking what his sudden remark might look like to the others'

Marcus Veranius hands the Baron the letter he was writing, and retrieves a folded-up wedding dress.

Marcus Veranius: "I believe the Abbot's good graces would do better for Krezk if you were to collect the boon in our stead."

Baron Krezkov: "I..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cocks an eyebrow at Henry

Baron Krezkov: "Did he promise it to you?"

"I have not retrieved this. You will be doing battle against the worst of evils."

"My family is not more important than Barovia, Marcus."

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, this is also a part of my plan dear Krezkov."

"For that letter is an invitation to my own wedding. Which will take place tonight."

Baron Krezkov: "You're getting married!? Brilliant, my boy! Congratulations!"

Marcus Veranius smiles widely

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll explain in a moment" Henry murmurs to Suldae as to not again interrupt their entrapid merchant friend

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Marcus Veranius: "Well, maybe if the Abbot were to see how an actual wedding is performed he might shape up and correct his own path."

Suldae Westwind: ...Wait, tonight?

Marcus Veranius: "Lead by example, so to speak."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is pretty sure Marcus neglected to mention that detail until now. Well, vanity is silly, and it's not like she doesn't have an outfit at all...

Baron Krezkov: "Thank you, Marcus. Will you need any help with the arrangements?"

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "It's been arranged for me. The wedding planner is suspect, but his patron is not likely to disappoint."

Marcus Veranius: "That being said, it WILL be private. And I'm afraid there won't be an invitation for your family."

"But that's alright; I suspect a wedding will be the last priority on your mind."

Baron Krezkov: Crestfallen, Baron Krezkov asks: "Why not? We could use something cheerful like that — the whole village could!"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm sure the return of the young Baron will see to that cheer." Marcus smiles

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The location might not be suited for the people of this village" Henry says under his breath

Marcus Veranius wobbles his fingers around, implying supernatural shenanigans

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda says: "It's outside of our control, otherwise we would invite you. Perhaps we can hold two ceremonies?"

Marcus Veranius: "Give us a footnote in the young baron's party. If this doesn't qualify for a second birthday I don't know what does."

Baron Krezkov: "We will host a traditional Barovia ceremony for you, with the Blessing of the Morninglord, and you can decide to turn up or not. Either way, you will know that Krezk's blessing goes with you."

Suldae Westwind: "Perhaps nto at the same time," Suldae suggests.

Baron Krezkov: "Oh no, we will host ours as all must be hosted! At sunrise."

"Tomorrow morning."

Marcus Veranius smiles. The first move in his game against the Abbot has been played. He wasn't sure if the Abbot could read minds like Strahd, so sending an unknowing messenger to deliver an invitation was a must.

Marcus Veranius: The dress would ensure the Abbot's residents give safe passage so that the letter makes its destination.

Rictavio: Rictavio clears his throat quietly. "You may be on your way, sir."

Baron Krezkov: The Baron seems insulted, but bows deeply to Marcus and the rest before departing.

"I shall return shortly," says the Baron.

Ireena Kolyana: "Uh, question guys," Ireena says, as the Baron leaves.

Marcus Veranius waves as the Baron walks off, preparing to explain himself out of earshot

Ireena Kolyana: "If he gets the wedding dress, won't he send the doll to Strahd?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Doll?"

Marcus Veranius: "I have a scheme to both acquire the Dryad Seed and spare the Abbot's life."

"The doll will NOT be sent sooner than tomorrow, and that's all the time I need."

"So long as my wedding happens before the Abbots."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae slaps Rictavio's head.

"Can you not insult our allies?"

Rictavio: Rictavio says: "I said nothing insulting. If he's so easily bruised by being told what to do, that's his problem."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Rick."

Kasimir Velikov: "What did the letter say?" Kasimir asks.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay two things" Henry says watching the baron leave "One I asked our lady friend and she says that being inside Vasilika probably isn't bad for her sister and two Vasilika might be possibly potentiall able to truely turn to live" Henry explains

Ireena Kolyana: "That changes things," says Ireena.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Does it though?"

Suldae Westwind: "Rictavio, we are in his house."

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "It doesn't change that we need to stop the Abbot's plans."

Suldae Westwind: "It IS insulting to tell him what to do."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pauses for a moment "MARcus you invited the Abbot to your wedding yes ? Just him?"

Rictavio: "Bah," says Rictavio, with an irritable flap of his hand.

Marcus Veranius: "Allow me to explain myself."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smacks Rictavio again, lightly this time.

Marcus Veranius: "Wereravens return to the Shadow Plane on the new moon to attend the Raven Queen's court. This will inevitably be the venue of our wedding."

"Our patron, the Raven Queen, is known to be a manipulator of memories and might grace us with a boon."

"The Abbot is corrupted by his experiences in Barovia, but what if those experiences were to be erased...?"

"I am setting a trap."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Did you only invite him?" Henry asks again

Marcus Veranius: "I invited the Abbot, yes."

Rictavio: "Is she in our debt, or are we in hers?" Rictavio says, with a nod at Ezmerelda.

Marcus Veranius: "I mean, it's customary to receive gifts on your wedding day."

"As it turns out, the Raven Queen can give just what we need to spare an angel's life."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Well, one of us has already made a 'purchase' from her. I can't imagine her resisting the idea of taking memories from an angel."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I have an Idea, Marcus, Ezme would you mind another guest at your wedding?" Henry says gauging how far the Baron made it already Ismark Kolyanovich: "How do you know she'll only take the bad memories?"

Marcus Veranius: "It matters not. So long as the corruption is weeded out, he stops being a pawn of Strahd."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (answer my question please)

Marcus Veranius: "But umm... I don't mind an extra guest."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "If she takes all his memories, isn't that the same as killing him?"

Marcus Veranius: "Be careful how many we invite. The Abbot might resist having his mind scrambled, and it'll be up to you and Hiere to keep our Special Guests under control."

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, if I can help with this, I can," Suldae says. "If you need my voice joined to yours in asking, you have it. Consider that a wedding gift of my own, because I haven't prepared another one. Oops."

"Surely the Abbott wasn't born in Barovia," Suldae tells Ismark.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not a philosopher, and I dare not assume the status of Angels and their memories."

"But alive is alive, and spared is spared."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay now to make a lady have the night of her life literally" Henry says taking a deep breath whilst handing the dryads heart to suldae "Keep her company for a bit if you would" afterwards Henry takes off following the Baron up the hill at a run

 Marcus Veranius: "The alternative is death, and I'm quite tired of solving every problem with arrows."

 Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Especially right before a wedding. Leaves a bad taste, you know."

 Marcus Veranius: "Just this once, let's have everyone live."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark gives a cold and mirthless laugh.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives him a light punch on the arm.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: I assume Henry catches up with the Baron before they reach the Abby?

 Baron Krezkov: "Oh! Henry!"

"You've decided to come along?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "What must we do to prepare?" Kasimir asks Marcus.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes I thought you might like the company" Henry says with a smirk

 Baron Krezkov: "Thank you," says the Baron, relaxing slightly. "I must admit, I do feel safer in your shadow."

"This abbey has always unnerved me."

"Something about the architecture just seems... Mad."

The Baron reaches the top of the switchback road and approaches the gates of the Abbey.

He knocks loudly.

Henry feels the aura of nature approaching.

 Vasilka: "Hello?"

Vasilka leans over the top of the wall. Henry can see a green flash of ethereal energies from her eyes.

"Who is it?"

 Baron Krezkov: "Baron Krezkov, at your service, ma'am! With a gift for the Abbot of Krezk, from Marcus the Adventurer."

 Vasilka: Vasilka disappears from view for a moment.

The abbey gate opens slowly inward, and Vasilka comes to the gap. She does not permit the Baron or Henry to enter. She accepts the dress and the letter.

 Vasilka: "I'll be right back," she says, and turns to leave.

The gate swings closed.

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes Henry's charge gently, awed.

 Hiere Unthere: "Why does he always gotta go fast?"

 The Abbot: "Greetings, Henry. Baron Krezkov, how good to see you. Are you quite well, sir?"

The Abbot, who certainly wasn't standing three feet from you a moment ago, bows deeply and formally, smiling placidly at the Baron.

"Thank you for the gift."

He draws the letter from his sleeve, and unrolls it, and reads it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your Grace" Henry replies in greeting

GM: (Is there an actual wording of the letter?)

Marcus Veranius: (I didnt think this far ahead :v)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It is a formal wedding invitation right ? anything else?)

GM: (No worries — what's the gist)

(You can also roll a persuasion check with advantage because Marcus had time to think about it and write it down)

Marcus Veranius: (It's a polite invitation to Marcus's wedding, suggesting the Abbot attend so that he could learn wedding customs first-hand for his own project.)

(The letter is written logically rather than as begging, making attendance seem like the reasonable response.)

GM: (I'm treating it more as a prose/charm check)

(He's planning to attend, I just want to see how well you buttered him up)

Marcus Veranius:

9

PERSUASION (1)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (advantage)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+1 Lucky

(7)+1

= 8

rolling 1d20+1 Advantage

(5)+1

= 6

GM: (Wow)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+1 Inspiration

(15)+1

= 16

GM: (Theeeeeere ya go)

Suldae Westwind: (can we say Suldae helped him write it)

(ah okay good enough already lmao)

Marcus Veranius: (As is tradition, Marcus burns all his dice to correct a botched roll)

The Abbot: "Ah, how pleasing! Marcus is willing to share with me the traditional matrimony of the Were-Ravens! What a marvelous idea. I shall certainly be glad to attend."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your Grace am I mistaken or are you still devoted to Vasilikas education?"
Henry asks innocently

The Abbot: Inside the Baron's house, the Abbot says: "I would be honored to attend! I am in your debt, and will restore one of your companions to life three times."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (stupid teleporting ass)

Marcus Veranius: (Is this a teleportation or a Message spell?)

Suldae Westwind: (I'd like to make a check on whether Suldae manages to make contact with the dryad while she's holding the pinecone reverently)

27

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

The Abbot standing before Henry says: "I am indeed. Can you see how far she has progressed?"

The Abbot standing before Marcus disappears with a ripple of light, an illusion to make his communication seem more comfortable to mortal minds.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I was curious would you agree that the best way to learn is to experience ?"

The Abbot: "To experience? Why, certainly!"

Marcus Veranius blinks

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wouldn't it be best for her as a bride to be to atleast experience a propre wedding before her own?"

Marcus Veranius: "...shit, can you do that Ireena?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Hell no I cannot," says Ireena.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Can he still hear us?"

Marcus Veranius: "I was about to say, if magic would let me taunt my foes from afar then call me a mage initiate."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere nudges whoever's closest to him. "hey so who's the new guy"

Rictavio: "Gah!"

Marcus Veranius: "Imagine sending spam mail to Strahd from the safety of your home!"

Rictavio: "The wizard is back," says Rictavio, irritably.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Oh hi Hiere, you're here!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "That never gets old."

Hiere Unthere: "I have made several comments over the past few minutes"

"Maybe you guys have just started tuning me out"

The Abbot: "Do you think she would be invited to his wedding?"

Marcus Veranius: "I hope not. We have a bit of a situation Hiere."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I would consider it a waste of opportunity to not let her experience it when my friend already invited you" Henry says overly emoting a bit

The Abbot: "I shall try to bring her with me, then."

"Oh, this should be good fun."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes I asked him and his bride already the more the merrier"

Suldae Westwind: (hey did Suldae get in contact with the dryad or does it feel like a regular pinecone to her)

The Abbot: "Well, I shall see you tonight, then."

Marcus Veranius: "As much as I want to rely on Suldae's magic to spare us this evening, it will be the new moon. Our lycanthropic party members will be hard to rely on, if at all."

Suldae Westwind: (or anything in between)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere nods in understanding.

9

DECEPTION (0)

Marcus Veranius: "If things go wrong, it'll likely be You and Henry fixing problems."

Suddenly, Suldae feels a green presence in her mind, a light like the leaf-filtered glow of the faewild. She has seen it in dreams, she is sure. She senses the presence of a soul, patiently watching everything through the cut-glass faces of her crystal prison. She is protected there, but also trapped, a powerful and free entity unused to such limitations.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh that reminds me we already request your favor your Grace the deer Barons son that has left us all to soon"

The Abbot: "The Baron's son?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: *dear

The Abbot: The Abbot freezes. He smiles slowly. "Why, you are far kinder than I would have supposed, for mortals. To give up the chance to live again, so that someone else might have it, only to ease the pain of someone you have only just met... It is very kind."

"I shall do as you ask."

The Abbot begins to walk down the switchback path.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sits down on a bench in a corner and begins to quietly hum with her eyes closed, trying to give the trapped soul she feels reverence and sympathy at the same time.

I will do whatever I can to keep you safe

Baron Krezkov: The Baron watches him walking, stunned by the sight. After a moment he runs to catch up, and follows the Abbot down.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thanky you for your kindness your grace" Henry says falling in step with the angel

Dryad: Thank you.

The Abbot: "It is you who have been kind. These people have sacrificed much, living in the shadow of the Curse of Strahd."

"It will be good to give something back to them."

"So tell me, how goes your questing?"

"Are you any nearer to the success of your goal?"

"My plans have progressed swimmingly. This time I am certain I shall succeed."

"Vasilka is nearly perfect, now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It is the least we can do, Helping those in need and keeping the light of burning"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sends a Message to Henry. How's it going up there?

GM: (Sorry, that's a Sending)

(You can send a 25 word response)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I can't reply to sending no?)

GM: (With Sending you can)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'we are comming back with the Abbot in tow maybe exucse yourself Ireena we don't know how he would react to you' Henry replies

Ireena Kolyana: "Understood."

"Oh wait, he can't hear me."

"Ok, Henry's coming back with the Abbot," Ireena says.

"I should hide, right?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I've got you."

"Dimension Door?"

Marcus Veranius stays inside, paranoid about his mind being read.

Kasimir Velikov: "What about rope trick?"

Marcus Veranius: Strahd only tried the trick every single time they met

"Oh yes, I can cast that."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "What if he can see inside it?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Is that even possible?"

Marcus Veranius spends the last of his Level 2 magic to make a pocket

Marcus Veranius: "No, it's not."

Rope Trick

Transmutation 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: A length of rope that is up to 60 feet long

Components: V, S, M (Powdered corn extract and a twisted loop of parchment)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a length of rope that is up to 60 feet long. One end of the rope then rises into the air until the whole rope hangs perpendicular to the ground. At the upper end of the rope, an invisible entrance opens to an extradimensional space that lasts until the spell ends. The extradimensional space can be reached by climbing to the top of the rope. The space can hold as many as eight Medium or smaller creatures. The rope can be pulled into the space, making the rope disappear from view outside the space. Attacks and spells can't cross through the entrance into or out of the extradimensional space, but those inside can see out of it as if through a 3-foot-by-5-foot window centered on the rope. Anything inside the extradimensional space drops out when the spell ends.

"It blocks vision, counts as a separate space outside reality for divination, and so long as the abbot doesn't come inside the house might not ping on Detect Magic either."

"Depends on how thick the walls are I suppose."

Kasimir Velikov: "If he has true sight, he might see it. But only if he stands in the right place. And Devas are not, at least to my knowledge, known for the ability."

"It should be safe."

Ireena Kolyana: "Alright then."

Ireena climbs up the rope and into the otherworldly space, drawing the rope up behind her.

The Abbot: The Abbot draws near to the house.

"Ah, so quaint. Each time I come to the village, I am amused by it. Such good, humble people, ah!"

"Now, which is the way of it, Master Baron?"

Baron Krezkov: "It's this way..." says the Baron, numbly opening the gate to the graveyard. d

He leads the way between the tombstones, approaching the stone coffin where his wife is still seated, watching over the flame of a candle. There is a basket full of unburned candlesticks nearby.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Milady Baroness" Henry says with a bow as they draw near Anna: "Henry," says Anna, bowing.

The Abbot: "Anna," says The Abbot, spreading his arms wide.

"Your grieving is at an end."

Anna: Anna stiffens, eyes widening fearfully.

She looks at Henry and the Baron.

Baron Krezkov: "It's alright, my love."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods reassuringly

Baron Krezkov: "We must open the coffin."

Anna: "D-Dmitri!"

Baron Krezkov: "Henry, will you help me?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Of cause"

Anna rises from her perch and stands back.

Baron Krezkov: (Make an Athletics Check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

23 + 1

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Baron Krezkov:

STRENGTH Baron Vargas Vallakovich <hr/> Ability: 1 6
--

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sizes the coffin lid firmly

Baron Krezkov: The Baron nearly pulls his back, but Henry is more than strong enough to lift the lid by himself, and saves him from it.

A smell thickens the air.

The Abbot: The Abbot sniffs the air quietly.

He approaches the coffin.

"Rise, Ilya," he commands, extending a hand.

There is no glow or flash of light, but those who are sensitive to the Weave feel a ripple passing through it, and a nearby presence being drawn back into the flesh.

Ilya sits up.

Ilya: "Father?"

Baron Krezkov: "My boy!" Baron Krezkov shouts, bursting into tears, and sprints to him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes out of the house quietly and watches.

Anna stands silently weeping, unable to believe her eyes.

Suldae Westwind: She whispers a prayer to Correllon, wishing to double check the evidence of her eyes.

29

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Seeing her husband embrace her son, Anna leaps into action, and joins them.

The Abbot: "Ah, it is sweet to give such mercy to such humble beings."

"I shall return to the Abbey, and prepare Vasilka for the evening. When and where shall we meet?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus!" Henry calls out

Marcus Veranius opens the window

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You haven't shared the venue you dolt" Henry says teasingly

Marcus Veranius: "In my experience, transport to the venue has been unreliable. We'll meet at the abbey gate come sundown and hitch a ride together."

The Abbot: "Then I shall see you all then. Adieu!"

The Abbot turns, and begins to leave.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ireena you're good, he's leaving."

Ireena Kolyana: "He's leaving?"

Marcus Veranius shuts the window

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shimmies down the rope only after the Abbot has gone.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm going to be honest with you, I have no idea how any of this is working."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pats Marcus on the back.

Marcus Veranius: "But that seems to be the norm for lycanthropes and the moons. No control and hoping things go for the best."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry clears his throat addressing the newly reunited family "Might we take this somewhere less graveyardy?"

Suldae Westwind: (hey i made a roll there)
(asked a question)

GM: (What is she trying to ascertain?)

Hiere Unthere: (whether the res is legit)

Suldae Westwind: (What the Abbott did)

(yeah)

Marcus Veranius: "If I were to guess from past experience, I will be chastised for not immediately knowing how to cross dimensions. Then a shadow portal will appear."

"This will likely happen at nightfall."

"Whether or not I have any semblance or control of my actions is a toss-up as well. Which is why I reiterate; one of you has to see this through if I'm not.""

Suldae suddenly understands the purpose of the candle and the watch. As Barovians, they are naturally wary of any corpse coming back as a vampire or a ghoul. Some of them, perhaps remembering in fragments from previous incarnations, know deep down that the souls of all Barovians are trapped within the mist, recycling through the bodies of the world. Not every soul gets a body, and not every soul remembers their past when they do come back. The candle is to guide the soul back to its home, back to its body, as it wanders the darkness of Barovia's spiritual plane. In hopes that it will remember. Ilya soul, she realizes, was already in the graveyard. He has been resurrected; brought back into his body and restored to a healthy life. He seems to be suffering no side effects.

Hiere Unthere: "Don't you know how to-" Hiere stops himself and looks around for any shadow portals.

No Shadow Portals are apparent.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We'll figure that part out when we get there."

Hiere Unthere: "Phew. Dodged a bullet with that one"

Marcus Veranius: "Not like it's any different than what normally happens."

"Most of our wins are improv."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "So I wonder if that counted as one of ours?" Ismark says.

Suldae Westwind: [Two minutes ago] Suldae breathes out happily. Everything's fine.

Hiere Unthere: "Free will is a construct. Improv is a lie."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Ismark curiously, hearing something in his voice.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not to interrupt but in is bit cold out and well stone boxes are terrible seats bsides " Henry says to the familiy with a sardonic smirk

Baron Krezkov: "Oh, yes, right! Right!

Anna: "Dmitri, we have no wood!"

Baron Krezkov: The Baron sighs.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wheres the axe?"

"I'll see to it if you wnat"

Suldae Westwind: "One of ours?" Suldae asks Ismark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: want

Baron Krezkov: "No no! These trees are already too thinned. Our seasonal cut was not long ago, but most of the wood disappeared. We've had to ration what's left."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How about outside the town?"

Hiere Unthere: "Disappeared as in used or disappeared as in poof?"

Baron Krezkov: "We don't venture outside the walls," says the Baron.

Anna: "Poof," says Anna.

Suldae Westwind: "We do," Suldae says to the baron.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Nevermind," says Ismark, shaking his head.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm no lumberjack but I have done a bit of logging before so it really wouldn't be a bother"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Henry. "What about Yorhish?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns at him, but lets it go for the moment.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm?" Henry turns to Ireena quirking an eyebrow

Kasimir Velikov: "We have firewood, do we not?"

"We have enough to spare for now, at least."

Joan: "Aye, we have some. And some coal."

"Although I wouldn't recommend burning it indoors."

Kasimir Velikov: "Let us approach our problem rationally around a nice breakfast, and give the Baron and his family time to be with their son."

Joan: "I can have something fixed up in a jiffy."

begins to bustle around the kitchen. At a certain point, she goes outside to the horses to root through her saddlebags. She returns with wood and the makings of a decent breakfast.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir seats himself.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is pacing by a window, looking up at the abbey from time to time.

Rictavio: Rictavio leans against a wall, arms crossed, moody.

Marcus Veranius: "...everything alright, Ric?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do you guys think we have time for some rest before the ceremony"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I hope so," says Ezmerelda. "Biggest day of my life, I could use a nap before it all gets started."

Rictavio: "I'm fine," says Rictavio, his voice thoughtful. He seems to be cogitating something.

Ireena Kolyana: "I could use a full night's sleep, to be honest," says Ireena. "We have some time before the wedding, right? And no major preparations to make?"

"We might sleep through the day, or most of it, anyway."

Marcus Veranius: "If there are any, I'll likely find out at the last minute."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Sounds like genius to me," says Ismark.

Kasimir Velikov: "I, too, could use a rest," says Kasimir.

Marcus Veranius: "Sleep through the day, be well rested by sundown. It's going to be a long night."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sounds good" Henry says

Baron Krezkov: "Your sleeping arrangements will be the same as last time. It's all been prepared for you."

Rictavio: Rictavio stands up and leaves the hut quietly.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda looks the way he went, thoughtful.

Hiere Unthere: "should we follow him?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius gets up and follows Ric out

Rictavio walks along the street, hands in his pockets, cane hooked on his elbow. He seems lost in his head.

Ireena Kolyana: "Shall we meet back here in, say, eight hours?" Ireena asks, looking at the others.

Suldae Westwind: "I'd rather take a walk," Suldae admits. She still feels well rested.

Marcus Veranius follows behind, attempting to match Rictavio's stride

Ireena Kolyana: "Or do you think it might be better to make camp somewhere inside the city? All together, I mean."

Suldae Westwind: Mentally exhausted, but physically fine.

"A camp sounds fun to me!"

"You weren't here last time, so how about I show you around first?"

Marcus Veranius: "Ric, talk to me. Is this about the venue? The relationship? The circumstances?"

"I know we aren't exactly storybook here."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll take a nap then" Henry says stretching Rictavio: "I'm fine," says Rictavio.

"I am just tired, I think."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Rictavio: "We'll talk later."

Rictavio leaves.

Marcus Veranius: "...hey Ric?"

Breakfast is soon ready, and Joan takes great care to serve the Krezkov family first.

Rictavio: Rictavio pauses and turns. "Yes?"

Marcus Veranius: "Whatever plans you have after this Vampire business is over, I hope they involve attending the Anniversary."

"Wouldn't be the same if you weren't planning to be around."

Rictavio: "Ahhaha." Rictavio laughs tightly. "Oh, I'm sure I'll be around."

Marcus Veranius smiles

Rictavio: "I'll see you later, Marcus. Goodnight."

Marcus Veranius: "Night Ric."

Marcus Veranius returns to the Baron's residence

GM: (Is there anything anyone wishes to accomplish during the long rest?)

Marcus Veranius: (How about SHAKE DOWN SOME DETAILS ABOUT THIS WEDDING FROM INNER BIRB SO WE DON'T GO IN BLIND!)

Hiere Unthere: (gonna cast find familiar and get me a raven boi)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae wants to take a walk with Ireena and then settle in to do something quiet next to her while she rests.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (practice what he remebers about dancing somewhere no one can see I'll even roll stealth for it)

GM: (Alright, Henry: stealth check)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (without armor on so no disadvantage)

11 + 1

STEALTH (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Oh my)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae can help Henry remember how to dance as long as it's nearby from Ireena

Hiere Unthere:
6

PERCEPTION (5)

Suldae Westwind: so Suldae can keep a paranoid eye on her

GM: (Looks like lots of people notice but no one says anything or lets him know that they can see him)
(They respect the big guy)
(Now roll performance)

Hiere Unthere: (what's with the nat 1s)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5 + 1

PERFORMANCE (2)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(oof)

GM: (Oh my)

(If Suldae helps, he can roll with advantage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he would accept help)

GM: (Marcus, you can roll a charisma check and an insight check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

22 + 1

PERFORMANCE (2)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Hiere, you can roll an Arcana check)

Hiere Unthere:

16

ARCANA (9)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry and Suldae go to broadway apparently)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae HELPED it looks like)

Henry recalls, with Suldae's aid, the steps and moves to a dance he learned many years ago and never mastered. He dances it perfectly now, with a surprising amount of grace for such a huge person.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae immerses herself in dancing lessons)

Hiere manages to summon a Raven Familiar. It looks at him beadily.

Hiere Unthere: "yo"

Suldae Westwind:

26

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena sleeps. Ismark no longer sleeps, but he rests as he can.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's own dancing is up to par.

Suldae's dancing is a reminder that no human being — no matter how graceful — quite competes with faewild grace.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it's mostly the type of dances you would see at a harvest festival also lots of stomping and twirling of ladies involved)

Ezmerelda spends time with Marcus, in communion with their raven aspects.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir spends time in contemplation of his spell book, and meditating.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Thunderous Smite

Evocation 1

Casting Time: 1 Bonus Action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Concentration up to 1 minute

The first time you hit with a melee weapon attack during this spell's duration, your weapon rings with thunder that is audible within 300 feet of you, and the attack deals an extra 2d6 thunder damage to the target.

Additionally, if the target is a creature, it must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed 10 feet away from you and knocked prone.

whoops

(ignore that just changing my preped spells)

Marcus Veranius: "Yes it counts as property! You have to think of it as an investment; it might be a burned down house at the moment but the site will make a good trading post once the caravans come!"

"Right between the castle and the largest town in the country. It WILL increase our profit margins!"

Marcus Veranius is having a disagreement about the profitability of the former Death House

Birb: "SQUAWK." It is a burned nest! One cannot raise chicks in that!

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Woah, who said anything about chicks?"

Birb2: : "CAW." It is required.

"CAW CAW." Our species must continue, there are too few among us as it stands. We must gain a foothold on the planes.

Marcus Veranius: "Metaphorically speaking. Or maybe not? It doesn't matter; you have to consider time scales. A quick but poor decision does not make better than a well planned one!"

Birb: "CAwwwAW." She speaks wisely! Our union will be a profitable one. I am pleased with this pact.

Birb2: "CÀW." As am I.

Marcus Veranius: "Vistani tradition is usually Wagons anyways. Wouldn't that make a better home regardless?"

"Dot investment properties along the road and that hits all requirements."

"Why corner one market when you can have three?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda is already holding Marcus's hand, but she squeezes it at this.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes a lot of glee in twirling. It's a nice distraction from everything that's been going on, even if the actual wedding won't be.

Birb2: "Caw..." This is true, a mobile commerce is necessary if the Queen's goals are to be achieved. Long-term we could not be more fortunate to be bound to the Vistani bloodline.

Birb: "Caw." Indeed. Marcus, she was a good find. She is a suitable member of the family.

Birb2: "Caw." *Indeed, I am most pleased with her.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Right, so, let's stay on task here."

"What are we to expect from this ceremony?"

Birb: "CAW." *At the rising of the New Moon, the Shadowfell will reveal itself to us. We will enter, and at the court of the Queen we will approach the Raven Queen. You will both stand waiting. She will ask you if you choose to be bonded to one another, and if you choose it freely and willingly. She will know if you lie. After you have both agreed to be wed, she will unite you with the exchange of a memory."

Marcus Veranius pauses. He... doesn't have too many of those.

Birb2: "CAW." Guests may be permitted entry to the wedding ceremony only with the permission of the Queen. All of the Wereravens will be there.

Birb: "Caw?" Is there any petition you wish us to make to the Queen on your behalf?

Marcus Veranius: "...I assume you've been following what happens in the day."

Birb2: "Caw." The Abbot, of course, but anyone else?

Marcus Veranius: "...I, umm... hadn't considered anything."

Marcus Veranius looks down for a moment. "Truth be told, wedding's are less scary when you look at them from a tactical standpoint."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Agreed," says Ezmerelda.

"Do we want everyone to be there?"

"Or are we worried something will happen while we're all gone?"

Marcus Veranius: "I trust the Abbot to keep his abbey monsters at bay, and I trust Krezk's walls to hold as they always have."

"If Ric couldn't get into the city, Rahadin certainly wont."

Birb: "Caw." Do not be so sure. Rahadin is a devilish trickster.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Birb2: "Caw." We will petition the Queen on your behalf, and attempt to invite the entire party.

Marcus Veranius: "We have ended the war on Ravenkind with the slaying of Baba Lysaga and her druids. Let us hope that has earned us enough favor."

Birb: "Caw." Indeed, she will be looking for ways to reward you for that.

Birb2: "Caw." Is there anything else?

Birb: "Caw." There is the issue of the dowry.

"Caw." It is customary.

Marcus Veranius: "The dowry?"

"Why am I only being told of this customary stuff mere hours before sundown?"

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Property of the bride," says Ezmerelda.

"I bring my wagon — wait."

"I bring my..."

Rictavio: Rictavio knocks on the door of the chamber where Marcus and Ezmerelda are in communion.

Marcus Veranius looks up, chirping nonchalantly as he slides a bow over to Ezmerelda

Marcus Veranius: "Hmm, I wonder... OH LOOK! That Oathbow looks nice."

"Wish I had one of those."

"..."

Rictavio: Rictavio knocks more insistently.

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, who is it?"

Rictavio: "It's Rictavio. I've come to speak with you, Marcus."

Marcus Veranius: "OH! Umm... one moment."

Marcus Veranius swipes away incense fumes and stumbles over to the door

Marcus Veranius: "My apologies; speaking with the wedding planners."

Rictavio: Rictavio leans in, "I wanted to talk to you about... Oh, Ezmerelda. You're here as well, that's convenient."

"I wonder if you would do me the honor of allowing me to walk you down the aisle. I am prepared to supply the dowry."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Damn, that is convenient."

Marcus Veranius looks down at the Oathbow in Ez's hands, then back to Rictavio

Marcus Veranius: "That's better than my plan."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Thank you, Rictavio."

She gets up and gives the old man a hug. "You're not all bad."

Rictavio: "No, but I do try to maintain that impression."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Don't worry, we won't tell anyone you're not an asshole."

Marcus Veranius: "I don't have the charisma to convince anyone otherwise."

"You'll have to deal with just us knowing the truth."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "Well, I think that's all the preparations taken care of," says Ezmerelda.

GM: (Do we wish to proceed to nightfall?)

Marcus Veranius: "Well then, we'll have the petition sent off. Outside her aid with the abbot, any boon the Raven Queen might have in our hunt against Strahd would be appreciated."

"...not that I know what that may be."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We shall have to hope our raven aspects are more charismatic than we are."

GM: (Spoiler: They're not. Roll Charisma checks of your choice)

Marcus Veranius: (I BURNED MY INSPIRATION ON A LETTER AAAAAAAAAA)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

PERFORMANCE
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Skill: 11

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus will assist Ez's check by being the trophy husband)

(Also her bonus is better)

Ezmerelda d'Avenir:

PERFORMANCE
Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Skill: 24

GM: (That's pretty decent)

(Ready to proceed?)

Marcus Veranius: (YEE)

Suldae Westwind: (my outfit isnt ready yet but ok)

(ill post it soon)

Nightfall comes, and finds the party gathered at the gates of the Abbey. There is only one light in the abbey: burning in the windows of the first story.

The gates of the abbey are closed.

The Ravenkin feel the prickling sensation of the New Moon rising. Something wild arises in them, something beyond control. They feel the Shadowfell near at hand, crashing into this world like a storm. Shadows deepen and darken, until the looming walls of the castle are black portals into some other world of utter gloom.

Rictavio: "That's not terrifying at all, now is it."

Kasimir Velikov: "The Shadowfell," says Kasimir, with interest. "I have never seen it before."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Neither have I," says Ismark, thinking of some other place he has seen.

"It's not too scary.

"

Marcus Veranius: "The void of a sky is rather beautiful, if you can see the distance."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I#m sure it is much nicer then the stories imply"

Marcus Veranius: "That being said, I'm less in awe and more frightened than anything."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "We'll be fine," says Ezmerelda, as the gates begin to creak open.

Marcus Veranius holds Ez's hand, as if to gather a measure more of strength

The Abbot: "Greetings, my friends," says the Abbot, pacing out of the shadows. He seems to glow faintly in the darkness of the new moon, emitting a pale silver radiance that hardly penetrates the inky, swirling shadows.

"Ah," he says. "Vasilka, you have met most of these fine people, I believe."

Vasilka: "I could not speak, then," says Vasilka.

"It is a pleasure to meet you. How is your evening?"

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, but you could cook!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And we were all worse of for it" Henry says with a smile

Marcus Veranius: She couldn't do that either. Marcus is trying to be polite.

Suldae Westwind: (WAIT, QUESTION)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the not speaking not cooking)

Suldae Westwind: (IS IREENA INVITED)
(WHAT ARE WE DOING REGARDING HER)

Marcus Veranius: (Ireena is a wereraven and is in attendance by default)

Ireena Kolyana: (Maybe she's already in Raven form)

Suldae Westwind: (OH)
(Ireena is on Suldae's shoulder in raven form?)

GM: (Works for me)

The Abbot: "Well? Shall we go?"

"I gather there is a limited timeframe, after all; the New Moon will not be in the sky all night."

Marcus Veranius: "You would be correct."

Marcus Veranius proceeds to the dark portal for as long as it is his choice to do so

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well nothing ventured and all that" Henry says following Marcus into the portal

(oh I assume Henry has taken back the Heart by now)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere stays with Marcus. "how do you even organise a wedding on another plane?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'll tell you when I figure it out myself."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae gives Henry back the heart as soon as the Abbot is gone)

Suldae enters after the abbot.

The Abbot: The Abbot smiles broadly at the darkness, and steps into it. It smolders where his light touches it, and burns like cotton, but the liquid motion of the darkness soon extinguishes it, and wraps around him. He can be seen on the other side, pacing into the empty darkness, a glowing figure surrounded in a continuous burning aura. He illuminates the space beyond only dimly.

Marcus Veranius: Well, if anyone needed proof of divinity.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows.

Marcus Veranius 's eyes somewhat adjust. Blessed that he had some manner of vision in the dark. For everyone else, the Abbot would do.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere laughs in darkvision

Marcus Veranius: (We can see approximately 60ft worth of wedding ceremony!)
(Which is to say, better than the wedding I attended IRL where the sun blocked out all vision)

Suldae Westwind: (def better)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes amoment to take in as much of this new place as is possible for his ordinary human senses

Suldae Westwind: (especially with Suldae also having darkvision)

Suldae is nervous. Truth be told, she is not a fan of Marcus using his own wedding as a weapon - weddings aren't for this. She understands why, but it just feels wrong... At least there will be another celebration in the morning.

The party members step through into shadow, and find themselves in a vast and empty space, shrouded in unnatural darkness. In a throne at the north end of the chamber, winged by two vast walls of black feathers, a female shape shrouded in darkness sits comfortably. She wears a huge black veil of lace, through which the paleness of her skin glows like feeble moonlight.

The Abbot: The Abbot's glow is the brightest thing in the chamber.

Marcus Veranius: "I am honored to be wed in your attendance, my queen. It is nice to see you again."

GM: (Can any of y'all see anything)

Hiere Unthere: (nope)

Marcus Veranius: (Not a thing. This is ADVANCED DARKNESS)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also nope)

Marcus Veranius: (Not even gloom stalker can see through Magic Darkness)

Suldae Westwind: (I can see my token)

GM: (Better?)

Suldae Westwind: (Yes!)

Marcus Veranius: (It's not. I went from blind to frightened)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (still no)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae bows in respect, not as deeply as she would to her own patron, yet still deep enough - the Raven Queen is a patron of hers in a sense.

Marcus Veranius: (But I do have visual)

GM: (Ok, so I didn't grab tokens for each of the Wereravens you've met, because they were scattered as temporary tokens throughout the campaign maps and none of them were attached to actual character sheets. So any were raven you can remember is here.)

Able: (am lagging into oblivion)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh shit, even the one that died is here!)

(Good on him, playing truant to death to attend a wedding)

Hiere Unthere: (hiere seems to be missing)

GM: (Are ya there)

(Can ya see)

Hiere Unthere: (yeeep)

Raven Queen: The Raven Queen nods in greetings.

The Abbot: "Greetings, milady."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry bows in greeting awed by the second god he has meet in person

Marcus 's raven "We have come for the ceremony."

GM: (Whoo that didn't come out right)

(This might actually be a good place to leave things on a cliffhanger before it gets too late)

(It's already almost 12:30)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

(Next Week: Wedding and inevitable fallout)

Hiere Unthere: (does this count as henry's turn)

Suldae Westwind: (yes)

GM: (Oh my god)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I fully appreciate more time to duct tape my idea of a plan together)

(Thanks for the Session)

GM: (Well, thank you all for playing! That was a fun session for me!)

Suldae Westwind: (same!)

Hiere Unthere: (agwee)

Marcus Veranius: (Ya never know where the game is gunna go!)

GM: (If you'd like, you can use the downtime over the week to fill in what you did during the long rest, or think about any preparations you all might have made as a party before walking into the Shadowfell together that night. One imagines you would all have had a plan, including an arrangement of your ranks around the Abbot and Vasilka.)

GM (GM): (Good morning all!)

Zanshukun: Heyho

Liliet (Suldae): ^^

Tops K.: o3o

The Raven Queen sits upon her throne, wreathed in mists of shadow. Perched all around this open-air throne room you see thousands of ravens, and standing in this courtyard you see hundreds of people, many of which you recognize. Each wereraven is here with their raven spirit on their shoulder.

The Abbot: "Fascinating," says the Abbot, as he stands amid the darkness like a star made human. "So you must be the Raven Queen?" says the Abbot. "I have often wished to visit your domain."

The Raven Queen does not react to this, or if she does, the reaction is so slight that it is hidden by her crown and veil.

Vasilka: Vasilka curtsies deeply toward the Queen. Her formality is perfectly executed, if a bit wooden.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae stands in the back, one hand touching her raven sister perched on her shoulder for comfort.

(can i has Ireena with me)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is unsure of what to do standing before a Goddess again

Liliet (Suldae): (...can i has control over Ireena's token)

(I promise to not abuse it)

Marcus Veranius: Good ol' Raven Queen. More stern and frightening than all the grandrelatives he couldn't remember.

GM: (Marcus, can you see the map? I'm having difficulty putting your token on it for some reason)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere stands with his raven familiar perched on his shoulder and tries to fit in.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (gasp marcus used kage bushin no jutsu)

Hiere Unthere: (there are currently 7 Marcus')

GM: (I can't see any of them)

(I'm going to reload the map)

(I can't see any Marcuses)

Suldae Westwind: (I also see a lot of Marcuses)

Hiere Unthere: (roll perception)

GM (GM): I'm going to try Chrome instead

Oh, there you are very much in the plural sense

My computer very much hates this map

Alright, where were we...

Suldae Westwind: can i has control over ireena's token

pls

just for positioning when shes not doing anything much on her own?

(fun fact: I can still control Henry's token)

(but i never need to)

GM: (It's done)

Suldae Westwind: (note: I cannot control Ireena's token)

The Raven Queen makes no effort to welcome the newcomers to her court. Other wereravens instead come forward to take up this duty. Danika and Urwin are the first to greet the party, but from the crowd several other well-known faces of the Vallaki Keepers begin to appear.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry glances around 'significantly ore gloomy then the Big Guys domain but...damn is it dark here' he thinks hoping the owner of this place can read his mind

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods with a smile at everyone she recognizes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: can't

(jesus I keep missing that today)

GM: (Well, I've changed the settings, so you should have control over her token and character sheet. Roll20 is clearly on the top of its game today)

Danika: "Marcus! Ezmerelda! Suldae! Greetings! Oh, and you've brought... Non-Keepers!"

Urwin: "Come right this way, we brought the refreshments!"

Urwin Martikov leads the way to a corner table heavily laden with fine food and alcohol. Offering champagne to Marcus and Ezmerelda, he says: "So, I hear congratulations are in order?"

Suldae Westwind: (is Danika snubbing Ireena on purpose :P)

Danika: "Let it never be said that a wereraven deliberates over-long about who they shall marry," says Danika, clinking her champagne with Urwin's.

Urwin: "It worked out pretty well for both of us, didn't it? Oh, Ireena! A pleasure to see you again as well! Have some champagne!"

Suldae Westwind: (im going to refresh the page)

Marcus Veranius: "They are! By some sheer coincidence I have found someone far above my worth. May I someday manage to meet standards."

Urwin: "Well then, congratulations, my boy! And congratulations to you as well, Ezmerelda! You will not find many finer men than this chap."

Danika: "Indeed, you will not," says Danika, taking a sip of champagne.

Marcus Veranius: (Oh god I cant move my token. Not a permissions issue; Roll20 is lagging to one frame a second)

GM: (I was wondering if it was a "Roll20 is busted on a major holiday" thing)

Marcus Veranius: (Roll20 has been busted since Thursday)

Hiere Unthere: (fine on my end)

GM: (Let's be real: Roll20 has always been at least a little bit busted.)

Marcus Veranius takes a small glass for himself, choosing to ignore questions about his guest. It was an awkward-enough situation, but one that needed to happen exactly this way.

Marcus Veranius: Surely this would be worth laughing over during the next moon.

Both Urwin and Danika are observing the Abbot curiously.

The Abbot: The Abbot approaches the throne of the Raven Queen slowly.

As the Abbot's light approaches the Raven Queen's veil of black mists, the shadows begin to burn and smolder.

The Raven Queen gives an inhuman hiss, a subtle shriek of displeasure like the grinding of glass along a chalkboard.

The Abbot: "My apologies, my apologies!"

The Abbot steps back slightly. The Raven Queen's eyes flash like two yellow stars as she observes him from behind the veil, clutching the arm rests of her throne.

The Raven Queen says "You are a guest of the Wedding?"

Liliet (Suldae): (yay i can move ireena!)

Suldae watches the exchange, nervous. Her very nature is dual, at this point, between Correllon's light and the Raven Queen's domain, belonging equally to both.

Marcus Veranius: ...no wedding was complete without the awkward occurrence. Still, the discomfort was more than Marcus had intended Liliet (Suldae): Seeing the two come in conflict has a note of existential terror to it.

Marcus Veranius: Some blessing then that his own first impressions were separate from this wedding.

Liliet (Suldae): (wait i have a question)

(if all wereravens come separate from their raven-sonas, is Ireena currently in human form?)

GM: (Yes)

Liliet (Suldae): (ty)

GM: (The Abbot has not taken notice of her, and he has great difficulty seeing in this plane anyway)

Marcus Veranius: "He is my special guest, the one I mentioned prior. Do forgive his presence."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns while procuring a glass from the table watching the Abbot Marcus Veranius attempts to approach, smoothing out the situation.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae clutches Ireena's hand. Her partner is one of the reasons she's staying in the back where she can see everything but nto draw too much notice.

The Raven Queen's yellow eyes turn to Marcus. "The first of three forgivenesses, I give to thee."

The Abbot: The Abbot turns, chuckling nervously. "I am terribly sorry, it was not my intention to inconvenience anyone."

Suldae Westwind: She is too preoccupied with keeping an eye on the situation to take much of a notice of any tables or general festiveness of the athmosphere, such as it is.

Marcus Veranius smiles nervously, bowing in response. This was now a serious fuck-up Suldae Westwind: On another occasion she would have taken great relish in visiting the Queen's court, but as is...

The Raven Queen says, "We shall see if this results in inconvenience." She sits back more comfortably, seeming to look between Marcus and the Abbot as though sizing up the situation from a more profit-based angle.

GM: (Marcus, roll Insight)

Marcus Veranius:

23

INSIGHT (6)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (i will too, cause im watching)

24

INSIGHT (7)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus senses that the Raven Queen's appraisal of him has shifted slightly, as though she has realized there is something in this that is an actual offering to her. Suldae, unfortunately, is too far back to get a good sense of what is going on beneath that black veil. Marcus catches an appreciative glance from the yellow eyes, and the faintest impression of a nod.

The Abbot: "Well," says the Abbot, "We are on something of a tight schedule, are we not? Perhaps we should get this wedding underway?"

The Raven Queen lifts a hand gently, in a gesture that seems to say "Carry On."

The Abbot: "Marcus, Ezmerelda? Are you quite ready to receive the blessings of heaven?"

Urwin Martikov lays a hand on the Abbot's arm gently. "That is not how we do it here."

Urwin: "Here, the Queen oversees all weddings. There is no preacher and no set of lines to say. An oath is made between the two beloved. If either breaks that oath, their soul is forfeited to the Queen.

As you can see, no blessings of heaven are needed to keep a wereraven marriage strong."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is focused more on arcane interplay of forces than the social aspects of the situation, yet her hand still tightens around Ireena's as she hears this.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere and his raven spirit nod in approval

Urwin takes Danika's hand and smiles at her. For the first time, it might be possible to notice the bags under his eyes and the general air of sadness and depression that is upon him, for as he looks upon his wife it seems, for the moment, to be lifted slightly.

Suldae Westwind: (speaking of which) 18

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

32

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "There is some custom, though I've been told. The ceremony is both of love, oath, and reflection."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is currently very much looking at how this whole thing is working (tm), sorry for the inconvenience)

Urwin: "Oh, indeed," says Urwin. "But we will not be needing the Abbot in his perfunctory religious role today."

Suldae has a terrible sinking feeling in the pit of her stomach, as though something about the situation is deeply, unsettlingly different from what she anticipated. The collision of forces here is not the collision she was, on some level, looking forward to.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is focused, attempting to understand what is going on. What is this place? What is the Abbott's interaction with it? With the hostess?

*understand as much as she can of what is going on

(she does know the basics lol)

Marcus Veranius: "Indeed. Perhaps for now, you may find it better to observe? But as you do so, think back to what events led you here. How things have gone wrong. How they might have gone better."

There is some comfort in the fact that the Abbot, a Celestial being, can be corrupted. This may mean that the Queen, who is clearly an anti-celestial of some kind (which can mean several things, none of which are good) may be, in a sense, equally corrupted in the opposite direction. Can a thing truly break from its nature? Can that which is unholy and cruel act in a way that increases the goodness of existence? Suldae finds herself wondering these things. Her Raven spirit, perched upon her shoulder, watches her with a keen and emotionless eye.

Marcus Veranius: "Troubling thoughts always seem to fade in the face of a loving wedding."

The Abbot: "You know, I shall quite like not being asked to perform minor miracles today."

The Abbot grins broadly. "I shall happily observe the marriage rituals of your people. Vasilka, be sure to take good notes."

Vasilka: Vasilka nods serenely, and steps a little farther away. She stands beside Henry, drawn there, perhaps, by some instinct even she is unaware of.

Marcus Veranius 's tribute, spoken more clearly. For a queen who revels in memories of dread, he had brought an angel corrupted by past horror. A banquet in disguise.

Suldae Westwind: In truth, Suldae does not doubt that the answer to that question is "yes". Keepers of the Feather are what they are; a patron of theirs can be dark, can be cruel, but inevitably contributes to the goodness of existence. She'd asked Correllon for guidance back when the question of joining them came up; that the answer was not "no" is enough for her to trust.

The Raven Queen's head turns gently, following the Abbot as he walks to one side of the chamber.

The middle of the chamber seems, almost instinctively, to clear. The crowd parts, and soon Ezmerelda and Marcus find themselves standing along before the queen.

GM: (alone*)

Suldae Westwind: The goodness of this, of what is happening here, is in the consequences it will have, not in the nature of forces in play.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry glances at her hiding that she occupies more of his attention than the wedding at the moment he takes a sip from his glass closing his eyes as if to savor the beverage he reaches out with his mind 'CAN you hear me Milady?' he asks the heart in Vasilka's chest

Vasilka: "I'm sorry, did you say something?" asks Vasilka, turning towards him.

Suldae Westwind: There is irony in hoping a goddess of darkness will purify the creature of light, but in truth Suldae finds little of it. Everything has its place; darkness belongs here, and must leave the vessel it should have never touch.

*touched

The stitches in her face are so delicate and so artfully covered by her makeup that she is, at least in the darkness, surprisingly beautiful.

Vasilka: Vasilka smiles pleasantly. A bit of thread is coming loose from the stitching just to the left of her lips, which is somewhat distracting.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's eyes are darting between the main couple, the abbot and Henry and Vasilika

The Raven Queen raises her hand and the court grows silent. All eyes are upon Marcus and Ezmerelda now. "Speak your vows, and bind your souls in my presence."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda swallows nervously. She takes Marcus's hands and looks at him as though trying to read his mind.

She has gone quite pale.

Rictavio: Rictavio watches, jaw clenched, a muscle twitching in his cheek. He has also gone quite pale, and he seems to stare into the past.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm?" Henry looks into her eyes deeply searching for a even the faintest glimmer of life

Rictavio: He goes to stand by the Abbot.

Vasilka: Inside Vasilka's dark eyes there is a glimmer of what seems almost to be reflected light: a faint green spark that comes from no source in this chamber.

Marcus Veranius turns, equally nervous. There was only so much one could prepare for. Boons, politics of court, tactics, all things planning made easier. But not emotions.

Vasilka: "Oh, nothing," says Vasilka. "I thought you said something."

Marcus Veranius: Still, this was the right path.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I wanted to be here," says Ezmerelda quietly.

Suldae Westwind: (are they standing where they are on the map?)

(ty)

Rictavio: Rictavio takes great care to stand where his position will block the Abbot's view of Ireena, which is also partially occluded by the dark staircase.

Suldae Westwind: The loose bit of stitching distracts Suldae, too, as she notices it. Her fingers itch for the flute to try and Mend it, but now's not the time.

Marcus Veranius: "I share the sentiment. For there may be no light here, there, or in all of Barovia. No son to look up to, or heavens in view to offer comfort. No stars to guide a course, no moon to offer reassurance when all else is lost."

"But they aren't needed. For you are here, and that's all I'll ever need."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is glad for the feather in her cap, as where Ireena is taller than her, it provides additional occlusion from the Abbot's stray look.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda smiles.

"Is that supposed to be an oath?" She teases.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'found it' Henry thinks to himself 'now to kindle the spark' "Would you answer a question for me Vasilka" Henry murmurs for only her to hear "What is it you want out of your life?"

Suldae Westwind: (Question. Do I remember correctly that Marcus losing his memories hadn't come up yet?)

(For the party?)

Marcus Veranius: "It's supposed to be my vow. And this is my oath; I shall be the same for you. May we never be lost, for I will always be here to make every road a home."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir looks down slightly, lost in thought for a moment. She looks back up at Marcus. In her eyes there is no longer any fear or nervousness; instead there is a solid certainty. Marcus can see — perhaps for the first time — that she sees him as her perfect equal, and there is no doubt in her heart about binding her fate to his.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "I swear that I will be faithful to you until death parts us," says Ezmerelda simply, then adds: "And when death parts us, I will still hunt you down wherever you are, and whatever remains of me will be faithful to whatever remains of you."

"You gave up your past for me," says Ezmerelda. "You may not even know how much you have given up for me..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's fingers grip Ireena's, finding comfort in their strength. Something's badly off about this; something's missing, missing from Marcus. She should have noticed this earlier; he'd held himself differently since Ezmerelda's induction into wereravenhood, ever so slightly, as though a burden had been lifted from his shoulders that he no longer knew was ever there.

What exactly had happened? Suldae's eyes find the Raven Queen, presiding silently. She does not think to blame Ezmerelda for this, not when a far more eldritch entity is involved.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: "My future is yours."

Marcus Veranius: "And mine yours."

The Raven Queen says "It is done. The oaths are made; I will hold you to the very letter of them."

Suldae Westwind: This is good, probably, that which is happening now. What Marcus wanted. His choice.

It still feels off, but now is not the time. So many things now is not the time for... Suldae feels like a fly stuck in amber.

The Raven Queen says "If any being here shall object, may they speak now before the binding is sealed."

Suldae Westwind: It feels like she's talking straight to her, to Suldae. But no. She takes an imperceptible barely-step back.

The Abbot: The Abbot looks around with mild interest, wondering if anyone will make an objection. He seems very interested in the steps of the ceremony.

Suldae Westwind: This will happen. The rest can be sorted out later.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM I asked Vasilka something in case you missed it)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere quickly makes a mental calculation.

He comes to the conclusion that no

Vasilka: Vasilka ponders Henry's question for a long time. At last, she says: "I want to live."

He notices that her hand is resting on the shaft of his warpick, as though gently holding it down.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gets an odd feeling that a great disaster was just now averted. She has no idea where it's coming from.

The Abbot: "No one will object, then?" says the Abbot, loudly.

The room seems to turn toward him as one annoyed entity.

Suldae Westwind: "Shhhh," Suldae says under her breath. Drawing attention to herself is something she does not want right now, but jeez.

The Abbot: "Oh, I am terribly sorry, I can see I have intruded improperly upon the ritual. I retract my question."

"Please forgive me."

Marcus Veranius is too distracted by love to notice nor care

Suldae Westwind: Frankly, this is going well so far.

The Raven Queen, "The second of three forgivenesses I give to thee, Marcus, for your guest."

The Abbot: "Terribly sorry," says the Abbot.

Suldae Westwind: ...yep. Still well.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere regrets not learning the silence spell.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tugs Rictavio's clothing and whispers "Shhhh. Pass it on"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Only living?" Henry says quietly looking deep into her eyes focusing everything that is him on her and the spark of live in her "Okay then Live" Henry says sharpening his mind and his being into a decree upon reallity casting Command

Marcus Veranius: TOO DISTRACTED BY LOVE TO CARE...

Suldae Westwind: (ooooooooooooooooooooo)

Marcus Veranius: AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Suldae Westwind: (I'm presuming Henry is saying it quietly)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yes he is only talking to her)

Hiere Unthere: (it says he says it quietly)

Suldae Westwind: (right, i read it as 'quietly looking into her eyes')
(commas are our friends lol)

Hiere Unthere: (you can't look loudly)

Marcus Veranius thinks to himself. If he survives this evening, he'll never consider being any less than perfect in front of the queen ever again...

Suldae Westwind: (Hiere, the Abbott is proving that yes you can, so far)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Bit of an out of the box way to use this spell but hey)

Suldae Westwind: (A+, imho)

The Raven Queen says: "Very well. The pact is sealed. I bind to thee these rings."

Suldae Westwind: (gm have you seen my address to rictavio? probably easy to miss)

Tendrils of shadow-mist unfurl from her veil and snare around the fingers of Ezmerelda and Marcus. Agony stabs through the both of them abruptly. A moment later they feel a strange new connection bind them together...

Hiere Unthere: Hiere sees the Weave shift around Henry and has an ohshitihfuck moment, instantly reacting to dampen its spread by concentrating it on Vasilika
(Wis save roll = 10)

Marcus Veranius winces, trying to hold his best smile.

Marcus and Ezmerelda gain a single double-bodied ring of Bondage. While wearing this ring, they have +2 to AC and saving throws while within 60 feet of each other. While within this range of one another they also gain resistance to all forms of damage, but any damage or spell effect that impacts one of them impacts the other equally.

Rictavio: Rictavio, having passed on Suldae's message to the Abbot, wipes a solitary tear from his eye. He toys with the wedding band on his finger absent-mindedly.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's fingers are white-knuckled from squeezing Ireena's as hard as she can. Which isn't very hard.

Vasilka: Vasilka looks at Henry curiously. "I am already living," she says. "I did not think you wanted me to..."

She releases her grip on his warpick. "I have misjudged you, warrior."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae's Str is, in fact, lower than Ireena's, I just checked)

Vasilka: Her voice, when she whispers, is almost inaudible amid the sudden bustle of the chamber.

Since the wedding seems now to be over, the wereravens are immediately breaking into their usual New Moon reunion celebrations. The refreshment table is soon wrapped around by a line of people.

The Abbot: "My, what a beautiful ceremony," says the Abbot.

Marcus Veranius: "...is this the part where we kiss?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes her hand felling her skin her touch

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: Ezmerelda answers by throwing her arms around Marcus's shoulders and plunging into his mouth. It is a very passionate kiss.

"I'm not sure," says Ezmerelda, pulling away briefly. "Maybe?"

Marcus Veranius: THIS IS THAT PART!!!

Henry of Willowsbrook: felling for the warmth and pulse of life

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: She kisses him again.

"I suppose we could kiss now, yeah."

She kisses him again.

"Maybe."

Marcus Veranius: "Now's a good time, yes."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: She kisses him again. "If no one minds."

Rictavio: Rictavio pulls a face of disgust and makes his way to the alcohol.

The Abbot: The Abbot applauds pleasantly, beaming at the whole room.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns away discreetly at Ireena, following suit.

It just seems like a good moment.

The world can wait 20 seconds, okay?

Vasilka: Vasilka's skin is as cold as marble and as stiff as driftwood. She grimaces at Henry's touch and pulls away slightly.

The Raven Queen stands, very slowly, from her throne. The long veil of shadow-mists trails to the ground. She descends like a wraith, gliding silently down the steps toward the married couple.

The Raven Queen looms over Marcus. She must be at least twelve feet tall, she has nearly to bend over double to look him in the eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean true live" he says gently "not this tracing of it He created"

The Raven Queen says, in a whisper audible only to Marcus: "This Celestial... He is an offering to me, I take it?"

Marcus Veranius nods

The Raven Queen says, in a whisper audible to Marcus: "You have done well to bring him to me. I thank you for this gift."

The Abbot: The Abbot's smile falters slightly.

Vasilka: Vasilka looks at Henry: "Can you do better than he has done?"

"He gave me life," says Vasilka. "I cannot be ungrateful if that life is imperfect."

The Raven Queen paces silently across the hall, a tower of shadow with two glinting yellow stars for eyes. Feathers and shadow-mists twist and fall from her.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I assume Vasilka is shorter than Henry?)

GM: (Vasilka is actually about the same height as he is, but very slender)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns around to watch the Raven Queen nervously.

If anything is going to go catastrophically wrong, it'd be right about... now.

The Abbot: The Abbot's light seems to dim, and a tarnish seems to darken his moon-silver robes.

He smiles in a brittle, nervous way. "Yes, yes, a lovely ceremony, truly beautiful."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out the flute, and a melody starts to flow. More for calming her own nerves than anything.

Marcus Veranius: For a man to fall into despair is tragic. For an angel to fall is something far worse. It is a feast for one that revels in despair.

Suldae Westwind: This pattern of the weave, fixing whatever is broken...

The Abbot: "I shall see to it that the ceremony we hold for Strahd is equally beautiful!"

The Court goes silent. All eyes turn towards the Abbot.

Suldae Westwind:

Mending

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: A single break or tear in an object you touch

Components: V, S, M (Two lodestones)

Duration: Instantaneous

This spell repairs a single break or tear in an object you touch, such as a broken chain link, two halves of a broken key, a torn cloak, or a leaking wineskin. As long as the break or tear is no larger than 1 foot in any dimension, you mend it, leaving no trace of the former damage. This spell can physically repair a magic item or construct, but the spell can't restore magic to such an object.

The Abbot: "That is, I mean to say —"

Marcus Veranius: It was a cruel mercy, Marcus's offering. But a mercy nevertheless.

Thus was the third transgression.

The Abbot: "Vasilka! Vasilka, we must be leaving."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches out to her heart again focusing deeply letting every thing around him drop away so that there is only him, Vasilka and the Dryad Queen

Marcus Veranius held onto Ezmerelda's hand for strength

Vasilka: "I am sorry, warrior," says Vasilka, slipping away from Henry. As she begins to leave, she freezes suddenly, sensing Henry's mind.

She turns around and stares at him curiously.

"Have we met before?"

The Abbot: "Vasilka! Now!"

Vasilka: "....Henry?"

She looks to the Abbot. She looks to Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry places a hand under her chin looking into her eyes "Live Vasilka Live and be free to dream and want, to love and even to hate Live"

Vasilka: She senses something that feels like family. The Abbot has been many things to her: mentor, master, teacher, guide; but he has never been a father to her, and she has never before been conscious of her sisters. Now, sensing something in Henry that feels more like home than any Abbey, she takes Henry's hand and pulls it away from her chin.

"You keep asking me to live," she says. "I'm already doing that... Amn't I?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "All are born free under the grace of the Light" Henry says "Are you free?"

The Abbot: "I'm terribly sorry, I can see that I have failed miserably to observe the etiquette of you fine people and I simply must be going now. I am terribly embarrassed!"

"Vasilka, it is time to leave."

Vasilka: "I must go," says Vasilka.

She heads towards the Abbot.

Hiere Unthere: (is RQ not doing anything?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "VASILKA!" Henry calls out hammering at the connection with her heart
"DO you want to live freely?"

Vasilka: Vasilka freezes in place as though suddenly drenched in cold water.

She turns from Henry to the Abbot and back again.

The Abbot: "Vasilka, you have a duty to perform! You must come with me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Please let me save her' Henry screamms in his mind 'Just one live is all I ask'

The Abbot: Gone is all pretense of kindness from the face of the Abbot. Now he stands: cold, tyrannical, a stern and inhuman entity long accustomed to having its will obeyed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: to SYlvanus he light or anyone that would listen

The Abbot: "Stand down, Henry of Willowsbrook."

Marcus Veranius: "Dear Abbot, I think you should stay. For after the ceremony comes the feast. And my dear queen loves despair."

The Raven Queen now stands very near to the Abbot, whose light has faded distinctly. He looks almost human now, almost aged, almost weary.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I do not take orders from you" Henry barks out before turning to Vasilka again" And neither does she anymore" he extends a hand

Marcus Veranius: "I invited you as honored guest, and I shall make up for the mistake in an eternity of loyalty to my sovereign."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae's music floats over the hall, louder now.

Marcus Veranius: Well, dinner was always best with a show.

From the form of the Raven Queen spread two wings of heavy shadow, tipped with two long-fingered hands of crystallized darkness. Bladelike fingers dance in anticipation as she looms above the Abbot.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Vasilka just one word, all I need is one word from you" Henry says pleading "Do you want to live, truly freely live?"

Vasilka: Unable to tear her eyes away from Henry, she says: "Yes."
She takes his hand.

BOOM.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has never needed to know precisely how something should be fixed for her music to work. Magic and faith blended into one, that's the song she's playing now.

The Abbot is gone; in his place is a being composed entirely of light and flame, bearing a mace in each hand. Huge wings whose every feather is a vast, solidified sunbeam spread into the hall, pushing back the darkness.

The Raven Queen looms over him unflinching, her shadows not even wavering in the fire of that light.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls Vasilka behind him

Vasilka: Vasilka stares at this, mouth agape. Hiding behind Henry she clings to him fearfully.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pushes Ireena back behind the staircase as she walks out, standing closer to the scene now, playing.

The Wereravens stand far back, away from the heavenly being.

The Abbot: "STAND BACK, DEMONESS!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Who do you think you are Angel" Henry says voice sharp like a blade "Have you truly forgotten what you are?"

The Raven Queen's veil lifts on the holy wind of the Abbot's heavenly presence. A scent like lilies and spring wafts through the court of the Raven Queen.

As the veil lifts, the beautiful face of the Raven Queen can at last be seen. She smiles. Her teeth are like two rows of silver daggers and her grin spreads far beyond the limits of any mortal smile.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere yells and runs up beside Henry, chucking a bag of caltrops at the Abbot's feet.

Marcus Veranius: "Even Barovia's darkness is cast apart by a mist-faded son. But there is no such thing here."

*sun

"Only my queen, and her will."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is standing as close as she dare, just... playing.

The Raven Queen says: "I accept this offering."

Like a viper, she strikes. Her whole body lunges forward unnaturally, her vast black wings encircle the angel, all light fades at once from the chamber.

Gradually, as eyes adjust once more to the gloom, you see the Raven Queen seated upon her throne as though nothing has transpired.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere quickly gathers up his caltrops.

On the ground where the Abbot stood, there is a large silver ring, about the size of a dinner plate.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's music stops, and she bends down to examine it.

There is a serenity in fear.

The ring is inscribed with Celestial runes, which now lie dormant and dark.

Vasilka: "Where is the Abbot?" Vasilka cries, afraid.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry breathes out

Hiere Unthere: "What abbot?"

5

DECEPTION (0)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs her fingers over it, attempting to understand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can anyone of us read celestial?)

Suldae Westwind:

14

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

33

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(Not by stats but that doesnt mean we cannot bloody well try :D)

Suldae is certain that this is the halo of the fallen angel. She is also certain that there is yet some latent power in it. Unfortunately, she knows of no way to access said power. She is able to determine that the halo is safe to touch and to take, non-sentient, and deeply magical.

A strange sensation seems to sweep through the room. The wereravens, one by one, return to whatever they were doing as though nothing has transpired. In a few moments, it seems only your party is aware that the Abbot ever existed. Even Vasilka's face relaxes.

Vasilka: "That was a beautiful ceremony," she says, to Marcus and Ezmerelda. "I am honored that you would consider me a worthy guest at your union."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae picks it up and hesitates, thinking of offering it to Vasilka... but she seems... distracted?

Well this just got creepier.

She goes back to Ireena and shows her the halo.

Marcus Veranius: "But of course, my dear Vasilka. I am honored you could find time to grace us."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at the halo curiously, flipping it over a few times in her hands.

Marcus Veranius turns back to the throne with a smile

Beneath her veil, the Raven Queen is quietly picking at her teeth.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to Vasilka leaning forward to touch his forehead to hers

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is very, very creeped out. This could have still gone worse, but... well, she finds herself thinking it could not actually have gone better and that's as good as they could have expected.

Which is. Not very good.

But as far as making ill-advised gambles on eldritch deities' help goes?

They're not all dead.

Marcus Veranius: Business taken care of, Marcus returns his attention to more important matters. here was still an evening of shared memories in the grace of a most humble patron.

The party begins to get a little rowdier as time goes on and the alcohol begins to be consumed more seriously. The food is excellent and in great abundance. Danika has even brought a towering black cake for the wedded couple, upon which two papier-mâché ravens are perched.

Suldae Westwind: It's pretty difficult for Suldae to relax after witnessing a celestial being "offered" to the Raven Queen. She does her best though, both for Ireena's sake and for Marcus's and Ezme's.

They're the ones who volunteered their wedding for... this. They deserve to get the actual wedding, too.

During the party, you have enough time to chat, consider your next move, and take the benefits of a long rest.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes Vasilka aside "I want you to know that whatever happens I'll be right here"

Vasilka: Vasilka laughs easily. "Of course you will, I know that."

"You've been there since my earliest memories," she says.

"I am pleased you came back to Krezk to visit me, however. It was becoming very lonely in the Abbey."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry fells her cheek for warmth

Vasilka: She is as cold as death itself.

Marcus Veranius offers a memory to the bride as tradition stated. Not too many memories to choose from these days, and not too many pleasant of those that remained. Still, Marcus had one good piece worth offering.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can't promise this will be pleasant" He says quietly

Marcus Veranius: A calm afternoon, sitting atop a long-lost tower. Cutting leather strips, sewing them together, hammering a sole to give it proper form. Shoemaking in a calm recess between seemingly endless wars against a local Count.

It was but a simple memory, yet it meant more than any proud achievement earned through war. No matter how many opponents Marcus tore down, a simple afternoon of mundane craft always held more value.

"That should do it for this pair. I hope it provides enough arch support; that Ezmerelda's leg seems so stiff..." A thought silly in reflection, but genuine at the time.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark and Kasimir sit on the stairs with a plate of sweets between them, sipping their wine and enjoying each others' company in silence. That is, until Ismark says: "So."

Kasimir Velikov: "So."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Marcus is married."

Kasimir Velikov: "Indeed he is."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Have you ever been married?"

Kasimir Velikov: "I have never even considered it," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Are you thinking you might consider it at some point, possibly?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir shrugs and drinks his wine.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is watching them like a hawk, gathering up material to tease her girlfriend's brother with later, maybe Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well. I hope they're happy in it."

Suldae Westwind: Just in case, for storage
Also, oh boy, what a topic.

Kasimir Velikov: "I think there is no need to fear that they are not," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "What?"

Kasimir Velikov: "They are happy."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "That's what I said."

Kasimir Velikov: "No, you said you hoped that they were happy. I say that they are."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark shrugs this time and drinks more wine.

Kasimir Velikov: "Can you still get drunk?" Kasimir asks curiously. There is a touch of pink in his cheekbones. He has been drinking more, perhaps, than he meant to.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "No," says Ismark, with a grimace, as he tosses back more wine.

"But I can imagine I'm getting drunk and it's almost the same."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry again reaches for the Heart and the connection to Nature that gives him power 'It may be out of the Natural cycle but it is still live' he states in his mind and begins to bridge the source of his power to Vasilkas heart 'Oh Light guide my hand so that I may be just and kind' he prays, channeling power to turn animation into true live

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nuzzles Ireena, as the conversation between Ismark and Kasimir starts to drift away from the potentially tease-worthy parts

"I want to show you the world outside," she says quietly.

"I want to look at stars and the sun and the moon with you until they become as mundane for you as they are for me."

"I want to guide you and to be at your side as you learn how vast the world is."

And then, she thinks but does not say, you might leave me when you find something more beautiful and more worth pursuing. But until then, I'll be there to show it to you.

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: The memory which Ezmerelda gives to Marcus is that of receiving a beautiful pair of custom-made boots from a seriously cute boot-maker. He is far more human, even in his disfigured state, than Rictavio has ever been. Though she could never consider herself seriously dating an adventurer — especially not one so driven by revenge and death — she finds something remarkably human and normal about Marcus. She knows with certainty that she could never be with a normal man, living a normal life; but at the same time she has no desire to deal with the unfaithfulness and general stupidity of most playful adventuring men. Marcus, however, seems different from both types of men: he is a mysterious third type that is somehow deeper and more real than the men of the other two categories. He has seen the real world, and is no country bumpkin. At the same time, he has retained a humility, a steadfastness, and a practicality that she finds remarkably refreshing. She feels grounded in his presence, entirely secure in his company. As she accepts the boots, and feels for the first time how artfully and how thoughtfully they have been made for her, something in her estimation of Marcus crystallizes. She knows that he has not given her this gift to sway her in any way, and that he does not consider it a debt owed. His respect, thoughtfulness, and easy generosity make her heartbeat falter slightly.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena beams at Suldae. "Someday," she says.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere is killing it on the dance floor

3

PERFORMANCE (0)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir tosses back his wine.

Hiere Unthere: (WAIT CAN I USE ME PORTENT ON THAT)

Kasimir Velikov: He gets, a little woozily, to his feet.

Seeing Hiere's dancing has inspired him to try.

GM: (Go ahead)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir reaches a hand down for Ismark, saying nothing and not looking at him.

Hiere Unthere: (performance = 19)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark looks at the offered hand, and looks at Kasimir, and looks at Hiere, and looks at the hand again.

Ismark swallows.

Kasimir Velikov: "You will have to pretend you are drunk, and I shall pretend that I know how to dance. We must act quickly, while the wizard distracts them."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls Ireena to the dance floor as well.

Not just because she wants to be there to watch those two.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So eh GM what about my attempt at Blue Fairying?)

Henry senses that an element he requires is missing from this ritual he is attempting. He realizes that an angel could not accomplish what he is attempting. He also realizes that the nature spirits have little to no sway here, in the Shadowfell, and that Sylvanus himself is entirely absent from this plane.

Ireena Kolyana: "Gods, look at Rictavio dancing," says Ireena, whispering to Suldae on the dancefloor.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Anything I can to to find get a hint as to what is Missing?)

Hiere Unthere: 10 bottles of wine float off the table and crowd round Hiere, following his lead

Animate Objects

Transmutation 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: Up to ten nonmagical objects within range that are not being worn or carried

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Objects come to life at your command. Choose up to ten nonmagical objects within range that are not being worn or carried. Medium targets count as two objects, Large targets count as four objects, Huge targets count as eight objects. You can't animate any object larger than Huge. Each target animates and becomes a creature under your control until the spell ends or until reduced to 0 hit points. As a bonus action, you can mentally command any creature you made with this spell if the creature is within 500 feet of you (if you control multiple creatures, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one). You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a general command, such as to guard a particular chamber or corridor. If you issue no commands, the creature only defends itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the creature continues to follow it until its task is complete. Animated Object Statistics Size HP AC Attack Str Dex Tiny 20 18 +8 to hit, 1d4 + 4 damage 4 18 Small 25 16 +6 to hit, 1d8 + 2 damage 6 14 Medium 40 13 +5 to hit, 2d6 + 1 damage 10 12 Large 50 10 +6 to hit, 2d10 + 2 damage 14 10 Huge 80 10 +8 to hit, 2d12 + 4 damage 18 6 An animated object is a construct with AC, hit points, attacks, Strength, and Dexterity determined by its size. Its Constitution is 10 and its Intelligence and Wisdom are 3, and its Charisma is 1. Its speed is 30 feet; if the object lacks legs or other appendages it can use for locomotion, it instead has a flying speed of 30 feet and can hover. If the object is securely attached to a surface or a larger object, such as a chain bolted to a wall, its speed is 0. It has blindsight with a radius of 30 feet and is blind beyond that distance. When the animated object drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original object form, and any remaining damage carries over to its original object form. If you command an object to attack, it can make a single melee attack against a creature within 5 feet of it. It makes a slam attack with an attack bonus and bludgeoning damage determined by its size. The GM might rule that a specific object inflicts slashing or piercing damage based on its form.

At Higher Levels. If you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, you can animate two additional Objects for each slot level above 5th.

Rictavio: Rictavio is, indeed, dancing — and with a shocking amount of skill. He dances without a partner, receiving a partner occasionally whenever someone who thinks they can keep up with him makes an attempt to do so.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's lips form an 'o' as she watches.

She feels the competitive spirit stir up within her.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Suldae, raising an eyebrow.

Suldae Westwind: "How good are you at dancing?" Suldae whispers.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think we can take him."

Suldae Westwind: "That's exactly what I was thinking~"

*!

Ireena Kolyana:

5

PERFORMANCE (3)

Marcus Veranius: ...

Suldae Westwind:

21

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh shit, sorry, that's your foot."

Marcus Veranius: cute?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae covers for Ireena's flub and spins her around in a different direction.

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe I need to back off the champagne," says Ireena thoughtfully as she spins around in Suldae's arms.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes a moment in a move to kiss her on the cheek, then starts a complex maneuver again.

28

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Re: Henry needing a hint — what he is attempting will not work in the Shadowfell, but there is a chance he might be able to figure it out in the material plane.)

Suldae Westwind: (go go go with inspiration)

Ireena Kolyana:

5

PERFORMANCE (3)

6

Hiere Unthere: (at least ireenas consistent)

Suldae Westwind: "...Already better," Suldae says convincingly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Okay)

Irenea Kolyana: Luckily, Suldae's dancing so outclasses most of the other dancers present that no one notices Irenea's clumsy footwork.

"Sorry, I must have put on both left feet today..."

Rictavio:

PERFORMANCE

Rictavio

Skill: 12 | 25

Rictavio stumbles slightly in the middle of his dance, but recovers with relative grace.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (consistently low, Irenea might have the lowest rolls out of all the characters in this campaign)

Kasimir Velikov:

14

PERFORMANCE (0)

Despite not knowing how to dance, Kasimir puts on a surprisingly good show.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

11

PERFORMANCE (5)

Ismark, despite not being drunk, manages tolerably well. Apparently extra left feet run in the family.

Suldae Westwind: "I think we're crushing him anyway," Suldae murmurs to Irenea's ear as they flutter around the hall

Irenea Kolyana: "Lost his adopted daughter, losing the dance battle... Now we just have to make him lose his attitude and he might actually come out of this all a good person."

Ezmerelda d'Avenir: On the dance floor, the bride makes a graceful twirl on Marcus's finger and locks arms with him. In careful step, they dance what seems to be a serious traditional Vistani dance that Marcus has no idea how to keep up with. Luckily, with Ezmerelda leading there doesn't seem to be much to do other than catch her occasionally and not step on her toes.

PERFORMANCE

Ezmerelda d'Avenir

Skill: 24

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think that's physically possible," Suldae argues. "Oh wow, look at that."

"Like father, like daughter, only less annoying?"

Irenea Kolyana: "I'm convinced there is no blood relation," says Irenea.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere considers throwing his caltrops around so he can be the best dancer

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry ponders on what how he could trump the Mad Angels efforts once he gets back while watching the others dance he feelsdrained in all ways but the physical

Vasilka: "Will you dance with me, Henry?"

Suldae Westwind: "Hardly the point"

Vasilka: "I have been very well trained," says Vasilka. She thinks for a moment, troubled by something.
"...Although I cannot recall by whom..."

Hiere Unthere: "IT WERE ME"

2

DECEPTION (0)

fuck

Suldae Westwind: (I LOVE THIS)

"Although I would not guess as to who of the two of them taught the other..."

Vasilka: Vasilka looks quizzically at the wizard, who has shouted this from across the room.
"I do not think it was him... I would surely have remembered if I could perform that maneuver."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It would be my pleasure" Henry says extending his hand

Hiere is now a dancing one-man solar system of empty wine bottles.

Vasilka: Vasilka smiles, stretching her stitches slightly. She takes his hand and leads him to the dancefloor, where she begins to execute a precise and meticulously timed performance.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

3 + 1

PERFORMANCE (2)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Vasilka: One might imagine that someone had twisted a key to wind a spring to produce such neat and mechanical movements.

"Ouch that's my foot," says Vasilka.

She laughs, rubbing her foot ruefully.

"Perhaps if you were not wearing such heavy armor..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "My apologies it seemed like a good Idea at the time"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up to them ot save the day.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry says with a lobsided grin

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, I think they need help," she whispers.

"Would you mind swapping partners for a bit?"

She directs Ireena towards Henry, herself approaching the poor no-longer-bride.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Suldae mischievously and smiles. "Hi Henry. How've you been?"

"Don't worry, I'm just as likely to step on your feet as you are on mine."

"How's it going with the death doll?"

Suldae Westwind: "Let's try that again," Suldae smiles at Vasilka.

Vasilka: "You are a much better dancer than Henry is," says Vasilka.

"However, I do not enjoy this as much as I enjoyed the dance of a moment ago... How strange."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm both a bard and an elf. It'd be an odd day when I wasn't."

"I'll give you back to him later, I promise"

Suldae twirls Vasilka in easy improvisation that does not fit with the rigidity of her own dancing.

Vasilka: "Am I a doll, to be so easily passed from hand to hand?" asks Vasilka. Her voice has no tone of accusation or displeasure; it seems to be an entirely honest question to which she desires an answer.

Suldae Westwind: "In a dance, everyone is."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Surprisingly well all things considered but I'll have to get out of here to completely fulfill my promise to her" Henry says with very noticeable exhaustion in his voice

Suldae Westwind: "In life, no."

Vasilka: Vasilka keeps up with the improvisations well, although she moves at her own pace and completes each motion with perfect follow-through. "I see."

Ireena Kolyana: "You sound tired," says Ireena.

"What did you promise her?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is trying to change up the pace and watching her reactions.

"Mind, he's not a doll either," Suldae says to her seriously. "He's a friend of mine, and if you're to be his charge - I want to see more of what you are."

Vasilka: Vasilka's pace, it seems, can neither be hurried nor slowed. She continues with precision and grace, never becoming flustered.

Suldae Westwind: "So dance with me."

Vasilka: "His charge?" says Vasilka, curiously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How could saving a life possibly tire me out Ireena?" Henry says with soft sarcasm

Vasilka: "Am I to be his charge?"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's never tired you before," says Ireena with a small smile.

"Or if it has, you've never shown it."

Suldae Westwind: Well, this is a more difficult conversation than Suldae expected. Which she should have expected, really. "For the time being, he will be responsible for you."

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm glad she has someone, since the Abbot is gone," says Ireena.

"Hey, can you do me a favor, Henry?"

Suldae Westwind: "What happens next is up to you and him, but it is up to the rest of us too."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why do think I sleep so soundly in this place?" Henry jokes Ireena Kolyana: "Can you tell me how they're dancing over there? Should I be jealous?" Ireena laughs.

Vasilka: "Responsible," says Vasilka, thoughtfully. She nods to herself. "Responsible."

"An interesting word. I do not like it very much."

Suldae Westwind: "What would you prefer, then?"

"I am quite flexible, as it happens."

The latter is said in a joking tone.

Vasilka: Vasilka looks at Suldae quizzically. She does not seem to get the joke.

Suldae Westwind: "..That was a joke."

"What do you want to be?"

"Where do you want to go?"

"How would you like to dance?"

Vasilka: "Why must I decide such things now?"

Suldae Westwind: "There's no rush," Suldae assures her.

Vasilka: "I should like to dance with Henry again, please. At least when he stepped upon my feet he did not trouble my mind."

Suldae Westwind: "Alas, there is trouble all around us," Suldae says seriously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh Heavens no Vasilka isn't quite there yet and all Hells would freeze over before Suldae gets eyes for someone besides you" Henry says "Trust me I know what you worry about but there is none of that "

Suldae Westwind: "You'll need to mind it, too. But not during the wedding, perhaps."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena laughs. "I'm not really worried, I suppose."

Suldae Westwind: She swaps partners back.

"Sorry about that," she murmurs as she leads Ireena away from the other two.

Vasilka: The moment they are out of earshot on the dancefloor, "I do not like your friend very much," says Vasilka calmly, in Henry's arms.

Suldae Westwind: "I want to... keep more of an eye on things, I suppose."

Ireena Kolyana: "No worries," says Ireena. "Did you learn anything interesting?"

"I'm curious about the magic that animates her..."

"She doesn't seem like any ordinary golem."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why don't you like her?" Henry asks

Vasilka: "She kept asking me a lot of questions that I found troubling."

"And she told me that I was to be your responsibility."

"I do not like that word."

Ireena Kolyana: "Does she seem... I guess I'm not sure what the word would be. Scripted, I suppose? Does she seem... Pre-written?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head.

"She does not. She moves at her own pace, that is all."

Ismark Kolyanovich: At that moment, Kasimir and Ismark dance past. Sticking within the orbit of Suldae and Ireena, Ismark says: "Did you find out anything about her?"

Suldae Westwind: "She wants to write her own story, and she wants freedom to write it as it comes."
"I wish this were a safer world to do that in."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir dips Ismark back in a Tango pose and, practically upside down, Ismark hisses: "Psst. Psst! Are we going to have to fight her?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Troubling questions are a part of life, unfortunately" Henry says "Do you just dislike the word or the notion that you are in my care for now?"

Suldae Westwind: "No," Suldae says.

Vasilka: "Care," says Vasilka, eyes sparkling suddenly. She looks at Henry thoughtfully and smiles slightly. "I like that word much better. It does not feel so heavy on your shoulders."

Suldae Westwind: "Not in a battle sense, anyway."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ok good," says Ismark. "Pull me up now, Kaz."

Kasimir Velikov: "I require payment."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You're not seriously going to—"

Suldae Westwind: "I think we have jsut adopted a strong-willed teenager," she shares after a second more fo thinking.

Kasimir Velikov: "I have you, as I believe they say, 'bent over a barrel.' You had better pay me if you wish to change this position."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "That is not what that phrase means."

Kasimir Velikov: "The longer you delay, the greater your debt becomes."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Don't I know it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It never would have been heavy on my shoulders what ever it may be called"
HENry says smiling slightly

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark gives Kasimir a peck on the lips.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir pulls Ismark upright once more. "There. You see? It did not cost so very much."

The two of them dance away.

Vasilka: "I am afraid," says Vasilka.

Ireena Kolyana: "I keep wanting to tease Ismark about Kasimir but it's honestly just so sweet seeing them together," says Ireena, to Suldae.

"I'm afraid if I tease him, he'll get all defensive, and if I show my approval, he'll immediately change his mind."

"Ah, the curse of being the eldest," says Ireena with an artful sigh.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Afarid of what?" Henry asks

Vasilka: Vasilka is trembling slightly.

"Of you," she says.

"And of your friends."

"And of the future..."

"And of..."

Suldae Westwind: "I just want to pinch both of their cheeks," Suldae admits.

Vasilka: She shudders slightly. "It is like a nightmare I have half forgotten," she says.

"I do not know why I am afraid."

Suldae Westwind: "They're so sweet."

Ireena Kolyana: "I still think we hold the title for best couple in the party," says Ireena.

"Although Marcus and Ezme have now given us a little run for our money..."

"Do you think we ought to get married?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes quiet for a moment.

Ireena Kolyana: "Feels a little like rushing into things, to me. They planned this whole thing in what, a week?"

"Don't get me wrong, it's not that I..."

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah," she says, grateful.

Ireena Kolyana: "You know."

Suldae Westwind: "Less than that, I think."

Ireena Kolyana: "But yeah."

Suldae Westwind: "I hope they're happy with what they've chosen, and I think they will be," Suldae says seriously.

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe we can take our road more slowly than they took theirs," says Ireena. "You know, stop and smell the roses as we go."

"Don't get me wrong, I'm sure they're happy... But they're both a bit older than we are."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Ireena Kolyana: "At least, they're older than me. I assume they're older than you, but for all I know I'm robbing the crypt with you."

Suldae Westwind: How is it that Ireena is picking her words for her?

"No, I'm in my early twenties," Suldae shakes her head.

"I grew up with my human parent."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...the Future scares everyone even if few are ever willing to admit it" Henry says "But my friends and I are nothing you should be afraid of" he says twirling her around and pulling her in a bit closer after Ireena Kolyana: Ireena grins. "Oh, that's a relief. I was a bit worried about it. I couldn't remember if we had talked about it or not..."

Suldae Westwind: "...me neither," Suldae admits. She's preferred sharing other stories she knows to her own, even if she'd not made it a secret.

Vasilka: "Everyone?" says Vasilka.
"Even those with a plan?"

Suldae Westwind: "...This is a war, and things happen quickly in wars," she says, catching a thread of her thoughts. "But I want us to live to times of peace."

Vasilka: "I do not have a plan, and this frightens me," says Vasilka. "It feels as though I should have a plan. It feels as though I have forgotten one."

Suldae Westwind: "We can breathe, then."

Ireena Kolyana: "Agreed."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes it might even be that those with a plan are even more scared"

Ireena Kolyana: "We can take things as they come. Someday we'll be ready, and it will feel right."

Vasilka: "Why?"

Suldae Westwind: "...I don't want to ever be a burden on you," Suldae says quietly.
"...I am afraid."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena flubs the immediate dance move and gives Suldae a tight embrace.
"Even if you were ever a burden, I would carry you without any complaint."
"More champagne? I could use some more champagne."

Suldae Westwind: "No," Suldae stops her.
She drags her away from the dancing.
"I have noticed that, about you."
"You are willing to carry any burden."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Because none can truly say what the future will bring and that, the unknown, is what scares us so we cling to things like plans hoping they will unfold like we want and grant us an ounce of control over our little corner of the world"

Suldae Westwind: "...That is probably what he likes about your soul, do you know?"
"That anything you take up you'll carry."
"He just hopes if he hoists himself up you'll carry him too."

Vasilka: Vasilka thinks about Henry's words for a long time.

Suldae Westwind: "I don't want to ever, ever think of you making a martyr of yourself."

"You deserve better and none of this world deserves it."

"Not me either."

Vasilka: At last, she says: "It is the lack of control, then, that brings the fear?"

"Perhaps that is why I am frightened."

Suldae Westwind: "You live for you."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, deeply touched by Suldae's words, swallows thickly.

Suldae Westwind: "I'll have my heart broken a dozen times before I ever want to be a burden on another, Ireena."

"Least of all on you."

"You have too many."

Ireena Kolyana: "Come, let's not think of such heavy things just now. This is a wedding, we should be celebrating!"

"More champagne. It will do us both some good, I insist."

"I'll be right back," says Ireena. "Don't go anywhere."

Suldae Westwind: "...That sounds fair," Suldae agrees and lets herself be dragged to the table.

That conversation went better than some disastrous version of it in her head, at least.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena returns, after a moment, with two glasses of champagne. She hands one to Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Settling for what you can get feels like a very lovely idea, right now.

Ireena Kolyana: "Cheers," she says, extending her glass.

Suldae Westwind: "To freedom?" Suldae proposes a private toast.

Ireena Kolyana: "To freedom," says Ireena.

She takes a drink.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae drinks her own.

Ireena Kolyana: Grimacing slightly as she swallows a bit more champagne than one normally does in one sip, she takes a momentary pause before saying: "You know, I think you're right about something."

Suldae Westwind: Always a pleasant start.

Ireena Kolyana: "There is, kind of, a lot on my plate."

"I know I've been a bit... Quiet, lately. Hard to reach."

"It's because I've been thinking about things, you know."

"Don't worry, it's not you! There's nothing wrong with you, Suldae. Nothing at all, at least nothing that I can see. You're perfect, and you've made me very happy."

"But my life is... Cursed."

"And I fear that the closer we become, the more I entangle you in that curse."

Ireena Kolyana: "I know that you're trapped in Barovia now, and I know that you intend to help me kill Strahd, and free this kingdom. But if something were to happen to you, because of me..."

"I..."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae lifts a finger to her lips.

"I hear you," she says quietly.

Ireena Kolyana: "Strahd is a jealous god," says Ireena.

"And I don't think we're ready to face him."

"And I don't know if we ever will be."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae presses the finger to her.

"My turn to speak."

Ireena Kolyana: Pushing her hand away seriously, Ireena says: "No, listen to me for a change."

"I've been quiet about this for too long."

Sulda Westwind: "Okay," Suldae agrees and removes her hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The trick is that while we can not know what exactly will come to pass we can still influence it." Henry says "Day after day we are given a chance to turn fate our way for that is what life, a series of chances to to change the world however small in scope"

Ireena Kolyana: "Has it ever occurred to you that it might be best for Barovia and for everyone in it if I were to go along with what Strahd wants?"

"That it might, in fact, be exactly what is needed to break the curse?"

"You see, I've been giving this a lot of thought. If we knew a little more about the actual nature of the curse, maybe we could be more certain about what would lift it."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae nods slowly. Oh, this is worth talking about indeed.

Ireena Kolyana: "But I am afraid that Strahd may not be, in the traditional sense, killable. And it may be that the only way that you, and Marcus, and Ezmerelda, and Kasimir, and Rictavio, and Hiere, and Henry, and Ismark every get to see the outside of Barovia is after we give Strahd exactly what he wants."

Sulda Westwind: "I hear you. Will you listen to me now?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I have just one other thing to say."

Sulda Westwind: "Okay."

Ireena Kolyana: "The longer we delay Strahd's plans, the less likely he is to forgive and forget if we ever do need to surrender. The bargaining window is small, and may already be closed."

Sulda Westwind: "Okay."

"Now listen, okay?"

"This is more than just about you and me, you are right about that much. More than about Ismark, more than about every single pervious reincarnation of... of you that chose death over goign to him, more than all those who've aided them."

"There is, indeed, the whole of Barovia to consider."

"And the whole world outside of it."

"If the choice is between breaking the curse and unleashing Strahd on the outside world, with all his power and means to do whatever he likes, and staying here, cursed with him, forever"

Suldae Westwind: "What, indeed, will breaking the curse actually do?"

"If it is through him being killed, we can at least know that we are not freeing him."

"Or do you believe he will restrain his appetite after getting the one thing he's wanted this whole time?"

"Retire, perhaps, peacefully?"

"Never want anything outside his reach again?"

Suldae is staring at the floor.

Suldae Westwind: There is anger in her words, but it is not aimed at Ireena and she does not want her to think that it is.

"This is about more than just you," she says. "This is... the category of thing that nobody who wants it should be allowed to get. I do not know the lay of all of it, but I want to live in a world where that's the way it happens."

"I am a bard, Ireena."

"I think in stories."

"I know what story I choose to be in."

"Stories matter, more than most people think."

Suldae Westwind: "It matters what we choose and how it sounds to us."

"This is more than just about you, Ireena. If you'd wanted him I'd be the first to say that you should go, but you do not, and so you are the resistance."

"You are the thing he wants and isn't allowed to have."

"There is quite a burden on you, indeed."

Suldae goes quiet, unsure how to continue.

She waits for Ireena's response.

Ireena Kolyana: "I..."

Ireena thinks for a moment.

She seems to come to some kind of resolution.

"I want..."

"I want to go to the Amber Temple."

"I want to understand this curse, and find the way to break it without freeing Strahd."

Ireena Kolyana: "Strahd must be destroyed, no matter what else happens."

"And if he is not destroyed, if I die in the process, if we all die in the process... That, too, will be worth it. We will change Barovia. We have already had an impact on it. This is something that very few other than Strahd have managed to accomplish."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Ireena Kolyana: "And if I die, then somewhere down the line, when I reincarnate here in this hell... I hope that our souls will find each other again."

Suldae Westwind: She touches her forehead to Ireena's.

"I hope that too"

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm not planning on dying — or on letting you die."

"But whatever comes, I am happy for the time I have had with you."

GM: (We will have to end the session here for now. Thank you all for playing!)

Vasilka: To Henry, Vasilka nods thoughtfully. "I will treasure your teachings, Henry. Your guidance is comforting."

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(3)

= 3

Suldae Westwind:

Roll for HP
Roll 1:	6

Tops K.: rolling 1d10 Roll for HP

(3)

= 3

Able: rolling d6

(3)

= 3

GM (GM): Good morning all! :)

Or greetings y'all, if that's preferred

Liliet (Suldae): ^^

Zanshuken: Salutations y'all

Tops K.: Time for consequences!

The rest of the wedding night passes relatively uneventfully for the party, but as the new moon begins to set, the wereravens begin to make their farewells. One by one, they retreat from the Shadowfell and return to the material plane. As the moon sets, the darkness around you begins to fade and thin. The black walls of the palace become more and more translucent. You begin to see the light of torches from the village below the abbey, and slowly the starlight reveals the high white stone walls of the abbey itself.

The party is back on the ledge before the abbey gates, which are currently sealed. The stars are still high in the sky and the sun has not yet risen. It must be perhaps four in the morning. The village sleeps below you to the west, sprawled out darkly. Some torches in the streets remain lit even at this hour and you can see the guards patrolling on the walls.

The abbey sits to the east, vast, ancient, massive doors sealed.

The night is now bitterly cold.

Liliet (Suldae): "Okay," Suldae says, shivering a little. "We need to go in there and see how things are, probably."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks up at the huge wooden gates of the Abbey. "Do you think they'll still let us in?"

"Do you think they'll still remember... The Abbot?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could knock" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "I can't claim to know the range of the Shadow Queen's power, but I do know this."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Be it on or down the door" he adds

Rictavio: "A more delicate approach might be wise. We have yet to ascertain the number of the Abbot's servants."

Liliet (Suldae): Question: the walls are open at the top, right?
we could just fly over them, in theory?

GM: (They are open, yes, there is a courtyard you could easily fly into.)

Marcus Veranius: "If I recall correct, the abbot is why their family is part beast. It was by his experiments,"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how high are the walls just for curiosities sake?)

Marcus Veranius: "I don't think someone could survive with such an important detail cut from their memory. It's as if they were to forget everything of who they are."

Liliet (Suldae): "They did want it," Suldae points out.

"Maybe they just remember they had their wish granted, but not by whom."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe."

Liliet (Suldae): "Anyway, if we knock and they don't answer, we could just fly over."

GM: (The wall is 15 feet high, and the gates are ten feet tall and reinforced with bands of steel. The east and west wings of the Abbey are two stories tall each, so you can see them over the wall and they do have narrow windows it might be possible to squeeze or peer through.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (huh Henry can reach the top of the wall with 10 ft run up)

Suldae Westwind: (also ropes exist)

(and gates can probably be opened from the inside)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (they do but i just find it funny and high jumping rarely comes up in dnd)

Suldae Westwind: (probably because there are always so many other ways to solve the problem that can be solved by it lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So anyone against me knocking right now?" Henry asks Able: Hiere draws his staff, and the eye on the head shuts as he casts Arcane Eye.

"Yeah lemme just snoop around a little"

(He's gonna direct the eye over the wall into the abbey)

GM: (You should be able to move the Eye token)

Able: (yeeep)

Suldae Westwind: "Just don't forget to tell us what you see, please?"

Suldae does not mean anything by this, except that Hiere forgetting this feels entirely possible to her.

Able: (I can see the 3 bois right?)

An invisible magical eye comes into existence near Hiere, and floats weightlessly at his whim.

Hiere sees Otto and Zygfrek Belview standing near the well. They seem to be talking down into the well, or holding a conversation with something that is inside the well. He also sees Marzena Belview still chained to her post in the eastern portion of the yard.

The walls have no pacing guards, and no obvious ongoing watch. It seems the Mongrelfolk are not particularly concerned with security.

Able: "There are two mongrels having a chat and one chained up. Is this normal or am I having connection issues?"

Suldae Westwind: "...I think the chained up thing is normal, can't tell you much about the chat?"

"Do they seem calm?"

Hiere Unthere: Meanwhile he directs the eye inside one of the windows.

"Calm as two whatever the abyss they are, yes"

Suldae Westwind: "And nothing is on fire?"

"I have low standards for 'that is good'"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Can you try to see into any of the buildings"

Henry asks

GM: (You should be able to move the eye; did you want it to go into the west wing or the north wing?)

Hiere Unthere: "Yup just gonna slip into a window"

(the one the eye is in front of)

GM: (That's not a building)

(That's just the far side of the courtyard)

Hiere Unthere: "Excuse me, I seem to have left the premises."

The only windows on the structure seem to be on the outermost walls; there are none looking into the courtyard. Unfortunately, none of the windows are open — or, indeed, seem capable of being opened. The Eye cannot pass through solid objects, it requires a gap of at least one inch.

In his pursuit of an entrance, Hiere does become conscious of the chimneys as an entry point.

Hiere Unthere: (there was something about going over into a courtyard?)

GM: (You already did that)

Hiere Unthere: (ah)

GM: (The eye is in the courtyard now)

(Courtyard has no ceiling, but the buildings that are connected by the courtyard both have ceilings and doors and windows and one of them has a chimney)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere heads towards the nearest chimney, careful to not get any soot on its invisible suit.

After gliding through the pitch-dark chimney, the eye finds itself in the large hall where the party was first introduced to Vasilka and the Abbot.

Suldae Westwind: "...Found your way back yet?"

Gentle-sounding music trickles down from above, played on a single stringed instrument by some unseen master.

The ground floor is one large, fifty-foot-square room with arched, leaded glass windows. A cauldron sits on an iron rack above a fire in a hearth, while above the fireplace mantel hangs a golden disk engraved with the symbol of the sun. In one corner, a wooden staircase climbs to the upper level, while in another corner a stone staircase descends into darkness.

Several chairs surround a wooden table that stretches nearly the length of the room. Wooden dishware and gold candelabras are neatly arranged on the table.

Hiere Unthere: "Someone's playing music but I don't know that."

Suldae Westwind: "Wait, what?"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere will stroll over to the staircase and start heading up.

The wooden stairs climb twenty feet to a loft with a pitched roof and a door in the center of the south wall. Unlit lanterns hang from the rafters, and a rope dangles from a bronze bell lodged in the belfry thirty feet overhead. The room is filled with the sound of beautiful music—a melody so enchanting that it adds a bit of much-needed warmth to the otherwise freezing room. Hiere is not sure how he can hear it through the magic eye, but the fact remains that he can.

A black shroud covers a humanoid shape lying on a wooden table. The music does nothing to stir it.

A cot heaped with furs rests in the northeast corner, surrounded by empty wine bottles. An oil lamp burns atop a table nearby, silhouetting a squat creature that has two heads. It sits on the edge of the cot with a viol between its legs. With a crustacean, clawlike appendage, it grasps the neck of the instrument while running a bow gently across its strings with its human hand.

Hiere Unthere: (just reading gimme a sec)

"There's a black shroud covering someone upstairs" - Hiere points to/towards where the floor is -
"and a crabman playing a viol. Pretty sweet tunes actually. Oh dear oghma it has two heads."

Suldae Westwind: "...A black shroud?"

"Someone alive or a dead body?"

Hiere Unthere: "I cannot tell, but it remains unresponsive to the music"

Hieye will approach the figure, trying to tell whether it's breathing.

GM: (Make a perception check)

Suldae Westwind: "...well is it standing, sitting or lying down? That can help narrow down the odds."

What Suldae really wants to ask is whether that can be the Abbott.

But she doesn't yet.

Hiere Unthere:

20 22

PERCEPTION (5)

(Adv from rod)

Hieye observes the shrouded figure for long enough to determine that it is not breathing and, in fact, does not appear to possess all the requisite parts for breathing with. There is a distinct sunkennes to the way the black cloth lies over what would be the chest area.

Hiere Unthere: "It's lying down, and is missing it's chest."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Excuse me but what the fuck?"

Hiere Unthere: Hieye will slink back down the staircase and take a look at the floor below.

Suldae Westwind: "...Could it be the Abbot?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, I don't think you guys told us much about the Abbey... A man with two heads? Corpses on slabs?"

Tops K.: "I mean."

Hiere Unthere: "You know how when you have a chest you're clothes don't go through it? Well not this dude."

Vasilka: "Those would be the leftover parts, I believe," says Vasilka.

Marcus Veranius: "Vasilika wasn't made from thin air."

Hiere Unthere: your*

Marcus Veranius is beaten to the punch

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what are we gonna do now"

Suldae Westwind: "Does that mean everything is mundane and normal and we can probably just knock and walk in?"

Hieye sees that another staircase continues downward into gloom, and the doors and windows are sealed. The only other means of progression is back up through the chimney.

-  Sulda Westwind: "Or is there any detail you havent mentioned yet, Hiere?"
-  Vasilka: Vasilka scratches her head.
-  Sulda Westwind: Sulda makes no assumptions as to reliabilty of their wizard fellow's prioritization.
-  Ireena Kolyana: "Which wing are you checking out, Hiere?"
"We could break a window on the other one, if you want."
-  Hiere Unthere: Hiery takes a small step for eye, and a giant leap for eyekind.
-  Vasilka: "Henry, I am confused."
"I am certain that I was assembled lovingly from many carefully collected parts... But I cannot recall whose hand assembled me."
"There is the vaguest... Light... A presence that was warm, and kind. Was that you? Did you assemble me?"
-  Hiere Unthere: Hiere points at the wing. "The weird people don't seem agitated or anything"
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ours is a confusing world" Henry says dodging the question
-  Sulda Westwind: Sulda breathes in, then out. She has the urge to explain, but it's probably best left to Henry.
-  Vasilka: Vasilka sighs.

Tops K. considers

Hiery moves down the other staircase. The stone steps descend twenty feet to a cellar that contains ten barrels of wine and an L-shaped wooden rack packed with wine bottles.

Hiery senses the presence of a magical object of some kind, in one of the wine bottles nearby.

-  Hiere Unthere: "The bottom is empty, and full of barrels of wine. Hiere sheds a tiere for pintsworth and the its friend. "There are bottles too, and something magical inside one"
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: "Before anyone goes inside the Abbey for real, you and I should get up on the wall, Marcus."
-  Kasimir Velikov: "Are we convinced that we will encounter hostile resistance from these creatures?"
Kasimir asks.
-  Tops K.: (And now my discord broke)
(Marcus might need to go on automatic today)
- GM: (Oh no!)
-  Sulda Westwind: "I think odds are we won't," Sulda tells Kasimir.
-  Hiere Unthere: "Do they know you? Will they still know you?"
-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "Know who?"
-  Sulda Westwind: "...Those of us who were here before."

Vasilka: "I think I know some of them..."

Suldae Westwind: "I think they will."

Vasilka: "They are not dangerous, except when they are in a fit of hunger or madness."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry fishes out a coin from somewhere "I mean there is a way to decide it if noone here wants to because standing out here waffeling about really doesn't do anything"

Suldae Westwind: "Vasilika, I really do feel like I need to clarify something. There is a person everyone except us appears to have forgotten."

Vasilka: Vasilka cocks her head, eyes sparkling intelligently.

"I see..."

"And this person, I have also forgotten him?"

Suldae Westwind: "We are trying to figure out what exactly was lost and what to do now."

"Yes, you have."

Hiere Unthere: (doxed)

Vasilka: "Then perhaps he..." Vasilka rubs her chin thoughtfully.

"He must be the light and warmth I remember."

"Why have we forgotten him? It seems sad to forget an entire person."

Ireena Kolyana: "Just an unfortunate side effect of a curse we're trying to break," says Ireena quickly.

Vasilka: "In that case, I will help you try to break this curse. Perhaps it will restore my memories."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark says to Henry "I don't think we should go in there until we know how many of them there are."

Suldae Westwind: "Vasilika, how many of them are there?"

"We do not mean to fight them... and it'll be easier to avoid a fight the more we know."

Vasilka: Vasilka counts on her fingers. "I have met fourteen," she says. "But I know there are more in the northeast wing, because they scream for their food sometimes."

Hiere Unthere: While this is going on Hieye will head to said wing in search of chimneys.

Unfortunately, that wing appears to have no chimneys whatsoever!

GM: (That's not me being a dick, they really designed that wing without chimneys or fireplaces)

Hiere Unthere: (kinda creepy for a building)

GM: (Especially in a snowy place like Krezk)

Hiere Unthere: Hieye will look around for other means of entry and/or egress
(I just wanted to say egress)

Every window seems to be sealed, and so is every door. The walls are solidly made and undamaged despite the long testing of time. There are no ready-made means of ingress or egress.

 Ireena Kolyana: "We can smash some windows, if you want," says Ireena.

 Hiere Unthere: "The northeast wing seems to be sealed comple- yes that would be nice"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks up a rock

While circling the structure to look for an entry, Hieye does notice many windows through which to peer.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ugh hm that one" he says pointing to one before hurling the rock

 Suldae Westwind: "...Wait, why are we breaking windows?"
"Did I miss something?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (do I roll something?)

GM: (An improvised weapon attack, yes)

 Hiere Unthere: (are you break)

 Henry of Willowsbrook:

25

Improvised (+9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

6
Bludgeoning

CRACK! The rock sails neatly through the glass, punching a 2-inch hole in it.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (needed to add Improvised attack to my sheet first lol)

 Hiere Unthere: Hieye slips right in behind the rock.

Four mongrelfolk brawl amid the wreckage of this bedchamber while a fifth watches and cackles behind a life-sized, painted wooden statue of a saintly woman in robes.

 Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

On the east side of the chamber, there is a closed door.

 Hiere Unthere: "They are having a bit of a scuffle"

 Suldae Westwind: "...Over something or just regular play?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Can you get any further into the building?"

 Hiere Unthere: "No, there's a closed door. I could peek in through the windows though"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Can you go under the door?"

 Hiere Unthere: Hieye hops on over to said door and takes a peak underneath

The gap is just barely large enough to squeeze the eye through.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere crosses his arms and smiles "NAISU"

The Eye finds itself in a lightless corridor with multiple doors, behind which lie creatures that shatter the quiet with their mad cackles and whispered curses. The stench is overpowering. Even in the gloom, Hieye can make out a monstrous shape lumbering down the hall.

Hiere Unthere: (could I just relay the rest of the layout to the party?)

(also hieye has 30ft dv)

The monstrous shape is a terrifying, seven-foot-tall assemblage of human body parts.

Hiere Unthere: "Oh."

"There is a very large mess of body parts here."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Like lying around or?" Henry asks unsure wether he wants an answer

Hiere Unthere: Hieye will try not to look at frankensteins monster and peek into the rest of the rooms in the corridor.

"It's just chilling in a corridor"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay let me rephrase is the mess of body parts moving?"

Hiere Unthere: "unfortunately"

All rooms considered, there seem to be about sixty mongrelfolk confined in the ground floor of this wing. None of them seem armed or particularly dangerous; just sort of insane.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere will inform the party of this as Hieye completes its journey.

Suldae Westwind: "...How many are not in that wing?"

"I think... I think we can and should talk to those outside and figure out what they need to keep taking care of... all of them. See how we can help."

"Make sure they know we're friends."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sounds like a plan" Henry says walking towards the gate

Raising a gautleted fist he turns back to see if there are any objections

Henry knocks on the abbey gate with conviction

The knock upon the gate rings sonorously through the courtyard.

The only response is a certain amount of chittering and whispering, followed by a ringing silence.

It seems no one is brave enough to open the Abbey gates.

GM: (BrB)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits a few moments before shrugging and pushing the gate open

The gate creaks noisily inward on ancient hinges. The party can now plainly see the courtyard.

The thick fog that fills this courtyard swirls, as if eager to escape. The courtyard is surrounded by a fifteen-foot-high curtain wall on which stand several guards with their backs to you—or so it seemed at first. It's clear now that these guards are merely scarecrows.

Wooden doors to the north and east lead to the abbey's two wings. In the center of the courtyard is a stone well fitted with an iron winch, to which a rope and bucket are attached. Along the perimeter, tucked under the overhanging wall, are several stone sheds with padlocked wooden doors, as well as three shallow alcoves that contain wooden troughs. Two wooden posts pounded into the rocky earth have iron rings bolted to them, and chained to one of them is a short humanoid with bat wings and spider mandibles.

The quiet is shattered by horrible screams coming from the sheds.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Coming in" Henry says waking into the courtyard "Anybody?" he calls out looking around

"Hiere didn't you say there were people out here?" he looks around more "Well are guys coming in or what?"

Hiere Unthere: "There were. yes."

Hiere hides behind the others

GM: (sorry, lost connection there)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks into the well

There is no answer to Henry's call. As Suldae glances into the well she sees a set of eight glinting red eyes staring back at her from about twenty feet down in the darkness. With her keen, half-elven eyes, she can plainly see, black against the gleam of the damp and slimy granite walls of the well, a hairy, many-limbed shape wrapped in cocoons of self-spun silk or spittle. Though the eyes are the expressionless orbs of an arachnid, she senses a deep and malignant and insane hate behind them. It is lucky she held no light source over the well.

Vasilka: "This place... So strange, I feel —"

Turning to Henry, Vasilka grips the front of his cloak in a desperate and surprisingly human move. Overwhelmed by some emotion, she says: "I cannot be here!"

Meanwhile, the rest of the party catches up with Henry, Suldae, and Hiere.

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, take Vasilika outside, please."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure call if you need me"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Disaster averted, maybe?

(im sorry zan)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry escorts Vasilka back out of the courtyard

Suldae Westwind: (rip ur participation in exploring the courtyard)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (whatcah apoligizing for?)

Hiere Unthere: Meanwhile, Hiere senses the power of a nearby wizard.

Vasilka: Once outside the gates, Vasilka says: "I'm sorry, I don't know what came over me, I—"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM how tall is the wall north west ish of Henry?)

Hiere Unthere: (did you type that gm)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I mean the wall around the whole thing)

GM: (Let me turn on the slope heights for you)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I just wanna know if it is a sit-able wall)

GM: (Oh the low perimeter wall? It's sort of like a stacked-stone sheep fence. Not very tall, pretty thick. You could sit on it easily.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry guides Vasilka over to the wall to sit down while they wait for the others

Suldae Westwind: (Zan, I know the pain of being somewhere else in-character while the party gets up to shit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I honestly don'T mind)
(I can always kool-aid man my way in if things get bad)

Vasilka: "You don't need to stay with me, knight. I will be alright. It's just... When I was in there, I felt something. As though I had lost something, without even knowing it."

"I feel better now that I'm outside the walls. I will be fine out here."

"Your friends may need you."

Rictavio: Rictavio observes the bat-person chained at the post in the yard, leaning on his cane to watch it flap about in terror of his presence.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Eh they'll be fine and if they're not Suldae can get quiet loud so I'll know to go and save them"

The creature chained to the post flaps its leathery wings and takes to the air, but doesn't get far before its chains go taut. She flutters about madly, screaming nonsense.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls Rictavio back by his elbow.

She circles around the creature as far as she can to investigate the [uh, what was it? stables? sheds?] behind it.

Each of these sheds is fitted with an iron padlock.

Inside, you hear scuffling and shuffling of many limbs in a cramped space.

Hiere Unthere: "I don't know about you but maybe we shouldn't go in there." Hiere peeks from behind Suldae's shoulder.

Suldae Westwind: [ok so i wont lie i am bad with directions, can you label where was what of what Hiere has investigated pls?]

Suldae circles back.

GM: (The only building he thoroughly explored is the western wing)

(The building with the 60 additional mongrelfolk is the northeast wing on this map)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes west, as that's whree she remembers there seemed to be people?

She knocks on the door.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry closes his eyes for a bit breathing deeply extending his senses over the connection to his powers, to the Dryad seeds and also the God, Sylvanus, that had measured him for an infinite moment

In response to Suldae's knock, there is a pair of startled noises, followed by scuffling sounds. No one comes to open the door.

It does not seem to be locked.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls the door open [pushes? whichever one lol]

"Hello?" she calls out gently.

The ground floor is one large, fifty-foot-square room with arched, leaded glass windows. A cauldron sits on an iron rack above a fire in a hearth, while above the fireplace mantel hangs a golden disk engraved with the symbol of the sun. In one corner, a wooden staircase climbs to the upper level, while in another corner a stone staircase descends into darkness.

Gentle-sounding music trickles down from above, played on a single stringed instrument by some unseen master.

At the sound of Suldae's voice, the music stops abruptly.

Suldae Westwind: "My name is Suldae, I've been here before," she says.

"Is everything okay?"

There is a pointed silence in response to Suldae's question. She senses that three people have heard her.

Hiere senses the mind of a nearby wizard, turning gently in the party's direction.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere turns towards where he senses the wizard

He nudges Suldae and points upstairs.

The wizard's mind is fearsomely powerful; it burns like a sun on the arcane horizon. Hiere senses somehow that it is choosing to allow him to sense it.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks around, unsure what proper etiquette is for this situation.

"...Okay, I'll go look elsewhere. I'll be right outside in case you want something"

Hiere Unthere: "There's a wizard nearby, and people upstairs."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Neat," says Ismark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry opens his mind to his power to again ask like he did in the Raven Queens domain 'Is it possible to give her live like he could not?' the mental image of Vasilka accompanying the question along with a surge of emotions

Kasimir Velikov: "A wizard? I sense nothing. Are you certain?"

Hiere Unthere: "I think.. they're letting me sense them"

Suldae Westwind: "Nearby?"

"Can you tell the direction?"

Dryad: Not in Barovia.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere points in the direction he's facing

Kasimir Velikov turns in that direction. He narrows his eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods to himself 'well thats something atleast' he thinks to himself attention leaving his powers for now

Kasimir Velikov: "I still sense nothing unusual," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Seems like any other direction to me," says Ismark.

Suldae Westwind: (WHAT DIRECTION IS HE FACING)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, meanwhile, is trying to approach the chained-up bat-person, while Rictavio watches her, amused.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere is facing due north.

Suldae Westwind: "...Probably an invitation?" Suldae suggests.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry calls out "Anything yet?"

Suldae Westwind: She is a little distracted as she keeps an eye on her girlfriend.

Suldae goes north, which also has the advantage of taking her closer to whatever Ireena is trying to do.

Ireena Kolyana: Each time Ireena approaches, ration in hand, the starved bat-person flutters farther away, terrified. After a few fruitless attempts to prove herself a friend to the creature, she decides to cast Mage Hand and use it to transfer the food to the creature.

Marzena Belview takes the ration from the floating hand. It seems she is accustomed to being fed in this manner.

Rictavio: "Seems she's been there a while," says Rictavio.

"Can she talk?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Can you talk?"

Marzena Belview. Marzena stands 4 feet, 5 inches tall and has a hunched posture. Long, stringy black hair hides much of her face, but clearly visible are the spider mandibles and teeth that replace her human mouth. She has the arms and wings of a bat, as well as a cloven hoof in place of her right foot.

Marzena, it seems, cannot talk — or understand.

Rictavio: "Well what do we do? We can't stay here and feed her, and we can't exactly just cut her loose on an unsuspecting countryside either, if we don't know what her behavior will be."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think she's frightened of everybody," says Ireena. "I doubt she'd do any harm to someone."

Vasilka: "What were you doing, just now, Henry?"

"I felt something like sunlight, but I saw nothing."

Suldae Westwind: "Hiere says there's a wizard nearby," Suldae tells them.

"There is someone to feed her, it seems."

Ireena Kolyana: "A wizard?" says Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: "Hiere says they're letting him sense them."

Rictavio: "How does he know?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Freaky. I wonder if I'll ever be that good of a wizard."

Suldae Westwind: "I question the wisdom of keeping her like that, but I think we should find whoever that is first."

"Probably," Suldae smiles at her sunnily.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to look at in her eyes before stretching out a hand "I did something close to this" as he says this a small globe of gold and emerald light blooms in the palm of his outstretchehand

Hiere Unthere: Hiere begins walking north, sensing for any change in his arcane senses

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh no, it's just occurred to me... Without the Abbot, who will provide for these creatures? Will we be leaving them as a burden on Krezk?"

Vasilka: The light reflects in Vasilka's glassy eyes. "Fascinating."

Suldae Westwind: "Probably," Suldae admits. "They might be able to pull their weight in work... we'll need to figure this out."

Hiere, following his senses, walks right out the gate of the Abbey and begins to head north down the side of the long wing.

Ismark and Kasimir follow him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Could you stay here for a moment Silka" Henry says following after the wizard, the warlock and ...the wizard

Hiere Unthere: "Well, this is fun."

Hiere senses that he is not that much closer to the wizard. Although he cannot sense the precise distance to the wizard, he senses that the relative distance has not changed much.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Whats going on"

It seems the wizard is farther north than he seems.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere turns back around. "This wizard is really far away."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wizard?"

Goat: A goat trots down the way from the garden and stares at Hiere curiously, meeting him in the road. The horizontal pupils of its eyes stare darkly in a wall-eyed way. As it observes him, it burps up its cud and begins to chew thoughtfully. "Baaaaaaaah"

Hiere Unthere: "sup"

Goat: "Baaaah."

It flicks its tail.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Turning to Kasimir and Ismark "What's he on about this time?"

Hiere Unthere: "mhhmhhhm"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark shrugs artfully.

Kasimir Velikov: "He sensed a wizard," says Kasimir.

Hiere Unthere: "I still do, they're just really far away"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That way?" Henry says pointing north with a raised eyebrow

Hiere Unthere: "Yes... know any wizards there?"

Kasimir Velikov: "None," says Kasimir.

"There are not many surviving wizards in Barovia."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I...I might. An owl told me that there was someone to the north that might be an ally but y'know it was a bit cryptic about it"

Goat: The goat spots Henry when he points. It turns its head to look in the direction he pointed.

It looks back at him.

The Goat says "Baaah."

Henry hears: "Indeed, it is the Mad Mage of Mount Baratok."

The goat slowly raises one back leg and turns its head. It begins to use that hoof to scratch gently at its ear.

Hiere Unthere: (pardon)

(do goat legs bend that way)

Goat: The Goat assures the player of Hiere Unthere psychically that goat legs do, indeed, bend that way.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It might be that wiz-" Henry begins before stopping "Okay the Goat just said it is that wizard" he continues "The Mad Mage of Mount Baratok"

Hiere Unthere: "what"

GM: (x)[<https://media0.giphy.com/media/URdX6woPvJNkY/giphy.gif>]

(<https://media0.giphy.com/media>

/URdX6woPvJNkY/giphy.gif)

Hiere Unthere: "You don't have to make fun of me like that you know"

GM:

(<https://previews.123rf.com/images/galdzer/galdzer0709/galdzer070901083/1755303-goat-a-young-goat-scratching-at-itself-behind-an-ear-a-hoof.jpg>)

Hiere Unthere: (TIL)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at Henry curiously.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Right, so, what?"

"The goat told you his name?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pause after repeating the last part grimacing "I wish I were but no the goat really did just tell me that" he scratches his head for a bit "It did not"

Henry turns to the goat "Would you happen to know his name?" he asks

Goat: The goat continues speaking. "Baaah. Baah. Baaaaaah." Henry hears, over the smacking sound of the goat's occasional chewing, "The name of the wizard? Hmmhmm? Or my name? I am Bilious Belarus Belgarius III, Lord of the Hutch of Westemere. I say, have you seen my family? I seem to have misplaced them." The goat looks wistfully around.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the creature/person at the posts and wonders. This is probably not true, but what if it is?

She takes out the flute and starts playing a gentle, simple melody.

Animal Friendship

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A beast that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A morsel of food)

Duration: 24 hours

This spell lets you convince a beast that you mean it no harm. Choose a beast that you can see within range. It must see and hear you. If the beast's Intelligence is 4 or higher, the spell fails. Otherwise, the beast must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for the spell's duration. If you or one of your companions harms the target, the spells ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional beast for each slot level above 1st.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Of the Wizard Lord Goat" Henry replys weakly keeping an even and polite face despite the fact he was apparently talking to Goat nobility Marzena Belview does not experience the effects of the spell, as her intelligence is higher than 4.

Marzena does, however, dance a little to the tune.

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Suldae keeps playing, no longer magic, just a calming tune simple to dance with.

She also begins to tap her foot to the rhythm.

Goat: "No matter, no matter. I misunderstood. Ah, the wizard. The wizard, that rascal. The wizard! That wizard's name is unknown to me. The villagers called him the Mad Mage and left it at that."

"He is famous for the Mountain of Mount Baratok, where he is most frequently encountered — in the form of a Giant Elk."

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Why is it that my patrons are the ones chipping away at my sanity more than that twat Strahd' Henry thinks making sure as to keep this particular thought far away from the sympathetic connection to his powers

"Thank you kindly" Henry says before relaying it to the others

Ireena Kolyana: "I wonder..."

Ireena watches Suldae playing, and Marzena dancing. "I wonder if it would be possible to cure them?"

"The Abbot's magic was a little twisted, don't you think? I wonder if he ever really tried..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Are you sure you haven't heard anything about this Kasimir Ismark?" Henry says "It seems like a thing you would atleast hear some rumors about"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pauses the playing for a second.

"...Fear is not an illness. I don't know if the form is, but this... I think I can help."

Rictavio: "Even if you turned them truly human, I doubt that you could heal this much madness," says Rictavio.

Suldae Westwind: She resumes the tune.

Suldae shakes her head as she glances at him.

She doesn't agree, and also doesn't want to interrupt her song to argue.

Kasimir Velikov: "I have not heard of this Mad Mage," says Kasimir. "However, that may only mean that it is a relatively recent myth. I have been far from the civilized world for many decades, so I am not, as they say, up to date."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Now that you mention it, I think I have heard this myth before."

Hiere Unthere: "The mad mage is from beyond Barovia?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "They say that long ago, a generation or more, there was a powerful wizard who came to Barovia from the outside world. He amassed an army of rebels and led them against Strahd."

"He and his army were destroyed, but the final battle between them is legendary. It is said that they fought on the cliffs and towers of the castle, striking with lightning and fire long into the night, until the wizard was thrown down."

"They say his ghost still lingers somewhere, mad, a specter haunting Mount Baratok for some reason. Can't remember the specifics."

Hiere Unthere: "I'm sensing... a ghost?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark shrugs. "It's just the legend," he says.

"I never assumed it was true."

Hiere Unthere: "Then maybe he still lives"

Ireena Kolyana: "Y'know what, it occurs to me that the people of Krezk are neighbors to these people, and that once we're gone they're going to have to deal with being neighbors for real — without the Abbot's mitigating presence."

"Maybe the best thing for us to do is leave and come back with Baron Krezkov?"

"If we can get them to a place where they're at least communicating with each other, maybe this situation can solve itself."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods, still playing.

She figured they should find out who's there to talk to first, but basically... same plan.

Marzena Belview seems to enjoy the music very much. Soon she is seated calmly at the base of the pillar, wrapped in her wings, beginning to snore.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pauses to think for a moment "If he truly was strong enough to match Strahd for a while then even if he is only half as tricky as a wizard like that should be I'd say chances are good he is still alive" Henry frowns "And most likely some kind of insane seeing as a nickname like 'Mad Mage' doesn't come from nothing"

Suldae Westwind: "...madness that cannot be cured, is it, Rictavio?" Suldae says quietly after slowly winding the song down.

Rictavio: "Sedation and Sanity are two very different things," says Rictavio.

"Tamed for a moment, certainly. But cured? I don't think so. Not if there are supposed to be sixty of them in that building alone," he says, gesturing towards the north wing.

Ireena Kolyana: "Still, it seems a shame to leave them like this. What will happen to them once Barovia is freed? Will we have loosed them upon the world?"

Suldae Westwind: "Tamed or not is a word for beasts. She is not, or my magic would have worked."

Rictavio: "Nevertheless, the distinction between 'Cured Madness' and 'Momentarily Sedated Madness' remains," says Rictavio. "It doesn't really matter whether they're beasts or not. Well, I suppose it is more troublesome to put them down if they're people. Not that it will come to that, of course, although I must admit I've been in similar circumstances many times. Whatever we do, we must consider the potential ramifications to history. If a race of bestial mutants is unleashed upon the world, it may be forever changed by it. The Abbot was wise enough to contain these creatures until he could decide what to do with them. His approach may be more... Compassionate than mine would be, but it was an ill-considered approach that has resulted in a large and potentially hungry population of these beings. I do not believe we can cure these people, either of their bodily disfigurements or of their individual madnesses. If that choice is off the table, what other choices do we have? We must consider with great care."

"Do we really want to introduce the Krezkites to these people? They may simply kill them as 'monsters.'"

"And if they don't kill them as monsters, then we've lost our only opportunity to deal with this situation quietly and with our own judgement."

Suldae Westwind: "...I do think I would rather find whoever is left in charge here," Suldae admits.

Goat: "Baaaah."

"I say, sir knight. If you should happen upon the House of Westemere, will you inform them that I have been waylaid at the Abbey and cannot find my way back to them?"

Suldae Westwind: "Before we invite the Baron, it's better to establish basic facts for ourselves, probably."

Ireena Kolyana: "Makes sense to me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ah Yes of cause" Henry says

"Any of you ever heard of a House Westemere" Henry whispers to the others
(Call it for today?)

GM: (Yeah, works for me — thank you all for playing!)

Suldae Westwind:

E>

Liliet (Suldae): boop

GM (GM): (Good morning all!)

(Or better: Howdy and good insert-time-of-day)

Suldae Westwind: ayeeee

Ireena Kolyana: "Well?" says Ireena. "What's the plan?"

Rictavio: "Wait a minute, where's Marcus? And where is Ezme?"

"Where could they have slipped off to?"

Marcus Veranius discretely slinks out the abbey's gate back to the outside

Marcus Veranius was totally scouting the area and not something else

Ezmerelda Veranius emerges from the same secluded location after a suitable amount of time has passed. Definitely scouting.

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, yes, well. What was the umm... plan going forward?"

Rictavio: "Oh Marcus, there you are!"

Ireena Kolyana: "Hi Ezme!"

"I think your tunic is inside out, Marcus."

Suldae Westwind: "We need to find someone plausibly in charge here and talk to them."

Marcus Veranius checks

Marcus Veranius: :|

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not commenting on anyone's attire. It's unmannerly, really.

Marcus Veranius: "It's umm... reversible."

Zanshuken: "We were still planning our next exercise in poor desicions and hubris so by all means Marcus the floor is yours"

Marcus Veranius: "That's a feature."

"WELL."

Rictavio: "Ouch," says Rictavio.

Marcus Veranius: "It seems clear enough that the Abbey is not on a warpath."

GM: (I'm assuming the party has regrouped, since it seems we're all talking in the same area)

Marcus Veranius: "Which is to say, better than the OTHER den of beastmen within day's reach."
"And not immediately as dangerous or aligned with Strahd as the other den of Beastmen."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we are still down one spaced out Wizard btw)

Rictavio: "Still, there are many mouths here to feed, and I personally see no livestock."

Ireena Kolyana: "I wonder how the Abbot fed them?"

Suldae Westwind: "With magic, possibly?"

Kasimir Velikov: "I concur. I think an angel would find the conjuration of food relatively simple, in terms of miracles."

Marcus Veranius: "I... can't say I have a solution for the inevitable food shortage."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's eyes flicker with a mote of crimson eldritch fire. "Have you noticed that the place feels... Different?"

Marcus Veranius: "That's more town management than I've got skill for."

Able: (whoops got distracted)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Suldae Westwind: "I can conjure food, but that's not exactly a sustainable solution."

Marcus Veranius: "Krezk is small and CANNOT support both communities without intervention of sorts."

"...there IS something we can do, but Henry won't like the idea."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sharpes his otherworldly senses for a moment

Suldae Westwind: "The beastfolk need to make arrangements to figure out what they'll do and what they'll eat"

"Oh?"

Marcus Veranius: "Well, yes. Fruits of the earth is a relatively simple thing to conjure when you have the aid of a nature spirit. Of which three are in Barovia, and one in this very abbey."

"The winery is proof of that."

Hiere Unthere: "They do have a good stock of alcohol."

Marcus Veranius: "But... that does come with a catch doesn't it?"

Marcus Veranius frowns

As Henry concentrates, he senses Ismark's undead form and the tangible vapors of his fiendish connection. He also senses the absence of something the presence of which he had hardly noticed to begin with: a powerful consecration has faded. The last light of the Abbot's presence has faded.

Hiere Unthere: "Why exactly do they have a good stock of alcohol?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not talking about alcohol!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ah fuck" Henry says breaking out of his concentration

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena rubs her chin thoughtfully. Gazing through the open gates of the Abbey, she looks at Vasilka, who is now having a conversation with the Goat Henry met earlier.

Marcus Veranius: "Look, I'll be blunt. The only thing that will make this cursed land bear fruit is a Dryad Seed."

"That may be the only means to support both communities in terms of resources."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We are no longer on hallowed grounds" Henry says frowning

Marcus Veranius: "...inconvenient."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yorhish!" says Ireena.

"If he has extended far enough to connect with the forests near Krezk, maybe he can solve our food shortage problem?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Even magical plants take time to grow," says Kasimir.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Question," says Ismark, raising a hand politely.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes?" Henry says looking to Ismark

Suldae Westwind: "Magical plants taking time to grow can be solved with more magic," Suldae mumbles under her breath.

Marcus Veranius: "The time is significantly shortened at the font, rather than the fields."

"Which is why I say Henry might not like the solution. We DO have a third Dryad Seed."

"And planting it would solve many problems."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Have we made a thorough investigation of the Abbey yet? I know Hiere saw some of the rooms with his arcane eye, but it seems kind of pre-emptive to assume that the Abbot conjured food. There are gardens at the north end of the Abbey, for example. Perhaps there's a storehouse as well?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes, let's think about solving the problem once we've established there is one," Suldae agrees.

"Our step one SHOULD be finding a local with authority."

Ireena Kolyana: "I want to take a closer look at some of these people, too," says Ireena. "So far they don't look starved, but I want to make sure they're all healthy."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Kind of difficult with them you know, running away from us"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Do you think we should involve Baron Krezkov?"

"

Marcus Veranius: "If not the baron, perhaps the Baroness. She seems more accepting of the supernatural."

Rictavio: "I think we should not involve anyone until we know the full picture. There are always... nuances... to situations like this."

Suldae Westwind: "We should find someone first and then bring the Baron in," Suldae agrees.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We probably should but let's check first if what we have here to deal with the situation" Henry says

Suldae Westwind: "We don't even entirely know what the situation IS."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, I just got chills. Remember how the Baron told us about the dreams people were having? What if the Mongrelfolk are capable of that kind of intrusion into people's homes even with the Abbot? We don't know the full extent of their abilities, after all."

without*

Suldae Westwind: "We are getting ahead of ourselves."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rubs his eyes tiredly "Well let's check everything and hopefully get someone to talk to us"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes south.

Ireena Kolyana: "Right, so, it's a big abbey. Maybe we should split up into groups to tackle it?"

Suldae Westwind: (are these doors?)

Ireena Kolyana says this while hastily following Suldae.

Hiere Unthere: "Well, I'm staying away from the crazy ward"

Hiere Unthere follows Suldae and Ireena

Marcus Veranius follows Henry

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll go check th gardens north of the abbey"

Suldae Westwind: (Presuming these are doors) Suldae politely knocks on the central one.

GM: (They are, in fact, doors — shed doors.)

Hiere Unthere: "There should be people inside"

Each of these sheds is fitted with an iron padlock.

Suldae Westwind: (ok then Suldae knocks on the other door)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry on the way checks in with Vasilka and the Goat

At the sound of Suldae's knock there is a panicked scuffling from the chamber beyond, following by a long silence.

GM: (That's the response for a shed door, sorry)

The sound of Suldae's knock echoes sonorously in the chamber beyond. There is no response.

Suldae Westwind: (I was looking for a formal-ish entrance just in cas there was another one yeah)
Suldae comes in.

Ireena Kolyana: "I wonder why he's so frightened of us?" says Ireena.
She follows Suldae across the threshold.

Suldae Westwind: "He? You're thinking of someone specific?" Suldae asks curiously.

Hiere Unthere listens for any sick beatz

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda follows Marcus and Henry.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark, Kasimir, and Rictavio take the northern wing of the Abbey stealthily.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I see you made a friend Silka" Henry says

Vasilka: "He is a poor lost nobleman who has been waylaid by bandits and ill circumstances. I wish to assist him to find his home."

Marcus Veranius squints

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Certainly but we were gonna take a look at the gardens here first and I thought you could join us"

Marcus Veranius: That... was a goat?

Goat: Bilious Belarus Belgarius III, Lord of the Hutch of Westemere, passes gas in a dignified manner.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae remembers this place. This was where they first met Vasilika, back when she thought walking over the table was the normal way of getting places.

Vasilka: "I would love to join you," says Vasilka. "I have never been to the gardens, but I was always promised that I would walk freely there one day."

Suldae Westwind: She walks around the table, instead, and settles down with a guitar.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus this is Bilious Belarus Belgarius III, Lord of the Hutch of Westemere"
Henry says with a painful expression

Vasilka: Vasilka pauses to think for a moment, confused. She does not remember who promised her this.

Suldae Westwind: She starts strumming melodiously.

Goat: The Goat bows and says: "Baaah."

Suldae Westwind: Perhaps the locals will be more inclined to come to the sound of thoroughly non-magical music?

Almost non-magical.

SONG OF REST

Class: Bard

Beginning at 2nd level, you can use soothing music or oration to help revitalize your wounded allies during a short rest. If you or any friendly creatures who can hear your performance regain hit points at the end of the short rest by spending one or more Hit Dice, each of those creatures regains an extra 1d6 hit points.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

9

STEALTH (3)

Kasimir Velikov:

20

STEALTH (6)

Rictavio:

STEALTH

Rictavio

Skill: 25

Marcus Veranius: :|

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a brief moment to take stock of his life before shrugging and walking down the path to the gardens "

Marcus Veranius: "...the gardens then?"

Marcus Veranius is going to pretend this isn't happening

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah"

Marcus Veranius: If it's not in his ledger of important individuals, they don't exist right?

Suldae is now in the Main Hall of the Abbey. The ground floor of this wing is one large, fifty-foot-square room with arched, leaded glass windows. A cauldron sits on an iron rack above a fire in the hearth, while above the fireplace mantel hangs a golden disk engraved with the symbol of the sun. As Suldae passes this wall hanging on her way to her chair, she feels a knowing stare coming from it, as though it is observing and welcoming her somehow.

IN one corner of the chamber, a wooden staircase climbs to the upper level, while in another corner a stone staircase descends into darkness. Ireena stands at the base of the upward staircase, gazing up into the gloom.

Suldae Westwind: This place is... pleasant to be in, despite the circumstances.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry approaches the plants looking to identify them and their level of health

Hiere Unthere: "Let's head down, there's something cool I wanna check out"

Suldae Westwind: "I'll stay here," Suldae says. "...Nobody can leave through this door without me seeing them, predatory as that sounds."

Suldae Westwind is an ambush predator

Hiere Unthere: Hiere shrugs and starts down the staircase

Henry sees, nestled between rising and plunging cliffs, four rectangular garden plots enclosed by a five-foot-high wall of mortared stones. The plants seem like they were once quite healthy, and the crop would have been substantial, but a sudden blight seems to have sickened nearly every leaf. White rabbits nibble on turnips uprooted by the cold. Two lifeless scarecrows with stuffed gullets and sackcloth heads hang from wooden crosses pounded into the cold, hard earth. The abbey's east wing looms over the garden, its shattered windows dark and disturbing. From within comes the laughter and the wailing of things that should not be.

Ireena Kolyana: "I'll watch this staircase," says Ireena, in a whisper.

10

STEALTH (5)

In the chamber, the echoes of her whispered message are strangely magnified.

Suldae Westwind: "Just don't scare them if someone is passing through."

"Maybe just come here?"

"I really feel like we'd be less threatening across the table."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Anyway to tell how sudden?)

Suldae Westwind: Also, Suldae kind of wants Ireena there just for the sake of having her there, but she's sure Ireena can figure that part out o her own.

(To Able): /desc The stone steps descend twenty feet to a cellar that contains ten barrels of wine and an L-shaped wooden rack packed with wine bottles. The barrels against the east wall contain Purple Grapemash No. 3, a cheap wine. The four barrels against the south wall contain Red Dragon Crush, a fine wine. The wine racks contain thirty-three bottles of Purple Grapemash No. 3 and twenty-four bottles of Red Dragon Crush. Among the wine bottles on the rack is one with no stopper and a label that reads "Champagne du le Stomp." It seems to contain something that is not wine.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the blight I mean)

Ireena Kolyana: "You know what, you're right," says Ireena. She comes around to Suldae's side of the table.

Marcus Veranius inspects the plants. Perhaps it was the same blight as the Winery; an absence of protection against the land itself...

Marcus Veranius:

18

NATURE (4)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus's investigation is quick and thorough and knowledgeable. He knows how to check for all the various bugs and fungi and known diseases which can affect the different plants of this crop. There are no signs of bugs or fungi, and there is no disease which could have killed so many different species of plants in the same manner and at the same time. This, then, is the work of magic — of a curse upon the land. Without the protection of the Abbot's presence, the plants are wilting. The same is probably happening to the plants in the village below.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

16 + 1

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: "Henry, we may have screwed up removing the Abbot from play."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (just to make sure Henry is on the same page)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark, Kasimir, and Rictavio, meanwhile, sneak into the eastern wing and slip past the lumbering flesh golem in that long main hallway and make their way upstairs.

Able takes a breath and clenches his rod (no not that one), and once again its eye closes as he casts Detect Magic

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I fear you may be right"

Hiere Unthere: *Hiere

Marcus Veranius: "I hadn't considered what his presence was doing for the town, only how it had potential to meddle in our war against Strahd."

"BOTH settlements are now in danger of starving out."

Vasilka and the goat catch up a moment later. Henry notices that every plant within 60' of her seems to become green and healthy again.

Marcus Veranius turns his attention to Vasilika as she enters, then back to Henry. He hated being right.

Marcus, naturally, also notices this.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's frown deepens

"I hate this wretched place" Henry murmurs

Marcus Veranius: "All of Yester Hill and the nearby forest regrew with but a single blessing to the earth. Think on it."

(To Able): Hieres senses powerful conjuration magic in a potential form. At the same time, as he grips his scepter, he senses that the item inside the bottle is a scroll.

Marcus Veranius: "MR GOAT of... unquestionably long title. Does he normally eat here?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus I may have taken a couple hits to the head in my time but even my memory isn't that bad" Henry says with undeserved vitriol before taking a breath

There is a pulse of light from the upper windows of the eastern wing of the Abbey. Only Marcus and Henry see it.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Hold that thought."

Hieres Unthere: Hieres grabs the bottle with the scroll and a normal bottle of wine, heading back upstairs.

(To Suldae Westwind): Make a performance check, please

Hieres Unthere: "sup"

Suldae Westwind:

19

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's hand wavers to the dagger on the small of his blade in a no-chalant manner "Holding" wonders

There is another pulse of light, this one piercing, flickering blue-white. A sound like thunder rattles the windows.

Marcus Veranius ducks behind a wall, shifting into bird form so as to inspect the window closer

A window opens, allowing a billow of steam to emerge. Ismark pokes his head out.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Don't worry! Hospital wing is haunted. Kasimir took care of it."

Marcus Veranius squawks, then returns to the ground

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Light have mercy for all" Henry says tension leaving his body
He moves to the center of the garden

Suldae hears soft footsteps in the floor above hers, and realizes a moment later that they are dancing slowly and clumsily to the sound of her melody.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shifts the melody to be slower, so whoever it is has an easier time matching the beat.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry begins to speak in Sylvan "Milady if you have an idea I believe now would be the time to share for I'm at a loss"

Strahd von Zarovich:

Scrying*Divination 5Casting Time: 10 minutesRange: SelfComponents: V, S, M (A focus worth at least 1,000 gp, such as a crystal ball, a silver mirror, or a font filled with holy water)Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You can see and hear a particular creature you choose that is on the same plane of existence as you. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw, which is modified by how well you know the target and the sort of physical connection you have to it. If a target knows you're casting this spell, it can fail the saving throw voluntarily if it wants to be observed.

Knowledge - Save Modifier

Secondhand (you have heard of the target) - +5

Firsthand (you have met the target) +0

Familiar (you know the target well) - -5

Connection - Save Modifier

Likeness or picture - -2

Possession or garment - -4

Body part, lock of hair, bit of nail, or the like - -10

On a successful save, the target isn't affected, and you can't use this spell against it again for 24 hours.

On a failed save, the spell creates an invisible sensor within 10 feet of the target. You can see and hear through the sensor as if you were there. The sensor moves with the target, remaining within 10 feet of it for the duration. A creature that can see invisible objects sees the sensor as a luminous orb about the size of your fist.

Instead of targeting a creature, you can choose a location you have seen before as the target of this spell. When you do, the sensor appears at that location and doesn't move.

Ireena Kolyana:*10

WISDOM SAVE (2)

Hiere Unthere: (Does it set off Hiere's detect magic?)

The dancing feet seem almost grateful for the change of pace, and their movement becomes much more even and steady.

Ireena Kolyana: "Sounds like you're charming somebody," says Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: "I'm certainly trying," Suldae murmurs to her.

GM: (Yes, Hiere would sense divination magic in use but not the specific form)
(He would be able to sense the level of the spell)

Suldae Westwind: Who needs magic for charming people, after all?

Vasilka: "Hmm? I'm sorry, were you talking to me? I couldn't hear you over the plants."
"So many little voices!" Vasilka giggles.

Hiere Unthere: "Someone's spying on us!"

Marcus Veranius takes a moment to detect undead, knowing full well what results are going to come up in regards to their guest construct

Hiere Unthere: (would counter spell work?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sits bolt upright. "I wonder who," she says in a deadpan voice. "Ireena, can you -?.."

GM: (You'd have to see the creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell)

Suldae Westwind: She is still playing. Less of her attention is on the melody now, but she's skilled enough it doesn't have an actual impact.

GM: (Scrying spells do generate a quasi-object that can be destroyed by dispel magic)
(And there are spells which can block divination spells from working or continuing to work)

Hiere Unthere: (don't have dispel so I was trying my luck there)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Tilting his head Henry works over the beginnings of an Idea 'Well might aswell try' "Silka could you come over here"

Ismark, Kasimir, and Rictavio emerge from the eastern wing of the Abbey and catch up to Marcus, Vasilka, and Henry in the garden.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well, that was a waste of time. Nothing in the upstairs but nightmares and bad memories."

Marcus Veranius: (Vasilika still rings as undead to Marcus, right?)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Little bits of hell..."

Marcus senses two undead presences: Vasilka and Ismark. He also senses a third very large undead presence within the eastern wing of the abbey — the other flesh golem. He does not currently sense any other undead within the radius of his sense.

Marcus Veranius: ...

Wait

They only had one seed; how were there two golems?

Marcus Veranius suddenly gets an idea

Ireena Kolyana: "We know who!" Ireena says, and she casts Private Sanctum.

Private Sanctum

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 10 minutes

Range: 120 feet

Target: An area within range

Components: V, S, M (A thin sheet of lead, a piece of opaque glass, a wad of cotton or cloth, and powdered chrysolite)

Duration: 24 hours

You make an area within range magically secure. The area is a cube that can be as small as 5 feet to as large as 100 feet on each side. The spell lasts for the duration or until you use an action to dismiss it. When you cast the spell, you decide what sort of security the spell provides, choosing any or all of the following properties: Sound can't pass through the barrier at the edge of the warded area. The barrier of the warded area appears dark and foggy, preventing vision (including darkvision) through it. Sensors created by divination spells can't appear inside the protected area or pass through the barrier at its perimeter. Creatures in the area can't be targeted by divination spells. Nothing can teleport into or out of the warded area. Planar travel is blocked within the warded area. Casting this spell on the same spot every day for a year makes this effect permanent. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, you can increase the size of the cube by 100 feet for each slot level beyond 4th. Thus you could protect a cube that can be up to 200 feet on one side by using a spell slot of 5th level.

Marcus Veranius: "Vasilika! I don't mean to pry too much as to your person. Assuming you were to break an arm or the like; would it be easy to replace it with a new one?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "..." Henry turns to Marcus eyes wide to befuddled to glare

Vasilka: "No no, I would miss it dearly."

"I am very fond of these arms," says Vasilka. "They are much better than my old ones."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir raises an eyebrow.

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "I mean strictly in theory. If you absolutely HAD to have something replaced. It would be possible with a similar spare?"

Hiere feels the divination spell break as Ireena's Private Sanctum takes hold on 100 cubic feet of space, which encompasses half the abbey.

Marcus Veranius turns an eye to Henry, hoping he'd catch on Vasilka: "Well, if somebody knew how to do it, I suppose... Because someone did it for me once already."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry now stares at his friend bewildered

Suldae Westwind: Suldae relaxes as Ireena casts the spell, and focuses on her music again, this time adding her voice to it.

It's an old and beloved ballad, and her voice is just loud enough that whoever's upstairs should be able to hear it, but not make out the words.

Marcus Veranius: "Well before we leave the abbey, it might be worth checking if there are any spare parts we can take with us."

Suldae Westwind: She hopes her singing is lovely enough to lure them down.

Marcus Veranius: "In case we might have a NEED of one."

Suldae Westwind: She also gestures for Hiere to either go downstairs or come up to the table with them.

Suldae hears a rough voice following along as though it knows the tune. The lyrics sound a bit different.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He approaches Marcus quickly to ask him in a whisper "What in the Nine Hells and the depthless abyss are you on about?"

Marcus Veranius whispers back. "The abbot has a second golem that doesn't require a seed to animate. We may yet spare both land and girl if we are clever."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts singign louder then, matching the different lyrics as best she can. The song is slow, so it's not too hard.

Suldae hears the singer stop singing, but as she continues to play, she begins to hear the dulcet tones of a viol. The music grows bolder in the comfort of her own playing, and soon begins to generate flurries and waves of breathtaking emotion. The player, whoever they are, is clearly very talented.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry works his jaw for a moment "I fear the seed and the girl are linked to deeply for that to work" he whispers again "It is not Vasilika and the Lady Dryad it is only Vasilika"

Suldae Westwind: "I think I'm making a friend," she shares with Ireena quietly.

Hiere Unthere: "It's the crab man"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Removing the heart might end her entirely" Henry says quietly

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena grips Suldae's arm as she plays and gently joins her voice to the song.

The viol player startles at the addition of Ireena's voice.

A moment later it is back in swing, and enjoying itself — but now cautiously.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae keeps playing and singing, delighting in the sensation.

Marcus Veranius takes a step to the side away from Vasilika, hoping to not be heard.

Suldae Westwind: She allows herself to be lost in the music and in Ireena's voice, for the moment.

Mechanical form is taking precedence over talent and intuition. The playing becomes very correct, and loses much of its idiosyncratic emotionality.

Marcus Veranius: "If that is true and you are not willing to find an alternative, then you need to make a really hard decision very quickly.. Because I am not about to allow two settlements to fall for one person."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I might have something" Henry says those raw

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gestures at Hiere to do something helpful.

She continues to lend her voice to Suldae's performance, granting her advantage on this next performance check.

Marcus Veranius: "Oh! You know what, I almost forgot about the dowry for my wedding! Do excuse me; I wouldn't want to keep Rictavio waiting."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Taking a moment to compose himself Henry turns to Vasilika

Marcus Veranius makes his excuse to leave Henry alone

Suldae Westwind:

15

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

15

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

(FOR REAL?!)

Alas, Suldae is too lost in the song and being together to truly pay attention to the friend upstairs.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere pulls out the scroll from the bottle, and attempts to read it.

(As in understand what it does not cast from it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Walking her into the center of the garden Henry begins to speak "Vasilika look around you what do you"

Marcus Veranius leans against the wall, upset with the current options in play. He hasn't made a single comment about the dowry, and doesn't particularly care to ask

Marcus Veranius: "...is it too late for our honeymoon at the Amber Temple?"

"Somehow that's looking more and more appealing by the moment."

Rictavio: "Ah, yes, that reminds me," says Rictavio, patting his pockets. He finds the folded envelope in his breast pocket. "I have gifts for both of you," he says. "For you, Marcus, a dowry fit for a daughter of mine."

He hands an envelope to Marcus.

Turning to Ezmerelda, he says: "My dear, it has been a privilege to be your teacher, and whatever our disagreements in the past, I want you to know that I am proud of you. This ring once belonged to my wife. I think she would have liked you very much. I had it enchanted not long ago, and it will now serve you better than me. I intend to retire once this is all over."

Rictavio hands Ezmerelda the Ring of Mind Shielding.

Hiere determines that the spell scroll is one of Heroes' Feast.

Vasilka: "What do I...?"

Marcus Veranius pauses his sulking to take a closer look at the letter. "Oh, thank you! I am honored."

Marcus Veranius carefully opens the envelope

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anything, just tell me what you see"

Hiere also estimates that the roughly bowl-shaped golden sun wall hanging happens to be a gem-encrusted bowl worth at least 1,000 gp.

Hiere Unthere takes a second to add the scroll of Hiereos Feast to his inventory

Vasilka: "I see you," she says. "And the goat, and the plants, and the stars, and the wall, and the cliffs... And the village, and the forest, and the snow. It is a beautiful evening."

"Why? What do you need me to see?"

The Envelope contains 50 platinum coins.

Hiere Unthere resists the temptation... for now

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how big was the plant aura around her again?)

GM: (60' radius)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do you notice a difference between the plants in this garden and the ones outside"

Inside the envelope with the 50 platinum pieces is a scrap of damp parchment that seems to have writing on it, between the stains.

Marcus Veranius blinks in surprise. This is a rather large sum of money.

Vasilka: "Yes," says Vasilka. "The forest seems healthy, and the trees there are happy. In the village, though, they seem to moan. I can hear their pain on the wind. Something is wrong, I think."

Marcus Veranius: He gently unfolds the parchment, curious as to the message

Vasilka: "It is lucky we are in such a holy place, to be protected from what hurts them."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wouldn't you want to help the ones in Village?" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: (50 platinum is probably enough money to replace a wagon with alchemist fire roofing)

The message reads: "~~Dear Rictavio~~, Marcus, this parchment is stained with the blood of my wife. It is the blank page of the last letter she ever wrote to me, which I plucked from the hand of her corpse when I found her. Only that phrase: 'Dear Rictavio' remains of her. I suppose what I mean to say is: Don't Fuck It Up. There may come a day when all you have left is a scrap of handwriting, so enjoy the time you have and take none of it for granted. Take my advice, and get out of the hero business the first safe chance you get. Save this money until then, or for a rainy day. Start a business, maybe."

Vasilka: "Of course I would want to help them," says Vasilka.

"How can I do so?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lets his power flow out of himself "You can feel this right?"

Meanwhile, Suldae's playing companion gradually begins to grow more confident at the relaxed tones of Suldae and Ireena, and the sound of the viol shifts slowly into something divine and alive and manically passionate.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows now, instead of setting the melody.

Ireena Kolyana: "We can't play here all night," sings Ireena, at the part of the song in which one usually sings that. However, as she sings it this time, she makes eyebrows at Hiere.

Marcus Veranius stares at the letter, a grim expression on his face. A tear forms as he wordlessly nods.

Marcus Veranius: There isn't anything witty he can say about this.

Vasilka: Though there is no wind tonight, Vasilka's hair and gown ruffle as though a breeze has moved over them. "Like a warm wind," she says.

Marcus Veranius: Ric was right. He never really was the hero-type anyways. Just a shoemaker in extremely odd circumstances.

Kasimir Velikov: Turning to Rictavio and Ismark, Kasimir says:

"What are we going to do about the other flesh golem?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "At the moment it's the only thing guarding those things and keeping them inside," says Ismark.

"Seems pretty docile to me, too."

Kasimir Velikov: "You have never seen violence until you have seen a flesh golem in its final frenzy," says Kasimir.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere shrugs in a lack of musical talent

Marcus Veranius: "I uhh... suppose we could wrap that up real quick before we go."

Hiere Unthere: He offers Ireena a bottle of wine.

Kasimir Velikov: "Docile he may seem, but what if the villagers decide to prod him experimentally with torches and pitchforks?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena jerks her head towards the ceiling hintingly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I want you to try and do what I am doing right now" Henry says if what he was thinking was right it should be possible with the only difference being one of scale. Henry was channeling Natures power but Vasilika, she would be a spring.

Vasilka: Vasilka gently takes Henry's hand and watches him as he casts, for a time.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere puts down the bottle of wine in front of her just in case, and heads towards the staircase leading upstairs.

Vasilka: She closes her eyes, and thinks deeply.

She opens her eyes and their emerald irises flare with inner light.

A warm wind moves over the village and ripples through the trees.

Marcus Veranius: "Arguably speaking, the flesh golem is probably last on the pitchfork list if it comes to that."

"Plenty of other frightening things before its chambers."

Suldae, Ireena, Ismark, Kasimir, Hiere, and Ezmerelda sense arcane lines of incredible power stretching suddenly across the western portion of Barovia in a net of power.

Marcus feels a prickling sensation crawl up his spine and into his scalp.

Goat: "Baaah."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shudders, whilst he may harbor a deep wellspring of power compared to this... compared to her he was but a rain drop to an ocean

Marcus Veranius looks up nervously

Hiere sees that the wooden stairs climb twenty feet to a loft with a pitched roof and a door in the center of the south wall. Unlit lanterns hang from the rafters, and a rope dangles from a bronze bell lodged in the belfry thirty feet overhead. The room is filled with the sound of beautiful music—a melody so enchanting that it adds a bit of much-needed warmth to the otherwise freezing room.

Marcus Veranius turns inwards again, attempting to sense undead

Hiere sees a black shroud covering a humanoid shape lying on a wooden table nearby. The music does nothing to stir it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How are you felling Silika" Henry asks gently taking her hand

Hiere also sees a cot heaped with furs resting in the northeast corner, surrounded by empty wine bottles. An oil lamp burns atop a table nearby, silhouetting a squat creature that has two heads. It sits on the edge of the cot with a viol between its legs. With a crustacean, clawlike appendage, it grasps the neck of the instrument while running a bow gently across its strings with its human hand. Needles, thread, saws, and other tools lie on a small table in the northwest corner.

Marcus senses the same undead he did previously, with no additions or surprises.

Marcus Veranius: "...something's going on. It doesn't have the telltale signs of Strahd, but..."

Vasilka: Vasilka's voice is different: deeper, more distant, stronger. "We are connected now," she says.
She looks at Henry. "I see the sisters."
"I remember what I was..."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere carefully takes a few steps forward, to make his presence known to the crab man but not wanting to interrupt it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods slowly

Vasilka spreads her arms and unleashes something like a thousand swarming winds. "The long wait in hiding is over," she says. "We have chosen our champions, and our fate now rides with theirs. The time for hiding is ended; the time for war is at hand."

Hiere Unthere: (quick offer her a snickers)

All magic casters sense a powerful fey magic has just been unleashed on the western half of Barovia.

The trees around Krezk sigh audibly. The trees of the village far below rustle, fresh and green and some even blooming.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a ragged breath air burning his lungs 'When had I stopped breathing?' he wondered as the magic floods his senses

Clovin Belview: The little man Hiere sees stands 4 feet, 7 inches tall and has a barrel-like shape. His right head is fully formed and combines the features of a patchy-haired man with those of a goat, complete with stubby horns. His left head is about half normal size and has a soft, cherubic face partly covered with crocodilian hide. He has a crab's pincer in place of his left hand and a bear's paw where his right foot should be. He wears an ill-fitting monk's robe with a belt made of hempen rope.

The man continues to play. His eyes are closed and he is swaying slightly. He appears to be very drunk.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere sighs and heads back downstairs to tell the other two.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "So... What is our plan, then? For the other flesh golem?"
"Do we kill it?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'd be in favor of it. But..."

Marcus Veranius considers

Marcus Veranius: "...I'll defer judgment to the others for now.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sings: "What did you find, on your joooooourney?"

Marcus Veranius: (I still don't know the whole situation and will defer judgment for those here day 1)

Marcus Veranius starts sorting through his good arrows, just in case

Hiere Unthere: Hiere points at her and casts message in order to not embarrass himself trying to sing. 'there's a very drunk two-headed man with animal body parts playing the viol.'

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands up. Her guitar has straps, of course, for her to play while standing, and so she is still playing as she goes to the staircase.

Hiere came back without the other person stopping playing, so she figures she might as well take a look.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere points at her next, 'don't be shocked'

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods as she goes upstairs.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry keeps taking consciously deep breaths to gather himself mind drifting to memories long past when he first held a spear refusing to let himself drown in the flows of power 'Champion not Servant' he reminds himself. Breath and mind steady once more he looks in Vasilikas eyes "So I'll just assume that that call to war was not an invitation to throw caution to the wind and heroicly charge at Him"

Vasilka: "We have sealed fully half of Barovia from his power. Western Barovia is saved. Have no doubt that he will seek to assail us, and that the worst of his power has not yet been witnessed."

Vasilka takes Henry's hands. "Without you, none of this would be possible. Because of you, Sylvanus has claimed half this demiplane. He has claimed the lost souls here, and the feywild will soon be able to breach the walls of this accursed demiplane."

"Strahd cannot allow that," says Vasilka. "And so he will be drawn out."

Suldae is able to enter the chamber and get within five feet of the two-headed man without him noticing. He is completely enraptured by the music. His smaller head appears to be sound asleep.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He'll do away with the lie that we are no threat to him now and sallie out in full force to end us" Henry says taking in the atmosphere

Suldae Westwind: She studies him as she slowly winds the music down into a lullaby. Probably not the best choice, but at least he should be calm afterwards, right?

Vasilka: "No," says Vasilka. "He will go to the Amber Temple, to ensure that the Feywild cannot bar him from it, and to fortify it. Then he will come for targets that will draw you out to face him on his terms. Unless, of course, you change the terms of engagement by a clever stratagem."

The two-headed man's playing falters slightly and his swaying becomes markedly more wild.

Quite suddenly, he slumps over in the bed with a crunch, crushing the neck of his viol. He rolls over, smacking his lips, to get into a position that smothers neither of his strange heads. Several wine bottles shift and clack as he moves. He begins to snore heavily.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces at the sound, and starts with Mending the viol and clearing away the bottles.

"Come here!" she calls downstairs.

"We've got... someone not running away at least."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena comes upstairs. "Oh,"
She approaches the unconscious man.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae points out the bottles she'd put in a corner.

Ireena Kolyana: "What do we do with him?" Ireena asks.

"Should we put him somewhere we can get to him easily later? Somewhere he can't run away?"

Suldae Westwind: "...we could just wake him up."

"Without being evil about it."

"Admittedly that's a bit of a contradiction in terms..."

"In this situation..."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere also does that. "He didn't seem to be causing any trouble. And he's pissed."

"like"

"really pissed"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's strange that he's allowed to be out, when all the others are locked up in cages or tied to posts in the yard."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers whether her healing can make someone less drunk.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry says rolling his shoulders and cracking his neck "Well I'll better tell the others now"

Suldae Westwind: "It's based on sentience."

"Self-control?"

"That."

"He could sing, I assume he can hold a conversation."

Hiere Unthere: "Can't Henry help with the alcohol? We should go look for him, especially with the fey magic that just went up."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Looks like Henry's done with Vasilka," says Ismark, tapping Kasimir on the arm.

Ezmerelda Veranius is admiring her ring.

Marcus Veranius shakes himself up from deep thought.

Marcus Veranius: "...is it done then?"

Rictavio: "We should regroup with the others and see what they've found out," says Rictavio.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves to regroup with the others "I have news for you my friends"
Henry says with a grin

Suldae Westwind: "...Ireena, I think you're the one of us most capable of carrying him," Suldae shares her realization as she beholds Hiere's noodle arms.

Ireena Kolyana: "I can use floating disc," says Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: She plays a quick tune of Prestidigitation to clean the guy first, just in case.

"Or that."

"Yay for magic!"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena casts Floating Disc. Then, very gingerly, she drags the unconscious man onto it.

Hiere Unthere: "Where are we taking the poor fellow?"

Marcus Veranius: "Is it good news? Cause right now all I feel is a sense of dread."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Right, where do we want him?"

 Suldae Westwind: "...The others went to the gardens, right?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'd rather not explain it twice but yeah I believe you will like the news"

 Suldae Westwind: (Fun question! Could Suldae feel that happening? Did the Private Sanctum block the effect?)

 Hiere Unthere: (PS only blocked div magic)

 Suldae Westwind: (yes but the idea of Suldae feeling that is nebulous in the first place so I'm covering my bases)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "So let's go and get the others" Henry says moving back to the Abbey proper

GM: (The PS did not block the effects of the spell, so Suldae did feel it too)

 Suldae Westwind: "I think there's a story to hear once we find them."

 Vasilka: Vasilka remains in the garden, staring out toward the eastern horizon, where dark clouds grumble.

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark, Kasimir, and Rictavio follow Henry.

 Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda walks arm-in-arm with Marcus.

 Goat: The Goat follows, chewing his cud thoughtfully.

 Ireena Kolyana: "We're up here!" Ireena shouts.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry enters "Okay what did you find? Beacuse what I found might take a bit to explain so I'll wait"

 Hiere Unthere: Hiere points at the dude.

 Suldae Westwind: "We played music for a while and then he fell asleep," Suldae summarizes.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anything besides that?"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark looks at the tools in the corner and at the slab covered in black cloth.
He approaches the black shrouded figure, and lifts a corner of the blanket.
Despite the paleness of his undead skin, he grows even paler and his eyes widen.
"Hey, um," says Ismark.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm? You okay Ismark?" Henry says moving over to him

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Tell me what you see," he says, and he draws back the shroud.

Henry sees: beneath the shroud lies a creature made of stitched-together body parts. He recognizes some of them as his own.

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks.

Suldae notes several of her own body parts stitched into the strange body as well.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena leans over Suldae's shoulder to look.
"Well, that can't be right."

 Suldae Westwind: "...I concur."

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir takes a peek. "Fascinating."

 Suldae Westwind: "Is that my-?..."
"Why?"

Marcus Veranius blinks

Hiere Unthere does not look

Marcus Veranius checks if any pieces of himself are present

Hiere Unthere: "What is it?"

Marcus sees that several are. He also sees pieces of Ezmerelda.

Marcus Veranius: "This... must be the flesh golem?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at the body for a while.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Light everburning" Henry groans out "Some please tell me what in all planes are we looking at?"

Ireena Kolyana: She begins to cast a spell which may take a few minutes.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Kasimir Velikov: "My best guess would be an illusion of some kind," says Kasimir. "Unless it's some kind of dark omen of heaven's curse upon us for the slaying of an angel."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Can't be that, we didn't kill him."

Suldae Westwind: "...We did kind of tangentially cause it to happen."

Kasimir Velikov: "The gods are not known for looking kindly upon technicalities," says Kasimir.

Suldae Westwind: "In a way that, if not entirely deliberate, can be described as wiffully negligent."

Marcus Veranius: "I have a theory. Kasimir; do you recognize any of this as yourself?"
"Perhaps the abbot simply made a golem of people he met."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Did someone check the halo since we got back by the by?" henry asks to distract himself

Marcus Veranius: "...some replication of us."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir peers at the golem. "I do," he says. "He has my ears."

To Marcus's eyes, he does not.

Kasimir Velikov: "That is, the ears I used to have."

 Marcus Veranius: "No he doesnt, if my eyes are right."

The golem's ears do not look pointed to anyone else.

 Marcus Veranius: "And you haven't had proper ears in hundreds of years, right? No offense."
"Then this has to be the work of some illusion."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Only mild offense taken<
"Yes, an illusion seems likely."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a look again "I take it you all don't see me sized muscles on it right?"

It becomes clear that the golem looks different to every person in the room.

 Rictavio: "Well, is it animated?" Rictavio asks.

 Marcus Veranius: Marcus does not sense an undead presence from it.

GM: (Whoops, sorry)

 Marcus Veranius: "Wait... this isn't the flesh golem?"
"I have no idea what this is."

 Kasimir Velikov: "No, that's in the other wing."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out. An illusion is a much less creepy problem.

 Kasimir Velikov: "This looks to be a flesh golem in the process of being assembled."
"I must say it looks noticeably less well-designed than Vasilka."

 Suldae Westwind: Where is Vasilika?

 Hiere Unthere: "Wait, does it have a chest?"

GM: (She stayed in the garden)

 Suldae Westwind: "Where is Vasilika?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "In the gardens still I'll explain why in a moment"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "It seems like the hauntings we encountered in the other wing," says Ismark.
"Like that nun, and the screaming table."

 Suldae Westwind: "...the screaming table?"

 Rictavio: "And the Shadows," says Rictavio. "It could be a lingering echo of the sins of a heavenly being."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Screaming surgery table, yeah," says Ismark.

 Suldae Westwind: "That's definitely a more pleasant explanation," Suldae notes, deadpan.

"...Ah. Surgery table. Well that tracks."

Kasimir Velikov: "This place is nightmarish," says Kasimir.

Marcus Veranius: "Well Henry, what's the good news then?"

Rictavio: "To reiterate, however, it does not seem to be animated?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So why is it enchanted then ? Just to fuck with people? Or is it meant to hide something?"

Rictavio: "Perhaps we should ensure that it cannot be animated."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to explain what happend in the garden and what Vasilika had told him "...and thats it"

Ireena Kolyana: "And what do we want to do with the other flesh golem? Since we're all here."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius does NOT take the news well

Suldae Westwind: "...Wasn't it doing something useful?"

Marcus Veranius: "We can't do ANYTHING about the golems."

"In fact, we can't even arrange a peace treaty between the abbey and Kresk"

Suldae Westwind: "Why?"

Marcus Veranius: "The prophecies if you remember."

"Tools to best Strahd. Most are already secured in his castle."

"There is exactly ONE not in his grasp, and it's in the Amber Temple."

"If he gets it before we can, that's it. He's won."

Suldae Westwind: "Okay. Actually, can we leave this all to Vasilika? From your description she seems to have it all well in hand."

"While we go to the Amber temple."

"Uh, right now immediately, hopefully beating Strahd to it."

Marcus Veranius: "We simply have to. Strahd has no horse or dragon. We are even matched in speed, and the temple is possibly on our side of Barovia?"

"If we head STRAIGHT THERE IMMEDIATELY, we might beat Strahd."

"But it gives us almost no time."

Rictavio: "I hesitate to believe that we are even matched in speed with Strahd," says Rictavio thoughtfully.

"I think we should prepare to face him at the Amber Temple, if necessary. And it's possible he does not know about the prophecy, or about the item we require."

Marcus Veranius: "He had to rely on a Dragon before, now he doesn't have acess to it."

Rictavio: "He teleported a small army to the village during the battle of Vallaki," says Rictavio.

"There is no reason to think he will not do the same thing in this instance, if he really does want to defend his prize."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Actually, question: what is at the Amber Temple that's so important to Strahd?"

 Marcus Veranius frowns. *There is the very real possibility all the effort and sacrifice to hinder Strahd's movement was for nothing.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Isn't it where he got his power?"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "It is where he made his pact, yeah," says Ismark.

 Rictavio: Rictavio strokes his goatee thoughtfully.

 Suldae Westwind: "It might take him some time to figure out he wants to go there, maybe," Suldae suggests.

"Anyway, of course he can already be there."

 Marcus Veranius: "Prophecy is that a Sword of Sunlight is in its depths."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, that bites."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Then we go now"

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Are we sure he knows it's there?"

"Wouldn't he have gone and retrieved it before now, if he knew where it was?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Aside from his castle, that seems like the deepest, most hard to reach spot in all of Barovia."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus show me the map please"

 Marcus Veranius: "If not Strahd, then who else?"

 Marcus Veranius opens the map

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "There we are," says Ezmerelda, pointing to Krezk.
"And that's the Amber Temple."

 Marcus Veranius: (ARROWS REEEEE)

 Suldae Westwind: "I love being able to fly," Suldae comments. "I think we should leave the horses behind for this one, alas."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches through his power asking 'Can Strahd be stalled from reaching the Temple ?

 Marcus Veranius *folds the map in half, and marks the division of Fae Barovia and Strahd Barovia

 Marcus Veranius: "...right, so the Amber Temple IS in our half."

Dryad: Emissaries are already on their way to the Temple.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: 'his or ours?' Henry asks

 Ireena Kolyana: "But it's also in a blighted wasteland, on a mountain."

"The trees will have to walk there," says Ireena. She realizes how insane that sounds a moment after she says it.

"We should clarify what kinds of protections the Dryads are actually offering, too," says Ireena.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't know what magics Strahd has available to teleport, but in terms of straight distance we are about even. And half of his route is in uncontrolled territory."

"If he cannot teleport, we may get there first. If he can, he gets there first."

Kasimir Velikov: "Perhaps, before rushing to the temple, it would be wise to acquire one more ally?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Trying to already" Henry remarks "How long do we need ?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Say, a wizard one of us sensed?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If we knew we had time for it sure but we don't"

Marcus Veranius: "The longer we wait, the more defenses we'll likely face."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Again how much time do we need to get to the Temple in a way where we won't embarrass ourselves once we get there"

Suldae Westwind: "...Is that last part necessary? Because I might have bad news about the feasibility there."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean how fast can we get there without wasting resources we need there"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena finally finishes casting her spell and reaches out to cast it on the half-assembled flesh golem.

She gasps in shock as the golem disappears.

"Illusion," she says. "But the reality is a little grim anyway."

Marcus Veranius does some calculations

What truly lies atop the table are chopped-up body parts, all of them taken from cold, gray, lifeless women, all of them waiting to be stitched together into something horrid. These leftovers must be from bodies plundered from graves in Krezk.

Marcus Veranius: "Nine miles. If we go as fast as possible, that's two hours and a quarter."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anything we absolutely need before heading out?2

"

Marcus Veranius: "No. I don't believe so."

"The wizard, where is he?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Mount Baratok"

Marcus Veranius: "On Strahd's side of Barovia?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wrong Direction aswell"

Marcus Veranius: "Impossible. We'd take three hours to get there, then however many to find the wizard and POSSIBLY gain his help. Then three hours more. Plus however many wasted by Strahd's minions trying to stop us on his turf."

Suldae Westwind: "Isn't it on our side?"

Marcus Veranius: "Two hours, or two days."

Suldae Westwind: "And not too far away?"

Marcus Veranius: "By the time we find this wizard, Strahd will certainly have turned the Amber Temple into a fortress."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns at he map.

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, before we leave, we should at least make sure the situation here is under control. And I still think we should clarify what the Dryads mean by 'protection.'"

Suldae Westwind: "...Ah. There it is."

"Yeah."

Marcus Veranius: "If we head straight to the temple, we have maybe light reinforcements if any. If we head to this wizard, we deal with both the temple and Strahd's defenses."

"I hate to say it but we have no choice here."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry scratches the back of his head "You're right Ireena we probably should" he lets out a sigh "I really went and kicked us the hornets nest there didn't I?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "...I would not say you're the problem her, Henry."

Marcus Veranius: "UNLESS..."

Ireena Kolyana: "On the bright side, at least the crops aren't dead."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is definitely not looking at anyone in particular.

"Yep, that's the good part."

Marcus Veranius: "There IS a third option. But it is incredibly risky."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "A party split?"

Hiere Unthere: "Don't say it"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "That's never a good idea."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ezme if he suggest it may i liberate some of his teeth?"

Kasimir Velikov: "It worked well enough just a moment ago," says Kasimir.

Marcus Veranius: "IT'S NOT A PARTY SPLIT!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We were all in shouting distance" Henry says flatly looking at Kasimir

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh thank god," says Ireena. "I mean thank gods. I was holding my breath there."

Marcus Veranius: "One prophecy of Strahd's bane is in the Amber Temple. Two are in his castle. And it may possibly require his full attention to reinforce the temple against us."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I do not like where this is going..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Kiss me you stupid sexy genius. I've always wanted to pillage a castle."

Suldae Westwind: "...that's if he goes to the Amber Temple personally."

Hiere Unthere: "Marcus I fear your free trial to your teeth is ending"

Suldae Westwind: "But you say Vasilika sounded confident..."

Marcus Veranius: "Pillage the castle while it's master is away."

Suldae Westwind: "...this is a good idea. Probably. Maybe."

Marcus Veranius: "It's risky."

Suldae Westwind: "We might not all die."

Ireena Kolyana: "It's damned risky," says Ireena. "What if he anticipates it?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sounds hopeful and excited.

Marcus Veranius: "He very well might."

Kasimir Velikov: "Whether he anticipates it or not, the castle will not be entirely unoccupied," says Kasimir. "And it is certain to be protected by many enchantments and deadly booby traps."

Suldae Westwind: "He hasn't been able to anticipate all the stupid shit we've done so far, or if he has, he sure hasn't shown it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around for anything alcoholic

Kasimir Velikov: "It will require all our skill. And we will be working with limited time."

Marcus Veranius: "A fight at the Amber Temple is on no one's turf. Castle Ravenloft and his lands are Strahd's entirely."

"But the option is there."]

Suldae Westwind: "Obviously he won't leave the castle unprotected, yeah."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere grabs the bottle of wine off the table and uncorks it.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "But he's not going to go and fortify the Temple alone, either!" Says Ismark.

Suldae Westwind: "...Consider me to have no leaning in either direction."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "This way, his forces are the ones being split."

Marcus Veranius: "Now is our best chance to lay siege to either. But we cannot let Strahd control both."

"So whatever happens, we need to secure one or the other."

"No secondary targets."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the bottle from Hiere takes a look at the contents before taking a big swig

Hiere Unthere: "Knew we would need this."

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't like this," Ireena says. "We're talking about going right into his lair!"
"What if he comes home while we're still inside?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your wisdom truly is without peer" Henry says drily setting the bottle down

Marcus Veranius: "Then we are, for lack of a better word, fucked."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We pop some really big alchemist's fire on his head," says Ismark, "And beat him to death."

Suldae Westwind: "...Isn't Mount Baratok on the way to the castle?"

Marcus Veranius: "Not at all."

Suldae Westwind: "And if we choose the castle, don't we benefit by giving Strahd a little extra time to vacate it?"

Rictavio: "Mount Baratok is north of the castle," says Rictavio. "By several miles."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd means to put us on the defensive. We have time for exactly ONE target."

Suldae Westwind: "...Well, not on the way, exactly. But largely in the same direction."
"Do we really?"

Marcus Veranius: "We don't even have time for this discussion."

Suldae Westwind: "Wouldn't it increase our chances quite a bit to secure another ally?"

Marcus Veranius: "If I'm being frank, this wizard is a wildcard."

Suldae Westwind: "Fine," Suldae shrugs and goes silent.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "It might be nice to have another wildcard in our hand, love," says Ezmerelda.

Suldae Westwind: She is not happy at Marcus's dismissal of the discussion as a whole.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not a gambling man, but we can always beseech the wizard if and when one of our two sieges has failed."

Suldae Westwind: "Assuming we're alive," Suldae notes, incapable of staying quite at this bout of stupidity.

Marcus Veranius: "But I don't see it playing out well if we gamble an opening strike for one more man."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Nothing speaks against looking for him after, atleast nothing yet"

Suldae Westwind: "I don't understand what the rush is on besieging the castle."

Marcus Veranius: "Because we have a VEEEEEEERY small window if Strahd is actively laying siege on the Amber Temple!"

"Literally hours."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Castle's a bad idea in my book"

Marcus Veranius: "That's all we have. Hours."

"Not even a handful."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'd say we head to the Temple and after that we trek north for our magic man"

Marcus Veranius nods in agreement

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd has everything to gain. If we cannot gain in equal measure then we are in serious danger."

Rictavio: "I admire the boldness of this strategy," says Rictavio, musing, "However, I think that our first priority really must be to ensure our own safety. If Strahd has two of the three artifacts necessary to defeat him, him securing the third does not change our situation much. This does seem like the perfect opening to get into his fortress while he is away, but I think it is far, far more dangerous than you are considering it to be. It will too easily become a deathtrap."

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, limited time until WHAT?"

Rictavio: "Our best move might be to make defensive preparations and build up our base of power. Which would include getting that ironwood tree and the wizard."

Suldae Westwind: "We have limited time until we can no longer effectively besiege Amber Temple, perhaps, but Strahd cannot literally be both places at the same time."

Marcus Veranius: "What defense will stop Strahd?"

Suldae Westwind: "If he's there he's not at the castle and vice versa."

"That's the point."

"That's what we're taking advantage of."

"We don't have the same time limit for both."

Marcus Veranius: "We've spent the past days securing the Dryad Seeds, and even then its felt like months."

"And is that stopping Strahd from assailing a ruins within their borders?"

"No."

"No it's not."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sorry what?)

(like I literally have no Idea what you just said btw)

Marcus Veranius: "We fought hard to get these dryad seeds. We fought Baba Lysaga, the druids of Yester Hill, and even the corrupted angel of Heaven Itself."

"None of that is stopping Strahd's attack on the amber temple."

Suldae Westwind: "...Should it?"

"I'm also confused."

Marcus Veranius: "Nothing we do is slowing Strahd down."

Suldae Westwind: "What exactly is the narrow time window we're trying to take advantage of in attacking the castle?"

Marcus Veranius: "What would a tree or wizard do?"

Suldae Westwind: "What's the actual point of the plan?"

Hiere Unthere: "The time it takes for Strahd to secure the amber temple/"

Suldae Westwind: "Why?"

Hiere Unthere: "Because he won't be at his castle then, as you said"

Marcus Veranius: "Power is power. We need a sword that can cut at Strahd's impossible defense more than we need something that MIGHT defend us against him."

"Because right now, it seems nothing else is working."

"Half of Barovia is on our side and it's not doing anything to stop him."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "if nothing we did was working why would he change tactics now"

Marcus Veranius: "We need a weapon."

Suldae Westwind: "..Okay, whatever. First, you're overdramatic, second, let's go to the temple then."

Ireena Kolyana: "We've bested everything Strahd has thrown at us," says Ireena. "And we're more powerful now than we were before. Even if Strahd fortifies the Amber Temple, we will still be able to break through his defenses. I'm sure of it. At the same time, we need to consider our own defenses. It's troubling that the Dryads don't think they will be able to keep him away from the Temple. We should find out why not and what we can do to change that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He moves because he has to"

Suldae Westwind: "It's almost like everything we do is NOT completely ineffective."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Don't lose hope, Marcus. We are winning. We have him on edge now. No party of adventurers has ever made him sweat like we do."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "He won't be eager to face us unless he is confident that he has the upper hand completely. Remember; he ran away from us on Yester Hill. If we act quickly we might get to the Amber Temple before him, and bar him from it permanently."

Marcus Veranius: "My suggestion remains unchanged. We already have keys to the Amber Temple."
"Kasimir knows more of it than anyone else."

Suldae Westwind: "So, step one: ask Vasilika to protect the place. Step two: tell the Baron to talk to Vasilika. Step three: Amber Temple?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we go to the Amber Temple"

Marcus Veranius: "Let Vasilika handle things here. We go straight to the temple."

"I have trust in the trust Henry holds in her."

"And trust that the Baron's wife will be open-minded."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Are we sure we have all the supplies we need?"

Marcus Veranius: "Yes."

Suldae Westwind: "Very well, then."

Marcus Veranius: "Food, arrows, armor, weapons."

"And one Hiere."

Vasilka: Vasilka suddenly enters the chamber.

Hiere Unthere: "sup"

Vasilka: "Hello."

Suldae Westwind: "Vasilika," Suldae says with relief.

Vasilka: "You are preparing to leave?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "For the Amber Temple, yes"

Marcus Veranius: "Err, yes. We are."

Vasilka: "Gather around, then," says Vasilka, extending her hands.

Suldae Westwind: "We're going to the Amber temple. Can you take care of things here, and work with the Baron if he comes around?"

Vasilka: Vasilka nods gracefully.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes to her as invited.

"Thank you," she says with audible relief.

Vasilka: "I will ensure that the Belviews are well looked after."

"Form a circle, please," says Vasilka, still extending both hands.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows Vasilikas gesture

Vasilka: Vasilka takes one of his hands.

"You must join hands. Please."

Marcus Veranius does so, looking skeptical

Vasilka: "Strahd will not be able to teleport into our territory," says Vasilka. "Neither can he prevent us from doing so."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry grabs the nearest person's hand

Vasilka: "I will see you when you return. Be safe and wise, and bear the blessings of the forest."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae obeys.

"Thank you," she says with feeling.

Vasilka: "The Temple is warded by a powerful curse," says Vasilka. "I will get you close."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere considers and dismisses the 'safe and wise' bit

Vasilka: "As close as I can..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We'll be back before you can even miss us" Henry says with a smirk "Oh and tell Joan that to if you don't mind"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae realizes they're missing the flying skull. Ah well, the temple is a buiding.

How much can they really miss a large flying vehicle?

(They can)

(But time's a-wasting and all)

Liliet (Suldae): its my bedtime night everyone

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooooooo how does this work?"

Liliet (Suldae): E>

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and that is the cue to teleport into the next episode)

(eh I mean session yes next session)

The shelf of rock on which the mountain road clings grows narrow. To your left, the icy cliffs rise sharply toward dark, rolling clouds. To your right, the ground falls away into a sea of fog. Ahead, through the wind and snow, you see a high wall of black stone lined with spikes and topped by statues of demonic vultures with horned heads. Set in the center of the wall is a closed iron portcullis, behind which burns a curtain of green flame.

On the other side of the dark wall, gripping the mountain's edge, is a guard tower of white stone topped by golden statues of mighty warriors.

GM: (Thank you all for playing!)

Marcus Veranius: Estimated Time to Strahd's Arrival: 2 Hours

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Guess it works like that"

GM (GM): Good morning all!

Zanshuken: Hey-ho let's go!

The shelf of rock on which the mountain road clings grows narrow. To your left, the icy cliffs rise sharply toward dark, rolling clouds. To your right, the ground falls away into a sea of fog. Ahead, through the wind and snow, you see a high wall of black stone lined with spikes and topped by statues of demonic vultures with horned heads. Set in the center of the wall is a closed iron portcullis, behind which burns a curtain of green flame. On the other side of the dark wall, gripping the mountain's edge, is a guard tower of white stone topped by golden statues of mighty warriors.

The air is bitterly cold; by nightfall it may be dangerously so.

A biting wind twists around the cliffs, blowing in from the river you can hear roaring in its canyon to the north of your position.

Liliet (Suldae): I'm guessing the squares aren't 10ft? can we get even smaller tokens?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay so which clown thought this was a sensible place to put down a temple" Henry says taking in the surroundings

GM: (The squares are, in fact, 10 feet)
(Which takes me by surprise too haha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (fog of war hides the scale boss)

Marcus Veranius: "Someone who doesn't want their temple found I suppose. Shame we found it then."

Liliet (Suldae): (oo nice)

Marcus Veranius: (No lag still)
(Dynamic lighting be good)

GM: (I believe it's very processor intensive on large maps)

Marcus Veranius: "I don't suppose the temple won't get mad if we ignore its gate?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we got artefacts of great power and dubious morality to 'procure' so let's get to that then shall we" Henry says eyeing the portcullis

Kasimir Velikov: "This is not the temple," says Kasimir. "This is as close as the Dryad Queen could bring us."

"There are many trials on the Tsolenka path; this is but one of them."

Kasimir approaches the sheet of emerald flames, considering it thoughtfully.

GM: (Oh my god the map is moving so much better now)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry approaches the gatehouse as well gripping the portcullis and attempts to lift it briefly

GM: (Make an athletics check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

25 + 1

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae approaches the gates as well. She plays a quick breezy melody on the flute, summoning a gust of wind through the flame to see what it would do.

Henry's muscles find the ancient, rusted, heavy portcullis a moderately difficult lift. It is not a challenge worthy of him; he can hold the weight indefinitely. The problem of the green sheet of flames remains, but Suldae's gust of wind does seem to momentarily cause the flames to flicker and part.

Kasimir Velikov: "Alas," says Kasimir, "I cannot dispel it."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae keeps playing, trying to keep the wind going so there would be a permanent gap the size of a person.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Up we go" Henry huffs "So I can hold this for hours we don't have so what about the fire"

GM: (Suldae, make an arcana check)

Ireena Kolyana: "Couldn't we just fly over?"

Marcus Veranius: "I've got a rope for those that can't."

Kasimir Velikov: "It may be important to take the prescribed path," says Kasimir.

Liliet (Suldae):

26

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Important to whom?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Us not getting cursed again I assume"

"It's always curses here" Henry complains

Liliet is able to turn the curtain into two curtains, each of which spins its own little vortex. This leaves a four-foot-wide gap between them.

Marcus Veranius: "Right then. I'll bite the bullet."

Marcus Veranius crosses under Henry's lifted gate, and through Liliet's gap in the fire

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae

Suldae Westwind: (sorry for not switching in time)

(but i have the name even in the name there for a reason lol)

Marcus Veranius: (Fak)

There is a sound of crumbling stone and a smell of brimstone. The two statues of strange, demonic vultures which are perched atop the wall have suddenly come to life!

GM: (Roll Initiative)

Marcus Veranius: "I already hate this place."

18

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

4.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Kasimir Velikov:

INITIATIVE
Vrock

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Vrock

Initiative: 22

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 10

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 16

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 22.15

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let me guess those ugly gargoyles stopped pretending they couldn't move?" Henry asks voice dripping with sarcasm

Suldae feels the magic of the sensor spell triggering as Marcus passes through the flames, and is smart enough to put two and two together. She knows that Marcus is about to be dive-bombed by the statues on the wall — or rather, by the creatures they represented.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers that Marcus is on one side and everyone else on the other, then considers that Marcus can fly, and stops playing.

Or, rather, plays another trill, this one short and angry.

Though she stops playing, the flames will take a full six seconds to close completely. (they will close at the end of this round)

Suldae Westwind:

Guiding Bolt
Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature of your choice within range

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 round

A flash of light streaks toward a creature of your choice within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 4d6 radiant damage, and the next attack roll made against this target before the end of your next turn has advantage, thanks to the mystical dim light glittering on the target until then.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 1st.

this is against the creature uhhh to the right

28

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+10)
Suldae Westwind

15

Radiant

(there)

GM: (Since she's fractionally before him we'll say she can see him already in midair, diving towards Marcus)

The bolt of light streaks from her palm and cracks against the diving demon-bird, bathing it in radiant energies which make it an easy target.

The blast seems to do significant damage to the demon.

GM: (Additional movement/casting?)

Kasimir Velikov: "Let's mop them up quickly, we don't have time for a protracted battle!"

GM: (EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

(sorry)

Wounded, the evil bird unleashes an unholy scream which seems to twist its way upward from the depths of hell!

Vrock:

STUNNING SCREECH
(1/DAY)
Vrock

The vrock emits a horrific screech. Each creature within 20 feet of it that can hear it and that isn't a demon must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or be stunned until the end of the vrock's next turn .

Kasimir Velikov:

15

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

Tops K.:

4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

13 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Ireena Kolyana:

12

CONSTITUTION SAVE (5)

Tops K.: (Lucky)

6

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Marcus Veranius

(NOT LUCKY ENOUGH)

Suldae Westwind:

22

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

(oh wow lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ireena makes it cause my +3 aura)

The great bird lands heavily by the stunned Marcus. Ireena also seems to struggle for a moment, but Henry's aura shields her and clears her mind.

GM: (Marcus is up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's ears are ringing, but sounds are her domain.

Tops K.: (Marcus is stunned)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry winches at the scream but keeps holding up the portculis

Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus!" Ireena screams, flinging forth her hand. Marcus is suddenly encased in an impenetrable bubble of protective energy.

Resilient Sphere

Evocation 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature or object of Large size or smaller within range

Components: V, S, M (A hemispherical piece of clear crystal and a matching hemispherical piece of gum arabic)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

A sphere of shimmering force encloses a creature or object of Large size or smaller within range. An unwilling creature must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the creature is enclosed for the duration.

Nothing—not physical objects, energy, or other spell effects—can pass through the barrier, in or out, though a creature in the sphere can breathe there. The sphere is immune to all damage, and a creature or object inside can't be damaged by attacks or effects originating from outside, nor can a creature inside the sphere damage anything outside it. The sphere is weightless and just large enough to contain the creature or object inside. An enclosed creature can use its action to push against the sphere's walls and thus roll the sphere at up to half the creature's speed. Similarly, the globe can be picked up and moved by other creatures. A disintegrate spell targeting the globe destroys it without harming anything inside it.

Marcus Veranius is stunned and in prison

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Of all the times to be at the back of the group," Ismark mutters, running swiftly towards the commotion.

He snipes at the demon-bird still on the wall with Eldritch blasts.

Eldritch Blast

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

13

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

12

26

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

13

22

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

11

Two of his three beams of eldritch power strike the demon-bird, scattering chunks of its flesh that rain down as gravel.

Vrock: The second demon-bird turns its attention not to Marcus but to the one who has wounded it. It takes a swooping dive at him with beak and talons!

BEAK Vrock <hr/> Attack: 12 13
--

Damage: 12 piercing

TALONS Vrock <hr/> Attack: 18 14
--

Damage: 12 slashing

GM: (Not supposed to be with advantage, taking the first rolls)

The Vrock rakes Ismark with its talons before swooping back into the sky and back to its perch (triggering an AoO from both Ismark and Suldae)

Kasimir Velikov:

DC17

Dexterity Save

21

Higher Level Cast

10

Fire

60 feet

Hellish Rebuke

GM: (That's supposed to be from Ismark, I don't know why it's coming from Kasimir)

Ismark Kolyanovich: You point your finger, and the creature that damaged you is momentarily surrounded by hellish flames. The creature must make a Dexterity saving throw. It takes 2d10 fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Suldae Westwind: (is it possible to cast a cantrip as an attack of opportunity, considering Suldae's current configuration is playing the flute)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (only if you have warcaster feat warcaster)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)
(Suldae does not attack of opportunity)

Vrock:

DEXTERITY SAVE Vrock <hr/> Save: 18
--

Ismark Kolyanovich: (Ismark's save DC is a 17)

Vrock takes 15.5 fire damage, but resistance cuts it to 7.5

Though the blast of flames which rips from Ismark's fingertip to consume the demon bird is enormous and fiercely hot, it seems to do very little to actually harm the demonic creature.

Kasimir Velikov: "Demons, naturally," says Kasimir, stepping back to fling a lightning bolt at the demon nearest Marcus.

DC16

Dexterity Save

48

Lightning

150 feet

Chain Lightning

Vrock:

DEXTERITY SAVE Vrock <hr/> Save: 13
--

Suldae Westwind: (oh WOW)

Vrock:

DEXTERITY SAVE Vrock <hr/> Save: 7

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Kasimir be like "Ain't nobody got time for this")

The lightning streams from Kasimir's palm, strikes the demon-bird by Marcus, and chains a secondary bolt to the one on the wall. Though the lightning pops and flares and snaps across their bodies, the demon birds are not damaged anywhere near as much as one would expect. (Lightning resistant)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "MARCUS!" Shouts Ezmerelda, racing towards him. She leaps nimbly through the still-closing gap in the flames, stops just in time to avoid being part of Kasimir's lightning blast, and picks up Marcus for her free item interaction. Running north still, using Marcus as a shield against the Vrock whose range she is leaving, she takes aim with a hand and looses her own bolt of lightning.

GM: (Sorry, the map totally zonked out on me there, I'm not sure how far I actually moved her so the bolt of lightning may or may not happen this round)

Marcus Veranius now understands what it's like to be a statue

The demon bird takes a swing but its claws scrape the bubble and deal no harm.

Rictavio: "These are Vrocks!" Shouts Rictavio.

"Take them down quickly! They can summon!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Of cause they can" Henry grumbles

Rictavio:

Banishment Abjuration 4
--

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: One creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (An item distasteful to the target)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You attempt to send one creature that you can see within range to another plane of existence. The target must succeed on a Charisma saving throw or be banished. If the target is native to the plane of existence you're on, you banish the target to a harmless demiplane. While there, the target is incapacitated. The target remains there until the spell ends, at which point the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. If the target is native to a different plane of existence than the one you're on, the target is banished with a faint popping noise, returning to its home plane. If the spell ends before 1 minute has passed, the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. Otherwise, the target doesn't return.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 4th.

GM: (I just noticed the Vrocks are supposed to have Magic Resistance — advantage on saves against spells)

(I haven't been using it so far, so maybe these ones are tired from being out of hell for so long)

Vrock:

CHARISMA SAVE

Vrock

Save: 3

Sulda Westwind: wait wait wait

what about the sphere

what did Ezme do with the sphere

Henry of Willowsbrook: Marcus is in an indestructible bubble

Ezme picked it up

The bubble no matter what's inside weighs only 1 kg

POOF. The Vrock on the wall, which is not glowing with Sulda's Guiding Bolt, disappears in a blast of hellfire and holy light, as though pressed out of existence.

Rictavio: "If I can hold it there for just one minute, it can't come back!" Rictavio shouts. "Take out the other one! Henry, smash it!"

Suldae Westwind: Henry, it actually says weightless
but its gotta be unwieldy

Marcus Veranius: (Are these demons? If they're native to another plane, they don't come back)

GM: (If the target is native to a different plane of existence than the one you're on, the target is banished with a faint popping noise, returning to its home plane. If the spell ends before 1 minute has passed, the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. Otherwise, the target doesn't return.)

(So yes, if Rictavio maintains concentration for a minute, the demon won't come back)

Marcus Veranius: (PROTECT THE OLD MAN)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well I was planning on doing that anyway" Henry replies shifting to hold the gate up with one hand taking out his Pick with the other

30	27
30ft/60ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook
14	3
Piercing	Acid
20
30ft/60ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook
16	4
Piercing	Acid

"Pay back for that scream you plucked chicken mishap" Henry calls out hurling his weapon at the demon

The first blow is devastating — the Vrock turns its body to him, attempting to block him with its wing, but his war-pick smashes into it like a pickaxe into ancient, crumbling stone, ripping out the entire wing and much of the shoulder in a blast of charcoal and gravel. The acid sears and sizzles fervently in the wound, and his followup attack is no less devastating — his pick punches a hole in the demon's chest, revealing the red-hot coals of its lungs. The demon is still alive. Henry, in the astute and practical way he sometimes does, sees that the Vrock could be considered to have about one fifth of its fight left in it.

GM: (Vulnerable to Acid damage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Would you look at that" Henry says catching his weapon as the curtain of fire closes EoT

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has taken note of how effective her spell was, and hopes to replicate the effect. The melody keeps flowing, quick and aggressive and somehow evocative of the concept of wrath of heaven.

Now just not to miss...

20
120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+10)
Suldae Westwind

17
Radiant

(ugh i htink these attack numbers are wrong)= its adding the cha modifier but its a cleric spell?)

(it should be 3 points lower)

(hold on ill fix in my numbers but for now just consider that a roll of 17)

It is glorious; like fireworks. Something in the dazzling display of scattering radiance-coated demonic ash sparks something deep within Marcus, as it is the first thing he witnesses as the spell over him breaks. He has lost enough over the years. But to lose his will? His control over himself? Never again. (Marcus is now immune to the Stunned effect.)

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

The party gains 4600 XP. Each member of the party gains 575 XP.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "So... That's it, then?" asks Ismark.

Marcus Veranius regains the ability to exist

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, seeing that Marcus is no longer stunned, releases the spell upon him. The barrier of energy breaks.

Marcus Veranius: "SO! TAKE THE INTENDED PATH YOU SAY?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "For now" Henry replies putting his pick away

Ireena Kolyana: "We've still got to deal with this barrier," says Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts playing the previous song again.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir says: "Hmph." He reaches out a hand to Ismark and another to Rictavio, and the three of them lift into the air and begin to fly.

Suldae Westwind: "...Or that, but mine was simpler," Suldae says, looking up.

Marcus Veranius rolls his eyes in exaggerated manner

Suldae Westwind: "Wizards," she says with feeling.

Marcus Veranius: "I jest. There was probably no right answer."

Kasimir Velikov:

Fly

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A wing feather from any bird)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You touch a willing creature. The target gains a flying speed of 60 feet for the duration. When the spell ends, the target falls if it is still aloft, unless it can stop the fall.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 3rd.

Suldae Westwind: Always have to use the show-off spell when a cantrip would do just as well.

Marcus Veranius: "And we don't have time to look for one so better we trigger every trap and deal with the consequences."

Suldae Westwind: (do we just ignore here as not here?)

Suldae realizes Henry is still on this side, too.

Marcus Veranius: (Hiere literally isn't here. He's off distracting strahd)

Suldae Westwind: She resumes playing.

14

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns at the flying men "Rude"

Suldae Westwind: (OH MY GOD SERIOUSLY???)

She is too distracted by annoyance at Kazimir wasting strength to focus properly.

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

(mechanically this for the record)

As the trio fly over the wall, there is a cry like an eagle the size of a hurricane screaming its freedom to the gods. It resounds over the canyons, howling down, unmistakably, from the East.

The flames are being stubborn now; Suldae's flute playing cannot seem to synchronize them as before. Perhaps the wind has changed direction.

Ireena Kolyana places a hand on Suldae's shoulder, and the comfort of her presence grants Suldae advantage on the check.

Suldae Westwind:

14

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry glares at the green fire "Hypothetical question how bad would touching that be

Suldae Westwind: (THIS JUS THAPPENED)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "

Suldae Westwind: "Honestly you're the one person among us most equipped to try."

It feels almost as though the flames are consciously fighting back. Suldae is aware of something like a mind — far away, but aware of them now and intent on hindering their progress.

Ireena Kolyana: "There may be other solutions," says Ireena.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "'tis why I'm asking first" Henry says a touch sardonically

Ireena Kolyana: "It, uh... Doesn't look safe to touch. Gotta say."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir and Ismark and Rictavio land by Ezmerelda and Marcus.

"Are you alright, Marcus? You had us all quite concerned."

Suldae Westwind:

(Flute) Protection from Energy, 1/day
Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: The willing creature you touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

For the duration, the willing creature you touch has resistance to one damage type of your choice: acid, cold, fire, lightning, or thunder.

Marcus Veranius: "My pride is quite injured but I'm physically well."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries a different song.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezme is all over Marcus at the moment, clinging to his arm as though to reassure herself that he's still there.

Suldae Westwind: This one builds slowly into a feeling of power.

She touches Henry, transferring the feeling to him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait I'll just climb around"

Marcus Veranius holds Ez's hand in reassurance

Rictavio: Rictavio, seeing the flames and the others trapped behind them, approaches the flames from the other side.

Suldae Westwind: "...Or that, that works too. This is jsut insurance, then."

Suldae turns into hybrid form.

Rictavio: "Try an E flat, Suldae," he says, raising his hand slightly.

Suldae Westwind: She cannot carry Henry like this but she can help him.

(rip)

Rictavio: "Oh, alright then," says Rictavio.

Suldae Westwind: (too many plans of action at the same time)

Rictavio: "I was going to make you look cool."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well now that you've done that Suldae I have to try the fire"

Rictavio: He finishes casting Dispel Magic.

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Suldae Westwind: "..."

"Okay, this is the case where that was the best solution."

(presuming that works)

GM: (So it's a DC 16, equivalent to a level six spell. He's got to roll it)

Suldae Westwind: (ah ok)

Rictavio:

ARCANA
Rictavio

Skill: 19

The flames gutter and die.

Rictavio: "Did you notice that?" Rictavio says. "When you were working with it. That feeling... Like someone watching."

"I think it was connected directly to Strahd."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, if he didn't know we were coming, he knows now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (uhm Ric is a cleric right? dispell magic should then be a straight wisdom check)

Marcus Veranius: "Let us make haste then. I hope he doesn't do the same."

Suldae Westwind: "...I think that did that."

(Do we have confirmation Rictavio is a cleric? I've been suspecting him of being a bard for a while)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits for suldae to pass the gate before moving through himself

GM: (You're right, Henry. One sec)

Rictavio:

WISDOM
Rictavio

Ability: 18

Suldae Westwind: Suldae flies over, just in case.

Kasimir Velikov: "We must press on," says Kasimir. "That scream makes me think our next trial may find us before we find it."

Suldae Westwind: (we have 4 people in the party who cannot fly without a spell and 4 who can

(

)

Rictavio: Rictavio scoffs, irritated, as he watched Suldae fly over even after he has cleared the barrier. Rolling his eyes, he rejoins the rest of the group.

Suldae Westwind: "Thank you," Suldae tells him with feeling as she lands.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to keep everyone in his Aura protective aegis as they move

*auras

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Do we want to loot the tower?" Ismark asks, pointing at it with his thumb as the party passes by.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not in the mood to fight for golden knights right now so I say pass" Henry grunts

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe on the way out."

Kasimir Velikov: "There is too much at stake if we dally," says Kasimir. "We must press on without distraction."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes, that," Suldae agrees.

She is walking hand in hand with Ireena. It's very calming.

Moving on, the party proceeds down the frigid, winding, cliffside path. (What time is it, btw?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ingame it should be late morning at the latest I believe)

The snowy pass comes to a gorge spanned by a stone bridge. At each end of the bridge is a thirty-foot-tall, thirty-foot-wide stone arch. Atop each one are two statues of armored knights on horseback with lances, charging towards one another. The wind racing through the gorge is horrendously cold and it carries thick flurries of snow, which reduce visibility to sixty feet. The wind blows north to south. (bear in mind the top of this map is east)

Though you know the sun is in the sky, the dark clouds above hide it completely. The snow is falling thick and fast — and thicker and faster by the moment.

Suldae Westwind: "...So about that flying..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What flying" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "In this weather? You'd be thrown into the river!"

Suldae Westwind: "...I suppose that's a point."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can't fly. Can yopu fly?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes?"

Marcus Veranius: "We might just have to fight every statue that wakes up to stop us."

Suldae Westwind: "I can also make other people fly, though only once per day."

"I can also summon flying mounts."

"And turn you into a flying creature."

"We can fly."

"The question is if we should."

(How strong is the wind?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I was being snarky" Henry says with a defeated deadpan

Marcus Veranius: "No visibility, no control over the wind. It seems incredibly dangerous..."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "What was that scream, before?" Ismark says.

"It sounded like a bird of some kind."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's ears twitch as he listens.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Can I nature to guess?)

Suldae Westwind: "I take nothing for granted," Suldae tells him.

GM: (Yes, nature or survival to recognize the call, or history to consider what you know about birds of that possible size)

Suldae Westwind:

13

NATURE (8)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

22 + 1

NATURE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry finds himself observing a large bald patch on the snowy mountain face near the river, and some very strange huge gouges in the mud of the riverbanks. He realizes, after a moment, that he is witnessing the droppings and tracks of a Roc; a monster bird said to blot out the sky with its wings. It is a legendary creature, known to inhabit only the highest, most magical, and most ancient mountain peaks.

Suldae senses clearly that the call was avian, and that it came from the northeast, towards mount Ghakis.

GM: (Marcus, make a perception check)

Marcus Veranius:

16

PERCEPTION (10)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That would be a Roc, Ismark" Henry says resignation clearly audible "Because of cause it has to be a Roc"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae points in the direction where the bird was.

"...I mean we can just go over the bridge normally," she says.

Marcus notices that things have clearly been dragged right off this bridge in both directions by a large clawed assailant from above — it is the only explanation for the scratch-marks and damage to the bridge.

Suldae Westwind: While everyone is thinking, Suldae starts playing the wind song again, simply to keep snow from flying into eyes and mouths.

Kasimir Velikov:

14

PERCEPTION (5)

"Thank you, Suldae. That's much better."

"Well? Shall we?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And for those that don't know what a Roc is" Henry says "Think a bird of prey the size of a dragon"

Marcus Veranius: No real way around it...

"It's a snatch-and-grabber. Ready yourself to possibly get grabbed as you cross."

Suldae Westwind: "...or@"

Kasimir Velikov: "Perhaps we can sneak across," Kasimir says. "Pass without trace?"

"Or we can fly over a distance from the bridge."

Kasimir Velikov: "This wind is worrisome."

Suldae Westwind: "Or that. Will it protect us from the bird spotting us from above?"

(How strong is the wind?)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I'm not sure being airborne against an airborne predator is going to be much better than being on the ground, to be honest."

Suldae Westwind: "It can keep us from being noticed."

Marcus Veranius: "I have an idea."

GM: (The wind is strong enough that if the party members each flew a kite, everyone but Henry would be carried away by their kite.)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha ty)

GM: (It's also very turbulent, due to the shape of the canyon — you could easily get caught in a downdraft and smashed against something.)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

GM: (Air currents get especially weird around bridges, too.)

Marcus Veranius: "Anyone got a light spell? I'll bait it out, and you fire on my position when the light goes awry."

Suldae Westwind: "...Does anyone have an invisibility spell?"

Kasimir Velikov: "I can cast invisibility," says Kasimir.

Suldae Westwind: "Can you cast invisibility on all of us?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I suppose I could teleport across. And bring someone with me."

Suldae Westwind: "...minus two"

Marcus Veranius holds up a crossbow bolt

Marcus Veranius: "Someone cast light on this. When that bird shows its face, I'll stick it good and it won't be able to hide in the fog."

GM: (Whoops — he has Greater Invisibility, not Invisibility. Invisibility can be cast on multiple creatures if you power it up, but for some reason Greater doesn't have that feature but it does allow you to attack and cast while remaining invisible.)

Kasimir Velikov: "Alas," says Kasimir, "I cannot."

Suldae Westwind:

Light

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: One object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension

Components: V, M (A firefly or phosphorescent moss)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch one object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension. Until the spell ends, the object sheds bright light in a 20-foot radius and dim light for an additional 20 feet. The light can be colored as you like. Completely covering the object with something opaque blocks the light. The spell ends if you cast it again or dismiss it as an action. If you target an object held or worn by a hostile creature, that creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw to avoid the spell.

Suldae makes the bolt glow bright red.

Kasimir Velikov: "I can cast Pass without Trace on all of us, I think."

Marcus Veranius: "Everyone group up between the arch for safety. When I make my shot, fire wherever the light sticks."

Suldae Westwind: "...would it be enough to hide us from a roc?"

Marcus Veranius: "The bird can't detect us if it's dead."

Kasimir Velikov: "Possibly, although I can't imagine the odds would be very good. And we would have to be clustered close together, all within thirty feet of me."

Ireena Kolyana: "It seems a shame to kill something so legendary," says Ireena. "Like killing the last unicorn or the last winged walrus."

Marcus Veranius: "As much as it hurts, if we avoid fighting it we'll need to do so both ways."
"Do you want that thing swooping at us when we're fleeing and out of resources?"

Suldae Westwind: "...How will it even spot us in this weather?"

Marcus Veranius: "If the bridge is any indication, quite easily."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry eyes the length of the bridge "I could clear that quite quickly maybe bait it? I probably stand the best shot of not being bird feed when it swops"

Ireena Kolyana: "It doesn't have to spot us," Ireena says, thoughtfully. "It just has to watch the bridge, and see movement there..."

"Assuming it's hungry."

"Maybe it ate recently, and we're off the hook?"

Marcus Veranius: "Well let's see how hard it can chew; I've got a pretty tough hide."

Marcus Veranius gets ready to cross

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey, you can misty step too," says Ismark, to Henry. "You could bait it and bounce, if you did it right."

Suldae Westwind: "Marucs is probably a better idea"

"He can fly."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That was my idea yes"

Suldae Westwind: "And cannot be hurt without silver or magic. Are Roc claws magic?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm banking on the idea that it can't chew through lycanthropy. Worst it can do is fly me off somewhere and sulk."

Suldae Westwind: "...to continue the thought, Marcus is the archer."

"I should be bait."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "even if they cant hurt him they can still grab him"

Suldae Westwind: "See also: can turn into a tiny bird and fly."

Marcus Veranius: "Someone has to mark the bird so we can see it through the storm."

"And I have the light arrow."

"Ready your attacks; I'm going first."

Suldae Westwind: "I am not seeing the argument, Marcus."

"I also have a crossbow."

"You are the archer, I repeat."

"You should be shooting it once you see where it is."

Marcus Veranius: "...we kindof need to make the first shot hit."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, I also ahve Misty Step."

"...I am not that bad at aiming."

"It's kind of a big bird."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well good talk everyone" Henry says starting into arun across the bridge

Ireena Kolyana: "Shit, Shit, Shit!"

Suldae Westwind: "YOU ARE A FUCKING IDIOT!"

Marcus Veranius blinks

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs after him, grabbing the bolt unceremoniously from Marcus.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "HEY COME AND GETME YOU TAWT"

Suldae Westwind: And loading the rossbow iwth it.

Marcus Veranius *readies his shot and starts followOHSIT

Suldae Westwind: (WE ARE ALL IDIOTS!)

Diving towards the bridge is a creature of unearthly size — a bird so monstrous that its wings blot out the sky.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shoots it with the bolt, then drops and rolls back.

18

80/320

Light Crossbow (+7)
Suldae Westwind

8

Piercing

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry raises his shield eyes fully on the beast and it#s talons

Shield of Faith

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A small parchment with a bit of holy text written on it)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

A shimmering field appears and surrounds a creature of your choice within range, granting it a +2 bonus to AC for the duration.

Marcus Veranius: (Hahaha, umm. Thats as big as the river o-o)

Suldae Westwind: (THATS WHY I SAID AIM DIDNT FUCKIGN MATTER) (CANNOT EXACTLY MISS THIS)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (gargatuan) gargantuan)

The glowing bolt flies — and flies, and flies, and flies... The Roc is farther away than you thought, and it just keeps getting huger, its wingtips rasping the mountainsides as it plunges. It seems to literally fill the sky from horizon to horizon in some strange distortion of all possible space. To fit into the canyon where the bridge is, it has to put its wings flat to its sides in a perfect dive, claws forward, beak screaming. The sound blasts over the bridge, whipping at Suldae's cape and battering Henry's shield. The light arrow sticks firmly in its chest. The great bird does not notice. It is a tiny prinpick of light on a wall of blue-white down.

Marcus Veranius *fiddles with the clock on his crossbow in a panic. Midnight, midnight, safe word isMIDNIGHT

Suldae Westwind: (Imao)

Because the party was braced for just this outcome, they have a single moment in which to respond to the bird which is currently hurtling straight for Henry and Suldae, and which is fully capable of snatching both of them at the same time.

Marcus Veranius: (Full attack action? o3o)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...I wanna intimidate that bird)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls off the bridge (presuming railings allow for that)

Suldae and Henry both see something in the eyes of this wild beast: it is no thrall of Strahd's. This means that he has bypassed it before, and not enslaved it, and that he must be confident that he can bypass it every time he goes to the Amber Temple. He has left it alive as a guardian, but he is not its master.

GM: (Go for it, Henry)

(Yes, full attack action)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or Charisma checks due to a spell, a feature, or another magic item effect, grants a +5 to Intimidation checks instead.

9 + 1 25 + 1

INTIMIDATION (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (this. this is where Animal Friendship could potentially be king, presuming it's non-sentient)

(but we aren't exactly in position to, right now)

GM: (It has an int of 3)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry glares with divine light daring the Roc to come near him

GM: (That's its int. Not its int modifier.)

Suldae Westwind: (that would work)

(just checked)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Praying on its instincts to avoid attacking things more dangerous than itself

Roc:

CHARISMA SAVE

Roc

Save: 15 | 19

Suldae Westwind: (HA. HA. HA)

There is a pulse of emerald light on the bridge; a star of holy radiances stands there on the walkway, conduit to the will of a god. The Roc screams in terror and scrambles to get its wings beneath it and climb for air. It beats its wings incidentally right over the bridge as it is fleeing into the sky, and Suldae and Henry must both make DC 15 Dex saves.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I will not cower, not for something like you" Henry says projecting his voice over the howling winds staring into the Rocs eyes

GM: (Suldae is in midair currently, right?)

Suldae Westwind: (aye)

GM: (Marcus, do you still want to shoot it?)

Henry of Willowsbrook:*18 + 4DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of WillowsbrookSuldae Westwind:*20DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

(Suldae has turned into hybrid form to have greater mass against the wind)

(she is diving straight down however)

Henry stands firm beneath the sudden gust of wind, and Suldae finds herself dancing freely with the zephyrs, who have enjoyed her music.

Marcus Veranius 's crossbow revs like a clockwork machine. If it's not a snowstorm of bolts, it's not blinsky Suldae Westwind: As the Roc's flap of wings blows back against the wind (i noted the direction!) it provides just enough leverage for Suldae to make her way back to the bridge behind it.

Marcus Veranius: (2 normal attacks, 2 action surge attacks, 2 dread ambusher attacks, 1 bonus action attack)

2615

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

20*Magical Piercing13*16

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

23*Magical Piercing22*19

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18*Magical Piercing20*15

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18*Magical Piercing27*16

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

23*Magical PiercingMarcus Veranius:*21*26

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

21*Magical Piercing28*22

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

20 + 1
Magical Piercing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait why are you shooting it?)

Roc:

(<https://media1.giphy.com/media/l2Sq8wyY1Zfndp6Lu/giphy.gif>)

Suldae Westwind: (mood)

Marcus Veranius: (Because that was the plan? o-o)

Suldae Westwind: (tbf its basically a prepared action)

(i dont think Marcus could see what happened)

(considering the blizzard)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oH well let's call it reinforcing that we are a bad meal)

Marcus Veranius: (GM said make a full attack; bird is still in range)

Suldae Westwind: (GM said you get a full action, not gave a command!)

GM: (What are the final numbers?)

Marcus Veranius: 5 attacks over 20. The crossbow spits out more bolts

19		20
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

9		12
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

GM: (It only has an AC of 15)

Marcus Veranius:

25 | 21

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20

Magical Piercing

19 | 28

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

21 + 1

Magical Piercing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hey if you wanna shot the bird, shot the bird I ain't stopping you)

Marcus Veranius:

13 | 16

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20

Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: (I would have liked a Roc friend)

GM: (Jesus this is terrifying)

Marcus Veranius: 2 attacks over 20. The crossbow shoots out more bolts

Suldae Westwind: (but yeah)

Marcus Veranius:

28 | 27

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

21 + 4

Magical Piercing

25 | 9
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: (OMFG)

Marcus Veranius: 2 attacks over 20. The crossbow shoots out more bolts

13 | 19
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

14 | 14
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: OMFG

Marcus Veranius: (What AC am I looking at to hit?)

GM: (15)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and only the very last one missed damn son)

Marcus Veranius: (Lemme do mah real quick)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'm have 316 damage)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 2d8

(4 + 3)

= 7

GM: (If it's over 250, please RP how Marcus takes it down)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it's dead, it's so fuckin dead)

Suldae Westwind: (that poor bird lmao)

GM: (It had a good life)

(And killed loads of innocent travelers)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh my god I can't I'm laughing my ass off)

GM: (And loads of adventurers)

(This is just amazing)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus was expecting his usual barrage of bolts. What he wasn't expecting was the clock to keep turning, and turning, and turning, suddenly firing without his input. Careful aim quickly turned into a struggle to keep the bow stable, as if some demon had decided to make it home and throw a party!

Suldae Westwind: 14x20

Marcus Veranius: "IT'S NOT STOPPING!!!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda struggles not to make a joke, but Marcus knows she's thinking of one.

Marcus Veranius: 16 shots fire towards the retreating bird, striking repeatedly at the same point through down, flesh, bone, and what lay underneath

301 damage

GM: (You just took it to -61)

Suldae, Marcus, and Henry each gain 2400 XP.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the falling bird in awe. She has no words.

(each?)

Marcus Veranius finally gets the crossbow under control, hands cut up slightly from rapidly-spinning clockworks. He frowns.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "..." Henry turns and peers through the falling snow at the Roc's death keen "Guess that solves that"

Marcus Veranius: "Well I can't fault the man. If it's not fun, it's not Blinsky."

The corpse hits the ground like a continent falling out of the sky, and skids a few miles in a strange, dissolving display of vast blue-black feathers. At such a scale, magic is the only thing which can keep a body together. Since the Roc died in midair, its magic breaks before it hits the ground. Mass does the rest, turning several dozen acres of mountainous forest into a field of meat and feathers.

GM: (The Roc was worth 7200 total, and you three were the only ones that did anything — the NPCs were not involved)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

"..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Turning to Marcus Henry says "If I were a lesser Man I'd feel a bit cheated right about now"

Suldae Westwind: "That's gross," Suldae shares as Ireena joins her on the bridge.

Marcus Veranius: "...incidentally, that's the only one we got. The Oathbow needs to be saved for that Skeleton Dragon in the temple's depths."

Suldae Westwind: "I kind of feel bad for it now, too."

Marcus Veranius: "If we come up against another guardian like that..."

Ireena Kolyana: "I feel bad, but I can't stop laughing," Ireena says.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods mutely.

She's only not shaking with giggles due to supreme self control skills, and also how cold it is.

Ireena Kolyana: "Has anybody noticed that it keeps getting colder?"

"I don't feel like we prepared for this weather."

Marcus Veranius: "We probably should have after Strahd's last hissy-fit storm."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Now that we have established that I am a man of great character can we atleast acknowledge that I made it turn tail and run simply by being my awe inspiring self? Please?"

Marcus Veranius: "Let's hope the temple is a bit warmer."

Marcus Veranius pats Henry on the shoulder

Suldae Westwind: "...Is taht what happened?" Suldae asks.

She was too busy falling off the bridge at the time.

Marcus Veranius: "You are arguably the second scariest man in this country."

"I'm not messing with that toymaker."

Suldae Westwind: "...Agreed."

GM: (Extreme Cold: Whenever the temperature is at or below 0 degrees Fahrenheit, a creature exposed to the cold must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw at the end of each hour or gain one level of exhaustion. Creatures with resistance or immunity to cold damage automatically succeed on the saving throw, as do creatures wearing cold weather gear (thick coats, gloves, and the like) and creatures naturally adapted to cold climates.)

Suldae Westwind: (fuck)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thank you, it means alot to me" Henry says nodding before stretching and looking at the Roc corpses crash site "Yesh that landing was brutal but it was dead before it hit hte ground so whatever"

Suldae Westwind: (well it hasnt been an hour yet)

Kasimir Velikov: "We'd better hurry to the temple. These conditions are not likely to improve."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae resumes playing the let's-not-get-blidned-by-snow song.

The snowflakes are dancing prettily in the air around the party.

She hears a faint giggle, ephemeral and audible only to her. The ancient zephyrs of this canyon have not been played for in many years.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits again to cover his companions in his auras protective field

Suldae Westwind: The song is light and dancing. Suldae gives it her all even on such a simple magic: the audience deserves her best.

Kasimir Velikov: "There are still about four miles to go," Kasimir says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Then let's go"

Marcus Veranius: "One hour in the storm..."

Marcus Veranius 's guidance helps maintain the party's travel pace. It won't take more than an hour to reach the temple

Marcus Veranius: (Itl take even less time if we can hike over that bit of mountain!)

Suldae Westwind: (NO IT WILL NOT)

(DID YOU LERN NOTHING FROM LOTR)

Marcus Veranius: (I have not, and will submit to your superior fantasy knowledge)

Suldae Westwind: (shortest road \neq fastest road)

(unless we spend spell slots on flying!)

Marcus Veranius: (One hour in the snow. 1 hour before Strahd arrives. + however much time Hiere can stall for)

Suldae Westwind: (which im still willing to do)

"...Seriously," Suldae says, eyeing the cliffs, a few minutes after the Roc's death.

"Flying would most definitely get us there faster."

Marcus Veranius: (If we can fly then marcus is for it)

Suldae Westwind: "And we need the faster for multiple reasons," she rubs her arms.

Marcus Veranius: (I just cant be here to make that decision cause I have to go SOON)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around at the winds raging around them

Suldae Westwind: "I can make one person fly directly with a spell, I can summon several flying mounts, I can turn someone into a flier."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm not sure flying is the best idea"

Suldae Westwind: (Is the wind still as strong?)

Marcus Veranius: (Is Wind just difficult terrain for birds?)

GM: (The wind is still very strong, yes)

Marcus Veranius: (The party ignores being slowed down by difficult terrain)

GM: (Strong Wind)

Kasimir Velikov: A strong wind imposes disadvantage on ranged weapon attack rolls and Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on hearing. A strong wind also extinguishes open flames, disperses fog, and makes flying by nonmagical means nearly impossible. A flying creature in a strong wind must land at the end of its turn or fall.

A strong wind in a desert can create a sandstorm that imposes disadvantage on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on sight.)

Marcus Veranius: >FLYING CREATURE MUST LAND OR FALL

Suldae Westwind: "makes flying by nonmagical means nearly impossible" HMM

Marcus Veranius: We walkin then

Suldae Westwind: but yeah got it

"...That's a good point."

"..."

"I just realized what I can do."

Prestidigitation

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 10 feet

Target: See text

Components: V, S

Duration: Up to 1 hour

This spell is a minor magical trick that novice spellcasters use for practice. You create one of the following magical effects within range: You create an instantaneous, harmless sensory effect, such as a shower of sparks, a puff of wind, faint musical notes, or an odd odor. You instantaneously light or snuff out a candle, a torch, or a small campfire. You instantaneously clean or soil an object no larger than 1 cubic foot. You chill, warm, or flavor up to 1 cubic foot of nonliving material for 1 hour. You make a color, a small mark, or a symbol appear on an object or a surface for 1 hour. You create a nonmagical trinket or an illusory image that can fit in your hand and that lasts until the end of your next turn. If you cast this spell multiple times, you can have up to three of its non-instantaneous effects active at a time, and you can dismiss such an effect as an action.

warm

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts playing a simple, skippy melody, that warms up everyone's clothes in turn.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think flying might not work out so hot," Ireena says, as a baby roc tumbles past, heels over head, down the mountainside. It must have fled the nest; it's the size of a horse.

Rictavio: "We don't have time!" Rictavio shouts, just in case anyone wanted to chase the baby roc in its hopeless tumble down the slope.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "... If anyone of you starts awwing and felling bad remember it would eat all of us in a heart beat" Henry says shoohing the party along along

Suldae Westwind: The pattern is, Suldae warms up three people's clothes at a time until they start being uncomfortably warm, at which point she dismisses the effect and switches to the next three people.

It's unpleasant, but less so than freezing.

Kasimir Velikov: "Ah, please," says Kasimir, "It is not necessary for me." He points at a small ring on his finger. The ruby there is glowing faintly: Suldae recognizes it as a Ring of Warmth.

The baby roc beats its wings and manages to take to the air. The wind buffets it slightly, but it begins to gain more control swiftly.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae skips over Kasimir.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think it will be fine."

GM: (May be a good place to pause for today)

(We can start next session with your arrival at the temple)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sounds good GM: (Thank you all for playing! This was a fun session :))
)

(Here, I'll tease the map for you)

Suldae Westwind: (YE IT WAS)

GM (GM): (Greetings!)

As the party climbs higher on the treacherous mountainside, the air becomes yet more bitterly cold. I is due only to the benefits of Suldae's repeated spellcasting that any member of the party manages to avoid serious frostbite. The wind increases in strength until it is a whipping tempest which carries the snow in blinding flurries that obscure the road and the edges of it.

Zanshukun: "THIS PLACE FUCKIN SUCKS" Henry yells over the wind playing up his own petulance

And there, at last, through the blinding snow, you see the façade of some kind of structure built into the sheer stone cliff of the mountainside. Ancient blocks of amber burn dully in the gloom, lit by strange internal flames. The amber walls stand fifty feet high and two hundred and fifty feet wide. The base of the walls is piled high with snow, but rising above it are six statues in six alcoves. Each is twenty feet tall, carved from a single block of amber, and depicts a faceless, hooded figure, its hands pressed together in a gesture of prayer. Between the two innermost statues is a twenty-foot-tall archway with a staircase leading down.

Marcus Veranius: "Well... this is it. Treasure vault."

"I hope that sword is worth whatever horrors are inside that place."

Liliet (Suldae): "Yyyyeah," Suldae says, remembering the last one.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ah, geez guys," says Ismark.

Marcus Veranius is nervous. Who could have acquired all this amber to build something so large and gaudy?

Ismark Kolyanovich: There is a strange flicker of crimson light in his eyes as he looks at the amber statues, as though he has seen them before.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena raises her hand in the whipping snow and says: "Wait, I have a question guys."
"Doesn't Amber come from trees? It's like... Fossilized sap, right?"

Liliet (Suldae): "Mhm?" Suldae says, glancing at Ismark.
"...with this amount of magic involved, I'm giving no guarantees."

Ireena Kolyana: "Right, of course, magic. I forgot."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glances at her skeptically.

Ireena Kolyana: "Silly me, trying to ask serious questions! Sorry, sorry, carry on."

Marcus Veranius: "I can't say I'm smart enough to know how thus stuff is made, but it would have taken tremendous effort or magic to do so in this large a scale."

Suldae Westwind: "...oh come on."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Heh the Wizard forgot about magic" Henry chuckles "But yeah amber is like sap I believe"

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm coming, I'm coming. Let's just get this over with, it's freezing out here."

Suldae Westwind: "If there's anything at all anyone can contribute about this place, now's the time."
"I'm feeling a little overwhelmed..."

Kasimir Velikov: "This place is evil," says Kasimir, solemnly, staring at it with wide eyes. His eyes seem to reflect some strange light with no apparent source.

Marcus Veranius turns to Kasimir

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What isn't evil in Barovia"

Marcus Veranius: "Is that all? You had mentioned this place so often in travel; are there no other insights we have?"

Suldae Westwind: "A couple of things haven't been," Suldae says dryly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But it has been pretty evil"

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, please, please say what you were thinking about with the tree sap."
"Which, yes, it is. As far as I remember."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, I was only going to ask: What the hell kind of tree produces that much sap? These look like they were carved from single blocks."
"Just seemed interesting, that's all. It's probably nothing."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir sighs deeply.

Suldae Westwind: "...oh yes, the idea of there being an actual forest like this is... interesting."

"...or the sheer amount of trees that got bled for this."

"...anything else? Rictavio? Hiere? Ismark?"

Kasimir Velikov: "This place was constructed more than two thousand years ago. It was a place of heroes, a vault in which to contain the evil vestiges of the shattered dark gods, and to hide the hoard of forbidden knowledge that the wizards who made the temple long ago amassed. It was dedicated to a god of secrets. It was once a good place," says Kasimir. "Now it is not. Evil things have been here, and joined the imprisoned shadows within the walls. Pacts have been written here in blood."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Pacts, you say?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Secrets, you say?"

Rictavio: "Dark gods?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "It looks sort of familiar, doesn't it?"

"Something about the architecture... Like I've seen it in a dream."

Marcus Veranius blinks

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"It couldn't be..."

Joan: "Well, it gives me the creeps," says Joan, assuming you brought her along with you.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we did not We're not theat irresponsebole)

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "Either way, if spilled blood can corrupt a house I hate to think of what it can do to a palace."

Joan: Joan does not, in fact, say anything, as she is not, in fact, here)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Lovely, Let's go into the evil temple of evil before I lose a toe"

Marcus Veranius nods, following Henry's lead

Marcus Veranius: "Save some of your good spells for the Dragon. Whatever horrors are in here, we at least know the final one."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae warms everyone up again, but ends the melody at the entrance to the temple.

Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry, what? Dragon?"

"What Dragon?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry carfully makes his way down the stairs keeping his shield raised

Marcus Veranius: "The Undead Dragon that double-pinged off my ranger senses."

"As if one was bad enough alone."

GM: (Undead Dragon is at Argynvostholt)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You know maybe you could have mentioned that sometime before now just as a currtesy"

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

Marcus Veranius: (OOF)

GM: (But I can put one in here too if you'd like)

(Just for the sake of canon)

Marcus Veranius: (I'll pass)

Henry descends icy steps, down ten feet to a time-ravaged hallway with arrow slits in the walls. Beyond the hall lies a vast, sepulchral darkness.

Marcus Veranius: (So wait, is there no dragon here?)

Both walls of this tiny hallway have arrow slits in them.

GM: (Not that I know of?)

(Make a Perception check, whoever is first walking down this hallway)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14 + 1

PERCEPTION (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry spots something through one of the arrow slits on the right-hand side of the room: a skeleton in blue robes, huddled in the corner of the otherwise empty guard room he can see through the slit.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So someone died in there" Henry says gesturing towards the room. "We're off to a great start here"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks in as well. "...Lovely," she says.

Marcus Veranius peeks where Henry is pointing

Marcus Veranius: "...there isnt even a door in there."

"Must be a spellcaster. Do we want to check if he's got anything on im?"

Suldae Westwind: "...we're kind of on a tight schedule aren't we?"

Marcus Veranius nods

Suldae Westwind: Also, the less bothering the dead, the less disrespect.

But Suldae doesn't voice that one. They're in Barovia, that ship has long sailed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So anyone against me taking the lead for now?" Henry asks turning to look deeper inside the temple

Marcus Veranius: "None."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we see nothing)

(I mean we see nothing out of courtesy)

Suldae Westwind: "Please take the lead," Suldae says with feeling.

GM: (Thank you kindly)

(Better?)

Suldae Westwind: Her memories of the death house are bubbling up.

Marcus Veranius: (Significantly)

(Can we get the outside revealed as well?)

Suldae Westwind: It's so nice to have someone in actual armor this time.

GM: (Unfortunately, you can't, since the doors have silently closed behind you)

Suldae Westwind: (Question. Where are Kasimir, Ismark and co?)

Marcus Veranius: (Not again...)

Suldae, Marcus, and Henry have a sudden sickening sense that something is deeply wrong.

Suldae Westwind: (...what WERE you expecting really)

The doors of the Temple have closed behind them.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks around.

None of the other party members are here.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh for fucks sake"

Suldae Westwind: "...Ireena?"

Okay. Okay, this is...fine. It's probably not Strahd? Wherever she is, Ismark probably also is? Probably?

She can take care of herself.

Suldae is not having a panic attack.

She's just standing there.

Calmly.

Marcus Veranius: "...Ez?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sishes his lantern out and lights it

Marcus Veranius frowns

Henry of Willowsbrook: fishes

Marcus Veranius: "...they're with Ric. I'm sure they're safe."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes," Suldae says. She tries to come up with some joke about Rictavio, but fails.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "They might very well be safer than we are right now"

Suldae Westwind: She glances at Henry's lantern. It's... probably better than using magic.

"Might very well," Suldae echoes.

She is also suddenly remembering leaving Ismark behind.

Didn't they think he'd be safe, too?

But no, no, this isn't the same thing at all. They can all take care of themselves... even if they're separate...

The light of Henry's lantern illuminates a twenty-foot-wide balcony of black marble with a shattered railing, which overlooks a vast temple. Black marble staircases at each end of the balcony descend thirty feet to the temple floor. The vaulted ceiling is thirty feet above the balcony. The walls and ceilings are covered in an amber glaze, lending the gloom a golden sheen. A set of amber doors stands closed at the west end of the balcony. A similar pair stands open to the east. All three of you notice arrow slits in the walls overlooking the main chamber of the temple.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is just standing there.

Marcus Veranius taps Suldae's shoulder

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus Suldae you both okay?"

Marcus Veranius: "Death House, remember?"

"Does us no good to stand still."

To the north, off the edge of the balcony, is the main chamber of the temple. Four black marble columns support the vaulted ceiling of the temple, at the north end of which stands a forty-foot-tall statue of a cowed figure in flowing robes. The statue's stony hands are outstretched as if in the midst of casting a spell. Its face is a void of utter blackness. The ominous statue stands between two black marble balconies, one of which has partially collapsed and fallen on the temple's black marble floor, in front of an open doorway. The walls of the temple are sheathed in amber, and the doors leading from it are made of amber as well. Arched hallways coated with amber lead away from the main chamber of the temple to the west and east. Flanking these exits are alcoves that hold white marble statues of robed human wizards with pointed hats and golden staffs. One of them has toppled over and lies shattered on the floor.

Suldae Westwind: "...I am currently alive, which is more than I know about everyone else."

Marcus Veranius: "Come on, let's find the heart of this place and stab it good."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae moves on silently. She can walk. Talking is harder.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So forward and down or check the rooms up here"

Marcus Veranius: "FUCKING HELL, this is where I got hitched!"

Marcus Veranius stares

The chamber is, indeed, the very same.

Suldae Westwind: This feels a bit relieving to Suldae. They were, after all, relatively safe here.

It is different, this time, somehow --- more real, and less the mystic realm of the Raven Queen. Perhaps the chamber where Marcus was wedded is a shadowfell reflection of this place, or perhaps deeper and more sinister things are afoot.

Suldae Westwind: "...Let's keep walking," she says, unable to stand waiting.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns peeking his ears to listen for anything that is not them

Marcus Veranius: Clearly they copied the Raven Queen's own wedding hall and not the other way around.

Divination wizards, right?

There isn't much time to ponder this, unfortunately, because Suldae feels the Weave suddenly spiral down into the black void at the head of the towering statue and senses a powerful casting just a split second before it is unleashed.

Suldae Westwind: ...lacking any spells that would actually help, she ducks down.

GM (GM): 44

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae what-" Henry begins before being interrupted by...

GM: (Dexterity saving throws, please)

Suldae Westwind:

9

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (DC 17)

Suldae Westwind: (WOW)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

11 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Make yours with advantage, Suldae)

Marcus Veranius:

11

28

DEXTERITY SAVE (10)
Marcus Veranius

(should be the 11)

Suldae Westwind:

16

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Since you spotted it and took action to duck)

Suldae Westwind: (I'm in Henry's aura)

Henry of Willowsbrook: I fail

GM: (Don't forget Henry's aura, if it helps)

Henry of Willowsbrook: +3

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i pass)

(total is 19)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

AURA OF WARDING

Class: Paladin 7

Beginning at 7th level, you and friendly creatures within 10 feet of you have resistance to damage from spells. At 18th level, the range of this aura increases to 30 feet.

As Henry is asking Suldae what's up, a bolt of lightning crackles forth from the darkness at the head of the statue and strikes Henry square in the chest before forking to connect to both Marcus and Suldae, who manage to avoid some of the damage but are still singed. (Total damage: 44 lightning; halved on a successful save, halved again due to resistance)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE

Arcanaloth

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE

Flameskull

Initiative: 8

INITIATIVE

Flameskull

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE

Flameskull

Initiative: 20

Marcus Veranius absorbs elements, lessening the missed blow

GM: (Roll initiative)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 12.15

Marcus Veranius: (Err, the missed dodge)

25

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:8.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(so Marcus and Suldae take 11 Henry takes 22)

Marcus is the first to react to the sudden explosion of spellcasting, which seems like the opening fire in a more deadly volley. As he takes in the scene, he notes the greenish glow of arcane flames through the arrow slits on the western wall, and sees something pass by one of the slits as it moves into position: something like a huge skull with crystal eyes, wreathed in spectral flame.

Suldae Westwind: (Where is Marcus?)

(kind of important for aura affecting him or not)

Marcus Veranius: (Staring dumbfoundedly at the main statue. He wasn't in the aura)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he made the save and used absorb element)

Marcus Veranius: (He failed the save)

(I still had advantage on from ARROW RAIN)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh right)

Marcus Veranius: (Nat 1. Big oof)

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus turns his attention to the arrow slits. "Welcome party's here! Nostalgia time is over!"

Suldae, up close to the eastern doors, which lie open, sees a featureless chamber with a rough-edged, 10-foot-diameter circular hole in the floor to the east, and empty torch sconces along the walls. Double doors of amber stand open to the north and west. A single closed door lies just south of the western set of double doors. As she notes this, she sees a green glow grow inside the well, and suddenly three huge skulls with crystal eyes, all wreathed in emerald flame, rise from the well and surge towards her!

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 22

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 22

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 16

Marcus Veranius: He takes shots at the skull monsters before they can get into position

Suldae Westwind: (fucking wow)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Divine Favor

Evocation 1

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Your prayer empowers you with divine radiance. Until the spell ends, your weapon attacks deal an extra 1d4 radiant damage on a hit.

Marcus Veranius:

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20

Magical Piercing

GM: (Shooting through the arrow slits means they have $\frac{3}{4}$ cover, if Marcus is still affected by such mortal considerations. He can also shoot through the doors to the east and hit the three flameskulls by Suldae.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ignore that)

GM: (Who do not have cover)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is too good a shot to be bothered)

28

16

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

23 + 2

Magical Piercing

GM: (I figured)

(Are both shots going to the indicated target?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee. That enough to down it?)

GM: (With piercing resistance, takes it to half)

GM (GM): 22.5

Marcus Veranius: (>Piercing resistance)

(This temple is a truly frightening place)

15 | 15
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

10 | 26
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

GM: (And just think -- this is just the first chamber!)

(Both of those hit)

22.5 \

Henry of Willowsbrook: (flameskulls are nasty)

Marcus's flurry of crossbow bolts fly true, zipping through an arrow slit and ripping into the nearest available flameskull. They do enough damage to overwhelm its animating magic, and the flameskull drops to the ground, dormant.

Marcus Veranius runs to the safety of behind Henry

Marcus Veranius: (EoT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (this is gonna suck)

GM: (Dex saves, all y'all)

(DC is only 13)

Suldae Westwind:

9

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

(OH MY GOD)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

3 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

16 + 4DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of WillowsbrookMarcus Veranius: (Auto-pass)GM: (Wow Suldae it's good you're getting those out of the way early)Suldae Westwind: (agreed)

(presuming i dont die)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how many saves?)GM: (Just two for now)

(There will, of course, be more in a moment)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (toasty)Suldae Westwind: (so im making another save?)Flameskull:*DC13Half damageDexterity Save*27Fire150 ftFireball*DC13Half damageDexterity Save*28Fire150 ftFireball*Suldae Westwind:*15*DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae WestwindHenry of Willowsbrook: (goddman flameskulls) damn)

Two huge blasts of flame erupt nearly simultaneously in the doorway of the eastern chamber, engulfing the party. The nigh-simultaneous fireballs would be enough to kill most adventurers.

Flameskull:

13

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile

Suddenly, three darts of crystalline energy streak from the arrow slits on the western wall, and Henry takes 13 points of force damage.

Suldae Westwind: $(14+28)/2 = 42/2 = 21$

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry takes 13,7,6 damage)

GM: (So, bookkeeping: Suldae fails save on first fireball, passes second, Henry fails first save, passes second, Marcus auto-passes both. First fireball does 27 fire damage, second does 28 fire damage. Take your elemental resistance (due to the aura) into account after halving the damage from passing the save)

(I'm not adjusting your HP directly, so make sure to subtract anything manually)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry takes 26 including the magic missiles)

The creature in the shadows of the statue's head twists the Weave; Henry, make a Constitution saving throw. 61

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Wait, scratch that, he's well out of range of that spell)

(You know what, fuck it, let's call it a DEX save from the whole party again)

Suldae Westwind:

13

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Arcanathoth:

DC17

Half damage

Dexterity Save26

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Suldae Westwind: (+3=16)

(ouch)

GM: (Marcus, you too -- the DC on this one is 17)

(So due to the aura that's 13 damage to both Henry and Suldae)

Marcus Veranius:

18 + 2 | 23 + 2

DEXTERITY SAVE (12)
Marcus Veranius

(No advantage; first roll of 20)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (aura is plus 3)

Suldae Westwind: (...you pass regardless lol)

Flameskull:

FIRE RAY
Flameskull

Attack: 21 | 11

Damage: 14 fire

FIRE RAY
Flameskull

Attack: 6 | 8

Damage: 10 fire

One of the three Flameskulls to the east unleashes twin rays of flame from its eyes -- one strikes Suldae, (21 for 14 fire) the other zooms past just over her shoulder, briefly illuminating the entire chamber in a lance of crimson light.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: The solution for the sniping statue seems easy enough, and Suldae takes the risk of ducking into the chamber.

As it happens, she has a solution to being outnumbered as well, flute at her lips and music swelling in a call to feywild. Spiders live in abandoned places, don't they?

Conjure Animals

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: Unoccupied spaces that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

You summon fey spirits that take the form of beasts and appear in unoccupied spaces that you can see within range. Choose one of the following options for what appears: One beast of challenge rating 2 or lower Two beasts of challenge rating 1 or lower Four beasts of challenge rating 1/2 or lower Eight beasts of challenge rating 1/4 or lower Each beast is also considered fey, and it disappears when it drops to 0 hit points or when the spell ends. The summoned creatures are friendly to you and your companions. Roll initiative for the summoned creatures as a group, which has its own turns. They obey any verbal commands that you issue to them (no action required by you). If you don't issue any commands to them, they defend themselves from hostile creatures, but otherwise take no actions. The GM has the creatures' statistics.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using certain higher-level Spell Slots, you choose one of the summoning options above, and more creatures appear - twice as many with a 5th-level slot, three times as many with a 7th-level slot, and four times as many with a 9th-level slot.

4 Giant Spiders, please.

20

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Spirits of the air and earth move sluggishly here, but by their power four fey essences manage to manifest in the forms of enormous spiders, which surround Suldae in a protective mass of black fur and far too many legs.

Flameskull:

INITIATIVE
Giant Spider

Initiative: 23

Suldae Westwind: Last time, the spiders were on the other end. Suldae remembers very well what it was like to lie ensnared in the web, and cannot deny feeling a little gleeful about the prospect of having that on her side this time.

Assuming they don't get blasted apart by the skulls.

The music continues in a song of gratitude to those who came to help.

EoT

GM: (Henry, you're up!)

Suldae Westwind: (four or three?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Smouldering and charred henry grits hsi teeth "Oh I love this place already"

Suldae Westwind: (I'm sure Henry can tell the spiders are friendly, right?)

(ty)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Divine Favor

*Evocation 1Casting Time: 1 bonus actionRange: SelfTarget: SelfComponents: V, SDuration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Your prayer empowers you with divine radiance. Until the spell ends, your weapon attacks deal an extra 1d4 radiant damage on a hit.

Henry follows Suldae into the room gathering light around his War pick as he walks

Suldae Westwind: (summons rule grinning skulls drool)Henry of Willowsbrook:1330ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

3*Radiant12Piercing4Acid1530ft/60ft*

Dagonbone Warpick (+11)
Henry of Willowsbrook

2*Radiant17Piercing4Acid*

Hurling his weapon at the closest skull

GM: (2 hits)Henry of Willowsbrook: 29/2 piercing 5 radiant and 8 acid)

Henry's massive warpick flies, blitzing with holy light. The ephemeral emerald flames surrounding the skull seem to act as a protective barrier, but it is not strong enough to prevent the warpick from striking home. (Flameskull takes 14 piercing due to resistance, plus 5 radiant and 8 acid, for a total of 27 damage.)

The Flameskull is still very much alive, and hungry now for Henry's blood.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Eot

Flameskull:5*Higher Level Cast*10Force120 ftMagic Missile

Marcus suddenly takes several crystal darts in the torso, taking 15 points of force damage.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)]

Marcus Veranius is quickly realizing how under-prepared they were for this temple. He takes more shots at the rear guard

Marcus Veranius:

11*120>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4*Bonus Damage22Magical Piercing12120>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4*Bonus Damage21Magical Piercing14120>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4*Bonus Damage18Magical Piercing*

(Well, one probably hits)

The first bolt clacks off stone, passing through the arrow slit but missing the flameskull due to a distortion of heat-haze caused by its flames. The second two bolts, adjusting for this distortion, do not miss.

GM: (What form is that bonus damage in? Is it also piercing?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes. ;-;)

The Flameskull takes 23.5 points of damage.

Marcus Veranius retreats into the next chamber to avoid a retaliation fireball

Though his bolts strike the flameskull right in its gemstone eyes, one after another, they seem to do little damage.

GM: (Any additional actions/bonus actions?)

Marcus Veranius: (EoT)

GM: (Giant Spiders are up! Suldae, you should be able to control them)

Suldae Westwind: (Info sheet with stat details?)

(nm found it)

The first spider shoots web at the skull.

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)

Giant Spider

Attack: 18

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

One flameskull is completely ensconced in webbing.

GM: (A restrained creature's speed becomes 0, and it can't benefit from any bonus to its speed.

GM (GM): Attack rolls against the creature have advantage, and the creature's Attack rolls have disadvantage.

The creature has disadvantage on Dexterity Saving Throws.)

GM: (Note that this does not prevent it from casting)

Suldae Westwind: (I figured)

The second spider shoots web at the second skull.

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)*Giant SpiderAttack: 25

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

Splat! The second skull is equally encased in webbing.

Suldae Westwind: The third spider....

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)*Giant SpiderAttack: 9

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

...also shoots web.

GM: (They have a STR score of 1, so they'd have to roll a 17 or higher to get out of the restraints... So they're probably not going anywhere. Although they are immune to fire, now that I think of it.)

Seeing how its fellows have been treated, the third flameskull artfully dodges the incoming spray of webbing.

It grins, but that isn't much of a feat.

Suldae Westwind: Unfortunately, there is also the fourth spider.

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)*Giant SpiderAttack: 25

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

As the skull is in mid-dodge, the fourth spider glues it to the ceiling with a well-aimed spray. |

GM: (Any additional moves for the spiders?)

Suldae Westwind: The spiders scatter across the room as best they can, taking strategic positions.

EoST

(End of Spider Turn)

GM: (I'll allow them to be on the walls and ceiling, so you can technically share a space with them if you so desire, since they are above you)

Suldae Westwind: (noted_
)

Flameskull: Finding itself wrapped in webbing, the flameskull makes a petulant noise of grating, crystalline disharmonies, and unleashes a fireball right between the group of three.

GM: (between*)

Suldae Westwind: (the spiders are trying to be suboptimal fireball targets)

Flameskull:

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

29

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Suldae Westwind: (yeah thats what i figured)

Whoosh. All three flameskulls are momentarily bathed in flame, and the webbing which has coated them melts away. Two spiders are within reach of the blast of fire.

Giant Spider:

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 10

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 4

Suldae Westwind: (one of them is also within Henry's aura)

One spider is blasted to charred ash, and blows away, a spectral fey form, returning to the aether. The other spider hunkers down as the flames wash over its fur, shielded by Henry's protective aura.

Suldae Westwind: ...well that was not the best beginning. Suldae's flute sings gratitude and apology to the first feywild spirit to get knocked out of the battle.

The second of the three flameskulls in this chamber drops an identical spell, this time in the exact center of the group of adventurers and their surprise animal companions.

GM: (Dex saves all round, DC 13)

Suldae Westwind: (...rip)

17

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

Giant Spider:

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 8

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 7

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 21

Flameskull:

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

27

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I assume they aren't by the book flameskulls?)

GM: (You should always assume that I have added or twisted something)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Kay)

19 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

SHIELD MASTER

Feat: Human Bonus Feat

If you take the Attack action on your turn, you can use a bonus action to try to shove a creature within 5 feet of you with your shield.

If you aren't incapacitated, you can add your shield's AC bonus to any Dexterity saving throw you make against a spell or other harmful effect that targets only you.

If you are subjected to an effect that allows you to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, you can use your reaction to take no damage if you succeed on the saving throw, interposing your shield between yourself and the source of the effect.

reaction for no damage

GM: (Suldae, then, takes 6 points of fire damage. Henry takes none, and Marcus passes the save automatically although I am unclear on whether or not he still takes the half damage)

Marcus Veranius: (He does)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he takes 1/4)

Marcus Veranius: (His dex bonus is just high enough that he can't fail the DC)

There is a blast of crimson flames and a reek of sulfur -- a Flameskull has used Dimension Door.

Arcanaloath:

Cloudkill

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A 20-foot-radius sphere centered on a point you choose within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You create a 20-foot-radius Sphere of poisonous, yellow-green fog centered on a point you choose within range. The fog spreads around corners. It lasts for the Duration or until strong wind disperses the fog, ending the spell. Its area is heavily obscured.

When a creature enters the spell's area for the first time on a turn or starts its turn there, that creature must make a Constitution saving throw. The creature takes 5d8 poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Creatures are affected even if they hold their breath or don't need to breathe. The fog moves 10 feet away from you at the start of each of your turns, rolling along the surface of the ground. The vapors, being heavier than air, sink to the lowest level of the land, even pouring down openings.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 5th.

Suldae Westwind: (AUGH)

The creature in the Shadows unleashes a spell, and Suldae has a single moment to catch her breath before the magic takes hold. A blast of toxic green mist expands from the center of the doorway, flooding into the chamber. (DC 17 CON saves all around)

Suldae Westwind:

17

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(21 poison damage on a failed save.)

Marcus Veranius: (At the start of a creature's turn)

GM: (Oh wait, you're right)

(So don't make the save until your turn, unless you passed it already -- we'll keep that passing roll)

Marcus Veranius: (Or the first time you move into the area with movement)

GM: (Oddly enough, giant spiders are not immune to poison. Go figure!)

Suldae Westwind: (w e l p)

Marcus Veranius: (Venom VS Poison)

The wounded flameskull at the southern corner of this chamber casts Shield upon itself.

GM: (Derp, wait, casts Blur)

Flameskull:

Blur

Illusion 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Your body becomes blurred, shifting and wavering to all who can see you. For the duration, any creature has disadvantage on attack rolls against you. An attacker is immune to this effect if it doesn't rely on sight, as with blindsight, or can see through illusions, as with truesight.

GM: (Suldae, you're up -- you passed the save for the poison already)

(You still take 10 points of poison damage, but I believe that is halved by Henry's aura)

Suldae Westwind: (5 damage, got it)

Clearly, the problem is that they didn't get far ENOUGH away from the statue.

Suldae takes off running up the corridor, playing a song of rejuvenation for her allies.

2

Higher Level Cast

18

Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds

Suldae Westwind

Glazed amber covers the walls of this twenty-foot-wide, seventy-foot-long arched corridor. The amber doors at both ends of the hall stand open. A closed door is in the middle of the east wall, and three arrow slits are cut into the wall across from it. Cracks in the black marble floor run the length of the hall.

Suldae Westwind: (Healing for everyone!)

+20HP

GM: (Any additional actions/moves?)

Suldae Westwind: (nope, all out)

EoT

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (con save right?)

22 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Right)

(So that's... 5 points of poison damage all told, I think)

(Don't forget to take Suldae's healing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (concentration check dc 10)

14 + 4CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook

(kay so Divine Favor is still there)

FIGHTING SPIRIT*Class: Fighter 3 Samurai*

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

Henry charges out of the cloud at the skulls

Holy light surrounds Henry, and as he advances upon the Blurred form of the Flameskull, he sees, by his own holy light, where it truly is. (Advantage cancels out disadvantage from Blur)

Henry of Willowsbrook:*1230ft/60ftDagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

2*Radiant16Piercing6Acid1830ft/60ftDagonbone Warpick (+11)

Henry of Willowsbrook

2*Radiant11Piercing6AcidGM: (First is a miss)Suldae Westwind: (oh shit Suldae also needs a concentration check)

10CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae WestwindHenry of Willowsbrook: Smite on the hitSuldae Westwind: (...the spiders are still there)Henry of Willowsbrook: 3d8 for first level+undead

rolling 3d8

(1 + 5 + 8)

= 14Suldae Westwind: (...actually, are they vulnerable to radiant?)

Henry's first swing misses, but his second strikes the Flameskull right as it attempts to raise some magical shielding -- and punches through. (Casting Shield brings its AC to 18, which is not enough to save it from Henry's second attack)

GM: (They have no vulnerabilities, per se)

(But they're not immune or resistant to everything, just most things)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)Henry of Willowsbrook: 16 radiant+6 acid 5piercingcause resistance

There is a crystalline sound as something vital shatters within the Flameskull, and by the holy power of Henry it falls --- not dormant, as so many flameskulls so often do --- but truly dead.

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

There is a blast of abyssal flame; another flameskull has used Dimension Door to more quickly approach the party.

Marcus Veranius:

20 + 3 | 16 + 3

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus VeraniusGM: (Marcus, you're up)Marcus Veranius: (Wait, henry moved. No aura)Henry of Willowsbrook: (You are not In Aura range because Henry moved)Marcus Veranius: (How much damage from poison?)Suldae Westwind: (10 i think)

(dont forget the healing)

GM: (I believe it was 21 raw, but since you passed the save it's down to 10)

(And don't forget the healing)

Suldae Westwind: ...wait hold on

Marcus Veranius: The good news was that Ez probably knew they were in danger by now. The bad news is these things were a bugger to subdue

Suldae Westwind: i think the healing math is off - i havent adjusted this one to the cleric feature one minute

Marcus Veranius: Marcus takes shots at the hallway skulls, aiming for where he hears cursed flames flickering

Suldae Westwind: 2+spell's level
+8hp more

Marcus Veranius: (Advantage for attacking unseen, disadvantage from heavy obscuring. Cancels out to neutral hits)

Suldae Westwind: the healing is 28 hp for everyone

Marcus Veranius:

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

19

Magical Piercing

25

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

19

Magical Piercing

13

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

19*Magical PiercingGM: (Miss, hit, miss)Henry of Willowsbrook: (shield?9Suldae Westwind: (fixed it, should work right automatically next time)GM: (The last miss is due to Shield)Suldae Westwind: (MARCUS NO
(THIS THING MOVES)Marcus Veranius: Marcus risks staying in the cloud's area for the cover it providesSuldae Westwind: (YOU WILL BE IN ITS RADIUS AGAIN NEXT TURN)Henry of Willowsbrook: (he can hold his breathSuldae Westwind: (IT ROLLS AWAY FROM THE CASTER)
(read the spell description - holding breath doesnt help)
(ok)Marcus Veranius: (It's a cloud of obscured vision; I'm risking damage to be immune to sight-based spells)Suldae Westwind: ('risking')Marcus Veranius: [EoT]Henry of Willowsbrook: (damn missreda) read)Marcus Veranius: (Mistakes were made)Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM is this petty revenge for Hiere fireballing all of your encounters?)

The flameskull on the northern edge of the room, having just witnessed the destruction of its fellow at the hands of a mortal, lets loose an unholy screech of terrible rage, and twin jets of flame that surge from its eyes.

GM: (Hiere's not even here, how could it be revenge? Haha)Suldae Westwind: (i wont lie, im kind of amazed the spiders survived the round)Flameskull:*FIRE RAY
*FlameskullAttack: 8 | 24*Damage: 13 fire*FIRE RAY

Flameskull <hr/> Attack: 12 15

Damage: 7 fire

Suldae Westwind: (note: if Suldae wasnt at the door i think we wouldnt be facing so many at once)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how got fire beamed?)

Suldae Westwind: (the spiders' turn right now, right?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: who*9
)

GM: (Yeah where did the spiders go on the list?)

Suldae Westwind: (i dont see them on the list)
(maybe it was tied to a spider that died)

GM: (Probably, fixed it)
(Flameskull will zap Henry if it survives the spider's turn)

Suldae Westwind: (so, con saves)

GM: (Hyup)
(Without the benefits of the aura, I believe)

Suldae Westwind: (alas)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (if Henry were a lev1 17 paladin they'd still be in it)

Suldae Westwind: (18 i think)
(CAN i even roll saves for them?)

Giant Spider: I gotchu fam
Dis my roll

CONSTITUTION Giant Spider <hr/> Ability: 14
--

CONSTITUTION Giant Spider <hr/> Ability: 3

oh noes

Henry of Willowsbrook: (they dead)

Suldae Westwind: (...well technically they're still there)

The Giant Spiders thrash and squirm in the effects of the poison, but manage weakly to cling to life. It is lucky they are on the ceiling, as the gas is already beginning to sink and spread.

Suldae Westwind: Both spiders skitter out of the poison cloud for visibility and valiantly shoot web at the two skulls next to Henry.

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)

Giant Spider

Attack: 21

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

WEB (RECHARGE 5-6)

Giant Spider

Attack: 11

The target is restrained by webbing. As an action, the restrained target can make a DC 12 Strength check, bursting the webbing on a success. The webbing can also be attacked and destroyed - AC 10; hp 5; vulnerability to fire damage; immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (..recharge)

Suldae Westwind: (...shit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (roll 2d6)

Suldae Westwind: rolling 2d6

(5 + 2)

= 7

GM: (One recharges, one does not)

Suldae Westwind: The second spider bravely attacks the grinning skull in melee, ineffectual as it is inevitably going to be.

BITE

Giant Spider

Attack: 11

and the target must make a DC 11 Constitution saving throw, taking 9 (2d8) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. If the poison damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, the target is stable but poisoned for 1 hour, even after regaining hit points, and is paralyzed while poisoned in this way.

Damage: 7 piercing + 3 poison

Unfortunately its great fangs cannot even approach the actual bone of the skull, due to the flames which ensconce it. The skull begins to cackle manically.

GM: (Which flameskull do you want to wrap up in webs?)

(If it's the same one that the other one just tried to bite, the biting one can attack with advantage)

Suldae Westwind: (the same one)

BITE
Giant Spider

Attack: 25

and the target must make a DC 11 Constitution saving throw, taking 9 (2d8) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. If the poison damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, the target is stable but poisoned for 1 hour, even after regaining hit points, and is paralyzed while poisoned in this way.

Damage: 4 + 4 piercing + 4 + 10 poison

(...well that went better lol)

GM: (Flameskull is immune to poison and to the poisoned condition, so just the piercing, which gets halved...)

(So it takes 4 points of piercing damage)

Due only to the spray of webs from its fellow, the spider is finally able to sink its fangs into actual bone. The Flameskull is highly annoyed by this.

GM: (Additional motion from the spiders?)

Suldae Westwind: (the spider that isn't attacking joins Suldae up in the corridor)

EoST

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Welp it's time hit me boss)

GM: (Using the earlier two rolls for the Fire Ray from this guy -- so an 8 and 12 to hit Henry, which both miss)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (HA)

Suldae Westwind: (best playlist 12/10)

The web-wrapped flameskull becomes thoroughly enraged, and unleashes yet another fireball.

Flameskull:

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

25

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Henry of Willowsbrook:

11 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Giant Spider:

DEXTERITY
Giant Spider

Ability: 6

Suldae Westwind: ...yeah)=

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry takes 6)

Webbing is burned away and the spider which dared to insult the flameskull is immolated. It collapses, a heavy charred lump of tangled limbs, falling from the ceiling with a crunchy splat.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

23 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry feels a faint tickle of warmth as the hot flames surge around him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (passed concentration)

The Flameskull in the center of the Cloudkill looses a blind fireball into the middle of the room, hitting no one.

GM: (Start of Arcanoloth's turn, the Cloudkill begins to move ten feet away from it)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae decides that she cannot improve on perfection and continues her previous strategy, although the spell is slightly weaker this time - there is only so much power she has to call on, yet. It is still more than she ever imagined wielding, though...

22
Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds
Suldae Westwind

Whatever is in the shadows continues to wait, biding its time, looking for an exposed target.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(Oh man, you're on top of it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (could you remove the fireballs?)
(thanks)

Suldae Westwind: (+22 hp for everyone!)

The Giant Spider in the hallway near her seems incredibly grateful for Suldae's healing, which restores its wounded legs and re-grows its singed fur. It seems to be in great condition now!

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ey Almost back to full hp)

Suldae Westwind: (the real reason to have a (bard/)cleric in the party)
EoT

Henry of Willowsbrook: (what are the dimensions of that hole GM?)

GM: (The hole is ten feet in diameter, it looks like an unintentional hole, not like a well with architecture and intention behind it. It descends about 20 feet into darkness before you can't see any further. There is probably another room below.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leads over the hole

Landing in between the Skulls

ACTION SURGE

Class: Fighter 2nd Level

Starting at 2nd level, you can push yourself beyond your normal limits for a moment. On Your Turn, you can take one additional action on top of your regular action and a possible Bonus Action.

Once you use this feature, you must finish a short or Long Rest before you can use it again. Starting at 17th level, you can use it twice before a rest, but only once on the same turn.

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

GM: (Ohhhhhhhh shiiiiiiiiit)

(This should be good)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Switching from his Pick to the dagger-short sword Henry turns swings turning into a visage of death in motion

32

28

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

1 + 3
Radiant

15 + 5
Slashing/Piercing

13

14

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

4
Radiant

16
Slashing/Piercing

26

23

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

1
Radiant

13
Slashing/Piercing

22

21

Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

2

Radiant

13

Slashing/Piercing

"VORPAL" DAGGER*Other: Item*

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Suldae Westwind: (...the description of this really suffers from ambiguity in case the creature CONSISTS of the head)

As he leaps over the hole, Henry has the most horrible sinking feeling in the pit of his stomach. He senses three terrifying evil presences just beneath him — minds as ancient and as utterly dark with evil as the lords of the nine hells.

GM: (It will take the additional 6d8 in this case)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

GM: (That's three firm hits and one miss due to Shield)
(Go ahead and roll the 6d8)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Attacks are alternating so 33 slashing and 5 radiant on one and 29 +3 on the other

Suldae Westwind: also 6d8 d3
d8

ugh

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait)

rolling 6d8

(4 + 6 + 6 + 3 + 4 + 3)

= 26

(so ugh how dead are they?)

GM: (So first one takes 50 and second one takes 29 if I'm not mistaken?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yes)

GM: (Is that the right math?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (does the second one still move?)

(the one that took 29)

GM: (Sorry, the doorbell rang, back now)

With a sweep of his black blade Henry cleaves the first flameskull completely in half, the blade gliding smoothly through bone and arcane shielding. The blade continues on its path and strikes the other flameskull, which spins away, screaming, never having taken so much physical pain before.

GM: (Second one is still on its feet, metaphorically)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (SMITE)

(3 more d8)

rolling 3d8

(8 + 7 + 8)

= 23

Henry's holy light is unleashed a moment later, and the other flameskull bursts into a scintillating fireworks display of emerald sparks.

Henry feels the blade in his hand suddenly seem to come alive. It is warm in his grip, and he can feel something that is almost like another heartbeat, deep in the black metal...

There is a shuddering sound, a rending of something deeper than the physical plane.

Henry feels a shadow bloom somewhere deep in his soul. There is, indeed, a certain pleasure in killing...

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lets out a breath grinning a grin to wide to be entirely comfortable "Oh this'll do, this'll do nicely"

He humms out

EoT

Suldae Westwind: Suldae watches him, wide-eyed. She did not catch all that, but this reaction seems... off.

 Flameskull: A flameskull in the hallway looses another Fireball right in the center of the room, missing everybody.

It also moves forward, into the chamber, as the flames begin to dissipate. Its emerald eyes peer through the green mist, hunting for targets.

GM: (Marcus is up)

 Marcus Veranius: Marcus can't see shit, only hearing explosions in the background outside the fog

12 + 3

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

18 + 3

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

(Ignore the +3, but we rollin with advantage)

GM: (18 is good)

(So that brings the poison damage down to 10)

 Marcus Veranius: Marcus attempts more blind shots at the hallway opponent

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

22

Magical Piercing

17

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

21

Magical Piercing

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

22

Magical Piercing

(First is 11)

GM: (I believe the Flameskull in the hall still has its shield up, since it hasn't had a turn since it used its reaction)

(Which would mean 3 misses)

Marcus Veranius: (It SHOULD have had a turn since then. Shield came up on Marcus's last turn)

GM: (Oh hang on, you're right)

(Reactions get so confusing)

(Anyway, since it has its reaction back, it casts Shield again)

Marcus Veranius: Action Surge

24

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

21

Magical Piercing

11

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow (+8)
Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

18

Magical Piercing

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

4

Bonus Damage

8

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

19 and 24 to hit

GM: (Two hits!)Marcus Veranius: 25 and 22 piercingGM: (So after resistance, that's 23.5 piercing)

(23 piercing damage applied)

Two of Marcus's hasty shots strike the flameskull in the hallway, dealing substantial damage! He knows that any ordinary creature would be dead from such an attack, but these flameskulls seem to be hardy constructs.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus backs himself against the wall, struggling with these manner of undead
[Eot]GM: (Spider is up)Suldae Westwind: (MARCUS YOU'RE TOO FAR AWAY FROM YOUR HEALER)

(aaa)

(you still are)

(can you please try to get within 30ft)

(if you cannot, back away as far as you want)

(you're either in range or not lol)

Marcus Veranius: (sorry)Suldae Westwind: ('s fine)

(i am not playing a sorcerer alas)

GM: (What would you like the spider to do?)Henry of Willowsbrook: (mas cure wounds is 60 ft)GM: (It's also expensive from a spell slot point of view)Suldae Westwind: (also I'm out of slots lol)

(thats what i used twice)

GM: (Yup, bards)Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh dat's bad)Suldae Westwind: (now im down to 30ft healing spells)

GM: (You'll probably be fine)

(Not like you're only in the first room of a two story temple with 42 rooms)

(On a 3 hour time limit)

Suldae Westwind: (aaaaaaa)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (why do I have the feeling there is an implied malvolent smile here)

Suldae Westwind: (implied?)

GM: (:D)

(Oh wait, gotta get my double chin in there... (:D))

Henry of Willowsbrook: (well GM has yet to say he likes to see us suffer)

GM: (I feel like I've definitely said that before)

(Right though, spiders)

Suldae Westwind: The last remaining spider tries to recover its web.

rolling d6

(3)

= 3

It cannot, so instead it executes a complicated maneuver in conjunction with Suldae who hasn't used up her movement this turn.

(can i have my token on top of the spider's)

GM: (There you go)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Suldae is now mounted on a giant spider.

EoST

Cackling slightly in what might actually be panic, the pincushioned Flameskull that just witnessed five or six bolts come flying out of a cloud of impenetrable green fog and strike with surprising accuracy, decides that it likes being undead. It flees, flying towards the Shadow with its full speed. (80 ft)

The cloud of noxious gas continues to drift away from its caster, moving ten feet away. It is, by now, just barely at head height. In another moment or two it may be low enough for Marcus to see over it.

Then, quite suddenly, the green mist is gone.

It seems concentration has ended, perhaps to be used on something else.

Suldae Westwind: (Welp, this sounds bad)

Guiding Bolt

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feetTarget: A creature of your choice within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: 1 round

A flash of light streaks toward a creature of your choice within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 4d6 radiant damage, and the next attack roll made against this target before the end of your next turn has advantage, thanks to the mystical dim light glittering on the target until then.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 1st.

Suldae plays a song about the target of her current wrath. She really doesn't like those skulls.

The hallway to the north of Suldae suddenly blossoms with perfect darkness, which fills it from wall to wall and from ceiling to floor. Suldae can now no longer see down the hall.

Suldae Westwind:

27

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind

14 + 19
Radiant

GM: (That's enough to kill it. How would you like to RP it?)

Suldae Westwind: For a bolt from heavens to strike down an abomination, no clear path to the actual sky is required. Blinding white light simply comes into existence around the skull, and it crumbles into ash from inside.

Suldae lingers in the doorway on the back of her spider mount, awaiting wise thoughts from teammates.

*teammates

EoT

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Arcanaloth:

INITIATIVE
Amber Golem

Initiative: 12

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves to the door leading to the main chamber with a spring in his step singing while he tries to spot the poor fool that tried to fry him and his friends with lightning

"When fields lie calm and wind stands still run home, run Home

When the Trees do bow, as if they weep stay down, stay Down
 Though its light beckons forth, a Melody calls out

Henry of Willowsbrook: too late, too Late

As the crows make night of the fading sun hide now, hide Now"
 What does he see?

GM: (Does he have a light source or darkvision?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Still has the lantern

GM: (I suppose he's glowing most of the time, too)

Suldae Westwind: (is this a good time to bring up Suldae has the Light cantrip)
 (caster multiclass sucks in some ways but boy do you get lots of cantrips)

Henry sees the vast empty chamber of the Temple, and the statue there, the hooded head of which is still wrapped in an utterly impenetrable darkness. He also sees a wounded flameskull flying towards it like a chick to the wings of its mother.

Suldae Westwind: (...on second thought the lantern might be better)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "There you are! Oh but running won't do you any good!" Henry says voice dripping with sinister cheer before chsing after the skull (dash action chasing*)
 EoT

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: ...On second thought, Suldae is even more creeped out than before.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus checks back in the hallway where he was shooting flying skull monsters
 "Oi! You started this! Get back here!"

21

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
 Marcus Veranius

4

Bonus Damage

18

Magical Piercing

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
 Marcus Veranius

4*Bonus Damage22Magical Piercing24

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork*Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

4*Bonus Damage20Magical PiercingGM: (Three hits -- it was busily fleeing and did not anticipate getting shot in the back)CLACK, CLACK, CLACK! Three bolts strike home, and the skull's flames cease to flow, its crystal eyes grow dim, and it falls to the ground with a crash of bone on stone. It seems to be dormant.Marcus Veranius frowns. Lousy re-animating skull gremlin*Marcus Veranius: "Change of plans! We need to retreat; no way we're going to be able to endure this temple AND Strahd in a single day!"Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry laughs "You think they'll let us out?"Tops K.: [EoT]Marcus Veranius: "I didn't plan on asking for permission!"Suldae Westwind: "I'm listening!"Ireena Kolyana: Suldae hears: ``...you hear me? Suldae? Where are you? We're hunkered down, fighting some kind of floating skull thingies. Doors are sealed. Reply... your position!"

Suldae recognizes the 25-word limit of a Sending spell and knows that she must answer quickly.

It is curious... There seems to be a powerful arcane interference, disrupting the spell. It must have taken a prodigious effort of arcana to cast it across whatever strange distance separates the two parties.

GM: (Giant Spider's turn, btw)Suldae Westwind: (quickly, as in, doesn't have time to talk to others quickly?)GM: (The spell lasts one round, so I'd say as long as it's not a protracted discussion you've got time to talk a little)

(You can only respond to her in a 25-word message, however)

(And there is a 5% chance that any given word will not come through)

Suldae Westwind: "...You're okay!" Suldae answers before considering the spell's limitations. "...We're inside, fought off the skulls, there's a giant statue. We want to leave. Are you outside? We're inside, near a giant statue!"

The spider carries Suldae out into the chamber.

(the spider not doing anything else can get 60ft of movement, can i split them between the spider's and Suldae's turns?)

Ireena Kolyana: 1) You're 2) okay! ... 3) We're 4) inside, 5) fought 6) off 7) the 8) skulls, 9) there's 10) a 11) giant 12) statue. 13) We 14) want 15) to 16) leave. 17) Are 18) you 19) outside? 20) We're 21) inside, 22) near 23) a 24) giant 25) statue

1375

Only the word "Giant" did not make it through

There is a long moment, a pause.

Ireena must be discussing this information with the others.

Suldae Westwind: (the word giant was repeated twice)

(for a reason :3)

"Ireena contacted me with Sending!"

Marcus Veranius: "Listen, this temple run might have been theoretically possible with a full expedition party. With only us three and Strahd to arrive in hours, WE WILL DIE IF WE STAY!"

Suldae Westwind: "I agree! Ireena asked where we are!"

"She still didn't say where SHE is!"

"...they. Where they are."

Ireena Kolyana: After a long time, there is a response: "I c... only cast this one more time, what do you mean you're inside? We're inside! Where are you? There's a giant statue here."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

"We are leaving! Leave the temple! We'll be trying to leave!"

Suldae glances at Marcus for any more useful contribution.

(the answer is not over yet hold on)

(Suldae is saying all this out loud so Marcus should have opportunity to help)

Marcus Veranius doesn't know shit outside how to fire a crossbow and shoes

Suldae Westwind: There is some nasty dimensional bullshit at play here, and Suldae is not a wizard to immediately have ideas on how to deal with it.

But maybe if she takes a couple of seconds to center herself, buoyed by the relief of hearing Ireena's voice...

22

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(Basically what can Suldae figure out about what the fuck is going on from the particular angle of HOW DO WE GET OUT)

(or find each other)

Kasimir Velikov: Suddenly, Kasimir's voice comes through. ``There appears to be some kind of interplanar fuckery at work here. Open doors, tell me what you see."

It seems, he, too, brought Sending.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (are we still in initiative?)

GM: (Yes, because there are still two active combatants -- one approaching now)

(Actually, hold that thought, he's happy where he is)

(Ending Initiative)

(But don't go thinking that means you're safe)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae spider-dashes to the doors they came in through.

Suldae listens to the music of the spheres, and hears it with a cold and crystalline clarity that chills her to the bone. They are no longer on the Material Plane.

Suldae Westwind: (I have a question. Were we on it before?)

Marcus Veranius: "..."

The doors are not locked, but they open onto nothingness -- an utter void, brimming with stars.

Marcus Veranius stares with wide eyes, and a quickly-collapsing hope

Suldae Westwind: "...the doors open into nowhere," Suldae reports. "What do we do?"

This is her answer to both Sendings.

She's still riding the high of hearing that Ireena is okay and safe enough to spare time for casting Sending multiple times in a row.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well technically no Barovia is a demiplane of the shadowfell that used to be part of the prime material before fucker happend to t)

Suldae Westwind: Everything is about to start getting to her, but not yet.

Marcus Veranius: (I'm gunna go ahead and double the damage Marcus has taken this fight. He's probably out of range for his wedding ring)

Suldae Westwind: (So - anything about how to deal with this? Arcana covers theoretical knowledge of spells and stuff, too)

Marcus Veranius slumps against the wall

Henry of Willowsbrook: (What do i roll for Henry's knowledge of flameskulls?)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's voice comes again, more clearly this time. "Good news, bad news. Good: Won't matter when Strahd arrives, he'll step into different temple. Bad: unclear how to reunite. Rictavio says ancient magic, test."

GM: (Henry, go ahead and roll history and religion)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8 + 1

HISTORY (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14 + 1RELIGION (-1)
Henry of WillowsbrookSuldae Westwind: Suldae repeats this for Marcus.Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Are you telling me there's multiple copies of this temple?"

Suldae Westwind: "...I can hear you better now. Whatever it is you're doing..."

Suldae understands -- when Rictavio says ancient magic, test, what he means is: "It is the ancient magic of the primal gods, testing the souls of mortals with a series of challenges." As these are, of course, EVIL gods, imprisoned here, it stands to reason that the interplanar fuckery is an intentional product of some spell, designed to keep the evil gods imprisoned. There must, however, be a way back to Barovia -- After all, Strahd has returned before.

Suldae Westwind: "...I think we can't turn back," Suldae says to Marcus.

"We don't really have the firepower to take on the fuckers who want us to run this gauntlet, so our best bet is to do what they want and go forward. Unless you have a better idea..."

Marcus Veranius: "I... don't know."Suldae Westwind: "...I know exactly what you mean."

Suldae takes a break from this conversation and rides over to Henry to check on him.

Marcus Veranius: "What I DO know is that if they're in a temple, and we're in a temple, and it's the same yet different temple."

"...oh, OK. I'll just wait here then."

Suldae Westwind: "...Henry? Are you alright?"

Henry, meanwhile, recalls that Flameskulls are cursed wizards, much like nothics, who were damned for breaching into spellcraft which insulted the gods. They are, more often than not, wizards who attempted lichdom and failed. The ones in this temple do not seem like ordinary flameskulls; they are empowered by some force within the temple.

Marcus Veranius: WELL, if Strahd wasn't an immediate threat that meant he had time to check the dead. Wizard at the gatehouse might have a key to his temple.

Henry also knows that the things can play dead for a long time, though they most often revive themselves within an hour of their apparent "death."

Marcus sees no apparent way to enter the guardroom where the wizard's corpse lies. There is no door to be seen, through the meager peephole of the arrow slits. Perhaps the entrance is concealed somewhere.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm Liches, liches, liches well better save then burned again" Henry humms ramming the Vorpall blade into the skull13*Vorpall Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook2

Radiant

11*Slashing/Piercing13*Vorpal Dagger (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook3Radiant11Slashing/PiercingSuldae Westwind: (LMAO)Henry of Willowsbrook: (What...)Marcus Veranius: The entrance is being small enough to enter the arrow slit. Marcus changes to raven form and attempts to squeeze through.Suldae Westwind: ...I think the AC of those is less than that dagger's to hit bonusHenry of Willowsbrook: (they have AC 13 so I can only miss on a nat 1 Lmao)

Suldae, meanwhile, realizes why she can hear the song of the cosmos so much more clearly. She is somewhere that is not as bogged down by the weight of the Prime Material, beyond the Divine Gates, where and the will of the gods flows more freely. There is a sense in the song that has always been there, building quietly in the background, but she has never before noted the gradually building tone -- though it has accompanied her most of her life. Since joining Correllon, that part of the song has only gotten stronger and louder. It is the melody of a champion -- the weapon of a god. She can hear now, distinctly, the harmony of Henry -- the sylvan notes of a forest champion strengthening and being strengthened by the music of her own song. There is something off-key in the tune, now; a broken, somewhat sinister note.

Meanwhile, Henry destroys the apparently-dead Flameskull with surprising difficulty.

Marcus squeezes easily through the arrow slit, losing almost no feathers in the process.

Suldae Westwind: "...Henry?" Suldae climbs down from the spider, deciding it might not be sending quite the right message.

The corpse wears a blue wizard's robes and is clutching a wand to its chest.

Suldae Westwind: She takes his arm in hers.

"...You're not quite acting like yourself."

"Since you took that dagger out," she points at it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm yes? What's the matter?" Henry asks tilting his head to the sideMarcus Veranius: Haha, now Marcus understood how easy it was for gulls to get into an attic. Birds.Suldae Westwind: "...Focus and tell me how you're feeling."

 Marcus Veranius: He changes back and attempts to search the cadaver for supplies; they were going to need everything in reach to escape alive

 Suldae Westwind: Hopefully, this is something that can be managed at least in a stop-gap way for now.

Suddenly, Henry learns a word: ~~what?~~

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm fine if a bit charred" Henry says tilting his head the other way frowning "Are you alright I heard some of what you said to Marcus just know" (sorry what?)

Marcus finds a Wand of Secrets.

He also finds a set of blue robes.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (wxudt?)

 Suldae Westwind: "Right now, I'm very worried about you," Suldae honestly says. She pauses, unsure how to word the next question.

 Marcus Veranius carefully collects the wand and tilts his hat in respect for the corpse wizard

Marcus's keen eye easily picks out the details of the corpse's condition: the poor fellow froze to death, not long ago. Perhaps a week, at most.

 Marcus Veranius: (whoops, sorry)

Marcus also acquires a bag of holding.

 Suldae Westwind: "Henry, you're not acting like yourself." She pauses, then fingers a guess. "...Do you like using that dagger?"

The question is left hanging like a first in a series.

Like a puzzle she wants him to figure out himself.

(Each member of the Party gains 1833.3333333333333 XP, for the Flameskulls.)

GM: (We'll round that right on up to 1850, for pizzazz)

 Marcus Veranius: "...I'll send a missive to your loved ones." Marcus tilts his hat to the fallen wizard and takes the items.

He then attempts to reconvene with the others.

He finds them in the main room of the temple, below the statue which is still shrouded with darkness, and in which he is still conscious of a malicious and watchful presence, which seems to be biding its time for some reason.

He also notes that he cannot see the northern end of the eastern hallway, due to a large globe of shadow which still shrouds it wholly.

 Marcus Veranius: Concerning.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I..what? Suldae you're not making sense" Henry frowns deeply confused "It's a good, sharp knife and since these assholes are better cut then stabbed I judged it might work better" Henry rattles of "A Dagger is a tool is a weapon is a tool" like a rehearsed mantra "Using a good tool feels good right Marcus?" Henry says

Suldae Westwind: "...Not if you're using it for killing things," Suldae says.

This is a bit of an oversimplification, but that's not the kind of pedantry she's down for at the moment.

Marcus Veranius: "Using a good TOOL feels good. Weapons aren't a tool that should feel good to use."

Suldae Westwind: ...Thankfully, Marcus has picked up her meaning. Or noticed the same problem.

Marcus Veranius: "Not that I know the context, but speaking as a craftsman."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at Henry, the spider bopping its furry head against her hand comfortingly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rolls his eyes "Yes using a weapon and killing should not feel good and for the record it did not, I did not enjoy killing these things more than before" he says sounding more defensive then he would like "It's just a very good Dagger okay? See? Nothing to it" Henry sheeths the blade with an overexagertaed flourish flourish

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae watches him worriedly.

"...Okay, I will be clear. I can feel it. That weapon is doing something to you."

Marcus Veranius: "Since when have you given a shit about showboating?"

Marcus Veranius doesn't know if he likes it

Suldae Westwind: "Do you trust me or your feeling of liking the dagger more?"

This is a pretty dangerous question, she knows.

That said...

21

CHARISMA (5+2)
Suldae Westwind

...she's pretty good at talking people into things.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "... Henry frowns biting back a retort 'Why am I so annoyed at her asking me? That doesn't make' Henry takes a moment to center himself

"Why are you so worried about me?" Henry asks without a hint of annoyance or frustartion only earnest confusion

Clearly, in his left ear, Henry hears the word again. The voice which speaks it is as soft as the tickle of moonlight and as sweet as cherry blossoms on the wind, as smooth as incense smoke and as majestic as the stars: "WXUDT."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae blinks, then tilts her head.

"...I find worrying about other people natural?"

Marcus Veranius is confused about the context going on here. "I mean, you're a good friend Henry. Why wouldn't I worry?"

Suldae Westwind: The "don't you?" is implied.

Marcus Veranius: "Is something the matter?"

GM: (To be clear, you are not beholden currently to any mechanical effects, I.E. Temporary madness etc.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry flicks his head in the direction of the voice finding nothing frowning before speaking again "No I mean-Yes that's natural but...What did I do that made you so worried about me right now? I just did what I did before in fights, right?"

Suldae Westwind: "...No."

"You acted really pleased about striking these skulls down."

"Like... like Marcus after making a good pair of boots?"

"Like it's something inherently worthwhile and enjoyable."

Marcus Veranius: That IS a really good feeling. And a really bad one to have in combat...

Suldae Westwind: "...It didn't last long."

"But..."

Marcus Veranius: "I... didn't notice in the cloud. Is this true Henry?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns thiking back at the fight, did he really enjoy it like that? That he couldn't answer that with a certain 'No' worried him a bit. "What excatly did I do? I'm trying to think but it just ... doesn't seem different?"

Marcus Veranius: "...as a sidenote. I've come to a bit of a theory given our current situation."

"Madam Eva's prophecy places the Sword of Sunlight as guarded by Amber Giants. Small castle beneath a mountain."

"But she hesitated, and mentioned it guarded by a Dragon as well. The only dragon is in the crypts of Argynvostholt."

"Which I doubt also has Amber Giants."

"It doesn't make sense... unless you account for the multiple Amber Temples our party seems to be split across."

"Whatever has duplicated this temple has also duplicated its treasure. I think there may be a second Sunsword."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Or the Sword broke" Henry says "And that's why it's supposedly in two places"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius falls into existential dread

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Guess we find ot when we find it" Henry says attempting to sound reassuring

GM (GM): 1

2

Hello all! So sorry for the delay, I've been looking forward to this session and I can't believe how much I overslept!

(From Tops K.): Tag me in for the intro!

GM (GM): Marcus has informed me the he has he most perfect way to reintroduce Hiere, and I am increased to see I (assuming Hiere is indeed... Here for at least part of this session)

Also, you may need to bear with me on the occasional typo -- my "T" key has decided not to work reliably.

Marcus Veranius: (Hiere does not appear to be here. o-o)

GM (GM): Well, when he does show up, we can use the introduction you had in mind

Liliet (Suldae): augh my plans are derailed again

Marcus Veranius: My plans are derailed again

Hiere is very good at this

Liliet (Suldae): ...I m a o

GM (GM): Alright now, where were we?

Liliet (Suldae): thats a great question im somewhat salty about actually

I guess Henry is up, since he's the one who participated in both conversations

GM (GM): I believe you were in the middle of dealing with the fact that Henry was singing as he slew, which was an unusual piece of behavior

Liliet (Suldae): i sure was, and then something else happened after i left :|

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not really it was more of a quick aside, Marcus deflecting when things get uncomfortable isn't to new)

GM (GM): I imagine Suldae would be quick to bring the subject back into focus

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae is thrown off stride by the conversation topic change, and is watching Marcus and Henry instead deflection or whatever it was

GM: (Henry, make a Constitution save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(wow)

GM (GM): 8

Suddenly, in the brief pause after the sudden topic change, Henry's breastplate begins to get warm.

It comes on suddenly and ramps up in intensity until all at once you notice that a handprint-shaped red-hot patch of metal is now glowing more and more brightly with heat in the center of his breastplate, directly over his heart.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh screw you GM that's just mean)

(He said jokingly)

It seems the being in the shadows is not quite finished with you yet.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So I take 4 fire damage?)

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae blows into her flute, attempting to bring the temperature down with Prestidigitation

Henry of Willowsbrook: (take)

GM: (Yup, 8 points of fire damage total, but resistance brings it to 4)

Prestidigitation, it seems, cannot combat the reckless pressure of the Heat Metal spell, which continues to ramp up in intensity.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Gah fuckfuckfuck" Henry hisses turning where he suspects the caster to be and charging Upon completing his charge, Henry finds himself at the base of the mysterious statue whose head is encased in such unnatural darkness. He does not see anyone here on the ground or in the corners of the room -- they must be inside the head of the statue.

Suldae Westwind: Are we entering initiative?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how tall is the statue?)

GM: (We will enter it in a moment, but you have a few free actions/moves before that)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus becomes alert to the situation, aiming his crossbow at the statue's head. "Not this again, why is it ALWAYS statues!?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sends her spider skittering up towards the darkness.

The statue towers, 40 feet tall, carved from granite. It must be a faceless god of secrets, or something like that.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to Light up the head of the statue.

Light

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: One object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension

Components: V, M (A firefly or phosphorescent moss)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch one object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension. Until the spell ends, the object sheds bright light in a 20-foot radius and dim light for an additional 20 feet. The light can be colored as you like. Completely covering the object with something opaque blocks the light. The spell ends if you cast it again or dismiss it as an action. If you target an object held or worn by a hostile creature, that creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw to avoid the spell.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (out of range)

GM: (You could cast it on an item and throw it)

(One imagines there is plenty of rubble/gravel on the ground)

Suldae Westwind: ...Suldae casts it on a string she ties around a spider's leg

GM: (Is Suldae still riding the spider?)

Suldae Westwind: No, she dismounted a bit ago and I'm assuming it would hinder the spider.
...and she can fly up if she needs to.

GM (GM): The moment that the light-producing spell overlaps even slightly with the darkness around the head of the statue, the light winks out as though snuffed.

The moment that the light-producing spell overlaps even slightly with the darkness around the head of the statue, the light winks out as though snuffed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry begins to climb the statue aswell

GM: (Alright, now we will begin initiative)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Arcanaloth

Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE
Giant Spider

Initiative: 5

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

26

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 23.15

..rrr

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: (...what does Marcus see in the now-revealed darkness?)

GM: (The darkness has not been revealed, it canceled out the light spell)

Marcus Veranius: (Whoops, misread)

GM: (No worries)

(This is ironically the fight you would probably want Hieru for the most)

(What's Marcus's passive perception score?)

Marcus Veranius: 20 Passiver

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i was just thinking how much we could use a Fireball caster here)

Marcus notices, from his position, a patch of dust on the ground behind the statue which has been recently disturbed, and footprints leading to the back of the statue from the middle of the wall behind it, although there is no doorway there. There must be some kind of access into the back of the statue.

Marcus Veranius lowers his crossbow.

Marcus Veranius: "I know you're hiding INSIDE the statue! Stop your spell now before we knock it over and make it a coffin!"

25 11

INTIMIDATION (5)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus hears a rather pathetic whimpering sound.

Henry's armor ceases glowing.

Marcus Veranius: "...thank you."

GM: (Well looks like combat is over so you're in free-form motion again)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus didn't feel like breaking more statues this month. Not after the last one fought back.

Whatever or whoever is inside the statue hides in their darkness, but does not attempt to cast at the party again.

Suldae Westwind: (...i love this)

Suldae asks the spider to scout the next room.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I have smelled myself burning way to often for my tastes" Henry says loudly

GM: (The Spider is confused -- which exit do you want it to use?)

Suldae Westwind: there's one right next to us, right?

Marcus Veranius slumps against one of the pillars, not sure what to make of this.

Marcus Veranius: "You one of the dungeon guardians? Whoever you are?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (has it been a minute since we started the fight with the flameskulls last session?)

GM: (There are two exits in the northeast corner of the room, on the balcony level, both with doors open. There are also two exits in the northwest corner of the room, on the crumbled balcony there, but their doors are closed. At the south end of this hall there are two doors in the southwest corner, both closed, or there's the door in the southeast corner, which is open and which you have partially explored.

(I'd say it's been at least a full minute, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (oh ok i didnt realize that was a balcony)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (kay divine favor has run out)

Suldae Westwind: Ok, first the spider is directed to check out the room at the end of the corridor Suldae had ducked into from the flameskulls. She establishes a simple system of signals with which the spider can communicate if the room is empty of hostiles, if there's an open door deeper into the temple, or if it was attacked or it's a dead end.

The spider scurries up the wall and through the door.

The spider communicates that there is a potential hostile in the room.

Marcus Veranius waits a moment for a response from the statue guardian

Suldae Westwind: Suldae flies up to the balcony and takes a peek inside the room.

The walls and ceiling in the eastern portion of this bare stone room have collapsed. To the west and south are open amber doors. In the center of the room is a ten-foot-tall statue of a jackal-headed warrior made of cracked amber. It turns to face you and clenches its fists.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae backs out of the room, beckoning the spider with her.

Marcus hears a feeble voice say: "What what?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks out the next room.

Marcus Veranius: "Is this your dungeon?"

Suldae finds the East Shrine: This bare stone room consists of a foyer to the west and a shrine to the east. Four candlesticks lie on the dusty floor of the foyer. In the shrine, fragments of a shattered obsidian statue are scattered in a raised alcove at the eastern end of the chamber. Two pairs of empty alcoves line the north and south walls of the shrine.

The statue's shadow-shrouded head says feebly: "Yes yes. Defending! Defending, I was."

Suldae sees the massive jackal-headed warrior statue calmly stepping off of its plinth as though about to head on patrol.

It approaches the doorway of its chamber and looks at her, staying ten feet away.

Marcus Veranius: "Well I'm sorry to intrude."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pauses, then gives a polite bow to the statue.

The golem eyes her up and down, amber facets flashing.

Marcus Veranius: "We're a bit lax on options at the moment. There's an angry Lord of the Landpire outside and a weapon of his bane inside here somewhere."

The golem kneels, and continues to look at her.

GM (GM): The creature in the darkness makes no attempt at responding to this.

Suldae Westwind: "...My apologies for the intrusion," Suldae says.

GM: (That was meant to be fancy IC text, not a GM thing, one sec)

The creature in the darkness makes no attempt at responding to Marcus's comment. It does seem to be listening.

Suldae Westwind: "Would you happen to know how we could leave this place or proceed further inside?"

The Golem, it seems, cannot speak -- or is unwilling to speak.

It is not even clear that it understands what Suldae is saying.

Perhaps its makers spoke a different language?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries the same in all the languages she knows.

Marcus Veranius: "I know that's no excuse for barging into your home and poking your skull monsters, and for that I apologize."

Suldae Westwind: (Dwarvish, Elvish, Gnomish, Goblin)

As she switches to elvish, the golem cocks its head.

Suldae Westwind: "...Would you be willing to give any guidance?"

The golem does not answer at first.

After a long time, it shakes its head slowly but firmly. It seems guidance is not within its capabilities -- or is perhaps against its code.

Marcus Veranius: "...but we really can't leave without that sword. I hope you understand."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods. "...I see. We will continue to seek our own way, then." She bows again, then flies over to the crumbled balcony.

Marcus Veranius: "Don't suppose you could point us in the right direction?"

Suldae Westwind: She tries the doors.

The creature in the darkness says: "Sword? I know sword."

"West, you want west."

Marcus Veranius: "Thank you."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries the west door, specifically.

Torches in sconces illuminate a dining table in the center of the room. Covering the table is a magnificent feast that fills the hall with the rich smells of cooked meat, sweet vegetables, piping hot gravy, and wine.

Marcus Veranius follows Suldae west

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how high is the balcony up?)

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah, I'm not touching this." Suldae tries the other door.

GM: (30 feet)

Suldae Westwind: I'm sure Suldae and Marcus together can lift Henry up, right?

This bare stone room consists of a foyer to the east and a shrine to the west. Candlesticks draped in cobwebs stand in the four corners of the foyer. In the shrine, a faceless obsidian statue stands in a raised alcove at the western end of the chamber. Slumped before the statue are two desiccated corpses in tattered garments. Two pairs of alcoves line the north and south walls of the shrine.

GM: (I'm pretty sure Henry can jump that high)

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

Suldae enters the room and gives a polite bow to the statue.

Marcus Veranius: (If not, there's plenty of stonework to tie a rope to)

The obsidian statue is 4 feet tall, weighs 250 pounds, and depicts the same nameless god that stands watch in the main temple.

GM: (Make a DC 16 WIS save, Suldae)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nope henry can reach only reach something 17 1/2 feet above him with a high jump)

Suldae Westwind:

9

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

(WELP)

Suldae feels an intense urge to approach the statue.

Before she realizes what she's doing, her feet have walked her to within inches of it.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to back away, while again bowing (and not looking at it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hmm Marcus catch" Henry says before throwing him one end of his 50ft rope

Suldae finds herself, curiously, unable to will her feet to actually move. She cannot even quite bring herself to turn her head away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Marcus?)

Marcus Veranius ties the rope to one of the stone doors

Suldae Westwind: "...My apologies for the intrusion," she says while bowing her head.
She'd bow, but if it's still possible she'd rather not touch the statue.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thanks" Henry climbs up the rope

It seems she cannot bow her head, or otherwise remove her fixated gaze from the statue.

Marcus Veranius: "West then?"

Suldae Westwind: She takes out her flute and begins to play a song.

From her peripheral vision she sees enough to realize that the two corpses are very ancient, but that they are also very different ages. They may both have died here, just like this.

Suldae Westwind: It is a mundane song, as mundane as someone with her skill would produce. It speaks of mountain peaks and wind and cold, and beautiful temples, and danger in ruins.
It speaks of secrets in forgotten places, daring adventurers and watchful entities

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry says while putting his rope away

Suldae Westwind: The spider is presumably trying to communicate with the two of them that there's danger in the northern room.

Marcus Veranius: "...wait, hold up."

Suldae Westwind: It will not, however, allow them to enter.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae? You okay in there?"

Suldae Westwind: (As best it peacefully can)
Suldae is playing.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus turns his attention towards the north door. "Suldae; is everything alright? I wasn't expecting a jam session."

As Suldae's music moves, mundanely, through the air, it begins to affect the Weave of this temple in curious ways. It seems to be brushing along the thread of her fate, binding something from her past into her future in a way that punches right through now.

The statue flickers fearfully.

GM: (Suldae has learned Shatter.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns at the spider in his way before speaking loudly again "Suldae? Play, ugh what's it called ah right, play forte if you are okay"

Marcus Veranius: "What's a fort have to do with any of this?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I think it means loud in music terms" Henry says

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not playing forte.

She is building up the notes to the Shatter spell, deliberately slowly preparing the Weave so as to communicate to the statue that it can release her or regret the consequences.

20

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

The statue hardens its black little heart and she senses the evil deep within it. It is the kind of evil that must always be destroyed.

Suldae Westwind: Alas, so much for diplomacy.

CRACK!

Suldae Westwind:

DC18

Constitution Save

14

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Suldae is released instantly.

The statue falls into several broken pieces.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae puts away the flute.

(brb)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That was forte alright" Henry says at the loud noise "Seems she is fine"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes back to the door.

"There was an evil statue," she explains.

The temple rings with the echoes of her song for a while, and as the friendly sound fades, there is a feeling as of a wave of darkness, returning to its former position as the invisible light fades.

Suldae Westwind: Her head is still swimming with the new insight on the weave.

She goes back to check the skeletons. Maybe there are any hints to their identity?

...Or just loot.

Marcus Veranius enters the north room

Marcus Veranius: Or is it the north room?

Come to think of it, how was this temple oriented compass-wise?

The corpses lying in front of the statue appear to be those of two human wizards, who must have starved to death here before the statue. Their robes are crumbling antiques and they themselves are more dust now than men.

No spell books are in sight -- nor any remains of what might once have been a spell book.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follow checking the door opposite the remanis

Suldae Westwind: ...or maybe not wizards at all, considering there don't appear to be any indications of such beyond their robes.

(accident)

The room opposite the statue has an arrow slit in the center of its south wall.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae investigates the room in search of another exit.

GM: (Roll investigation)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry helps

Suldae Westwind:

20

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

(Help means what, advantage?)

GM: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind:

24

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

(ok :D)

Suldae checks thoroughly and intelligently. She determines that the east wall is, indeed, hollow. She also finds a patch of the north wall that is entirely illusory. There is a solid wall behind the illusion, but it is indented several inches. She senses that this wall is also hollow.

Marcus Veranius: "Err, so I got a bit distracted with earlier happenings. We've got a wand of secrets in our possession if anyone wants to meddle with it."

Marcus Veranius holds it out for someone else to take Suldae Westwind: "...There are passages behind these walls," she tells her companions.

"We need to go west, so... Henry, want to try breaking the northern wall?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Should I try to break the walls?"

Suldae's giant spider eats the wand of secrets out of Marcus's hands.

It scuttles in place for a moment or two, turning this way and that.

Then, quite firmly, it points two legs -- one north, one east.

Suldae Westwind: "...Thanks, that's helpful", Suldae sighs.

It chirbles helpfully, scruffing its thick fangs together.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry feels the wall for a seam in the masonry

GM: (Does he reach through the veil of illusion and feel the wall behind? He will not be able to see his hand while he is feeling that hidden space.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Yes

Henry's hands find a taut rope, stretching vertically up the middle of the concealed alcove. He feels that it must connect to a mechanism. It is designed to be pulled.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry relays that before asking "Should I pull it?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Sure," Suldae says and backs away just in case.

GM: (LMAO)

Marcus Veranius moves to hide in the main chamber again

Marcus Veranius: "OK! Pull the rope!"

Suldae Westwind: The spider hides behind Marcus.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well here goes" Henry says raising his shield with his free hand raising and pulling forcefully on the rope

*There is a click, followed by a whooshing sound. A sepulchral dust wafts over Henry as he hears a horrible rumbling clatter, like the sound of a thousand river stones piled together, all pouring down.
(Make a DEX save, Henry)*

Henry of Willowsbrook:

SHIELD MASTER

Feat: Human Bonus Feat

If you take the Attack action on your turn, you can use a bonus action to try to shove a creature within 5 feet of you with your shield.

If you aren't incapacitated, you can add your shield's AC bonus to any Dexterity saving throw you make against a spell or other harmful effect that targets only you.

If you are subjected to an effect that allows you to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, you can use your reaction to take no damage if you succeed on the saving throw, interposing your shield between yourself and the source of the effect.

12 + 6

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Hundreds of skulls pour out of the wall and bury him to his waist. He is unharmed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I hate this place"

The illusory wall vanishes. You see now a room that is packed from floor to ceiling in human skulls.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Really really really hate this place"

Suldae Westwind: "...I concur."

Marcus Veranius peeks back inside the room

Suldae Westwind: Suldae crouches to examine the skulls to determine that they are, indeed, human.

They are. They are ancient.

Marcus Veranius: "Haha, wow. Let's not go in there."

Not, however, as ancient as she would assume them to be, based on the age of the rest of the temple.

As she examines them, she discovers a notable necrotic aura. They have been touched by a lich.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So lets circle back and go west check there" Henry says pointing to the set of doors back at the entrance

GM: (Lich in this instance meaning "Practicer of Necromancy")

Somebody is giggling, in a muffled sort of way.

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah, let's."

Somebody is an asshole.

Now somebody else is giggling, as though understanding a joke that only it and the first giggle are in on.

The sound of giggling is quickly becoming a chorus...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae backs out of the room quickly.

Skulls are not a good sign in this place.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Is this a prank?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If one of your chuckle heads was the one in the statue I swear to the gods I'll turn it and you into rubble"

Marcus Veranius: "Have we been japed on purpose?"

Suldae Westwind: "You think this is unintentional?" Suldae rolls her eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: into

Suddenly it is a roar of nightmarish laughter, the laughter of an amphitheater of hell. The moment the door swings shut, the sound cuts off instantly.

Marcus Veranius: "Well, traps usually wound the body. First time I've had one injure my pride."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hate this place" Henry repeats in a singsong

GM (GM): The spider's leg is still pointing northward, indicating a still-sealed secret passage beyond the skulls.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6

WISDOM (1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(welp)

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the poiting spiderleg then the skulls then the ceiling then the skulls again "You know what fuck this" he grumbles marching back to the skull room

The moment the door opens the sound of the roaring laughter returns -- it is definitely the skulls.

Marcus Veranius follows

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hovers near the door, ready to either bolt or support him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that was a keeping my cool wisdom check)

They are screaming with laughter now, howling with whoops of ecstatic humor.

Suldae Westwind: (i guessed lmao)

Suldae decides to apply her new insight.

DC18

Constitution Save

10

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "You know what, I take it back. Double-secret doors with a mocking joke in between. We're dealing with either a tactical genius, comedy genius, or both."

Suldae Westwind: ...Presumably, Suldae warns Henry to duck out of range.

GM: (Does she apply it subtle-ly or suddenly?)

Suldae Westwind: (something like "Henry, dodge left!" then BOOM)

(I mean rihgt)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (10ft radius circle with 60 ft range I don't think Henry needs to doge if he isn't in the skull room himself)

Suldae Westwind: (dodge right)
(...Is he?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (no)

Suldae Westwind: (ok I'm actually confused)
(where are the skulls)
(how many are there)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (He was in front of the door)

Suldae Westwind: (OH there we are)
(Then Suldae warns Henry to step back)
(Cause 10ft radius means 20ft diameter
(and Suldae would be aiming to get the skulls that spilled out, too)
(yeah that)

POW! There is a roar of sound from the middle of the mass of skulls and dozens of steaming skulls scatter into the room. There is a rush, a cascade of falling, tumbling heads, all laughing insanely. Hundreds upon hundreds of skulls are now pouring into the chamber, but as they do, the mound in the room beyond gets shorter. Henry can now see a rope on the wall beyond the pile -- though he will have to wade through chest-high skulls to reach it with a hand.

Suldae Westwind: "..."
Suldae surveys the damage.
"...I made things better, right?" she asks uncertainly.

The skulls laugh with renewed further, specifically at this comment.

Henry of Willowsbrook: How much slack does that rope have?)

GM: (fervor)

The rope is taught.

Suldae Westwind: (taut)
(i think)

GM: (Taut, you're correct)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry heaves a sigh before wading into the skulls far enough that he can reach the rope

GM: (Make an athletics check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:
10 + 1
ATHLETICS (9)

Henry of Willowsbrook

(...)

Henry's foot slips suddenly the moment he steps into the mass, and he sinks out of view beneath the skulls, which all stop laughing at once.

GM: (Henry is now restrained)

It seems there is no ground, in the floor beyond -- just more skulls, on and on, down and down....

Suldae Westwind: Suldae dashes forward to help him up

She reaches into the pile of skulls to fish him out.

Henry is not done sinking yet. Suldae feels her fingertips brushing his through the mass of bone. The skulls are laughing again now, at her, and they have grown little candle flames in their thousands of sockets, and they seem to shift intentionally, making things as difficult as possible.

GM: (Both of you, make an athletics check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 1

ATHLETICS (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (I'm guessing Acrobatics cannot help here?)

GM: (If she wants to brace herself and get into a better position somehow, but risk falling in herself, acrobatics might work)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (if this counts as a grapple it should work)

GM: (It will work, but the circumstances of using it as an approach will require some risk)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to brace herself as best she can while crying out "Marcus!" as she reaches for Henry.

(I was assuming Suldae would be doing it in a way that risks her falling in yeah lmao)

23

ACROBATICS (7)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (results of my roll?9

Marcus Veranius: UMM

Marcus tosses a rope into the skull pile, trying to tie one end to the door. This joke was getting stale real quick Suldae manages to wedge herself into the doorframe of the secret passage, and stay suspended there, above the skulls. From that position, twisted upside down with her head nearly touching the skulls below, she can reach her whole arm in up to the shoulder and grab the struggling Henry. Together, Suldae pulling, Henry climbing, they are able to pull him up above the pool of skulls.

Suldae Westwind: "...Rope," Suldae says as she helps him get securely on the floor. "This is what rope is for."

"...and flying party members."

Of course, the room is kind of small...

...but wings can still help her brace herself on the far wall as she pulls the rope.

Airborne in the small chamber, Suldae reaches the far wall and manages to get a grasp on the rope. Does she pull it?

Suldae Westwind: ...but first she ties some rope around her waist and gives the other end to Henry.

GM: (A wise move)

Suldae Westwind: And instructs him to back away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the rope backing to the opposite wall

"Have I shared my opinion of this place yet?" He grumbles

The skulls giggle manically, insanely, awaiting the tug on the rope.

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, I do believe you have."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tugs on the rope, then immediately dashes away back to the main chamber.

The wall pops open quietly. All the skulls miraculously disappear, and a smooth stone floor glides into place in two stone halves, sealing the strange depths below from view. At the same time, every source of light the party has instantly dies, and a gloom pours out of the chamber beyond.

There is now a strange green gleam on every amber surface, as though an unseen source of light is casting alien illuminations.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has darkvision

DARKVISION

Racial: Half-Elf

Thanks to your elf blood, you have superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Without approaching the exit, you cannot see much of the chamber beyond.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus also has Darkvision, but that doesn't stop him from being creeped out.

The darkness is not entirely darkness -- the greenish glow provides a deathly, dusk-like illumination.

Marcus Veranius: "...I see a desk. Perhaps we've found the comedian's office."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to light up the place.

Light

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: One object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension

Components: V, M (A firefly or phosphorescent moss)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch one object that is no larger than 10 feet in any dimension. Until the spell ends, the object sheds bright light in a 20-foot radius and dim light for an additional 20 feet. The light can be colored as you like. Completely covering the object with something opaque blocks the light. The spell ends if you cast it again or dismiss it as an action. If you target an object held or worn by a hostile creature, that creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw to avoid the spell.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so are we in dim or bright light mechanics wise?)

The light spell futzes out the moment its effect is born.

GM: (Dim light)

Suldae Westwind: "...well then," she grumbles.

She approaches the door, carefully stepping, ready to leap up and trust her wings, with the rope still on her waist.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (are all the skulls gone?)

Suldae Westwind: (apparently)

Henry of Willowsbrook: gone

Attached to the 30' high ceiling of the secret chamber where the skulls once were, there is a large iron chest.

In the chamber beyond, you sense a strange shift in the light, as though the unseen source is moving.

Suldae Westwind: With the help of wings and leaping from wall to wall, Suldae gets to the height of the chest and experimentally tosses the pebble she was trying to Light up at it.

The pebble hits it and falls to the ground.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae touches it with a dagger next.

The dagger does indeed touch the surface.

Suldae Westwind: (How is it attached?)

It's difficult to say how it's attached, but Suldae thinks it might be either bolted into the frame of the room, or affixed with some kind of incredible glue.

A skeleton cowered in tattered, cobweb-covered robes hovers silently into view in the chamber beyond, turning his skull towards you all. Red pinpoints of light burn in his eye sockets. "Do I know you?" he asks.

GM: (Well that's just a bad picture, what the hell)

Suldae Westwind: "...Hello," Suldae says as she slowly makes her way down next to the entrance to the skull room.

Marcus Veranius: (I remember this guy from DOOM!)

"Hello."

Suldae Westwind: "Suldae Westwind, pleased to make your acquaintance," she gives a deep bow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not yet I suppose"

"I don't remember who I am. Forgive the mess. Won't you come in?"

Marcus Veranius steps in. All things considered, the guardians of this dungeon were rather polite

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry says "My name is Henry"

Suldae Westwind: "We are looking for a sword," Suldae says. "Would you happen to know a way to it?"

Suldae is not going forward.

(welp, so much for being careful)

This fifteen-foot-high room contains the trappings of royalty: ornate furniture, exquisite rugs and tapestries, and decorative statuary. Everywhere you look are lit candelabras atop small tables. The beauty of the decor is undone by thick dust and cobwebs.

The skeleton says: "I don't remember a sword."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows her compainons.

"I see. Would you happen to know a passage east then, sir?"

A large, bronze-covered book sits on a rotted divan nearby.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "West"

Suldae Westwind: *west

(i didnt say it wrong i typed it wrong ignore that lol)

The skeleton says. "Oh yes, I know all the passages. Do you need help? I can, perhaps, guide you."

"It is pleasant to speak. I have not spoken in long."

"I quite like the sound of my voice, you see, and I am full of all sorts of interesting things -- the things I can remember, anyhow."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at his companions shurging

Suldae Westwind: "...I think we would be interested in listening to them," Suldae smiles. "It is always nice to meet a helpful stranger."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We would also appreciate the guidance" Henry says

"Tell me, where did you begin your pilgrimage? I much desire to hear of the outside world. I have not seen it in long."

Marcus Veranius: Marcus takes a seat on the couch

Suldae Westwind: "...In Barovia. It is not in a good state right now. Do you know the place?"

Suldae decides to be vague about their allegiances.

"Ah yes, Barovia. You have come, then, seeking the dark powers, yes? Have you considered which one you desire?"

"Some of them conflict, naturally, and it is good to know about the politics of these sorts of things. Nastiness so often ensues, when people do not understand the conflicts they are walking into."

"Which Sarcophagi interests you the most?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Sarcophagi?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We actually did not seek those" Henry says after a moment

"You... You don't know about the sarcophagi?"

"Oh, hang on a minute, you're not ADVENTURERS, are you?"

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "Of course not!"

Suldae Westwind: "Adventurers?"

"I hate those, they always make me kill them."

Marcus Veranius: "We're after something an Adventurer dropped."

"You know Adventurers, grabbing things that don't belong to them and dying in inconvenient locations."

"Then you need to fetch those things they dropped from whatever trap-hell they're painted across."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We are reclaiming it on behalve of it's rightfull owners"

"Ah yes, archaeologists, then! Ah, I am from the century in which most of these ruins were made, so I can no doubt be of assistance in your studies. I have long waited for archaeologists to come, this place holds so much ancient wisdom! So many fragments of long-ago glory."

"Well, I will help you collect your artifact, if I can."

Marcus Veranius: "Thank you good sir!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your help is greatly appreciated"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

"Would you care to give a tour?"

"Right, follow me."

"Also, if you should happen to find my name, I'd be glad to have it back. I miss being me. Whoever I was."

Marcus Veranius: "The architecture of this place is AMAZING by the way. Is all the amber natural, or conjured by magic?"

The skeleton opens a secret passage in the north wall and gestures vaguely inwards. "Little room there, with a thing."

Behind the secret door is a small, dusty room. Rising from the floor in the eastern half of the room is a scaly arm and claw clutching a small box made of bone.

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, what is it?"

Marcus Veranius: "The logistics of shipping that much raw material up a mountain is the REAL treasure. You don't see places this well built anymore."

The skeleton says: "Oh, the amber is quite fascinating, actually! It's the ichor of the dead gods themselves, bled from them over their thousand years of penance and fused into beautiful crystal items and walls, all designed with the intent to bind the darkest powers of ancient man. Why, some of the very first gods are entombed here, I can't remember their names, and their sarcophagi grant gifts. I can't remember which ones."

"Do you know, I think I might be a lich?"

"I have been trying out little things. Twisting the thingy. The space. Air. Whatsit."

"It's fun, see -- I figured out how to do this:"

He gestures with a bony hand and a ripple of emerald flame flickers down his fingers.

"It's pretty."

Suldae Westwind: "It is," Suldae agrees. "What's to the west from here?"

Marcus Veranius: Marcus nods, trying to hide how horrified at the concept of gods being physical enough to build houses out of.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is well enough familiar with ancient legends and permutations thereof to take this one in stride.

Well, there's the dining hall, the model room, a stair, a room, a couple of other rooms.

Suldae Westwind: It doesn't really add anything to the situation she's in, at this point.

" " (dropped those)

(Sorry)

Marcus Veranius: (This skeleton is dropping a lot of things lately.)

Suldae Westwind: "Would you show us?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods "Indeed, so this room" Henry gestures at the one the lich just opened

"You were starting the tour with it because...?"

were

"Oh. Because it was closest, I guess. Would you like me to start with a different one? There's another one here. It's empty, usually."

"Oh, and there's another one beyond that one I think, let me see..."

"Oh wait, sometimes there are people in this one."

Marcus Veranius looks closely at the mechanisms being activated, taking notes

Maybe we'd better go the other way? You were interested in the west?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...this might take a while" Henry whispers

The Lich floats southwards.

The Lich gestures. "Right. Well, this is the dining room. It's where we eat. Hello everybody."

He waves at the empty room.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows. perfectly content to let their unexpected guide take the lead.

"Nice to see you. Yeah, hey, look who it is, it's this guy! Isn't it great to see you too."

Suldae Westwind: It seems prudent to follow his expectations for what is going on.

Marcus Veranius waves. "A pleasure, truly!"

"Don't mind us. Just a tour group. We won't bother you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry politely nods as they pass the room

As an aside, he leans down and whispers urgently to the nearest person: "Whatever you do, don't take the ewer. It really pisses them off if you do."

Coming across a fallen Flameskull, the Lich tuts mournfully.

"Oh no! Look what's happened to this poor fellow! Somebody hit him with an arrow, oh, poor little thing... His flame has gone out."

"Oh no, oh dear... How to fix him? How to wake him?"

Suldae Westwind: "I'm sure he will recover before long."

"Don't worry now, little one, I've got you. I've got you."

Suldae Westwind: "Later, perhaps, if it'll take a long time?"

"Oh, oh, I suppose you're right. At least he's not destroyed. I'd hate to think of any of these poor things destroyed."

"Right, here's a room. An impressive room, you'll like this -- great archaeological interest here."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods sympathetically. In the end, the sentiment of having pets is familiar to her.

Marcus Veranius nods, thankful he threw the corpses into space earlier

Dominating this room is a twelve-foot-tall model of a dark castle with high walls and tall spires. Behind it, tucked in a corner, are some ruined furnishings and a wooden chest. A great quantity of bones have been packed in here, then charred artfully with acid to burn and melt them into a smooth-sided bowl -- a nest. In it sits a single obsidian egg the size of a man's torso.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is the very picture of nochalance and innocence

Marcus Veranius: ...or at least he meant to. Did he forget?

"Would you look at that," says the Lich. "You turn your back for one minute, and people are making messes."

"Anyway, ignore the mess, you'll find I keep saying that, it's become a real habit of mine on these tours."

Marcus Veranius: "Is the egg part of the display?"

"Right, so this is the room where the architect lived -- Artimus, I think his name was. He built this scale model of the project out of magically sculpted rock."

Marcus Veranius stares, suddenly incredibly nervous with that unfortunate combination of acid and black reptilian things

"I'm sorry? Egg? Oh, this? No, no, that's not supposed to be there, somebody left it. Are you sure it's an egg?"

Suldae Westwind: "May I look closer?" Suldae asks, curious about the model.

"I tell you it's these damned adventurers, running in and breaking things, thinking they're doing the work of heroes as they loot your home and kill your friends and leave their garbage everywhere..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It looks like an egg" Henry comments inspecting it and trying to discern what kind of egg it may be

"Oh, by all means, take your time. This room is fascinating, and the statue gives a great many insights about the Castle and its defenses."

"It's a beautiful little thing, perfect scale replica, inside and out!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae examines everything she can while following the archeology protocol of not touching old things with her hands.

Marcus Veranius: "...I don't know too many adventurers that lay eggs. You sure you don't have a Dragon problem?"

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, wouldn't you look at this!" she beckons, having noticed his note-taking.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (roll for egg knowledge?)

Suldae Westwind: The castle model is quite a bit of good luck.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (roll)

"Dragon problem?"

Marcus Veranius takes a quick glance but can't keep his eyes off the egg. It triggers unfortunate memories, and latent fears.

Suldae Westwind: "...Perhaps dragon adventurers?"

Suldae tugs his sleeve while pointing at the castle.

"Oh! Oh, you know, now that you mention it... It was so recent I'd completely forgotten it, you know how it is -- weight of a thousand aeons of memory crushing out the present and the future in the way it does -- there was a dragon living here, for a while. Perhaps you're right, perhaps you're right. But the dragon wouldn't have needed to hide, if not for adventurers!"

Suldae Westwind: "Makes sense", Suldae says sympathetically.

GM: (For egg knowledge, roll survival or nature)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10 + 1

NATURE (7)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

22 12

NATURE (4)

Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (anyone wanna help?)

Suldae Westwind: It's not even that much effort, to sympathize with the lich's perspective on things. The art of performance involves much harder things than just ignoring the consequences for the world outside.

Marcus recognizes that the egg is, indeed, a dragon's egg. It is the egg of a black dragon. It is also, thankfully, dead. The shell has cracked -- perhaps because it was not bathed in acid frequently enough.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae helps Henry.

(by discussing the details, i imagine the knowledge checks can be helped lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 1

NATURE (7)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius breathes out a sigh of relief, attention finally caught by Suldae's pointing

Henry and Suldae are able to come to the conclusion that it's definitely the egg of a black dragon.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae notices the discrepancy in Marcus's reaction.

"...Is it safe?" she asks.

"You know, I've always wanted a pet dragon. I'm sure I have."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm how peculiar" henry says turning his attention away from the egg

"Maybe I'll raise this little one."

"I suppose it must be sat upon."

The skeleton sits improbably, cross-legged in thin air, several inches above the egg.

"I am weary. I shall meditate now."

Suldae Westwind: "We will continue exploring on our own, thank you for the tour!"

"Do not worry, you cannot disturb my concentration, and your presence is soothing. I will speak when I have regained some strength."

Suldae Westwind: "Alright," Suldae agrees.

"We are not in much hurry now that we're in here, are we?" she checks with the others.

There are obvious advantages to having a tour guide.

Marcus Veranius had a question but holds his tongue. Well, meditation gave them some time to clean up signs of battle.

The red lights in his eyes go out, and he is suddenly wreathed entirely in emerald flames that cast no heat although they burn with steady intensity.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The egg appaers to have cracked some time ago" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "I'm going to study the model for a bit. Perhaps one of you can sweep up the halls a bit? It's the least we can do for our host."

Suldae Westwind: "...I'm going to do that," Suldae agrees.

With Prestidigitation and Mending, she can actually do quite a bit.

Marcus Veranius: "I believe there was a refuse bin by the entrance. You can sweep things there; probably bottomless."

Suldae Westwind: First priority is, indeed, cleaning up signs of battle; second priority is restoring decorations, if she has time.

Marcus Veranius smiles, eyes motioning towards the skulls

Suldae Westwind: This place is beautiful.

She leaves the skull they already found with the lich as it was, walking around it.

Maybe his memory isn't good enough to remember it was there, but she'd rather not risk it.

GM: (Marcus, how would you like to make your investigation of the castle?)

Marcus Veranius: He likely wasn't going to gleam any insights on the inside, but the outside could provide intricate knowledge about points of entry.

He studies the windows, the gatehouse, and gently pokes around for signs of secret passages.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae likes archeology. This is not the purpose she originally learned the pattern for mending for, she had much more mundane applications in mind, but damn if it's not helpful.

She's not sure where exactly the lich draws the line between archeologists and adventurers, but she suspects that not trying to steal everything thazt isn't nailed down would be a safe strategy.

Even if it's a shame.

And now how archeologists normally act.

GM: (Can you see the map?)

Suldae Westwind: (I can)

Marcus Veranius: ...(Yee. Is this the model?)

GM: (Yup -- make sure to scroll down too -- it gives you the general shape of the base.)

In his probing, Marcus is able to open the front doors of the castle and see through halls of tiny stone, and see decorations and furnishings that look almost real. In the main hall of the castle, he sees something that is not miniature -- something that does not belong. It seems to be the hilt of a sword.

Marcus Veranius: ...

That... didn't belong. Strange.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry has just been leaning on the wall on the room with Marcus

Meanwhile, Suldae is able to finish pitching the last Flameskull corpse into empty space. They spin away dizzily into that midnight black, lost quickly to the overwhelming darkness.

Marcus Veranius: "Henry! Could you do me a small favor?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is going to start on restoring decorations, but first she pokes her nose into the room with her comrades.

Marcus Veranius: "Look how beautiful the inside of this castle is. Someone seems to have shoved a bone piece inside. Can you touch it and do that THING... with the fog and the appearing somewhere else?"

"See if that I move it without breaking the model."

Suldae Westwind: "If you break something by accident, I can always fix it good as new," she reminds them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns at him walking over to him and looking at what he is talking about

Suldae Westwind: "Would be better to manage without breaking anything, of course."

Marcus Veranius: "Some people just have no respect for fine art you know."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hmmm I could certainly try"

Marcus Veranius wasn't entirely sure that their skeleton friend wasn't listening while meditating. Best to play it safe

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has been thinking that exact thing herself.

Of course, they did start with telling their new friend that they were looking for a sword, so the preparations might be SOMEWHAT excessive.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry slowly reaches for the sword hilt trying to get the best possible grip on it Suldae Westwind: But eh. Odds of lies and honesty backfiring are in her estimation about even here.

Henry finds that he cannot reach it. The front doors of the castle are far too small.

Marcus Veranius: While Henry deals with the obstruction, Marcus turns his attention to the castle tower. Hierne had mentioned something about a crystal heart locked inside a tower.

Suldae Westwind: "Perhaps it might be possible to lift a part?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not even like a two finger pinch?)

It's too deep in the castle for a two-finger pinch, unfortunately.

Marcus Veranius: He also mentioned it as a metaphor, but Marcus wasn't too sure.

Peering at the tower of the castle, Marcus does see a hint of ruby through the windows.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wrong castle Marcus)

(or not)

(Is this a model of the Amber temple?)

Suldae Westwind: No, Castle Ravenloft

GM: (No, this is a model of Castle Ravenloft)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae approaches and attempts to reach the hilt herself.

It does not seem like it will be possible to reach the hilt through the doors or windows with a bare hand.

(Or I should say empty hand)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae thoughtfully tugs her chin, then pulls out string.

Marcus Veranius: Now THIS is something he wanted to ask the Lich about. Best to play nice with the model until then.

Suldae Westwind: It's time for some tiny servants.

Tiny Servant

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Target: Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature

Components: V, S

You touch one Tiny, nonmagical object that isn't attached to another object or a surface and isn't being carried by another creature. The target animates and sprouts little arms and legs, becoming a creature under your control until the spell ends or the creature drops to 0 hit points. See the stat block for its statistics.

As a bonus action, you can mentally command the creature if it is within 120 feet of you. (If you control multiple creatures with this spell, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one.) You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a simple, general command, such as to fetch a key, stand watch, or stack some books. If you issue no commands, the servant does nothing other than defend itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the servant continues to follow that order until its task is complete. When the creature drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original form, and any remaining damage carries over to that form.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can animate two additional objects for each slot level above 3rd.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the Lich for any reaction

The string hops to life, ready to go.

The lich has no reaction of any kind. He seems to be completely dormant.

Suldae Westwind: A magically animated piece of string is ordered to tie itself around the hilt of the sword.

The string does as it is ordered, happy to comply.

Suldae Westwind: The other end is sticking out for Henry to pick up at his leisure.

The string hangs invitingly, wagging itself a little.

It seems to say "Pull me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gingerly pulls on the string

Suldae Westwind: Suldae prepares her flute, ready to fix any damage to the beautiful model.

The string and the sword slide smoothly towards the doors. It is lucky that the handle is so minimalist. Lacking crossbars, it moves smoothly through the tiny doors of the castle and is freed without damaging anything.

It waits there innocently, friendly-looking.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks it up

Meanwhile, the stones of the castle pulse with a brilliant red light that fades a moment later.

*red

Henry now has a sword handle.

It is definitely magical.

Marcus Veranius: "...guarded by a dragon. In a castle under the mountain. With amber giants."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we have something" Henry says "But is it the right thing"

Marcus Veranius motions to the egg again

Suldae Westwind: "...Huh," Suldae says, examining the handle.

"That's archeology for you."

Marcus Veranius nods. Prophecies were horseshit.

As Suldae takes the sword she feels a powerful sensation of calmness and peace, and a burning rage, and a question.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses on the question. What is it?

It feels something like: Accept?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Does Henry feel the same he is still holding the sword
?

Henry feels a sense of presence -- that there is something in the blade, evaluating him -- and disliking something about what it sees. He feels a sense of malice towards the vorpal dagger.

Suldae Westwind: ...Suldae motions for Marcus to touch the handle as well.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Suldae you were worried about me earlier right? Could you maybe tell me why again" Henry murmurs his mind edging towards a conclusion but not quite reaching it Marcus Veranius does so, curiously. This was what they were after? It seemed so small, innocent.

Marcus Veranius: Madame Eva had described the Sword of Sunlight as a weapon of vengeance. He knew what that meant all too well.

In his hands the handle's emotion changes -- he senses it, evaluating, questioning. Then he feels a choice being offered: Vengeance?

Henry hears, once again, the whispering voice, more insistent now than ever: WXUDT.

Suldae Westwind: "...after you took out the dagger, you started to act oddly. You were just very... cheerful and malicious-sounding."

Suldae does not remember the exact details of what Henry said, given a lot of things were going on.

"You were... taunting them?"

Immediately, the crimson lights reappear in the eyes of the skeleton, who turns his skull smoothly and completely around to look at Henry. "Ah, I see you have been given Wxudt. An honor to hear its voice once again!"

Suldae Westwind: "Not the trash-talk you normally do."

Suldae looks up at the lich. Information source!

"Wxudt? What can you tell us about it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I do apologize Wuxdt? Would you mind elaborating?"

Suldae Westwind: (If I understand correctly, we are right now all three standing touching the handle)

Marcus Veranius: Vorgansharax was dead, but he was just a symptom. His family, as he could remember it, was baned by one figure. His friends were baned by one figure. Everything he could remember, and everything he loved.

Suldae Westwind: (Henry is holding it, Marcus and Suldae are touching it)
(it's just a fantastic mental image)

Marcus Veranius: Strahd needed to go, for everyone he had hurt. For the ravens. For Davian Martikov.
Vengeance.

"It is a sword of secrets," says the Lich. "Long ago given to a certain king by his mother, whom he later betrayed. The sword abandoned him then, and took its own path. For many centuries it has moved around this land, wandering from the hands of one unlucky soul to the next. It drinks the souls of those who are killed by its edge, and with the sound of its name it can digest the souls within itself to transform into a larger, more devastating weapon. I am told it takes a powerful soul to wield it without corruption."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Corruption you say?"

Instantly, two things happen. In the moment Henry says "Wxudt," the dagger in his hands erupts into a wave of shadow and solidifies once again into a massive longsword. At the same time, the handle in Marcus's hand vibrates and grows suddenly resistant in his grasp, as though held and guided by a ghostly second hand of far greater strength and skill than his own. A blade of brilliant yellow light thrusts out of one end of the hilt and stays there, longsword-length, glowing with holy fire.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Oh, and it seems you've found young master Khazan's Sunsword!"

"Well, I suppose it's more famous for the hand that first wielded it -- Sergei von Zarovich."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh! Count Strahd's brother?" Suldae says, remembering what she knew.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leds go of the Sunsword so that they would all stand there holding it lets

Marcus Veranius: "Haha, yes. Would you believe me if I said this was the artifact we were hoping to study? What crook would shove it into such a lovely model?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays a quick song, mending anything the hilt happened to be pointing towards as the blac came out.

*blade

"It's a sad thing. You see the beauty of the platinum hilt and guard, but what you do not see is the beautiful crystal blade that once extended from it. When Khazan was busy trying to destroy it, he managed to break off the blade and destroy it. I think the poor sword has feared for its life ever since."

"Where in the hells did you find it? I believed the thing destroyed, long ago."

Suldae Westwind: "May we borrow it?" Suldae asks.

"It was inside the model? How fascinating! What an excellent hiding place."

"By all means, I think it will feel safest with you. It seems to have taken a liking to you."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, thank you!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps back taking the sudden longsword and what used to be a dagger sheath from his belt

Suldae Westwind: "...Is there a sheath?" she wonders, looking at the blade. It does not seem... safe.
(talking about the sun sword here lol)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus breathes a sigh of relief. He was almost certain to have been painted an adventurer after that display. That's the kind of stuff Bards write songs about.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I Believe you mentioned something about corruption?"

Marcus Veranius: "That wasn't the only thing stuffed into the castle. It seems there's a ruby crudely placed in its tower. Unless that's supposed to be there?"

"Ah, no, yes. Er, three questions, give me a moment..."

He seems rather flustered.

"Right, well. The sword, I believe, no longer needs a sheath. That's the sun-sword, I mean. The blade will retract when you will it to, once you get the hang of it, and I rather hope you will get the hang of it soon because that light is very uncomfortable. It's ruining my ambient haze."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glances at Marcus.

"Second question, er. Corruption. Corruption. Yes, right, Wxudt corrupts those who use it."

Suldae Westwind: The lich might be evil (it tends to be something liches have in common) but he(?) had been nothing but civil with them. It is only polite to make him(?) comfortable.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How would that corruption manifest if you know such a thing"

"And the third question -- the ruby! Ah, that's actually an interesting little tidbit -- part of the castle's beauty is the design. It draws power from the Amber Temple through the roots of the mountains, and concentrates it, and focuses it into a usable form. The ruby you see is a replica of the powerful artifact formed from just such a use of the amber temple's power. It is a storehouse of immortal life -- the Heart of Castle Ravenloft. It holds the power of that guy, you know, the vampire. The castle guy. Owns the castle, that guy. Anyway, as long as he has that vault of life, he cannot die. It's the physical sign of the Gift of his patron."

Suldae Westwind: "...Fascinating," Suldae says, raising her eyebrows.

GM: (Everybody make an intelligence saving throw)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus eyes between the lich and the sunsword. Vengeance off? Sun-set? There had to be a keyword or something...

Suldae Westwind:

13

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (4)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

2 + 4

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

(its the dagger's fault)

Marcus Veranius: (I'm going to assume this is against something Strahd, the lich, or dead patrons are responsible for and roll with advantage)

4 + 3 | 11 + 3

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (2)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (LMAO)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+2+3 Lucky Dice

(19)+2+3

= 24

Suldae Westwind: (Henry's aura gives +3, right?)

(LMAO THATS BETTER)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah

Suldae Westwind: (my total is 16 then)

Henry and Suldae find themselves sitting down. Marcus does not sit down, because the first time he sits down, he sits on a sharp rock, which luckily causes him to spring back to his feet, realize that something powerful has just moved over him, and resist its effects completely.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...still 6)

Suldae Westwind: (there's also the spider hanging out outside of the room)

(it hasnt been an hour yet im sure)

"Oh, and you were asking about corruption."

"Well, corruption can manifest in many different ways, I suppose. The important thing is that you must notice if you begin to act differently. Strangely. Out of character, you know."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae figures it's the result of triggering the lich's teacher mode.

Hopefully it'll, uh, wear off on its own when he's done lecturing?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to stand up

Henry abruptly sits back down.

Marcus Veranius: "I see! Is that why there's a model of the castle here; because both Amber Temple and Castle Ravenloft are connected? This is an archaeological wonder I've never heard anywhere before!"

It seems he is restrained.

The Lich nods gleefully. "Yes, yes! I'm so pleased you're able to follow. They are indeed deeply connected, for the stones of Ravenloft were quarried from the mountains nearby, whose granite had absorbed the radiances of the temple for many thousands of years. The castle is limited to just the one manifestation, of course, but it does have the capacity to restore itself -- as the Amber Temple does."

"Now, that was a tricky little piece of necromantic magic, let me tell you..."

"When Queen Ravenovia asked me to perform it, I balked at first. Ten thousand souls? It seemed a high price." (Make an intelligence save.)

Marcus Veranius: It also explained why Strahd was so intent on reinforcing this place after their little fight. If that crystal relied on the temple to operate, he had to be confident in their ability to shut it down from here.

Suldae Westwind:

13

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (4)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (all of us or Marcus?)

Suldae Westwind: (well at least mine is consistent amirite)

Marcus Veranius:

8 + 3 | 10 + 3

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (2)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (All y'all's)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8 + 4

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+5 Luck

(5)+5

= 10

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Marcus Veranius: (Does Henry want to bless the only person still standing for a +1d4?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Bless takes an action to cast)
(so no one sudden extra dice)

Marcus Veranius: (Then 13's the best Marcus can do)

"And then of course we had to consider the process and the arrangement, and we were..." He launches into a detailed explanation of a horrendous necromantic ritual, a ritual so dark and so vile and so cruel that it psychically wounds you all, though it slips from your mind like a nightmare.

You all take 13 points of psychic damage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Is this a spell?

Marcus Veranius: "HMM!!!"

It is a magical effect that he's not in control of, so you might think of it as a spell he cast a really long time ago and forgot.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus hums aloud, having thought of something important

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cannot deny they kind of asked for this, even as she is overwhelmed with nausea.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so halved to 6

GM: (Yep)

Marcus Veranius: "You know what? I've come to a conclusion."

"And so, of course, you know, we just had to do something with all those skulls, so naturally I took them. And it was a pity their souls were all gone, transmuted, you know, because that left me so little to work with. Best I could manage was to make the poor things giggle, which is a sad state to spend eternity in. I suppose they cry with laughter!"

(Make an Intelligence Saving Throw)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is attempting to interrupt the lecture)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sir I thought you were giving us a tour, shouldn't we get back to that?"

16 + 4

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

16 + 4

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind:

23

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (4)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "My thesis on the study of Barovian Legends CANNOT conclude unless we see those Sarcoughagii you mentioned!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sorry for the double roll)

Suldae Westwind: ...Well, that explained the laughing skulls.

Marcus Veranius:

21 + 3 | 6 + 3

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (2)
Marcus Veranius

"Oh, I'm terribly sorry, I do blather on, I can't seem to help myself. Why are you all sitting down? There are many rooms yet to see."

Suldae, Henry, and Marcus manage to shake off the strange effect at the same time.

Suldae Westwind: "It seems to have been a side effect of your lecture," Suldae says as she rises to her feet.

"Quite an interesting phenomenon."

She might not be literally an archeologist actually, but she can nerd it up with the best of them.

"Oh, how fascinating. You know, now that I think about it, most of the people I've spoken to in the last six hundred years have died, you know, during the conversation. Ha. Silly how you never notice when you're the common denominator."

"Right, well. Let's keep moving. Keep up please."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Brb)

"There's a hallway here. That goes downstairs, if you take it. No one has taken those stairs in ages."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (back)

"This room here is our potion storage area." Stone blocks resembling tables stand in the center of this room covered in dust. Carved into the stone walls are niches filled with hundreds of dusty bottles. Cobwebs hang from wooden ladders that lean against the walls.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the others

The Lich approaches the southern end of the hallway and the double doors there.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Didn't we loot a bag of holding last week?)

GM: (You did indeed)

"Oh, and this here is the entrance lounge, you know, used to be a cozy spot. A bit bare now."

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae is mostly focused on keeping quiet. She does not want to set that off again.

Torches in sconces light this bare stone room. Six bedrolls made of stitched animal furs cover the floor. Cold air enters through a fissure in the southwest wall. The moment you open the doors of this chamber, you see six people and a direwolf sitting around a campfire. The next moment they are on their feet, turning towards you, drawing weapons -- but in fear. They do not attack. One of them restrains a dog.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (...now I'm not suggesting we pilfer this potion storage like a bunch of uni-students a bar but well how about we do that?)

 Sulda Westwind: (Absolutely do that behind his back)

"Oh!"

 Sulda Westwind: (We are archeologists these are objects of study)

"Oh, oh my. There are people here!"

"I certainly hope none of you are adventurers."

The people seem to be terrified.

 Sulda Westwind: "I don't htink they are, they don't seem the type," Suldae says brightly.
"You were saying?"

"Right, well, there used to be lovely furniture in here. I don't know where it's gone, terribly tragic, had a bookcase that was really lovely."

"And there was that wardrobe with the mirror that you could reach into and take gifts from the dark gods. That was a fun tourist attraction."

"The children, especially, always loved the cursed toys."

"Right, well. Hello all, don't take anything that doesn't belong to you and make sure you don't leave any litter behind, I hate that stuff."

 Marcus Veranius: ...why did that sound a lot like stuff they'd found in Baba Lysaga's house?

Right, and we can go on through here, to the southeast hall, or to the scroll repository hidden in the south wall of this chamber.

 Marcus Veranius: At least the cursed mirror bit.
(Wait, no. Was the mirror in the Burgomaster's house?)
(((I KEEP TRACK OF NPC'S, NOT THE DAMN DECORATIONS @.@)))

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (it was an assasination mirror)
(but yes)

GM: (Speaking of NPCs, I shall leave you with the descriptions of the individuals in the room (ignore their token art))

The nearest man is a towering, muscular, black-bearded, grey-eyed, stern-faced barbarian, lightly oiled against the cold, cloaked in the feathery-shouldered fur of a black owlbear with the beaked hood down. He wears crude leather armor, all of black -- with several notable additions: a shining silver belt buckle, a long steel zweihander, and a heart-plate of what you recognize to be polished Mithras. The heart-plate is a five-inch-wide circle with two long straps that criss-cross the torso, and he is otherwise bare-chested. Many swirling storms of tattoos cloud his weatherbeaten skin. He stands before his fellows, but extends a placating hand in both directions, as though urging peace.

Further back in the room you see a tall, inscrutable man with a pointed black beard, purple-black robes, and a large satchel. Beside him is a hunched, pale, white-bearded elderly man, wrapped in a thick bear fur. The old man's eyes glow a sickly yellow, and he leans heavily on a staff.

At the back of the room is a horribly deformed man who must be under the effects of some kind of terrible curse: his eyes bug and stare in opposite directions, and the hairs which jut from every inch of his body are long and thick and solitary, like a full-body set of whiskers. He is drooling slightly.

Near him, clutching the leather collar of the dire wolf, is a tall and powerful woman with a strange and alien beauty. Her dark hair tumbles to her waist in wild, glossy locks, without the slightest hint of frizz, which is truly remarkable given the general matted affair of most barbarian hair. She wears a two-piece outfit of silver rabbit fur over a long chainmail shirt, which she wears as a belted dress. She seems to be unarmed.

Last but not least, and closest to the door, other than the first man, is squat, pale, baggy-faced, three-eyed man, who is fidgeting anxiously with his long, pale hands. He is wrapped in the pelt of a black sheep -- head, ears, fluffy tail, and all.

The towering man with the zweihander says, in Sylvan: "You must have just arrived. Are you alright?"

"We don't want to fight."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Great neither do we" Henry says with placating smile looking at all of the adventures before saying in undercommon "I hate this place"

"How long have you been trapped?" asks the bearded man.

"We have been here three days. Well, my group has."

"At least, we think it's three days."

The tall, inscrutable man says, in Common: "Do any of you speak common? Any of you?"

"Common? You know? Common?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We just came in" Henry says in common

The black-bearded man looks at the inscrutable man and says, in Sylvan: "We do not speak your barbarian tongue!"

The inscrutable man, stepping forward and brushing his robes off, extends a hand to greet Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No need to be rude about it mister" Henry says rollin his eyes at the blackbearded man in sylvan

"Savnok," he says, "at your service."

Introducing the yellow-eyed man, he says: "This is my uncle, Sykane. He is ill."

Introducing the bug-eyed man, he says: "And this is my assistant, Tarakamedes. He has been cursed."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is meanwhile goading detail after detail on the surroundings out of the lich, careful to not push him into full on flashback mode again.

The woman with the dog comes forward. "Shami-Amourae," she says, with a hand on her chest. Beside her, the fidgeting man says: "Drizlash." The black-bearded barbarian says, hand on chest, "Zrin-Hala."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Henry" he replies taking the hand "Pleasure is ours" he says in common first and then again in sylvan purely out of pettiness thinking 'What fresh mess have we stumbled into now'

Zanshuken: *stumbled

26

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

4

Radiant

13

Slashing

30

24

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

13
Slashing

18

25

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

16
Slashing

31

27

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11
Slashing

17

23

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

15
Slashing

Zanshuken:

26

25

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11
Slashing

18

15

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

14

Slashing

26

29

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11

Slashing

15

22

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11*Slashing30*16

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11*Slashing*

The road fades away under a covering of snow, but it takes you far enough to see the facade of some kind of temple carved into the sheer mountainside ahead. The front of the structure is fifty feet high and has six alcoves containing twenty-foot-tall statues. Each statue is carved from a single block of amber and depicts a faceless, hooded figure, its hands pressed together in a gesture of prayer. Between the two innermost statues is a twenty-foot-tall archway with a staircase leading down.

GM (GM): (Ignore that, testing a thingy out)
(Hello!)

The lich says: "Would you like to carry on with the tour?"

Marcus Veranius: "Perhaps a moment. It would be rude to not treat guests proper, yes?"

"...Wait. Let me rephrase."

Liliet (Suldae): (hello brb)

Marcus Veranius: "By proper, I mean saying hello and asking if they need anything."

Marcus Veranius doesn't want to know what the lich considers to be proper manners

The lich contemplates this for a moment. "I suppose that is probably the more hospitable path."

"I was concerned that you might feel neglected, being as you were, I believe, the first guests in line."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry half turns to the lich keeping their new 'friends' in view "Would you happen to speak this language ?" Henry asks in sylvan Marcus Veranius: "The alternative is to make cleaning up that much more difficult. We can agree no party would like that."

The lich says "Gesundheit," to Henry.

"Cleaning up? What? Why?"

Marcus Veranius has absolutely no idea what Henry is saying, but it's probably important

"Has someone made a mess?"

Marcus Veranius: "I mean, there's that egg in the castle. The occasional wall that could use some mending."

Zrin-Hala: "You have befriended the corpsewalker?"

Marcus Veranius: "Basic maintenance."

Zrin-Hala: (in Sylvan)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Best answer I'll get" Henry murmurs "Befriending is a strong word"

Savnok: "Ahem. Excuse me. I'm terribly sorry to interrupt, but I would like very much to ask: do any of you happen to know the way out of here?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "These are Marcus and Suldae my friends that both do not speak Sylvan but they do speak common"

Savnok: "You see, my uncle is ill, and my assistant is cursed, and in our earlier foray we sighted several... Things."

"We came in through the crack, you see --" he points to the southwest corner of the chamber. "But it doesn't go back."

Marcus Veranius: "Err, yes but actually no. There's an entrance to the temple but it seems a bit... spacey."

Zrin-Hala: "How long have you known the strolling bones?"

Marcus Veranius: "Literally stars out there. We think there may be some ward that needs disabling deeper inside."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rubs his eyes "Listen we have been in here for just about half an hour or so and only meet this fella 5 minutes ago"

Drizlash: The three-eyed fidgeting man is momentarily overcome by a fit of nervous giggles. "Spacey!"

"We're all going to die in here!"

Zrin-Hala: "I see," says Zrin-Hala.

"We have been here a few days, I think. Time is hard to tell. We came in to take shelter from the storm."

"Now we cannot leave..."

Marcus Veranius: "No! No. Probably not. We've been in worse than this. At least the temple isn't alive and actively trying to kill us."

"I really hope that isn't the case anyways."

There is a loud and ominous grumble from deep in the belly of the mountain.

Marcus Veranius sweats a little

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You had to provoke it" Henry hisses at Marcus in common

Marcus Veranius: "Look, if I had a copper for every sentient structure that tried to kill me I'd have two. Which isn't a lot but it's weird to have happened twice."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Did you come from Barovia or somewhere else?" Henry asks in sylvan before shrugging at Marcus comment "Fair"

Zrin-Hala: "We came from the mountain. From the forest."

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "Either way, we know the dungeon seems split into several 'copies'. Perhaps if we figure out how to leave, others with us might be able to follow."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Did you walk into a wall of mist before ending up in the forrest or the mountains?"

(Marcus who exactly are you talking to?)

Marcus Veranius: (Savnok, the one who speaks 'barbaric common')

Savnok: Savnok, who is speaking perfectly crisp, clear, educated Common, says: "Several copies? That's an alarming idea..."

"Just one of this place was bad enough!"

Zrin-Hala: "Mist?"

"No, no. I saw no mist."

Marcus Veranius: "I can't say I'm a fan either given who got stuck in the other copy. But I must be strong."

"You mentioned encountering things deeper inside. What did they look like?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry addresses the rest of the group "Does the Name Barovia or Strahd mean anything to any of you?"

Liliet (Suldae):

20

CHARISMA (5+2)
Suldae Westwind

Savnok: Savnok contemplates. "Well, there was something in the statue at the end of the main hall. And there were things -- laughing, flaming skulls, with emerald eyes. We barely escaped."

Suldae, meanwhile, has roped the lich deep into a conversation about ichor. The lich is passionate about it, and speaks at great length.

Zrin-Hala: Zrin-Hala says: "We know not those names."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well good for you" Henry says telling Marcus that

Marcus Veranius wasn't actually sure what he expected. They couldn't have made it farther than his own party upon reflection

Marcus Veranius: "Well, tell you what. We'll continue with our friend's tour of the temple and see if we can find the gift shop and exit. Let you know what comes up."

"Think you can hold fort here?"

Savnok: "Actually, I think we'd prefer to come with you."

"I don't think we'll get along very well with the barbarians, if we're left alone for very long..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You didn't come in here together?"

in common

Savnok: Savnok seems repulsed by the idea. "Are you kidding? Who could bear the stench? I'm a little insulted that you could think we were affiliated."

Zrin-Hala: "If you are going, will you take us with you? We have lost two of our companions and with your help we might find them."

Marcus Veranius assumed as much with Savnok's description of his relatives separate from the barbarians.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It`s a shame we don't have a third language in common as a party to gossip over them)

Marcus Veranius: "I mean no offense, but you've got an elder and injured man with you. That doesn't seem particularly wise given the apparent dangers."

Drizlash: "Please don't leave us!" Drizlash says, sweating greasily.

Seeming to emerge from deep within his own thoughts on ichor, the lich says: "Yes, right, now, where were we..."

"Are we ready to proceed? Are they interested in joining the tour group?"

Marcus Veranius frowns. "If the Barbarians are your worst fear, perhaps we could convince them to aid our group while you bunker here? It wouldn't require as much mobility."

Liliet (Suldae): "Everyone who wants to come with us, please do so!" Suldae calls out to everyone else, interrupting their conversation.

Savnok: "Look," says Savnok. "You might be our last chance at getting out of here. I happen to be a competent wizard -- and my uncle and my assistant are capable casters as well. With our aid, you stand a better chance of survival -- which means we stand a better chance at survival. I would strongly prefer to accompany you."

Suldae Westwind: "Up, up, let's go," Suldae turns to the lich and nods.

Marcus Veranius nods. "Forgive the assumption then. I would be welcome to have you."

Shami-Amourae: The woman with the enormous dog smiles broadly at Suldae in a friendly way. There is something about her smile that seems a little off.

Looking at Suldae's ears, she says, in Elvish: "You are of the forest peoples?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "you are welcome to join us I guess" Henry says in sylvan Suldae Westwind: "...My mother was," Suldae says, nodding politely to the woman. "Please, come with us if you would like to. We can chat later?"

Shami-Amourae: Her accent is strange, alien, ancient-sounding.

"I will happily come with you."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods gladly.

Shami-Amourae: "This is Seriach," says Shami-Amourae. "My hound."

The lich says: "Right, then. Shall we?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods politely to the hound as well.

Marcus Veranius: "I think we shall. Perhaps these Sarcophagi you mentioned are the key to this."

Suldae Westwind: "I am Suldae Catherine Westwind, and" - she turns to the lich and switches to Common, "yes, let's continue the tour!"

Marcus Veranius coughs "and my research paper."

Marcus Veranius: "Do you remember where we may find them?"

"The Sarcophagi? Certainly, certainly my boy. We will get to them towards the end of the tour."

"One must save the best for last, as they say."

Marcus Veranius was afraid he'd say that

"Right, then, if you'll all just follow me -- hands and feet inside the group at all times, the next few areas are patrolled by my guardians and I wouldn't want them to perceive you as threats."

Marcus Veranius:

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level.

Second Wind
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waves for the newcomers to join them as she follows the lich.

Marcus Veranius takes a deep breath and braces himself for more tour

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the liberty to translate the Liches instructions for the Barbarinas

He moves through the eastern doors. "This is the overlook, looming over the temple proper. At the end of the hall you see the statue of the Forgotten God, the God of Forgetfulness. Oh, now that's not right! Where the devil is my arcanoloth? "

"And where are my flame skulls?"

"Absolutely shameful. Utterly disgraceful. Lazy layabouts..."

"I shall have a very strongly-worded conversation with them, I assure you! Please forgive the lack of arcane embellishment."

Marcus Veranius hopes the Arcanaloath is still hiding in the statue

Suldae Westwind: "We do not hold this against you, of course," Suldae says. "Inconveniences happen!"

The statue at the end of the hall no longer has its emanations of darkness. Its face can be clearly seen: a smooth and featureless mask of stone.

Suldae Westwind: "Please, do tell us more!"

Marcus Veranius: "Is that one of the skulls in there?" Marcus points to the arrow slit where the wizard corpse is

"Ah, that pleases me to hear. Well, let us continue across the walkway to the next station of the tour."

Looking in the direction of Marcus's finger, the lich says: "Oh! Oh! How terribly rude! Somebody has simply laid their corpse here, how careless!"

"This simply will not do."

The lich waves a bony hand and with a swirl of emerald flames the corpse of the wizard wakes, pushes itself to its feet, and bows an apology in the general direction of the party.

"Adventurers. You see? Never cleaning up after themselves..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods sympathetically.

"Anyway. Just this way."

"And this is the Southeast Annex. There is some scroll storage behind the wall there, if adventurers haven't already looted the place. I see they've knocked a hole in the floor. I swear, it's as though they don't even think about the lives of the people whose homes they leave in ruin!"

"Anyway. On to the north, to the upper east hall!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns towards Zrin-Hala "You wouldn't happen to have a spare sword sheath would you?"

"I will warn you, there is an alarming amber statue at the end of this hall. It will not attack you in my presence unless you are seen to be desecrating the temple in some way."

Zrin-Hala: "Sword sheathe? No, my friend."

"I have furs that you could wrap it in, I suppose, if you really just need to protect a blade?"

"There was a fascinating story behind the amber temple guardians, but I have long ago forgotten it."

"You will have to pretend that I told you a story that was at once incredible and tragic."

Marcus Veranius sagely nods, pretending to take notes in his ledger book

"Right, this is the upper east hall."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae also nods.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll pretend to be deeply moved."

Suldae Westwind: She's just really glad to be moving again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It's fine I just ...broke one of mine so I have to carry it like this" Henry says gesturing slightly with the hand holding Wuxdt Suldae Westwind: She also mounts the spider again, as it has caught up.

"And you simply must see the lecture hall."

The lich opens the eastern door of this hall. The moment the door is opened, a stench of monumental horror bathes you in a palpable wave of warm, sticky, humid air. The room is brilliantly lit, although it is difficult to determine where the actual source of the light is. The walls are sheathed in amber that has been carved into bas-reliefs of wizards with spellbooks. Stairs to the north and south descend twenty feet to an obsidian lectern, behind which a slab of black slate hangs from chains. Between the stairs are descending rows of red marble benches. In the middle row of benches, a small feast is laid out on what are clearly conjured dishes. Hiding (badly) behind the blackboard is a burn-scarred young man in clean blue robes.

Suldae Westwind: "Ah, may I look?" Suldae asks as she catches sight of him.

"This place is fascinating!"

Vilnius: "Don't touch me!"

"Stay back!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to their new companions "One of your friends?"

Suldae Westwind: ...well, so much for the subtle approach.

Savnok: Savnok shrugs. "Not one of mine."

Zrin-Hala: Zrin-Hala, understanding, shakes his head. "No one we know."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae enters the hall, holding her hands palms up at her sides to indicate she is not armed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Joy" Henry says in a deadpan

Vilnius: The young man watches her approach, eyes wide with terror, but he does not make any attempt to move further away from her.

Suldae Westwind: "Would you like to join our tour group? The tour takes us through the entire temple and then to the exit!" she says, trying for a balance between making it clear what she's empathizing and not breaking character for the lich.

Vilnius: The stench, whatever it is, seems to be coming from him.

"A t-tour? Are you insane? With those monsters out there? With those statues out there?"

Suldae Westwind: The smell is somewhat alarming but at this point Suldae just figures that anyone alive deserves to get out of here still in that state.

"The tour is perfectly safe for those who join it," Suldae says.

"Just don't touch anything and be a good listener."

Vilnius: The young man looks at her as if convinced that she is entirely mad.

"My master's dead in a room just south of here," he says.

"You want to tell me that this place is safe?"

"I've been living in this little room for months. MONTHS.

"I've been eating RATS to survive."

Suldae Westwind: "...Do you want to also be dead in it, or do you want to eventually leave?" Suldae asks bluntly.

Vilnius: "...I want to leave."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean it's coming with us and possibly getting out of here or staying and definitely being stuck here ...alone..."

Vilnius: "But I'm not going anywhere if that statue is still out there..."

Marcus Veranius doesn't know if he should mention said dead master now sweeping floors for a lich...

Suldae Westwind: "The statue IS still out there. And you should come with us anyway, because it'll still be there after we leave, and if you don't come, so will you. With it. In here."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs and addresses the Lich "Those statues won't do anything to us if we are with you right?"

The lich makes a waffling "sort of" gesture with one hand.

"The statues are not under my power."

"But they don't have a tendency to attack without reason, from what I've seen."

Suldae Westwind: "Just don't touch anything, and it should be fine," Suldae asserts confidently.

"Of course, I could be forgetting..."

Suldae Westwind: "Look, our purpose here actually ISN'T to look for strays, so if you want to stay, you can," she says after a pause, because it's true. It isn't.

Vilnius: The young man thinks for a while.

"Alright."

"But I want to stay in the middle."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Whatever"

Suldae Westwind: "Please do," Suldae says with a feeling.

She doesn't want to know what he did to provoke the statue and doesn't want him to do it again.

She also doots out Prestidigitation as he's passing by.

Marcus Veranius is quite thankful

Suldae Westwind: A life-saving spell, it is.

Vilnius: The stench of him is nauseating, overwhelming. She feels her prestidigitation fall upon him...

And senses that nothing has changed, somehow. Perhaps he is not entirely the source.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do you happen to speak Sylvan kid?" Henry asks him

Suldae Westwind: ...well, that can wait.

Marcus Veranius is no longer thankful

Vilnius: "Sylvan?"

"No. I speak Elvish, Dwarvish, and Gnomish, though."

"Why?"

Suldae Westwind: "What can you tell us about this hall?" Suldae addresses the lich in the meantime.

The show must go on.

Even if it's now somewhat stinky.

"This hall is a hall," says the lich. "And there's a lecture room."

"This hall is on the eastern side of the main chamber."

Marcus Veranius: "I'd have never figured that one out."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "they don't speak common" Henry says gesturing at the Barbarians "I'm currently translating I guess" seizing the opportunity Henry quickly makes introductions

"Now, let me see... Yes, I suppose we must go this way. If we continue to the end of the hall, the statue our new friend here is so frightened of has its post. There is a small alcove shrine to one of the forgotten knowledge gods as well, but not much else. If we want to make it to the lower levels, we must go this way."

The lich leads the way south, back out to the overlook, and down the stairs into the main hall.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is riding the spider again. She hopes no-one present finds it too weird.

"Just behind the statue here is a marvelously hidden secret door. There is also, of course, the secret entrance to the statue itself. The stairs within ascend to the head of the statue, and down through the feet to the floor below."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae makes appropriate listener noises.

The lich knocks on the wall behind the statue three times. Instantly, a door springs open in the northern wall. The stairs climb thirty feet to another secret door.

"And this is the library!"

Marcus Veranius marvels at the design. He might not know archaeology but shoemakers can appreciate a good secret compartment!

This stone library has twenty-foot-high walls and a thirty-foot-high vaulted ceiling. Covering the ceiling is a fresco that depicts angels being set ablaze in a hell. A black marble railing encloses a gold marble staircase that spirals gently down a thirty-foot-wide, thirty-foot-deep shaft to the north. Against the gray walls stand six ten-foot-tall, black marble bookcases. On their shelves are hundreds of well-preserved tomes. Embroidered rugs, chairs, and lit candelabras fill the southern half of the room.

Two men get to their feet as the secret door opens.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay how many people are in this place?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives a friendly wave.

A boldly-painted man in a loincloth and cloak of lion skin says, in accented Common: "Who are you?"

Suldae Westwind: She hasn't noticed the ceiling yet.

The other man is mud-covered, drooling, eyes wide and staring in two different directions. His teeth are dazzlingly bright and oddly sharp.

Then, seeing the crowd behind the party on the stairs, he seems to recognize people.

Suldae Westwind: "...We are a tour group passing through. My name is Suldae Westwind. If you want to come with us, eventually to the exit, you're welcome to!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Zrin-Hala You know these guys?" Henry calls backwards

The man in lion-skin says: "Zrin-Hala! Shami-Amourae! Drizlash!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps aside and gestures for the two to proceed to the stairs behind her.

Their procession is getting larger, which she very much doesn't mind.

A quick, brief conversation in a language you don't speak is carried out between the barbarians.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps in to the room and while the rest are distracted picks up a book and idly thumbs through it

A moment later, the man in lion-skin gives a friendly grin to the party and says: "Apologies, friends. My name is Zantras. I am the chieftain of these my fellow hunters."

Zantras: "We were separated not long after we first entered the temple. I went off to search ahead... And found my way here, only to be trapped."

"I didn't dare to go down the stairs..."

Suldae Westwind: "...It is very nice to meet you, but introductions can wait, perhaps?"

Zantras: "Oh, er... I suppose."

Suldae Westwind: "It is somewhat rude to our very kind guide, who was about to tell us more about this place?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (anything intressting in my book?)

Suldae Westwind: No provoking the friendly lich: the most important rule of this expedition so far. Suldae turns to him.

The lich looks at Suldae with a certain degree of adoration in the hollow sockets of his eyes.

"Thank you. Terribly thoughtful of you."

"Shall we carry on with the tour?"

Marcus Veranius quickly takes notes of the newcomers, adding them to his list of met persons

The book Henry picked up contains instructions for a torture method that involves the weaving together of the souls and bodies of hateful, selfish men.

There are several very graphic woodblock prints.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry snaps it closed with a long sigh "Don't know what exactly I expected"
He says mostly to himself
He puts it back

"Right, then. Down we go..."

Marcus Veranius looks between everyone and quietly whispers to Mudman. "Excuse me sir, could I get your name?"

Suldae Westwind: Sulae mounts the spider, looks at the stairs and dismounts. It can climb vertical surfaces, she would rather not.

The mudman says something which sounds like "Dahlver-Nar."

It seems to be the only sound he can make...

Marcus Veranius: "...pleasure to make your acquaintance!"

Marcus Veranius continues with the others

The stairs descend in a sweeping spiral of amber, with black marble railing. At the bottom of the stairs, you see six rotting wooden crates in the room. The amber-covered walls of the chamber are sculpted to look like tentacles that entwine around marble bas-reliefs of kings, queens, pharaohs, and sultans attended by myriad slaves.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to whisper to Marcus and Suldae "I swear by the gods at this rate we#ll find a whole circus next"

The west, south, and east walls contain alcoves, and standing in each alcove is a tall, rough block of amber. Two wide cracks have opened up in the south wall, spilling rubble and shattered pieces of amber onto the floor in the southeast corner of the room.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (one GM warp pls)

The lich says: "Oh. Oh, I'm sorry. I thought there would be an official entrance here."

Marcus Veranius frowns at the crates

"I seem to have taken you by the more familiar route, and the less formal one."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has to make actual effort to NOT say "implying we haven't already". It feels like it would be rude.

"Well, no matter. We will see the other rooms soon enough anyway."

Marcus Veranius: "THAT'S QUITE ALRIGHT! Question though."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "This place would be?"

Marcus Veranius: "Err, you don't keep vampires in hiding in your crates, do you? Had a nasty surprise once."

"Oh no, no vampires. Just vampire spawn."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Don't worry, I keep them here for research purposes. They are quite harmless."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has to expend actual effort to keep a straight face at this.

"Or at least, they will be, so long as you leave them in their crates."

Suldae Westwind: "...That seems like a very good reason to not touch the crates."

"I am attempting to discover the roots of the vampiric curse. Do you know, there is said to be a very fascinating example of their breed, just outside the temple?"

"I believe his name was Strand or Strid or something like that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Riiight" Henry says before saying in Sylvan "Do not and I mean DO NOT touch those crates"

Marcus Veranius: "Does he look like this?"

Zrin-Hala: "Wait what? Why? What's in them?"

Marcus Veranius holds up a puppet of Count Strahd to see if the Lich would be familiar

The puppet giggles.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Nothing any of us want to deal with right now"

The lich looks at the puppet.

The lich cocks his head, as though remembering a time from long, long ago...

Dust and cobwebs seem to be getting cleared out of skull attic-space...

Able: yo

Marcus Veranius has never heard Leetle Strahd talk on its own

"Yes.... Yes... I recognize...."

GM: (yo)

Marcus Veranius: "YOU KNOW WHAT! I think I'm just going to stow this thing away."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shushes the suddenly appeared Hiere.

Marcus Veranius: "Thankfully I happen to know the perfect place."

Suldae Westwind: She is very glad to see him, though.

Marcus Veranius: "Found a bag of holding earlier and I havent checked the contents yet."

GM: (Suldae wait)

(This will be good)

Marcus Veranius opens the Bag of Holding

Marcus Veranius:

(<https://i.imgur.com/7DI18vP.png>)

Suldae Westwind: (oh ok)

Hiere Unthere: (HAHAHAHHAHHAHH)

Suldae Westwind: (omfg)

(OMFG)

Marcus Veranius closes the Bag of Holding

Marcus Veranius: Today is not a good day

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Was was that?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to open it again.

Marcus Veranius: "Hiere."

"Hiere."

"Hiere."

Hiere Unthere: "yes?"

Marcus Veranius: "What are you doing in a months-dead wizard's bag of holding?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae?"

Hiere Unthere: "looking around"

"Oh, hello there," says the Lich. "We seem to be picking up quite a tour group!"

Marcus Veranius: "That is probably the only answer I want to hear, so I'll take it."

"Largest tour group I've had in all the time I can remember!"

Suldae Westwind: "...yes, definitely," Suldae agrees with a feeling.

"Isn't it nice?"

Hiere Unthere: "Can I come out now?"

Marcus Veranius upturns the Bag of Holding, ejecting its contents

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae can you pinch me when the world starts making sense again?"

"It's wonderful, simply wonderful. I never dreamed so many people would be interested in the dark powers of the forgotten gods! It brings a tear to my eye."

"Oh, happy days."

A tear of silvery-blue ectoplasm is, indeed, dribbling from his eye socket.

Suldae Westwind: "...I'll get back to you then, yes."

Suldae nods to the lich.

She's probably going to write down things she's heard here, maybe cross-check with Marcus's notes.

This IS knowledge, even if it's... of questionable kind.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So what else tumbles out with Hiere?)

Marcus Veranius: (I dont know. Been purposely avoiding opening the bag of holding for this joke)

The bag of holding, it seems, has lost all of its previous contents in order to hold Hiere.

Hiere Unthere: "I may have lost some of the things in hiere"

"I'm sure they'll turn up eventually"

The lich says: "Our newest member seems to have turned up with perfect timing!"

"The first of the Amber Sarcophagi are here, in this chamber."

"On the western side, we have the Slab of Ravenovia. On the south, we have the sarcophagus of Tenebrous, mightiest and most fearsome of liches. On the eastern wall, we have the sarcophagus of Zhudun, the Corpse Star."

"If these are the gifts you are interested in, you should take them before we proceed further, as we will not be passing back this way."

Marcus Veranius blinks

Suldae Westwind: "...Ravenovia?"

Marcus Veranius: "Err, do forgive me. We came here for archaeological purposes initially. What do these gifts entail? I don't think you mentioned yet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...What kind of gifts are we talking about here?"

Suldae Westwind: "Does it have anything to do with Ravenloft an Barovia?"

"You... You don't know of the gifts?"

"What on earth possessed you to come here, if not to receive the dark gifts?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We are from very very very very far away you must understand"

Marcus Veranius: "A thesis paper on previously unexplored ruins."

"So then... You were never interested in the dark gifts to begin with..."

Suldae Westwind: "No, we are interested!"

"We simply didn't know about them."

"Please, tell us more?"

"Oh. Well, it is always a pleasure to cure ignorance."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm interested in LEARNING! This is a part of learning!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods like a doll. Cure the ignorance, please!

"The dark gift of Ravenovia is an ingenious form of vampirism. To receive it is a little more complex than the other gifts; and there are more interesting downsides, as well."

Suldae Westwind: Highly questionable as this is, it definitely resonates with Correllon's teachings.

...Yep, definitely has to do with Barovia.

Probably.

"Oh?"

"The procedure is that the one desiring of the benefits of the gift must slay another humanoid that loves or reveres him or her, then drink that dead humanoid's blood within 1 hour of slaying it. The beneficiary must then die at the hands of one or more creatures that hate it."

"Do you know, I have the strangest feeling every time I look at this sarcophagus?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Familiarity?"

"As though there were a thousand things about it that I had just forgotten, and needed desperately to remember..."

The lich stares at the sarcophagus and does not speak.

Suldae Westwind: Well, that is both creepy and fascinating.

Suldae makes herself a note because she just feels somehow that it might come up later.

"Is there a way to lose it?"

"There is no way to lose the gift of a dark god, for each gift is a pact."

"Only by breaking the pact can the gift be taken away, and most of the pacts are not intended or designed for breaking."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at his friends then the Ravanovia thing and simply mouths "Strahd"

Suldae Westwind: "...I have yet to encounter something truly unbreakable," Suldae says, injecting fascination into her voice.

Hopefully he'll correct her.

Marcus Veranius nods to Henry's assessment. His notes match up, as does Strahd's diary

The lich says: "Odd thing for an archaeologist to say..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head. "Archaeologists often have to fix the things they are researching."

"Everything breaks, that's what we know."

"Even if only a little."

The lich shrugs. "That makes sense, I suppose."

"Right, anyway. Pacts are notoriously difficult to break, because the gods involved typically do not wish to make it easy to do so."

Suldae Westwind: This wasn't actually even alarming. She clearly knows more about archeology than he does!

"I see!"

"There are only two ways to break a pact: by taking a pact to a countering god, or by the god failing to fulfill whatever oath it made to sway you into accepting its pact."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not need to try hard to slip into a fascinated researcher persona. It was always merely a step away.

"Oh, I see!"

"And outside parties cannot interfere, because gods don't like interference, then?"

"Anyway. The gift of Ravenovia is an interesting one because it is the most recent addition to our offerings. I think. I can't remember, now that I think about it. Maybe I'm wrong. Oh well."

Suldae Westwind: "I see! What of the other ones?"

"Oh, gods love to interfere," says the lich.

Suldae Westwind: "No, I mean others' interference with their affairs!"

Marcus Veranius: "What are the typical terms of pacts? Claim over the soul? A chance to be out of their boxes for a while? A quest?"

Suldae Westwind: "...I suppose a god interfering with another god's pact would be quite destructive..."

"Right, that's a lot of questions all at once, so I'll just say the next part of the tour and hope that it answers some of whatever you were asking. Well, the offering of Tenebrous -- powerful lich, they say, tremendous history, real eons of conquest sort of thing... His dark gift is said to be the secrets of lichdom: the construction of a phylactery, the directions to the potion of transformation, all of that."

"And over there we have Zhudun's gift. Zhudun grants the power to raise the dead, regardless of the time between their death and your now."

"Of course, it's only a single use."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Raise, as in?"

Marcus Veranius: "Revive a long-dead sister slain under unkind circumstances..."

"Oh, resurrect. You know. Whole new body, same old soul. Very powerful stuff, much better than the piddling necromancy performed these days."

Suldae Westwind: "Same soul? And in the case of reincarnation?"

"What happens to the new person who has the soul?"

"One supposes it would snatch the soul from the current vessel, restore any memories, and place both into a new, re-created vessel."

"I haven't used Zhudun's gift, myself."

"Haven't needed it."

"No one I miss that badly. A haha."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry clears his throat "Could we have a moment please"

Suldae Westwind: Well. Well that is something.

"A pun, you see, because I cannot miss what I cannot remember."

Suldae Westwind: "Makes sense!" Suldae nods cheerfully.

"You'd like to take a break?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Just a moment to..confer with my peers"

Marcus Veranius: "I'M TERRIBLY SORRY, we need to confer our notes. I think we've had a breakthrough in research!"

"That's good timing, actually. I was just about to ask if we could pause for a quick restorative meditation."

Suldae Westwind: "Well, these are fascinating decision to make, aren't they?"

"Oh, good timing indeed!"

"There are many more sarcophagi. Since you're new here, I'll tell you that."

"Before you make your decision, you should see all of them."

"Right, anyway. Meditating now. Goodbye."

The lich floats a little higher into the air, sits cross-legged on nothing, and loses the crimson stars in its hollow sockets. It seems to be dormant.

Marcus Veranius: "Suldae. That is the very gift Kasimir was looking for."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods cheerfully and kind of regrets the end of the conversation. She'd rather keep doing the work of chatting than think about this.

"...I got that impression, yes," Suldae says without turning to him.

The smile is frozen on her face.

Marcus Veranius: "I thought this might happen going into the temple. Admittedly, I made a plan for it. But that plan is busted with Kasimir unreachable in another part of the temple."

Suldae Westwind: "...Ireena is where he is."

"She can handle herself, probably."

Vilnius: "Hey guys, what are we talking about?"

Suldae Westwind: "There is not much we can do, is there?"

Suldae does not answer his question.

Marcus Veranius: "She can't. Kasimir knows more of this temple than anyone else, and he's fighting for family."

Vilnius: Vilnius pokes his head into the conversation, stinkily.

Hiere Unthere: "who's stinky over here?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Would you mind this is kind of a private conversation"

Vilnius: "Stinky? Who's stinky? I don't smell anything."

Marcus Veranius: "We need to intervene. Does anyone still have uses of Sending? HIERE! Do you have sending prepared?"

Vilnius: "Oh, private."

"Sure sure, sorry. I've just been alone for a long time."

Suldae Westwind: "...Sorry," Suldae tells him.

"We're a bit on edge."

Hiere Unthere: "I do not :("

Suldae Westwind: "You don't happen to have Sending prepared, do you?"

Vilnius: "Who, me?"

"Yeah, I do actually."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at Marcus.

Vilnius: "It doesn't reach outside the temple, though. I've tried that."

Suldae Westwind: She's feeling a bit frozen up.

Vilnius: "I thought the university would have sent someone by now..."

Marcus Veranius: "Vilnius, we need to ask you a big favor."

Vilnius: "Sure, you gotcha. What do you need?"

Marcus Veranius: "There is another copy of this temple. My wife, her wife (pointing to suldae) and our other archaeologists are there."

Suldae Westwind: ...they aren't married yet, but Suldae isn't going to object to this.

Vilnius: "A copy?"

Marcus Veranius: "One of the archaeologists is about to revive his sister, but it will cost the life of her wife. This cannot happen."

Marcus Veranius waves his hand around. He doesn't understand this dimensional shenanigans

Marcus Veranius: "Not important!"

Vilnius: "So you want me to use Sending on somebody, cool cool."

"There's just one problem. I'd have to be familiar with whoever you're trying to contact."

"Oh, but I do have my spell book."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Vilnius: "If somebody else wants to use it?"

Suldae Westwind: "...The lich said the resurrected person would have both sets of memories."

Marcus Veranius: "Have you heard of Barovia's beloved circus performer, Rictavio the Animal Tamer?"

Vilnius: "You'll have to forgive the notation, it's a personal script I've been working on, nothing too fancy, just a little embellishment on some of the symbols, you know..."

Suldae Westwind: "Technically, this would not..."

"..."

Vilnius: "Rictavio the what?"

Suldae Westwind: "I don't know," she whispers bitterly.

Vilnius: "I'm sorry, I've been in here a long time..."

Marcus Veranius: "Old man in Vallaki. Has a tiger and a monkey. They perform circus tricks!"

Suldae Westwind: This does not feel as obvious to her as it apparently does to Marcus, grateful as she is for his single-mindedness.

Vilnius: "Oh. I've never been to Vallaki."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Here could you do it with his book?"

Marcus Veranius: "Barovia Village then?"

Vilnius: "Nope."

"It was my first trip with the research team."

"Sorry."

Marcus Veranius frowns. The fame of their companions isn't going to help for recognition

Hiere Unthere: Hiere nods."May take a while though"

Suldae Westwind: "...Where are you from, anyway?" Suldae asks. It's as good a distraction as any.

"Yeah, it's goign to take him," she nods towards the lich, "a while, too."

Vilnius: "Well, here's the book, anyway," says Vilnius. He pulls from his satchel a badly beaten, water-stained, crumbling, rotting, stinky spell book. He hands it to Hiere.

Suldae Westwind: "Take your time, or something."

...Suldae takes out the flute and blows out a clear melody, then switches to another.

Prestidigitation and Mending.

Vilnius: "I'm from the Banished University."

Suldae Westwind: Hopefully it'll help at least a little.

She just cannot not try.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere takes it, trying to mask a grimace. He flips through it Vilnius: "They've been sending research teams into Barovia for a while now. The curse is a very fascinating piece of magic."

Marcus Veranius: "...was your master on any previous expedition?"

Marcus Veranius has a hope

Hiere finds that the handwriting is actually impeccable. Everything is in a very standard notation. It should be effortless to learn the spell from it.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere blinks

Vilnius: "My master? I think he went on a few. He knew Mordenkainen, who went on the first one -- never to return, of course, but that's just how it goes sometimes, and he'll probably turn up eventually. Mind-blanked or insane, I wouldn't doubt. He's done that sort of thing in the past."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Mordekainen? I feel like I know that name"

Vilnius: "Everybody does. He wrote the Tome of Foes?"

Marcus Veranius: "I hear he's good with dogs."

Vilnius: "Good with dogs?"

Suldae Westwind: "Oh! He is indeed that Mordekainen!" Suldae is instantly fascinated.

Tops K.: <https://www.dnd-spells.com/spell/mordenkainens-faithful-hound> (<https://www.dnd-spells.com/spell/mordenkainens-faithful-hound>)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I take it he would qualify as an archmage?" Henry asks

Suldae Westwind: (rip, i remembered it as mordekainen)

Vilnius: "He's the best living example of an archmage that we have!"

"Or he would be, if he were still alive."

"But maybe he is!"

"But probably he's not. It's been like... Fifty years?"

"He's accounted as 'Missing in Action for a Really Long Time'"

Marcus Veranius frowns. This isn't where he wanted the question to go, but the idea was likely just as flawed

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The archmage that lead the revolt against Strahd was that fifty some thing years ago?"

"The one the goat told me about"

Marcus Veranius: "THAT WAS THE WIZARD YOUR GOAT WAS TALKING ABOUT!?"

Vilnius: "You guys have a talking goat?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Could be" henry says

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glances at the rest of the party. She kind of wonders what impression they're getting from them.

Marcus Veranius has made a horrible tactical decision. It would have been worth the side-trip after all

Savnok: "Look, I'm sorry to interrupt, but my assistant is starting to drip."

"Can we hurry this process along a little bit?"

Marcus Veranius: "OK, OK. He's right."

Savnok: "I'd like to get out of here before I turn old."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glares at him.

Marcus Veranius: "Hiere, how long till you can get a Sending spell prepared?"

Suldae Westwind:

15

INTIMIDATION (7) Suldae Westwind

Considering her diminutive size and overall cheerful demeanor, it's actually surprisingly intimidating. If still not overly so.

Savnok: Savnok, clearly intimidated, but too proud to back down, puffs himself up slightly and juts out his chin.

"It has been a very long day."

Suldae Westwind: "I just bet."

Savnok: "A very long series of days."

Hiere Unthere: "Might need to take a nap before I can internalise it."

Suldae Westwind: "Us too."

Savnok: "You will have to forgive me if I come across as a bit short."

Zrin-Hala: "Can we eat?"

"We have food. Do you have food?"

Suldae Westwind: "You can feel free to go ahead without us if you feel like it," Suldae says, a bit more short than she'd like to be.

Zrin-Hala: "If we will sit a while."

Suldae Westwind: "...We have food."

Marcus Veranius: "How long a nap? We have maybe an hour."

"Assuming they don't have a tour guide and have to find this room the hard way."

Savnok: "A nap? A NAP?"

Suldae Westwind: "You can feel free to go ahead without us," Suldae repeats.

Savnok: "What if one of those... Things! Comes along?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae just stares at him.

Savnok: "What if he-- " He gestures at the lich -- "Remembers that he is Tenebrous?"

Suldae Westwind:

25

INTIMIDATION (7)
Suldae Westwind

Savnok: Savnok backs away, hands in the air.

He sits down by his uncle and his assistant.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes do please says that out loud you fool"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives him a polite smile and turns away.

Marcus Veranius: "OK listen. My FUCKING WIFE is in another section of this temple where I can't protect her. THE ELF'S WIFE is in danger of being evaporated by an amber box and an elf who can't let the dead sleep."

Shami-Amourae: The barbarians are now sharing food. Shami-Amourae offers Savnok half a loaf of bread. For a moment it seems his pride will not permit him to take it, but he succumbs to the human instinct and snatches the loaf. He eats desperately. He pauses to share some with his uncle and his assistant.

Suldae Westwind: "Half-elf."

Marcus Veranius: "So I would appreciate it if you LAI D OFF!"

Marcus Veranius glares

Savnok: Savnok is fuming, but he does not seem willing to test the waters any further.

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, I appreciate your support, but I would love it if you didn't air our private affairs over the whole damn temple," she snaps somewhat irritably.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere shakes his head meekly. "that is not within my ability" he whispers

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leans against a wall positioned to have the whole room in his field of view

The eyes of the lich flicker back to crimson life.

Yawning slightly, he stretches in midair.

"Sorry, you said something?"

Marcus Veranius frowns. He's not sure why he feels so helpless about not being able to protect Ezmerelda.

Suldae Westwind: "...I think it's time to continue the tour!"

Suldae says brightly.

She's wound tight as a crossbow string.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe, can you hear me?"

Suldae Westwind: Just the time for more tour with a lich!

An excellent distraction!

Ezmerelda's voice comes clearly through the ring.

Marcus Veranius 's eyes light up

Suldae Westwind: (audible to all?)

Marcus Veranius moves to a corner and whispers into the ring

GM: (Audible to all, but quiet)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (for Marcus or for all in earshot?)

GM: (Marcus will quickly discover that he can adjust the volume down to a psychic whisper or up to a speaking volume by twisting the ring on his finger clockwise or anti-clockwise.)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is somewhat twitchy, but cheerful, as she engages the lich in polite conversation again.

Marcus Veranius: "Ez... can the others hear you?"

The lich seems happy to speak with her. She visibly seems to be able to brighten up his dim existence.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "At the moment, yes."

"Do you want to have a private conversation?"

"We're in a good spot for it."

"We found a room. Has some empty boxes."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is glad to be able to bring happiness to someone.

Marcus Veranius: "How clearly can they hear you? I have an important message, but you need to trust me and act swiftly on it."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "It was behind a secret door, behind the statue."

"Sure. Kasimir's looking at something. He's really excited. It makes me nervous."

"They can't hear me, obviously, or I wouldn't be saying that."

Marcus Veranius: "...and the others can hear me?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Ireena's gotten sort of twitchy since coming in here. Ismark's on edge. Kasimir's giddy when he's not hiding it."

"The others can't hear you either."

Marcus Veranius: "Listen carefully. I need you to step in front of the eastern Sarcophagus then turn the ring's volume up to max. I have trust in you, and in Ric, and in Ismark to do what's needed."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "You got it."

"...Ok, that's maximum volume."

Marcus Veranius: "KILL KASIMIR IMMEDIATELY OR IREENA WILL DIE!!!"

Marcus Veranius frowns. This was the only way.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere blinks

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns at Marcus words eyes drifting to the sword in his hands, Wuxdt, 'What can you cut?'

WXUDT: : What can you give me?

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'What do you want?'
'If it is mine to give

Ezmerelda Veranius: Speak my name before you sleep tonight.

GM: (NOT from Ezmerelda)
(Jesus sorry)

WXUDT: Speak my name before you sleep tonight.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over to marcus and grabs his ringed hand
'I will if this works'

Kasimir Velikov:

9

WISDOM (1)

17

INTELLIGENCE (4)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "...Marcus, Kasimir just... Destroyed the sarcophagus."

"He's on his knees now."

"Do you still want us to..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Kas... I'm sorry."

"I know I've probably just betrayed your trust, and you can never forgive me for it."

Kasimir Velikov: "I understand. You were confused. So was I."

"It's time to let her... rest."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to feel along the connction from Marcus ring to Ezmereldas conection connection

Marcus Veranius feels there's words he can say here but can't seem to remember them. Like he should know what this feeling of loss should mean.

Marcus Veranius: "...you can punch me in the face when we get out of this, OK?"
"I deserve it."

Hiere Unthere: "anytime"

Marcus Veranius glares at hiere. That wasn't what he meant but it's too late to take it back

Hiere Unthere: "oh that was to-"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM what do i roll to try for dialing into interdimensional tleephone?)

Marcus Veranius: "And we ARE going to get out of this."

"Hold up on your end. We got a bunch on ours that we're going to get out as well."

Hiere Unthere: (can I help Henry with epic magic skillz)

Marcus Veranius: "Then we can all show up to Krezk a bit late for Baron Kreskov's party, offer an apology for leaving too early."

"Sound good?"

Kasimir Velikov: "We are still friends, Marcus. It was a misunderstanding."

"I completely understand."

"But we must be cautious, in this place. There are the seeds of discord and confusion here, and we may all be lost if we do not hold one another accountable."

"Thank you for protecting Ireena. And for snapping me out of it."

Marcus Veranius: "Thank you for being a better man than I."

Kasimir Velikov: "Nonsense."

GM: (Roll Arcana)

Marcus Veranius:

18

ARCANA (0)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 1

ARCANA (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(my roll tops)

Marcus Veranius: (Whoops.Sorry.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (NP)

(So can Henry find the connection? and more importantly the dimensiony stuff thats a betwenn them?)

between

Marcus and Henry both have an eery moment of understanding as the power of the sword gleams out and connects to the wedding ring. There is a shimmer in the air between them, and Henry senses there the fabric of reality itself. It would take a terribly sharp blade to cut through that...

Marcus Veranius: (Oh god, we're going to have no open space with all these NPC's)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So I'm personally sick of not seeing you guys so be carefull for a moment over there" Henry says squaring his stance and raising Wuxdt above his head

Henry swings at reality with only one thought 'Cut'

"Oh, now hang on a minute, you're not seriously going to try -- "

The lich says this much before there is a "pop"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (attack roll?)

Marcus Veranius: We're all students today

Henry of Willowsbrook: (or not)

Marcus Veranius: Even the lich has yet to see such bullshit

Marcus smiles at this

The blade cuts smoothly and effortlessly through the skin of the cosmos. There is a vortex of sucking sound as raw space opens in the tiny chamber. Everything inside the chamber is suddenly sucked towards the hole in everything...

And just as suddenly as it appears, the tear closes, and the air returns to normal.

WXUDT: : Sorry. We tried. Temple bullshit.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh guess that didn't work sorry for bithering you" bothering

WXUDT: Do not forget your debt...

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Days not over'

"Yes, I thought not. The boundaries and provisions of the Temple are quite impenetrable!"

"That is entirely their purpose."

"Am I to understand that your research fellows are trapped in Temple B?"

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, it seems so."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We wouldn't really have left the temple but oh well" Henry says with a shrug

"Not to worry, not to worry. Once they have received their chosen gifts, they will instantly re-emerge upon the mountaintop outside the Temple."

"Just as you will, once you have chosen."

"Now, are we all ready to proceed with the tour?"

Marcus Veranius: "...yeah, let's proceed."

"You must try to avoid ripping the space-time continuum in the next chamber, as its guardian does not take kindly to such things."

"If you will just follow me... Mind your heads, mortals, and squeeze -- like so..."

The lich crumbles apart into hundred tumbling bones that roll and fly through the cracks in the Southeast wall like a cloud of rubble.

You can hear the tinkling sound of him re-forming on the other side.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I'll go first?" Henry asks

Marcus Veranius: "Let me. I can get out if it's too tight for a person."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "After you then"

The crack is narrow but manageable. At the end of it, you can see a ten-foot-tall statue carved from amber, in the likeness for a hawk-headed humanoid.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere follows Marcus through. "In case you jam it" he explains to Henry.

Marcus Veranius looks around

Piles of treasure are heaped against the west and east walls of this stone room.

The amber guardian stands watchful, but not hostile.

Marcus Veranius: Wow. That is a LOT of wealth standing around

"I assume this is some kind of treasure room then?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry squeezes his way through squeezes

Marcus Veranius: "Is this a test to weed out those that'd choose money over the coffins?"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere examines the doors(?) at the opposite end

"Oh no," says the lich, quite calmly. "This is the treasury. Where the wizards kept their stores of loot."

"From all the idiotic adventurers who died attempting to reach the temple halls."

"There's a dragon hoard that's even more impressive, just a little ways south."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere scoops in disgust at the mention of adventurers scoffs

"I know, right? Adventurers. Ha!"

"Always good for cash, though."

"They really do have the best stuff, sometimes."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the piles, then at Marcus then the piles then the bag then the piles

"Of course, most of it is meaningless to me. Unless I want to make something out of gold. Or if I need a certain expensive component."

Marcus Veranius shrugs

Savnok: "Is it safe?"

Marcus Veranius: "As long as you don't value gold above health."

Savnok: "Gold?"

"You say there's gold?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Unless you are allergic to gold then yes it's save"

Marcus Veranius has fucked up yet again

Savnok: "Alright then, come on -- single file."

"Yes, you lot too."

"Can we all cram in there?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Should work out"

Vilnius: "Golly, there are a lot of us."

GM (GM): Alright, so where did we leave off?

The treasures of the Amber Temple Vaults surround Marcus and Henry, who stand with their many companions in view of the Forgetful Lich. Suldae stands alone in the Amber Vault with her giant spider and the mysterious dire wolf, Seriach. She notes that three amber sarcophagi stand in their alcoves on the eastern, western, and southern walls -- undamaged and whole.

The lich says: "You know, it's been so terribly long, I bet I haven't donated to your university since I went there. I'm sure I probably went there."

"How many universities can their be?"

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae joins the others.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to remember all she knows of universities.

"You might as well calculate a suitable donation based upon the amount of time which has lapsed between my last donation and this one, and deduct it from the vault. That's very convenient."

Suldae Westwind: History?

(OOH NICE)

11

HISTORY (8)
Suldae Westwind

(...)

Suldae knows that there are at least three major magical universities in the outside world. Two of them are less than a hundred years old.

Suldae Westwind: (Does Suldae know their names?)

"I'll leave the calculations to you, Marcus," she says, deferring this matter completely.

Tops K. attempts to recall from their reading of the Book of Strahd; how long had Barovia been locked down?

Marcus Veranius does this

The Banished University (once called Frostfall University) is the oldest of the three, and the two later ones are the University of the Spectral Eye and the University of Planomancy, both of which were founded after the war among the gods several centuries ago. They drift the astral sea, built on the bones of fallen deities.

Marcus Veranius: (Oh, the book didnt have any dates)

(Feck)

Marcus Veranius soon determines that the party knows only that many centuries have passed since the curse began. No source so far has been specific enough to provide a reliable timeline.

It is entirely possible that a thousand years or more may have passed.

Marcus Veranius begins the math in his head, then gives up and starts tracing numbers out in the air.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry remembers that the only time he ever heard of an university before this was that the Baron hoped he could oneday send his daughter to one

Suldae Westwind: Meanwhile Suldae wanders over to one of the piles and upon checking for permission with the lich starts paging through the Snow Dwarf book

Marcus Veranius finishes his calculations, and assumed 1000 years times a monthly donation of so-and-so equals yes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry idly grabs the glass hilted rapier more to do something with his hands then anything else

The pages of the story book seem to be stuck together. Suldae notes that the corner of the book has a large dark stain, and that the pages there seem to be stained with something black and crusted.

Marcus Veranius: "Ser, we shall make sure your name is put on a new library!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks the o ther copies of the book.

She's uncomfortable with theoretically-verifiable lies but hey, that's only very theoretical.

Marcus Veranius: It's not lying if you actually intend to buy a library.

As Suldae reaches for the second book, her hand takes the first one against her will, and picks it up again. The other copies don't seem to be stained, but for whatever reason -- she can't touch them.

"Why, that just tickles me pink. Thank you, Fuddington. Always a pleasure to have a visit from the University."

Suldae Westwind: On second thought, Suldae puts the book down.

And backs away a bit.

The book sighs audibly.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs apologetically.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Did that book just.. you know what I don't even care anymore" Henry says exasperated

Meanwhile, the rapier in Henry's hand starts to sing in quiet, crystalline tones.

The Lich says: "Anyway, have you determined the amount of my payment? I should warn you, I have a famously shrewd head for numbers, and I don't like to be cheated."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Please tell me I'm not the only one hearing this sword sing"

The sword is audibly singing to everyone in the chamber.

Suldae Westwind: "...No, yeah, I hear it too."

"..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "...May I?" Suldae reaches out for the rapier.

Vilnius: "I hear it, too!"

Savnok: "It's obviously audible."

Marcus Veranius: "Err, as I was about to say before I was interrupted by a weapon."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry hands the rapier over to suldae

Marcus Veranius: "I assume you'd want your typical 'one gold a day' donation?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes the rapier.

The Lich turns from his placid observation of the conversation to answer Marcus. "Oh, Fuddington, naturally. Naturally!"

"Of course that's the kind of donation I'd set. Very reasonable."

"One gold per day is enough to sustain at least five student wizards, so that sounds about right."

Marcus Veranius: "And it's been assume it's been a while given that we don't have any Vistani couriers able to cross the barrier into Barovia."

"So hard to get good help these days you know."

"Oh goodness, and I suppose I have to factor inflation, too..."

Marcus Veranius: "In your favor actually. The value of gold has inflated now that Electrum has been dropped."

The rapier chimes blissfully as it touches Suldae's hand for the first time.

Marcus Veranius: "No one likes electrum these days."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae examines it as best she can with both her mundae senses and magical as she swings it gently through the air.

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

The rapier is undoubtedly magical and dimly sentient. As she holds it she can feel it listening to the music inside her mind, and the song that it is singing soon begins to follow those notes. (Harmony feature discovered: The blade can maintain concentration on one song, without requiring Suldae's concentration. If Suldae's concentration is broken, the sword's concentration is broken as well.)

Marcus Veranius: "Well the number would come up to roughly 180,000 gold. But I doubt anyone would be able to carry that much. How about I adjust my books to whatever I could reasonably carry, then list you as having donated that amount."

"Why, that sounds satisfactory to me, Fuddington. Excellent work, as usual."

"Right, now who wants to see the dragon horde?"

Suldae Westwind: Horde, or hoard?

"Sorry, hoard. I always mix the two."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Marcus Veranius quickly stacks various objects and items into the Bag of Holding in an efficient manner

Suldae Westwind: She looks for a sheath for the rapier.

She finds a glass sheath nearby.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "After you" Henry says pointing in the direction he thinks the doors are Suldae Westwind: Suldae fixes it to her belt and slides the rapier inside.

"Very well then," says the Lich, drifting southwards. "Follow me."

"And do mind the gaze of the Guardian."

"It's said to strip the flesh from adventurer's bones."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses her gaze on the back of Marcus's head.

"...I am guessing the way it tells adventurers from non-adventurers is by whether they look at it?"

Marcus Veranius rushes to finish up, then quickly follows along

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Good thing we aren't, you know adventurers" Henry remarks drierly

(...that's an undead beholder...a death tyrant? if I'm not wrong)

(going purely by the icon)

"Anyway, here is the Dragon Hoard," says the Lich, waving his hand in the general direction of the enormous Amber chamber. Pillars rise smoothly to a ceiling that is lost in shadow. Stairs rise on the southern end of the hall. In the center of the chamber, on a massive raised circular platform of intricately carved crystal and stone, there is an absolute mountain of treasure.

The treasure has been lovingly swept aside into aisles and walkways, and each item has been carefully labeled in a fine and delicate hand.

Above the mountain of coins and treasure and north of the mountains of books, there hovers an enormous cyclopean skull, ringed with orbiting violet stars and illuminated from within by a single vast orb of violently-glowing purple crystal, which fills the single eye socket and glows so brilliantly that the cone of its radiance seems to scald the ground.

The Death Tyrant takes absolutely no interest in the arrival of the party, and continues its little movements through the pathways of its treasure mound.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glances over carefully.

It seems to be perusing its collection.

Suldae Westwind: Having made sure looking seems safe, she looks over everything in the room curiously.

Marcus Veranius: "That... doesn't look like a dragon."

"Well, one has to improvise."

"The hoard was collected by a dragon, however."

"So it isn't false advertising to call it a dragon hoard."

Suldae Westwind: "Makes sense!"

"The Guardian has been here for many countless aeons, but he seems to have taken a liking to the mounds of treasure. He's quite the archivist."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Riiiiight" Henry says clicking his tongue

Suldae Westwind: "A dragon hoard missing a dragon is still a dragon hoard in every meaningful sense, and having a guardian is only sensible."

"I was asked to help raise a dracolich just the other day, did you know?"

"Most impertinent fellow."

"Of course, somebody had scattered the bones impossibly, so the whole project was scuttled from the beginning."

"Somebody took the best part of the skull, so I didn't even get a nice floating skull out of it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Truely a tragedy"

Marcus Veranius pauses

"And of course that stupid Hag took my giant's skull. I can remember that vividly."

Marcus Veranius is suddenly very uncomfortable

"So now, alas, I am left with only human skulls. A sad collection."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh damn," Suldae says with as much sympathy as she can muster, which in this case is not very, but she hopes the lich can forgive that, her being obviously not a necromancer and all.

"Thank you for your sympathy."

"Right, let me get him to go move on in his patrol."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry was as nonchalant as a man with 20 pounds of dragon skull strapped to his back could be

"Then you can peruse at your leisure."

Henry of Willowsbrook: *strapped

"Oy! Zhudun, Corpse Star! Patrol Mode!"

The Death Tyrant rises smoothly into the air and proceeds down the eastern hallway, scanning carefully with its cone of deathly radiance.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks closer to Marcus "I think you should tell Ezme and the others about...that"

Marcus Veranius: "It's... it's fine. It's not like... I wanted to be done with the whole affair."
"It's not like I wanted to move on. Bury the past and hope for a new beginning."

"Hm?"

Suldae Westwind: "So without the skull intact, you couldn't raise it?" Suldae asks the lich. "Or was it still possible?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No I mean maybe mention the flesh melting floating skull"

"Oh no, it was impossible."

Suldae Westwind: Academic detachment. Academic detachment. Suldae is good at it.

"With the skull broken, the best parts missing -- no possible way to raise a stable dracolich."

Suldae Westwind: "And an unstable one would I suppose not last long enough to be of any use?"

"Seemed to terribly upset the impertinent fellow who demanded my services."

Marcus Veranius: "...is that so?"

Suldae Westwind: "Well, serves him right for being rude, no?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm sorry for your loss."

"When he learned he couldn't have his dragon back, he threw such a fit."

The Lich looks at Suldae. "Why, yes it does! It was quite cathartic to watch him, I must say."

Suldae Westwind: Now this, Suldae can sympathize with without reservation.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry carefully walks closer to the piles of treasure glancing about (why did we just get red shifted?)

"Now, I suppose any good tour would pause in this room, to give time for you to peruse the treasure."

Suldae Westwind: "Is it safe?"

Marcus Veranius: (why did everything suddenly go red? o-o)

Henry sees his own reflection on the crystal walls of the hallway.

His reflection has massive black horns. '

Suldae Westwind: brb

Henry of Willowsbrook: (which hallway?)

GM: (Sorry, *hall)

(The chamber you're in)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Gods that looks tacky" Henry says turning his head to inspect the horns a little better

Marcus Veranius looks around, content with the lich's donations. Plenty of good he can do with that alone; no need to piss off the flying skull monster

Marcus Veranius: Didn't hurt to look though

Marcus sees his own reflection moving alongside him in the amber walls of the chamber, and sees his own reflection frantically waving at him for attention.

Marcus Veranius: Huh. Curious.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the reflections as well.

Marcus Veranius takes out his ledger and an inkpen, then turns to his reflection

Suldae Westwind: Can she see the reflections of her compainons?

Suldae sees her own reflection pounding at the pane of amber as though attempting to break free from a prison of crystal. Her reflected self is silently shouting something.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to read her lips.

Everyone notes that they cannot see any reflection other than their own.

Marcus Veranius sees if his own reflection uses the tools he took out to write a message

Marcus Veranius's reflection seems to get the idea, and draws out paper and pen as well.

In a frantic hand, he scratches something on the page.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry silently shakes his head at his reflections choice in headwear

Marcus Veranius waits for the message. This seems important

The reflection of Marcus finishes writing and turns the paper towards himself.

Scrawled on the page in a hand that is not Marcus's, there is a phrase: "Come closer."

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is attempting to read the lips of her reflection)

Suldae's reflection appears to be shouting: "Don't trust anyone, don't trust any of them, It's a trap, it's all a trap"

"Come here, you'll be safe, come to me Suldae, come to me"

Suldae Westwind: ...okay, the first part of that seemed to be useful advice ot handle the third.

*the second

Marcus Veranius: "I'm good, thanks. You may have my looks but I'm usually a bit better being curt and to the point."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head apologetically and turns away, looking instead at Marcus and Henry (the non-reflections)

Marcus's reflection pounds an impotent fist against the amber pane.

Suldae's reflection crumbles into open weeping.

Henry's reflection draws the black sword, and carefully takes off his right gauntlet.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tilts his head raising his eyebrow at that Henry's horned reflection is not wearing a helmet, and his eyes have become stark portals into some other plane. He lays the blade in the palm of his bare hand and grips the edge firmly.

He slides his hand down the blade, cutting deep into his palm, to let the blood pour into the black metal -- which drinks it instantly. Not a drop reaches the floor or lingers on the metal.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cannot see what the reflections are doing but she sees Henry is looking at his.

So she watches him.

The blade grows enormous in his hand, becoming a two-handed black flamberge with a ten-foot reach.

He smiles at Henry invitingly, saying nothing.

Zantras: "So much treasure!"

Zrin: -Hala (Sylvan) "Astounding."

Suldae Westwind: "...I believe the guardian would be annoyed at anything being touched," Suldae says pointedly.

Very pointedly.

Tarakamedes: "GOLD..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head pointing at his sheathed sword, which rest on his left side seeing as he is right handed "Try harder"

Suldae Westwind:

21

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae notes Henry's words.

Shami-Amourae: (Sylvan) "This is amazing..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Don't encourage it," she advises.

Savnok: "By the gods..."

Savnok clears his throat.

Savnok turns to the Lich.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry calls aout in Sylvan "Don't touch anything"

Savnok: "Er, listen, I happen to represent a university as well, and you've been late on your payments."

The Lich says: "Is that so?"

"Oh dear."

Suldae Westwind: "...There are quite a few universities out there, although I share one with Marcus," Suldae says.

"Well, don't take from this pile. The Guardian will blast the flesh from your bones if you do."

Savnok: "Hey, listen friends,"

Suldae Westwind: "...We might figure out a sharing arrangement of ours later."

Suldae turns to Savnok and glares at him.

Savnok: "I'm only saying, we may need to discuss percentages later."

"Of course, such fine print details can be worked out later!"

Suldae Westwind: "An excellent idea."

Savnok: "No need to trouble our host with such internal matters."

Vilnius: "Oh man that's a shitload of gold."

Suldae Westwind: "...It is, and we're not touching it."

Sykane leans against the statue, casually lighting a cigar.

Suldae Westwind: "It's a stupidity test."

Marcus Veranius looks around, deep in thought. Richten's wedding gift fresh in mind, he realizes exactly what he meant by the dangers of a heroic career. These things were nice, but they weren't truly important.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Unless you like dying probably painfully then go right ahead ...overthere"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hasn't even checked out the hoard yet.

She's just focused on keeping their... travel companions... in check.

She does not regret taking them a long, but man is saving people a lot of work.

Marcus Veranius: "Perhaps if there's something you truly desire, you may offer trade with the museum curator."

"Well, if we're done touring the treasure mound -- I never quite find that I'm 'finished' with that, do you know? We can proceed on the tour."

Marcus Veranius: "He's catalogued these items so meticulously there might not be anything left to discover. New knowledge might be worth the price of a trade."

Savnok: "Knowledge..."

Savnok looks at the Lich.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry elbows Marcus lightly

Savnok: "Say, what would you give to remember your name?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sighs.

She backs away.

The lich, it seems, hasn't heard him, as he is lovingly examining a blast scepter.

"I'm sorry, what was that?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Wouldn't you need to trade with the guardian anyway?"

"What sort of knowledge could the guardian potentially appreciate?"

Topic change!!! Topic change!!!

"Oh, the Guardian takes no trades. He does not understand property as we do."

Everything that he can collect and catalogue is entirely his, as precious as the contents of his own mind."

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, nevermind then."

Suldae Westwind: "...No trades then. I really do think we should move on."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Shall we go on then?"

"He does appreciate new acquisitions, but he rarely bothers to bargain for them."

Marcus Veranius follows Suldae's lead

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glares daggers at Savnok when the lich is looking away.

19

INTIMIDATION (7)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (you have advantage if you have dragon armor)

Suldae Westwind:

25

INTIMIDATION (7)
Suldae Westwind

(I do)

(Imao)

(a behind the scenes just-curious question: how high is this guy's int)

"After all, if you were the kind of collector whose mere gaze could blast the flesh off the bones of a person from a hundred and fifty feet away just by staring at them, you'd probably find bargaining inconvenient too. Difficult to look someone in the eye when you can't do so without melting their face off."

Suldae Westwind: (and/or wis lmao)

"Well, one CAN talk while lookign away, but I do see how he would not have any incentives for that."

"Right, anyway. Shall we proceed?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives yet another pointed look to the people she'd noticed speak up particularly greedily.

Savnok seems suitably cowed by Suldae's intimidation.

Savnok: "I was only trying to help..."

Suldae Westwind: This is like herding excitable toddlers.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere stops his careful examination of a nearby wall

Suldae Westwind: "...We are riding a tiger. Do not try to get too clever," Suldae mumbles into his ear as she passes by, trying to get across her genuine worry this time.

Hiere sees all the reflections, including his own. He sees both his own true reflection and the strange, distorted reflection of the amber mirror, which does not copy his movements exactly.

Suldae Westwind:

28

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Hiere sees Suldae's reflection having a breakdown, Henry's flexing with a massive black sword and a huge pair of horns, and Marcus's pounding the wall from the inside as though desperate to escape.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Onwards Sir Guide" Henry says

Hiere Unthere: "Is the lighting in here weird or has Henry grown thicker?"

"Right, here we go. Westward this time, and when Zhudun circles back I'll have him go dormant for a while so we can take the eastern hall.

The lich proceeds to the west.

Suldae Westwind: "...It's the lighting," Suldae tells him.

Lower West Hall: Glistening amber coats the walls and ceiling of this enormous hall like sculpted honey, and dust covers the black marble floor. The vaulted ceiling is twenty-five feet high. Set into the walls at a height of five feet are amber ledges lined with life-sized alabaster statues of cats, frogs, hawks, owls, rats, ravens, snakes, toads, and weasels. Many of the statues have fallen off their perches and lie shattered on the floor. An amber door in the north wall stands open. Four other amber doors to the west and south stand closed.

The northern door is cracked open as though someone forgot to close it after breaking in.

The lock seems to be shattered.

Tenebrous: "Right, this is the lower west hall."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has the giant spider follow at a distance, now. She feels like she might need the kind of quick movement to stop someone from doing something idiotic that being on spiderback could interfere with.

Marcus Veranius slows his pace, disappearing behind the other tour guests. He has a plan

Suldae Westwind: (should we be worried about the switch in the name?)
(OOC?)

"There are some great sarcophagi at the northwest and north doors."

Marcus Veranius:

13

STEALTH (10)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (FUCKING RIP)

Marcus Veranius: (lucky reroll)

GM: (You encountered his name previously, I'm pretty sure -- it was written on a book in his study)

Marcus Veranius:

30

STEALTH (10)
Marcus Veranius

Hiere Unthere: (gg)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah and the guy p much said its his name)
(im just... wary about name change in narration lmao)

GM: (He still hasn't figured out it's him)
(Sorry)

Marcus vanishes into the shadows of the temple effortlessly.

Suldae Westwind: (well it's not like we would know either way in-character lmao)

The Lich does not even notice his absence, with so many other tourists at hand.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is too busy herding the new acquaintances to pay attention to Marcus - his judgement she trusts, unlike all of theirs.

"Oh, blast! Damnation! Would you look at this? Accursed adventurers -- always smashing things! They've broken the locks on the northern chamber door."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (funny thing is even if I rolled a 20 I would not be able to tell where Marcus ran off too)

Marcus Veranius looks around for the Death Tyrant, hoping to confirm its dormancy

The Death Tyrant is not yet dormant, but it is preoccupied with the eastern hallway. The Lich will cause it to become dormant before the party proceeds to the eastern hallway.

Marcus Veranius: (Shit, marcus will delay his plan)

(I'm bad at reading)

Marcus sees a dark figure standing just behind himself in his reflection.

The dark figure has a sword upraised, ready to fall.

26

Marcus's reflection is cleaved from collarbone to heart, chopped into from behind by the shadowy figure. Marcus feels a cold touch of something like metal at his neck, but he is immune to the kind of damage it would inflict.

Suldae Westwind: (The other people have proceeded already, right?)

Marcus Veranius scurries back to the main group

Suldae Westwind: (also fucking lmao that immunity)

(rare that we actually find something that it would help with)

The Lich is becoming angrier and angrier. He is fuming over the broken door. He seems to be getting lost in a spiral of rage.]

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up and casts Mending.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So Sarcophagi?"

It takes a few moments of concentrated power, but she is able to mend the broken portion of the lock and the frame.

Suldae Westwind: (casting time: a minute)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Great Big Sarcophagi"

The Lich turns, snapped out of his reverie of rage by Henry's question.

"Yes, yes. There are Sarcophagi through this door and through the north one."

"Not the most popular, ones, but still worth looking into."

"Oh. I was so upset, just now. What was I upset about?"

He looks around, as though searching for the cause of his emotion.

Suldae Westwind: "Adventurers," Suldae says.

Suldae's body is currently blocking the door from his view, so he cannot see her still working on the lock.

It seems out of sight is out of mind, for the Lich.

Suldae Westwind: (Then Suldae doesn't say anything)

(She's playing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Damnably adventures" Henry says in a deadpan

Hiere Unthere: Hiere curses. "Where??"

"Double damn damnably," says the Lich.

Marcus Veranius remains hidden between the various tour group members

"Now, I expect you'll want to know a little about the Sarcophagi. Let me introduce you to the ones in the northern chamber."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So these Sarcophagi, what do they do"

"Well, the ones through the northern door are known for their powers over ice and secrets."

Hiere Unthere: "They also hold dead people." Hiere reads out from his notes.

"Oh no, my boy. You're thinking of the ordinary sort of mundane sarcophagus. These are Amber Sarcophagi, designed to contain and conceal the ancient fragments of forgotten evil gods."

"They can provide valuable conduits to the powers beyond."

"Excuse me, young woman, but we need to go through that way."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So ice and Secrets? Anything more you can tell s"

Hiere Unthere: Hiere's eyes sparkle as he processes this information, scribbling furiously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: us

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is no longer blocking the door.

"Here we are."

"Oh. Hello there. You're not adventurers."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks in past him.

As... as best she can.

This room has amber-glazed walls and a floor of purplish-black marble. Two amber sarcophagi stand in alcoves to the west and east. A third sarcophagus that once stood in the north alcove lies shattered on the floor. Clustered in the middle of the room are four loathsome, hunched creatures. Each one has a single large, baleful eye.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae wisely stands back and lets the lich handle this, first.

Vaund: "Please don't kill us!"

Suldae Westwind: ...alternatively, maybe not?

But there isn't a fight yet.

The speaker seems to be the nearest of the strange creatures. She is purple-skinned and wears an amber amulet and an emerald ring, and an air of mysterious insanity.

The Lich says, "Oh, I suppose I don't need to. You live here, do you?"

Vaund: "We do."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere gives them a little wave

Marcus Veranius recognises those eyes

Marcus Veranius: One of them was on display at the other 'museum' they went to in the Death House
But without the rest of the body

Norganas: "Hi," says the green-skinned one beside the purple-skinned one. The green-skinned one is wearing a winged silver helm crusted with diamonds and fire opals.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives a small wave, probably not very visible from behind the lich's back if he's blocking the door, because she's short.

Yog: A blu-skinned one behind the both of them wears a pearly white loun stone in orbit around his head.

The blue one waves back at Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Does Suldae have any idea what these are?

Hiere Unthere: (same for hiere)

GM: (They can both roll History or Arcana),

Taar Haak: The last of the four creatures is a five-headed, purple-skinned beast with a pale-blue loun stone orbiting his central head.

"What are you doing here? How dare you invade the sanctity of our home?"

"Oh, you bring... People? Outsiders? Knowledge?"

Suldae Westwind:

29

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae realizes that these are Nothics -- Wizards who have been cursed by the gods for falling into secrets not meant for mortal minds.

Hiere Unthere:

17

ARCANA (9)

Suldae Westwind: (Any details on the curse?)

They have been twisted into insane monsters by their curse, and by the knowledge which has corrupted them.

Suldae Westwind: (what exactly does "insane" mean in this case)

(Cursed Arcanists. Rather than gaining the godlike supremacy they crave, some wizards who devote their lives to unearthing arcane secrets are reduced to creeping, tormented monsters by a dark curse left behind by Vecna, a powerful lich who, in some worlds, has transcended his undead existence to become a god of secrets. Nothics retain no awareness of their former selves, skulking amid the shadows and haunting places rich in magical knowledge, drawn by memories and impulses they can't quite understand.

GM (GM):

Dark Oracles. Nothics possess a strange magical insight that allows them to extract knowledge from other creatures. This grants them unique understanding of secret and forbidden lore, which they share for a price. A nothic covets magic items, greedily accepting such gifts from creatures that seek out its knowledge.

Lurkers in Magical Places. Nothics are notorious for infiltrating arcane academies and other places rich in magical learning. They are driven by the vague knowledge that there exists a method to reverse their condition. This isn't a clear sense of purpose, but rather an obsessive tug at the end of the mind. Some nothics are clever enough to realize that this is merely part of the strange lesson for their folly, a false hope to drive them to seek out more arcane secrets.)

GM: (Just the generic level of knowledge available)

(Individual Nothic curses may vary, and may not all have been inflicted by Vecna)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

GM (GM): (Hiere realizes this information as well)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands back and lets the lich handle this, for the moment.

He doesn't seem like the escalation type, so far, which is nice.

"We were just in the middle of our tour," says the Lich.

"Would you care to join us?"

Norganas: "Honored, honored."

Vaund: "A pleasure."

Yog: "Gladly!"

Suldae Westwind: ...Well this could be trouble, but it also might go fine.

Taar Haak: "NO. I DON'T WANT TO."

"Very well then," says the Lich, placidly.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae knows one thing: no matter how this goes, she will have one hell of a story to tell when she's on the Material Plane again.

Not that she wouldn't already, with the whole Strahd thing, but just the temple visit is perfectly worthy on its own.

"Anyway. The Sarcophagi in this chamber are, in the West corner: Delban, Star of Ice and Hate; in the North corner: the god of Escape -- Oh, it looks as though he's escaped. In the East corner: the Sarcophagi of Khirad, the Star of Secrets."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ice and Hate seems like an odd combination" Henry muses

"It is a bit silly, isn't it?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae very nearly keeps a straight face at the mention of the escaped one. Very nearly.

"He created the original form of the Cone of Cold spell."

Suldae Westwind: "Not really," Suldae speaks up.

"Ice and hate go well together."

"Immediate explosive hate is more fire, but prolonged, festering hate? Ice fits ewll."

...she has been in a scholarly mood.

Impulses to lecture happen.

*well, not ewll lol

"...Yes, precisely."

Hiere Unthere: Hiere mutters something about a fellow called Jack Frost

"Anyway, we should proceed to the other chamber, which has more options -- before any of you choose, I mean. I can see that some of you are drooling at the chance to do so."

"Here we are..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae would ask what any of these actually do - the secrets one actually sounds interesting - but catches herself.

"This is known as the Vault of Harkotha, I think."

The new chamber has amber-glazed walls, a black marble floor with red veins, and three amber sarcophagi standing in alcoves."

Suldae Westwind: "None of these escaped, I see," Suldae says as seriously as she's able.

Hiere sees an enormous humanoid frog standing in the middle of the chamber with a great sword in one hand, staring out the doorway with a pair of bulging, idiotic, hateful, toady eyes.

Nobody else sees this apparition.

"Right," says the Lich. "Now, in order from northernmost to southernmost: Yrrga, the Eye of Shadows, Taar Haak, the Five-Headed Destroyer, and Yog the Invincible."

Suldae Westwind: "The Invincible?" Suldae asks skeptically.

Hiere Unthere: Hiere tugs on Henry's arm armour. "Is the froghemoth an acquaintance of ours?"

"Yrrga's power is said to be the gift of true seeing -- a skill I never mastered, alas. Taar Haak is said to provide the strength of a fire giant. The gift of Yog is said to be an incredible increase in physical health."

Suldae Westwind: Somewhere between "Invincible" and "Remains sealed in a sacrophagus" there seems to be a disconnect.

Marcus Veranius blank stares, looking between the coffins and the eyeball monsters

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't see anything froggy"

Marcus Veranius wants to say something but doesn't want undue attention before his plan initiates

Hiere Unthere: "ah. just me then"

"Right, anyway. Now there are some storage chambers here and here," says the Lich, as he moves south along the hall. He touches the next door on the west wall. "This is this guy's room, what's his name. Friendly guy. Hello there. How are you doing today? ... Mhmm ... Fascinating ... Oh, we won't bother you, don't worry. Just doing a tour."

"Well, I'll give you some privacy. Let me know if you need anything."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glances at Hiere but he's been surprisingly dependable in the temple so far, so she feels safe leaving him to figure out frogparitions on his own for the moment.

"And this room's empty, of course."

Marcus Veranius taps Suldae on the shoulder, pointing between the left coffin vault and the nottic room

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns to where he's pointing.

"Now, let's do the southern chamber."

Suldae Westwind: (Did the nottics come?)

Three of the Nothics come along, padding quietly on the dusty marble floors.

Marcus Veranius passes Suldae a slip of paper and continues skulking about Suldae Westwind: Suldae reads the note.

Marcus Veranius: [SAME NAMES]

Suldae Westwind: (Did they actually introduce themselves?)
(in-character?)

"And here we have the Vault of Thangob. We have in this chamber Norganas, the Finger of Oblivion, Vaunt the Evasive, and Seriach the Hell-Hound."

Marcus Veranius: (shit they didnt. Fakking roll20)

"Pardon me, Vaund the evasive."*

Vaund: "What did you say that last one was?"

"My name is Vaund!"

Norganas: "And I'm Norganas!"

Yog: "Oh, and I'm Yog! That name came up earlier too!"

"And didn't somebody say Taar-Haak? He's our buddy!"

"You know, the five-headed guy."

Suldae Westwind: "...Nice to know you," Suldae says, somewhat unnerved.

She's suddenly really glad they're not fighting their way through here.

Also really glad they're here at all, because this is the kind of thing bards of Corellon live for.

She absolutely doesn't say her own name unprompted, because while this might not be one of the situations where that is ill-advised, it also might be, and what's the point of taking risks?

The Lich says "Vaund was said to protect her worshippers from detection and from physical harm. Seriach's worshippers were said to be able to summon enormous hell hounds. Norganas's worshippers are said to be able to suck the life out of somebody from a hundred feet away or more! Fascinating powers."

"Well, you've now seen about half of the Sarcophagi. Have you seen one you were interested in, or should I show you some more?"

Vaund: "I will take gift of Vaund."

The purple-skinned Nothic scuttles into the southern chamber and kneels before a Sarcophagus.

She touches her hand to it and says loudly: "MMM Oh Yes that is good, I am powerful now, I am free to do what dreams I have!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae watches carefully from afar.

Vaund: "My power grows so much! Nobody can hit me now!"

"What amazing gift, all should try! All should try!"

Suldae Westwind: ...this sounds like market traders hawking their wares.

Yog: "Ooh, I take gift of Yog, then!"

Suldae Westwind: "It would be quite unwise to commit without being familiar with all the options, wouldn't it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry watches impassionatly

Yog: "Yog has my name, and Invincible sounds nice!"

Marcus Veranius is rather upset. These sales pitches are both snake oil quality and very likely 100% true.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae does not interrupt yog to say this)

(if he was talking she's just watching so far)

The blue-skinned Nothic scurries to the Sarcophagus of Yog. He touches the sarcophagus and says "Oh yes my power is amazing now I am invincible! Don't you all want invincible?"

Yog: "Isn't it great gift?"

Norganas: "No! Norganas is best!"

The green-skinned Nothic performs similarly to the previous two.

Norganas: "Oh, I can kill anyone now! Anyone at all!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well I'd first like to hear what else there is on offer"

Norganas: "My power is incredible!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gets a strange urge to say "Don't worry, girls, you're all pretty!"
But doesn't.

Norganas: "Come on, join me! Become one with Norganas! Norganas gives power!"
"Look, see? Behold!"

Suldae Westwind: "We believe you!" Suldae says quickly.
"No need to demonstrate!"

Norganas: "Oh, but you must see the power, to believe it!"

The green-skinned Nothic points a long finger at Vilnius.

Norganas: "Look, you see! I show you!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gently points her hand away.
"Please don't."
"We really do believe you."

26

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

"Oh, then you are wanting to take the power also?"

Norganas: "You are wanting the power of Norganas?"

Suldae Westwind: "We're not done with the tour yet," Suldae says apologetically.

Norganas: "You break Norganas's heart!"

Suldae Westwind: "If Norganas' power is truly the best, surely it would be no trouble for us to learn of all the options first."

Norganas: "All she wants is to love!"
"Come, come, she will teach you how to love a man to death with a point of your finger!"

The Lich clears his throat ominously.

"There is still much to be seen."

Suldae Westwind: "You wouldn't want to upset our tour guide, would you?" Suldae asks with a tragic note in her voice, carefully making sure to not overblow it.

The Nothic cowers slightly.

Suldae Westwind: If the creature is stupid, it will buy it. If the creature is smart, it will see your point.

Norganas: "Ok, ok. But you promise to come back now."

"Right, let's proceed. I shall make the Guardian fall dormant for a while."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hurries along to the lich.

The Lich spreads his hands. Nothing visibly happens.

Suldae Westwind: She does not answer Norganas and appears to not have noticed her words at all.

"Now, the Guardian is dormant for one hour."

"Sadly, I can't control it with more precision, since I seem to have misplaced the control sphere."

"But one hour should, I think, be sufficient -- even for my ramblings."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows the lich keeping an eye on the newly 'gifted' participants of the tour

"Now, come with me, and I will show you the eastern hall."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows along.

The Nothics hop to the edge of the Western hall but do not dare to enter the main chamber.

Suldae Westwind: (didn't one of the nothics not want to come?)

They remain lurking in the western hall, gazing around the corner at the receding party -- even the one that claimed it didn't want to come.

Vilnius: "This is getting weird," says Vilnius.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You say that like it did start at damn wierd"
weird

Marcus Veranius looks curiously at Vilnius, but shakes his head. Now was plan time

Marcus Veranius waits for the tour to continue past the main chamber before retrieving what he needs

The Lich says "Alright, and this is the Lower East Hall."

The walls and ceiling of this great hall are coated in amber that glistens like fresh honey. Dust covers the black marble floor. To the north, the hall has collapsed, leaving a wall of rubble.

Many amber doors lead from this hall. Standing in front of the south door are three ugly women in tattered black gowns with brooms and black, pointed hats.

Fekre: "Who are you?"

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae has nothing to add to Henry's words, really.

The four witches at the end of the hallway look up, startled at the arrival of the lich.

"Oh, it's you," says the one on the right.

Marcus Veranius taps Suldae and Henry on the shoulder as they pass

Marcus Veranius tugs slightly away from the tour group

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows the tug

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae decides to take a chance that everything won't explode for a minute and does so as well.

Suldae Westwind:

8

STEALTH (4)
Suldae Westwind

(wow. just, wow)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (do we have to stealth to fall back?)

stealth

Suldae Westwind: (I assume other people will notice even if the lich doesn't, oetherwise)

Marcus Veranius: "Oh bother, my stuff is getting caught trying to squeeze past your friend here."

The first witch is translucent-skinned, cold, black-eyed, diseased looking. She reeks of filth. The second witch has black orbs for eyes, snow-white skin and hair, black robes, and a tall peaked hat. She clutches a white staff. The third has white orbs for eyes, ink-black skin and hair, black robes, and a tall peaked hat. She clutches a crystal orb that seems to contain a violet star. The last witch has starry voids for eyes, ash-grey skin and hair, black robes, and a tall peaked hat. She seems to be unarmed.

Marcus Veranius drops a bag, attempting to squeeze past Mr Skull to no avail

GM: If you want to fall back without being noticed, you have to roll stealth, yes

Marcus Veranius: "Mr Tour Guide, could you give me some assistance in pushing this thing?"

"Oh? My apologies."

Marcus Veranius: "I think if we both push from this corner here..."

Suldae Westwind: (can we reroll stealth with the distraction?)

The Lich waves a casual hand and a thousand pounds of sleeping bone lifts effortlessly into the air and glides to a new position.

GM: (yes)

Suldae Westwind:

23

STEALTH (4)
Suldae Westwind

(thank you rng god)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

1 + 1 12 + 1

STEALTH (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(heavy armor)

Suldae Westwind: (oh my god)

GM: (O o o o o o of)

Tenebrous: (Ooof)

Suldae Westwind: (Imao)

Marcus Veranius smiles, dragging the bag along

"Goodness me, are you alright? That was quite the fall. Sounded like a cart full of metal flatware falling down a ravine into a dry riverbed, then tumbling to the sea for several miles."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry loudly trips collapsing on the ground in a cacophony

Marcus Veranius: "I think I'm alright. Was this scratch on the wall here before?"

Marcus Veranius points to the corner

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It hurt my pride more than my body"

"Scratch on the wall?"

"Oh you mean, the..." He gestures vaguely at the Northern end of the hall.

Marcus Veranius: "You probably know the scratches better than I. Could you take a look?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (okay what exactly are we doing right now?)

"A new scratch, you mean?"

"Let me see..."

Suldae Westwind: (more distraction i think)

(try again)

The Lich floats close to Marcus.

Marcus Veranius points towards the blue arrow

The Lich moves and closely examines the wall in the area Marcus is pointing at.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae uses the ruckus to flit away with an elf's soundless grace.

Marcus Veranius tosses a portable hole into the bag of holding Suldae Westwind: Well, half-elf's, in her case, but she is unwilling to get caught up in details.

(Wait, you had a portable hole?)

There is an ominous gurgle.

It is the sound of a universe realizing that something is horribly wrong.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it was in the hoard)

It seems, somehow, it has swallowed itself.

Suldae Westwind: (oh, you took it, gotcha)

Oh well. Nothing to do but commit, now.

Marcus Veranius: (The death tyrant should also be caught in the radius)

Suldae Westwind: (what about. uh. our companions)
(i see a problem)

Quite suddenly, a woman in red appears before Hiere.

She says: "HOLD IT."

"Are we SURE you want to commit to this course of action?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (where exactly is Hiere btw?)

Hiere is, of course, the only person who can see her.

Marcus Veranius is grinning smugly. He's sure what he's doing

Hiere Unthere: Hiere nods. It was all or nothing

Shami-Amourae: (Sylvan): "WHAAT!?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has no idea what's going on.

Zantras: "NO!"

Sykane: "AAAARGH!"

Suldae Westwind: At the sound of the screams Suldae glances out of her hiding place.

Savnok: "Oh, OH! AHAHAHAHAHAHA!"

Tenebrous: "Oh, how annoying."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks himself of the ground as reality starts to break thinking 'Well It was getting a bit to calm I guess'

Marcus Veranius: "Right then! Let's put an end to the charade. You're all icons of these Dark Powers aren't you? Same names on the coffins."

There is a singular moment in which the darkness floods out all the light in the chamber. You see a vast hole in reality, tumbling into a sea of whirling pools of color and distant auroras of thought and dream. The Astral Sea stretches before you, infinite and free -- free of Barovia, free of the Amber Temple, free of the Material Plane. In the distance you see something that resembles a massive island of shell and bone drifting through the gloom in the conscious and intelligent fashion of a hunter.

As Tenebrous falls into the darkness and Zhudun tumbles in with him, he catches hold of the skull and slips himself into an eye socket.

Sykane, Zantras, Shami-Amourae, and Savnok all twist and churn into hideous monstrosities that defy all logic and sanity with the putridity of their form.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae wants to wish him safe travels - she's somehow grown fond of the abomination - but prefers to keep herself hidden as she'd managed to so far.

Aaaand that's something she should have noticed as well, but didn't.

What Marcus pointed out, that is.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh Hey you're right well not like I trusted them to begin with" Henry says stretching as he stands

Suldae Westwind: She really likes being behind Henry right now.

The black hole into the Astral sea lingers for a long time as it slowly begins to shrink. Silence soon falls again as the sucking wind dissipates. Before the portal closes you can see the strange entities all flying off to their freedom.

The portal seals itself with a sonorous clap of thunder.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (....Did we just unleash a couple of capital E Evil gods?)

Vilnius: Vilnius scrambles towards the spot in the room where the portal was, and falls to his knees where the dust was disturbed by the winds.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is inviiisible

Marcus Veranius: (They're probably sealed inside their coffins still)

Suldae Westwind: Sort of

Marcus Veranius: (We just took out whatever those things were)

Suldae Westwind: Being tiny and having large armored friends is really convenient

Marcus Veranius draws his crossbow.

Marcus Veranius: "Right then. So this is how we're going on from here."

"I want an explanation."

"Why all these disguises and illusions? Why the elaborate setup?"

Vilnius, quite suddenly, lunges away on all fours, galloping like a dog, his head twisting horrifically around to scream, jaw unhinged, as he retreats up the wall and onto the ceiling.

Suldae Westwind: (Hiere's location concerns me)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere steps closer to the walking gatling gun

Zrin-Hala: Zrin Hala punches his fist into his palm and grunts like a whirlwind. "You could have simply... Chosen..."

He seems to loom taller, darkness clouds around him. Flashes of light flicker from his eyes. Thunder booms through the halls.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Come now where's the fun in that" Henry says with a contemptuous smirk

Marcus Veranius: "We did choose. You're not the first to sell us on this deal."

"A house once asked us to pay it tribute. It demanded we end one of our own to escape its confines."

"We chose to burn it down."

Suldae Westwind: Oh, yeah. That happened.

Marcus Veranius: "So now I offer YOU the chance to make a Dark Pact of your own."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae mostly remembers that event as an unending string of nightmares, but that's cool too.

Dalhver-Nar smiles, drooling like a fountain. He seems to have far, far too many teeth.

He grows, stretching through his skin like damp tissue paper.

He opens his mouth suddenly, unhinging his jaw completely until the top of his head swings back completely and he suddenly swells into a horrendous fleshy worm, opening a tooth-ringed gullet that could swallow a man whole.

Drizlash: "You see,"

"We would have worked with you."

"Most of us just want to get out."

"But we can't have you freeing only some of us."

"You're supposed to choose."

Drizlash, while speaking, balloons horribly, unfolding eight massive hairy pillar-like legs as he rises toward the ceiling.

Marcus Veranius isn't afraid

Drizlash: "Do you really think you're in control of the situation, my boy?"

Suldae Westwind is

At the south end of the hall, the Witches are throwing off their disguises as well.

Suldae Westwind: (but quietly)

(also, it's half overshadowed by nerdy awe)

(she never expected to see something like this even if it's likely to kill her)

Marcus Veranius: "I believe we are in absolute control of the situation. You may be used to dealing with adventurers, soldiers, warriors, knights."

"You've never dealt with a Shoemaker before."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry laughs "And you think you are?"

Fekre: "You will rot here."

Yrrga: "You will be forgotten here."

 Khiraad: "You will be consumed here."

 Marcus Veranius: "Shoemakers die, they rot, they're never remembered."

 Delban: "Everything must freeeeeeeeze!"

 Khiraad: "Come on, Delban. We have spoken about this!"
"It does not work with the cadence of the reveal!"

 Marcus Veranius: "That might scare a hero but I am no hero."

 Delban: "Freeeeze"

 Marcus Veranius: "..."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae is still hiding but she's getting stronger and stronger urges to join the banter.

 Marcus Veranius puts a hand to his face, considering 'freeze'

Suldae hears a powerful singing, a holy light in the darkness.

It seems to be... angelic.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what you're gonna kill us? lock us in here?" Henry asks shrugging "Not like that get's you even an inch closer to getting out of here"

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae is cautious enough, but she turns her head, attempting to pinpoint the source of hte sound.

Zrin-Hala swells, crackling with lightning, bristling with thunder.

 Hiere Unthere: Hiere cracks his knuckles. "god. damn. adventurers."

 Marcus Veranius: "Well, it matters very little what we do. Perhaps you haven't noticed the change of scenery. Hard to spot in this dark place."

Zrin-Hala booms: "We cannot leave without a host."

 Suldae Westwind: "What a shame for you," Suldae asks out loud, backing away. Something tells her she cannot remain hidden there anyway.

Zrin-Hala: "You will each carry one of us out of this damnation."

"You will do this, because you are mortal, and mortals fear death."

"And we will kill you, if you do not obey!"

"Choose a Sarcophagus!"

 Suldae Westwind: "Did they teach you that in the mortal studies class?" Suldae asks.
(what is the source of the sound?)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps close and lowers his arms baring his neck "Do I look afraid of death to you"

GM: (Who has the halo?)

Marcus Veranius: (Suldae?)

"Perhaps you do not realize your current straits."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gets the urge to drag him back by the scruff of his neck like a kitten, because there's being brave and then there's that, but she knows she cannot move him.

(The rapier?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the abbots halo)

Suldae Westwind: (Oh)

Marcus Veranius: "The land this temple sits on has been claimed by a new light. It acts on our command."

Suldae Westwind: (...I don't remember)

Marcus Veranius: "If we do not leave this place, it shall NEVER allow anyone else in after us."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Suldae pickled it up picked

Khirad: Quite suddenly, the swirling darkness of Khirad is before Marcus.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not pickeld)

Suldae Westwind: (and didnt write it down, apparently? rip)

Khirad: "Is that so?"

Marcus Veranius: "Poison the pond. I dare you. You will not eat again."

Suldae Westwind: (please pause the events)

(im going to check)

(ooc that is)

Marcus Veranius: "I am but a shoemaker, and to die putting a Dark God in checkmate is more than I'm worth."

"Stand."

"Down."

23 7

INTIMIDATION (5)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Suldae and Ireena where looking at it after Raven Mama when omnomnom)

There is silence, for a while, after Marcus's moment.

A dark giggle begins, somewhere in the room. It is impossible to tell who started it.

Soon all the dark gods are cackling with laughter.

Khirad muses: "He has not realized. He has not made the connection. He does not know what is at stake."

Yrrga makes a noise like the creaking of an ancient forest. "He has not realized what is on the table."

Delban: "Freeeeeeeeze them all."

Suldae Westwind: (ok so the last thing that happend was Ireena took it to examine it and then nothing)

Drizlash: "Surely you didn't think we'd allow you to walk so close to our most delicate parts without protection?"

Suldae Westwind: (it wasnt brought up again and she never commented on it)

Drizlash: "Tell me: where is your wife, Marcus?"

Suldae Westwind: (but yeah I'm going to guess Suldae has it)

Drizlash: "Do you know?"

"You are going to leave this temple. With one of us -- or as many of us as can fit -- inside each one of you."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae reaches into her bag and takes out the object she'd picked up earlier this night.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (technically last night)

Suldae Westwind: (this night)

Marcus Veranius holds his expression

Suldae Westwind: (sunset: wedding at the Raven Queen's. Sunrise hasn't happened yet)

Marcus Veranius: "I fear her more than I fear you. And you ought to do the same."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we went to the ambertemple in the morning after spending the nigh with the raven queen)

The Halo sings. It rings with a pure, crystalline tone, like the ringing of a great steel bell.

The sound is so loud she can feel it in her bones.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lifts it up with one hand, the other on her holy symbol as she mutters a song-prayer.

18

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

She has heard of Spiritual Weapons, before -- but she has never held a tangible and permanent one. Until now.

Suldae Westwind: (...what has she heard about them)

The Hoop seems to want to be thrown.

Marcus feels a tap on his shoulder.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae complies.

Marcus Veranius turns around

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who was cloudy-boi again?)

Suldae Westwind: (what do I roll, if anything?)

GM: (Cloudy boy is Zrin-Hala)

(You would roll a +2 attack with your proficiency modifier)

Marcus sees nothing behind himself.

Marcus smells Ezmeralda's perfume.

Marcus Veranius pauses for a moment to consider, and is more sure of himself

Marcus Veranius: They have no leverage.

Suldae Westwind: (Dex modifier or none?)

GM: (Charisma modifier)

Suldae Westwind: (so +2, Cha and Proficiency?)

GM: (Yep)

Suldae Westwind:

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

(well then)

GM: (Who is she throwing it at?)

Suldae Westwind: (the one next to Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stares into Zrin-Hala's eyes "...are you gonna do something or are you going to keep posturing till we die of old fucking age?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae loves him, she really does, but she really doesn't mind the perspective of dying of old age, right now.

She doesn't say that out loud, though.

Marcus Veranius: "They can't do anything. You're all sealed in amber. No influence outside those that bleed you dry for powe."

*power

Suldae Westwind: Suldae wishes she had his confidence, but he's been right so far.

(She has thrown the halo)

(what's going on)

(with that)

The Halo zooms from her hand with the lightest touch of her will, sentient and intent on pursuing her purpose. It uses 25 feet of its total movement speed (120) and hits Zrin-Hala, dealing 17 thunder damage. Zrin-Hala is immune to this form of damage, but the blade still has movement speed yet and it has just struck an enemy, so it can proceed to attack another. Would you care to select a target? It cannot hit the same target twice in a row. If it misses a target, its throw is over, but it can still use the remainder of its movement.

Suldae Westwind: (the one next closest to Suldae)

Zrin-Hala: "Hahaha. You puny mortals. So full of arrogance and impatience."

roll the attack again

Suldae Westwind:

22

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

The gong-like tone of the Halo striking the second target rings through the chamber. It deals 19 Thunder damage to Drizlash, and can continue on to another target.

Suldae Westwind:

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

(next closest, again)

The hoop narrowly hits the next target, dealing 21 Thunder damage to Dahlver-Nar. It can proceed to another target.

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

Dahlver-Nar is resistant to Thunder damage. He takes 10 points of damage.

Suldae Westwind: (next closest again)

The Halo strikes Dahlver-Nar, dealing 17 points of Thunder damage.

Suldae Westwind: (unless im wrong the trajectory is like that)

(Dahlver-Nar? are there two of them?)

GM: (Sorry, Khirad)

Suldae Westwind: (I would so greatly appreciate labels on tokens)

(can it still continue)

(these guys are clustered, no way it's been 120 ft yet lmao)

GM: (What was the most recent target?)

Suldae Westwind: (Khirad)

(I drew the trajectory so far)

GM: (Gotcha.)

The hoop has movement still, and it has just had a hit, so it can proceed to another target.

Suldae Westwind:

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (A hit for 18 points of Thunder damage.)

Suldae Westwind: (proceed?)

GM: (Yep)

Suldae Westwind:

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Suldae now has enough of a sense of the weapon to know that it deals 1d6+5+3d4 points of Thunder damage.

Suldae Westwind: (1d6+5 or 1d6 + CHA)

GM: (1d6+CHA

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Zrin-Hala: 14 points of Thunder damage.

Suldae Westwind:

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

10

Thunder

(that didnt work sorry)

(re: damage)

rolling 1d6+5+3d4

$$(2) + 5 + (3 + 3 + 2) = 15$$

(it won't have enough left to return huh)

At the end of the 120 feet of movement, the Halo gongs sadly, in a worn out way. It comes to a stop hanging in midair, after zipping through all the available targets like a bolt of lightning.

GM: (Roll Initiative)

(And then we'll probably have to call it haha)

Marcus Veranius:

18

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 14.15

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: (Were we intended to fight these guys or did I screw up very hard?)

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE
Zrin-Hala, the Howling Storm
Initiative: 19

INITIATIVE
Drizlash, the Nine Eyed Spider
Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Dahlver-Nar, He of the Many Teeth
Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Khiraad, the Star of Secrets
Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE
Fekre, Queen of Poxes
Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Delban, the Star of Ice and Hate
Initiative: 20

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE

Yrrga, the Eye of Shadows

Initiative: 21

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Guess we'll find out next week)

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE

Yog, the Invincible

Initiative: 12

INITIATIVE

Taar Haak

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE

Norganas, the Finger of Oblivion

Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE

Vaund the Evasive

Initiative: 1

INITIATIVE

Tarakamedes, the Grave Wurm

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE

Poltergeist

Initiative: 11

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE

Poltergeist

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE

Poltergeist

Initiative: 19

INITIATIVE

Poltergeist

Initiative: 22

Hiere Unthere:

6

INITIATIVE (3)

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE

Dire Wolf

Initiative: 14

Hiere Unthere:

4

INITIATIVE (3)

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 18

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE
Shield Guardian

Initiative: 0

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 12

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 14

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE
Climbing Ghast

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 4

INITIATIVE
Flameskull

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Poltergeist

Initiative: 22

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE
Death Slaad

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Initiative: 22

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 10

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE Rictavio <hr/> Initiative: 7
--

Zrin-Hala:

INITIATIVE Vasilka <hr/> Initiative: 3

INITIATIVE Treant <hr/> Initiative: 14.08
--

Marcus, Henry, Suldae, and Hiere feel a strange uplifting of their energy levels. (All expendable features restored. All arrows restored to all-time highest previous level. All spell slots and hit dice restored. All magic item charges restored. All abilities restored. All health, restored. At the same time, they find themselves propelled by the power of their own good teamwork. The moment Suldae unleashes her Halo, she prepares to take her own turn. Hiere, Marcus, and Henry are next in the immediate surprise round. There can be no doubt that the battle and the songs of angels have awakened the denizens of the temple, and it will fight to protect itself. Nevertheless -- you seem to have received outside aid.

Marcus Veranius: Time to burn the house down.Suldae Westwind: (oooooooooooo)

....with everyone inside.

Hiere Unthere: WEEE DIDNT START THE FIIREHenry of Willowsbrook: (pff Guys calm down it's only 4(us)+6(allied Npcs)VS 35...we got this)Suldae Westwind: ...yeah, we're just trying to fihgt it lmaoGM: (Do you want to take your surprise round NOW, or do you want to save it for next week?)Zrin-Hala: It may give you time to planGM: (It may give you time to planMarcus Veranius: (Let's save it for next week so we can plan on how not to be immediately desintegrated)Suldae Westwind: (next week)
(its 10 pm among other things)GM: (Then... Oh my gosh....)
(We're breaking tradition)
(It's not Henry's turn!)Suldae Westwind: (HOLY SHIT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I mean I could just burn out some attacks if y'all want)

GM: (I sort of assumed a Haste would be dropped at some point early on)

Marcus Veranius: (Before we go, for reference sake)

Suldae Westwind: (how tall is the ceiling)

Marcus Veranius: (Do any of these guys look undead?)

Suldae Westwind: (i need this information for weather reasons)

GM: (Vilnius is clearly a Dybbuk.)

(The rest, not so much)

Marcus Veranius: (I don't know what that string of letters means)

GM: (The ceilings are 25 feet high)

(Vilnius is a particularly nasty form of undead, you're really not going to enjoy it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (But seriously I know what I'll do with my surprise round right now and that mostlikeyl won't change till next week)

Marcus Veranius: (Hey)

(I have exactly one favored enemy here)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (there's a bunch of fodder undead coming to get us if that makes you feel any better)

GM: (Oh, and Marcus would sense the Vampire Spawn and the Ghouls and Specters and the Poltergeists)

(Henry, if you really do want to release your attacks, you may go for it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Sure...I'm guessing I don't get advantage for surprise attack?)

GM: (Sure, throw advantage in there)

Suldae Westwind: (ok no call lightning)

GM: (Wouldn't be a Henry first attack wave if it didn't decimate a foe)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (welp bye bye first level spell slots great to have them back for less than a turn)

23

26

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

14*Radiant Smite Damage14Slashing23*29

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

7*Radiant Smite Damage18Slashing29*13

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

6*Radiant Smite Damage12Slashing15*21

Wuxdt Longsword (+12)
Henry of Willowsbrook

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage. When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the GM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

12*Radiant Smite Damage13Slashing*

GM: (Is that all your attacks?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (action surge is in there I'm not Marcus)

GM: (Roll 1d6)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(3)

= 3

GM: (Alas, you did not gain the recharge benefit of the current blessing)

Suldae Westwind: (using smite with wuxdt is impressive lmao)

GM: (But maybe next time)

Suldae Westwind: (like 'because fuck you')

GM: (Final damage? That was four hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sooo whjat does that mean?)

GM: (A good question! A very good question.)

(I have: 96)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Yeah 96 on Zrin-Hala)

Henry's black blade rips into the shadowy storm-titan four times, cleaving wind and lightning with bursts of holy radiance. Zrin-Hala screams -- he has never been wounded like this before. He stands with fully 2/3rds of his health remaining, but terrified by the oblivion he sees in his own future. He begins to swell wildly, billowing outward, expanding beyond his form into a howling storm that begins to fill the hallways.

Suldae Westwind: (it's not vulnerable to Radiant, is it?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Nah I'd guess some form of storm elemental as a basis)

Suldae Westwind: (makes sense)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry grins madly at the being before him "Come now you asked me to set you free" He raises the sword and stares down it's length at the 'god' "In death all are free"

Zrin-Hala opens wide the storm of his maw and bellows out a blast of thunder. The wind is powerful enough to strip the branches from a mile of forest. Henry and Suldae instantly take 19 Thunder damage, which Suldae resists. Henry and Suldae must succeed on a DC 21 DEX save or take 4d10 additional thunder damage and be flung up to 60 feet due west. (Legendary Action)

Suldae Westwind:

19

DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae Westwind

(HENRY'S AURA)

GM: (Good point!)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

AURA OF WARDING

Class: Paladin 7

Beginning at 7th level, you and friendly creatures within 10 feet of you have resistance to damage from spells. At 18th level, the range of this aura increases to 30 feet.

GM: (Henry, make a Charisma save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic

damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma

saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation

checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or

Charisma checks due to a spell,

a feature, or another magic item

effect, grants a +5 to

Intimidation checks instead.

(advantage)

26 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry feels Sylvanus firmly at his back, splitting the blast of wind with his power. Henry and Suldae both resist the Thunder damage and are not pushed.

Suldae Westwind: (...I suggest switching weapons)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so 9 damage)

(To be fai it was the one he had in hand because He still don't have a seath for it) sheath)

Suldae Westwind: (Have you tried dropping)

GM (GM):

Rope Trick

Transmutation 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: A length of rope that is up to 60 feet long

Components: V, S, M (Powdered corn extract and a twisted loop of parchment)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a length of rope that is up to 60 feet long. One end of the rope then rises into the air until the whole rope hangs perpendicular to the ground. At the upper end of the rope, an invisible entrance opens to an extradimensional space that lasts until the spell ends. The extradimensional space can be reached by climbing to the top of the rope. The space can hold as many as eight Medium or smaller creatures. The rope can be pulled into the space, making the rope disappear from view outside the space. Attacks and spells can't cross through the entrance into or out of the extradimensional space, but those inside can see out of it as if through a 3-foot-by-5-foot window centered on the rope. Anything inside the extradimensional space drops out when the spell ends.

Able: B)

GM (GM): Guuuuu

I mean Hiiiiiii

Now, technically Henry did already take his first round action last time

I still think we should wait for him a little bit though

How has everybody's week been?>

Liliet (Suldae): ...fucking awful as of yesterday and until today, our dog got lost)=

Tops K.: My Pokemon Tabletop group is considering switching to 5e

I just want to play pokemons

Liliet (Suldae): 5e pokemon... hmm...

GM (GM): Oh no! Did you find the dog?

Liliet (Suldae): not yet but some people have seen him

GM (GM): Also 5e Pokemon sounds complicated

Well, at least he's been sighted

Liliet (Suldae): mm

GM (GM): I'm sorry, that's awful

Liliet (Suldae): sok

Suldae Westwind: im just going to take it all out on these fuckers

GM (GM): That's the idea :D

Suldae Westwind: bet there's some dark foces behind it all

GM (GM): Most definitely

Suldae Westwind: what was the name of the fucker on the ceiling?

GM (GM): Vilnius

He's a Dybbuk

Nasty piece of work

Suldae Westwind: why can't i see him

GM (GM): He might be the hardest person present to kill

Suldae Westwind: oh ty

no nametag on him

GM (GM): Better?

Suldae Westwind: thanks ^^

To start: the giant spider scurries over to Suldae at her call and she climbs on its back (move action for Suldae, 25ft move used for spider)

The ancient, long-forgotten gods swell into their new and horrifying forms, gleefully preparing to devour those who will not bow to their will. There is a certain desperation in them, the rage of cornered animals.

Angelic music rings through the chamber, audible only to Suldae. She senses the presence of Correllon more clearly than she ever has before -- and she senses that he has brought friends...

Hiere Unthere: (may I have a fireball sized circle to fiddle around with)

Suldae Westwind: (oh btw: the halo is currently hovering over there not doing anything, right?)

Suldae breathes in and out. She just has to do her best, right? Not like there's anything else she can do.

GM (GM): (Hiere, you should be able to control the fireball)

GM: (You should be able to control the hoop, which is a Spiritual Weapon. You can control it as a bonus action as long as it's in the air.)

(Suldae, I mean)

Suldae Westwind: (Thanks!!!)

(Is that just to move it or to attack too?)

GM: (To move and attack)

(It has 120' of movement, no dash ability. It can only make a single attack, but if that attack hits, it can make another on a separate target)

Suldae Westwind: (thanks!)

(another question: how do i make long movement trajectories)

(i forgot the r20 controls)

GM: (I think they changed it, it might be Q now while you're holding the object)

Suldae Westwind: (holding the object?)

GM: (Click and drag, press Q, press Q again any time you want to leave a node)

(But you have to still be dragging it)

Suldae Westwind: (thanks, it works!!!)

Perched atop the spider, Suldae takes out the flute and plays a single searing high note.

26

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind

20

Higher Level Cast

16

Radiant

A bolt of light streaks towards the undead abomination perched on the ceiling.

(wait another question)

(if that artwork is the halo, why is it Large)

GM: (To make it easier to manipulate)

(And to not lose it in the chaos)

Suldae Westwind: (fair enough)

GM: (You should be able to change the size if it bothers you though)

Suldae Westwind: (how?)

The bolt of light from Suldae's fingers moves with perfect purpose, lancing across the distance, over the heads of the assembled deities, and striking the Dybbuk on the ceiling. Vilnius screams like ten thousand nails on ten thousand chalkboards, but manages to maintain his grip even as the light wraps him in a veil of illumination. (The next attack against Vilnius has advantage)

Hiere Unthere: (am I able to fuck off through the door to our north)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels the thrum of the song of the angelic halo at the back of her mind. She is both gratified and humbled by the power at her disposal, and she pours her will into directing it as best she is able.

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(cause advantage)

(...oops, does count whether or not i do it twice or click advantage in this one, sorry about that)

GM: (No worries)

(I assume you're targeting the Dybbuk?)

(That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

Rebounding, the halo targets the next fiend - the one blocking Suldae's friends from the rest of the room right now.

15Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind19

Thunder

(wow. this roll. wow)

GONG. The Dybbuk screams as its corpse is destroyed, and with an eery cackle the spiritual essence of the Dybbuk hurtles off to find a new host.GM: (Target?)Suldae Westwind: (Khirad)GM: (That's a hit)Suldae Westwind: It's a near thing, but the halo's song resonates as it strikes and it rebounds towards the next closest one again.Tops K.: (Marcus knows how Dybbuk work due to favored enemy knowledge. Shouldn't it appear 5 ft from the corpse?)Suldae Westwind:*29*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind12

Thunder

GM: (Never assume that any monster I throw at you is standard)Marcus Veranius: (Oof)Zanshukun: (I HAVE ARRIVED AND I APOLOGIZE FOR ANY DELAYS)Suldae Westwind: (ouch)

Hiere Unthere: (lovely)

Khirad's billowing, smoke-like form is parted by the racing Halo, which bounces off something solid inside that black mist.

GM: (After Khirad, what's the next target?)

(It's a hit, none of them have an AC above 19)

Suldae Westwind: (Yrgga)

Yrgga screams, tentacles flapping wildly, as the Holy Hoop bounces off its stony mask.

Suldae Westwind: The song zips through the air, targeting the immense storm elemental next.

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14 + 12
Thunder

Thunder meets Thunder, and Zrin-Hala roars. It was a worthy blow -- unfortunately the storm elemental is powerful against this form of damage. He is wounded by the attack, but not as severely as one might have hoped.

Suldae Westwind: Undeterred, the song continues its path.

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19
Thunder

Dahlver-Nar, He of the Many Teeth, roars as the Hoop rends his bulbous hide.

Suldae Westwind: The song echoes towards its last target.

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17
Thunder

Drizlash: "Oof! How rude!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ignores the comment haughtily. It was not.

The spider retreats, carrying her back.

GM: (Is that EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (Roll 1d6)

Suldae Westwind: rolling d6

(1)

= 1

GM: (Ok, good to know)

(Hiere Unthere, It's time)

(Also, I'll give you a hint: make some puns)

(The worse, the better)

(Before I'm old and decrepit, please)

(I mean older and more decrepit)

Suldae Westwind: (in Hiere's defense, you did ask)

GM: (I did, I did)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I don't think you're that old GM but then again I have no clue how old you are)

GM: (I'd like to hope I'm younger than you think)

(Despite some people's best efforts)

Suldae Westwind: (I think you're in mid-twenties like me) (just as a default option for people whose age i dont know online)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere raises his staff, and proceeds to make a dragoneye-opening performance. "OI FEKKRES, I KNOW YOU JUST GOT ZRIN-HALO'D, BUT AFTER I TURN YOUR DAHLVER-NARDS TO DRIZZLE-ASH, YOU WONT BE LOOKING TOO KHI-RAD." he intones with a smouldering glare, and The Weave burns up with arcane energy as a 6th level fireball is set loose upon the corridor demons.

"SOMEONE GET A CRIER DUCK FOR FRIAR TUCK'S FIRE TRUCK TO PUT OUT YOU LIAR FUCKS CUS YOU'RE IN DIRE MUCK"

DC 17

Dexterity Save

5

Fire

Higher Level Cast

21

Fire

150 feet

Fireball

Hiere's flurry of deadly puns deals 15 psychic damage to all the ancient gods just as an unfortunately lackluster fireball erupts in the middle of the chamber.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae understood only half of that, but she is amazed anyway.

Dahlver-Nar screams as his soul withers under the weight of the pun, which kills him even before the fireball sears his flesh.

Suldae Westwind: (I love this)

Something brilliant red, like a strange little star, zooms away from his fallen form and rockets through the wall.

GM: (Give me a moment to make some saveS)

Drizlash: 23, Zrin-Hala: 20, Khiraad: 21, Fekre: 13

Zrin-Hala twists his thunderous form, avoiding all damage from the flames. Drizlash, despite his incredible spider-like speed, cannot escape the flames completely, and is singed. Khiraad cackles darkly as the flames tickle her, taking some damage but not much. Fekre takes the blast worst of all -- her reeking form ignites, and continues to burn after the blast of flames has passed over her.

Hierie Unthere: (can he then move out through the door to the North)

GM: (Go for it)

(It will provoke two opportunity attacks, I think)

(But they might hog those reactions)

Marcus Veranius: (It's surprise round; no reactions)

GM: (Ah, you are correct)

Hierie pops open the door to the north and sees a towering figure of iron and stone already rising to its feet, filling most of the chamber.

Hierie Unthere: (oh god what have I walked into)

He recognizes it as a Shield Guardian.

GM: (roll 1d6)

Hierie Unthere: 1

GM: (Oof)

Hierie feels a tickle of something magical at his back -- but it isn't quite there yet.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: "You have erred greatly, old ones, for you know not what gods took your place."

"I am Marcus, the Divine of Vengeance. You shall gaze upon my true form and perish."

Khiraad and Zrin-Hala begin to laugh, their voices mingling like shadows.

Marcus Veranius gives the signal to Ezmerelda; the NPCs then cast spells upon her, which transfer to Marcus

Marcus Veranius: He explodes into an aura of shining radiance

GM: (Uh)

(Ezmerelda is not here, and she can't get to you)

(It will take nearly a full round for them to arrive, as mentioned last week)

(It was a good idea though)

Marcus Veranius: She's close enough that Marcus can communicate and smell her perfume. I assume the Ring of Bondage is in effect

Suldae Westwind: Suldae admires Marcus's style.

Marcus Veranius: The Ring of Bondage forces spell effects affecting one to affect the other. So long as the Power of Love reigns true, they need only target Ezmerelda to buff Marcus as well.

GM: (Ooh, very clever)

(What has been cast?)

Marcus Veranius: Ezmerelda casts Haste

Kasimir casts Greater Invisibility

Rictavio casts Freedom of Movement

Ismark casts Protection from Evil

Ireena casts Light

Marcus vanishes, and in his place is shining radiance

Suldae Westwind: This is amazing

(my favorite part is Light)

"WHAT!?"

"A GOD? HERE?"

"IMPOSSIBLE!"

Marcus Veranius: The light drifts north. From it beams a volley of magical bolts raining onto Zrin-Hala's position

All the magical items Marcus needs

The ancient deities mutter furiously amongst themselves, and the wiser ones among them begin eyeing Marcus with the keen and arcane eyes. Yrrga and Khirad both seem to be able to see him, but it won't make any difference.

Marcus Veranius: Attacks (2 normal, 2 action surge, 2 ambush, 1 bonus action)

Midnight Crossbow Rush is triggered

14 | 11
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

28

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18 + 6*Magical Piercing*

18

23

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22*Magical Piercing*

25

9

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

20*Magical Piercing*

Marcus Veranius:

24

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

19*Magical Piercing*

18

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18 + 4*Magical Piercing*

18

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

22 + 1
Magical Piercing

(Lucky Roll on the 14)

rolling 1d20+11

(19)+11

= 30

Suldae Westwind: (why +11)

Marcus Veranius: (+3 ammunition)

Suldae Westwind: (huh, okay)

Marcus Veranius: 7 hits above 20. 7 more bolts fire out

9 + 3 | 11 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

12 + 3 | 23 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

23 + 3 | 9 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork
Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

$$\begin{array}{c} 21 + 3 \quad | \quad 27 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19
Magical Piercing

$$\begin{array}{c} 16 + 3 \quad | \quad 15 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius:

$$\begin{array}{c} 21 + 3 \quad | \quad 10 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

$$\begin{array}{c} 27 + 3 \quad | \quad 28 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22 + 5
Magical Piercing

(this time with the +3 ammunition actually toggled)

Suldae Westwind: (i love this)

Marcus Veranius: 5 shots above 20. 5 additional bolts fire)

$$\begin{array}{c} 12 + 3 \quad | \quad 10 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

$$\begin{array}{c} 13 + 3 \quad | \quad 12 + 3 \\ 120 \end{array}$$

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

17 + 3 | 26 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

12 + 3 | 22 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

11 + 3 | 26 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius: 3 shots above 20. 3 more bolts fire

27 + 3 | 9 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

19 + 3 | 12 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

26 + 3 | 27 + 3
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

20
Magical Piercing

Marcus has run out of +3 ammunition, but 3 more normal bolts fire

13 | 24
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius:

16 | 23
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

25 | 16
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

3

22 | 13
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

28 | 19
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

18 + 1
Magical Piercing

27 | 13
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius: 3

20 | 11
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19
Magical Piercing

26 | 26
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

26 | 9
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

23
Magical Piercing

Umm

13 | 19
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

Marcus Veranius:

9 | 27
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

21 | 9
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

ummmmmmm

18 | 23
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

21
Magical Piercing

17 | 24
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

18
Magical Piercing

O-O

Marcus Veranius:

23 | 11
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

19
Magical Piercing

17 | 18
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)

Marcus Veranius

19
Magical Piercing

1

9 | 12
120

>Sharpshooter (Clockwork

Crossbow) (+8)
Marcus Veranius

22
Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: The giant spider is clapping

Hiere Unthere: hiere hears a Gatling gun go off

Marcus Veranius: (what's the target AC?)

The gods have time to say a quiet "oh" of utter consternation before approximately 46,000 crossbow bolts rip through the chamber.

GM: (For Zrin-Hala?)

(19)

(None of the gods present have an AC over 19)

Marcus Veranius: (Let's just assume 19 for all hits then, save on math)

Suldae Westwind: (noooo)

(do the max math)

(im against giving up ANY extra damage on these fuckers)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Gm what is the lowest of the Gods AC)

GM: (Looking through the attacks, not a single one missed)

(The lowest is 11)

Suldae Westwind: (that last one was 12)

GM: (Zrin-Hala: 19, Khirad: 11, Yrrga: 13, Fekre: 13, Delban: 12, Drizlash: 13)

(Just gimme the total damage)

Marcus Veranius: 169 on the first volley

GM: (That's enough to take out Zrin-Hala)

Marcus Veranius: (after the +3 to damage not included in the first set's bolts)

Suldae Westwind: (omfg lmao)

Marcus Veranius: 172 in the second set

GM: (That's enough to take out Khirad, Drizlash, and Yrrga)

Suldae Westwind: (OH MY GOD)

Marcus Veranius: 114 in the third set

GM: (That's enough to take out Fekre and seriously wound Delban)

Marcus Veranius: 70 in the 4th set

GM: (That's enough to take out Delban)

Marcus Veranius: 348 for the nonmagic bolts, still magical from the weapon
And I presume after this incredible velocity of bolts, Blinsky's crossbow explodes

Suldae Westwind: Blinsky bulids better than that!

Marcus Veranius: Remember kids

IS NO FUN, IS NO BLINSKY

The flames of Hiere's fireball have hardly faded before an impossible volley of crossbow bolts rips through the assembled evil gods, turning them to fine black mist. Each of the fallen gods releases what looks to be a colored star, which zooms off frictionlessly through the walls, racing back to some unknown home base.

Silence falls for a moment, but you still hear the clamor of many approaching feet, and to the west the Nothics are still approaching. The battle is far from over -- but it is off to a great start.

GM: (EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: NO

Marcus has an action from Haste

Marcus uses an object, and blown on the Horn of Valhalla

rolling 2d4+2

(2 + 3)+2

= 7

7 Warriors of Valhalla hear the call, and move to defend the blessed boy

GM: (Do you want them to have individual turns, or to be on the same initiative?)

Marcus Veranius: (For the sake of not going insane, same initiative)

Drizlash:

INITIATIVE Warrior of Valhalla <hr/> Initiative: 3

GM: (Oof)

(Lemme preroll that)

(Re-roll*)

Drizlash:

INITIATIVE Warrior of Valhalla <hr/> Initiative: 6
--

GM: (Well, looks like RNGesus has decided)

(Is that EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: THAT is EoT

GM: (Roll 1d6)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6

(3)

= 3

GM: (Good to know)

(Henry, you're up)

Henry feels a sudden rush of new energy. He senses the presence of Sylvanus, rejuvenating him.

GM: (Go ahead and take a turn)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Um I already had my surprise round last session)

GM: (I am aware of that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I can go again if you want me to)

GM: (Please do)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gapes at the now empty corridor "Scary son of a seadog" he let's out before turning on his heel

Marcus Veranius: "Umm... don't get too hopeful. I don't think Blinsky designed this thing to fire so many bolts at once."

"It um... melted."

"It's actually dripping molten metal onto the floor. Just a handle left."

Suldae Westwind: "...drop it," Suldae advise s faintly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over to the treasure pile and grabs the spare javelin (of lightning) and places it in his quiver with the mundane one

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus has already taken the Arrow of Slaying, +3 Ammunition and Walloping Ammunition, the Horn of Valhalla, and an Elemental Gem from the pile as part of his plan)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to turn inwards "I felt the hesitation there Boss and I can guess why' he speaks in Sylvan in his mind eyes on the sword in his hand

He senses the disapproval of Sylvanus hanging around the sword like a cloud. At the same time, he senses something from the sword -- something beyond the sword -- which approves of him holding it very much.

Suldae Westwind: "Drop the sword," Suldae asks quietly, looking at Wuxdt in his hand. "Please."

Where Khirad fell, there remains a strange orb which burns with violet fire.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry holds the sword up looking at the flat of the blade with disdain "I really am sorry" Henry lied blatantly "but I'm already in a comited relationship and I am really not the two timing type" He continues "Besides my Boss kinda hates ya" and with that Henry tosses Wuxdt away

The blade falls in a whirling arc, slicing right through the stone of the floor and tumbling through, out of view.

He senses the disappointment of something....

Then he senses a brilliant light igniting within, as Sylvanus's faith in him is renewed.

Henry feels new power at his fingertips...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Eat shit and die chocking on it" He replies to the disappointed ..thing

Henry gains three castings of True Resurrection and his choice between either: A) A single Storm of Vengeance, B) a single Mass Heal, or C) Three Divine Words.

GM: (EoT? If so, roll 1d6)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not quite GM to I still have an action?)

GM: (Yes you do)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks to Suldae whlie fishing a small bottle out of his pockets the gray and cobalt blue liquid lookin like a liquid storm "Cheers 'Boss'" Henry says with a wink at her downing the Potion of Giant Strength in one

Henry's already prodigious muscles now swell until they seem ready to burst out of his skin. Bulging with power, he even begins to crackle faintly with little lightnings.

GM: (Any additional moves/actions?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (EoT)

GM: (Roll 1d6)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

()

=

GM: (2 expendable features or abilities of your choice are recharged. They can be class or racial abilities, magic item charges, spell slots of a particular level, arrows, javelins, etc.)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Did it work, babe?"

"Ireena's got something she wants to try but she's going to need help from your end! Is Suldae nearby?"

Marcus Veranius: "She's in the main room, or our version of it anyways."

"I'm not sure if they bought the trick but we've forced them to retreat either way."

2

Marcus Veranius: "Thank you so much, I don't think we would have pulled it off without you all."

11

18

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Of course you wouldn't have been able to," says Ezmerelda, sounding smug over the ring.

"Ok, Ireena's moving to the middle of the room. Have Suldae get somewhere near there..."

13

5

Marcus Veranius: "Suldae; try to get in the middle of the... what the heck is that!?"*

Three spectral poltergeists emerge from a chamber to the northwest of the main room and surge directly towards Suldae and Henry. They are not able to get close enough to be effective just yet.

7

Yorhish M'wahassa: (Sylvan): Henry, hold on! We are coming for you.

15

Flameskull:

FIRE RAY
Flameskull

Attack: 9 | 18

Damage: 7 fire

A Beam of flames surges from the southern end of the hall, from a Flameskull that has just emerged there. It misses Marcus by about a yard.

GM: (Not supposed to have advantage)

A terrible laugh comes from the western end of the main chamber.

Marcus Veranius: "Not you again!"

Tarakamedes: "Did you really think you could defeat us so easily?"

"You are our prisoners! We will suffer no such disrespect!"

Tarakamedes emerges from the western hall, shedding his human form violently.

Tarakamedes: "I am Tarakamedes, the Grave Wyrml! I shall feast upon your souls!"

Yog the Invincible emerges from the western hall beside him, shedding his Nothics form. He towers, a figure of flame and embers, bearing an orb of hellfire and a longsword of molten hate.

5

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae!"

"Suldae, can you hear me?"

Ireena's voice seems to come from the center of the chamber.

Death Slaad: A figure once seen by a wizard emerges from the chamber of its den, coming to the aid of the dark gods who have fed it so many corpses over the eons.

Flameskull:

FIRE RAY
Flameskull

Attack: 17

Damage: 13 fire

FIRE RAY
Flameskull

Attack: 14

Damage: 11 fire

A second Flameskull emerges from the southern chamber of the eastern hall, loosing two beams of flame at Marcus!

Both beams miss by wide margins -- it seems the radiance of the light spell is playing havoc with the flame skull's targeting systems.

GM: (Time for warriors of Valhalla)

(Do you want to control them, Marcus?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

Warrior of Valhalla: "SKALL!"

Warrior of Valhalla makes attacks against the armor golem

Warrior of Valhalla: Reckless for advantage, but recieves attacks at advantage in return

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION| -
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
24 | 12

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
9 | 11

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
15 | 18

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
21 | 15

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
23 | 18

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
7 | 12

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
14 | 12

GM: (Four hits)

Warrior of Valhalla:

Damage: 6 slashing

Damage: 10 slashing

Damage: 15 slashing

Damage: 14 slashing

Warrior of Valhalla shuffles their formation

Warrior of Valhalla: The warrior of tall hats must be defended

[EoT]

Axes fall, but the Shield Guardian stands strong under the assault, automatically deflecting several blows. A few hit home, striking metal and stone, dealing little apparent damage. Nevertheless, the warriors have successfully drawn its attention.

Norganas: "YOOOOOOOOOOOU!"

A massive figure, grey-skinned, devil-mouthed, horned and headdressed in the attire of hell, joins his companions in the western hall. Norganas, Finger of Oblivion, has shed his mortal form.

Horrible darkness swells from the massive humanoid form, which is becoming all too familiar. It is kin to the Nightwalker, no doubt about it.

Norganas: "YOU."

Norganas, the Finger of Oblivion, points a single long claw at Henry -- since it cannot see Marcus.

GM: (Henry, DC 21 Wisdom save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

13 + 4

WISDOM SAVE (5)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Do you have any features to grant advantage at the moment?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: not on wis saves

[[Henry feels a darkness cloud his soul. He takes 23 Necrotic damage instantly, and feels a dread colder than the grave creep upon him. The light of Sylvanus will not allow its champion to be afraid, and the fear falls away from him powerlessly. He is not paralyzed with fear, which shocks Norganas, who has never seen a mortal resist his power.

Norganas: 3

(Finger of Doom is NOT recharged this round)

Great Taar Haak, the Five-Headed Destroyer, joins Norganas in the hall. His five horned heads scrape the ceiling and brimstone fumes from his nostrils as he spreads his powerful claws and wings, preparing to lunge across the chamber.

In a single moment he has moved across the chamber, wings furling as he lands, claws swinging wildly!

Taar Haak swings five times: 12, 28, 17, 21, 13, alternating between Henry and Suldae's Spider for targets. His reach is alarmingly long -- easily twenty feet.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Anything but the 28 does not hit me)

GM: (So that's miss H, hit S, miss H, hit S, miss H)

Suldae's summoned spider takes 26 bludgeoning damage.

It fades instantly, fey spirit retreating to be called another time.

Flameskull: The last Flameskull emerges with its brethren and sees the Control Sphere for the Corpse Star.

It surges towards it, desperate to keep it out of the hands of the heroes.

Vasilka: "We have you, Henry. Be strong!"

Vaund: Vaund the Evasive, seeing Henry take three wallops from the mighty Taar Haak, decides to be evasive. She turns and leaves, retreating into the shadows and departing the battle.

Shield Guardian: The Shield Guardian observes the warriors arrayed against it passively, and with mechanical precision it makes some tentative blows.

FIST Shield Guardian <hr/> Attack: 27 25
Damage: 10 + 9 bludgeoning
FIST Shield Guardian <hr/>

Attack: 21 25

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(One sec, I accidentally removed these guys from initiative)

Shield Guardian:

INITIATIVE

Taar Haak

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE

Norganas, the Finger of Oblivion

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE

Yog, the Invincible

Initiative: 12

INITIATIVE

Tarakamedes, the Grave Wurm

Initiative: 6

Liliet (Suldae): ohj i think im back here

Suldae Westwind: "I'm here!" Suldae calls out to Ireena, circling behind Henry to avoid the new horrifying monstrosity out to get them. The spider's disappearance released a tug of feywild on her mind, leaving her free to focus once again but missing it painfully.

She approaches the Book of Exalted Deeds, recognizing it instantly for what it is, and carefully takes it.

Ireena Kolyana: "I can hear you! Stay touching the Seal!"

The book seems to be singing to her...

Ireena Kolyana: "I found a spell book, it's got something we're going to try -- but it's a bit beyond any of us. We're going to need your help!"

Suldae Westwind: "Got it!" Suldae calls back, carefully and respectfully tucking the book into her bag. She will keep it safe.

"What should I do?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Just keep both feet in contact with the Seal! Whatever you have to do!"

"You'll know what to do when the time comes!"

Suldae Westwind: "Alright," Suldae says.

She closes her eyes, then opens them again, assessing the situation.

Whatever Marcus and Hiere are doing over there, they can probably manage. Marcus... Marcus most definitely can. Suldae is currently left with the vague impression Marcus can manage approximately anything.

She has her own fight to fight, in the meantime.

The halo sings to her call.

26

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

Taar Haak: "AARGH!"

(Hit)

Suldae Westwind: The halo zips around the room, doing the work that needs to be done with a ringing ding.

*din

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

Poltergeist: "Oof!"

A Poltergeist is vaporized by contact with the Halo, which continues on its wild path.

(Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

13

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

Poltergeist: (Hit)

"Hey!"

Suldae Westwind: (its a nat 1)

(its not a hit)

(for once)

GM: (Ah, you are correct)

(So that's it for attacks from the Halo, but it still has the remainder of its movement speed to use up)

Suldae Westwind: The song goes discordant for a moment, as the pressure of the battle gets to Suldae's will, wavering it, and as the halo fails to strike she brings it back to her side.

GM: (So that was your bonus action and your free action, was there anything else you wanted to do?)

Suldae Westwind: There is one more thing she can do.

The note plays again, echoing only slightly quieter than last time.

9

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind

19

Higher Level Cast

14

Radiant

GM: (Alas, a 9 does not hit)

Suldae Westwind: (alas)

GM: (roll 1d6)

Suldae Westwind: The light misses again, and Suldae closes her eyes for a moment, recomposing herself, her feet planted squarely on the Seal.

rolling 1d6

(4)

= 4

GM: (Suldae can recover one feature of her choice: this can be a class or racial feature, a magic item charge, all spell slots of a given level, arrows, etc)

Suldae Westwind: An echo of exhaustion fades, as the Weave thrums around her again, buoyed by the power far exceeding her own

(my 6th level spell slot back)

EoT

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Hiere Unthere: Hiere pulls out a bag and throws it towards the shield guardian, casting a spell on it midair.

Animate Objects

Transmutation 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: Up to ten nonmagical objects within range that are not being worn or carried

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Objects come to life at your command. Choose up to ten nonmagical objects within range that are not being worn or carried. Medium targets count as two objects, Large targets count as four objects, Huge targets count as eight objects. You can't animate any object larger than Huge. Each target animates and becomes a creature under your control until the spell ends or until reduced to 0 hit points. As a bonus action, you can mentally command any creature you made with this spell if the creature is within 500 feet of you (if you control multiple creatures, you can command any or all of them at the same time, issuing the same command to each one). You decide what action the creature will take and where it will move during its next turn, or you can issue a general command, such as to guard a particular chamber or corridor. If you issue no commands, the creature only defends itself against hostile creatures. Once given an order, the creature continues to follow it until its task is complete. Animated Object Statistics

Size	HP	AC	Attack	Str	Dex
Tiny	20	18	+8 to hit,
	1d4 + 4 damage	4	18	Small	25
	16 +6 to hit,
	1d8 + 2 damage	6	14	Medium	40
	13 +5 to hit,
	2d6 + 1 damage	10	12	Large	50
	10 +6 to hit,
	2d10 + 2 damage	14	10	Huge	80
	10 +8 to hit,
	2d12 + 4 damage	18	6	An animated object is a construct with AC, hit points, attacks, Strength, and Dexterity determined by its size. Its Constitution is 10 and its Intelligence and Wisdom are 3, and its Charisma is 1. Its speed is 30 feet; if the object lacks legs or other appendages it can use for locomotion, it instead has a flying speed of 30 feet and can hover. If the object is securely attached to a surface or a larger object, such as a chain bolted to a wall, its speed is 0. It has blindsight with a radius of 30 feet and is blind beyond that distance. When the animated object drops to 0 hit points, it reverts to its original object form, and any remaining damage carries over to its original object form. If you command an object to attack, it can make a single melee attack against a creature within 5 feet of it. It makes a slam attack with an attack bonus and bludgeoning damage determined by its size. The GM might rule that a specific object inflicts slashing or piercing damage based on its form.

At Higher Levels. If you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, you can animate two additional Objects for each slot level above 5th.

10 tiny knives fly out, attempting to rip the shield guardian to shreds

rolling 10d20

$$(18 + 4 + 12 + 4 + 13 + 10 + 15 + 19 + 17 + 5) = 117$$

(what's the AC)

GM: (17)

Hiero Unthere: (7 hits)

rolling 7d4 + 28

$$(2 + 1 + 3 + 1 + 1 + 2 + 3) + 28$$

= 41

A storm of steel dances around the Shield Guardian, ripping into it from all sides. It takes substantial damage, even losing part of one arm. However, it remains standing.

GM: (EoT? Or additional stuff)

Hiero Unthere: (EoT :()

GM: (Roll 1d6)

Hiero Unthere: 5

GM: (Hiero recovers one feature, as Suldae did)

Hiero Unthere: that level 6 slot please

GM: (All level 6 slots restored)

(Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: "Oh, I think I'll be taking this. Thank you."

Marcus Veranius grabs the orb

Flameskull: "Nyooooooooo!"

Marcus feels power tunneling up his arms. The orb is clearly sentient -- and it has a master that is not him.

He senses that he will not be able to control it, but it also seems to be incapable of harming him.

Zhudun: "Ahhhh, excellent. Who has picked up my Orb? Summon me, and I shall come -- for the right price."

Marcus Veranius: "No sale. Into the sack you go!"

Marcus Veranius puts it in his backpack

Zhudun: "What? You can't--! Mffrlgrll!"

Marcus Veranius: "And as for you, I uninvite you to this party."

"SUN SWORD!"

Flameskull: "Eeeeeeee!"

Marcus Veranius:

27

28

Sun Sword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

12

Bonus Damage/Radiant

14

Radiant

30

23

Sun Sword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

6 + 8

Bonus Damage/Radiant

15 + 6

Radiant

GM: (That's enough to take it out, would you care to RP it?)

Marcus Veranius draws the Sun Sword with his off-hand, making two quick invisible swipes. None of this is seen; the ball of radiance simply grows larger, and the skull evaporates in its shine

GM: (Any additional movement/actions/bonus actions?)

Marcus Veranius: (Nope. Marcus doesn't get extra attacks with this weapon. Unless...)

((WAIT))

(Haste action)

GM: (Lol good call)

Marcus Veranius:

24

29

Sun Sword (+10)
Marcus Veranius

9

Bonus Damage/Radiant

16

Radiant

And THAT is EoT

Henry of Willowsbrook: (if you still have a working hand crossbow you can attack with it as a bonus I believe)

Flameskull: "Aiiieeee!!!"

GM: (roll 1d6 please)

Tops K.: rolling 1d6

(6)

= 6

Flameskull: (That's two features to recharge)

Tops K.: (Marcus recharges his luck as that's the only thing spent ;-;)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (action surge?)

Marcus Veranius: (ACTION SURGE TOO)

(Midnight does not recharge because Blinsky's crossbow has committed self die)

Henry's go

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the being in front of him and then around him at the other Dark Gods before sighing "This might take a while". Drawing his Pick from his belt he looks at Taar Haak "Listen, Ugly I really don't have time for this so in the spirit of expedience, Ruination" Henry growls his weapon turning into a blur

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

24

33

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

15

Piercing

6

Acid

22	30
60ft
Baleful Dragonbone Warpick
(Henry of Willowsbrook ⁽⁺¹⁵⁾)
20 Piercing	8 Acid

WHAM. WHAM. Each blow is titanous, overwhelming in force, and unerring in precision.

Taar Haak: "A worthy set of blows, little warrior! You would make me proud!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hmm wait I'mma smite on those)

rolling 6d8

(3 + 1 + 5 + 8 + 3 + 7)

= 27

(Is he undead ?)

Taar Haak: "AAARGH!"

All humor gone, Taar Haak the Five-Headed Destroyer rears to his full and towering height, brimming with fury.

(He is not undead, no)

The blast of holy power seems to have momentarily overwhelmed him.

GM: (The Poltergeists behind him are undead though)

(If you wanted to use some kind of Turn Undead feature or something like that)

Suldae Westwind: (HMM)

(hmmmmmmmmmm)

(please dont touch the poltergeists i need them lmao)

GM: (lmao)

(Hey, you might not, in a minute)

(There are bound to be loads of other critters around)

Suldae Westwind: (true!)

(yeah but are they close enough)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smirks at the reaction having timed the detonation of divine energy just after it tried to posture.

"You really should have seen that coming, atleast try to keep up would you" He says

EoT

rolling d6

(4)

= 4

GM: (That's a recharge of one feature)

Poltergeist:*FORCEFUL SLAM
*PoltergeistAttack: 8 | 23*Damage: 15 force

(Not with advantage, so it's a miss)

A spectral figure nearby swings a hand futilely at Henry. Another, farther away, points a finger at the treasure pile. The Blast Scepter takes a little telekinetic ride...

Flipping end over end, the gold and ruby scepter crashes down 12...

Missing completely. There is a massive release of energy, which scatters coins and treasure across the chamber.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We're almost ready. Ireena's reading, we just need a few more seconds!"

84

7

Poltergeist: A Poltergeist points at Henry, attempting to hurl him telekinetically.TELEKINETIC THRUST
(CREATURE)Poltergeist

The poltergeist targets a creature within 30 feet of it. A creature must be Medium or smaller to be affected by this magic. The poltergeist makes a Charisma check contested by the target's Strength check. If the poltergeist wins the contest, the poltergeist hurls the target up to 30 feet in any direction, including upward. If the target then comes into contact with a hard surface or heavy object, the target takes 1d6 damage per 10 feet moved.

CHARISMA
Poltergeist

Ability: 3

Literally nothing happens.

Suldae Westwind: (i love that Henry didnt even need to roll)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15

28

STRENGTH (9)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Poltergeist:

INITIATIVE

Amber Golem

Initiative: 15

Taar Haak: "FALL TO MY MIGHT, PUNY MORTAL!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It would have needed an 11 to even make me try I rolled just for rollings skae)

Taar Haak swings his claws five times, targeting Henry with every blow. 22, 27, 13, 14, 28

Henry of Willowsbrook: 3 hit

Taar Haak deals 61 points of bludgeoning damage to Henry.

3

Suldae Westwind: (um)

27

Suldae hears ominous tones on the air -- notes of darkness and shadow, growing once more in power.

82

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not like this, not even a little bit.

Vampire Spawn: Vampire Spawn are now pouring into the chamber from the northern vault doors, one after another after another...

Kasimir Velikov:

10

ARCANA (8)

20

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Take my power, Henry!"

Henry feels himself regaining strength... He heals for 17 points.

Flameskull: "RRRAAAGH!"

DC13*Half damageDexterity Save*38Fire150 ftFireball

A flame skull unleashes a blindly aimed fireball in the general direction of Marcus.

Marcus Veranius: Uh oh

Yog: "COME, TAAR HAAK! DO NOT TAKE ALL THE FUN!"

"GREEDY GREEDY GREEDY!"

Marcus Veranius: (Auto-pass)

(We have the dex)

Absorb Elements*Abjuration 1Casting Time: 1 ReactionRange: SelfComponents: SDuration: 1 Round

Cast when you take when you take acid, cold, fire, lightning, or thunder damage.

The spell captures some of the incoming energy, lessening its effect on you and storing it for your next melee attack. You have resistance to the triggering damage type until the start of your next turn. Also, the first time you hit with a melee attack on your next turn, the target takes an extra 1d6 damage of the triggering type, and the spell ends.

(Oh wait, nevermind. I dont need to cast this)

4

Marcus Veranius: [Marcus and Ezmerelda take 9 fire damage]

Poltergeist: Another poltergeist attempts telekinetic assault on Henry, even as Yog bears down upon him, flaming sword raised high.

TELEKINETIC THRUST
(CREATURE)Poltergeist*

The poltergeist targets a creature within 30 feet of it. A creature must be Medium or smaller to be affected by this magic. The poltergeist makes a Charisma check contested by the target's Strength check. If the poltergeist wins the contest, the poltergeist hurls the target up to 30 feet in any direction, including upward. If the target then comes into contact with a hard surface or heavy object, the target takes 1d6 damage per 10 feet moved.

CHARISMA
Poltergeist

Ability: 13

Henry of Willowsbrook:

24

STRENGTH (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Once again, absolutely nothing happens. Henry resists the attack so effortlessly that it might as well not have happened.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

6

ARCANA (3)

Ireena Kolyana:

21

ARCANA (6)

There is a rending, popping, crackling sound. In the center of the main room, above the gathered treasure, you see a vertical line of darkness extend from the ceiling to the floor.

Ireena Kolyana: "Now, Suldae! I need you!"

"Reach your power through!"

(Arcana check)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae closes her eyes and focuses, the flute's melody guiding her reach towards the Weave.

31

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

She feels her power and Ireena's connect, and all at once the distance between them means nothing at all.

With a dazzling roar, a vast portal opens in the center of the chamber.

Ireena has cast "Gate."

Instantly, half a dozen people tumble through. Luckily, there is no one you don't recognize. Ireena, Ismark, Ezmerelda, Kasimir, and Rictavio have arrived!

Flameskull: "RRRAGGGH!"

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

40

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Another blast of fire fills the hall where Marcus is, blindly fired by a Flameskull.

Rictavio:

Beacon of Hope

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Any number of creatures within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

This spell bestows hope and vitality. Choose any number of creatures within range. For the duration, each target has advantage on Wisdom saving throws and death saving throws, and regains the maximum number of hit points possible from any healing.

The moment Rictavio arrives, he bursts into an aura of glorious golden light, which fills the hearts and souls of all his companions.

Tarakamedes: "HISSSSS!"

"KILL IT! KILL THE LIGHT!"

Tarakamedes retreats behind Norganas.

GM: (Warriors of Valhalla are up)

Marcus Veranius hears his name called

Warrior of Valhalla: "THIS FIGHT IS OURS! AID YOUR FRIENDS; WE LIVE AGAIN TO DIE IN BATTLE ONCE MORE!"

GM: (Also, you got fireballed again)

Warrior of Valhalla: [Marcus and Ez take 10 damage]

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*
:
12 | 17

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*
:
19 | 19

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*
:
7 | 14

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*
:
8 | 21

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjevzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)

:
10 | 22

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjevzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)

:
10 | 24

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_CRIT)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-
mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjevzoceatkk5ue_npc_crit)

:
13 | 25

(With advantage)

GM: (6 hits)

Warrior of Valhalla:

Damage: 4 slashing

Damage: 7 slashing

Damage: 13 slashing

Damage: 15 slashing

Damage: 11 slashing

Damage: 13 + 5 slashing

Shield Guardian: With a squeal of metal and stone, the Shield Guardian collapses into tumbled pieces.

Warrior of Valhalla: "CHARGE! THE WAR IS NOT YET WON!"

Norganas: "DOOOOOOOOOOOOM!"

As Norganas glides darkly towards the party, shadow wars with light.

By the combined powers of Rictavio, Suldae, and Henry, the shadow harms none of your companions.

Norganas, enraged by your defiance, takes a wild swing at the nearest available target: Ezmerelda.

21, 19 to Hit.

Warrior of Valhalla: (Are these with disadvantage?)

GM: (Ah, good point)

27, 29 to Hit (second attack)

GM: (So a 19 and a 27 to hit)

(If she is Hasted because you are Hasted, isn't her AC boosted too?)

Marcus Veranius: (One miss after Haste/Bonding Ring)

(One hit)

GM: (Gotcha)

Ezmerelda takes 26 points of Necrotic damage.

Marcus Veranius: 13 resisted

GM: (They are not within 60 feet of each other)

Marcus Veranius: (OOF)

GM: (On the plus side, that means you don't get hit with it)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CONSTITUTION
Ezmerelda Veranius

Ability: 4

"Aaargh!"

Ezmerelda cries out in terrible pain as the Hand of Norganas rips through her soul, shredding a piece of her in a way that only a long rest can repair.

GM: (Ezmeralda's Max HP is reduced by 26 points, in addition to the damage she receives)

(The lost max HP will come back after a long rest)

Vasilka: "We are here with you, Henry! Take power!"

56

Henry feels new strength in his veins. (56 points of healing)

GM: (Alright, we're back at the beginning for next time)

(And here we should stop for today)

Ezmerelda Veranius:*CONSTITUTIONEzmerelda VeraniusAbility: 18

(concentration)

CONSTITUTION*Ezmerelda VeraniusAbility: 23

(Advantage on Con Save [Protection from Evil])

(Nevermind, ignore second roll)

Suldae Westwind:CHANNEL DIVINITY: TURN UNDEADClass: Cleric

As an action, you present your holy symbol and speak a prayer censuring the Undead. Each Undead that can see or hear you within 30 feet of you must make a Wisdom saving throw. If the creature fails its saving throw, it is turned for 1 minute or until it takes any damage.

A turned creature must spend its turns trying to move as far away from you as it can, and it can't willingly move to a space within 30 feet of you. It also can't take reactions. For its action, it can use only the Dash action or try to escape from an effect that prevents it from moving. If there's nowhere to move, the creature can use the Dodge action.

oops

GM (GM): Alrighty, the last thing everybody saw was Ezmerelda getting clawed by Norganas

It is now Suldae's turn, so go ahead and start us off

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae half-closes her eyes and focuses her will, sending the divine weapon she's been entrusted with towards its target.30*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind13Thunder*

GM (GM): (That's a definite hit)

Liliet (Suldae):

27

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19
Thunder

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

11 + 10
Thunder

GM (GM): (Hit)
(Hit)

Liliet (Suldae):

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17
Thunder

GM (GM): (Hit)

Liliet (Suldae):

26

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13
Thunder

GM (GM): (Hit)

Liliet (Suldae):

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

10
Thunder

GM (GM): (Hit)

Liliet (Suldae):

29Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind17ThunderGM (GM): (Hit)Liliet (Suldae): (is the poltergeist thing still alive?)GM (GM): (All the Poltergeists are still alive)Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)GM (GM): (Except the one marked with the red X)Suldae Westwind:*16*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind13Thunder*

(gotcha)

GM (GM): (Who's your target for that last one?)Suldae Westwind: i drew an 8 on target 2 next to HenryGM (GM): (Ah, I see it)Suldae Westwind:*29*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind15ThunderGM (GM): (Hit)Suldae Westwind:*26*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind21ThunderGM (GM): (Hit)

(Lmao)

Suldae Westwind:

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

23

Thunder

GM (GM): (Hit)

Suldae Westwind: (are you counting movement)

GM (GM): (I'm watching somebody count it)

Suldae Westwind:

13

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

21

Thunder

GM (GM): (And there it ends)

Suldae Westwind: (wow i finally missed)

GM (GM): (But use the remaining movement)

(Looked like you had about 40 left)

Suldae Westwind: The halo fills the air with thrumming as it flies from target to target with speed that strains Suldae's mind, until finally she cannot keep it up and the halo comes to rest in the same place it'd started.

(I like it where it is lmao)

Her head spinning with the tension of the battle, Suldae makes a choice.

CHANNEL DIVINITY: LIFE'S FLOURISH

Class: Cleric

At level 2, you can use your action to grant an extra attack or non-attack action to an ally within earshot that they can use on their next turn, as a standard action.

Her flute rings out a clear note that saps her strength momentarily, yet bolsters Kasimir, the wizard they can trust after all.

(also, can I see people's HP?)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is totally keeping track of who's been hurt and everything, it's not been a week for HER)

Tops K.: (Marcus is down 20 or so hitpoints from fireball rush)

Suldae Westwind: (Marcus is also only in range for the nuke super heal)
(I need more intel before I decide if I'm using up a level 5+ spell slot)

GM (GM): GONG! GONG! GONG! G-G-G-G-G-G-G-GOOONNNNGGG!!! A ribbon of light is all you see, painting the strangest trapezoids with a holy, bladed path. It whistles over the heads of her companions, safely missing all of them, and in the moment that it strikes each demon, devil, or creature of the night, it sings out a note designed to counter them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is at 95/110)

Suldae Westwind: (oh wait no he's not not even for that)

GM (GM): (Alright, final damage?)

Suldae Westwind: 13+15+19

19+13

21+17+21+23

17

13

10

Suldae Westwind: (in order of the first 6 lol)

47 on Yog, 22 on the closest poltergeist, 38+44=82 on Taar Haak

GM (GM): (I have 68 for Yog, 32 for the Poltergeist next to Henry, 17 for the Poltergeist next to Kasimir, 13 for Norganas, 10 for the Poltergeist next to Norganas, 61 for Taar Haak, Does that look correct?)

Suldae Westwind: 32 and the three who only got hit a little are right
I only hit Yog three times and Taar Haak four times, with bigger numbers

GM (GM): Isn't it 1, 3, 9, 11, Yog?

Oh no, I see the three is on Taark Haak too

Suldae Westwind: yeah
thats 13 which missed

GM (GM): Ohhhh
Gotcha

Suldae Westwind: ill delete the numbers now?

Henry of Willowsbrook: 47 on yog abd 82 on TaarHaak by my count

Suldae Westwind: yeah mine too

GM (GM): 47 for Yog, 82 for Taar Haak?

Suldae Westwind: shit
that did not work how i wanted it to

GM (GM): I was off by 21

Suldae Westwind: yeah 21 that was on one and not the other, hte crit

GM (GM): I attributed attack 3 to Yog instead of Taar Haak, and attack 3 was the critical Suldae Westwind: can you please put back tokens i accidentally'd?

yeah
should be Henry, Suldae, Ireena

GM (GM): Wait who'd you delete

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative count was 30
oh also the halo
can i have HP count for NPC's?

GM (GM): (You should have it)

Suldae Westwind: (ty!)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE Ireena Kolyana <hr/> Initiative: 6
--

Suldae Westwind: (ok everyone i can reach except Henry looks at max... hm...)

2

Higher Level Cast

14

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

The flute sings out as Suldae's magic envelops the companion she's standing next to in healing warmth.

As Suldae takes a cautious step behind him after a realization of what her weapon just did.

GM (GM): (I've taken care of the damage)

Suldae Westwind: (...UH HOLY SHIT)

EoT

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So I'm back to fullhp)

Taar Haak the Five-Headed Destroyer vanishes in a scream of black smoke. Yog staggers back a full two steps.

The Poltergeist in front of Henry ripples and dissipates, torn to shreds by light.

Norganas rears back, raising a shadowy hand, hissing in pain. The sound is like a glacier of steel wool scraping out a valley in a chalkboard the size of the material plane.

It does not like the light.

GM: (Hiere, you're there)

GM (GM): (It's you, guy)

Able: Hiere's knives drop to the ground as he trips out the door and sees 2000000 baddies in the treasure pit. "Oh." He tugs on the Weave near Yog and bits of treasure around it rise from the pile.

"CHEQUE THIS OUT"

Norganas and Yog scream as they take 10 psychic damage from the pun. They have not heard jokes so horribly mortal in centuries.

Hiere Unthere: 107

(what's tog's ac)

GM: (10)

Hiere Unthere: (that's 8 hits, w a crit)

59 ouchies

GM: (What spell are you using?)

Hiere Unthere: (animate objects)

GM: (Animate Objects oh right duh)

Suldae Westwind: ...i just realized i accidentally two bonus actions

Hiere Unthere: (EoT)

Suldae Westwind: i should not have done that

Henry's HP should be at 95 and i'm not down the 2nd level spell slot totally still hidin behind him tho

sorry

...But the Pun doesn't really hit until it starts hitting them. Literally. Coins. Cash. Mortals sometimes spend it in Cheques. One had to know that sort of thing even in the way back when, because mortals were always offering to pay with cheques, which was supposed to be a funny little joke, but boy did it make some old gods embarrassed the first time they bumped into it and accepted the cheques. The sting of the joke, of the memory, and of the coins currently ripping through Yog, causes each hit of the coins to deal an extra 13 psychic damage.

GM (GM): 163

Is all this targeted at Yog?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (where did the 104 come from

Hiere Unthere: (yeah but id I knew it was gonna be infinite damage would've prolly directed some elsewhere)

GM (GM): 13*8

Hiere Unthere: (those are the to-hits)
(wait what 104)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh he takes the 13 psych damaga per coin hit)

Yog is ripped apart with a mortal scream. Never has he fallen by mortal blade. He is paying for it now. As he realizes this, he bursts into laughter -- and a black cloud of rancid ash.

Something ruby in color rises from Taar Haak's remains, and zooms away through the western wall.

Something amber in color rises from Yog's remains, and zooms away through the same wall a moment later.

GM: (EoT?)

Hiere Unthere: (yep said that a while ago)

GM (GM): Marcus, you're up

Marcus Veranius: Marcus decides that this is a good time to start hunting for those amber coffins.
He moves south to start checking doors.

The southern door resists him, but he can tell it's not locked. Some powerful will is trying to hold it shut.

Marcus Veranius: (Would attempting to pry it open cost an action?)

GM (GM): (Most likely)

(Depending upon how you did it)

(If it's a straight-up contest of force, it definitely will)

Marcus Veranius: Nah. Marcus is going to shoot the handle off.

Hiere Unthere: (its not locked!!!)
(y u shoot handle)

Marcus Veranius: ...hinges then?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (stab em with your lightsaber)

Marcus Veranius:

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)
Marcus Veranius

4
Bonus Damage

22
Radiant

(ignore the bonus damage)

(The door is probably not undead)

Marcus Veranius points the Sunsword at the door and launches its blade as a beam of sunlight, hoping to blow the door apart.

The blade of the sunbeam sings a hole neatly through the center of the door and strikes something beyond -- a wall of coiling shadow. It bursts with a thunderous eruption of holy solar light, and a faint scream of pain rings out psychically. The door swings inwards, into a dark space where ancient power sits and hums. The dark little room is illuminated by the glow of two pulsating amber sarcophagi -- one, dripping with disease, the other, wreathed in lightning and storm.

Marcus Veranius: The space is immediately assaulted by true sunlight, which heralds their imminent doom.

"Heeeeeeeeeeeeere's Marcus!"

(Faintly): "Eeeeeee!!!"

Marcus Veranius takes more shots at the sarcophagi

Marcus Veranius:

13

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)
Marcus Veranius

22
Radiant

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

6
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

(19 to hit)

GM: (Just barely hits)

With a last-minute correction of his aim Marcus unleashes a dead-center shot that rips through the storm-cloud swirling around the southern statue, and strikes amber. Thunder rolls through the room, and rain begins to fall, and lightning flickers on the air. Zrin-Hala yet has some strength.

Marcus Veranius: Tougher than it looks. Very well, the rest of the shots then. This was going to be a slow demolition.

(Bonus action, haste action, action surge attacks)

21

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

19

Radiant

25

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22

Radiant

27

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

23

Radiant

29

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

24 + 2

Radiant

Marcus Veranius: (Split those between the two coffins if one breaks)

Light streams from the sun-blade's edge, pouring into the two amber statues. Marcus feels the first one break and turns to the next, which crumbles at the first blast. The disease and storm fade, and something in the chamber falls silent. The hum of power is gone. Zrin-Hala and Fekre are no more.

Marcus Veranius casually strides to the next door, readying himself for the next wave

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Divine Favor

*Evocation 1Casting Time: 1 bonus actionRange: SelfTarget: SelfComponents: V, SDuration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Your prayer empowers you with divine radiance. Until the spell ends, your weapon attacks deal an extra 1d4 radiant damage on a hit.

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6

(1)

= 1

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henrys weapon begins to glow with divine energy as he looks to Norganas "I think I might have smacked one of your cousins around before" He spits out "Can't say I was impressed" adn with that he hurls his Pick at it

Hiere Unthere: 6Henry of Willowsbrook:*34

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

1 + 2*Radiant19 + 5Piercing5 + 6Acid20

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

1*Radiant21Piercing5AcidGM: (Holy shit)

(A crit after a line like that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How hurt was he?)
(before me)

WHAM. The Dragonbone Pick strikes like the fist of a god, punching right through Norganas. It turns around in midair and punches through him again from behind almost casually, and on each pass through the shadows it releases a punch of sunlight and a blast of acidic magic. It returns to Henry's hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Gm Norganas is an undead yes?)

GM: (I believe he would qualify, more or less)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (well how about 12d8 for good measure)
(I still have 2 second level slots)

GM (GM):

(<https://i.pinimg.com/originals/6e/1e/28/6e1e287da53614647b9b33cc480c7a26.jpg>)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling 12d8

(4 + 3 + 6 + 6 + 3 + 2 + 7 + 2 + 2 + 5 + 2 + 4)

= 46

GM: (What form does the damage take?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (radiant of cause or are you asking visually)

GM: (No no, just wanted to confirm radiant)

Suldae Westwind: rolling 1d6

(6)

= 6

(dang)

GM: (Makes a difference for resistances)

A secondary eruption of holy flame sends Norganas toppling, knocking him completely prone. He falls like a tree, nearly squashing the Poltergeist behind him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches the Pick but he doesn't lower his arm afterwards regarding the lingering burns on the God "Burn" and light detonates out of the fresh wounds

Suldae Westwind: As Hiere's excellent pun and treasure flurry rip Yog into smoke and Henry's pick rips into Norganas, Suldae feels renewed strength flow into her.

(1 Channel Divinity please and thank you, 1 lvl 5 spell slot because i havent expended anything else yet)

(i like this fight)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (action surge for 2 more attacks)

Norganas pleads, raising a hand against the light. "Nooo.. Pleeese!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait is he prone prone?9

GM: (Ye)

(But he's, like... 16 feet tall)

(So I think you'd still have a relatively easy time hitting him)

(Although there are those piles of treasure in the way)

(That might actually provide a certain degree of cover if he's prone)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh but I get advantage in meele right?)

GM: (Yes, in melee you would have advantage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: melee)

Suldae Westwind: (oh boom)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry calmly walks over to the fallen god, gold and gems crouching under his light footfalls

Despite the God still being taller than him he looks down on it with a contempt full smirk "Out of curiosity as begging ever worked on you?"

Suldae Westwind: (oh snap)

Norganas grins and laughs, maw suddenly full of razor-sharp teeth of moonlight. The shadowy form explodes, enveloping a ten-foot-radius in tendrils of darkness, which attempt to restrain Henry (DC 20 Strength save).

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 4

STRENGTH SAVE (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Hiere Unthere: (gg)

Henry is mightier than the darkness, and rips his way free. Norganas's laugh becomes a growl of fear.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "See because I don't think pleading ever made you stay your hand" He continues shrugging of the grasp with seemingly no effort "So why should it stay mine?" and without waiting for a reply Henry's weapon turns into a violent blur digging into the God once more

30		21
60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)
Henry of Willowsbrook

3
Radiant
15		5
Piercing		Acid

32		23
60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)
Henry of Willowsbrook

2
Radiant
14		9
Piercing		Acid

Norganas: "Mighty... Words!"*

Norganas struggles, still strong enough to fight.

"I shall eat your soul!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You'll try" Henry says rolling his shoulder

EoT

Vampire Spawn: The Vampire Spawn, seeing Henry leave the area, swerve sharply towards the smallest available target -- Suldae.

Drawing long knives of silver they screech as they sprint in.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (whoops sorry Drama called me away)

Suldae Westwind: (I was just about to comment that my shield left)
(but i mean now he's instead standing between Norganas and Ireena)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(6)

= 6

Vampire Spawn:

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 10

Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 13 slashing

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 10

Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 8 slashing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ActionSurge and one level2 slot are back)

The first Vampire to reach her is ineffective, she stabs at Suldae furiously but Suldae dances neatly out of the path of her blade.

GM: (What would you like Ezmerelda to do?)

Marcus Veranius: (I am already managing Marcus and the 7 Merry Men. Can you handle Ez's actions?)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is fully okay with this)

(i typed this at the same time as the rest for hte record)

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda, seeing the Vampires coming Suldae's way, pushes through Rictavio and Ismark and reaches out a casual hand. "Oh no you don't."

A massive beam of sunlight light rips through the space, and remains hanging there, scalding the vampire in its path and barring the others from reaching Suldae.

DC14

Constitution Save

32
Radiant

Self (60-foot line)

Sunbeam

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Isn't Sunbeam concentration?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, in a feat of elven dexterity, flashes her a thumbs-up without dropping the flute.

GM: (Oops, is she concentrating on something else important?)

Ezmerelda Veranius: (Haste o-o)

GM: (Ah)

(Well, in that case, this won't work)

Suldae Westwind: (alas)

RETCON FLASH

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hold it!"

Hold Monster

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 90 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A small, straight piece of iron)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Choose a creature that you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be paralyzed for the duration. This spell has no effect on undead. At the end of each of its turns, the target can make another Wisdom saving throw. On a success, the spell ends on the target.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 5th. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Marcus Veranius: (Also concentration)

Ezmerelda Veranius: Dammit all the good ones are

DC14

Half damage

Dexterity Save

19

Lightning

Self

Lightning BoltSuldae Westwind: (all the good ones are)

(thats the story of my spell list)

Vampire Spawn:

DEXTERITY

Vampire Spawn

Ability: 21 | 13*GM: (Not supposed to be at disadvantage, going with first roll)Vampire Spawn *nimbly dodges the lightning bolt completely, twisting almost flat on their back to glide-limbo underneath it.Poltergeist:TELEKINETIC THRUST
(CREATURE)

Poltergeist

The poltergeist targets a creature within 30 feet of it. A creature must be Medium or smaller to be affected by this magic. The poltergeist makes a Charisma check contested by the target's Strength check. If the poltergeist wins the contest, the poltergeist hurls the target up to 30 feet in any direction, including upward. If the target then comes into contact with a hard surface or heavy object, the target takes 1d6 damage per 10 feet moved.

CHARISMA

Poltergeist

Ability: 2*Ireena Kolyana:*7*STRENGTH SAVE (4)

10STRENGTH (0)*GM: (Oh, hang on that should be a check)

(There we go)

Once again a Poltergeist attempts some telekinesis, only to have it thwarted by physics.Vampire Spawn:*DAGGERS
*Vampire SpawnAttack: 7Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.Damage: 6 slashingDAGGERS
*Vampire SpawnAttack: 13Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.Damage: 11 slashingAnother Vampire attempts to stab Suldae only to find her a very gifted dancer.Poltergeist: An enraged and injured Poltergeist tries to make Henry fly away.Suldae Westwind: (i love these rolls)Poltergeist:*CHARISMA
*PoltergeistAbility: 13*Henry of Willowsbrook:*18*22*STRENGTH (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook28*20*STRENGTH (9)
Henry of WillowsbrookSuldae Westwind: (also just in case bringing up that Suldae's AC includes her dragonscale armor)Poltergeist: "GRRAAAAGH!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sorry was not supposed to be at advantage or twice)

Yrrga: 4

 Khirad: 94

"I HAVE RETURNED, MORTALS!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Which clown was that again?"
"

 Delban: 25

 Drizlash: 9

Taar Haak: 18

Zrin-Hala: 49

 Kasimir Velikov: "Thank you, Suldae!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Didn't Marcus smash Zrin-halas coffin?)

GM: (Whoops, you're right

 Kasimir Velikov:

DC16

Dexterity Save

31

Lightning

150 feet

Chain Lightning

 Marcus Veranius: (Kasimir has an extra spell this turn ft Suldae)

 Kasimir Velikov Kasimir whirls and unleashes lightning with both hands. Bolts branch out from the first impact and strike other targets, pinging all the Vampire Spawn at least once, and the two before Suldae twice each.

 Vampire Spawn:

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 4

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 12

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 16

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 22

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 13

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 7

Vampire Spawn:

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 21

DEXTERITY
Vampire Spawn

Ability: 12

Two of the Vampire Spawn are able to avoid the lightning completely, but the ones before Suldae crackle in the stream, and the two near the middle of the room are also unable to avoid being struck.

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 25
Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the
target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 8 slashing

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 23
Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the
target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 8 slashing

A Vampire spawn races in and stabs Suldae twice, for 16 points of silvered piercing total.

Vampire Spawn: Crowding in now around her, the Vampires begin to get the hang of her dodging.

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 11 | 8
Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the
target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 10 slashing

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 10 | 8

Instead of dealing damage, the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 6 slashing

The new arrival misses anyway.

Vampire Spawn:

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 21 | 21

Instead of dealing damage, the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 7 slashing

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 19 | 25

Instead of dealing damage, the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 10 slashing

The next to arrive does not, inflicting an additional 17 points of silvered piercing damage with two well-aimed stabs.

Dahlver-Nar: 6

Amber Golem: "WHAT'S ALL THIS NOISE?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is dodging for dear life, feeling the knives slide against her armor as she does not allow the blows to land directly... but there is only so much space for her to dodge in, and evading one attack brings her right into the path of another two.

Amber Golem:

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 13 | 12

Damage: 21 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 11 | 19

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

Suldae Westwind: (oh i like this)

You hear two dishearteningly loud WHOMPs -- the sound of Four Ghouls getting their heads smashed like watermelons.

Amber Golem: A massive Amber Golem emerges from the vault chamber to the north.

Yorhish M'wahassa: (Henry gains a natural 20 from Yorhish, grown just for him.)

The Flameskulls, seeing Marcus casually destroying private property, immediately start trying to bombard him with fireballs again.

Flameskull:

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

34

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Marcus Veranius: (How many of those do they have!?)

GM: (Soooo many)

Marcus Veranius: (Absorb elements for half, Marcus passes for another half)

Yog: 49

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh shit guys, there's so much going on!"

Suldae Westwind: "You don't say!" Suldae yells out from her Vampire Corner

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Right, Eldritch Blast it is!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ya think!?"

Ismark Kolyanovich:

17

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

13

25

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

721

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

14

Three bolts of fire spring from his hand, striking the vampire nearest to him. This requires him to shoot past Ezmerelda, which he does very carefully.

Poltergeist: "Rrragh!"Warrior of Valhalla: "DONT YOU RUN FROM US!"

Opportunity Attack

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjevzöceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)

:

14 | 13Damage: 15 slashingPoltergeist:

TELEKINETIC THRUST
(CREATURE)
Poltergeist

The poltergeist targets a creature within 30 feet of it. A creature must be Medium or smaller to be affected by this magic. The poltergeist makes a Charisma check contested by the target's

Strength check. If the poltergeist wins the contest, the poltergeist hurls the target up to 30 feet in any direction, including upward. If the target then comes into contact with a hard surface or heavy object, the target takes 1d6 damage per 10 feet moved.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who's the geists target?)

Vampire Spawn: The Vampire Spawn ducks easily under the Warrior's axe and sprints for Marcus, swinging his knives.

Poltergeist: The Poltergeist attempts to fling Henry once again.

CHARISMA
Poltergeist

Ability: 4

Henry doesn't notice.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's cloak billows dramatically at the attempt

Suldae Westwind: (these guys just aren't very confident in themselves)
(they need a self-esteem seminar or something)

Death Slaad:

(Self Only) Invisibility, At Will Illusion 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (An eyelash encased in gum arabic)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

A creature you touch becomes invisible until the spell ends. Anything the target is wearing or carrying is invisible as long as it is on the target's person. The spell ends for a target that attacks or casts a spell.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 3rd level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 2nd.

The Death Slaad fades from view.

Flameskull: The Flameskull, seeing the Vampire charging in, decides not to obliterate the hallway with a fireball. It looses its eyebeams in the general direction it thinks Marcus might be in, instead.

FIRE RAY*FlameskullAttack: 21 | 14Damage: 12 fireFIRE RAYFlameskullAttack: 19 | 21Damage: 11 fireBoth beams miss by yards.Rictavio: Rictavio touches Ezmerelda, casting Death Ward.Death WardAbjuration 4Casting Time: 1 actionRange: TouchComponents: V, SDuration: 8 hours

You touch a creature and grant it a measure of protection from death. The first time the target would drop to 0 hit points as a result of taking damage, the target instead drops to 1 hit point, and the spell ends. If the spell is still in effect when the target is subjected to an effect that would kill it instantaneously without dealing damage, that effect is instead negated against the target, and the spell ends.

Ireena Kolyana: (Is Ireena concentrating on anything important?)Henry of Willowsbrook: (Don't think so)

(Ez has Haste and Kasimir has greater Invis on Marcus)

Ireena Kolyana:*Wall of ForceAbjuration 5Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: A point you choose within rangeComponents: V, S, M (A pinch of powder made by crushing a clear gemstone)Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

An invisible wall of force springs into existence at a point you choose within range. The wall appears in any orientation you choose, as a horizontal or vertical barrier or at an angle. It can be free floating or resting on a solid surface. You can form it into a hemispherical dome or a sphere with a radius of up to 10 feet, or you can shape a flat surface made up of ten 10-foot-by-10-foot panels. Each panel must be contiguous with another panel. In any form, the wall is 1/4 inch thick. It lasts for the duration. If the wall cuts through a creature's space when it appears, the creature is pushed to one side of the wall (your choice which side). Nothing can physically pass through the wall. It is immune to all damage and can't be dispelled by dispel magic. A disintegrate spell destroys the wall instantly, however. The wall also extends into the Ethereal Plane, blocking ethereal travel through the wall.

"Suldae!" Ireena shouts, releasing Wall of Force. Instantly a barrier of pure force cuts between Suldae and the Vampires. "Tell me when to drop it!"

Warrior of Valhalla begin charging into the main chamber, but lack the speed to make contact this round.

GM: (Warriors of Valhalla are up)

Warrior of Valhalla: (Dash actions are taken for further movement, but keep going with Tarry's turn)

Tarakamedes: "Come here, impertinent one!"

TONGUE (~-
M87XLDf7SPNHINJT7BW|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M88GLAMEH81T7PARUJ6_NPC_DMG)
Tarakamedes, the Grave Wyrn

*Attack (~-
m87xldf7spnhinjt7bw|repeating_npcaction_-
m88glameh81t7paruj6_npc_dmg)*

:

17 | 16

If the target is Medium or smaller, it is grappled (escape DC 15), pulled up to 30 feet toward the canoloth, and restrained until the grapple ends. The canoloth can grapple one target at a time with its tongue.

Henry feels a powerful tongue lightly bounce off his armor.

"Fegh! Disgusting!"

"Acidic!"

Tarakamedes flies away with a supernatural burst of speed.

Norganas: 5

Norganas is not strong enough to perform his Finger of Doom on Henry, but he still strikes twice with his claws.

20 and 26 To hit, for 36 and 38 Necrotic, and a DC 21 CON save to avoid hit point maximum reduction.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Isn't he at disadvantage because prone or not?)

Norganas: He's sort of amorphous, him being prone was a ruse that didn't end out like he expected

Henry of Willowsbrook: (okay)

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or Charisma checks due to a spell, a feature, or another magic item effect, grants a +5 to Intimidation checks instead.

Only 19 damage

GM: (And the DC 21 CON save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Which you pass)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that would be dc10 concentration right?)

GM: (Yes, I believe so)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(Divine favor is still up)

Vasilka: "Take this..." (Henry receives his level 2 spell slots again.)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(No Fog of War)

(Better?)

Tops K.: (I'm gunna pretend I don't see the extra chamber I didnt account for in my master plan)

GM: (Please do)

(Are things running better without the Fog of War?)

Liliet (Suldae): As Suldae painfully realizes she cannot dodge five attackers at the same time perfectly, the flute thrums in her hands, offering help with a melody she'd not known before - of mist and aether, and clouds dispersed by the wind only to form elsewhere.

Trusting the mournful notes of it, Suldae takes a step.

A whirl of holy light and song is left spinning where she was.

(well, it loaded)

(Flute) Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

GM: (I've simplified the map, too)

Tops K.: (Somewhat?)

Liliet (Suldae): (can i cast a bonus action spell as a main action)

GM: (That's a good question)

Marcus Veranius: (Base rules, no)

Suldae Westwind: (or alternatively direct the halo as a main action)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also no but you are wllaed of from the vampire spawn by Ireenas wall of force so you can just walk walled

Suldae Westwind: oh

i didnt see that

GM: (She also indicated that you could tell her the moment you wanted her to drop it)

Suldae Westwind: (ok yeah i just hadnt seen anything since the death slaad's invis) retcon then

Suldae runs towards Ireena and taps her on the shoulder, indicating it's a good time to drop the spell, as the halo left spinning idly in the air behind her blazes with holy light.

22

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena instantly drops the Wall of Force.

Suldae Westwind:

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(does this hit?)

GM: (Just barely)

Suldae Westwind:

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

22

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

30

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17*ThunderSuldae Westwind: (after two hits the 6/8 poltergeist is dead, right?)GM: (He's dead after oneSuldae Westwind: (oh)

(then i move the 8 to another poltergeist)

14Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind12Thunder*

(does... this hit)

GM: (Just barely lmao)Suldae Westwind: (beautiful)

(is #8 dead)

GM: (Yes)Suldae Westwind: (ty)

(lmao i might run out of bounce targets)

21Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind20Thunder20*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind12Thunder*

For the first time in the fight, the halo runs out of momentum as it completes the circuit by spinning around its wielder.

Ireena Kolyana: "Jeez," says Ireena. "Hi Suldae."Suldae Westwind: 12+12+15 on NorganasGM: (This time I applied the damage as we went along)

(Just easier)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah it really is ty)

GM: (I believe that still leaves your main action?)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

Suldae carefully considers the situation, and in light of a careful evaluation of priorities and synergy of targeting, decides to blast the biggest targest available with the strongest spell she has.

15

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind

18

Higher Level Cast

9

Radiant

(guess whomst)

(...yeah)

Well, that worked. She puts her back against Ireena's as she surveys the battlefield.

Norganas is vaporized with the flick of a wrist and a blast of light.

Suldae Westwind: ...She's not sure where the Valhalla warriors came from - kind of a lot happened - but she definitely appreciates that.

An orb that radiates darkness rises from the ashes of Norganas, and flies away through the southwestern wall.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae notes the direction.

...okay, yeah, she could have guessed that.

GM: (EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (Don't forget to roll 1d6)

Suldae Westwind:

()

=

GM: (Hiere, you're here)

Suldae Westwind: (nice)

Oddly, the divine energy that obliterated Norganas's current form did not feel like it took anything out of Suldae at all.

(boom, my 6th level spell slot is back)

Able: Hiere nods at the death slaad in agreement

Death Slaad: "Very well then. Lead the way."

"Or point the way, I suppose."

Marcus Veranius prepares to open another door, ignoring the fast-approaching horde of monsters behind him.

The door once again resists him, a force on the other side struggling against his hand.

Able: 2 mmm spell slots

GM: (Oh well)

Marcus Veranius: "Hmm, the door's stuck on this one too."

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

19

Radiant

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

6

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

There is a scream from the shadows beyond, and the door bursts apart.

Able: Hiere points across the chamber at Tarakmedes, "he look tasty?"

Inside is a chamber -- two sarcophagi missing, one still seated there, glowing with darkness, wrapped in a necrotic aura.

Marcus Veranius: Just one in this chamber? Oh well, just meant he could tackle the other a bit sooner.

Marcus Veranius held the Sunsword aloft, firing beams of sunlight to pierce through whatever dark aura shielded the sarcophagus.

Marcus Veranius:

25

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22

29

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21 + 4*RadiantTarakamedes: "Aaaargh!"

The cry comes from the western hall, where Tarakamedes was preparing his next attack.

He still stands, but it is clear he has been dealt a nearly mortal blow.

Marcus Veranius: (He's the corpse-wyrm, right? Can I apply favored enemy undead?)*Inside the chamber, Marcus sees the sarcophagus yet standing, obstinate in its shadows. It is weakening, he can sense that.GM: (Sure, why not)Marcus Veranius: rolling 3d8+8 Bonus damage VS undead

(3 + 8 + 7)+8

= 26*Marcus's hate for the undead burns, feeding the sun-blade, which delivers it as a final blast of fury that cracks the sarcophagus. Tarakamedes screams in pain and collapses.Able: "oh"Marcus Veranius: "Hiere, I'm jumping out. Can you finish things here?"Hiere Unthere: Hiere gives him a thumbs up*Marcus Veranius grins, and spreads illusion-hidden wings aloft. He takes off for the other chamber flying above the battlefieldMarcus Veranius: [Haste Action: Dash. 50x2 ft doubled by Haste,GM: (Lmao)Marcus Veranius: x (https://66.media.tumblr.com/f5473640d7d8113d38c1cbcf3fd7658/tumblr_pgizvaObJl1w4o2dko3_500.gifv)

In the main room, all they see is an aura of sunlight streaking across akin to the sun

[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: IS THAT SOHenry of Willowsbrook: (roll d6 Sunny boi)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6

(4)

= 4

[Action Surge returns]

Suldae Westwind: (hell yeah)

The remaining vampire cringes away from the sunlight, feeling their regenerative abilities fade.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (on 5 you get 1 and on 6 2)

Marcus Veranius: (I was told it was on 4 and 5)

(On 4 you also get 1)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Wait really?)

GM: (That was me, sorry)

(Yes on 4 you also get one)

Marcus Veranius: I just enjoy talking as Marcus from time to time to freak everybody out

GM (GM): I was going to do the gif of him flying like the reaper here but the gif didn't work in Roll20

Boo

GM: (Henry, you're up!)

(The field of targets is thinning)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is that plotergeist alive?)

Suldae Westwind: (should be on its last legs but seems so)

GM: (It is at 2 HP)

(You could probably kill it with a sternly-worded one-liner)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns around to look at the Vampire spawn hurling his pick at it

27

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

2

Radiant

16

Piercing

2

Acid

29

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)
Henry of Willowsbrook

4
Radiant

14
Piercing

4
Acid

Vampire Spawn: The Vampire Spawn roars, spitting blood in Henry's general direction.
(Severely wounded)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (one level 2 smite

rolling 4d8

(8 + 5 + 7 + 6)

= 26

GM: (That's enough to evaporate it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to follow what he assumes to be Marcus sending a side long death glare at the poltergeist

GM: (Make a performance or intimidation check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

25 + 1 | 10 + 1

INTIMIDATION (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Poltergeist:

CHARISMA
Poltergeist

Ability: 20

The Poltergeist is strong against the glare for a moment, but something in it breaks his will. He dissipates like smoke.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the short reprieve to settle his breathing (Using Second Wind) and follows Marcus down the western hall EoT

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level (1).

3
Radiant

12
Healing

Second Wind
Henry of Willowsbrook

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, that was quick," Ezmerelda says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(1)

= 1

Ezmerelda Veranius: She follows Marcus at a flat sprint.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Yrrga: 3 \

Suldae Westwind: They went from being surrounded by enemies to being surrounded by corpses... well, mostly small ash piles... in less than half a minute.

She still feels the encouraging warmth of divine power keeping up her strength, but her head is spinning.

Khirad: Khirad sees Marcus Veranius charging into the hall, and moves smoothly through the northern door without breaking it, passing through the solid frame like a ghost.

Khirad releases two spheres of shadow that lance towards Marcus with incredible speed.

It seems Khirad can see him, now.

15 to Hit, 19 to Hit, for 23 and 38 Psychic.

Both orbs miss wildly.

"Rragh! Hold still, little pigeon!"

Marcus Veranius: Marcus flies out of their path, grinning widely

Delban: 97

Marcus Veranius: "No, I don't think I will."

Drizlash: 14

Dahlver-Nar: 16

"RRAGH!"

"I HAVE RETURNED, MORTALS!"

Amber Golem: "No, really now! What is all this ruckus? Stop killing each other!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sighs with a shiver through her frame. She has not been enjoying this.

Amber Golem: "Right, that's it! Everybody back in your cells, or I'm smashing every last one of you!"

Suldae Westwind: "We're really sorry, sir!" she calls out.

Warrior of Valhalla: "HARK! MORE GIANTS APPROACH!"

Amber Golem: "Hey, you're not naive undead! You can't be here!"

Suldae Westwind: "Please, can we just smash them and then it'll be peaceful and quiet?"

Warrior of Valhalla: "WE SHALL SING OF YOUR DEATH TO THE HALLS!"

Amber Golem:

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 21 | 15

Damage: 27 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 22 | 17

Damage: 17 bludgeoning

Suldae Westwind:

24

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Hiere Unthere: Hiere looks at the vampire across from him."what the fuck is happening"

WHAM, WHAM. The Amber Golem swings its fist so furiously that each blow sweeps through both of the nearest Valhallan warriors.

Warrior of Valhalla: "SKOL! WE FIGHT!"

Amber Golem: "Well, I never! You lot, you're not from around here either! This area is restricted! You can't be here. How much have you seen?"

Suldae Westwind: "It was the lich!"

"He thought we could be here, we're really sorry!"

*said

Amber Golem: "Well, if you really did have Tenebrous's permission to be here, you'd know the password. So what is it?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses on her experiences with Tenebrous, trying to figure out if he ever did tell them one or mention something that could be one.

(is memory wisdom or intelligence)

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Here, Henry! Take this!" (Henry receives another Nat 20).

Flameskull: The Flameskulls, robbed of their prey, turn towards Hiere Unthere, enraged.

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save31
Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Suldae Westwind: (Is memory wisdom or intelligence? I'm going to roll to remember the password because it's been like a month and if i try to reread it'll take like another hour for it to load)

GM: (Intelligence)

Suldae Westwind: rolling d20

(7)

= 7

...+3

Flameskull:*Eldritch BlastEvocation CantripCasting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: A creature within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

Eldritch Blast*Evocation CantripCasting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: A creature within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

Eldritch Blast

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

A beam of crackling energy streaks toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d10 force damage. The spell creates more than one beam when you reach higher levels: two beams at 5th level, three beams at 11th level, and four beams at 17th level. You can direct the beams at the same target or at different ones. Make a separate attack roll for each beam.

Suldae Westwind: 10 total

Flameskull:

23

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

13

27

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

14

17

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

10

Hiere Unthere: oh god

Suldae Westwind: rip

Suldae is unable to recall ever hearing anything that could be construed as a password.

Ismark vaporizes a Ghast with three well-aimed Eldritch Blasts.

Suldae Westwind: "Sir, I'm sorry, he couldn't remember his own name... if he was supposed to tell us anything, he didn't."

"But, I mean, if he didn't let us here, how would we even have gotten here?"

15

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Hiere Unthere:

7

DEXTERITY SAVE (3)

Vampire Spawn: The Vampire Spawn runs to wards Hierie and hurls both daggers from a slight distance right as Hierie fails the save against the fireball.

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 9 | 21

Instead of dealing damage, the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 8 slashing

DAGGERS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 12 | 15

Instead of dealing damage, the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

Damage: 8 slashing

GM: (Wait -- not with advantage)

(So 9 and 12)

Hiere Unthere: misses phew

Death Slaad: "Where do you want me?"

Hiere Unthere: "preferably in a position to get rid of these dudes first" he points to his assailants

Amber Golem:

INTELLIGENCE

Amber Golem

Ability: 13 | -3

"Hmm... He was pretty forgetful."

"Alright, I'll let you pass with a warning."

He turns back to continue smashing the Valhallan warriors, considering that a separate matter.

Suldae Westwind: Well, that went about as well as it could have, Suldae decides.

Death Slaad:

GREATSWORD

Death Slaad

Attack: 24 | 28

Damage: 9 slashing + 10
necrotic

GREATSWORD

Death Slaad

Attack: 11 | 12

Damage: 16 slashing + 11
necrotic

The Death Salad swings its massive great sword twice.

The first hit strikes the Vampire Spawn nearest to Hiere, but the second misses by a wide margin.

Flameskull: "BURN!"

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

29

Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Death Slaad:

DEXTERITY

Death Slaad

Ability: 19 | 8

Rictavio:

4

Higher Level Cast

8

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word

"Cheer up, Suldae," says Rictavio pointlessly. Suldae feels a little better for some reason.

Ireena Kolyana: "Let's go kill some dark gods!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods. She does feel a little better.

And that's a slogan she can go for!

Warrior of Valhalla: "ANOTHER GIANT FALLS TODAY!"

Warrior of Valhalla start surrounding the Amber Giant, preparing reckless swings

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANpGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
12 | 7

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANpGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
24 | 22

GREATAXE (~-
MAMdUB1wUEfANpGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
7 | 14

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
7 | 9

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
14 | 18

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
8 | 15

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
24 | 9

(With advantage)

GM: (Everything below a 17 misses)

Warrior of Valhalla:

Damage: 10 slashing

Damage: 11 slashing

Damage: 12 slashing

GM: (Looks like 3 hits)

Amber Golem: The Amber Golem hardly notices the blades of the Warriors, which chip at its amber form rather futilely.

Norganas: Norganas attempts to regain strength... 1

Hiere Unthere: LMAO

Suldae Westwind: (beautiful)

Vasilka: Vasilka says: "Henry, we found the sword you dropped. I believe it can be purified."

"I will attempt to bathe it in the holy waters of the pool here, in Krezk. It may turn out to be of some use."

GM (GM): (Hi y'all)

(Suldae, fuck somebody up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Heyho

Tops K.: (Ghoul wants to interrupt the Viking Fight fight! STOP THEM)

GM (GM): (Suldae, roll Performance)

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae Westwind|skill-dropdown

Suldae Westwind|skill-dropdown

Suldae Westwind|skill-dropdown

12

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

15

PERFORMANCE (10)
Suldae Westwind

Able: Hiere reaches into his bag and throws more tiny knives at the injured flameskull, dropping his control over the coins as he does so

Liliet (Suldae): (the first one is a misclick)

Hiere Unthere: (should I wait for suldae)

Suldae Westwind: (you already started)

Hiere Unthere: 136

(what's the bois AC look like)

GM (GM): (13)

Hiere Unthere: 55 damage

"OI GASMOUTH, LOOK SHARP"

WHOOSH. Blades stream from Hiere and dance over the injured Flameskull, ripping through it in seconds and moving on to the uninjured one, which they also rip right through. Both Flameskulls collapse, inactive.

Hiere Unthere: (moved 30 feet EoT)

3 I6 slot baybee

Suldae Westwind: i think 3 doesnt do it

Hiere Unthere: :(

Suldae hears the song of the Halo and catches something in the tune that she had not noticed before: It is a harmony of her own internal song, playing always alongside her. Something about the song and the connection the halo has with her makes her understand more deeply. (Suldae learns two features of the halo: it can concentrate on a spell for her, and it can instantly swap its position with hers at the end of its bonus action move/attack.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae changes the plan she had.

As she runs west, the halo rips towards the ghoul at her mental command.

(icannot select my token)

GM (GM): (Can you ping or mark where you want to go?)

Suldae Westwind: (that might be why the macro didnt work)

18

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

GM (GM): (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (does Suldae need to see the halo's targets)

GM: (No)

Suldae Westwind: It continues, ripping into the next undead.

GM: (It has traveled 70 feet so far, go ahead and roll the second attack)

Suldae Westwind:

20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

GM: (Another hit)

GM (GM): (50 feet of movement left, I believe)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i didnt mean the ghoul actually upon thinking about it)
(i tried to ping the location for like a full minute lol)

GM (GM): (Who were you targeting?)
(Oh, the vampire)
(Makes sense)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i asked about seeing because of hte other ghoul but then i checked and saw the vampire)

GM (GM): (Ok, so that's 80 feet of movement spent)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae isn't sure about the golem, so she simply brings the halo to guard Hiere's flank

EoT

rolling d6

(1)

= 1

GM: (Not going to use your action?)

Suldae Westwind: (that was 60ft of movement)

GM (GM): (Oh derp)

GM: (Marcus, you're up!)

Marcus Veranius charges forward.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll not fight you a second time. Return to death."

Marcus Veranius fires shots at the amber coffin through the open door

Marcus Veranius:

20

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

20

Radiant

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)
Marcus Veranius

24
Radiant

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)
Marcus Veranius

22
Radiant

(Luck reroll on the second)

rolling 1d20+9

() +9

= 11

...precision on the second

Marcus Veranius:

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

8
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

20 to hit using the 12

Suldae Westwind: (nice)

GM: (The AC was only 11)

(Are you sure you want to use that? I'll let you keep it if you want)

Marcus Veranius: (We shall keep the resources)

GM: (Good call)

GM (GM): 66

132

Khirad: "AARGH!"

"I SHALL KILL YOU FOR THIS, MORTAL!"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (He attacked the sarcophagus)

GM: (The sarcophagus of Khirad)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (right)

Suldae Westwind: (interesting)

GM: (Damage to a sarcophagus is doubled on any current manifestations of the dark god in question)

Marcus Veranius fires more beams at the coffin. Seems a bit sturdier than he was expecting

Marcus Veranius: (Haste action, action surge)

GM: (So while Marcus dealt one 66 points of damage to the sarcophagus, he dealt 132 points of damage to Khirad.

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

Marcus Veranius:

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

24

Radiant

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

19

Radiant

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

23

Radiant

PEW PEW PEW!

CRACK.

Khirad: "nooOOOOO!"

Marcus Veranius: "Alright, that's a bit better!"

Suldae Westwind: (I take it Marcus is still visually indistinguishable from a machine gun)

With a sound like a whirlwind breaking, Khirad dissipates into a fine black vapor.

Marcus Veranius moves into the north room, readying himself to smash the other coffin there

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Delban: "Wait!"

"Don't kill me! I will grant you power if you let me live! No pact required!"

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 recharge

(4)

= 4

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows after Marcus and seeing his onslaught of attacks turns into mist mind step heading for the western door

The western door is held firmly shut by some internal power.

Henry can tell that it is not locked, but it is pressed closed by an unholy will.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is not in the mood for games and kicks down the door

BAM. Henry's dragonhide-booted foot goes straight through the door, blasting it off the hinges.

Henry fears a faint "Eeep!"

He also hears muttering and whispers all around him...

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I still have my action yes?)

GM: (Yes)

(With his strength we'll call that door a free item interaction)

As Henry enters the room, the northern sarcophagus turns invisible, the southern sarcophagus wraps itself in flame, and the sarcophagus in the western alcove sprouts five long, dragon-like heads of living amber.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Enie minie miney, You" Henry says looking around before fixating his glare on the western one.

Taar Haak: "I can grant you power, mortal! There is no need for this!"

"I will not even ask anything of you in return."

"Only spare me! You may kill the rest."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How could I possibly say no to that" Henry says in a monotone before hurling his pick at the sarcophagus

32

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

3

Radiant

15

Piercing

10

Acid

34

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

2 + 2

Radiant

21 + 7

Piercing

6 + 4

Acid

28+42

With the very first attack, Henry's Warpick goes straight through the five-headed sarcophagus, which crumbles to a mound of glittering amber pebbles. Taar Haak screams a final time.

GM: (Who do you want to use the crit on?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the one that thought turning a stationary object invisible was a good defensive strategy)

His warpick then proceeds to plow through the invisible sarcophagus, which becomes visible as a thousand tinkling shards of amber falling to the ground. A spectral voice lingers in the falling shards.

Yrrga: "The secrets shall live on..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Action surge

"Any last words?"

Yog: "STOP."

GM: (Make a CHA save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: Imao

someone's flying on the wings of righteous fury

Henry feels the Command slip off his soul uselessly.

Yog: "FACE ME IN THE BODY, YOU WORTHLESS WARRIOR!"

"YOU CALL YOURSELF A CHAMPION? IN MY DAY CHAMPION'S DIDN'T KICK A GUY IN THE NADS!"

"DIRTY, CHEAP, LAZY HERO!"

"VIRGINS BRAVER THAN YOU WERE BLED ON MY ALTARS!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Damn that's gonna be a pain to turn into rhyme for the plays" Henry says before his muscles tense again to unleash Death

22

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)
Henry of Willowsbrook

1

Radiant

20
Piercing

11
Acid

31

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)
Henry of Willowsbrook

2

Radiant

15
Piercing

2
Acid

SMASH, SMASH! Henry's Warpick turns the sarcophagus of Yog the Invincible to fine amber powder. Henry is momentarily snarled by flames. He takes 15 fire damage.

Yog: "Coward..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Corpse"

20 + 4CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of WillowsbrookGM: (EoT?)Henry of Willowsbrook: (EOT was just rolling concentration)

rolling d6

(1)= 1*Delban: 33

Suddenly, from the sarcophagus to Marcus's left, there emerges a cloud of frosty mist. With a crackle of magic a wall of solid ice suddenly rises from the ground, cutting off all access to the sarcophagus of Delban. A moment later, Delban's manifestation leaps through the wall like a ghost and lands, fully solid, in the room beside Marcus.

Delban: "Well, little mortal? What is it to be? Shall we be friends, or enemies?"Marcus Veranius: "Power you say?"

"I don't want power. I want to make shoes."

Delban: "Bah! Mortals, all alike. Small-minded, violent, petty."

BITE (~-
M87YM8SpLSNEBZWCKMH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87LDGCI1OVSQ01YV0J_NPC_DMG)
Delban, the Star of Ice and Hate

Attack (~-
m87ym8splsnzbzwckmh|repeating_npcaction_-
m87ldgci1ovsq01yv0j_npc_dmg)
:
15 | 16

CLAWS (~-
M87YM8SpLSNEBZWCKMH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87LDGCI1OVSQ01YV0K_NPC_DMG)
Delban, the Star of Ice and Hate

Attack (~-
m87ym8splsnzbzwckmh|repeating_npcaction_- m87ldgci1ovsq01yv0k_npc_dmg)
:
19 | 19

TAIL (~-
M87YM8SpLSNEBZWCKMH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87LDGCI1OVSQ01YV0L_NPC_DMG)
Delban, the Star of Ice and Hate

Attack (~-
m87ym8splsnzbwckmh/repeating_npcaction_- m87ldgci1ovsq01yv0l_npc_dmg)
:
19 | 26

Marcus Veranius: (Does he have a means to see through invisibility?)

The ancient evil swings teeth, claws, and tail, unerringly towards the invisible Marcus. It seems he can still see him.

However, it matters little — Marcus is light and quick enough to stay out of harm's way.

Delban: "Hold still, puny thing!"

Suldae Westwind: (also, you're a light source)

(this isnt quite on par with the strategy of turning the sarcophagus invisible but I just don't feel like it's really hard to aim with a big enough implement)

Delban: Delban raises a hand and a swirl of ice extends from his sarcophagus and grows in the doorway, sprouting horns and teeth, a tail, and meters-long claws.

Marcus Veranius: "Well you're right about the Petty bit."

The summoned ice demon acts immediately, raising a second wall of ice.

Delban:

WALL OF ICE

Ice Devil

The devil magically forms an opaque wall of ice on a solid surface it can see within 60 feet of it. The wall is 1 foot thick and up to 30 feet long and 10 feet high, or it's a hemispherical dome up to 20 feet in diameter. When the wall appears, each creature in its space is pushed out of it by the shortest route. The creature chooses which side of the wall to end up on, unless the creature is incapacitated. The creature then makes a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (10d6) cold damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The wall lasts for 1 minute or until the devil is incapacitated or dies. The wall can be damaged and breached; each 10-foot section has AC 5, 30 hit points, vulnerability to fire damage, and immunity to acid, cold, necrotic, poison, and psychic damage. If a section is destroyed, it leaves behind a sheet of frigid air in the space the wall occupied. Whenever a creature finishes moving through the frigid air on a turn, willingly or otherwise, the creature must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking 17 (5d6) cold damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The frigid air dissipates when the rest of the wall vanishes.

Drizlash: 31

Marcus Veranius: (10 FT HIGH YOU SAY?)

Drizlash:

Delayed Blast Fireball

Evocation 7

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 150 feet

Target: A chosen point within range

Components: V, S, M (A tiny ball of bat guano and sulfur)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

A beam of yellow light flashes from your pointing finger, then condenses to linger at a chosen point within range as a glowing bead for the duration. When the spell ends, either because your concentration is broken or because you decide to end it, the bead blossoms with a low roar into an explosion of flame that spreads around corners. Each creature in a 20-foot-radius sphere centered on that point must make a Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes fire damage equal to the total accumulated damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The spell's base damage is 12d6. If at the end of your turn the bead has not yet detonated, the damage increases by 1d6. If the glowing bead is touched before the interval has expired, the creature touching it must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the spell ends immediately, causing the bead to erupt in flame. On a successful save, the creature can throw the bead up to 40 feet. When it strikes a creature or a solid object, the spell ends, and the bead explodes. The fire damages objects in the area and ignites flammable objects that aren't being worn or carried.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 8th level or higher, the base damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 7th.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir points his finger at the southern doorway and a little yellow star shoots from his fingertip, whizzes past Ezmerelda's head, and zooms right under the door.

Amber Golem: "Is that amber sarcophagi I hear getting smashed?"

"We can't have any of that, come on now you rabble!"

"Let's behave! If everyone gets along, we can all be friends!"

Warrior of Valhalla: "YOU WILL NOT BE LEAVING YET!"

"WE ARE NOT DONE WITH YOU!"

Suldae Westwind: (Wait, was it Kazimir or Drizzlash that cast DBF?)

GM: (Need DC 17 Wisdom saves from the warriors of Valhalla — all of them)

(It was Kasimir, sorry)

(Drizzlash is still recovering)

Warrior of Valhalla:

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 2 | 9

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 17 | 3

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 15 | 19

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 14 | 7

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 9 | 18

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 4 | 3

Warrior of Valhalla:

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 17 | 14

GM: (All the warriors who failed the save cannot use reactions, their speed is halved, and they cannot make more than one attack on their turn. In addition they can take either an action or a bonus action but not both. These effects last for 1 minute. They can repeat the saves at the end of their mutual turn.)

Amber Golem:

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 19 | 14

Damage: 26 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 18 | 11

Damage: 17 bludgeoning

Warrior of Valhalla: "YOU FOOL! WE HAVE ONLY ONE ACTION, AND THAT IS TO SMASH YOU!"

The golem glows with a strange amber light, and some of the Warriors seem trapped in a distortion of time itself. Then the golem swings two massive fists, striking two warriors apiece with each.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Take of our strength, Henry!" (Henry regains any expended healing abilities, and 7 points of HP)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

23

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

11

20

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

14

24

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

6

Ismark releases some Eldritch Blasts at the nearest ghosts.

*Ghasts

Then he runs to catch up to Ireena.

Vampire Spawn: The Vampire spawn leaps into the air and soars over the heads of the Valhallan warriors, flying due west.

Death Slaad: The Death Slaad ribbits quietly to itself. Sadly: "I don't think he really meant it when he said I'd get those souls."

"I'd better catch up to him and make sure."

Ireena Kolyana:

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

4

Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

Ireena runs into the hallway and, after some deliberation, looses magic missiles at the icy barrier to the north. (12 points of damage to the middle section of the wall, 16 points of HP remain in that section)

GM: (Warriors of Valhalla are up)

Warrior of Valhalla: "SMASH!"

[Reckless, all attacks with advantage]

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
9 | 13

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
20 | 22

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
12 | 18

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
22 | 24

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
21 | 6

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
22 | 20

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
10 | 16

GM: (AC is 17)

Warrior of Valhalla:

Damage: 4 slashing

Damage: 4 slashing

Damage: 9 slashing

Damage: 6 slashing

Suldae Westwind: (OUCH)

GM: 23

Warrior of Valhalla:

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 19 | 1

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 12 | 10

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 13 | 19

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 1 | 3

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 7 | 12

The warriors are able to make some decent sized chips in the amber statue, but their assault is not going all that well.

Warrior of Valhalla: When you are already dead, no assaults can go poorly.

[EoT]

Vasilka: "How is the battle going, Henry? Are you in need of any assistance?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "All help would be welcome" Henry says eyeing the ice wall "I'm felling a bit drained"

Vasilka: "Take this, then. Know that it comes at some cost..."

Henry feels new life in his veins. (Henry is back at full health.)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs forward, raising the flute to her lips.

(How would Shatter interact with DBF? Does Suldae know about the DBF?)

GM: (DBF?)

Suldae Westwind: (Delayed Blast Fireball)

GM: (The fireball won't go off unless someone touches it or Kasimir releases his concentration)

(Shouldn't be affected by Shatter)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

(still, does Suldae know about it? For RP reasons)

GM: (Let's say yes)

Suldae Westwind: (also, I still cannot select the token to move it)

(ty)

GM: (Don't know what to tell you there, the permissions look right from here :/)

Suldae Westwind: (ill try reloading the page after my turn)

Suldae feels the coiled energy of the blast that's coming. She sees no reason not to contribute though, as long as she's already here.

DC18Constitution Save*14*Higher Level Cast*13Thunder60 feetShatter

Suldae Westwind

Norganas: 58

Suldae Westwind: (Another question. How does Suldae's awareness of the space around the halo work? Does the halo make decisions on its own without transmitting data and I'm controlling it sort of like a separate character?)

GM: (I'd say that's up to you. I had pictured it giving you a general sense of what it's doing and where it is based on the song)

Suldae Westwind: (ty, I can work with that :D)

GM: (She's blasting the door, right?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels the echoes of more enemies pouring into the larger chamber in the halo's song. She's still reluctant to attack the golem - it is clearly unsympathetic to their cause, but she's sympathetic to its as a custodian of the place - so the halo targets the undead vermin instead. (as for why "feel" - sound is vibrations)

21Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind17Thunder*Suldae's Shatter bursts the door on the southern chamber into splinters.GONG! The Halo strikes the midair vampire spawn.

GM: (20 feet expended)

Suldae Westwind:

18Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind15Thunder*

(is the vampire spawn alive)

GM: (Yes)

(Which target is next? Ghoul on the left or on the right?)

Suldae Westwind: (the closer one)

GONG! The halo strikes a ghoul, blasting his rotting flesh right off his bones with the fury of its sound.

Suldae Westwind: The halo rebounds back.

(Suldae says fuck vampire spawn)

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

GONG! The Halo strikes the airborne vampire spawn again. (50 feet expended)

Suldae Westwind: (is it dead now)

GM: (No)

(I will inform you when it is)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

The next ghoul is the next target.

20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20

Thunder

GONG!

The ghoul is almost blown apart by the strike, but it manages to remain standing.

Suldae Westwind: ...and back to the vampire spawn again...

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

(SULDAE SAYS FUCK VAMPIRE SPAWN)

(how much movement left)

GONG! The Halo rips through the vampire spawn a third time, blasting bits of smoldering ash in all directions.

GM: (20 feet left)

Suldae Westwind: The halo makes the last attack.

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

21

Thunder

GONG! With a final resounding note the halo strikes the second ghoul again, painting the walls and floors behind him (and some of the ceiling) with sticky black blood.

Suldae Westwind: EoT

rolling d6

(1)

= 1

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Marcus Veranius looks between the giant god and giant demon. They seemed pretty sturdy...

Marcus Veranius: "Let's see what's stronger then! Ice, or the Morning Sun!"

Marcus Veranius places the Sunsword's hilt directly against the ice wall and attempts to drill through it.

Marcus Veranius:

15

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22

Radiant

10

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21

Radiant

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21
Radiant

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21
Radiant

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

20
Radiant

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

23
Radiant

Marcus Veranius: (Luck die on the nat 1)

rolling 1d20+9

(10)+9

= 19

GM: (Each 10 foot section has AC 12 and 30 HP, and I think you only need to breach one section)

(So the first 30 points of damage goes to the wall, then whatever is left carries over to hit Delban's sarcophagus, which also has an AC of 12)

Marcus Veranius: 98 Radiant onto the sarcoughagus

196

Delban: "OW!"

"I AM DELBAN, THE STAR OF ICE AND HATE! BY MY TROTH YOU WILL PAY FOR THIS INSULT!"

Marcus Veranius: "Haha, I'm in danger."

[EoT]

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How high is the hallway and do I take damage for getting close to the wall?)

GM: (You do take damage for getting close to it, yes. The wall is 10 feet high. I believe we established that the halls are 16 feet high?)

(Actually, wait)

(You take no damage yet)

(After the wall is destroyed it leaves cold air that can hurt you though)

(If the wall had formed in your space and forced you to move, you might have taken immediate damage)

Suldae Westwind: (where is the destroyed section of the wall)

(ah i see)

GM: (The only section that has been destroyed is on the wall inside the chamber with Marcus. (There are two walls). The central portion of the outer wall was damaged by Ireena, it has 16 HP remaining)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is going to jump that wall)

GM: (So you can jump a number of feet equal to 3+STR mod if you move at least 10 feet on foot immediately before the jump. Each foot you clear on the jump costs a foot of movement.)

(Since Henry is Strongk boi, no check required)

(He has a 12 foot high jump)

(From a standing position you would only be able to jump 6 feet straight up)

(It's not clear to me if they mean that the altitude of the jump counts against your movement speed, but as written it seems to indicate that)

(Perhaps as a way to avoid people using it in concert with a climbing speed)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Taking a step back to secure a proper run up Henry eyes the top of the wall Before running and leaping over the wall.

GM: (So you need to run up 10 feet, leap 12, leaving you with 8 feet of movement at the end)

Henry soars, gliding smoothly over the wall like a leaping stag. He lands on the other side like a lump of steel.

Ice Devil: "Grrrrr"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "..yeah I got nothing just die" Henry says (I do have an angle on the devil right?)

GM: (Yes, you can get him through the doorway)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest (long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

17

22

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

1

Radiant

14

Piercing

5

Acid

22

24

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+15)

Henry of Willowsbrook

2

Radiant

19

Piercing

7

Acid

GM: (Both hit)(

Henry of Willowsbrook: (any resitances that matter?)

GM: (None seem to be apparent)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 48 damage

WHAM, WHAM! Henry's Warpick strikes the ice devil, who uses its pitchfork to attempt to defend itself — unsuccessfully. Despite the ferocity of both hits, the ice devil remains standing under the onslaught, ready to go hand to hand with Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(1)

= 1

(Damn EoT)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 Recharge

(3)

= 3

(No action surge next round)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "GET OUT OF THE WAY, KASIMIR!"

Ezmerelda lines up a shot and takes it, turning her attention away from the southern door, which Suldae and Kasimir seem to have handled, and to her husband, who seems to be in some distress.

DC14*Half damageDexterity Save*20LightningSelfLightning Bolt*GM: (16 points of damage goes to the middle portion of the ice wall)

Lightning springs from her pointing finger, bursting through the middle portion of the wall of ice and ripping through the chamber beyond, striking both Delban and the ice devil.

Ice Devil:*DEXTERITY SAVEIce Devil*Save: 20 | 14*Delban:*DEXTERITY SAVEDelban, the Star of Ice and Hate*Save: 11 | 15*"NO!" Screams Delban, as his recently rematerialized form is dematerialized once more.Ice Devil: The Ice Devil turns on Henry, slinging its trident.BITE (~-*MBULJD306NFMRKGUQ8W|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-*MBULJWN2-L9EMS1MFA8_NPC_DMG)Ice DevilAttack (~-*mbuljd306nfmrkguq8w|repeating_npcaction_-*mbuljwn2-l9ems1mfa8_npc_dmg)

:

27 | 15*CLAWS (~-*MBULJD306NFMRKGUQ8W|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-MBULJWOVKH93Z9I6BMS_NPC_DMG)Ice Devil

Attack (~-
mbuljd306nfmrkguq8w/repeating_npcaction_- mbuljwovkh93z9i6bms_npc_dmg)
:
16 | 14

VARIANT: ICE SPEAR (~-
MBULJD306NFMRKGUQ8W|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MBULJWOVKH93Z9I6BMU_NPC_DMG)
Ice Devil

Attack (~-
mbuljd306nfmrkguq8w/repeating_npcaction_- mbuljwovkh93z9i6bmu_npc_dmg)
:
11 | 11

If the target is a creature, it must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw, or for 1 minute, its speed is reduced by 10 feet; it can take either an action or a bonus action on each of its turns, not both; and it can't take reactions. The target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success

Damage: 15 piercing +
12 cold

Suldae Westwind: (dat double fumble)

Only with its teeth does it manage to chomp Henry — all other attacks fall to his defense.

GM: (Henry takes 15 piercing and 12 cold)

Delban: 12

"I WILL RETURN! DELBAN IS ETERNAL!"*

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's delayed blast fireball grows in power.

"Do you guys have that handled?"

14

120 ft

Fire Bolt (+8)

4

Fire

Henry of Willowsbrook: (That's 27/2 for concentration right?)

Kasimir Velikov: He flings an almost lazy firebolt that smacks into the ice devil, distracting it from Henry for a moment.

GM: (Yes, I believe so)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

16 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

13 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Dahlver-Nar: Dahlver-Nar closes the doors in one of the treasure chambers, sealing them from within with a cold, dark chuckle.

Amber Golem: "Come now, this is very unprofessional! You should all sit down so we can talk this through like adults!"

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 16 | 17

Damage: 19 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 24 | 20

Damage: 20 bludgeoning

The Amber Golem swings its arms: WHOMP, WHOMP, hitting four warriors of Valhalla quite firmly.

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Take strength, Henry!" (Henry regains one expended ability)

Death Slaad: The Death Slaad toadily follows along behind Hiere, invisible.

Banishment
Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: One creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (An item distasteful to the target)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You attempt to send one creature that you can see within range to another plane of existence. The target must succeed on a Charisma saving throw or be banished. If the target is native to the plane of existence you're on, you banish the target to a harmless demiplane. While there, the target is incapacitated. The target remains there until the spell ends, at which point the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. If the target is native to a different plane of existence than the one you're on, the target is banished with a faint popping noise, returning to its home plane. If the spell ends before 1 minute has passed, the target reappears in the space it left or in the nearest unoccupied space if that space is occupied. Otherwise, the target doesn't return.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 4th.

Rictavio: "BEGONE!" Rictavio intones, his voice taking on a holy power you haven't really seen before.

Ice Devil:

CHARISMA SAVE
Ice Devil

Save: 29 | 17

The Ice Devil laughs at him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is more than a little bit weirded out.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena goes back to basics, whipping out her heavy crossbow. She loads it and fires in one swift motion, loosing a bolt at the ice devil.

16

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)

11

Piercing

The bolt glances off the scaly hide of the ice devil.

GM: (Warriors are up)

Marcus Veranius: "YOU SHALL NOT GET PAST US!"

Fek

Warrior of Valhalla: "YOU SHALL NOT GET PAST US"

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION| -
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:

23 | 9

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
12 | 18

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
12 | 7

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
19 | 14

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla

*Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjavzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)*

:
24 | 15

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_CRIT)
Warrior of Valhalla

Attack (~-
mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_crit)
:
25 | 13

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoeatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
20 | 9

GM: (AC is 17)

Warrior of Valhalla:

Damage: 8 slashing

Damage: 14 slashing

Damage: 9 slashing

Damage: 10 slashing

Damage: 11 slashing

Damage: 9 + 12 slashing

GM: 73

Ireena Kolyana: 36.5

Amber Golem: "Oh now, come on! This just isn't fair! There's so many of you, and you're all so little!"

This time the warriors seem to be making significant headway in their attempt to carve the golem down to size.

Warrior of Valhalla: "YOU CHOSE TO BE A GIANT!"

"WE CHOSE TO BE GIANT SLAYERS!"

Amber Golem: "I didn't choose this, it's just my lot in life."

"Now can we all just stop fighting for a minute?"

Warrior of Valhalla: SKALL INTENSIFIES

Vasilka: "Henry, I hate to be a bother, but how are things going now?"

Warrior of Valhalla:

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 14 | 5

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 11 | 8

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 1 | 14

WISDOM
Warrior of Valhalla

Ability: 17 | 13

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we killed a handful of Ancient Evil Gods and honestly doesn't look to bad, we should finishing of the rest soonish" Henry says felling a bit akward not seeing his conversation partner "Still don't have a solid Idea of how we are gonna get out of this place"

Vasilka: "I've been working on that, actually."

"The Abbot had some notes about the temple. The roots have found a place under the mountain. I believe it is the bottom of the temple. There is a great stone seal with many markings. Perhaps by breaking this, you can escape?"

"I will make a tunnel for you, just in case you end up going out that way."

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Vasilka: \

Suldae Westwind: Suldae finds herself wanting to do approximately ten things at the same time. Pleasingly, she can in fact do multiple, but it still does not feel enough. Still, she decides Kasimir can probably handle the southern sarcophagi and runs up to Ezme and Ireena.

Vasilka: +

Suldae Westwind: There, she plays.

GM: (Sorry, fat fingers on my end)

Suldae Westwind:

10

120 feet

Guiding Bolt (+7)
Suldae Westwind

20

Higher Level Cast

9

Radiant

(oh my god)

(does... does that hit?)

GM: (Hit the ice devil? No)

Suldae Westwind: ...In her haste, she cannot quite focus on the devil to the north, and the holy power dissipates, achieving nothing but exhausting her.

(yeah somehow i thought so)

She feels an echo of malevolent power to the north of the halo, and sends it there.

22

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

(the doors first, right?)

GM: (Yes)

GM (GM): 21

WHACK! The halo strikes the doors and rebounds off, unable to breach them.

Suldae Westwind: For lack of other targets Suldae's willing to attack, the halo simply spins to the center of the chamber.

EoT

rolling d6

(6)

= 6

(oo nice)

(wow I cannot even use two of these) (5th level spell slots restored)

Suldae feels refreshed as a warm surge of holy power fills her from within, clearing her mind and momentarily chasing away the fatigue.

Marcus Veranius: "Thanks, Honey!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Anytime, babe!"

Marcus Veranius aims his crossbow to finish off Delban

Marcus Veranius:

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

20

Radiant

26

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

23

Radiant

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22

Radiant

GM: (Would you like to RP the kill?)

Marcus Veranius: After finishing off Delban's coffin, Marcus waits for the perfect moment to strike. As Henry moves in for one of his blows, Marcus shoots at the demon's knee to send face straight into pick.

A stumble forward into disaster.

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

Marcus Veranius walks over the corpse, returning to the main room. "I think that's all of them! The entire tour's worth of coffins!"

Marcus Veranius: (Haste Dash + movement)

rolling 1d6 Recharge

(1)

= 1

[EoT]

Marcus Veranius is not aware of returning foes

Marcus Veranius: Oh look, the horn barbarians are still alive!

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Where is the exit Vasilka marked for Henry?)

GM: (It's under the treasure pile)

(Y'all are aware there are still like 4 evil gods in play, right)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is not)

GM: (Fair enough lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry only knows the south west room hasn't gone boom yet)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus assumes Kasimir has them in a state of Omaiwa Mo Shinderu)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah Kaz needs to detonate the blast already, can he only do that on his turn?)

GM: (He can drop his concentration at any point, detonating it. He won't do so until he is certain it has gained enough power to really for sure blow them up.)

(Or until someone tells him to)

Suldae Westwind: "Kazimir, blast them already!" Suldae calls out.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks south truning to return to the central room "I'm about fed up with this place what do you say we get the fuck out of here" Henry says before adding "With all the goodies we can carry of cause"

EoT

rolling d6

(6)

= 6

rolling d6

(6)

= 6

Suldae Westwind: (lmao nice)

Kasimir Velikov: "As you command," says Kasimir, releasing the blast.

36

There is a blast of flames from the southern chamber and a scream of unholy pain rings through the temple. You do not hear the telltale sound of crumbling amber, however.

Suldae Westwind: "I'll finish it," Suldae tells him as the sound fades.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Not if I finish it first!"

DC14

Constitution Save23
*RadiantSelf (60-foot line)Sunbeam

A ray of light beams from her palm, striking the amber sarcophagus of Vaund the Evasive.

Suldae Westwind: "...Or Ezme," Suldae agrees as she respectfully steps aside.

There is a sound like a high, crystalline scream... But the sarcophagus does not crack.

Drizlash: 80

Kasimir Velikov: "Enough of this."

Kasimir releases a bolt of lightning.

DC16Dexterity Save*48
*Lightning150 feetChain Lightning

Suldae Westwind: "...Nice."

Lightning arcs from his hand to the sarcophagus of Vaund, then leaps to that of Norganas. It crackles over both sarcophagi for several long moments before, with a crack like the fragmentation of vast sheets of ice, both sarcophagi crumble.

Amber Golem: "Oh there you are! You lot, I'd know your type anywhere! Adventurers for sure! Can you call off your friends? I don't want to kill them!"

SLAM
*Amber GolemAttack: 30 | 24*Damage: 18 + 12
bludgeoningSLAM
*Amber GolemAttack: 28 | 28*Damage: 22 bludgeoning

Marcus Veranius: "Umm."

"I don't think I can."

"I also don't think they're really alive either?"

Amber Golem: WHAM, WHAM. The Golem clobbers a few more of the warriors.

Warrior of Valhalla: "SKALL!!!"

 Amber Golem: "Oh, well in that case I have no compunction about ending them! But you lot had better have a good explanation for why you're trespassing on wizard grounds!"

 Yorhish M'wahassa: "We have made a tunnel, Henry. The seal is mighty, it will take great strength to break it!"

 Marcus Veranius: "We're umm... with Ravenovia."

 Yorhish M'wahassa: "You will want to be sure that there is nothing left to escape before you do."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey is there anybody else to kill? I feel like I didn't get to be as badass as I usually am."

 Death Slaad: A very dejected Death Slaad continues following Hiere, who is fiddling with an apparatus of Kwalish.

 Rictavio: "That can't possibly be all of them. We will have to search the place thoroughly."

 Ireena Kolyana: "How many were there to begin with? Was anyone counting?"

GM: (Warriors are up)

 Warrior of Valhalla: "SKALL!"

"WE WILL DRINK FROM YOUR SKALL!"

```
GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
```

```
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjevzöceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
12 | 7
```

```
GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
```

```
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m|repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjevzöceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
19 | 14
```

```
GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZÖCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
```

Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_- mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
17 | 20

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZOCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
9 | 16

Warrior of Valhalla:

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZOCEATKK5UE_NPC_DMG)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_dmg)
:
17 | 18

GREATAXE (~-
MAMDUB1WUEFANPGXY-
M|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAMFGCJVZOCEATKK5UE_NPC_CRIT)
Warrior of Valhalla
Attack (~-
mamdub1wuefanpgxy-
m/repeating_npcaction_-
mamfgcjvzoceatkk5ue_npc_crit)
:
25 | 9

Damage: 12 + 10 slashing

Damage: 14 slashing

Damage: 15 slashing

Damage: 13 slashing

GM: 64

Amber Golem: "I believe the word you were looking for is 'skull', which is something that I do not have. I don't think that a skull would make a very good drinking vessel. Don't they have lots of holes?"

"You know, for the little ball thingies. Eyes."

Vasilka: "The tunnel is prepared. It will take you all the way back to Krezk. Hopefully Strahd does not become aware of it..."

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae deploys the prepared flashy maneuver and to the astonishment of the watching public appears where the halo was with a low thunder boom (not included in the package, sometimes you gotta Thaumaturgy) and a bow, as she catches the halo zooming back from where she was into her hand.

(i will refresh roll20 but for the moment still no token movement)=)

"Er," she says after gracefully spinning out of her bow and seeing the scene with the golem and the warriors. "Uh..."

EoT

GM: (Hiere, you're up)

Marcus Veranius starts casually walking towards Grandma Ravenovia's coffin to prepare his plesantries

Marcus Veranius: (Is the door stuck?)

He finds the door firmly barred from the other side.

Marcus Veranius: Wha... but they were the only ones in...

THE COLLAPSED HALLWAY! BOTHER!"

"LOOK SHARP! I THINK WE HAVE A FEW COFFINS LEFT UNSMASHED!"

"No this does not make us adventurers."

Amber Golem: "Smashing coffins!?"

Marcus Veranius flies up to the next floor and starts looking for a way around the collapsed hallway

Amber Golem: "Oh now I'm about to be quite put out by all this, I'm going to be very cross with all of you if you keep this up!"

Marcus Veranius: (160 ft of flight/scouting)

(I dunno if we need to move Marcus to another map for this)

GM: (It won't be necessary)

Marcus has a nauseatingly disorienting experience. As he flies higher into the chamber, it changes around him, shifting into the room he first saw upon entering the temple. He manages to find a side alcove but sees no obvious way to get further.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"DO WE HAVE SHOVELS?"

GM: (What does he do? There must be a way to get there)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus heals 14 HP from Second Wind ft Beacon of Hope)

[EoT, move Marcus's token wherever he ought to be]

[Un-EoT]

Marcus Veranius uses the Wand of Secrets, after healing the wails of an otherworldly entity mocking him

The wand swivels smoothly in his hand and points directly at the northern wall of the alcove.

Marcus Veranius: "Aha! That's the ticket!"

[Re-EoT]

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 recharge

(1)

= 1

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooo where do we stnad on the Golem?" Henry asks

Amber Golem: "I'm standing right here! Don't talk about me like I'm not in the room!"

Warrior of Valhalla: "DESTROY THE GIANT!"

"DESTROY THE GIANT!"

"DESTROY THE GIANT!"

"DESTROY THE GIANT!"

"DESTROY THE GIANT!"

"DESTROY THE GIANT!"

Amber Golem: "Well yes, I think we've established what you want."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay anyone that's not punch drunk wanna weigh in here?"

Warrior of Valhalla: "I drink only the blood of my enemies!"

"And lemons."

Marcus Veranius is too busy hunting coffins to chime in

Amber Golem:

CHARISMA
Amber Golem
Ability: -3 | -4

Warrior of Valhalla:

CHARISMA
Warrior of Valhalla
Ability: 12 | 10

"Very well! We accept the Giant's surrender!"

Amber Golem: "Yes, see! Your friend sees reason!"

"I will stop smashing you, you stop smashing me, and stop wrecking my temple!"

Warrior of Valhalla: "We shall prepare a pyre for the fallen Sveinbjorn Thorlaksson. He will get a kick out of it when we return to Valhalla!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...whatever" Henry finishes walking over to the pile of treasure and swaps out his belt for the Belt of Storm Giant Strength

GM: (Any additional actions on your turn?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: He also grabs Defender for good measure EoT

rolling d6

(4)

= 4

(Does anything recharge on 4?)

GM: (yes)

(One feature on a 4 or 5, two on a 6)

Amber Golem: "Right, so I'm not going to smash you now."

"And you're not going to smash me, right?"

Warrior of Valhalla: "We are happy to take your surrender at your word."

Amber Golem: "Surrender? Surrender? I didn't surrender, we agreed to a cease fire!"

Warrior of Valhalla: "You do not know the way of Valhalla."

"Those words are interchangeable."

Amber Golem: "Cultural differences, then?"

"Ah, that makes sense."

Warrior of Valhalla: "All cultures matter."

Amber Golem: "Well, in that case, yes. I will not smash you."

"But you all had better be on your best behavior! I'm watching you."

Warrior of Valhalla start moving towards the bedrooms to collect broken furniture for a pyre

Yorhish M'wahassa: "Henry, Vasilka informs me that she has found your sword and cleansed it in the holy waters of Krezk. Do you want it back?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Um sure why not" Henry says pulling his fancy new belt tight

The ground cracks at his feet, and vines rise into the chamber, bearing the unholy black blade — still black, but no longer beaming with malice.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Cool sword, Henry!"

Rictavio: Rictavio methodically begins shoveling treasure into his bag of holding.

He pauses.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah " Henry grabs it (I assume that is)

Rictavio:

ARCANA
Rictavio

Skill: 13

"Well, it doesn't seem cursed..." He mutters, and continues shoveling.

Ireena Kolyana: "So now what?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM Stat's for new not-cursed sword?)

Amber Golem: "Now hang on a minute! I didn't say you could take that treasure!"

Warrior of Valhalla march off to the eastern halls

Rictavio: "Well, you didn't say we couldn't!"

Amber Golem: "I suppose that's fair. It should have been part of the parlay."

Rictavio: "Well, it wasn't, so too late now."

Amber Golem: "No no, you're right of course. I'm just befuddled to be outsmarted so easily."

WXUDT's black blade is longer than it was before... (It has the statistics of a Vorpal broadsword)

GM: (Suldae is up again)

Liliet (Suldae): (oh my god i love him)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so d8 with option of d10 if two handed)

GM: (Yes)

Marcus Veranius pokes his head out of the secret tunnel, watching Drizlash scurry up the staircase passage. He sees the amber sarcophagus room through an open door

Marcus Veranius owes Rictavio a pint of ale for that Freedom of Movement casting Marcus Veranius: Knowing full well tripping the web would alert its owner, Marcus charges forward and reads the names of the Amber Sarcophagii. He puts four shots through Drizlash's coffin first, letting its darkness evaporate in the air.

"Well Drizlash, I guess you were correct. We will both be leaving the temple today."

"You go first. I'll close the door on my way out."

Marcus Veranius fires four shots into Dahlver-Nar's coffin and ends the temple's dark legacy

Marcus Veranius: And then he immediately collapses from Exhaustion, as Haste has worn off.

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(3)

= 3

*Abjuration 3Components: V, S, M

Revivify

*Abjuration 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: TouchTarget: A creature that has died within the last minuteComponents: V, S, M (Diamonds worth 300 gp, which the spell consumes)Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a creature that has died within the last minute. That creature returns to life with 1 hit point. This spell can't return to life a creature that has died of old age, nor can it restore any missing body parts.

Revivify

*Abjuration 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: TouchTarget: A creature that has died within the last minuteComponents: V, S, M (Diamonds worth 300 gp, which the spell consumes)Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a creature that has died within the last minute. That creature returns to life with 1 hit point. This spell can't return to life a creature that has died of old age, nor can it restore any missing body parts.

Liliet (Suldae):*Roll for HP

Roll 1: 7

GM (GM): Hey y'all

How's your week been?

Tops K.: Returned to work from my 3 month "sit out the pandemic" break

Got a bundle of free item vouchers with a thank you note from the president of the company

Zanshuken: had a job interview...sTops K.: "Thank you for keeping our stores safe and operating during these past few months!"

GM (GM): Did it come with a pay raise or a bonus

Because otherwise that just seems insulting

Tops K.: No. And under normal circumstances it would be.

GM (GM): I hope you're getting hazard pay, I hear a lot of places aren't

But I suppose money's probably tight everywhere these days

Tops K.: But I think you're missing the finer details

I wasn't there the past few months and still got the free shit

GM (GM): LMAO

Tops K.: :U

GM (GM): Well, my week has been terrible

Zanshukun: I had a job interview friday morning which was stressful

Liliet (Suldae): lmao thats beautiful

GM (GM): My grandpa's dog died of a seizure on Wednesday after being with us 14 years, and on top of that I learned that my boyfriend is most likely going to be deported if his school can't figure out some way to offer physical classes in the fall

Liliet (Suldae): im going hiking in a week for a week

i think i said that but its going to be great

oh?

O O O F

GM (GM): So yeah

Not great

Liliet (Suldae): huh. the quarantine is expected to last that long?

GM (GM): Not awful I guess

In the states? We've really fucked it up

Liliet (Suldae): i... i would set the bar for 'awful' around there, yes

GM (GM): We didn't even have a second wave, we just kept the first one going

Liliet (Suldae): :x

Zanshukun: How about something less soul crushingly depressing like Curse of Strahd

Liliet (Suldae): hahaha

GM (GM): Lmao

Works for me

Liliet (Suldae): 11:50 AM] Zanshukun: "...don't make me come over there and drag your ass out of that bucket"

[11:51 AM] Tops K: "So best behavior, please. And dim ALL lights before entering."

[11:51 AM] Tops K: Marcus proceeds to turn off the Sunsword

[11:52 AM] Able: Hiere groans, leaving Tankothy, "I'll be back for you, don't worry."

[12:08 PM] Liliet: "...empower castle Ravenloft's owner, huh?" Suldae asks thoughtfully. She doesn't miss how non-specific that is. Well, and isn't that interesting: they ended up with Raven Queen a patron through her - or at least her flock's - opposition to Strahd.

That she's a dark goddess, Suldae already knew, and pretty viscerally as of tonight. The new confirmation slots something in, if anything, helping her make a little more sense of what went down at the wedding.

Liliet (Suldae): this is where we left off in the side rp

GM (GM): Perfect, thank you

We'll pick up right there.

Marcus Veranius directs the group through the formal, stairwell entrance. It seemed rather rude to squeeze through the shortcut

Suldae Westwind: (note: I'm so glad to be working with civilized people who understand that not being rude is the only virtue that matters)

(i am being sarcastic but also not)

Upon entering the chamber, the party sees that shadows lie upon the ground like black mist, and that the western corner of the room is hidden by a vortex of swirling shadow.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives a small bow in that direction.

The Raven Queen: "Well done," booms a female voice.

Marcus Veranius: "Grandmother! I wasn't aware this was your place!"

"Not the warmest honeymoon destination, but beautiful nevertheless."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has no idea what the fuck Marcus is saying, but believes in him wholeheartedly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a seat on one of the crates remainig silent for know now

It happens suddenly. Darkness explodes from the sarcophagus, flooding the entire temple. Every source of light dies.

There is a roaring, icy wind, and you hear the cawing of many ravens.

Quite suddenly, there is a figure standing in the darkness. Her skin glows like moonlight. She is dressed like a queen, the tail of her dress and her cape of feathers trailing along the ground behind her for yards. She turns her head as though noticing the party for the first time, and Marcus sees a radiant face he cannot remember. Marcus's eyes burn when he looks at her face, and feels a pang that hurts in the deep and sacred way that only a terrible loss can.

As the party watches, the face flickers and changes. Ireena's face looks out at you from beneath the crown and veil. A moment later, a flicker, a flash -- and it is Suldae, looking regally down her nose at you. A moment later, it is Ezmeralda's. A flicker and a flash after that, and it is Marcus's.

The face changes one more time, settling on a face that looks alarmingly like Strahd's -- only older, and female, and less drawn and pale.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hesitates, then bows again, guessing this is the Queen's own face.

"Well done," she says. "I could not be more proud of you, my children. Especially you, Sergei -- why, you've found a fine companion. I could not have chosen better. Tatyana, you're looking remarkably alive and well. I hope you will forgive the lackluster quality of my previous communications -- projecting oneself is no cakewalk, and we're of two minds about everything. Welcome to what has been my home for uncounted centuries. Thank you for cleaning it out."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels really creeped out by that last one.

Marcus Veranius was hoping he could skip the song and dance of painful memories by being polite, but that seems unavoidable. The Raven Queen's gimmick.

Suldae Westwind: She glances at Ireena, holding onto her hand firmly.

Marcus Veranius: Every visit has been unpleasant in its own way, but she was technically the matron of his new extended family. Marcus would suffer whatever came later.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena seems even paler than usual. She squeezes Suldae's hand almost painfully.

Suldae Westwind: Upon consideration, Suldae wraps one arm around her waist protectively, then takes her hand again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So you wanted to speak with us?" Henry asks the Raven Queen with a dry tone

The Raven Queen turns to Henry.

"What have you done with my Wxudt?"

"Its soul no longer sings to me..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I have done nothing" Henry says

"No matter. Four of you will be enough."

"You have done well to come this far."

Suldae Westwind: Well that's not creepy at all.

Marcus Veranius attempts to force a smile over pain he cannot recognize. He had business to discuss.

Marcus Veranius: "In no small part to your aid. I would be dead a week ago in a futile attempt at vengeance."

"But your blessings kept me safe, did they not?"

"Outflew a dragon, did I not?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae keeps a neutral expression. She has more than one patron, and this one she is very, very wary of right now.

"Indeed you did."

"And you slew the beast, too — quite the feat."

"Have no fear, it was no friend of mine."

"Like all the other spirits here, it was an unwelcome houseguest that was difficult to get rid of."

"Tell me. What is it you wish to ask of me? What is it that my power might grant you?"

Marcus Veranius: "All things are exchanges. I do not ask for what isn't a mutual gain."

"Spare me your coy mortal statecraft. What is it you seek?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae almost spoke, but is now glad she did not. In matters of negotiation, Marcus is unquestionably her superior.

Marcus Veranius: "Two boons. The first of which, is to cease the flow of power between this temple and Castle Ravenloft's heart."

"You should have no problem with this, as there are no longer any second opinions within the Amber Temple."

The Raven Queen smiles at that.

She waits patiently for the second boon.

Goodness, she has a lot of teeth...

Marcus Veranius: All the better to smile with

"I suspect Strahd will not play fair. He has declared war on ravenkind. And what he cannot strip in death, he may try with cheap magic."

Suldae Westwind: On second thought, maybe Marcus isn't so good at this. Oh well.

Nothing to do but trust him, now.

Marcus Veranius: "You are the source of Wereraven Lycanthropy. I wish for empowerment. Natural Lycanthropy that no cheap magic can remove."

"You already have that. My blessing is unbreakable."

"As to the first boon... I will consider it."

"You ask me to betray my firstborn son. No matter how he has betrayed me, that is no small thing to ask a mother."

"There is something you might do for me... Something that I cannot. If you do this for me, I will consider your request."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lets out a quiet, slow sigh. Why did this have to be family? Why did things always have to be depressing?

Marcus Veranius: "I would hear this request. I too have an idea that could settle this burden. Perhaps we are of same mind?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is staring around the room, looking for the mentioned "Sergei."

The Raven Queen bursts into a cold, bone-chilling laugh.

"I doubt that very much. Tell me, what do you offer?"

Marcus Veranius: "You worry of the death of your sons. That they might leave you forever. But the laws of Barovia forbid souls from passing on."

"They reincarnate into the nearest vessel. An uncontrollable cycle. Yet very controllable."

Suldae Westwind: This sounds like a TERRIBLE idea. Suldae cannot wait to hear the rest of it.

Marcus Veranius: "This is my offer. I intend to start a family when this business is all set and done. Any child I sire will be forever bound by your blessing, and to you by proxy."

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda gasps.

Marcus Veranius: "Were I to conceive this child on the eve of Strahd's death, it would be his soul."

The Raven Queen laughs again.

"You are a clever one. Unfortunately, you misunderstand the nature of things."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stares at Marcus in disbelief

"Once Strahd dies, Barovian souls are in the hands of the outer gods. They will not reincarnate on this plane."

Suldae Westwind: Yeah, that sounds about as terrible as expected.

Though it would have made a good story.

*story

"A sweet gesture, and I am pleased that you have thought of it, but a gift that you ultimately have not the power to grant."

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda is glaring daggers at Marcus now. No doubt there will be a long conversation about this later.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Massaging the bridge of his nose Henry speaks up "What would you have us do that you can't achieve yourself"

Suldae Westwind: Oh boy. SOMEONE is in trouble.

Marcus Veranius is in danger

"There is an advisor. Traitorous, lying. It is his fault that I find myself in this accursed condition."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry also mouths 'dumbass' at Marcus

"I will retrieve him, and you will slay him for me — after introductions have been made, of course."

Marcus Veranius: "...this seems both reasonable and possible."

"If you do this for me, I will consider the first boon most seriously. I may even grant it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Who do you want us to kill for you" Henry asks suspicious

Suldae Westwind: "Can we get more details on that?" Suldae pipes up at the same time.

"All will depend on how Strahd beseeches me. If he humbles himself before me, and asks to be spared, well — no mother could resist such a thing."

"But I doubt that he will have the wisdom to do this."

"Allow me to introduce my advisor, my teacher, my dear friend: Tenebrous."

Marcus Veranius: Uh oh

Suldae Westwind: "...I am beginning to see a problem," Suldae shares, remembering what happened to him.

With a swirl of shadows the darkness suddenly rises and solidifies and falls away once more, leaving behind a lich, hanging in the vault, looking very confused.

Suldae Westwind: "...Oh, okay."

Tenebrous: Tenebrous turns around, looking bewildered.

He looks at the Raven Queen.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (um I would have to go eat now)

Tenebrous: Very feebly, he says: "Do I know you?"

GM: (Would you like us to wait for you? We could take a short break)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'll try to be quick I'll still be on discord) (still but please no Initiative while I'm gone))

GM: (Let's take a 15 minute break here, it's a good spot)

Suldae Westwind: (um, I think we could very much use a smiting paladin here)
(yeah)

Marcus Veranius: Intermission: Marcus has his first couples fight

Tenebrous: Tenebrous turns to the Raven Queen and says, very feebly: "Do I know you?"

"But of course you do, my darling. You were my master, do you not recall?"

Tenebrous: "No... I don't recall... I'm sorry." The lich stares into the distance, lost in thought. He scratches the pale wisps of his remaining beard.

"You are... Familiar. Did I hate you?"

"No, my dear."

Tenebrous: "Did I love you?"

"Not really, no."

Tenebrous: "Oh. Not that lucky, I guess."

"I'm afraid not."

Tenebrous: Tenebrous turns, seeing the party for the first time. "You! You lot! You ought to know better than to put demiplanes into collisions like that, you're archaeologists!"

"I'm afraid not, Tenebrous. They're adventurers, just like you and I were."

Tenebrous: "ADVENTURERS?" Shouts the lich, suddenly wreathed in emerald flames. Jagged rays of violet hate flicker from the hollow sockets of his eyes. A moment later, the flames extinguish, the violet fury dies away. He turns to the Raven Queen. He says: "Tenebrous. I was Tenebrous. It matters so little, now."

Suldae Westwind: "Sorry," Suldae mumbles.

The Raven Queen smiles. "It will please you to know, oh wise and knowing one, that I have far surpassed you."

Tenebrous: The lich smiles pleasantly. His stint in the astral sea seems to have done him some good — there is more flesh on his bones than before. "Why, that is good to hear! I suppose I am proud of you, although you must forgive me if I don't remember that I am."

"You remember every day, old friend."

Tenebrous: "I do?"

"Oh yes," says the Raven Queen, delicately extending a single pale and bony forefinger, "every... single... day...."

She touches his forehead, and the red stars in the hollow sockets of the lich's eyes are extinguished.

The lich crumbles.

"Oh, don't worry," says the Raven Queen, as she turns and begins to walk back to the throne, licking her finger as she goes. "He's quite unharmed. His phylactery will kick in, in just a moment. When it does, he's going to remember everything that he was, and he's going to be a difficult thing to hunt down. I have no further need of him, and he has suffered enough for his treachery, and he cannot be permitted to leave."

Suldae Westwind: "...Had you considered not doing that?"

Marcus Veranius: "...perhaps we could have destroyed that first then?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes. That."

Marcus Veranius: "He had shown us a secret room upstairs with an object he couldn't remember."
"I assumed that'd be it."

"That is his phylactery."

Suldae Westwind: "How long is "just a moment?"

"Should we be running?"

"There is time to talk. It will take him some time to reassemble himself."

Suldae Westwind: "...Can we talk after?"

Marcus Veranius: "Shouldn't we break the phylactery BEFORE he regenerates completely?"

Suldae Westwind: "I do not wish to be rude, it's just, well..."

She gesticulates with the free hand vaguely.

The Raven Queen laughs. "Go, go. Do what I have asked, and return to me here."

"Silly, fear-filled little mortals," she mutters to herself, walking back towards her sarcophagus.

With a flash of amber light she is gone, and so is the darkness that has filled the temple until now.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Light have mercy on us all" Henry sighs out after watching things unfold

Marcus Veranius tips his hat, shoots Ez puppy dog 'I did a bad' eyes, and runs upstairs

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs upstairs, which is somewhat difficult to coordinate while still hugging Ireena, but she manages.

Marcus Veranius: "I KNEW I should have destroyed that thing before taking a rest!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows legs digging into the floor due to hi in human strength

Marcus Veranius: "Thought the lich was one of the coffins. I've thought wrong on a lot of things today!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Cheer up theres plenty of day left to be wrong in"

Marcus Veranius: "That's optimism I can get behind."

The party reaches the top of the stairs and sees that the secret passage to the west has closed, sealed off by a wall of bones.

Suldae Westwind: "Technically I think it shouldn't be dawn yet, so, you know, really a lot of the day," Suldae adds optimistically.

Suldae casts Shatter,

DC18

Constitution Save

11

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It has not been 1 hour since we fought the dark gods right?)

Suldae Westwind: (its been like 4 minutes)

"Also," she continues after the first pass of the melody, "I don't think being factually wrong was your main problem there."

Marcus Veranius: (Pacing as usual)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (just making sure)

BOOM. The wall of bones explodes, scattering fragments of bone throughout the chamber. When the dust clears you see that the wall still stands, but a large crater has been blasted out of it. It should not take much more to breach it. Before your eyes, you see the bits of bone trying to move back into position, trying to crawl and roll across the floor, trying to re-build what has been damaged.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes a deep breath after her rapid-fire opinionating at Marcus and plays again.

DC18

Constitution Save

7

Higher Level Cast

7

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

(wow)

A much louder BOOM rocks the temple. Bone shrapnel scatters throughout the room.

The wall is momentarily scattered, the way is clear — but already the bones are trying to rebuild.

Ireena Kolyana: "Quickly!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry runs through the gap

Marcus Veranius draws the oathbow. He has a feeling the Sunsword won't be too keen until things settle down

Ireena Kolyana: "This room.. This is where I found that spell book!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays Gust, keeping the bone pieces in a small weak vortex slowed down from coming together until everyone is through.

Marcus Veranius pulls the switch to the hidden chamber

The hidden chamber door squeaks but does not open. It seems the lock will not open while Tenebrous is in his phylactery.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how does the dorr normaly open?) door)

Marcus Veranius: "I've seen houses with more grit than you!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae raises the flute to her lips, but first pauses and glances at Henry. There might be a simpler solution.

Marcus Veranius: "HENRY! We do this the old fashion way!"

Marcus Veranius holds out the crowbar

Suldae Westwind: "...With the crowbar?"

"With the crowbar!" Suldae cheers.

Marcus Veranius: "The SILVERED crowbar!"

Suldae Westwind: She has fond memories of that one.

Best lockpick.

A word rings in your ears and in the stones of the temple. The sound is horrible, unholy, a condemnation of great power. (Make a DC 16 Constitution save)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

13 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

16 + 3

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind:

16

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

Ismark Kolyanovich:

14

CONSTITUTION SAVE (5)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the crowbar and places it in the door

Suldae Westwind: (+3 on top)

Ireena Kolyana:

8

CONSTITUTION SAVE (5)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CONSTITUTION
Ezmerelda Veranius

Ability: 14

Rictavio:

CONSTITUTION SAVE
Rictavio

Save: 5

Marcus Veranius: (+2 from wedding ring. Ezmerelda passes)

Ireena and Rictavio both clutch their heads, stunned. The rest manage to resist the terrible incantation.

Tenebrous: "Turn back! I am innocent. The Queen is not what she seems!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (athletics witha advantage because crowbar right?)

GM: (That is correct)

(Checking the door for traps first?)

(Or not so much)

Suldae Westwind: "No, really?" Suldae asks. "She's not a dark goddess with highly questionable motives who is probably responsible for the deaths of a whole lot of people and would sell us for a lark? Tell me more."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

25 + 1 | 22 + 1

ATHLETICS (13)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

CROWBAR

Other: Equipment

Using a crowbar grants advantage to Strength Checks where the crowbar's leverage can be applied.

Tenebrous: "It was she who betrayed me! I was her loyal servant!"

Suldae Westwind: "Maybe tell us more about hte circumstances of that," Suldae suggests.

Tenebrous: "You know not what her plans are, you know not what she desires! There is nothing human left in her!"

Suldae Westwind: "You could tell us?"

POP. Henry breaks the door right off its hinges with the crowbar. (Henry, make a DC 20 Dex save)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henrys muscles tense as he uses his inhuman might 17 + 6

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind:

E> E> E>

Tenebrous: "One of her sons has already murdered the other. If the other murders the first, the sacrifice of her bloodline to herself will make her more powerful than ever!"

A massive burst of emerald lightning crackles over Henry's armor. He dodges out of the way, taking half of 37 lightning damage.

Sulda Westwind: "Please continue the thought from there," Sulda requests.

She does not care much about disputes hundreds or thousands years old, and presumes by default that everyone was an awful person in this one, but if there's a warning to be had...

Inside the small side chamber you see a scaly arm and claw tightly clutching a small box made of bone.

Surrounding it is a continuous whirlwind of sand, sparking with little lightnings.

Sulda Westwind: Sulda steps in.

"Talk."

Inside, above the box, you can see dust dancing in the air, forming slowly into bones and flesh.

Sulda Westwind: "You have until you've formed enough for us to consider you a threat to do that."

Tenebrous: "The Raven Queen means to betray you, as she betrayed me. She will kill you all, once her sons are dead!"

"Then she will be free, free upon the earth, and her worshippers are already in every corner of the plane."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps into the room singing once again

Sulda Westwind: "Why would she need or want to kill us?"

Sulda holds out her hand. They need to get all information first.

Tenebrous: "You will have served your purpose, as I have served mine. In the outside world she will have her pick of saints."

"And you will know too much by then..."

Sulda Westwind: "Maybe you could tell us so we could know it right now."

"What was she trying to do? What won't she want us to know?"

Marcus Veranius is deathly quiet

Tenebrous: "You already know it."

Sulda Westwind: "Her family squabble of ages long past?"

Tenebrous: "The secret of her power! The source of her strength! The place where her soul is imprisoned!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Our 'dear' Goddess is as much stuck here as we are"

Sulda Westwind: "Ah, that. Makes sense," Sulda says. "So back to the story of who betrayed who between the two of you?"

Tenebrous: "Not forever. Not for much longer. Her birds already fly the skies outside the dome of mist. When the mist collapses, she will be free upon the planes. A wave of forgetfulness will sweep the heavens and the earth, and all things that were will be hers to know."

"I am the one who has been betrayed," says Tenebrous. He has formed a skull and some of his spine.

In the dark sockets of the skull's eyes, two crimson stars ignite.

Suldae Westwind: "...So if she's free then, what damage could our knowledge possibly do her?"

Tenebrous: "You do not understand, you do not understand!"

"But that will not matter to her."

Suldae Westwind: "Explain then."

"She betrayed you. How?"

Tenebrous: "She pretended to love me. She stole my secrets for years, and in time she took me here, and used my power to become what she now is."

Suldae Westwind: "Okay. And what did you do?"

Tenebrous: "She tried then to kill me, but I outwitted her. My phylactery was already completed."

"The sacrifice at the foundation of Castle Ravenloft gave me all the power I needed to survive her."

Suldae Westwind: Okay, so jerks betraying jerks, as expected.

Suldae takes a silent step back.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stays outwardly quiet relaying the conversation as best he can to Sylvanus through his mind

Marcus Veranius is in great pain hearing these things.

Henry has the sense that Sylvanus is taking this information very very seriously, and perhaps relaying it to other gods.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not pray for guidance, right now. She has a pretty clear idea of what the next thing to do is.

She's just cleared space for Henry to do it.

Tenebrous: "Why do you still come for me? I have answered your questions! I am not your enemy!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'If she were set free could she be contained now that you know?' Henry asks Sylvanus

"How many have suffered and died because of you?" Henry asks the Lich

Tenebrous: "Her weakness will forever be the Amber Temple. What the ritual did has bound her truest essence to this place. It will be the seed of her plane, the heart of her Shadowfell."

"No matter how her power grows, she will always be vulnerable here."

The lich, notably, does not answer Henry's question about deaths and suffering.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does in fact note that.

GM: (Derp, I didn't catch that Henry was directing that first question at Sylvanus)

Suldae Westwind: She also appreciates the additional information.

(eh, Suldae was already asking)

Sylvanus seems troubled. Henry senses that the gods are not convinced they will be able to contain her if she breaches her containment.

Suldae Westwind: (it works as an elaboration on her earlier questions)

Henry has a strange sense of something about them "already doing all they are permitted".

Suldae Westwind: Suldae notices Henry's hesitation, and touches her own holy symbol, reaching out to Correllon with her mind in a wordless prayer, conveying instead thoughts and images.

And the feeling of a question.

Marcus Veranius stumbles towards the desk chair, suddenly very weak. Everything is very quickly falling apart.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to his friends and companions "Anything else...before I passthe judgement?"

The whirling storm of sand tightens around Tenebrous, crackling with emerald lightning. Whatever protective power is in it will no doubt be dangerous.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves before the Lich can lashihng out with the Vorpall Sword

ACTION SURGE

Class: Fighter 2nd Level

Starting at 2nd level, you can push yourself beyond your normal limits for a moment. On Your Turn, you can take one additional action on top of your regular action and a possible Bonus Action.

Once you use this feature, you must finish a short or Long Rest before you can use it again. Starting at 17th level, you can use it twice before a rest, but only once on the same turn.

FIGHTING SPIRIT

Class: Fighter 3 Samurai

Starting at 3rd level, as a bonus action on your turn, you can give yourself advantage on weapon attack rolls until the end of the current turn. When you do so, you also gain 5 temporary hit points. The number of temporary hit points increases when you reach certain levels in this class, increasing to 10 at 10th level and 15 at 15th level. You can use this feature three times, and you regain all expended uses of it when you finish a short rest

(long) rest. (Praise GM for he is kind)

Suldae Westwind: wait hold on Suldae hasnt been answered yet

I do doubt it will change the answer

but for methodology's sake

Suldae hears peacefully chiming tones of spiritual music, dancing in the air around her. Correllon does not so much tell her what to do as express how proud he is of her and her party's decision-making abilities.

Suldae Westwind: Well, that's helpful.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

28

18

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

26

Radiant Smite Damage/Undead Smite

19

Slashing

32

24

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

20*Radiant Smite Damage/Undead Smite20SlashingSuldae Westwind: She glances at Henry and nods.Henry of Willowsbrook:*20*19*Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

21*Undead Smite/Radiant Smite21Slashing26*36*Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

23 + 24*Undead Smite/Radiant Smite17 + 30Slashing*

GM: (Make a DC 20 CON save.)

(Just Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

4 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (ouch)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (do I still have the nat 20s from yohrish)

GM: (You do)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (can I use 1 for the save)

GM: (I'

(I'll allow it*)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (27)

As the soul-cleansed Wxudt cleaves into the cloud of swirling sand and the box of bones and the forming lich and the claw of stone, Henry feels a terrible shadow bloom in his soul. He takes half of 46 necrotic damage. His hit point maximum is reduced by the same amount for one hour.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic

damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma

saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation

checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or

Charisma checks due to a spell,

a feature, or another magic item

effect, grants a +5 to

Intimidation checks instead.

Suldae Westwind: (so 11.5?)

There is a sudden silence. The sand falls. The box of bones tumbles in two halves, spilling folded scraps of paper all over the floor. The storm fades, the lightning dies, and the forming body of Tenebrous dissipates in a poof of dust.

Ireena Kolyana: "Well..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so 6 actual damage since I have 5 temp HP from fighting spirit)

Ireena Kolyana: "Now what?"

Marcus Veranius: "...I just wanted a family. I don't know where this hole in me comes from. I just wanted a family... Just wanted..."

Rictavio: "You have a family, son."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Yeah, dummy."

Ezmerelda says this with great kindness, and sits beside Marcus, putting an arm around him.

"What are we going to do?"

Marcus Veranius: "I knew she was wicked. I knew she meant misery. She's also family, isn't she."

Kasimir Velikov: "Has anyone considered the possibility that he might have been lying to save his own skin?"

Suldae Westwind: "Well, duh," Suldae says.

Kasimir Velikov: "Metaphorical skin, I mean."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Seems likely enough to me."

Suldae Westwind: "I admit I don't really understand how evil deities think... but... would she really think of us as liabilities more than assets, with account for sentimentality about ravens?"

17

INSIGHT (7)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius turns to Ezmerelda with tears in his eyes

Suldae is not entirely convinced that she would. She has shown a certain amount of care for her ravens. Then again, it may be that she cares for them because they are useful, and not out of any genuine love.

Marcus Veranius: "We were supposed to settle business here. Run away where she couldn't find us. Let real heroes deal with her madness. Join a flock of Aaracokra Nomads. No one would know what we were. We could have disappeared."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We still can," says Ezmerelda. "She did say the blessing was unbreakable."

Suldae Westwind: "You know what I noticed?" Suldae says.

"In his whole rant he had yet to say anything about what great evil she would do when she was free."

"You'd think if there was something specifically evil and bad he'd have led with that."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe I was willing to raise the soul of a once-sworn enemy as child. How else could Strahd have turned out with THAT THING as his mother? We could have done better. We could have made him decent."

Suldae Westwind: "I mean, she IS an Evil goddess."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sheaths his sword and turns to face the others listening

Suldae Westwind: "But she is also the patron of the Martikovs, you know?"

Marcus Veranius: "If it was the price of peace..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "It was a good gesture, babe. But don't offer up our firstborn without my approval next time, ok?"

Marcus Veranius: "Alright."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm not seeing what benefit she'd gain from doing evil for the sake of evil."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Even if it's for a good cause. You don't want me resentfully raising the demon baby."

Suldae Westwind: "I'd be willing to take care of a demon baby," Suldae says.
"...What?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Bones said that the offering of her son killing her other son would set her free right?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah, thing number one we could do is not have that happen. Her other son?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ireena Kolyana: "When we were back there, talking to her, she said something about Sergei and Tatyana." Ireena seems worried. "I know I'm the same soul who used to be Tatyana... But who here is Sergei?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at Marcus with a question.
He seems like the person who understood that best of all.

Marcus Veranius: "That has been arranged. It wasn't a metaphor."
"Should things play out as they are, Strahd will literally die at his brother's hands."

Rictavio: "What? How?"

Suldae Westwind: "Please tell me it's not you."

Marcus Veranius: "I've promised not to say."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Marcus Veranius: "But I can say that is truth."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's eyes dart from Marcus to Ezmerelda and then to Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: "Can you write it?"
"Can you answer my question?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus please stop being cryptic for a moment before I punch you through a wall"

Ireena Kolyana: "Sergei...?"
"If one of you is Sergei, please. I need you to speak."
"If you're really him, you won't hesitate."

"Hi."

The voice is deep and pleasant and warm, like sunlight on a summer's day. It seems to come from Marcus's general direction.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes in a hissing breath.

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae's eyes fall immediately on the sword.

"Would you care to offer input?"

she asks politely.

"It's not his fault. I asked him not to let you see me like this."

 Ireena Kolyana: "See you like what?"

"...Marcus, can you hold me up please?"

 Suldae Westwind: "The sword," Sldae says.

 Ireena Kolyana: "What."

Marcus Veranius places the Sunsword on the center table

 Suldae Westwind: "You're the sword, aren't you?"

"No, I'm Sergei von Zarovich. But I'm trapped in a sword at the moment, yes."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry crosses his arms as he leans against a wall

 Suldae Westwind: "...so what would you think about the idea of us killing your, um, your brother by literally any other method than wielding you... er, your vessel?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh"

 Marcus Veranius: "And by your oath of vengeance, the sun will kill sibling."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not see much point to distinguishing soul and body, but if it's important to Sergei, that's fair.

"No can do, bard girl. My vengeance is a pact that must be completed."

 Suldae Westwind: "Noted. Thoughts on what your mom will do afterwards?"

There is a sound like a verbal shrug.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Sergei, come on."

 Suldae Westwind: "That's helpful, thanks."

 Ireena Kolyana: "You've got to help us. We're in the dark here."

"Mom will do what she always does. She'll acquire power, seek out magic, gain followers, and spread."

"She's taken a liking to her birds, so I don't think you need to worry much. You're already her children."

"Of course, so was I... And so was Strahd."

Suldae Westwind: "That genuinely doesn't sound like a great evil we necessarily need to prevent, to me," Suldae says, glancing at Henry.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd, whom she gave the blessing of Vampirism that started this whole mess."

"Indeed."

"I can't be too mad at her, since she's the reason I'm still around."

"But y'know, I haven't really forgiven her for the whole vampire oath thing. Even if she was madder at the time."

Marcus Veranius: "Barovia in its current state is by the Raven Queen's design in entirety."

"The misery is its point."

Suldae Westwind: "That does sound bad," Suldae agrees.

Marcus Veranius: "I had assumed she would be contained forever."

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think she planned it all out in detail, I'd note."

"Just picture a world-wide Barovia. It's not too bad. You could get used to it."

Ireena Kolyana: "I couldn't."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Out of curiosity what would happen if let's say I were to end Strahd before you are able to Sergei" Henry asks

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, okay, no, that's kind of bad."

"Well, Henry, you big lunk, I'd have to kill you."

Suldae Westwind: "Some people really cannot be trusted with landscape design."

Marcus Veranius: "Now Sergei, that's not very nice."

Ireena Kolyana: "Sergei, come on."

"You're better than that."

"I'm not better than shit, princess. It's been centuries. I know what I want and I aim to get it. Damn the consequences."

Suldae Westwind: "I guess you're only the good one in the family because of the bar being set that low, huh?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena turns to Suldae and silently embraces her, facing away from the sword on the table.

Suldae Westwind: "Or maybe Sergei really was. It's just the sword that thinks it's him that isn't."

Ireena Kolyana: She's shaking slightly.

 Marcus Veranius: "Henry's also built sturdier than a stone golem with piercing immunity. You literally couldn't scratch him."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae speaks with light disgust.
She's aiming to provoke him.

 Ireena Kolyana: "He was a good man. I think," says Ireena. "But I don't remember..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry thinks for a moment before shrugging

"Look. I want my vengeance, you want your help."

"My help, I mean."

 Suldae Westwind: "We want a bit more than that."

"I want your help, you want mine."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I...I'm not sure we do"

 Marcus Veranius: "I'm not saying your vengeance is wrong. And I still intend to carry out your pact."

"So the question becomes: how are we going to make sure that what the lich warned us about doesn't come to pass?"

 Marcus Veranius: "But this is what I said before. We cannot be blinded by our fury. You can read my memories. See how well that went for me."

"A hint. It didn't."

"And my soul will forever be marked."

"Your story isn't my story, Marcus. Did you wait a thousand years to avenge the woman you loved?"

 Marcus Veranius: "I would have. And many more."

"No, you didn't. But I have. It is the only thought which has sustained me. Vengeance MUST be mine."

 Ireena Kolyana: "So what do we do, then?"

 Marcus Veranius: "We will do this with grace and wisdom. Or not at all."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Do we trust what the Lich said as truth?"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Partial truth, surely."

 Suldae Westwind: "Can't you be generous?"

 Marcus Veranius: "..."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "We should go back and talk to the Queen. See what she has to say about all this."

"Maybe we're blowing things out of proportion?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Consider not what the lich just said, but what he had said while we were friends."

Suldae Westwind: "That does not sound like the best idea," Suldae says.

"Maybe we're making the wrong predictions, but proportion?"

"Generous? GENEROUS? The sole desire of my soul is the murder of Strahd. There is no room for generosity there."

Marcus Veranius: "This entire temple was built by comission of Queen Ravenovia."

Suldae Westwind: "I think the proportion we understand fine. And I think we don't want her input on that."

GM: (Wait no it wasn't)

(The Castle was built by Queen Ravenovia, the Temple was already here)

Marcus Veranius: (Err)

GM: (Wizards had been using it to study forgotten gods and she used its powers to kill and wear the Raven god)

Suldae Westwind: (it's been an irl month since tenebrous's lecture rip lmao)

Marcus Veranius: "The crystal heart syphon was commissioned by Queen Ravenovia"

"She intended to bind even gods themselves to her service. Which was by design eternal."

Suldae Westwind: "We need to decide we intend to take on this before we speak with her again."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "What are you saying?"

Suldae Westwind: *what side

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Are you saying we have to... To treat her like the rest of them?"

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think we have to, necessarily. But it's an option that maybe we do."

Suldae wishes she'd had the time to read the book before this came up.

Maybe then it'd be clearer.

Marcus Veranius: "I do not have the power in me. It means betraying everyone I have sworn oaths to. Those raven which saved me from the brink of oblivion."

"But it has to be done."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, she's an ally and betraying allies is bad."

"But letting evil gods conquer everything is also bad."

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait. There was a Raven god before she came here, right? Before she came to Barovia? And she's basically connected to this god, right? I think that was what she meant by 'we are of two minds about everything'."

"What if... What if the Raven can be separated from the Queen?"

Suldae Westwind: "That might be an improvement."

"Potentially."

Marcus Veranius: "It would still be the god of shadowfel. Still be of darkness."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels like she really didn't sign up for this.

Marcus Veranius: "But maybe not of mortal ambition."

Suldae Westwind: "Maybe we could just ignore the sword's input," Suldae says. "It does not appear to be particularly Sergei-like."

"And its reasons are the Raven Queen's reasons, put into another."

Marcus Veranius: "It would be a simple procedure. Separating Queen from Raven. Incredibly so."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I kind of wish I paid more attention during the sermons now that I've actually meet Gods"

Marcus Veranius: "Despite what the lich said, I DID pay attention to his lecture as I am not an adventurer."

Suldae Westwind: "As something of a priestess myself, halfway, I can confirm it doesn't help much."

Marcus Veranius: "These gods are dead because they have no worshippers."

"So long as the temple is cut off from the rest of the world by astral, we are the only ones who can worship."

"Break the coffin open. Let those with opinions say who survives."

"Those who believe in the Raven will see it survive."

"And in silence, the queen dies."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we break her cozy little box here?"

Marcus Veranius: "It's that simple."

"But also not so."

"Because Queen Ravenova still has ONE worshiper in this temple. Has for a long time."

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait, wait, before we do that..."

Suldae Westwind: "...I think we're not doing anything yet..."

Marcus Veranius motions towards the Sunsword

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena whips out a massive, copper-bound book. She spreads it open on the table and starts leafing through it swiftly. "This is the spell book we found in here. I'm sure it belonged to the Lich, look: the name on the spine! The Incants of Tenebrous. There must be something in here about how he helped her become the Raven Queen in the first place."

"If we can work out how he did that, maybe we can reverse engineer it?"

Suldae Westwind: (okay, so, this is a basic dnd / setting knowledge that Suldae should have already and that I will not phrase as a thought in-universe until I know her prior.

How much are gods affected by their worshippers?)

14

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

(....ffffuck)

(hey still a 14)

Marcus Veranius: (No crit fails outside death saves and attack rolllllllls!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tilts his back and asks the ceiling in Sylvan "Anything to add Big Guy? I would really appreciate a bit of not outright evil divine guidance right about now"

GM: (The gods prefer not to make such things clear to mortals, but it is generally common knowledge that the prayers, faith, and worship provided by mortals is vital to the gods.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Even if its cryptic as all hells"

GM: (At the same time, there are gods who accept no worshippers — like the Lady of Pain — and there are those that need none, like the Lords of Death. The rules seem to be different for different ranks or arenas of godhood. One imagines the high god, Ao, has laid the rules out somewhere.)

Suldae Westwind: "I might have a thought..." Suldae says.

The Temple shakes to its foundations. Henry hears a clear voice booming through the chamber.
"Free my child. Kill the Queen."

Ireena Kolyana: "Was that an earthquake? I thought we weren't even on the material plane anymore?"

GM: (Henry is the only one to hear the voice.)

Suldae Westwind: She clutches her holy symbol and sends a thought to her patron. It is an easy question this time. "Can an evil deity that only has Good worshippers be influenced into change by their decisions?"

Suldae hears a whisper, close at hand. "No."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is too busy praying to notice the earthquake.

"...Nevermind," she sighs.

"The nature of a deity is its nature, formed from the conceptions of the mortals who made it, or bound up by the fate which the high gods have written for it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So they can be clear about things" Henry murmurs rolling his shoulders
"Well Big Green and Holy is all for regicide"

he then says out loud

Ireena Kolyana: "Look, here."

"This is the ritual that bound them together."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks, half-hanging off her shoulder.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena points to a beautifully illustrated page of the book, in which a pale woman in black robes seems to be standing in the middle of a large circular seal, in the corpse of an enormous raven. Three wizards stand around her, casting spells.

She reads carefully.

"His notation is strange... And the language is a little archaic..."

"But if I'm reading this right, the Raven wasn't dead dead when the Queen joined with it."

"It had to still be clinging to life for her to take its godhood."

"So it's still there, inside her. She said something about 'the Raven must eat'?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe it's not a dark or evil god? Maybe it's just a god of memories?"

"A wild god, not a cruel one."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae closes her eyes, feeling the exhaustion of the night.

"Worth taking a chance on?"

Marcus Veranius: "I hold to my original plan then. The Raven Queen is worshiped everywhere. Queen Ravenovia is only known here."

"One will survive the sarcophagus's sundering. One will die."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think you're right, Marcus. The Raven was native to this land, and it's not a forgotten god. It can survive without a sarcophagus."

"Of course, if Strahd counts as a worshipper of his mother..."

"Maybe things get a little dicier."

Suldae Westwind: "He's dead though, does that really count?"

Ireena Kolyana: "He's not dead, he's undead. He's basically her saint."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae flicks a glance at the sword, too.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd has been killing ravens left and right. He is NOT a worshipper of his mother."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He'll be gone soon "

Ireena Kolyana: "But then so is Sergei..."

Marcus Veranius: "But Strahd doesn't count either."

"Oh, I could stop worshipping. If it means you'll let me kill Strahd."

Marcus Veranius: "We're sealed away from the outside right now."

Suldae Westwind: "That would be the arrangement, yes."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's words won't reach."

Suldae Westwind: "We'd have no reason not to let you, then."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think you're right. Strahd is using her, but not really a worshipper or a believer. And he's not really on her side."

"It's a gamble... But..."

Marcus Veranius: "It's a gamble I'm willing to take."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods. She breathes easier with the thought they would not be killing the ravens' patron, but if anything bringing it back.

Marcus Veranius: "And we ARE killing strahd you Overglorified Letter T

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry fishes his mana potion out from his belt

Suldae Westwind: (what do mana potions do in DnD)

Marcus Veranius: (Homebrew)

(We got them from dragin)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Homebrew restores all spell slots)

Suldae Westwind: (ok what do mana potions do in this campaign)

(ty)

(Suldae will save hers)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Cheers since I doubt the old bat will go quietly"

Ireena Kolyana: "Wait," says Ireena.

"There's no rush, is there?"

"I mean, we've killed Tenebrous."

"We can take a rest, right?"

Suldae Westwind: "She's waiting for us. How long will she wait?"

Marcus Veranius: "Until the shadows start setting in again."

Ireena Kolyana: "She's waited a few centuries, I think she's got the patience."

Suldae Westwind: "Don't get me wrong, I'm all for taking a rest."

Marcus Veranius: "This is my honeymoon, I'm getting some relaxing in."

Suldae Westwind: "...okay, if Marcus is rihgt, we have the time."

Ireena Kolyana: "I want more time to study this ritual... I think I might be able to reverse engineer it."

Suldae Westwind: "I'll personally make sure you get a second one later, if we live," Suldae tells him seriously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stops himself barely from downing the potion or spilling it

Suldae Westwind: "Want help?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Happy honeymoon," says Ezmerelda, planting a kiss on Marcus's cheek.

Ireena Kolyana: "I would love some help!" says Ireena.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He puts the stopper back in the vial

Ireena Kolyana: (Go ahead and take a short rest. Henry's maximum HP will return to normal, since the rest is about an hour.)

GM: (That was from me, not Ireena)

(Suldae, go ahead and make an Arcana check)

Ireena Kolyana:

12

ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind:

30

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(nice)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (if it's a short rest Henry is drinking the Spell Juice)

GM: (Daaaaaaaamn)

Marcus Veranius: "Monster slaying for a relaxing holiday. How is that somehow both of our hobbies?"

Suldae Westwind: (Imao Ireena might be a wizard but Suldae's the one who's been studying this her whole lfie)

Marcus Veranius: "How'd we get that lucky?"

Suldae Westwind: (Expertise is no joke)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also attuneing to the Belt)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We're lucky people, what can I say?"

"You're Vistani now."

Suldae Westwind: (oh. I probably cannot combine attuning to the book with helping Ireena can I?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM is gone!)

(and Back)

GM: (Sorry about that! R20 crashed)

Suldae Westwind: The ritual turns into an improvised lecture, as Suldae fills in all the gaps in Ireena's knowledge, guided by her wizardly creativity.

GM: (If you're helping Ireena you probably won't have time to attune, that's correct)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah that's not urgent then)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so um I would like to roll some hit dice that might mess with the rp for a bit)

10

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: Suldae idly strums her guitar as she's talking, but even her idle strumming directs the weave.

SONG OF REST

Class: Bard

Beginning at 2nd level, you can use soothing music or oration to help revitalize your wounded allies during a short rest. If you or any friendly creatures who can hear your performance regain hit points at the end of the short rest by spending one or more Hit Dice, each of those creatures regains an extra 1d6 hit points.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (please note the benefit of having a bard in the party)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

4

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

13

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: rolling 5d6

(6 + 2 + 5 + 6 + 4)

= 23

Henry of Willowsbrook: (back to full...I needed all of those rolls)

Suldae Westwind: (total of 61 fight now)

(yeah)

GM: (As written I think the song of rest only gives an additional 1d6 per person healing, not per hit dice spent)

(But Suldae's a strongk girl and you're about to go into a big fight, so I'm fine with what we've got here)

Suldae Westwind: "Ezme, for the record," Suldae says, glancing at her, "you have my condolences in advance and if you ever want background vocals for shit like what he'd just suggested pulling I'm available."

(whoops rip)

(ty)

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae, look. These lines... They're like a kind of spiritual thread — something woven out of a curse. A holy weapon should be able to cut them... But we'd have to have at least three mages try to pull her apart first, to expose them. When they did the ritual the first time, they wove the threads and used their magic to tighten them, stitching her into the god. We just have to loosen them and cut them, then we should be able to kill her without harming the Raven."

Marcus Veranius: "OK FINE! I MAKE BAD IDEAS!"

Ireena Kolyana: "If we decide the Sarcophagus idea isn't a guaranteed one, I mean..."

Suldae Westwind: "...I think it's best if we can figure both out."

Marcus Veranius: "Give magic trinkets of untold power to a shoemaker who barely knows how adventuring works. This is what happens."

Suldae Westwind: "We have plenty of mages, let's figure out this pulling apart thing..."

"The tiger wasn't magical," Suldae says.

She knows it's a cheap blow. She thinks he deserves it.

Rictavio: "Oof. Low blow."

"The tiger was my idea anyway, not his."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'm sorry, tiger?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm not listening to this."

Ireena Kolyana: "You don't want to know."

Marcus Veranius:

Silence

Illusion 2 (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: 20-foot-radius sphere centered on a point you choose within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, no sound can be created within or pass through a 20-foot-radius sphere centered on a point you choose within range.

Any creature or object entirely inside the sphere is immune to thunder damage, and creatures are deafened while entirely inside it.

Casting a spell that includes a verbal component is impossible there.

Suldae Westwind: "Oh I am NOT talking about YOU," Sudlae says with a particularly ominous undertone that suggests he doesn't want her to.

(LMAO)

Marcus Veranius makes a personal quiet relaxation bubble

Suldae Westwind: (20ft radius)

(do you want to move away a bit)

Suldae invites Kazimir to take a look at the ritual as well.

Alas, they're not strictly speaking exclusively on a date.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda follows Marcus to his bubble. Standing just outside of it, she casts Darkness into its center. Then she joins him there.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena flushes a little and focuses on the book harder.

Kasimir Velikov: "Come, Ismark. Look at this."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Why, it's a book! Full of writing!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Sit properly and look at it with us."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Fine."

Suldae Westwind: (they are adorable)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark sits playfully in Kasimir's lap. Kasimir develops a dark purple blush.

Kasimir Velikov: "Do you mind? You are not light."

Marcus Veranius: The Amber Temple of Love

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yes, but you are comfortable."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has been sitting in Ireena's lap all along. Well, half-sitting. Full sitting now.
"You could switch," she suggests without looking up.

Kasimir Velikov: "...Yes, I think we could do this spell. It seems relatively straightforward — an effort of will, not of shaping."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "6 months ago I was worrying about the harvest, what crops to buy for next year, my wedding and my mothers bad hip so Marcus really has no excuse" Henry says leaning back and clearing his mind

Suldae Westwind: "I mean he kind of had all his loved one killed by a dragon who then also tortured him," Suldae counters.

*ones

"He has a bit of an excuse."

She likes that he cannot hear her right now.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well, at least he wasn't hung in a tree to crawl back from the dead on nothing but the power of his own will."

Rictavio: "And his whole family wasn't murdered by Vistani, so there's that."

Suldae Westwind: "This isn't a competition."

-  Ireena Kolyana: "And he's not the sixth or seventh reincarnation of a mad immortal tyrant's long lost obsession."
"Sorry, you're right. Not a competition."
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: "apparently it is now" Henry says
-  Suldae Westwind: "I really feel like the sane one here," Suldae shares.
"I'm sorry, I mean lucky one. Whichever."
-  Kasimir Velikov: "I would say something about my sister and my entire clan, but it would at this point be annoying."
-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "You couldn't be annoying if you tried."
-  Suldae Westwind: She did kind of grow up among people who regarded her as an outsider even though she knew nothing but them and what little her human father could teach her of elvish culture, but, you know. Not, in fact, a competition.
"There's a room over there," Suldae jabs her thumb towards the skull place without a floor.
-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hang on," says Ismark. "This seal..."
-  Suldae Westwind: "Oh?"
-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "That's the big circle under the treasure pile downstairs! I'm sure of it."
"Look, they used it in the ritual. What for?"
-  Kasimir Velikov: "It would seem they needed it to focus the energies of the Temple. Without that, the ritual would have been impossible."
-  Tops K.: Hier, meanwhile, reflects on how a vampire killed his teacher, best friend, and best friend's grandson's best friends
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: Meanwhile, no sound or image exits from Marcus's bubble of silent darkness.
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: "Vasilika mentioned that we might be able to bail from this place by smashing it before" Henry says
-  Rictavio: "Smashing it?"
-  Marcus Veranius does not get to roll for hit dice this rest
-  Rictavio: "Well, let's refrain from doing that until the last of the sarcophagi is destroyed."
"We want to make sure that nothing can escape."
-  Suldae Westwind: (I mean. Hit points represent mental fatigue, too)
(I'm just saying)
-  Ireena Kolyana: "You think it's what's binding them here?"{
-  Rictavio: "I think it is part of that, yes."
-  Marcus Veranius: (What's happening is NOT a light activity)
-  Suldae Westwind: (okay maybe)

Upon realizing something, Suldae plays a quick ditty.

Ten bananas appear

She throws two in the direction of the center of the bubble of darkness.

She presumes they should hit one of them.

(should I roll for this)

Marcus Veranius: (Beat an AC 26 at disadvantage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: d20+dex

GM: (Lmao yes. Improvised weapon, no proficiency, disadvantage)

Suldae Westwind:

Goodberry

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: See text

Components: V, S, M (A sprig of mistletoe)

Duration: Instantaneous

Up to ten berries appear in your hand and are infused with magic for the duration. A creature can use its action to eat one berry. Eating a berry restores 1 hit point, and the berry provides enough nourishment to sustain a creature for one day. The berries lose their potency if they have not been consumed within 24 hours of the casting of this spell.

GM: (If you beat a 17 it hits Ezmerelda at least)

Marcus Veranius: (It's basic handbook rules. Prone targets are hard to hit at range)

Silently a pair of bananas lands somewhere near Ezmerelda and Marcus, who take absolutely no notice.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry fishes a gold piece out from his purse and begins to roll it down his knuckles and doing other tricks, like the bards and buskers at the harvest festivals used to perform, mostly to pass the time

Ireena Kolyana: At last, Ireena says: "Well, I think we've got everything we're going to get from this."
"What now?"

Marcus Veranius emerges from the Silent Zone around rest end

Marcus Veranius: "Right then! What's our plan?"

Liliet (Suldae):

10

"" (4)

Suldae Westwind

-1

12"" (4)
Suldae Westwind-1*5"" (4)
Suldae Westwind-1*10"" (4)
Suldae Westwind-1

oops

22"" (4)
Suldae Westwind-1*Tops K.:*SUNBEAM
*Ezmerelda VeraniusAttack: 11

Each creature in the line must make a Constitution saving throw [DC 15]. On a failed save, a creature takes 6d8 radiant damage and is blinded until your next turn. On a successful save, it takes half as much damage and isn't blinded by this spell. Undead and oozes have disadvantage on this saving throw.

Damage: 20 radiantGM (GM): Howdy y'all

How's everyone's world going?

Zanshuken: pretty alright

Liliet (Suldae): ^^

GM (GM): Alrighty, now where were we
It's been a while

Liliet (Suldae): we were somewhere around deciding to gank mama raven

Zanshuken: killed the Lich because Raven Mama asked us to, then decided leaving crazy power hungry raven queen as the only god might not be the best so we decided to Hack her in two Tops K.: The party was had just defeated a lich, who warned against trusting Queen Ravenovia. We already didn't trust her, but now Marcus is on board with the after party.

~~We also found a new bag of holding. Honest~~
(Huh, scratch-through text doesnt work for Roll20)

Liliet (Suldae): maybe this just isnt the right command

GM (GM): Alrighty, I just finished re-reading the Discord RP

Liliet (Suldae): lmao

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So all we have to do is kill the Queen but leave the Raven god part alive right?" Henry asks standing up "Or am I missing something?"

Liliet (Suldae): "Well, there's a whole ritual..."
(Dm pls refresh us on how we do it)

Tops K.: "It's a simple ritual. We break the coffin. Raven Queen has enough living followers to remain alive, but Queen Ravenovia will die forgotten."

Marcus Veranius says this

GM: from Ireena: ("Suldae, look. These lines... They're like a kind of spiritual thread — something woven out of a curse. A holy weapon should be able to cut them... But we'd have to have at least three mages try to pull her apart first, to expose them. When they did the ritual the first time, they wove the threads and used their magic to tighten them, stitching her into the god. We just have to loosen them and cut them, then we should be able to kill her without harming the Raven.")

Liliet (Suldae): "I think it's a better idea to at least try to bring back the old Raven god..."

Ireena Kolyana: I believe this is the ritual option Suldae is thinking about

GM: (Whoops)

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, should that fail for whatever reason, we've got the other option."

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah."

"So, do we need to get her onto the circle for it to work?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, we'll want plenty of space when we do it, because she won't be powerless while we're working on her. We'll need room to move around. The seal chamber makes the best sense logistically, anyway."

"But no, I don't think we need to get her on the circle. I think it permeates the whole building."

Kasimir Velikov: "I concur. The seal's effect is all around us. It is what binds the entire plane, and all its reflections."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey, I can cur too."

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah, that's logistically better. Do you need to be on different sides of her, or is just being close and not dying fine?"

(Wait, hold on, is it you or we?)

(We have three wizards with Hiere, but just two without)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shakes her head firmly. "It will involve a lot of pulling. We will need to be on opposite sides of her."

Suldae Westwind: "Noted."

"Who are we going to have doing this?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, me, and Kasimir, and Hiere. I think we have the best chance of success."

Kasimir Velikov: "The magic involves a rather complex incantation. Someone whose magic is more instinctive is less likely to be able to perform it from memory."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I've memorized it."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at Ismark, his eyes widening seriously. He seems stunned.

Ireena Kolyana: "Where's Hiere?"

Hiere, it seems, is not here.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Son of a how does that keep happening?"

Ireena Kolyana: "How'd he escape the temple?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. Her magic is not instinctive as such, but she supposes it's not exactly the way the wizards do it. She still feels mildly offended, but ignores that.

"He just... does that."

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey, wait a minute. Suldae, you're a bard. You've memorized sagas."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm pretty sure he's wherever he wants to be."

"Don't blame him. I don't want to be here either."

Ireena Kolyana: "With four, we could work much faster."

Suldae Westwind: ...The offense is suddenly gone.

Rictavio: "Alright," says Rictavio. "So what is the plan? We know the layout of the chamber. We know where her sarcophagus is."

Suldae Westwind: "Show me the incantation again. I think I already remember the broad strokes, this shouldn't take long..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Here, I'll show you the translation Kasimir made..."

"I say translation, but it's still not in Common, it's just phonetic."

She shows Suldae the incantation. (Arcana check, please)

Suldae Westwind:

17

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So you will unravel her" Henry points to the assembled variety of wizardry "while we try the old not-dying thing until you are ready" he pauses for a moment "We do have a holy weapon right?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out her halo.

"I have my doubts about Sergei, but this should work, right?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rests his hands on Wxudt "This may work if I use it channel my power I guess"

Marcus Veranius: "Wxuld or however you pronounce it. It's also been blessed in a holy pool by a fair maiden, right? It could work."

"Sunsword might work as an artifact of Barovia, but it seems more a cautery than scalpel." Precision may be of use here."

"We could also tie the Book of Exalted Deeds to a sword and call it sacred."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs "Up until two weeks ago I wouldn't have really considered myself a man of faith so i really am just guessing here"

Rictavio: "Well," says Rictavio, "I suppose I'm as ready as I'll ever be."

GM: (Suldae had a 17 on the Arcana check. She is able to comfortably memorize the entire incantation.)

Ireena Kolyana: "Wow, you're a quick learner."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I'm ready—I think."

Kasimir Velikov: "As am I."

Suldae Westwind: "I kind of get how it's supposed to work, I think," Suldae says. "Makes it easier." "Ready."

Marcus Veranius: "Ez and I on grandma-wrangling duty then? Not quite how I expected it to go."

Suldae Westwind: "Sorry..." Suldae shrugs, not entirely apologetic.

She studied for, like, most of her entire life. For this, more or less.

Maybe she's still a little sore.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Eh, we can take her."

"Just be glad you're not meeting my real mother. Now there was a woman who could make any man fear for his life."

Zanshuken: (And I'm back sorry about that)

Marcus Veranius: "I'll take your word for it and count my blessings."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well let's get to it then" Henry says
(Y'all still here?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee; waiting for us to move to the ritual site. Wherever we're hosting it.)
(I don't think Marcus has much to add; this is a problem distinctly not-solved by excessive use of arrows)

GM: (What's your marching order?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ugh Henry first?

Suldae Westwind: (this looks right lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (damn I gotta go eat in a sec I am really sorry again

GM does a thumbs-up.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (could we get to a point where I don't feel as guilty leaving and delaying us again)

GM: (Well, shit's about to go hog-wild
(So we could take a short break instead, if you want)

Marcus Veranius: (Set the scene, then pause mid-frame so Henry can return to everything on-fire)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (30 minutes max)

Suldae Westwind: (I'll go get the grapes I wanted to get)

Henry of Willowsbrook: and I'm back

"Ah," says the Raven Queen, her voice booming in the darkness. So, my immortal champions have returned, victorious! I felt the death of the traitor, and I thank you for your service to me."

The chamber at the bottom of the stairs is utterly dark, so dark that even with dark vision the floor cannot be seen. Upon closer inspection, this darkness on the floor and pooling down the walls is actually a pure-black mist, weeping from the cracks between the amber stones.

The place has become desolately cold.

With a silent rush, the mist parts, clearing a path through to the crack in the southern wall. It is almost a relief to see that the walls are, in fact, still there—in such an infinite, impenetrable shadow.

"Come to me, my children," says the Raven Queen. "It is time to join the festivities."

Liliet (Suldae): (back)
(sorry, R20 decided working is for losers for a bit)
((IM BACK)
(H)OPEFILLY)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes in the creeping black mists before walking forward without hurry

Liliet (Suldae): "I'm sorry, your what champions?" Suldae asks.

Marcus Veranius: Ah, yes. No one else to exert their will onto a temple formed of god blood. Grandma was free to redecorate the place however she willed! Why couldn't it have been doilies and frilled curtains... not the ever-boundless void.

"Come to me, my children. Join the party. All will be explained, in time."

Liliet (Suldae): "I would not like to be rude, but now is a good time," Suldae says.

"I said: COME."

(Make a DC 25 Charisma save: everybody.)

Suldae Westwind:

24

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DRAGON SCALE ARMOR

Other: Magic Armor

+1 Plate Armor

Grants immunity to acid damage

Grants resistance to necrotic

damage and force damage

Grants advantage on Charisma saves

Grants advantage on Intimidation checks. If the wearer already has advantage on Intimidation or Charisma checks due to a spell, a feature, or another magic item effect, grants a +5 to Intimidation checks instead.

22 + 4

25 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (AAAAAA)

(can Henry's aura, like... -gestures vaguely-)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CHARISMA SAVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Save: 11

Ireena Kolyana:

16

CHARISMA SAVE (3)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

10

CHARISMA SAVE (9)

Suldae Westwind: (Can Henry, like, step back to get everyone inside his aura?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (If you have dragon armor you are entiteled to advantage on cha saves

Suldae Westwind: (OH RIGHT)

18

CHARISMA SAVE (11)

Suldae Westwind

(...I reiterate my question)

GM: (How many of them are still wearing the dragon armor? I believe some armor was swapped around during the last rest)

Marcus Veranius:

19 + 0 | 20 + 0

CHARISMA SAVE (3)

Marcus Veranius

GM: (And no, unfortunately the staircase is not wide enough for him to be far enough back to get everyone in the aura)

Marcus Veranius: (Only the main characters had dragon armor in the first place)

Kasimir Velikov:

11

CHARISMA SAVE (0)

Suldae Westwind: (Marcus, why do you have two pluses in your formula)

(I think you should be passing)

Marcus Veranius: (Wedding ring and Henry Aura)

Suldae Westwind: (no, look at the formula)

(it's not showing the five because there are two pluses)

GM: (Yeah, you rolled a 17 before bonuses)

Marcus Veranius: (Huh, that's weird)

Rictavio:

CHARISMA
Rictavio

Ability: 10

Marcus Veranius: (Should be a 20+5 then)

(Marcus fails anyways cause Ez didnt pass)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So only Henry and Marcus succed the save9

Marcus Veranius: (Or he goes anyways?)

Suldae Westwind: (or does Ez succeed because you passed? How does that ring work?)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Kasimir-! I can't stop! Help me!"

Kasimir Velikov: "I am afraid I am just as helpless as you..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae!"

Suldae Westwind: (Henry, couldn't you step back in a way that would actually include Suldae in the aura...)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nope sorry

Marcus Veranius continues walking down the stairs anyways, hand in hand with Ezmerelda. Not because of orders, but because he wanted to.

Rictavio is inside Henry's aura, and gains a 2 bonus.

Suldae Westwind:

COUNTERCHARM

Class: Bard

At 6th level, you gain the ability to use musical notes or words of power to disrupt mind-influencing effects. As an action, you can start a performance that lasts until the end of your next turn. During that time, you and any friendly creatures within 30 feet of you have advantage on saving throws against being frightened or charmed. A creature must be able to hear you to gain this benefit. The performance ends early if you are incapacitated or silenced or if you voluntarily end it (no action required).

(Would this work?)

GM: (You can try it!)

Rictavio: "My boy, it's the strangest thing, but I can't control my feet!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts playing even as she takes an involuntary step down the stairs. This is annoying and rude.

"My, what sweet music," says the Raven Queen.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry feels the foreign will wash over him as his friends get slammed down by it "Yeah I figured" Henry starts to walk aswell only he does on his own accord

Rictavio:

CHARISMA
Rictavio

Ability: 23

Suldae Westwind: (hey, he gets Henry's bonus and passes!)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CHARISMA SAVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Save: 19

Ismark Kolyanovich:

10

CHARISMA SAVE (9)

GM: (Lmao)

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

Kasimir Velikov:

16

CHARISMA SAVE (0)

Suldae Westwind: (...looks like Kaz didn't have a chance in the first place)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ismark is straight up not having a god time)

Good)

Ireena Kolyana:

5

CHARISMA SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So we are all going now it seems)

Rictavio hears the music, and regains control of his feet.

Rictavio: "Thank you, Suldae."

Marcus Veranius continues smiling, his usual facade against dread and terror. Polite until he no longer had to be.

Ezmeralda, Ireena, Ismark, and Kasimir all begin, against their will, to march into the tunnel.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry keeps the the front of them

Marcus Veranius: "I see you've begun sprucing up the place! Is this to be the decor for the rest of the temple? The new moon darkness, but in every hour."

"Better than the amber on its down. Dreadful stuff."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so can we just move all the tokens into the big room?)

The party moves through the treasure vault and to the double doors of the next chamber, which fling wide before them to reveal a great change in the form of the chamber. Dozens of people are standing around in fine clothing, drinking and feasting from long tables of hors d'oeuvres. You recognize the Martikovs, Urwin and Danika, Brom and Bray. You recognize many of the others, as well. They are all the were ravens you met in Vallaki.

"Come, join the festivities. We were just celebrating my long-awaited release."

The Raven Queen herself is nowhere to be seen. Her sarcophagus, also, was missing from the previous room—or else concealed completely in darkness.

Marcus Veranius eyes the festivities, trying to get a mood from the others. Were they truly excited for this? Dreading the moment as he was?

The pile of treasure in the middle of the chamber has vanished, and instead a huge circular platform stands there, raised from the floor in three broad stairs, to a complex working of metal and glass.

The wereravens turn to greet you, laughing and cheering, raising their glasses to toast you.

Urwin: "My friends! Greetings to you all, and our congratulations on your victory over Strahd!"

Danika: "We never believed it could be possible in our lifetimes," Danika says, through cheerful tears.

Marcus Veranius: Oh. So this was the game of the evening.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leans over to Marcus "Boy this is gonna be awkward" he whispers

Amber Golem: "Now, you lot had better be respectable, or you'll have me to deal with. This dinner party is in your honor! So no stealing, no murdering, and no looting or burning."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Reaaaaaaaal awkward"

Liliet (Suldae): "I'm pretty sure we kind of haven't beaten Strahd yet..."

Marcus Veranius: "Of course! Of course! A celebration well due and well deserved!"

Marcus Veranius smiles, finding use in playing his role for now. He eyes around the room, pretending to soak in praise.

Marcus Veranius 's eyes scour the darkness, seeking out signs of Queen Ravenovia's true presence. His eyes are wiser now, more keen. A devil's sight that cuts through even magical shadows to their true heart.

Marcus Veranius: He would not be blind again.

He finds that the darkness resists even his incredible eyes. The mist remains impenetrable—or most of it does. The floor and the walls remain somewhat concealed, but he can see through the places where the darkness is thinnest, and he can see the air, and the general shape of the hall. He sees that both of the halls to the right and left of the main chamber have been sealed by something invisible that disturbs the mist.

Amber Golem: To everyone else, the entry to both halls is completely concealed by the shadow.

GM: (The Amber Golem did not say this, one sec)

To everyone else, the entry to both halls is completely concealed by the shadow.

"Come, my children. Eat, and drink, and be merry. You have accomplished a great service for me today."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to the others "Can you move on your own again?"

"Mingle with your friends, for they can only stay for a while, as it is not yet the New Moon."

The spell that compelled the party to move to this chamber seems to have faded.

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, I'm me again."

She shudders.

Marcus Veranius: "I concur! We should set up a toast while we still have the finest wine in all of Barovia!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark shudders too.

Suldae Westwind: "That was kind of rude, you know?" Suldae asks into the air, folding her arms.

Suldae's raven spirit pecks her from within. "The Queen is never rude."

Marcus Veranius eyes to the others, jolly expression cutting to seriousness for a brief moment. "Perhaps you too should find your places."

Urwin: "Yes, yes! The finest—and only—wine in all Barovia!"

Urwin Martikov collects a tray of wine-glasses from a nearby table and brings it around to everyone.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Won't you join us in the revelry Milady?" Henry asks "I had hoped to be blessed by your beauty once more"

"Flatterer," says the Raven Queen. "Are you not the one who has rejected my blade?"

"But I shall join you, for my beauty is yours to behold."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs at her raven sister. "Clearly you're incorrect as she was just now," she mentally replies.

The darkness pools at the center of the vast seal. With a rush, it rises, black mist towering into a pillar. It solidifies, and a nightmarish form emerges from the black mist. She is a figure of black stone, carved with a thousand blood-lines, dripping with gore.

A moment later, she is the beautiful woman of pale hair and skin, darkly eyeing the party from within a massive collar of black feathers.

The Raven Queen: "Well? Are you pleased to see me?"

For a moment, her voice does not boom.

She steps daintily down the steps of the seal, approaching the party, the trail of her black gown dragging behind her.

Suldae Westwind: "Nice," Suldae says appreciatively and hopes Ireena doesn't take it the wrong way. It's a distraction and for a good cause.

Marcus Veranius: Regicide. Patricide. A hundred betrayals all in one night. Broken oaths to kin, to matriarch, to family. Marcus's very being bled in despair for what had to be done. He hoped there might be some forgiveness in understanding for those that might remain, or survive.

The Raven Queen places her left arm around Urwin's shoulder and her right arm around Danika's, and leans between them to the party to say: "I am grateful for what you have done."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smiles easily at her "Marvelous, your Majesty" 'Thank all the lights in I have a strong stomach'

The Raven Queen: "I believe you have earned the right to be my champions."

Suldae Westwind: "What does that mean?"

The Raven Queen: "Tenebrous was my most trusted companion. My oldest friend. Although I never knew it in life, he held sway over my mind for years, through potions and through magic and through my faith in him. He used my magic and my kingdom, and when I came to my senses I had murdered a god. I am not well. I made him suffer for it, but I had no power to slay him. He was, in truth, one of them. The things in the sarcophagi. He was the one who escaped, and came back for his brethren -- only to forget. My gift" -- she laughs with a monstrous throaty caw -- "to the world. The Raven needed the memories. The Raven must live. But not off of him anymore. We are stronger now. We have you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gestures for their friends to spread out giving them each a meaningful look

The Raven Queen: "You slew my treacherous old friend, and cleansed the temple of every other obstacle to my power. With the power I now bear, I am comfortably situated to offer immortality to each and every one of you."

Suldae Westwind: Ah, yes. The part where they have no idea whom to believe. Suldae has always like these in stories.

Not.

* liked

Marcus Veranius: "I thank you for the honor, my dearest Raven Queen. It may have been weeks since I made my oath, the words stale with age and service. But I will always be a servant to my Raven Queen."

Marcus Veranius looks to the other wereravens

Marcus Veranius: "We ALL swore an oath to the Raven Queen, did we not?"

Urwin: "Aye!"

Danika: "Aye!"

Marcus Veranius: "By birth or by blood, we are obligated to serve our matriarch. And only our matriarch."

A chorus of "aye"s rise."

Marcus Veranius smiles for a moment in cheer, but his expression turns stern, sour, a scowl.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is quiet. She does not like any of this but she's just going to trust Marcus on this one.

Marcus Veranius: "But, I have learned a most horrible secret."

Suldae Westwind: She cannot think of anything else now either.

Marcus Veranius: "There is a Leech in our midsts."

The Raven Queen laughs. Her laughter booms horribly throughout the chamber.

The Raven Queen: "Why, Marcus. You are such a zealot now."

"Tell us, who is our leech?"

"Who here must be reformed?"

Marcus Veranius: "One who attaches themselves to our flock, pretending to be our kin. Our family. Bound by horrible magics to an unnatural state."

"Their very presence poisons our blood."

The Raven Queen:

INSIGHT
Queen Ravenovia

Skill: 20

Marcus Veranius: "We are bound by our oaths. It is our duty to make us pure again."

The Raven Queen: The Raven Queen looks around. She catches sight of Kasimir, behind her; Ireena, to her right, Ismark, to her left.

"Ah," she says. "I see where this is going."

Marcus Veranius: "Queen Ravenovia. As champion of the House of Ravens, I banish you from my family."

Marcus Veranius holds the sunsword aloft, pointed outwards at the Raven Queen

Marcus Veranius: "You will defile my family's patron no more."

The Raven Queen unleashes an unholy scream of rage.

The Queen smiles toothily. Her eyes have become black holes into some other space, darker than dark. Against the paleness of her skin and the brightness of her teeth, the darkness is shockingly black. For a moment, the many veils of shadow are drawn back, and she is revealed -- a human form within the darkness and the feathers and the smoke. She hangs three feet in the air, suspended by her power, wrapped in a rotting royal gown, crowned with the shimmering memory of a beautiful black lace headdress. Skeletal within her entrapments, she opens wide her wings of night, and perfect darkness floods the entire chamber, obscuring it entirely from view.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stays stil, remembering the ritual.

She doesn't need to see, right?

(I'm going to boldly guess darkvision does nothing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry bounds forward drawing the Vorpall blade and swings for the place the Queen was with his shield

Marcus and Ismark see her still, plainly visible in the utter black. They see also the many flashing eyes of the Wereravens; all now in Hybrid form in the darkness.

GM: (Make an attack with disadvantage, Henry)

(And everyone roll initiative)

Marcus Veranius: "No. I will not let you hide from your sins."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17

24

Improvised (+13)
Henry of Willowsbrook

24

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite

10

Bludgeoning

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 14

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE

Swarm of Ravens

Initiative: 19

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 7

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE

Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 12

INITIATIVE

Swarm of Ravens

Initiative: 15

Henry of Willowsbrook: whoops no smite

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE

Swarm of Ravens

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE

Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 14

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE

Swarm of Ravens

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 13

Marcus Veranius:

10

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE

Wereraven
Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana
Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE
Swarm of Ravens
Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Swarm of Ravens
Initiative: 14

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 11.15

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE
Queen Ravenovia
Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE
Rictavio
Initiative: 11

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+8 Lucky

(12)+8

= 20

The Raven Queen:

INITIATIVE
Wereraven
Initiative: 10

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius
Initiative: 10

Suldae Westwind: (as a belated thought, maybe we should have thought in advance to put some spellcasters on this who weren't wereravens)

(i mean two out of four aren't but maybe we needed more)

Marcus Veranius lights the Sunsword, becoming a beacon of truth. The darker the tyrant glows, the brighter he becomes in turn.

Marcus Veranius: (Can I have had Marcus brighten the Sunsword to full strength while the Raven Queen was sharpening her darkness?)

GM: (It takes a bit to ratchet it all the way up to 30, since you have to use an action each time to increase it by 5)

(But we could say you did that before coming into the hall, if you want—although that probably would have offended the Queen)

Marcus Veranius: (He would have done it when making his speech about the leech)

GM: (Close enough)

(I'm not going to turn on dynamic lighting because it will crash everybody)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So can I re do my attack seeing as Henry can now see?)

GM: (Hmm)

Suldae Westwind: (yes, yes it will)

GM: (Now I'm re-thinking allowing that sort of retcon)

Suldae Westwind: (I have no opinion on this)

GM: (If you wanted to do something of mechanical significance, you should have done it during the RP, I think. It can be a flavor retcon)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I can also forgo the attack and just say Henry charged her as she began the black out)

Marcus Veranius: (It would have been part of drawing the sunsword. I was typing it out when the wall of text came)

GM: (It also says you can only alter the brightness while the blade persists, and if the sword was illuminated the whole time, it would not have made sense.)

Marcus Veranius: (We at least have the 15 ft then)

GM: (Ok, we're at the top of the round with Danika Martikov)

Marcus Veranius: (Roll off between Marcus and Danika)

GM: (Ah, you're correct)

(18)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus spent luck to reroll his init)

GM: (Let's have the d20, then)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20

(16)

= 16

(Oof,)

Danika: "Oh my, Marcus! What a lovely sword! Wherever did you find it?"

GM: (EoT)— Marcus, you're up

Marcus Veranius: "Here. Hidden in the heart of lies."

"Gaze upon its truth."

Danika: "Why, I didn't know any light could penetrate this kind of darkness. That's quite beautiful!"

Suldae Westwind: This was extremely cringy. Suldae would take cringy over panicking right now.

Urwin: "Don't mind the queen, she gets antisocial from time to time. I'm sure she'll give us the light back soon!"

Marcus Veranius spends his action, and action surge, to brighten the light further

Neither Urwin nor Danika has realized that they are in hybrid form.

GM: (The light's radius increases by 10 feet, punching through the gloom.

Marcus Veranius repositions himself closer to room's center

Marcus Veranius: "What say the accused?"

[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not panicking at all.

The Raven Queen: "You are a fool, and a very brave man, and a liar. I have betrayed no one. I have usurped nothing. I am your god and your queen, your loving mother, the cherisher and bearer of each of your kindred souls. Have I not collected you all from the world? Have I not given you gifts beyond measure?"

"What you accuse me of, I have had no part in. I was victim on that day!"

Suldae Westwind: "That is extremely believable," Suldae says, making her voice not shake.

"Mind sharing more details?"

Asking questions, any bard's respite.

The Raven Queen: "I was mad with the enchantments of Tenebrous, no free queen! Only with power did I break free of his spell!"

"And by then I had gone mad—mad from the union to something I never meant to murder!"

The Raven Queen screams, swooping away like a shrieking ghost, and Henry's sword misses her.

Marcus Veranius: "I will not hear cherried words from a shadow-bound mummy. To jump was your choice, and to fall the consequence."

Suldae Westwind: ...That was kind of rude, but Suldae was staying quiet.

The Raven Queen: "A MUMMY!?"

The crowd gasps and mutters urgently to itself.

It seems the Ravens remain undecided.

Urwin: Urwin holds up his hand. "Um, excuse me..."

"Murdered? Who was murdered?"

"You have murdered someone, my queen?"

Suldae Westwind: "The previous raven god," Suldae says, her voice thin. "He can be brought back still."

"This power is usurped."

The Raven Queen: "The most innocent of all possible innocents. He deserve naught of what I gave him—against my will."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So you do not seek to cover the world, the one beyond the Mists with you dark embrace once we end Strahds dominion, the one made possible by the powers YOU granted him?"

The Raven Queen: "Now we are companions, mad with each other..."

"Why on earth would I do that?"

"The world outside is ugly and bright. I will go to the true Shadowfell, and never return."

Urwin: "Milady, you're leaving us!?"

The Raven Queen: "Not as such, Urwin. You will see me as frequently as you already do. You will just be traveling a lot farther than you realize, when you do so."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in and out, and seeks guidance. Could what she was saying be the truth?

16

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae hears a musical warble that seems like the auditory equivalent of a stupefied shrug.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How can we, mortals one and all believe you a Goddess in the flesh?"

The Raven Queen: "Why, you can only judge me by what you have seen. By what I have done in your life—in each of your lives."

"Have I not been the giver of gifts?"

"Am I not a prisoner here?"

Marcus Veranius: "You are an age-old corpse dressed in our patron's skin. Forced or otherwise, what you've done is unnatural."

"This hall remains corrupted while two are forced as one whole."

Sergei: "It's time, mother. You know it's time."

The Raven Queen: "I AM NOT READY!"

Ireena Kolyana: "We can separate them!" Ireena says. "We can split the two!"

The Raven Queen: "AND I SHALL DIE IF YOU DO!"

Marcus Veranius: "You will be reborn as all in these lands are."

Rictavio: "The Raven must be free!"

Suldae Westwind: Thanks, that's very helpful.

Suldae doesn't really want to get in a habit of talking shit to gods, but it doesn't seem like she has a choice at this point, really.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Death waits for no one"

Marcus Veranius: "What providence do you claim that allows you to ignore the ways of Barovia?"

Suldae Westwind: "Murder?" Suldae suggests in a somewhat calm voice behind him.

"I AM A GOD."

Suldae Westwind: Dramatic timing is important and shit.

"So was he."

Marcus Veranius: "You are a queen with no kingdom, taking what doesn't belong to you."

GM: (Roll a Persuasion check, Suldae)

The Raven Queen:

INSIGHT
Queen Ravenovia

Skill: 29 | 20

Suldae Westwind:

21

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

The Raven Queen: "I will not be swayed by the words of ignorant mortals!"

"Attack them, my pretties! They have defiled my court, and shamed themselves in my hall! Drive them from my sight, that I may forgive them soon."

Swarm of Ravens: "CAW!"

Marcus Veranius: "We have slain Strahd. Those that wish to see how it was done may raise their swords and see first hand."

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)
Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 18 | 24

Damage: 8 + 5 piercing

A swarm of ravens swoops from its perch and assaults Marcus, swiftly flying away. He is barely ruffled by them.

GM: (Roll a Persuasion check, Marcus, or a Deception check if you're better at those)

Kira: 14

Marcus Veranius: (May I roll Intimidate; Marcus is using the Raven Queen's own lies as a weapon of fear)

(They have no reason to believe Strahd isn't dead)

GM: (Ohhhhhh I see, I thought you were asking them to join you. That makes a ton more sense)

(Intimidate would be the appropriate check for that, yes.)

Marcus Veranius:

13

23

INTIMIDATION (5)
Marcus Veranius

Kira: "I'm too old for this shit!" (EoT)

Suldae Westwind: "Please just stay away!" Suldae cries out.

26

PERSUASION (10)
Suldae Westwind

Kira: "You got it, sister!"

The Raven Queen:

Blade Barrier

Abjuration 6

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 90 feet

Target: An area within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You create a vertical wall of whirling, razor-sharp blades made of magical energy. The wall appears within range and lasts for the duration. You can make a straight wall up to 100 feet long, 20 feet high, and 5 feet thick, or a ringed wall up to 60 feet in diameter, 20 feet high, and 5 feet thick. The wall provides three-quarters cover to creatures behind it, and its space is difficult terrain. When a creature enters the wall's area for the first time on a turn or starts its turn there, the creature must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the creature takes 6d10 slashing damage. On a successful save, the creature takes half as much damage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Where is the Barrier?)

GM: (Currently out of view in the darkness, but straight ahead.)

There is a whispered incantation. The Raven Queen zooms backwards, out of the light and into the darkness, rocketing away at impossible speed. At the same time, you hear the sudden scything, slashing sound of a million invisible blades.

The Raven Queen:

QUICKENED SPELL.

When the Raven Queen casts a spell that has a casting time of 1 action, she can spend 2 sorcery points to change the casting time to 1 bonus action for this casting.

Resistance

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: One willing creature

Components: V, S, M (A miniature cloak)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You touch one willing creature. Once before the spell ends, the target can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to one saving throw of its choice. It can roll the die before or after making the saving throw. The spell then ends.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "She's straight across from you! On the stair!"

"Don't move forward! There's a Blade Wall!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How far to the Blades and how far to her?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Twenty feet and you're dead, 60 feet and she is!"

"Aim high! There's loads of people near the stair!"

Suldae Westwind: Shit. She had hostages, potentially.

Suldae was guessing none of them would enjoy harming the ravens.

Well, Rictavio might not care.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Trusting you here Ismark" Henry says first turning into Mist and then running in the direction he was told

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

(Gm could you place Henry?)

Poof: Henry is in total darkness.

His foot finds the bottom of a staircase, and he bowls past a disgruntled voice that sounds like Kasimir.

Kasimir Velikov: "Watch it!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I quite literally can't" Henry grumbles into the darkness

(GM could you please put my token where it should be)

GM: (I assume you're running straight up to her?)

(Or are you going to throw from the bottom of the stairs?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Straight to her)

GM: (You're there)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows Ismarks advice and swings high

18

31

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

22
Slashing

26

22

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon.

Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage
from the hit.

20
Slashing

(hits?)

Two blows swing, two blows miss. The Raven Queen cackles in the darkness.

"Why, Henry. I admire your determination, but really now. This is foolhardy, even for you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Evidently you know shit about me then" Henry says falling into a stance
"This isn't even the stupidest thing I have done in the last year"

EoT

you don't know*

Suldae Westwind: (i think it works either way)

Oleg: 17

Suldae Westwind: (depending on emphasis)

Oleg: "Come on, Bill and Bill! We've got to get out of here!"

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS
MORE THAN HALF HP)
Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 23 | 5

Damage: 7 piercing

A Swarm of Ravens swoops for Marcus, missing again, driven back by the light.

Bill: (Jr.) "I'm with you, Oleg!"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir punches out a hand in the total darkness, towards the tiny portion of the seal that he can see in Marcus's light.

Antipathy Sympathy

Enchantment 8

Casting Time: 1 hour

Range: 60 ft

Components: V, S, M (Either a lump of alum soaked in vinegar for the antipathy effect or a drop of honey for the sympathy effect)

Duration: 10 days

This spell attracts or repels creatures of your choice. You target something within range, either a Huge or smaller object or creature or an area that is no larger than a 200-foot cube. Then specify a kind of intelligent creature, such as red dragons, goblins, or vampires. You invest the target with an aura that either attracts or repels the specified creatures for the duration. Choose antipathy or sympathy as the aura's effect. Antipathy: The enchantment causes creatures of the kind you designated to feel an intense urge to leave the area and avoid the target. When such a creature can see the target or comes within 60 feet of it, the creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or become frightened. The creature remains frightened while it can see the target or is within 60 feet of it. While frightened by the target, the creature must use its movement to move to the nearest safe spot from which it can't see the target. If the creature moves more than 60 feet from the target and can't see it, the creature is no longer frightened, but the creature becomes frightened again if it regains sight of the target or moves within 60 feet of it. Sympathy: The enchantment causes the specified creatures to feel an intense urge to approach the target while within 60 feet of it or able to see it. When such a creature can see the target or comes within 60 feet of it, the creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or use its movement on each of its turns to enter the area or move within reach of the target. When the creature has done so, it can't willingly move away from the target. If the target damages or otherwise harms an affected creature, the affected creature can make a Wisdom saving throw to end the effect, as described below. Ending the Effect: If an affected creature ends its turn while not within 60 feet of the target or able to see it, the creature makes a Wisdom saving throw. ON a successful save, the creature is no longer affected by the target and recognizes the feeling of repugnance or attraction as magical. In addition, a creature affected by the spells is allowed another Wisdom saving throw every 24 hours while the spell persists. A creature that successfully saves against this effect is immune to it for 1 minute, after which time it can be affected again.

Suldae Westwind: "Get THE FUCK out of here!" Suldae yells out helpfully.

Kasimir Velikov: "Sympathy!" He hisses, in Elvish.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM
Queen Ravenovia

Ability: 14 | 9

GM: (LMAO poop, 1 hour casting time)

Forget: , forget)

GM: (One minute, let me retcon)

Kasimir Velikov: "Henry, duck!"

Kasimir aims a hand, and concentrates, and begins the chanted incantation.

The Raven Queen: What!? NO!"

The darkness cracks slightly; you can see gaps now, where the pools of shadow-mist have joined.

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS
MORE THAN HALF HP)

Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 7 | 12

Damage: 7 piercing

A swarm of ravens tackles Ezmeralda in passing, but misses.

Gleb: 5

"Bye everybody! Great to see you all again! Let's do this soon!"

Wereraven:

INTELLIGENCE
Wereraven

Ability: 6 | 13

DEXTERITY
Wereraven

Ability: 11 | 9

26

"Aaargh!" The old man cries out. You hear swords on flesh, then he is silent.

Marina: "Gleb!?"

Wereraven: "GLEB!?"

Suldae Westwind: "DON'T GO TOWARDS THE BLADES!!!!"

Marina: "WHERE ARE THE BLADES!?"

Suldae Westwind: "ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE FROM US!!!"

Marina: "IS IT SAFE TO COME TO YOU?"

Marina's voice seems to be coming from the northwest corner of the room.

Suldae Westwind: "YES!"

Marina: "Ok, I'm coming!"

7

"I'm out of here!"

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Marina zooms past, flying full-speed in hybrid form, and joins the two young man in the shadows to the north.,

Suldae Westwind: The good news: it was the Raven Queen's spell that was hurting her own flock now, which was good for getting them to not side with her here.

The bad news: the guy was probably already dead.

"EVERYONE WHO'S NORTH OF THE BLADE WALL, GO TOWARDS US AND THEN THE FUCK OUT OF HERE!" Suldae screams, then takes a deep breath.

(How does the ritual work? Is it possible to begin it now?)

GM: (It is, you know her general location, you just need to begin the incantation. At the moment, you and Kasimir will both be pulling from the north. That won't be enough to separate her, but it will be enough to drag her further into the room.)

(As she pulls against it there will start to be saves and checks, but right now it's just like casting a spell.)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes a deep breath and begins chanting.

GM: (It does not count as a leveled spell, for the purposes of multicasting)

Suldae Westwind: (It takes an action, I'm guessing?)

The Raven Queen: "You too, my child!? Have I not been your mother and your sister?"

GM: (It is)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM Queen Ravenovia <hr/> Ability: 27 24

Suldae feels a sharp, jagged pain in her chest, as though something inside is trying to dig its way out. It is so painful it brings her to her knees. Suldae takes 3 psychic damage.

"Did you think it would be so easy? So simple to just be rid of the Queen who gave you all your power?"

"I am a God! If you leave my chambers now, I may yet forgive you."

Suldae Westwind: No, Suldae does not think it will be easy.

But this is not her god.

She keeps chanting while on her knees.

GM: (Did you want to do any bonus action casting?)

Suldae Westwind: (Hmm....)

(fuck it, I did)

The odds the old man was still alive weren't good ,but maybe he'd gotten away after just being a little bit cut?

GM: (At any rate, he would be making death saves)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae crawls forward and focuses on her holy symbol, incorporating a melody into a chant.

GM: (So he's not dead-dead yet)

Suldae Westwind: (excellent)

12

Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds

Suldae Westwind

Suldae aims it at... approximately in the direction she heard the sound from.

She wishes someone who's a wizard would dispel the thing.

EoT

Gleb: "Oh, oh! Oh, I'm in so very much pain!"

"Where am I? What is this place? Why is it so dark?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae would tell him not to move, but she is a little busy at the moment.

Miroslav: 20

"You're right where you fell, old man! Come on, my good buddy, we're going out the west way."

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS
MORE THAN HALF HP)

Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 5 | 21

Damage: 7 piercing

Ireena Kolyana: "Get off me!" Shouts Ireena, immune to piercing damage.

Rictavio: "Pelor, grant me your power just once more!"

"Once more, against the darkness!"

RELIGION

Rictavio

Skill: 17

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect

within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Suldae Westwind: Well, huh. The guy WAS a cleric. Suldae sent mental condolences to Pelor.

The darkness breaks. The barrier of blades does not.

The light of the Sunsword now seems to blaze brightly enough to fill the entire room. Black mist still coils in the corners of the chamber, and pools down the walls, but the floor and the seal and the chamber are revealed, thrown into stark sunlight.

Rictavio: Rictavio slumps, slightly, taking a level of Exhaustion.

Bill: 20

"Wait for me, Bill!"

Ezmerelda Veranius:

MAGIC MISSILE (ROBE OF STARS)

Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 14

Damage: 27 force

GM: (The attack roll is irrelevant)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

INTELLIGENCE

Ezmerelda Veranius

Ability: 22

The Raven Queen laughs as several darts of arcane force strike her. The darkness of her form twists and swirls like mist, taking no damage from the assault. (Limited Magical Immunity)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Dammit!"

7

120 ft

Fire Bolt (+6)

17
Fire

Ezmerelda Veranius fumbles slightly. In desperation to do something quickly she throws out a hand and launches a spurt of fire that dissipates in midair before it can reach the Queen.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark begins the ritual incantation.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 31 | 22

"EVEN YOU? MY REVENANT?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yeah, yeah, even me! Now get over here and take what's coming to you!"

She breaks the line of his casting with a furious wave of one hand, just as she broke Suldae's. Only Kasimir still clings to his strand of power.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

13

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

920

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

1412

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

8

Ismark hastily flings three bolts of crimson light after his power breaks, but all three glance off or bounce away from her darkness, without apparent effect.

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)
Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 8 | 5

Damage: 3 piercing

Suldae Westwind: "Her" revenant? Was she just being possessive or was it a thing?

A swarm of ravens assaults Kasimir, trying to break his concentration.

Kasimir Velikov: "Get away!"

Ireena Kolyana: "Come on, Queen Ravenovia! You must pay for what you did to me! For what you did to Sergei!"

Ireena concentrates on the incantation. A strand of power binds her to the Queen's shadows, and she pulls with all her might.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM
Queen Ravenovia

Ability: 14 | 12

"And YOU. You're the one who started it ALL!"

The Raven Queen staggers forwards down the stairs, dragged by Kasimir and Ireena together.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena grunts, pulling with all her will. "Guilty... As... Charged!"

"And so are you!"

Urwin: 24

"Marcus..."

"You have been my brother."

"She is as my mother. I cannot betray her."

"If you must raise your hand to harm her, I am honor-bound to raise mine to prevent it."

He draws his sword. "I don't want to hurt you. Put down the weapon."

Marcus Veranius: "We will talk of this later. Do what you need to do now."

Marcus Veranius does not stay his weapon

Urwin: "So be it."

Ireena Kolyana:

BITE (HYBRID FORM)

Wereraven

Attack: 11 | 11Damage: 6 piercing

If the target is a humanoid, it must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or be cursed with wereraven lycanthropy.

SHORTSWORD(HUMANOID OR HYBRID ONLY)

Wereraven

Attack: 17 | 15Damage: 6 piercingMarcus Veranius parries Urwin's blows

Ireena Kolyana pecks viciously with his beak and lunges urgently with his sword. Marcus keeps him at bay almost effortlessly, making the older man look terribly uncoordinated by comparison.

Suldae Westwind: who?GM: (OMFG that should be Urwin)

Urwin pecks viciously with his beak and lunges urgently with his sword. Marcus keeps him at bay almost effortlessly, making the older man look terribly uncoordinated by comparison.

Olena: 20

"Urwin, you're not bound to this! They saved our people! They saved your family! If anything, you are honor bound to them just as much as you are to her!"

Marcus Veranius holds no fault in Urwin. Another victim of manipulation. This would be settled over ale when grave soil was equally still.

Wereraven:*CHARISMA

Wereraven

Ability: 17 | 4

Urwin pauses, seeing the look in Marcus's eyes, seeing the respectful way in which he allows him to keep his pride even at a direct threat to his life. He sees the nobility there, and he crumbles.

Falling to his knees, he weeps: "MY LIFE IS A LIE!"

Wereraven:*INITIATIVE

Wereraven

Initiative: 7

GM: (Ignore that roll, sorry)

Olena: "Come on, all of you! We've got to leave!"

Marcus Veranius: "We've all been lied to, but that does not change our worth."

Urwin: "My children, my gods! My children! They're trapped with her! Please, you must free them! You must save them!"

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS
MORE THAN HALF HP)
Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 22 | 13

Damage: 4 piercing

Marcus Veranius nods

Kasimir Velikov: "Aargh!"

Kasimir has just been buzzed by a swarm of ravens.

Marcus Veranius: "It's what brothers are for."

Kasimir Velikov:

11

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

Kasimir maintains his concentration—just barely.

Urwin: "I owe you my life."

tamara: 9

Urwin: "I will stay, and fight with you!"

Tamara: "Bye everybody!"

Danika: "We both will stay," says Danika. She turns, and looses a crossbow bolt at the Raven Queen, even as she finishes the sentence.

Wereraven:

HAND CROSSBOW
(HUMANOID OR HYBRID FORM ONLY)
Wereraven

Attack: 12 | 19

Damage: 5 piercing

The crossbow bolt sticks, and shrinks smoothly into the Raven Queen's shadows, inflicting no apparent injury.

Marcus Veranius: "Your fight is in Vallaki. Take these; we will speak later."

GM: (You're up, Marcus)

Marcus Veranius passes Urwin and Danika a number of sending stones

Danika: "My, what pretty rocks!"

Urwin: "Indeed, these will go well with my other shinier. Thank you."

Marcus Veranius: "One set to speak to the winery. One to speak with us."

GM: (That should be "Shinies")

Urwin: "We talk to the rock? I don't understand."

GM: (There may not be time to explain it properly)

Marcus Veranius: "We'll speak later; give the blue-marked stone to your siblings at the winery."

Urwin: "We will."

Marcus Veranius uses his action to throw out a driftglobe, sending it straight for the Raven Queen's face. He speaks the command word and summons daylight

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20+14 Accuracy, if needed

(6)+14

= 20

A 60-foot-radius sphere of light spreads out from a point you choose within range. The sphere is bright light and sheds dim light for an additional 60 feet.

If you chose a point on an object you are holding or one that isn't being worn or carried, the light shines from the object and moves with it. Completely covering the affected object with an opaque object, such as a bowl or a helm, blocks the light.

If any of this spell's area overlaps with an area of darkness created by a spell of 3rd level or lower, the spell that created the darkness is dispelled.

(I dont have a driftglobe token)

The Light pours out brightly, but can do nothing against the bitterness of her shadows. The darkness she wields seems beyond the reach of ordinary magic. The darkness that enwraps her form like armor is a shifting, almost liquid mass. The black mist curdles and steams in the daylight, but does not entirely dissipate, and the walls and floor are still somewhat disguised near her.

The Raven Queen laughs, hissing slightly. "A clever trick. On a lesser being, it might have had some merit."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, it was worth a shot."

Marcus Veranius charges forward towards the blade wall. Sword it is

Amber Golem:

INITIATIVE
Amber Golem

Initiative: 1

Marcus Veranius: (What do I roll to get through the wall?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (dex save and eat the damage)
(I assume)

GM: (A DC 20 Dex save)

Marcus Veranius:

14

DEXTERITY SAVE (12)
Marcus Veranius

(lucky)

23

DEXTERITY SAVE (12)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (And its space is difficult terrain)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus ignores difficult terrain so we good)

GM: (46)

(Marcus takes 23 points of magical slashing damage)

Amber Golem: "Oh now, hang on a minute! This here looks almost like a fight! You're not making trouble again, are you? I fell asleep there for a bit, when it got dark—as one is wont to, you know."
"Goodness, you've got a lot of blood, don't you."

Marcus Veranius: "Go back to bed! The Raven Queen isn't herself so you have no master."
[EoT]

Amber Golem: "Now, who do I have to smash to make you all be civilized for a moment?"

Swarm of Ravens: The Swarm of Ravens mobs Ireena once again, futilely.

Kira: "I'm getting out of here!"

The Raven Queen: "You brave, brave fool," says the Raven Queen, to Henry.

She swings a hand, and a black staff of snarled shadow appears in mid-swing, firmly in her grasp, and with both hands she slams it into Henry once; Twice.

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6J|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
14 | 20

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
24 | 13

Henry of Willowsbrook: (second hit)

The Raven Queen: Then the shadows of her feathered cloak move and tighten, and lunge with sudden violence.

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
19 | 18

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_CRIT)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_crit)
:
35 | 24

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
17 | 18

Damage: 17 + 7 magical
piercing + 14 + 2 necrotic

Damage: 16 Bludgeoning +

19 Psychic

Hit: The target must succeed on a DC 21 Wisdom or Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I have resitence to necrotic

Henry manages to twist out of the way of two lunging tendrils of shadow, but one catches him through the heart, punching right through his breastplate. (DC 17 CON save to avoid suffering the following effects for one minute: the target's speed is halved, it has disadvantage on Dexterity saving throws, and it can't use reactions. Moreover, on each of its turns, it can take either an action or a bonus action, but not both. At the end of each of its turns, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

19 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry resists the terrible pull of the darkness on his soul, but the sensation of being pierced through and crippled by a creeping cold is difficult to overcome. He takes 24 points of magical piercing damage and 8 points of necrotic damage.

GM: (Also need that Wisdom save)

(Or Charisma, your choice)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 4 16 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry feels a horrible chill creep into his muscles. (He takes a level of Exhaustion.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ugh fine disadvantage on skill checks)

Henry is not swift enough to avoid both of the Raven Queen's swift blows with her staff, either; the second catches him on the head for a truly jarring blow. His most shameful and cringe-worthy memories lunge before his eyes, consuming all his sight. He takes 35 points of combined bludgeoning and psychic damage. (16 B, 19 P)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

24

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

18

Slashing

Henry's blade misses the Raven Queen's retreating back.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry grunts out in pain under the assault his head pounding from the memories dragged out to hurt him

(I am here)

GM (GM): (Yay!)

(Proceed when ready)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (am I in melee range?)

GM (GM): (You are 10 feet from her)

(Henry would notice that she is approaching From and Bray Martikov)

Brom*

Henry of Willowsbrook: (would she count as undead? for divine smites bonus damage)

GM (GM): (Sure, why not)

(She's sort of a hybrid of undead and malignantly lingering life)

(But for mechanical purposes, yeah, undead)

(Her limited magical immunity may have shielded her from Marcus's senses)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows her each step down the stairs less shakey than the one before as his sword begins to glow in gold and green light

22

35

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

17

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite

15
Slashing

22

18

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

8

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite

22
Slashing

(22 misses

35 lhope hits)

GM (GM): (It does)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (action surge)

19

23

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

21

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite

17
Slashing

GM (GM): (miss)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

29 | 19

Vorpalsword (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11
Undead Smite/Radiant Smite

17
Slashing

GM (GM): (hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (60 damage)

GM (GM): (Unfortunately it's a bit more complicated than that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Vorpal sword ignores resistance to slashing)

GM (GM): (Ah, fair point)

(However, she did create the sword)

(Hmm)

(But it has since been purified)

(So we'll go with that)

26 Slashing, 56 Radiant

GM (GM): (Is that EoT?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah)

"I'm not done with you yet"

GM (GM): (Go ahead and RP it please)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henrys aching body moves sluggish at first causing him to literally swing at shadows twice before he manages to connect Light trailing his blade and detonating as he makes contact

"Aargh!" Screams the Raven Queen. "Why, you little—!"

Lightning fast, she whips around and points a finger.

GM (GM):

Ray of Enfeeblement

Abjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

A black beam of enervating energy springs from your finger toward a creature within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target deals only half damage with weapon attacks that use Strength until the spell ends. At the end of each of the target's turns, it can make a Constitution saving throw against the spell. On a success, the spell ends.

18 To Hit

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rips up his shield

The bolt of darkness that streaks from her fingers flares wildly off his shield.

Enraged, the Raven Queen shouts: "I would have granted you mercy, if you had been wise enough to ask for it!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do I look like a wise man to you?"

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)

Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 14 | 5

Damage: 7 piercing

A swarm of ravens harasses Rictavio, to no effect.

Swarm of Ravens:

BEAKS (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)

Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 13 | 7

Damage: 5 piercing

A second swarm attempts the same, with equal results.

Kasimir Velikov: "Hold her!" Kasimir shouts, straining at his strand of magical force.

18

ARCANA (8)

He manages to retain his grasp on her, and continue the desperate chant.

Bray Martikov screams: "Mommy!"

The Raven Queen says: "I shall be your mother, child. Your parents have betrayed me. They shall be punished for their crime."

Brom Martikov "You'

Marcus Veranius: "Bray! Brom! I got you! Over here!"

Brom Martikov says: "You're a big meany!"

Brom and Bray both hide behind Marcus.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Liliet (Suldae): (please explain to me the state of the ritual cause i dont remember)

(did Suldae drop concentration?)

(well, I remember not being sure what happened)

(and only realizing i wasnt sure after my turn was over)

GM: (She hasn't successfully joined the ritual yet, IIRC)

(Only Kasimir and Ireena have. Ismark failed also)

Liliet (Suldae): (Aha, thanks)

GM: (And it does not count as a leveled spell, but it does count as your action)

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae gets on her feet and runs, her flute at her lips. When she is next to the barrier, a sharp note sees her dissolve into mist - and reappear behind Henry's back.

She starts chanting again.

(Flute) Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: VDuration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

(can I do this)

GM: (Absolutely)

(Roll Arcana)

(Or Religion, your call)

Liliet (Suldae):

18

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(too late)

(wow this roll...)

GM: (Oh, wait)

(She makes a Wisdom save, you don't need to make a roll yet)

(Once the ritual is joined, you will have to make rolls to maintain it)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 19 | 18

GM: (What's your spellcasting DC?)

(Ah, 18)

Liliet (Suldae): (rip)

The Raven Queen sees the chanting elf. "You little fool!"

Swift as lightning, she takes a swing with her staff.

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF
Queen Ravenovia

The Raven Queen makes one attack with her Demon Staff.

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:

17 | 17

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Cutting words coos the metagame piegon*Henry manages to deflect it with his shield just as quickly.Henry of Willowsbrook: (or that)GM: (17 misses)

(Is that EoT?)

Liliet (Suldae): (I think I'm out of stuff I can do so yeah)

EoT

*Rictavio lifts his hand crossbow and looses two shots against the Raven Queen.Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 10

Damage: 3 piercing + 8
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 13

Damage: 4 piercing + 10
piercing*Both strike her shadows and are absorbed—harmlessly.Swarm of Ravens:BEAKS (SWARM HAS MORE THAN HALF HP)

Swarm of Ravens

Attack: 22 | 24

Damage: 4 + 3 piercing

For his pride he is punished—a swarm of Ravens assaults him, inflicting damage.Rictavio: "Fuck off, birds!"Henry of Willowsbrook: (damn Ric can only hit her with crits right now)Ezmerelda Veranius: "Marcus, grab the kids!"Marcus Veranius: "I need some speed!"Ezmerelda Veranius:

ARCANA

Ezmerelda Veranius
Skill: 18

"GRAB THE KIDS!"

Marcus Veranius: "I'M GRABBING THE KIDS!"

The moment Ezmerelda sees that he has them, she gives her ring a sharp, stern twist.

Space and matter rearrange...

Ezmerelda and Marcus switch positions instantly.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

This was better than his plan of flying children over the sword barrier

Ezmerelda Veranius has just enough time left to raise her heavy crossbow and loose a single shot.

Ezmerelda Veranius:

+1 HEAVY CROSSBOW
Ezmerelda Veranius
Attack: 16
Damage: 11 Piercing

It strikes the shadow and vanishes, just like so many others.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Sorry babe!"

Ireena Kolyana struggles to hold onto the ritual.

Ireena Kolyana:

7

ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind: (OUCH)

Ireena Kolyana: "Aaaaah!" Ireena screams, suddenly overcome by horrendous psychic feedback. She takes 3 damage.

The ritual slips from her grasp.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (sigh Ireena yet agians rolls low)

The Raven Queen waves a hand, and the nearest Swarm of Ravens screams horrifically as they fall to the ground, bursting, melting, puddling horrifically together.

Something new is emerging... Something hideous.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I've got you, sis!"

Ismark joins the ritual.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE*Queen Ravenovia*Save: 22 | 19*Ismark Kolyanovich: "I guess I've don't got you, sis!"Marcus Veranius: "Urwin! Get the kids out!"Urwin: "I'm on it!"Urwin and Danika both take Brom and Bray and flee into the shadows.Another swarm of ravens falls to the ground, melting, puddling, pooling into something gruesome.Amber Golem: "Now, look here, you lot! Isn't this quite enough violence yet?"SLAMAmber Golem*Attack: 15 | 22Damage: 22 bludgeoningWHAM. His blow strikes Ireena. It is lucky she is not trying to hold concentration, but still a brutal, magical blow. It nearly takes her off her feet.GM: (Marcus, you're up)Marcus Veranius: (That shouldnt hit through the Adamantine Half Plate. 15+dex AC)GM: (It was a 22 to hit)Marcus Veranius: (Oof, advantage)GM: (Indeed)Marcus Veranius: (Can Marcus tell if the remaining ravens swarms are normal birds or Wereravens?)GM: (They're definitely normal birds, especially given the way she seems to be able to mold them)Marcus Veranius: Family's safe. Time for business.Marcus Veranius turns the Sunsword towards the swarmsMarcus Veranius:24120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

*(+9)Marcus Veranius19RadiantGM: (Hit, still sort of alive though)

Marcus Veranius:

15

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21

Radiant

21

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22

Radiant

(Towards that swarm if the second hit was enough to down(

GM: (It was, so the third shot goes to the second one marked, leaving it with 2 HP)

Marcus Veranius:

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to frighten the target. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Wisdom saving throw [DC 18]. On a failed save, it is Frightened of you until the end of your next turn.

>A frightened creature has disadvantage on Ability Checks and Attack rolls while the source of its fear is within line of sight.

>The creature can't willingly move closer to the source of its fear.

6

Bonus Damage

[Menacing Attack]

Marcus Veranius

(Leaving it with 0 HP)

GM: (Yup, two swarms down)

Marcus Veranius runs to the ritual circle's center, hoping light may aid in its progress

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

A surviving swarm of ravens falls to the ground, puddling and pooling in shadows... Something horrifying grows.

The Raven Queen points a hand at Henry and intones a horrific incantation.

Henry vanishes instantly.

Swarm of Ravens:

Maze

Abjuration 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You banish a creature that you can see within range into a labyrinthine demiplane. The target remains there for the duration or until it escapes the maze. The target can use its action to attempt to escape. When it does so, it makes a DC 20 Intelligence check. If it succeeds, it escapes, and the spell ends (a minotaur or goristro demon automatically succeeds). When the spell ends, the target reappears in the space it left or, if that space is occupied, in the nearest unoccupied space.

Suldae Westwind: (this is bad)

Then, with brutal tenacity, she slams her staff into Suldae twice.

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1IUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
22 | 16

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1IUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
11 | 23

GM: (What's Suldae's AC these days?)

Suldae Westwind: (rip. ac 19)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so she can have more than one concentration spell?)

The blade barrier fades instantly.

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 15 Bludgeoning +
16 Psychic

Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Damage: 17 Bludgeoning +
15 Psychic

Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or
take one level of Exhaustion.

Suldae Westwind: (advantage cause of the armor)

(quick question, is it magical bludgeoning? cause it doesnt say so)

26

22

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

Both blows strike with horrible power, breaching Suldae's bludgeoning immunity. She has never received a blow like this. Her worst memories pulse behind her eyes, filling her with psychic agony.

Suldae Westwind:

15

27

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: (God can probably pass nonmagic DR)

The Raven Queen: 63

GM: (But no Exhaustion, so that's good)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stumbles back, most humiliating childhood memories warping and merging with seeing Ismark in the noose, the tiger, the... the entire experience of Barovia.

But... they are all the past. For all the monstrocities that her brain is creating, she has already survived this.

Still...

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around confused and bewildered for a moment before taking a deep breath

SECOND WIND*Class: Fighter 1*

At first level, on your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level. Once you use this feature, you must finish a short or long rest before you can use it again.

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level (1).

16*Undead Smite/Radiant Smite5HealingSecond Wind

Henry of Willowsbrook

(forgot to turn of smites)

GM: (lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well thats just fucking great" He exclaims loudly looking at the identical walls all around him

"LET ME OUT" he yells

12INTELLIGENCE (-1)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (um)

DC20 was it

He hears the voice of the Raven Queen, booming over the maze. Her laughter echoes endlessly down the twisting halls.

At last, she says: "No."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fuck you too"

Suldae Westwind: so, I forgot to use my bardic inspiration on everyone before the fight again

Henry of Willowsbrook: He picks a dirrection and wlks EoT

Suldae Westwind: can I retroactively do that because it's an obvious thing to do in preparation

Henry of Willowsbrook: walks

GM: (I think any actions or preparations with mechanical significance must be declared, even if they seem obvious in retrospect.)

Suldae Westwind: (rip, fair)

Kasimir Velikov: Seeing Henry disappear, Kasimir loses his cool. "HOLD HER, YOU LOOTS!"

10

ARCANA (8)

Unfortunately... This causes him to break the chant. The spell slips from his grasp.

Kasimir Velikov: "Godsdammit!"

GM: (The DC to maintain the spell is 11)

Kasimir Velikov:

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

With a puff of mist, he reappears by Ismark.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in, then out. She might - might! - have made a minor tactical mistake.

Well, nothing for it now.

She starts the chant again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...I just remebered Henry has 1 level of exhaustion meaning He has disadvantage on Ability checks... He ain't never leaving taht Maze on his own)

Suldae Westwind: Her hand is on her holy symbol, and Correllon's power surges through her voice before the chant has a chance ot take effect.

(he isnt cause the DC is 20)

(and he has a -1)

(thats why i asked about insp)

(Henry aint leaving that maze even on a 20)

15

Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds

Suldae Westwind

GM: (So Ireena, Ezmeralda, and Marcus take 15 points of healing, already applied)

Suldae Westwind: (ALSO SULDAE)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I have a luckstone that gives +1 to ability checks which means he can theoretically get out...on a 20...with disadvantage)

GM: (Also Suldae! I haven't applied it there)

Suldae Westwind: (THAT IS AN IMPORTANT PART)

(yes than you)

oh ok cool

so on a double crit Henry can escape

...

prays to dice god

GM: (Yeah he'

(he'll be fine)

Suldae Westwind: (I do think HE will be)

(anyway wis save time or something)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 20 | 16

The Raven Queen says: "Are you a fool?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes," Suldae says honestly and tries to scramble past her (Can she get over the railing?)

"Why are you not fleeing, my child?"

GM: (Yes, she can)

(She is within melee range though)

(So AoO likely incoming if she does)

Suldae Westwind: (I know)

(that's why the 'tries' is there)

GM: (I'd still recommend trying it, because she's going to wallop you with a legendary action in a minute anyway)

Suldae Westwind: (yep)

(so Suldae first says 'yes' then goes over the railing)

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCSWGIX1IUC6||REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6jlrepeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
22 | 28

Suldae Westwind: (i am strongly surprised)

The Raven Queen takes a swing as she retreats over the balcony, thumping her soundly in the back.

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 10 Bludgeoning +
12 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

GM: (Did you already apply the 15 healing?)

Suldae Westwind:

20

19

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

(yes)

(ugh)

Suldae feels her worst memories pulse before her eyes, and her spirit is gravely weakened. (Suldae gains one level of exhaustion.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (man the exhaustion on those is just plain mean)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae scrambles as best she can, but it's not so easy to distract herself this time, now that she is running away and not towards the danger.

The last living swarm of Ravens is transformed into a horrific blob of flesh.

The blob sprouts two legs and a hideous, toothy maw.

Rictavio: Rictavio races towards Suldae, but doesn't get close enough to chant the prayer of healing that might protect her.

He stands tall in the center of the room, next to Marcus's blazing sword, and says: "PELOR, GRANT US YOUR POWER!"

Beacon of Hope
Abjuration 3
Casting Time: 1 action
Range: 30 feet
Target: Any number of creatures within range
Components: V, S
Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute
This spell bestows hope and vitality. Choose any number of creatures within range. For the duration, each target has advantage on Wisdom saving throws and death saving throws, and regains the maximum number of hit points possible from any healing.

Marcus Veranius: "Ez! We need the nova option! Use the spell we fused!"

(From Marcus Veranius): Level 6, Ezmerelda's spell list. Featuring Bag of Spellcraft no one else bothered with Suldae Westwind: (this still doesnt cover Suldae lol)

GM: (Ah, I see)

(From the wording, it looks like the haste effect will only affect her)

Marcus Veranius: (And through the ring, Marcus)

GM: (You clever dog)

Rictavio:

[Speed of Sunlight]

Transmutation 6

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (60-foot line)

Target: Each creature in a 5-foot-wide, 60-foot-long line

Components: V, S, M (Must be cast in an area of sunlight)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

[Bag of Spellcraft Fused Spell]

[Haste + Sunbeam]

A beam of brilliant light flashes out from your person in the form of deadly rays and increased energy. Until the spell ends, your speed is doubled, you gain a +2 bonus to AC, you have advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and you gains an additional action on each of its turns. That action can be used only to take the Attack (one weapon attack only), Dash, Disengage, Hide, or Use an Object action. Your skin sheds bright light in a 30-foot radius and dim light for an additional 30 feet. This light is sunlight.

When this spell is cast, a beam of brilliant light flashes out from your hand in a 5-foot-wide, 60-foot-long line. Each creature in the line must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 6d8 radiant damage and is blinded until your next turn. On a successful save, it takes half as much damage and isn't blinded by this spell. Undead and oozes have disadvantage on this saving throw. You can create a new line of radiance as your action on any turn until the spell ends.

When the spell ends, the target can't move or take actions until after its next turn, as a wave of lethargy sweeps over it.

Marcus Veranius is charged by the bond of marriage, fiting a beam of sunlight as well

Marcus Veranius:

Each creature in the line must make a Constitution saving throw [DC 14]. On a failed save, a creature takes 6d8 radiant damage and is blinded until your next turn. On a successful save, it takes half as much damage and isn't blinded by this spell. Undead and oozes have disadvantage on this saving throw.

32
radiant

Sunbeam
Marcus Veranius

The Raven Queen shrugs off the affect without any apparent damage or difficulty.

The Raven Queen:

LIMITED MAGIC IMMUNITY

The Raven Queen can't be affected or detected by spells of 6th level or lower unless she wishes to be. She has advantage on saving throws against all other spells and magical effects.

If her cloak is destroyed by severing her connection to enough raven souls, her AC drops by 5, she loses her magic immunity, and she loses her advantage on saves against spells.

Twin beams of Sunlight stream from Marcus and Ezmeralda, conjoining on the Raven Queen. She raises a hand, and the shadows pool before her. The beam of light dissipates into utter darkness, without effect.

GM: (Marcus and Ezmeralda are now both concentrating on the spell)

Marcus Veranius: "...backup plan! Play defensively!"

(Ez should be able to crank her AC to 25 via Defender and haste extra attack)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "DIE DIE DIE!!!!"

+1 HEAVY CROSSBOW
Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 21

Damage: 7 Piercing

The crossbow bolt strikes shadow—without effect.

Ireena Kolyana: "Uh, guys!? A LITTLE HELP!?" Ireena shouts, under the gaze of the Amber Golem.

Wall of Force

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A point you choose within range

Components: V, S, M (A pinch of powder made by crushing a clear gemstone)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

An invisible wall of force springs into existence at a point you choose within range. The wall appears in any orientation you choose, as a horizontal or vertical barrier or at an angle. It can be free floating or resting on a solid surface. You can form it into a hemispherical dome or a sphere with a radius of up to 10 feet, or you can shape a flat surface made up of ten 10-foot-by-10-foot panels. Each panel must be contiguous with another panel. In any form, the wall is 1/4 inch thick. It lasts for the duration. If the wall cuts through a creature's space when it appears, the creature is pushed to one side of the wall (your choice which side). Nothing can physically pass through the wall. It is immune to all damage and can't be dispelled by dispel magic. A disintegrate spell destroys the wall instantly, however. The wall also extends into the Ethereal Plane, blocking ethereal travel through the wall.

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena rapidly releases a spell, and ten panels of perfect force appear, separating her from the Amber Golem and shielding Suldae from the Raven Queen and the other creatures which have appeared.

The hideous creature which has formed from one of the raven swarms looses a horrifically extending, fleshy, spiked arm.

The Lonely:

HARPOON ARM The Lonely

Attack: 22

Damage: 19 Piercing Hit: The target is grappled
--

(escape DC 15) if it is a Large or smaller creature. The Lonely has two harpoon arms and can grapple up to two creatures at once.

Intending to attack Suldae, it is not fast enough, and the harpoon arm glances off the Wall of Force.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Uh... Guys!?"

Ismark turns inward. His eyes fill with shadow. "HENRY. HENRY, I SUMMON THEE!"

22

ARCANA (3)

GM: (That's a help action, so it won't take effect until Henry's turn)

The Lost:

ARM SPIKE (~-
MES5UII1NU1ESJFISPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MES5vpJFD41TDHA8DJM_NPC_DMG)
The Lost
Attack (~-
mes5uii1nu1esjfisph|repeating_npcaction_- mes5vpjfd41tdha8djm_npc_dmg)
:
24 | 12

ARM SPIKE (~-
MES5UII1NU1ESJFISPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MES5vpJFD41TDHA8DJM_NPC_DMG)
The Lost
Attack (~-
mes5uii1nu1esjfisph|repeating_npcaction_- mes5vpjfd41tdha8djm_npc_dmg)
:
23 | 19

Damage: 13 Piercing

Damage: 14 Piercing

Rictavio: "Aargh!"

Temporarily distracted by everything happening around him, Rictavio does not see the swift, many-limbed movement of the nightmarish creature until it is upon him. Two swift spikes punch into his flesh, injuring him seriously.

Amber Golem: "Oh, come now! You can't keep fighting like this, it's pointless!"

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 17

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 15

Damage: 19 bludgeoning

The Golem slams its massive fists against the Wall of Force—to no avail.

GM: (Marcus, you're up and Hasted)

Marcus Veranius: "Why are you even fighting us!? That thing over there is possessing your true master! Help us free her!"

GM: (Roll Persuasion)

Amber Golem: (He's not very bright, so it won't be hard)

Marcus Veranius:

20

PERSUASION (1)
Marcus Veranius

Amber Golem:

INTELLIGENCE
Amber Golem

Ability: 4

"Oh, is that so? Well that can't be allowed! That's stupid!"

"I'll go smash her. Then will you all stop breaking things?"

Marcus Veranius: "YES!"

Marcus Veranius does his best to reduce the number of monsters in play

Marcus Veranius:

27

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

11

Bonus Damage/Radiant

19

Radiant

17

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

7

19
Radiant

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

5

Bonus Damage/Radiant

24
Radiant

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

3

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

GM: (All hits)

Marcus Veranius:

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

7

Bonus Damage/Radiant

19
Radiant

GM: 111

33

(33 overflow damage)

(So go ahead and place that last attack on a different target)

Marcus Veranius: (Mr Grabby Hands)

The Lost: "EEEEEE!"

The Lost dies.

The Lonely: "EEE!"

The Lonely does not die.

Marcus Veranius is doing his best, hoping its enough

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

The Lost:

```
EMBRACE (~-
MES5uiI1nU1eSjFiSPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MES5vpJFD41TDHA8DJN_NPC_DMG)
```

The Lost

```
Attack (~-
mes5uii1nu1esjfisph|repeating_npcaction_- mes5vpjfd41tdha8djin_npc_dmg)
```

:

10 | 11

Ireena Kolyana: "GAH!" Ireena shouts, as she is snuck up upon by another many-limbed monstrosity. She manages to escape its clutches.

The Raven Queen says: "Come now, my children! Have you not suffered enough? Must I slay all of you? Even your beloved Henry is already gone."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do I hear her side of the conversation?)

GM: (No, Henry doesn't hear it)

Marcus Veranius: "All of your children have abandoned you, both blood and adopted! YOU ARE MOTHER TO NO ONE!"

"THEN DIE!"

She swoops across the room and is suddenly in the midst of Marcus, Rictavio, and Ezmeralda.

The Raven Queen:

```
DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6J|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_CRIT)
```

Queen Ravenovia

```
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_crit)
```

:

30 | 20

```
DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6J|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
```

Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
21 | 28

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
19 | 25

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
34 | 31

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
32 | 17

Damage: 11 +
9 Bludgeoning + 15 +
15 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

WHAM. She slams Marcus.

Marcus Veranius uses Lucky to force a reroll on Demon Staff

Marcus Veranius: (Wait no he doesnt)

(Marcus is tired, and out of luck)

GM: (The first attack goes to Marcus, for 20 magical bludgeoning and 30 psychic. He also needs to make a DC 21 Wisdom or Charisma saving throw. If he rolls Wisdom, he has advantage due to Rictavio's aura.)

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 9 Bludgeoning +
11 Psychic

Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

WHAM. She slams Ezmeralda.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus doesn't need to make the saving throw. His worst memories have already been devoured; there is nothing left for her to use.

GM: (Mechanically though, what's he doing?)

Ezmeralda Veranius:

WISDOM SAVE
Ezmeralda Veranius

Save: 8 | 5

Marcus Veranius: (Iunno, was hoping I wouldnt need to make the nightmares save cause she already stole them?)

GM: ('Fraid not)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Nice try tho)

Marcus Veranius:

23

WISDOM SAVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Marcus resists the Exhaustion, but Ezmeralda does not. She is now at one level of Exhaustion)

Ezmeralda Veranius:

Damage: 20 magical
piercing + 12 necrotic

GM: (Whoops, that's the cloak damage against Ezmeralda)

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 14 magical
piercing + 14 necrotic

GM: (Against Marcus)

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 22 magical
piercing + 13 necrotic

GM: (Against Rictavio)

Marcus Veranius: (What's the total damage between Ez and Marcus?)

(It's a bit hard to add everything together and divide evenly with health bars dropping)

GM: (Let's see... Ezmeralda took 52, Marcus took 78)

(So 65)

Marcus Veranius: (65 each)

GM: (Now, Ezmeralda, Rictavio, and Marcus must all pass DC 17 CON saves)

(I've fixed the damage, should be applied correctly now)

Ezmeralda Veranius:

CONSTITUTION SAVE
Ezmeralda Veranius

Save: 17 | 7

Marcus Veranius:

5

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

Rictavio:

CONSTITUTION SAVE
Rictavio

Save: 16

Rictavio and Marcus both feel a terrible chill creep through their souls as the power of the black cloak of shadows twists through them.

Marcus Veranius: (OH! I roll with advantage if this is a favored enemy's effect)

10

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

(Fuck)

GM: (For one minute, their speeds are halved, they have disadvantage on Dex saves, and they can't use reactions. Moreover, on each of their turns, they can take either an action or a bonus action, but not both. At the end of each of their turns, they can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on themselves with a success)

(Since Marcus is already Hasted, the interaction might be a bit tricky to work out)

(Marcus would have flat Dex saves, neither advantage or disadvantage, since Haste and Slow cancel each other there. He would still have the Haste action to use too, although the limitations about bonus actions would apply)

Henry hears Ismark's voice boom, drowning out the voice of the Raven Queen. "HENRY, I SUMMON THEE!"

(I'll be generous and say he doesn't need to use his action to escape now, he's able to pop back in where he was)|

Henry feels a powerful pull upon his soul, and suddenly the maze rushes past, and the exit is there, and he is thrust through it and back to his former position in the Temple. It's a bit disorienting. The first thing he sees is Marcus, Ezmeralda, and Rictavio in grave peril.

Suldae Westwind: (Ismark's?)

GM: (Ismark used his action to "Help" Henry)

Marcus Veranius: (Ismark spent his action summoning a terrible, powerful force from another dimension)

GM: (I'm treating it as Warlock shenanigans)

Marcus Veranius: (Classic warlock stuff)

Suldae Westwind: (oh ok gotcha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (SO I have an action yes?)

GM: (Yes, you do. You have your full turn.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "WOAH THE FUCK was Oh hey I'm back" Henry calls out as he apparates back in place

Suldae Westwind: Just in time. Maybe.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Eyes surveying the scene Henry walks down the stairs towards the Queen
"So do all of you feel as bad as you look?"
he asks his friends

Rictavio and Marcus are both snarled in black tendrils of shadow-mist, which seem to have quite a hold on their legs.

Suldae Westwind: "Yes!" Suldae calls out.

Marcus Veranius is busy having a stare down with mom and doesn't respond

The Raven Queen seems enraged. "WHAT? HOW COULD YOU ESCAPE MY POWER, WITLESS OAF?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Cuz he's got friends who are wistful oafs!"*

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I have great friends"

GM: (Dammit, autocorrect. Should have been "wifful.")

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Like this guy, SYLVANUS HEED MY CALL AND BRING AS THE SALVATION OF SPRING" Henry uses his divine spell coupon for a Mass Heal
Bring us

BOOM. The last of the Dryad Queens flares with emerald light. (Henry has 700 points of HP to distribute as he sees fit to anyone within 60 feet of his position.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 1 Party full heal please and thank you

GM: (Let's see... Suldae needs 73, Ezmeralda needs 65, Rictavio needs 69, Marcus needs 79, Ireena needs 10, Henry needs 62 ...)

Suldae Westwind: (OH NICE)

GM: 358

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus needs 79, but shares the healing effect with Ez)

All members of the party regain their full strength—although the levels of Exhaustion they have gained remain.

"NO!"

The Raven Queen realizes that she is surrounded, and that the battle has turned against her.

GM: (What else would you like to do on your turn? That does count as casting a leveled spell)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I got nothing for Bouns action so thats EoT)

Henry raise his shield grinning wildly at her

The Raven Queen screams, and shadow explodes from her. (Marcus, Henry, Ezmeralda, and Rictavio must all make DC 20 Charisma saves)

The Raven Queen:

Bane

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Up to three creatures of your choice that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A drop of blood)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Up to three creatures of your choice that you can see within range must make Charisma saving throws. Whenever a target that fails this saving throw makes an attack roll or a saving throw before the spell ends, the target must roll a d4 and subtract the number rolled from the attack roll or saving throw.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 1st.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 4

15 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

8 + 2

9 + 2

CHARISMA SAVE (3)
Marcus Veranius

Rictavio:

CHARISMA
Rictavio
Ability: 23

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CHARISMA SAVE
Ezmerelda Veranius
Save: 16 | 21

GM: (Marcus is now under the effects of the Bane spell.)

Suldae Westwind: (today is not Marcus's Charisma day)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus only gets to be badass in one fight a day. He burned it on the 16 other gods)

Kasimir Velikov: "NOW! WHILE SHE'S ON THE SEAL!"

Kasimir Velikov begins, again, the chant.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia
Save: 13 | 25

"Pitiful fool! You cannot hope to tame me!"

Suldae Westwind: (ok yeah Marcus's Charisma is just taking a nap)

"That's not what we're trying to do!"

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(Oh, wait—one legendary action real quick)

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1IUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
13 | 17

Damage: 11 Bludgeoning +
18 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Rictavio:WISDOM
Rictavio

Ability: 14

Sulda Westwind: (Rictavio and Wisdom are not best friends)Rictavio: "Ow!"Sulda Westwind: (eyyyy)GM: (Ok, now you're up)Sulda Westwind: (Imao I bet old terrible memories are one of the things Rictavio is most weak to)

(ok yeah getting on with it)

(question about the wall of force and the halo's ability to go over it)

GM: (The wall of force is 10 feet tall, but there's plenty of room to go over)Sulda Westwind: (gotcha)

Finally, Suldae has two targets that are worth attacking. First, the asshole harassing Ireena...

25

20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13

Thunder

GM: (That's a hit)Suldae Westwind: (can the halo please be on top of all other icons)

)

GM: (It is done)Suldae Westwind: (ty)The Lonely: "SCREEEE!"Suldae Westwind: ...then the primary target...

32

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17 + 10

Thunder

The Raven Queen cries out in sudden pain, as the holy gong of the Halo strikes her.Suldae Westwind:

23

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

...then back to channeling her outrage at someone TOUCHING Ireena...

GONG!

The Lonely: "SCREEE!"

Suldae Westwind: ...then it whistles back at the Raven Queen... (but doesnt yet have time to hit her) (lets remember this is all happening continuously lol)

GM: (Wait, whoops, that should be "The Lost")
(That's the one you've been hitting)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah that one)
As the halo sings, Suldae chants.
(rolla1rolla1rolla1)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 19 | 27

Suldae Westwind: (uuugh)

Momentarily weakened by the holy gong song, the Raven Queen is almost too distracted to deflect Suldae's attempt to grasp her shadowy veil.

GM: (Any additional movement/activity?)

Suldae Westwind: (mmm a step closer to the wall of force for spell distance lol)
EoT

With a faint popping sound, the strange, toothy, two-legged creature replicates rapidly. In a moment, there are ten of them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...you what the fuck) Yo)
(not you)

GM: (Don't worry, they're weak little bastards)
(More of an annoyance than a serious threat)

The Wretched:

WRETCHED PACK TACTICS
The Wretched has advantage on an attack roll against a creature

if at least one of the Wretched's allies is within 5 feet of the creature and the ally isn't incapacitated. The Wretched otherwise has disadvantage on attack rolls.

Suldae Westwind: (oh THESE are the first one i drew)

The Wretched:

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_DMdG)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_dmg)
:
4 | 9

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_CRIT)
The Wretched

[Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_crit)
:
9 | 23

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_DMdG)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_dmg)
:
10 | 15

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_DMdG)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_dmg)
:
21 | 14

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_DMdG)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1/repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrguw_npc_dmg)
:
4 | 11

Five of them leap at Marcus, but only one gains purchase with its terrible teeth.

The Wretched:

Damage: 11 + 4 Piercing
Hit: The Wretched attaches to the target. While attached, the Wretched can't attack, and at the start of each of the Wretched's turns, the target takes 6 (1d10 + 1) necrotic damage. The attached Wretched moves with the target whenever the target moves, requiring none of the Wretched's movement. The Wretched can detach itself by spending 5 feet of its movement on its turn. A creature, including the target, can use its action to detach a Wretched.

GM: (Under ordinary circumstances, it would be non-magical piercing. Since you're fighting the Raven Queen, and these are her minions, it will be magical piercing)

Four of the Wretched, toothy things attack Rictavio while five of them attack Marcus.

The Wretched:

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDRCRGUW_NPC_DMG)
The Wretched
Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1/repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrguw_npc_dmg)
:
20 | 5

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDRCRGUW_NPC_DMG)
The Wretched
Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1/repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrguw_npc_dmg)
:
4 | 6

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_DMG)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_dmg)

:

5 | 17

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDcRGUW_NPC_CRIT)
The Wretched

Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdcrGUW_npc_crit)

:

23 | 22

Damage: 4 Piercing
Hit: The Wretched attaches to the target. While attached, the Wretched can't attack, and at the start of each of the Wretched's turns, the target takes 6 (1d10 + 1) necrotic damage. The attached Wretched moves with the target whenever the target moves, requiring none of the Wretched's movement. The Wretched can detach itself by spending 5 feet of its movement on its turn. A creature, including the target, can use its action to detach a Wretched.

Damage: 11 + 2 Piercing
Hit: The Wretched attaches to the target. While attached, the Wretched can't attack, and at the start of each of the Wretched's turns, the target takes 6 (1d10 + 1) necrotic damage. The attached Wretched moves with the target whenever the target moves, requiring none of the Wretched's movement. The Wretched can detach itself by spending 5 feet of its movement on its turn. A creature, including the target, can use its action to detach a Wretched.

Rictavio: "OW! WHAT THE HELL?"

Two of them latch onto Rictavio's arms, weighing him down slightly.

The last of the little bastards tries to attach to Henry.

The Wretched:

BITE (~-
MESDOOAYIKEE2HYVIO1|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MESDQINSWWJBGDGRGUW_NPC_DMG)
The Wretched
Attack (~-
mesdooayikee2hyvio1|repeating_npcaction_-
mesdqinswwjbgdgrguw_npc_dmg)
:
11 | 7

It does not succeed.

Rictavio: "Marcus, get some distance!"

Freedom of Movement

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A leather strap, bound around the arm or a similar appendage)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a willing creature. For the duration, the target's movement is unaffected by difficult terrain, and spells and other magical effects can neither reduce the target's speed nor cause the target to be paralyzed or restrained.

The target can also spend 5 feet of movement to automatically escape from nonmagical restraints, such as manacles or a creature that has it grappled. Finally, being underwater imposes no penalties on the target's movement or attacks.

Marcus slips free of the shadowy tendrils of the Raven Queen's veil, and is no longer affected by the slowing spell.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae Strongly Dislikes that Rictavio used this spell on Marcus first while still being restrained himself. Her emotional reaction to that is negative.

Marcus Veranius: (I see a nice line of tooth dogs)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, fuck this shit," Ezmeralda says, and while still maintaining the spell of sunlight, she creates a new beam of it. (Place it where you want it, Marcus)

GM: (Oh wait)

(Did you roll Concentration saves back when the Raven Queen clobbered y'all?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (they did not)

Marcus Veranius: (There were a huge mass of saving throws tossed around. Thought they were in it)

GM: (The DC would have been... half of 65)

Marcus Veranius: (Half of each of the components of 65)

(And only on Ez's side)

GM: "Taking damage. Whenever you take damage while you are concentrating on a spell, you must make a Constitution saving throw to maintain your Concentration. The DC equals 10 or half the damage you take, whichever number is higher. If you take damage from multiple sources, such as an arrow and a dragon's breath, you make a separate saving throw for each source of damage."

(It does not say "two types of damage", it says "two sources of damage")

(Unless that was corrected in an errata I missed)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ez did take 2 attacks amounting to that damage)

Marcus Veranius: (It wouldnt be half of the lump 65, it'd be half of each club and cape)

(I don't think any of them did over 40 individually, which would be the damage needed for a Concentration save over 10.)

GM: (So it would be... Half of 32 and half of 20)

(So 16 and 10)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

CONSTITUTION
Ezmerelda Veranius

Ability: 7

CONSTITUTION
Ezmerelda Veranius

Ability: 9

GM: (So... Haste is gone)

(Unless...)

(Unless Marcus can maintain his concentration)

(Let me check what his damages were)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus doesnt make concentration, he's leeching the spell off of Ez)

(Both are too tired to act for the next round)

GM: (I declared when it was cast that they were both concentrating on it, but if you want to let it go that's ok)

Marcus Veranius: (I'd rather do it that way. Makes it simpler down the road)

GM: (But the first attack against Marcus was a solid 50, so it wouldn't help much either way)

Marcus and Ezmeralda both feel the terrible effects of the fading Haste spell.

Ezmeralda slumps.

Marcus Veranius: (Ric can probably pick a different target for Freedom of Movement)

(This would have happened before his turn)

GM: (Actually... I think that would negate the speed becoming zero part of the haste failure)

(But Marcus would still have no actions)

Suldae Westwind: (not even a move action?)

GM: (Movement isn't really an action, unless you choose to dash)

Marcus Veranius: (Strict wording, Haste's lethargy isn't a reduction of speed. You just can't move)

(No save for Marcus here, this wasn't my best idea)

Suldae Westwind: (oh gotcha)

GM: (Ah, strict wording, curses)

Marcus Veranius: (You can't be badass every fight. I'm cool with a dead turn)

GM: (Rictavio will retcon his action then)

(Rictavio casts Freedom of Movement on himself, to escape the grasp of the Raven Queen.)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is now okay with what is happening, although she is worried for Marcus instead)

Marcus Veranius: (He can also escape the grapple dogs with 5 ft of movement each)

(Grandpa gets to live)

GM: (Actually he can't, since it's not a grapple)

(And they're not restraining him)

Marcus Veranius: (I don't like these dogs)

GM: (They are pretty nasty)

Ireena Kolyana:

Mirror Image

Abjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

Three illusory duplicates of yourself appear in your space. Until the spell ends, the duplicates move with you and mimic your actions, shifting position so it's impossible to track which image is real. You can use your action to dismiss the illusory duplicates. Each time a creature targets you with an attack during the spell's duration, roll a d20 to determine whether the attack instead targets one of your duplicates. If you have three duplicates, you must roll a 6 or higher to change the attack's target to a duplicate. With two duplicates, you must roll an 8 or higher. With one duplicate, you must roll an 11 or higher. A duplicate's AC equals 10 + your Dexterity modifier. If an attack hits a duplicate, the duplicate is destroyed. A duplicate can be destroyed only by an attack that hits it. It ignores all other damage and effects. The spell ends when all three duplicates are destroyed. A creature is unaffected by this spell if it can't see, if it relies on senses other than sight, such as blindsight, or if it can perceive illusions as false, as with truesight.

Ireena Kolyana casts Mirror Image, and suddenly becomes four identical Ireenas, occupying roughly the same area.

Ireena Kolyana: Then she flees for Suldae, accepting any attack against her in retreat.

The Lost:

EMBRACE (~-
MES5UII1NU1ESJFISPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MES5VPJFD41TDHA8DJN_NPC_DMG)
The Lost

Attack (~-
mes5uii1nu1esjfisph/repeating_npcaction_- mes5vpjfd41tdha8djn_npc_dmg)
:
16 | 20

Ireena Kolyana: 5

The Lost:

Damage: 27 Piercing
Hit: The target is grappled (escape DC 14) if it is a Medium or smaller creature. Until the grapple ends, the target is frightened, and it takes 27 (6d8) psychic damage at the end of each of its turns. The Lost can embrace only one creature at a time.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ireena can't roll well it seems)

Even as she flees, surrounded by her duplicates, the Lost lunges, and snares her in a many-pincered grasp.

Ireena feels a terrible terror sink into her mind—an alien fear that is not her own. (Ireena is grappled. She will not take psychic damage until the end of her next turn, if she remains restrained by the grapple.)

The Lonely:

HARPOON ARM
The Lonely

Attack: 25

Damage: 24 Piercing
Hit: The target is grappled (escape DC 15) if it is a Large or smaller creature. The Lonely has two harpoon arms and can grapple up to two creatures at once.

GM: (What's Marcus's AC without Haste?)

Suldae Westwind: (I am remarkably confused as to which one that is)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the one alone on the bottom left)

A swift-shooting noodle arm lunges through the crowd and pierces Marcus through the shoulder, and drags him hastily back to itself.

The Lonely:

SORROWFUL EMBRACE
The Lonely

Embrace. Each creature grappled by the Lonely must make a DC 15 Wisdom saving throw. A creature takes 18 (4d8) psychic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. In either case, the Lonely pulls each creature grappled by it up to 30 feet straight toward it.

Marcus Veranius:

10 + -1 | 17 + -1

WISDOM SAVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus feels a terrible psychic scream, but manages to resist its power.

GM: (Marcus is now grappled—escape DC 15)

Marcus Veranius is too lethargic to resist, and will not be escaping next turn

Marcus Veranius: rolling 4d8

(5 + 4 + 6 + 6)

= 21

(17 damage Marcus/Ez)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Enough of these games!"

DC17

Dexterity Save

18
Fire

60 feet

Flame Strike

The Wretched:

DEXTERITY
The Wretched

Ability: 7 | 20

DEXTERITY
The Wretched

Ability: 11 | 3

DEXTERITY
The Wretched

Ability: 4 | 9

DEXTERITY
The Wretched

Ability: 15 | 9

DEXTERITY
The Wretched

Ability: 13 | 11

Henry of Willowsbrook: (you need to roll the radiant damage too)

GM: (There should be radiant damage too 9)

The Raven Queen:

DEXTERITY
Queen Ravenovia

Ability: 22 | 25

GM: (The Raven Queen takes 9 radiant damage due to vulnerability, but takes only 4 fire damage due to resistance and passing the save)

A column of hellish fire blasts upward from the seal, ripping through five of the Wretched little things and singeing the shadows of the Raven Queen's cloak.

Amber Golem: "Oh, you seem to have some pests on you!"

"Let me get those for you."

Rictavio: "No, no! It's not necessary, I'm perfectly fine! Go for the queen!"

CHARISMA

Rictavio

Ability: 10

Amber Golem:

INTELLIGENCE

Amber Golem

Ability: 12

"Nonsense! It's clear you're in some trouble."

"Now, hold still!"

SLAM

Amber Golem

Attack: 14

Damage: 24 bludgeoning

SLAM

Amber Golem

Attack: 12

Damage: 19 bludgeoning

Rictavio: "OW! You stupid brute!"

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (oof)

GM: (Oh right)

Marcus Veranius: [Eot, Haste burnout]

The Lost:

ARM SPIKE (~-

MES5UII1nU1ESJFiSPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-

MES5vpJFD41TDHA8DJM_NPC_DMG)

The Lost

Attack (~-

mes5uii1nu1esjfisph|repeating_npcaction_-

mes5vpjfd41tdha8djm_npc_dmg)

:

22 | 9

ARM SPIKE (~-
MES5UII1nu1esJfISPH|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MES5vpJFD41TDHA8DJM_NPC_DMG)

The Lost

Attack (~-
mes5uii1nu1esjfixph/repeating_npcaction_- mes5vpjfd41tdha8djm_npc_dmg)

:
19 | 25

Damage: 14 Piercing

Damage: 22 Piercing

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena screams.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (mirror Image?)

The Raven Queen turns to the most dangerous imminent threat, and wallops Henry with absolutely everything she has.

GM: (Oh yeah. Well, she's grappled by him, so I think he knows where she is. But she could still force the mirror images to take the hit for her.)

19 14 (has to be higher than 6)

(Ireena is down two mirror images, does not scream, and survives just fine)

Suldae Westwind: (whew)

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)

Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j/repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)

:
16 | 27

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)

Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j/repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)

:
15 | 26

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)

Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
16 | 33

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
28 | 24

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia
Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
20 | 33

Suldae Westwind: -M87M42XcSWGIX1iUC6j|repeating_npcaction_-
M87MgZJYz8ZrP0LS5D0_npc_dmg

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 13 Bludgeoning +
13 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Damage: 14 Bludgeoning +
16 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Damage: 17 magical
piercing + 11 necrotic

Damage: 19 magical
piercing + 15 necrotic

Damage: 18 magical
piercing + 12 necrotic

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10 + 4 | 14 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Henry takes 81 physical damage, 29 psychic, and 38 Necrotic)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14 + 4 | 23 + 4

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Also need three DC 17 CON saves)

(Actually wait)

(That might not be necessary)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah Henry is out like a light)

GM: (Do you have anything to prevent you from dropping below 1 HP?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nope)

The Raven Queen slams Henry with two might blows from her staff, and her cloak surges all at once, a black tide. When it passes, Henry is gone.

Suldae Westwind: (um)

Henry finds himself standing in a field, facing Sylvanus.

Sylvanus says: "Not yet, my child. Not yet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure Hope so I still have shit to sort out"

Henry's unconscious form reappears in a flash of emerald light, snatched back from the depths of the Shadowfell.

GM: (Make your first death save, Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12 + 1

DEATH SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (One success)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Btw No Aura bonus while Henry Is out)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir desperately begins chanting.

He pours all his power into it, foregoing any other distractions.

10 | 14

ARCANA (8)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE

Queen Ravenovia

Save: 27

Even with all his power, he cannot gain purchase on her slippery soul.

Kasimir Velikov: "This isn't working! We've got to try something else!"

Suldae Westwind: (so i have a question about the wall of force)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

(Fire away)

Suldae Westwind: (is it concentratio)

GM: (Sadly yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yes so it is gaone btw)

Suldae Westwind: (im not sure sadly is the word id use)

^

(yeah it should be gone)

GM: (She hasn't cast any other concentration spells yet, but she does have to make the Concentration check, one sec)

(Unless you wanted her to drop it? She can)

Suldae Westwind: (it does not seem to be serving a useful purpose at this point) (especailly if it did not inhibit that thing from snaring Marcus)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (mirror Image is concentration no?)

GM: (Funnily enough, it's not)

(Just has a 1 minute duration, flat out)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, momentarily distracted, loses her concentration on the Wall of Force. It instantly dissipates.

Suldae Westwind: (I cannot use a bonus action spell with a main action, can I?)

GM: (No, you cannot)

Suldae Westwind: (hmmm)

Suldae decides to listen to Kasimir, and instead does the next most useful thing she can think of as she runs forward towards Henry, while the halo continues its flight.

Spare the Dying

Abjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: A living creature that has 0 hit points

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a living creature that has 0 hit points. The creature becomes stable. This spell has no effect on undead or constructs.

GM: (So Henry remains unconscious, but he is now stabilized)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

26

14

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

GM: (If that's at the Raven Queen, it's a miss)

Suldae Westwind: (AUGH)

GM: (But you could target the little bastards)
(Since no target was declared)

Suldae Westwind: (it was, last turn)

GM: (We could fudge it, that's just brutal)

Suldae Westwind: (...yes please)

GM: (That's a dead Wretched)
(They have an AC of 15 and only 10 HP)

Suldae Westwind:

26

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(fuck every single one of them)

25

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20

Thunder

GM: (Ok... Now this is meta)
(But that would hit the Raven Queen)

Suldae Westwind: (trajectory)
(getting them all would mean AG will stop hitting Ric)

GM: (Very good)

Suldae Westwind:

24

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

GM: (Four hits, four kills)

Suldae Westwind: ...and that's as much restraint as exhausted Suldae has in the face of grappled Ireena

23

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

GM: (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: ...and now for the main prize...

16

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12 + 10

Thunder

GM: (Roll a Brit)

Suldae Westwind: (OH YEAH)

GM: (I was going to say "crit")

Suldae Westwind: (-sips tea)

GM: (Not brit)

Suldae Westwind: (i guessed)

(but i like this one)

The gong resounds, and Suldae doesn't even have the decency for a mental apology to Marcus. Ireena first.

(assuming that thing isn't dead yet?)

GM: (It is not dead, no)

Suldae Westwind:

22

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

GM: (It's still alive, but not by much)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae wonders if it would be rude to bounce it off the golem, then decides the risk of it taking offence isn't worth it.

(how much movement left)

(i have forgotten how to make the jointed thing again)

GM: (15 feet of movement left)

(It's "q" while you're dragging the ruler)

Suldae Westwind: (TY)

EoT

Marcus Veranius is tired. This plan wasn't working. Like a well-woven garment, the Raven Queen was simply too sturdy to seal or banish as she was.

Suldae Westwind: "Rictavio! Ireena!"

Marcus Veranius: ...an idea comes to mind. Even the sturdiest cloth falls to stray threads.

"SHE IS BOUND TO ME BY HER OWN CURSE! TARGET ME WITH THE RITUAL AND I SHALL HOLD HER DOWN!"

The Raven Queen hears this, and twists, swift as lightning, and looses a bolt of shadow.

The Raven Queen:

30

30

120 feet

Shadow Bolt (~-
M87M42XcSWGlx1iuC6jlrepeating_attack_-
M87MiXCw4NYubQo0AF4_attack_dmg)

(+13)

Marcus Veranius: (oof)

The Raven Queen: A flash of darkness streaks toward a creature of your choice within range. Make a ranged spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 4d6 necrotic damage and vanishes inside a sphere of perfect shadow, which heavily obscures them but guides enemy attacks towards them. The next attack roll made against this target before the end of your next turn has advantage.

GM: 17

Marcus vanishes behind a perfect sphere of darkness, and can no longer be seen.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (for how long ?)

Kasimir Velikov: "OH NO YOU DON'T!"

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 ft

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

The shadow fails, the darkness fades, Marcus feels his strength return.

Rictavio: Rictavio looks at the Raven Queen's twisting shadows, and takes his hint from Kasimir.

Raising his holy symbol, he chants, and casts a powerful spell.

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

RELIGION*RictavioSkill: 36

FLASH! The darkness breaks, torn asunder for a single moment. The Raven Queen screams as her veil is temporarily ripped away!

Suldae Westwind: (me LIKEY)

GM: (The Raven Queen's AC is now 23. The Raven Queen no longer has her limited magical immunity. This effect will last until the end of Rictavio's next turn.)

Tendrils of golden light become visible, you can see them stretching from the shadow to the Queen. She is open to attack, and more vulnerable to the ritual!

Rictavio: "Thank you, Suldae!"

Ezmerelda Veranius slumps, too weak to move or even speak.

Marcus Veranius: (Last turn was slump turn)

(Ez can act)

GM: (Oh shoot, it was)

(My b)

Suldae Westwind: "...huh?"

Suldae is somewhat confused before she remembers she cleared off the pests.

But Ireena...

Ezmerelda Veranius:

MAGIC MISSILE (ROBE OF STARS)*Ezmerelda VeraniusAttack: 3*Damage: 24 force

Ezmeralda rips off a star from her cloak, and hurls it. Seven bolts of deadly force fly from her, and strike the injured queen!

The Lonely:

HARPOON ARM*The LonelyAttack: 18 | 20

Damage: 24 Piercing
Hit: The target is grappled (escape DC 15) if it is a Large or smaller creature. The Lonely has two harpoon arms and can grapple up to two creatures at once.

One of the Lonely's arms shoots out, trying to pierce Ezmeralda. She dodges it nimbly.

Enraged, it crushes Marcus instead, mewling pitifully as it does so.

The Lonely:

SORROWFUL EMBRACE

The Lonely

Embrace. Each creature grappled by the Lonely must make a DC 15 Wisdom saving throw. A creature takes 18 (4d8) psychic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. In either case, the Lonely pulls each creature grappled by it up to 30 feet straight toward it.

GM: (Marcus needs to make a DC 15 Wisdom save)

Marcus Veranius:

11 + -1 | 23 + -1

WISDOM SAVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

GM: 21

(Marcus takes 10 points of psychic damage)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "NOW, THE RITUAL! KEEP HER OPEN! TEAR HER APART!"

Ireena Kolyana: "PHRASING!"

Suldae Westwind: (note: Ismark is one of the casters, right?)

GM: (Yes)

Ismark Kolyanovich begins to chant.

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE

Queen Ravenovia

Save: 13 | 30

The shadows are wrenched from her, and drawn to Ismark. Feathers and darkness swarm and pool, and a chain of spectral gold is clearly visible, stretching from the Queen to the portion of shadow he has stolen.

Amber Golem:

SLOW (RECHARGE 5-6)

Amber Golem

The golem targets one or more creatures it can see within 10 ft. of it. Each target must make a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw against this magic. On a failed save, a target can't use reactions, its speed is halved, and it can't make more than one attack on its turn. In addition, the target can take either an action or a bonus action on its turn, not both. These effects last for 1 minute. A target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 13

Damage: 17 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 25

Damage: 16 bludgeoning

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 17

"YOU TRAITOR!" The Raven Queen screams, her voice no longer booming. She sounds like an old woman, now.

She resists the powerful effects of the Golem's slowing spell, but cannot deflect both of its mighty blows, and takes a solid crack in the head.

GM: (And I think that's where we should end it for today)

GM (GM): (Howdy y'all)

Tops K.: (DO WE ESCAPE THE AMBER TEMPLE? TIME TO FIND OUT!)

GM (GM): (Go ahead and play your turn, Marcus)

Tops K.: Marcus decides he can't help seal away an ancient evil if he's being given the world's strongest hug, and attempts to break up with this zombie.

Marcus Veranius:

21 + -1

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

12*Bonus Damage/Radiant23Radiant14 + -1

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

7*Bonus Damage/Radiant22Radiant21 + -1

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

9*Bonus Damage/Radiant22Radiant*

(Precision on middle roll)

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

7*Bonus Accuracy[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

(20 to hit, all three attacks)

Zanshukun: (I would like to formally remind everyone that Henry is still very much unconscious right now and could really use a pick me up)

Marcus Veranius: (I'm grappled ;-;)

GM (GM): 190

GM: (128)

GM (GM): (The first two attacks are enough to kill it)

GM: (Where do you put the third one?)

GM (GM): (A 20 will not hit the Raven Queen even with her reduced AC)

Marcus Veranius: Between the eyes of Ireena's other stalker

GM: (That's another very dead sorrowsworn)

Marcus Veranius: "Your minions are gone now! You are truly alone! Give up!"

[EoT]

Marcus Veranius pretends he doesn't still have a friendship bracelet when making that statement

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:

13

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:

22

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:

20

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYz8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
21

CLOAK OF SHADOWS (~-
M87M42XCSWGIX1IUC6J|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D1_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d1_npc_dmg)
:
16

Damage: 16 Bludgeoning +
12 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (didn't her cloak get removed for a turn by rictavios dispell magic?)

GM: (That only affects her defensive abilities, she can still twist the shadows to attack)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (kay

WHAM! The Raven Queen strikes Rictavio, knocking him unconscious.

The Raven Queen:

Damage: 17 Bludgeoning +
17 Psychic
Hit: The target must succeed
on a DC 21 Wisdom or
Charisma saving throw or take one level of Exhaustion.

Damage: 18 magical
piercing + 11 necrotic

Damage: 18 magical
piercing + 15 necrotic

WHAM! The Raven Queen strikes Suldae with her staff, and two tendrils of shadow lunge for the bard, piercing her with icy necrotic power. (Need a DC 21 Wisdom save and two DC 17 CON saves from Suldae, which we will have to wait for)

The Raven Queen: "I am your queen! Bow before me, or suffer the consequences!"

GM: (Henry is currently stabilized but unconscious, no death save needed)

(He will regain consciousness on his own in 4 hours)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Can I do anything?)

GM: (Assuming he does not regain HP before then)

(If you're still unconscious, no—but you could give us some RP about lingering on the edges of life and death, at the boundary between Sylvanus and the Raven Queen)

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 16

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir, seeing Ismark grasp and pull the darkness and stretch out a golden chain of light, races across the room, already chanting, and reaches out for the darkness. He tears it away from her, stretching out another golden thread as the clump of whirling, feathered shadow flies toward him.

Liliet (Suldae):

15

5

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

11

14

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

8

18

CONSTITUTION SAVE (2)
Suldae Westwind

Kasimir Velikov: "We just need one more!"

Liliet (Suldae): (I think Suldae is not having a good time)

GM: (Suldae takes one level of Exhaustion and is now under the effects of a Slow spell, as the shadow pierces her.)

Liliet (Suldae): (do I now have two levels of Exhaustion? what does that do?)

GM: (Yes, you now have two levels of exhaustion)

(So you have disadvantage on ability checks and your speed is halved)

Suldae Westwind: (...and what does slow do on top of that?)

GM: (Speed halved, AC and Dex saves reduced by 2, can't use reactions, on your turn you are limited to EITHER an action OR a Bonus action. The version of Slow she is using does not have the spellcasting limitations)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Don't mind me just passing the time)

Henry's mind flickers in and out of his near death delirium drifting between fragments of memories, the time he got a cramp while swimming as a child and thought he'd drown, his first battle against bandits as a militia man or rather militia boy and other near brushes with death. Among them the night that left him gutted, bleeding and alone in the forrest of Barovia raging against the world for refusing to let him die with his friends returns multiple times. However there are five different visions that he finds himself returning to more than the others, Sylvanus's approving stare, The Raven Queen's dark form as she rips into him, his new found friends laughing, crying and raging, Strahd's cruel hateful stare and finally the sun rising over the hills of his home.

Suldae Westwind: (thanks. that sounds bad)

GM: (Also, it's your turn)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is barely capable of standing, feeling woozy. She knows she should attempt to assault the Raven Queen again, but Henry is lying unconscious in front of her and for one she is close enough to everyone who's injured.

And so, she opts to reach for the comforting strands of the Weave first.

10

Higher Level Cast

6

Healing

60 feet

Mass Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

(huh, this version is 60ft too?)

(never mind pls one second)

4

Higher Level Cast

21

Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds

Suldae Westwind

Suldae Westwind: (ignore that first one)

GM: (How did you get the d4s to be d8s?)

(Is that from a class feature?)

Suldae Westwind: (huh?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (different spell)

GM: (Ohhhhh derp derp, I see it)

Suldae Westwind: (I used Cure Wounds instead of Healing Word as I realized the difference wasn't where I thought it was)

GM: (So where are you placing the 30 ft radius sphere?)

(You should easily enough be able to get Rick, Henry, yourself, and Ezmeralda all together in it)

Suldae Westwind: (yep)

GM: (Oh yeah, this room is so much smaller than I remembered)

Suldae Westwind: (I don't think it'd work on Ismark anyway?...)

Suldae backs away as far as she can manage, which isn't very far.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (up to 6 creatures can be healed)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah)

(we have exactly 6)

GM: (You'd be moving out of her melee range, are you sure you want to do that?)

Suldae Westwind: ...

GM: (She has a reach of 15 feet)

Suldae Westwind: (...thanks, I forgot how ridiculous her range was)

Suldae holds her ground over Henry.

EoT

Rictavio: Rictavio picks himself up from the floor, grunting painfully. "Thank you, Suldae. I assume I have you to thank for the fact that I am not now dead."

"Unless this is hell."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waves at him, too tired for a quip.

Marcus Veranius: "Arguably both at the moment!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ugh oh hey I'm back and my everything hurts how quaint" Henry grunts rolling over

Rictavio:

10
Healing

30 feet

Prayer of Healing

Rictavio mutters something hastily under his breath and a flash of golden light descends on everyone, healing small wounds.

Suldae Westwind: (...I have a question. Could I have made a Charisma saving throw instead of a Wisdom one?)

(I only read the prompt, not the attack text, until just now)

GM: (Yes, you could have; I forgot about that)

Suldae Westwind: (12 + 11 = 22)

(if I use the same roll)

(but the Charisma bonus)

Ezmerelda Veranius considers the situation carefully and glances at Marcus. She casts Haste into her ring, binding it to herself and to her husband.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Then, swift as lightning, she raises her heavy crossbow and looses a shot—not at the Raven Queen, but at one of the golden chains of light.

+1 HEAVY CROSSBOW
Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 20

Damage: 11 Piercing

The bolt bounces off the chain without breaking it.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Damn! My weapon's not magical enough to break it!"

Ezmerelda holds her ground, unafraid.

Marcus Veranius: "We're breaking the chains now!?"

Suldae Westwind: (wait, whta?)

Ireena Kolyana: "YES! They're what binds the Raven to the Queen!"

Suldae Westwind: (OH)

Ireena Kolyana: "Were you not even listening?!"

Ireena starts chanting desperately, taking a better position on the southern part of the room.

Marcus Veranius flash backs to what happened in the shadow sphere while Ireena was describing the plan

Marcus Veranius: "Umm... no."

The Raven Queen:

WISDOM SAVE
Queen Ravenovia

Save: 21

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It might have slipped my mind with all the hits to the head" Henry admits

The Raven Queen twists out of the grasp of Ireena's magic, furling part of her darkness back to herself.

Ireena Kolyana: "Dammit! You've got to keep her occupied!"

The Raven Queen turns with lightning speed and strikes out at the Golem beside her.

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCSWGIX1IUC6J|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6jlrepeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)
:
12

...And misses, whiffing it by nearly a yard.

Suldae Westwind: "Seeing double?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark continues the chant. (DC 11 Arcana)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae asks, suddenly seeing the opportunity for a pun, stupid as it is.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

11

ARCANA (3)

Suldae Westwind: (...amazing)

Just barely, he manages to cling to the shadow, stretching it away from the Queen and drawing the golden chain taut.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I've got her!"

Amber Golem: "Now miss, you really must stop fighting! It won't do you any good!"

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 18

Damage: 19 bludgeoning

SLAM
Amber Golem

Attack: 25

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

The Raven Queen: "YOU DARE!?"

Darkness, 3/day
Abjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A point you choose within range

Components: V, M (Bat fur and a drop of pitch or piece of coal)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Magical darkness spreads from a point you choose within range to fill a 15-foot-radius sphere for the duration. The darkness spreads around corners. A creature with darkvision can't see through this darkness, and nonmagical light can't illuminate it. If the point you choose is on an object you are holding or one that isn't being worn or carried, the darkness emanates from the object and moves with it. Completely covering the source of the darkness with an opaque object, such as a bowl or a helm, blocks the darkness. If any of this spell's area overlaps with an area of light created by a spell of 2nd level or lower, the spell that created the light is dispelled.

She casts a spell with lightning speed, burning her last two legendary actions for the round. A 15-foot sphere of darkness explodes out of her, wrapping her entirely in shadow.

Henry, Suldae, and Ezmeralda find themselves wrapped at once in darkness.

Rictavio and the Amber Golem are hidden as well by the shadow.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius uses his haste action to reinforce the Sun Sword's dominance. It shines at its brightest, Barovia's prophecised salvation against its country's horrors.

The darkness and the shadow war against each other, a trembling boundary of black mist and golden light begins to appear. The light roars silently, a solar wind blasting at the black nebula, but that black nebula clings with all the stubbornness of a cornered god. Marcus's light reveals Ezmeralda, Henry, Suldae, and the Golem; but the Queen herself is lost in an impenetrable gloom, wrapped all around in perfect shadow. It doesn't matter. He knows where she is.

Ireena Kolyana: "WAIT! If you kill her now, you kill the Raven too!"

Marcus Veranius steps forward, banishing more darkness with proximity

Even with proximity, the shadows wrapped around the Queen herself cannot be breached. Her power is still very mighty.

Sergei: "Come on, mom! Give it up! We just want to give you a proper, respectful burial!"

Marcus Veranius shoots at the chains, now clearly revealed

Marcus Veranius:

18

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

21

Radiant

22

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

22
Radiant

Suldae Westwind: Suldae isn't sure if this is quite morbid enough to cross the line into funny, but probably yes.

The bolts of light rip through the chains instantly. Ismark and Kasimir are left clinging to mounds of winged shadow, and the Raven Queen SCREAMS.

Ireena Kolyana: "That's it! She doesn't have much left! We've got to pull out the last few chains and cut them!"

Marcus Veranius: And one for the huggy monster.

15 + -1

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+9)

Marcus Veranius

19
Radiant

The bolt of light turns the toothy little beast into a fine paste of smoldering gore.

Marcus Veranius: "You are a queen. Retire with dignity."

[EoT]

The Raven Queen: "Enough of this!"

The Raven Queen rises towards the ceiling on a pillar of shadow, and spreads wide her hands. Shadow and flame explode from her, silent, surging, bitterly cold.

The Raven Queen:

DC 21

Dexterity Save

A storm made up of sheets of silent black flame appears in a location you choose within range. The area of the storm consists of up to ten 10-foot cubes, which you can arrange as you wish. Each cube must have at least one face adjacent to the face of another cube. Each creature in the area must make a Dexterity saving throw. It takes 7d10 necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The black flames damage objects in the area and ignites flammable objects that aren't being worn or carried, consuming them in black flame very quickly. If you choose, plant life in the area is unaffected by this spell.

28*Fire*

150 feet

Shadow StormSuldae Westwind:*26*28*DEXTERITY SAVE (8)
Suldae WestwindEzmerelda Veranius:*DEXTERITY SAVE
*Ezmerelda Veranius*Save: 20

(+2 due to haste)

Henry of Willowsbrook:*13 + 4*DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of WillowsbrookMarcus Veranius:*21 + -2*DEXTERITY SAVE (12)
Marcus VeraniusRictavio:*DEXTERITY
*Rictavio*Ability: 19*Suldae Westwind: marcus remove the extra thing be it + or -

Marcus Veranius: (I've got a +2 on a -4)

(Bane)

(Marcus gets to roll with advantage cause of favored enemy though)

19 + 0DEXTERITY SAVE (12)
Marcus VeraniusSuldae Westwind: (you have a +- in the formula im pretty sure thats wrong)Amber Golem:*DEXTERITY
*Amber Golem*Ability: 16

Henry of Willowsbrook: (+- just means - anyway)

Kasimir Velikov does not even flinch as the wall of flames nearly reaches him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Wait Gm everyone in my aura takes half damage)

Marcus Veranius: (MARCUS PASSES CAUSE HE'S IN HENRY'S COOL DUDE AURA!)

(Thats a +3)

Suldae Westwind: (also sorry for accidentally leaving advantage on, I passed with the first roll too)

In the midst of her darkness, the Raven Queen exerts her will upon the web of Memory.

The Raven Queen:

BROODING ON MURDER

As a bonus action, the Raven Queen can bestow a blessing on one target she can see within 60 feet of her. The target must succeed on a DC 20 Charisma save or take 4d6 psychic damage, and have advantage on the next attack roll they make until the end of their next turn. The target briefly experiences the memory of violently murdering someone, and immediately attacks the nearest living (not undead) target they can see as a reaction, be they friend or foe. If the target has no reaction available with which to attack, they repeat the saving throw at the beginning of their next turn. On a success, the effect is ended, and the memory fades. On a failure, the victim uses their full action to attack the nearest living thing.

GM: (Marcus, make a CHA save)

Marcus Veranius:

26 + 0 | 12 + 0

CHARISMA SAVE (7)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (I AM HIGHLY GRATEFUL FOR THIS)

Marcus shakes off her power not because it is weak but because his soul is mighty and now unafraid.

Swift as lightning, then, and desperate, the Raven Queen swings her staff at the Amber Golem.

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGix1iuc6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)

Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)

:

14

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how do you have +7 for cha saves? Marcus?)

Marcus Veranius: (My sheet seems to have it marked as proficient. But my charisma mod is +1. Hmm

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands up

GM: (Was proficiency in CHA saves part of the dragon armor? I can't recall)

Suldae Westwind: (advantage was)

(thats for sure)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh shit, I coded Ring of Bondage as an item but forgot to remove it as a modifier)

GM: (Uh oh)

(Well, as long as you rolled over 20 you're good)

Marcus Veranius: (I don't think I've passed or failed a save by more than 2)

(Fixed)

GM: (So that last roll would have been right at 20?)

(Which is still a pass)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how much movement do I have left when I have 15 and use half to stand up? 7 right?)

Marcus Veranius: (22 on the fire save, 24 on the charisma save)

(Passing only because I'm standing next to the world's coolest dude)

Suldae Westwind: (heck yeah)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So what should I do now?" Henry asks "Hit her or ?"

Ireena Kolyana: "If she dies in this state, the Raven dies with her!"

Suldae Westwind: "Cast a spell or something?" Suldae suggests.

Henry feels an emerald glow of angry nature in his heart, and his hands begin to blaze with emerald fire.

Suldae Westwind: (Can Henry somehow help people behind him disengage?)

Henry hears a voice say, clearly: "Take back what she has stolen, my child. Rip the Raven from the Queen."

Henry realizes that those shadows look almost solid enough to grab...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry says hands grasping the shadows, which he decides not to think too hard about, and pulls

(what do i do?)

GM: (Make an athletics check)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (disadvantage because exhaustion)

24 + 1 | 15 + 1

ATHLETICS (13)
Henry of Willowsbrook

The Raven Queen:

STRENGTH
Queen Ravenovia

Ability: 20

GM: (Brb one sec)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Shield of Faith

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A small parchment with a bit of holy text written on it)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

A shimmering field appears and surrounds a creature of your choice within range, granting it a +2 bonus to AC for the duration.

(...I was just trying to open the spell description on my sheet not cast it...for now)

GM: 5

Between the might of Henry's muscles and the holy power of Sylvanus flowing in his veins, he is strong enough to rip the shadows from the Queen, tearing away a huge bundle of many-feathered darkness and stretching out a golden chain of light.

The Raven Queen: "NO!"

The darkness around the Queen fades as emerald flames burn all around her; she hangs there in the air, fully exposed and visible, her power mostly broken.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Now he is going to cast Shield of Faith on himself because that surely was an action

GM: (It was, yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh guess that worked, can we now kill her?" Henry asks light covering him in a small aegis like halo EoT

Ireena Kolyana: "Cut the chain, and yes!"

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF
Queen Ravenovia

The Raven Queen makes one attack with her Demon Staff.

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)

:

14

The Raven Queen takes a swing at him but it glances harmlessly off his aura of light, and she hisses horribly.

Kasimir Velikov:

26

Higher Level Cast

9

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile

Kasimir Velikov roars, unleashing a torrent of magical power. Ten darts of arcane energy fly from his palm and strike the Raven Queen, battering her heavily.

The Raven Queen:

DEMON STAFF (TWO HANDED) (~-
M87M42XCswGIX1iUC6j|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
M87MGZJYZ8ZRP0LS5D0_NPC_DMG)
Queen Ravenovia

Attack (~-
m87m42xcswgix1iuc6j|repeating_npcaction_-
m87mgzjyz8zrp0ls5d0_npc_dmg)

:

23

Henry of Willowsbrook: (AC 24)

The Raven Queen swings again at Henry, and her staff glances off his barrier yet again.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses despite her waning strength, and the halo strikes at the chain.

22

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

GONG! The halo rips right through the chain with effortless ease. A squawking of many ravens can be heard...

The Raven Queen: "NOOOOOOOOOOO!!!"

Ireena Kolyana: "NOW! BRING HER DOWN!"

Suldae Westwind: The halo rebounds towards the goddess(?)

18

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

The lich and former goddess ducks under it, practically throwing herself prone to do so. It whizzes past, missing her by inches.

GM: (Does it hit the golem, so it can rebound?)

Suldae Westwind: (the chain tho?)

oh yeah

(hmm)

Marcus Veranius: (DO IT)

Suldae Westwind: "Sorry!" Suldae yells out, pretending her halo striking the golem is not deliberate.

CRACK! The Golem splits in half at the mid-torso, fractured beyond repair.

Amber Golem: "How... Could you...?"

He crumbles into several pieces.

Suldae Westwind: "I'M SORRY!" Suldae squeaks.

She honestly thought the golem could take it.

But the point of this was...

14

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

(OH WOW)

GM: (Make a religion check)

Marcus Veranius: (I'm in actual pain)

Suldae Westwind:

28

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

The halo is about to miss, when...

The Halo zooms, the Queen ducks; the song changes. Suldae feels the song of the shadows and the song of the light, and with the tiniest act of faith she alters the song of the light so that it interferes with that shadow. Like a magic missile the Halo swerves sharply in the air and zooms through the neck of the Raven Queen and lands—slap! in Suldae's hand.

The Raven Queen gapes wordlessly for a moment or two.

Her head rolls backwards off her neck, and hits the ground behind her.

Her corpse falls over backwards, and smashes like a pillar of ash.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lowers herself on her knees.

The golem...

The shadows squawk and wheel and fight and wrestle against their captors; the torn-asunder Raven god longs for freedom and reunion.

Suldae Westwind: She knows it guarded the temple.

She knows they had to trick it into helping.

Still.

This is a bit too much for her.

EoT

Marcus Veranius pats Suldae on the shoulder

The darkness fades, and light returns to the Temple.

Marcus Veranius: "We can rebuild him. We have the technology."

Somewhere, an amber sarcophagus crumbles.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Are we done?" Henry asks

Suldae Westwind: Suldae chuckles despite herself.

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm not sure... She's definitely dead. But we have to put the Raven back together now."

"I'm... Not entirely sure how we do that."

Suldae Westwind: "Right," Suldae forcibly pulls herself up.

She takes a step back and starts to play.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at his hands is he still holding anything from the Shadow stuff?

 Suldae Westwind: The melody is calm, but not slow. It is a song of spring waters breaking ice, of new life budding on winter-grey branches.

In his arms is a whirling mass of many-feathered shadow. He senses it watching him, observing him respectfully.

 Suldae Westwind: She stumbles further back, so as to not get in the way of anything the others might manage.

Ismark and Kasimir wrestle with similar blobs of whirling darkness.

 Kasimir Velikov: "The seal," Kasimir says. "It is how she was made, and it is how everything she did will be unmade."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hey there uhm anything you wnanna add?" Henry asks his blob of shadow

 Kasimir Velikov: He approaches the seal solemnly, gripping the shadows in his hands.

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark joins him, and looks meaningfully to Henry.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over aswell

The shadow says: "CAW!"

Shadows leap from the hands of Ismark, Kasimir, and Henry. They merge together directly above the seal, a roiling sphere of wings and shadow.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "yeah i get that"

There is an explosion of darkness...

A moment later, a raven the size of a chariot stands on the seal, its emerald eyes gazing fiercely at the party.

It opens wide its massive beak and gives a single titanic "CAW!"

 Suldae Westwind: The halo is hovering next to Suldae. She feels a sense of justice done from it. The angel's death is not on them, it is on the being they just killed.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I'm way to tired for this" Henry says sitting down

The temple shakes; the stones grumble, the mountain shifts.

 Suldae Westwind: Her guilt will not dissipate this easily, but it is perhaps a first step.

 Marcus Veranius dims the Sunsword out of respect

CRACK! The seal splits from one end to the other.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Nevermind"

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae keeps playing.

It is the one tribute she has to offer.

The moment the seal splits, roots burst through it, rising fiercely into the chamber, budding, flowering instantly.

A tree of white flowers grows in seconds, rooted through the seal to the earth below. In its bark there is a strange patch of different wood, which suddenly springs open, revealing that the tree is hollow, and contains a spiral staircase leading downwards into gloom.

Three voices whisper through the chambers of the ancient temple. "Well done."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Correllon. Sylvanus. Marcus's first wife.

GM: (That was supposed to be description, not Ismark)

Ismark Kolyanovich slumps to his knees,

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I don't feel so good..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels her heart freeze in her chest.
She looks at Ireena, still playing.

Marcus Veranius doesn't recognize the voice. But it's oddly comforting.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry watches Ismark collapse an irritated growl forming in his throat
"No,nonono.NO! We won!" Henry walks over to him but addresses the Room "Do we have an hour?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir is at his side in moments.
Wordlessly, he holds his friend.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark burps.

Suldae Westwind: (how is Ireena reacting)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, that's loads better."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena walks over and slaps him.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark gives a cheeky grin. "Sorry, but I really did feel that. Something about the Temple unrooting... It was a very dizzying feeling."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I swear by all that is good and holy I would smack you if I weren't sure I could break stone with my bare hands right now"

Marcus Veranius smiles. "Well if you felt it then Strahd's likely felt it too. We've broken one of Barovia's greatest powers today."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out in relief.

Marcus Veranius: "No more halls of temptation. No more buried tyrants."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark suddenly stiffens, staring wildly around.
"Do you hear that!?"

Suldae Westwind: She gently winds the song to a close.

It is not over, she is simply no longer playing it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry listens

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir is stroking his back soothingly, mindlessly. He looks around, listening with his mutilated ears.

"I hear nothing."

Suldae Westwind: "...So... let's go see if the ravens are okay?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "There it is again!"

He looks around.

He looks at the party, and says: "It's calling me."

"The dragon..."

Marcus Veranius: "Argynvostholt. The revenant castle."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir raises an eyebrow quizzically and looks at Marcus.

"Another haunted castle?"

Marcus Veranius comments, reflecting on the revenant soldier they met

Ireena Kolyana: "It's technically a manor," says Ireena.

Marcus Veranius: "We encountered one of their soldiers while marching on the Winery."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I'm wanted there. I can't refuse the call."

Kasimir Velikov: "You're wanted here too."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I know. I'm sorry."

Ismark stands shakily, leaning on Kasimir.

"Will you all come with me?"

Marcus Veranius forces a Sending Stone into Ismark's hands.

Marcus Veranius: "We are all on the brink of death."

"We will follow as soon as we are able."

Suldae Westwind: "No, I say we go," Suldae says in a shaky voice.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "The journey is far, and it is within the safe territory. We won't make it in just one day."

"We have time to rest, I think..."

"But tell me, can none of you hear that infernal drum?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah I'm going to seleep for a week or so when we can"

Suldae Westwind: "...Yes. Just as long as we are not splitting up."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks down the spiral staircase of the tree.

Marcus Veranius: "We have to deliver the resources found here to Krezk."

"And this tunnel will lead there anyways."

Ireena Kolyana: "I'd say this is our way out."

Suldae Westwind: "I think we can rest here first."

"Find the ravens, see if they're fine... and rest here."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks around at the darkness of the dead temple. "Yes," she says at last. "I think we're safe here... For now."

Kasimir Velikov: "Unless Strahd is coming?"

Kasimir looks at Marcus meaningfully.

"I doubt that he will be forgiving about the murder of his mother."

Marcus Veranius: (WE NEED A WEEK FOR SULDAE TO READ THE BOOK. GM PLZ ;-;)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey, murder is a strong word!"

Marcus Veranius quickly senses for Strahd

Henry of Willowsbrook: (and atleast to longrests to get rid of exhaustion ...)

Marcus senses an incredibly powerful undead entity above the party, at the main door of the temple.

Marcus Veranius: "Yeah, Strahd's still waiting outside."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Tunnel, then?"

Marcus Veranius: "We need to go yesterday."

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe we can ask Vasilka to seal the path behind us!"

"Hurry, hurry!"

Marcus Veranius starts preparing the crab mech and attached chariot for tunnel travel

Rictavio: Rictavio checks to make sure everything he can cram into his bag of holding is crammed into his bag of holding.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena kisses Suldae fiercely on the cheek. "You did good back there."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark and Kasimir are the first into the tunnel.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lights his lantern and follows "Let's get out of here"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "The drumming... The drumming!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Any way I can help, babe?" Ezmeralda asks, checking on Marcus.

Marcus Veranius: "Yes, take these levers."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae briefly hugs Ireena and unfreezes, running instead in the direction the ravens fled.

Marcus Veranius had Hiere brief him on how to move the crab mech. This shouldn't be too difficult

 Suldae Westwind: They're not leaving them here for Strahd.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns around and follows Suldae "what was that about splitting up?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus, the sending stones!"
"We have to make sure Urwin and his family got out!"

 Marcus Veranius attempts to call his family

 Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda takes the controls and very quickly gets the hang of it. "I've got this."

 Marcus Veranius: "URWIN! You're back at Vallaki, right?"

She leads the apparatus into the tunnels.

Urwin: "Yes! We are all here. We have called a meeting. What news do you bear?"

BOOM.

 Marcus Veranius: "Checking in. Call you right back, Strahd is angry."
"...er."

The sound of the doors of the temple falling flat to the earth seems to jolt the whole temple.

 Strahd von Zarovich: "Tatyana! You cannot hide from me! I would smell the sweat on your skin from a mile away."

 Ireena Kolyana: "GROSS!"

 Ireena Kolyana shouts: "Suldae, let's go!" and bolts down the stairs.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "And that's our cue to scram" Henry says "Vasilika please tell me you can hear me and that you can seal that tunnel shut behind us"

 Marcus Veranius: "STRAHD I SWEAR TO YOUR MUM WE DO NOT HAVE THE PATIENCE FOR YOU TODAY!"

 Vasilka: "I am ready on your mark," says Vasilka, very calmly.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Liliet you here?)

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs back.

(sorry)

She is too exhausted to think straight, the remnants of the Raven Queen's power still weighing her down.

 Marcus Veranius takes a few moments to yeet Golem Parts into the chariot on top of the other stuff. No man left behind

 Rictavio: "Go, go, go! There's no time!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns and steps into the tree pushing the others ahead of him "All you Vasilika darling" He calls out descending the stairs "Seal it up"

Vasilka: "It is done."

Even as the party races down the spiral staircase, the tree begins to shrink once more into the earth. Behind you, the wood grows swiftly, sealing up the stairs you have left behind.

In moments, the entire party is deep underground, in a tunnel 20 feet wide and eight feet tall, which stretches on to the northwest seemingly forever in a perfectly straight line. The walls are lined with woven roots.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is leaning on Ireena, barely managing to move her legs in time.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena holds her tightly, panting herself.

"We made it," she says, half-laughing.

"We made it!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rudely gestures towards the temple and Strahd "So long asshole"

Ireena Kolyana: "You guys, we just killed a god!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "The drums... The drums!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "More than one I think"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir gently touches two fingers to Ismark's forehead, and Ismark slumps backwards, limp and unconscious.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae closes her eyes. It does not feel much like a victory. She is still... not sure they did the right thing.

It should, she knows it should.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir stoops and picks him up, seemingly without effort, and carries him, unconscious, onward.

Suldae Westwind: But she's too tired to really appreciate it.

And the golem's question is still ringing in her ears.

Suldae feels something—her Raven Spirit within her. It is looking at her, observing her with a newfound respect and adoration.

Marcus feels his own, as well, doing the same.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Do you... Do you feel that?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives her raven sister a mental hug.

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes... Yes I do."

Rictavio: "What are we feeling, now?"

Suldae Westwind: "The ravens," Suldae says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Unless it's a killer headache then no I don'T"

 Ireena Kolyana: "I can't explain it."

 Suldae Westwind: In her exhausted mind she believes this is an explanation.

It is as though a darkness that has hung over the souls of the were ravens, half unnoticed, is now suddenly lifted. Where there was darkness, there is now light.

 Marcus Veranius sighs, resting on the chariot of treasure loot. "I can. We're not kicked out of the family for ruining Mother's dinner party."

 Suldae Westwind: It's nice to have some people approve of them. It's even better to have her god approve of her. She did notice that.
But... but.

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "We did the right thing."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Hey look, Suldae! Marcus brought the golem parts!"
"Maybe we can fix him?"
"Not right now, though."

 Marcus Veranius: "I've got an Iron Golem Manual that says we can do better than fix."

 Ireena Kolyana: "All I want right now is a hot bath and a three-day nap."

 Suldae Westwind: "Nice," Suldae says, trying to convey all her gratitude in her voice.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh I'm with you on that Ireena"

 Suldae Westwind: Horrible as that sounds, it's not about the golem. It's about her and what she did.
Oh, it's also about the golem, and she is happy. But...
The book feels like it's burning through her bag. Not literally, but...
She has things to figure out.

 Vasilka: "You have broken Strahd's hold upon the land," Vasilka says, to Henry only. "The fogs have lifted. Only the castle remains within his power."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae realizes that she is being an idiot.
She turns into a raven, and with a few flaps of wings comes to rest on the treasure.

 Vasilka: "He will retreat, unable to bear the sunlight."

 Suldae Westwind: No running for this little gal.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says: "Oh damn, now there's a good idea." She does the same, joining Suldae on her perch.
Within seconds, she's asleep.

 Suldae Westwind: (THAT'S WHAT I WAS GOING TO TYPE LMAO)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry relays what Vasilika shared with him

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae is also asleep within seconds.
Henry's words reach her already in a haze, and her dreams are full of dawns and bats and castles in a confusing maze.

Marcus Veranius: "That's...."

"That's actually terrible news."

Marcus Veranius says with a serious expression

Rictavio: Incredulous, Rictavio says: "Dear boy, why? Surely that's the best news we've received since coming to this accursed land."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus my dear friend can you please let us have five minutes before you murder the mood in a dark side alley again?"

Kasimir Velikov: "The beast is most desperate when it is cornered."

"Rahadin will be on the prowl."

Marcus Veranius: "The fog was keeping all of Barovia contained. Only Vistani in and out. Strahd may be locked to his castle, but not his influence."

"Who knows how many sellswords he can pull with tricks and guile."

"We can't assume this as a victory until Strahd is nailed to his coffin."

Kasimir Velikov: "I had not considered that," says Kasimir.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs looking at the markings on his armor

Kasimir Velikov: "We shall have to seal the border somehow, and block the roads."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "GUess the 5 minutes are over already"

Kasimir Velikov: "Not necessarily... If the forest is free, and on our side... Yorhash and Vasilka may be able to seal the borders for us."

"Strahd will be limited to the distance he can travel and return in a single night."

Marcus Veranius: "So at least Barovia won't be able to get out."

Kasimir Velikov: "And ordinary mercenaries will not be able to get in."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay how about we get out of the underground first maybe have a nap and then start planning again?"

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd was able to pull an entire ancient dragon in with boarder protection. I wouldn't put it past him to replace what horrors we've slain with more."

Kasimir Velikov: "To be honest, I am content to nap right here. There is something comforting about knowing several thousand tons of earth stand between us and that devil."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Kasimir, you are once again the smartest one in our party."

Kasimir Velikov: "Once we are out, we will have to be on our toes. Rahadin is a master of disguise."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "On that note where are we?" Henry looks around (at this point I would like to remind the GM that Henry speaks undercommon)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae and Ireena prove the wizest, already snoring away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Not that I want anything to happen with that just saying this seems like the only situation where that could come up)

GM: (It is only 8 miles to Krezk, in the tunnel)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean sure we can Rest here" Henry says rubbing his eyes

GM: (At a normal pace, you could make it in 2.5 hours. At a fast pace, just 2 hours. At a slow pace, 4 hours.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But Krezk isn't that far out"

Marcus Veranius: "Fuck it, I'm taking a nap before more monster moles ruin our day."

Kasimir Velikov: "I have little need of rest," says Kasimir. "I will keep the first watch."

Marcus Veranius attempts to sleep Dragon-Style on the hoard of treasure

Suldae Westwind: (Marcus is also a raven)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thank you Kasimir you glorius Magic man" Henry exclaims getting ready for a very long nap

Suldae Westwind: (he can take a page out of Ireena and Suldae's book who are already being mini-dragons)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is already a mini-dragon. He's a merchant)

Suldae Westwind: (you know thats valid)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So Long rest? and not to be greedy but EXP for Queen Mean and the lean death beans?)

GM: (Yes, go ahead and take a long rest)
(How much XP do you need to get to your next level?)

Suldae Westwind: (why are we not using the milestone model again)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 120.000-118.768

Marcus Veranius: (GM has more fun with numbers)

Suldae Westwind: (...valid)

GM: (I have been told that players prefer to have the points. Personally I don't care either way)
(Boom, you all receive exactly enough XP to level up.)

Marcus Veranius: (I literally just copy whatever number Henry produces)

Suldae Westwind: (I like the numbers slightly better its true)

GM: (Actually, for the sake of fun, take 10,000 XP each.)

Suldae Westwind: (oh nice :3)

Marcus Veranius: (BIIIG NUMBERS! BIIG PRIZES!)

GM: (For the sake of fairness I will tally the XP from that fight and split it between the party members. If it is less than 10,000, you can take the 10,000 instead. If it is more than 10,000, well. You've earned it.)

Suldae Westwind: (this is clearly the best option)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so 10.000+our total or +the required exp for level 13
?)

Suldae Westwind: (we need less than 10 000 for 13)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I know but do we add 118.768 +10.000 or which would put us 8768 over level 13

GM: (Looks like 10,000 is the higher number, so take 10,000 XP flat, to put you 8768 over level 13.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (hey guys guess what Paladins get at Level 10!)
(A New Aura!)

GM: (Ooh, Aura of Courage)
(That will come in handy!)

The party rests peacefully. Several long hours later, Kasimir wakes you all.

Kasimir Velikov: (The party receives the benefit of a full long rest. All levels of exhaustion are removed.)

"I thought it prudent to continue moving," he says calmly. Henry realizes that he is lying on a floating disc of invisible magic, next to Rictavio. The Apparatus of Kwalish is walking steadily along, dragging the chariot and the newly-awakened Suldae, Ireena, Marcus, and Ezmerelda. Kasimir is still carrying Ismark's limp form in his arms. He walks and talks without looking back at you all.

"I believe we have arrived."

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(5)

= 5

A large staircase cut into the earth and bound with dense roots rises before you, leading up to a door.

Kasimir Velikov: "I have decided to keep Ismark unconscious, for the time being. It is somewhat taxing to do so, as his undead form does not require sleep. His spirit is deeply troubled."

"I believe he may feel better when we are more firmly under Vasilka's influence."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Man I feel much better now"

Marcus Veranius has determined, once again, that gold coins make a poor bedding material

Marcus Veranius: "Why do I keep doing this to myself..."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena resumes human form. "I feel like I've slept for years!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Ow. Ow ow ow. Ow."

Ezmerelda sits up stiffly and pulls a huge, fist-sized diamond out from under her back.

"Hey, wait. I slept in Raven form."

Kasimir Velikov: "You transformed back in your sleep. I do not know why."

"Luckily, the apparatus had no trouble with the added weight. It is an ingeniously made little thing. Perhaps dwarven, I think. Do you know, I have never met a dwarf?"

Rictavio: "I haven't slept like that in ages."

Rictavio stretches luxuriously, seeming almost younger than before. There is a certain glow to his skin now.

He seems to be thinking about something, remembering something pleasant and unexpected.

He looks at everyone. "I've been a terrible ass for decades. I'm sorry that all of you had to deal with that."

"I..." he cannot meet Ezmerelda's eyes. "I was once, you see, a cleric of Pelor."

"Long, long ago."

Rictavio: "I had thought myself abandoned by him. Too long in the blood and gore of this accursed business; too long twisted by revenge."

"Too unworthy of his light."

He pauses, thinking deeply.

"I did not expect his mercy, and it saved us all."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hey, you can't take all the credit."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah. It was the halo and the sword that finished her, and Henry's trick with the glowing hands."

Suldae Westwind: "Nah, Rictavio contributed too," Suldae joins in. "He performed far above my expectations in usefulness, truly."

Marcus Veranius: "Let's take it as a blessing. Maybe Barovia doesn't have to be forever damned anymore. And so too those within its borders."

Suldae Westwind: She is awake now, and sitting on the coins. Sleeping on them in RAVEN form was extremely comfortable.

Or maybe she was just that tired.

Marcus Veranius still won't test if he can walk into a temple without being burned alive though

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gets of the disk and walks whilest stretching "No that we are out I can finally, conclusively say...Fuck That Temple"

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, fuck that temple."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Fuck that temple."

Kasimir Velikov: "Indeed, I must concur. Fuck that temple thoroughly."

Ismark Kolyanovich: (In his sleep): "Fuck that temple..."

Marcus Veranius: "Let the mountain snows bury it for good."

Rictavio: "In Pelor's name," mutters Rictavio, kissing his holy symbol.

The tunnel vibrates, the earth shakes. A rumble and a roar, like the sound of an avalanche precisely eight miles away, howls around you for a time.

Soon the earth grows still, and silent.

Marcus Veranius: "...but a landslide is just fine."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry approaches the door "You know I for one am starving so let's get out of the hole and get some food" he says as he pushes it open

Marcus Veranius takes a moment to see if he can still tap into his raven form, given the troubles everyone else was having. Not that anyone would notice under the Hat of Disguise; he hadn't left hybrid form for over a week now. It was just... too convenient.

The party emerges from a towering oak tree in the middle of Krezk.

Marcus feels his Raven watching him with reverent awe, ready to obey at a moment's thought.

He has no difficulty communing with it.

He knows at once why Ezmerelda's Raven form has failed her; the complex arrangement between Ezmerelda, the Raven Queen, and Marcus has been deemed unlawful.

Marcus feels the Raven extending something shining in its beak: his memories. All of them.

He senses also that the Ravens seek his opinion on Ezmerelda's inclusion into the family.

Suldae Westwind: (brb)

GM: (Does Marcus take his memories back?)

Marcus Veranius: ...

Baron Krezkov: "You're back!"

"Thank the gods! And you're all alive! And unharmed!"

"Incredible!"

Marcus Veranius trusts his merchant's intuition. He's never made a bad deal in his entire life. Whatever he gave up was worth what he has now.

Rictavio: "Not to toot our own horns, but I believe a massive feast is in order."

Baron Krezkov: "And you were successful in your mission? The Temple is cleansed?"

GM: (Oops, should be "The Temple is sealed against Strahd")

(IIRC, that was the original mission)

Marcus Veranius: "Err. Yes, but actually no."

Suldae Westwind: "...We definitely did something," Suldae smiles weakly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Lot's of property damage was involved some of it accidental"

Marcus's Raven keeps the shining memories, and takes Marcus's vote for Ezmerelda into account.

Vasilka: Vasilka comes gliding down the street towards you. The Baron cringes away slightly. All around her is a small army of beautiful hybrid creatures; werebeasts of all shapes and forms.

"Greetings, Henry. Greetings, all."

"You have done well."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks up to Vasilka and pulls her into a hug before picking her up and twirling her around

"Thank you" He murmurs in sylvan

Marcus Veranius: Oh! The abbey's made its way to town for a visit! That means they're at least somewhat accepted!

Good news all around!

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I was almost lost" he continues in sylvan

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is refreshed by sleep somewhat, yet somehow she still feels exhausted.

Still, a smile is splitting her face.

The sky is blue, and the sun is shining.

People - alive people - are around.

On the whole, in the last couple of days, they did good.

Vasilka: "It was my pleasure," murmurs Vasilka back, in Sylvan. To the rest, in Common, she says: "Your friend Joan has laid out a small feast just for you, up at the Abbey. I have invited Baron Krezkov and his wife, and Urwin and Danika Martikov. Is there anyone else who ought to be present at our war council?"

Marcus Veranius considers

Marcus Veranius: "There is still two allies we may call upon."

"Argynvostholt, though we have not met, may be partial to seeing Strahd's demise."

"There is also that wizard lurking about in the northern forests somewhere..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry puts her back down "I am starving!" he says

Vasilka: Vasilka giggles. "I am pleased to hear it, and so will Joan be."

Vasilka looks to Marcus. "The cry of the silver dragon pulls mightily upon Ismark. He could be your emissary to Argynvostholt without difficulty. In fact, he is there even now, in his dreams."

"As to the wizard..."

"Yorhish believes he has found the wizard's lair. When you are ready, it should be easy to find him."

"He is insane, and very deadly. You will need to be cautious. More cautious than you have ever been."

Marcus Veranius: Dream visits were quite common in this country. Marcus nods in understanding.

"...insane?"

Suldae Westwind: "...We might want a couple of days' rest first," Suldae says dreamily, clutching her book.

Somehow it made its way from the bag to her hands.

Suldae is not entirely aware how but she does know she was probably involved somehow.

Marcus Veranius doesn't know whether to be shocked or smug. This is EXACTLY why he didn't want to go wizard hunting before their run for the Amber Temple

Vasilka: "We believe that he has shielded his mind with a spell, to hide from Strahd and bide his time. Either that, or he has been cursed. His madness is an arcane affliction, intentionally placed upon him. I believe you may have what it takes to break his curse."

"And time is now, at last, on our side."

"We own Barovia; Sylvanus and Correllon and Pelor have reclaimed the land. Only Castle Ravenloft yet stands wrapped in mists and shadow. The curse has been pushed back, and will soon be extinguished. We have time to plan."

"I must warn you, however: the more time we give Strahd, the more he will fortify his position and scheme to dismantle ours."

"Come, I have arranged living quarters at the Abbey for each of you. I have perfected what the angel could not; his mongrelfolk are now werebeasts, and cured of their madness."

"They and the villagers have reached a meaningful peace."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Busy two days huh" Henry says beginning to walk towards the Abbey

Marcus Veranius: "Two days? Felt like two months almost."

Vasilka: "Indeed. Each hour you were away burned like a year inside my mind. I had to keep myself occupied."

Marcus Veranius walks by the Baron, leaving a Driftglobe in his hand.

Marcus Veranius: "Sorry for missing out on Junior's birthday."

Baron Krezkov: "Junior's... Birthday?"

Marcus Veranius: (We skipped the Baron's Son's birthday to go temple hunting)

(They had a party for us and we kinda bailed)

GM: (Sweet mother of damn, that was a long time ago)

(I'll take your word for it)

Baron Krezkov: "Oh! Think nothing of it! You had a whole world to save."

"And you had already saved my whole world. I cannot possibly owe you a greater debt of gratitude."

Marcus Veranius: "A child's birthday though! They don't understand the big stuff like we do. Not their job."

"Hopefully he likes it! Glows like the sun."

Baron Krezkov: The Baron takes the Driftglobe reverentially. "Thank you, Marcus! He will love it dearly."

Henry of Willowsbrook: As Henry makes his way up the hill he loses himself in his thoughts or rather in his memories. It had still hurt seeing it again, Rhiannon and Lorelei together but the hurt had changed. It was no longer the pain of a broken heart but rather the hurt of betrayal and the pain of distrust and deception.

'Why didn't they talk to me...I would have understood after some time sure but I...' He thinks to himself before pausing and with once again picturing his nominal wife.'Why is it only betrayal but no more heartbreak ?. Henry stops walking away from everyone else as the realization leaves him dumbfounded.

"I'm not in love with her anymore" He says out loud as if that would make this somehow less surprising.

Lilieth (Suldae): i believe i am actually here

When the party arrives at the Abbey, they find a great feast laid out for them in the main hall.

Joan: "Oh! Henry, you're back! And so is everyone else! No casualties, then?"

"What a relief!"

"Well, you'd better all have a seat, the goat is almost done."

Above the fire, on a large spit, a whole goat is roasting. The smell is incredible.

The table is already heavy with fare: fresh bread, roasted vegetables, two mountainous cakes, two roasted pigs, six roasted chickens, a huge platter of steamed crawfish and crabs, and several fish.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands there, frozen between HUNGER and MANNERS

Vasilka: "Please," says Vasilka, gesturing to the feast. "This is all for you!"

She seats herself at one end of the table.

Marcus Veranius: :|

You note that Joan is aided by a young girl you have not seen before; one whose hair is oddly spidery.

GM: (brb)

Marcus Veranius still remembers the last banquet feast they had at Vasilika's house

Marcus Veranius isn't sure if he's grateful or scared...

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is waiting for everyone else to get seated. Some ingrained manners from her childhood insist that a proper lady does not eat much but she knows she's going to DEVOUR so somehow half-subconsciously she's trying to compensate for that?...

She sits down demurely and waits for everyone else to dig in first.

Zanshiken: (I have arrived)

GM: (back)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena seats herself. "Come on, Suldae!"

Without further ado, she pulls the nearest roast chicken to herself and prepares to dig in.

She hesitates, gives a small sigh, and grabs a fork and knife instead of tearing into it with her hands.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae very daintily loads her plate with a little bit of everything in sight

Kasimir Velikov: "Is there someplace Ismark could rest? He is still... Elsewhere."

Suldae Westwind: Laws of physics might or might not be getting violated with how exactly it fits on it.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Zzzzzzz...."

Vasilka: "I have made sleeping chambers for all of you, Kasimir. Come with me, I will show you where he is to rest."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a seat and immediately begins piling food on his plate "Joan you are the Lights Grace, I am tired and starving"

Joan beams.

Vasilka leads Kasimir (with Ismark in his arms) out of the chamber.

Vasilka: She returns a few moments later.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waits for Kasimir to come back before everyone eats, because manners are important.

Vasilka: "Kasimir has requested to eat his food at Ismark's bedside. Marzena, can you bring him a plate?"

Marzena: "Right away, your majesty."

Marzena Belview departs with a platter heavily laden with food.

Suldae Westwind: "...I have a question."

Suldae stares at her back.

Vasilka:]

"Yes?"

Suldae Westwind: "Are we supposed to call you that?"

Vasilka laughs.

Vasilka: "No. I would prefer you to call me by my name."

"I cannot seem to shake the Belviews of the habit."

"Their gratitude is somewhat quaintly expressed."

Suldae Westwind: "So this is a new thing?"

Rictavio: Rictavio watches the exchange, his glasses flashing in the firelight.

Zanshukun: "Majesty? When did that happen" Henry asks around a mouthfull of food

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oof, I'm starving."

Vasilka: "As I said, the Belviews are... How shall I express this? They are quite innocent."

Suldae Westwind: It's really nice to be surrounded with women who don't care about being dainty.

But the reflexes are too deeply ingrained.

Marcus Veranius: "I assume it was a similar situation with the old Abbot. We simply didn't stick around long enough to notice."

Ezmerelda Veranius begins to wolf down food, foregoing utensils completely.

Marcus Veranius: "Err, that is to say... the original man who built this place before you found it!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Is it really an "innocent" thing to majesty people?" Suldae wonders. "It feels kind of... 'nocent', as a thing, if you know what I mean"

Vasilka: "Yes, Marcus. That seems likely."

Vasilka blushes faintly at Suldae's remark.

Suldae Westwind: She picks up a fork and begins shoveling very small pieces of food into her mouth. Very quickly.

Vasilka: "Well, I use innocent because other terms might be unkind."

"They have lived in the abbey all their lives. They know little of the outside world."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs before returning to his impression of what some futre societys might call a combine harvester

Suldae Westwind: "...A very particular kind of innocent," Suldae murmurs.

"This is an Abbey. Just... why that address in specific? Where would they have picked it up?"

Vasilka: "I will be sending for a tutor from Vallaki at the first opportunity. I wish to educate them, and give them the best opportunities to thrive here."

"I believe they may have called the Abbot something similar, in their curious proto-language."

Suldae Westwind: She makes suer to chew and swallow everything in her mouth completely before she talks.

"Oh, oof."

Suldae considers saying something about the Abbott, but words wither on her lips.

He died, because they were careless.

Vasilka: "I do not wish to be cruel to the Abbot's memory. After all, he did create me."

"Still, it must be said: he was... Not a particularly good angel."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is eating slightly more slowly, in her guilt and grief.

Marcus Veranius shakes his head.

Marcus Veranius: "He was good. But Strahd was more cunning. Another reason to ensure his defeat."

Vasilka: "Agreed."

Marcus Veranius: "No more good men turned into playthings."

Vasilka: "I have already extended invitations to our war council to the Martikovs and to the Krezkovs, but no date has yet been set for it."

"I imagined you would want a few days to rest and regather your strength, or to seek out new allies."

"But yes. The time is soon coming when we must end the machinations of Strahd once and for all."

Marcus Veranius: "We secured a possible replacement for the artifacts Strahd has seized. It will take one week to prepare."

"He still has two within Castle Ravenloft, but we may have the equivalent of two with us."

Suldae Westwind: "Wait, what?" Suldae frowns. She hasn't been following this part.

Marcus Veranius turns to Suldae. "The book."

Marcus Veranius: "The one we duelled a baker's dozen dead gods to claim."

Vasilka: "A book? How fascinating!"

Suldae Westwind: "...It's not a replacement for anything," Suldae says.

Her hand automatically goes to her bag protectively.

Zanshukun: Henry takes a big swig of water "I'm still a bit sore from when the big asshole tried to turn me into scrapmetal" he adds in between now slower bites

Vasilka: "Are you uninjured?"

Suldae Westwind: The book is... powerful. It's powerful in the way books are, which is very different from the way swords are, though there might be overlap.

Marcus Veranius looks at Suldae with confusion

Joan: "You're not hurt, are you!?"

Suldae Westwind: "...A different book?"

Joan: "I can whip up a poultice! Get you out of that armor and salve up whatever horrible battle-scarring injuries you have, maybe?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Sorry, I'm a bit... distracted."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, either way. Unless we have a means of looting Strahd's vaults without breaching the rest of his castle. Book and Sword is all we have."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm fine thank both of you for the concern" Henry says eyeing Joan and Vasilka "Magic and Miracles and all that good stuff. Does wonders for gaping flesh wounds not so much for sore muscles"

Joan: "A MASSAGE, THEN!?"

"I mean, a massage might be in order! For your sore muscles?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae giggles.

Joan turns to the goat, blushing furiously.

Joan: "Oh, the goat is almost ready!"

Vasilka: Vasilka watches this exchange with a raised eyebrow. She turns to Marcus. "Alas, I do not think there are any secret entries to the castle that are likely to be unguarded now."

 Suldae Westwind: She's taught Ireena how to do massages, actually. They studied that at the temple.

 Marcus Veranius frowns. "We had a chance to gamble the Amber Temple or a Castle Raid. We came out on top; that's all we can hope for."

 Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah..." Suldae closes her eyes momentarily.
That was... a lot.

 Vasilka: "Let us save our strategizing for the war council. Today is a day of celebration and of peace."

Joan: "—and of food! Goat's ready!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns before taking a breath and leaning back in his chair to look at Joan "You know what, I might just take you up on that." He says with a smile

 Suldae Westwind: "Good plan!" Suldae says after swallowing the next piece, gesturing at her with a fork.

 Marcus Veranius: "Sounds good to me."

 Suldae Westwind: *at Vasilika

Joan and Marzena work together to move the heavy cooked goat to the table.

 Suldae Westwind: Still, it's hard to find reserves of mirth in herself.

Joan realizes what Henry said, and the moment she drops the goat on the table, she seems to experience a dizzy spell.

 Suldae Westwind: They betrayed an ally. It was probably the right thing to do, but that didn't make the taste any less bloody in her mouth.

 Marcus Veranius starts eating now that he's realised Joan did the cooking. No offense to Vasilika, he's made leather boots easier to chew than her roasts.

 Vasilka: "I see you have brought many fine treasures from the temple, including what seems to be the parts of a golem?"

 Suldae Westwind: Food is helping take her mind off it, but...

Oh, yes. Also the golem.

That's a different kind of guilty she's feeling.

All in addition to the third, about the abbott.

She sneaks a glance at Ireena to see how she's feeling.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at Joan with concern "Are you alright you seem a bit pale..er than usual"

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives Suldae's hand a squeeze under the table.

She seems concentrated on the food at the moment, but she's still aware of the things running through Suldae's mind.

 Suldae Westwind: (maybe knee? Suldae's hands are holding a fork and a knife right now lol)

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives her a little, encouraging smile. "Come on, eat. We'll need our strength."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hardly needs the encouragement.

Marcus Veranius: "The golem was a servant of the Temple's gods. By technicality of its allegiances, it is sided with the revived Raven Queen and her flock."

Suldae Westwind: But now she's looking if Ireena is eating in turn.

Marcus Veranius: "We have the parts to rebuild it, but not the manpower."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is, indeed, eating. Really eating.

Vasilka: "I shall set the Belviews to the task of reassembly. Once the pieces are rejoined, it should be a simple matter to re-animate the golem."

"Assuming that is what you desire?"

Marcus Veranius: "Yes. But actually no."

"We've also secured a manual that could be used to re-enforce it. That kind of firepower could be useful in breaching Castle Ravenloft's gates."

"Since we lack any practical siege weapons anyways."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sends a silent Message to Suldae, right beside her. "We should talk later about... Everything."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gestures for Joan and the girl to sit and eat "Come on you should eat before we devour all of your hardwork with out you"

Joan seems to have another dizzy spell at these words.

Joan seats herself and begins to eat.

Suldae Westwind: That is the most non-comforting thing Suldae has ever heard in any context, but she supposes it IS better than her NOT wanting to talk.

"Okay," she sends back.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives her knee another comforting squeeze, and another encouraging smile. "Not in a bad way," she whispers. "I just think you... You need to talk."

Suldae Westwind: "I need to read, I think," Suldae murmurs to her. "And..."

She's staring at her food.

Ireena Kolyana: "Eat."

"You need brain food, if you're planning to read that book."

Suldae Westwind: "...And I think I want to know how you feel, how you think about all of this."

Suldae has actually already emptied a plate-full, there's only still food on there because she keeps shoveling more on.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think, after a good night's sleep, I'll know that. Right now I don't."

Suldae Westwind: Magic is very energy-demanding.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh babe, these ribs are amazing. Here, you've got to try some."

Suldae Westwind: "...Sleep doesn't always help," Suldae murmurs.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "You're thin as a rail!"

Marcus Veranius: "!!!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nearly chokes on her food at the exchange.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm in a high-energy career! Can't build up proper fats in this line of work!"

Ireena Kolyana: "No..." mutters Ireena. "But we've been going for hours and hours. It's not healthy to wallow when you're already feeling weary."

Suldae Westwind: "We've slept, technically," Suldae murmurs.

Ireena Kolyana: "I mean real, proper sleep. On a bed."

"With you."

"Alone."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "nor muscles appraently" Henry comments in a stage whisper at Marcus response

Suldae Westwind: "...Good point," Suldae lowers her voice to where it's definitely below the point of everyone else's hearing.

She's a demure young lady, damnit.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Here, and have some cake, too."

"And the trout is good, too. Lots of healthy fats there."

"Joan, good spread!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Do you know what this book is?" Suldae takes her prize out of her bag, careful to wipe her hands on the napkins available first.

And to keep it away from the table.

GM: (Is that to Vasilka?)

Suldae Westwind: (no, to Ireena)

(for tone context, Suldae knows)

Marcus Veranius hesitates. This is a LOT more food than he's used to, and a lot more than he usually puts together...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at the book.

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe just one at a time..."

Suldae Westwind: She knows Ireena just said she's not up to talking right now, but... but she needs this.

Ireena Kolyana: "It seems like you think it might be... Answers."

"To things that have been bothering you for a long time."

"You're not used to how... Gray... Things are here."

Suldae Westwind: "...Honestly, I'm more hoping to find questions," Suldae murmurs.

"...I'm more comfortable with grey than... black and white."

"And that's how things feel."

"Stark white and charcoak black, not blended at all."

Ireena Kolyana: "Questions are good too," says Ireena, with a smile.

She stares into space for a moment or two.

With barely-contained anxiety in her voice, she says: "Do you think Ismark will be alright?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, and this goat is just heavenly!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry noticing the mood next to him shifting into one a bit to serious for him at the moment moves to sit next to Joan for ...a potentially as serious conversation Godsdamnit

Suldae Westwind: Suldae frowns at her.

"...Ireena, I don't need a parrot. I want to talk to you, not the best mirror you can make of what you guess I'm thinking."

"You do know what the book is, I'm guessing?"

Marcus Veranius is in distress. This is WAY too much food...

Joan flushes bright red and concentrates on her food.

Ireena Kolyana: "Of course I do."

"It's fucking legendary. I'm glad you're the one who found it."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe, you're not eating!"

Suldae Westwind: "How do you know about it?" Suldae asks. "I don't really have a good picture of your... education, I suppose. I grew up learning at a temple, I don't have any idea how anyone else does that."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "By the time we face Strahd, I want our blood to be so rich he chokes on it."

Ireena Kolyana: "My father had an extensive library. I didn't have any friends, so..." She pokes at her food with a fork. "Books were my companions."

"That book you've got there is whispered of in countless stories. It's at the edge of great legends, hiding in the corners of history."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry slowly sits down next to Joan absentmindedly putting more food on his plate "Hey" He quietly says to her Ireena Kolyana: "It makes me think this time I won't... You know. Forget. Lose everything and everyone."

"I don't want to reincarnate here, Suldae. Not ever again."

Joan: "He—HRK." Joan begins to speak, and accidentally sucks in a whole bite of rib.

Joan begins to turn purple. Her eyes bug, and she points frantically at her throat.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

"This place, it's... horrifying. I've spent my life studying stories, and they're rarely about places this... bleak. This stark. There's usually, indeed, grey. Knights who wish to earn their monarch's favor, beasts that are just... hungry."

"Things are mundane most of the time, even when they are legendary afterwards."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry helps dislodge the bite and hands her a cup of water after

Suldae Westwind: "They're made of... mundane building blocks."

Marcus Veranius stares at Joan with fear. That's going to be him if this feast keeps up...

Suldae Westwind: "But Barovia manages to build its mundanity out of blood and bone and horror."

"The other way around."

Joan: "Thank you," says Joan, choking down water hastily.

Suldae Westwind: "I have no idea what it's like to grow up here - even, even once."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena nods.

"I'm kind of glad I've forgotten most of it."

"But sometimes, when I dream, it's..."

"People I don't remember knowing. People I don't remember being."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "See Marcus. Like that. That's what I want Strahd to do, if he ever drinks from you."

"Now eat up!"

Marcus Veranius: "Ez I'm already full... please..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda kisses Marcus on the cheek. "Alright babe. I've got years to fatten you up, so have no fear."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

"...I feel like this sort of thing should be comforting, you know? It's - it's supposed to be," she talks quickly, before Ireena can take her words the wrong way. "It's supposed to feel good and - and open, to have memories of people you've never been, to have more..."

She closes her eyes. This is something very close to her heart. Stories are, at their heart, about being people you've never been, for just the length of listening, and they're the heart of her calling. How she'd been drawn to Correllon in the first place.

"...It's one of the worst of Barovia's violations, that it manages to make it into a trap instead."

Marcus Veranius sighs in relief

Suldae Westwind: She's not done speaking yet.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena listens intently, even pausing in her eating.

Joan: "I'm glad you're back," says Joan, quietly enough that only Henry can hear her.

Rictavio: Rictavio watches the exchange between Marcus and Ezmerelda with a silent smile. He glances at Vasilka, who returns his look quite seriously.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits for her to calm down...as much as she is able to too for now atleast before continuing "I-.." He clears his throat "Joan first of I want to say that I am well not blind enough to miss the you feel about me" he says blushing

Joan seems almost ready to choke again.

Joan: "Wait! Please, don't say any more."

"Here, have a biscuit."

"I know I'm not a hero or an adventurer like you. I know I'm just a cook, I know I'm not someone that someone like you could ever... Look at seriously."

"That's ok though. I'm content to walk in your shadow, and keep you fed."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes her hand holding the biscuit and holds it for a moment

Joan: "Just as long as I know you're safe."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Joan please let me finish" He says

Joan stuffs a piece of cake into his mouth.

Joan: "Oh, look at the time! I'd better start clearing the table!"

Joan leaps to her feet and starts snatching empty plates.

Ireena Kolyana: "Go on, Suldae," says Ireena. She seems to be containing strong emotion.

Henry of Willowsbrook: She tries as Henry holds her hand in the worlds most gentel vice grip

Ireena Kolyana: "You haven't been wrong yet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: gentle

Joan , defeated, sits back down.

Joan: "Ok. What did you want to say?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I am married" Henry says raising his free hand to signal her to wait before she can cut in "It's a ... short and honestly quite simple story but an even more painful one for it but I... there is...I don't love my wife like this" He feels the pangs of betrayl crushing his heart even approaching the topic.

Rictavio: Rictavio leans across to Marcus and whispers: "Get a dog."

He winks meaningfully.

Joan: "Oh... You're... Married?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "On paper"

Joan: Joan blinks several times and stares into space, sitting quite still.

"Well, that's good, I suppose."

Joan startles suddenly, and looks at Henry, her eyes huge and round.

Joan: "Wait..."

"Vasilka? You love Vasilka?"

Marcus Veranius nods to Rictavio's suggestion. May be a worthwhile investment

Suldae Westwind: "...I went traveling because I'm supposed to, because it's part of my... profession, I suppose. I've known I would eventually ever since I first decided to really join the temple - and, and it's been part of the reason I did decide," Suldae continues quietly.

"I'm a half-elf, as you might have noticed," she goes quiet for a second, but raises her hand to stop any response yet. "I grew up among humans. I don't know if there's any part of what happened to you that's similar, except this: I would have given many, many things to not be confined to the place I was born."

She closes her eyes.

"What happened to you, it's like... it's like a perverse nightmare mirror of..."

She trails off, unsure if she even is correct about what she thinks Ireena feels.

Joan: Joan seems almost to want that to be the case; it would be less terrifying. At the same time there is hope burning in her eyes.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena turns, staring into space again. In a carefully-constrained monotone, she says: "I've never known any other way of life. I guess I don't think about it that much. It makes it easier."

"But now, with... With the fog gone..."

She looks at Suldae, and there is a flicker of fear in her eyes, but there is also a kind of fire.

"We could leave, Suldae."

"We could both leave."

"Have you thought about that at all?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Nothing says we have to be the ones to... To face him."

There is a burning question there; and Ireena twists her rings and fingers while she waits for the response.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda, watching all these huddled and secretive conversations unfold, smiles at Marcus with her cheeks full of food.

Vasilka: Vasilka, at the end of the table, sits with her fingers steepled, watching the party over her fingertips.

Rictavio: "Good spread, Joan."

Rictavio seems oblivious to the happenings at the table, and concentrated entirely upon his dinner.

Marcus Veranius nods every now and then, feeling somewhat guilty for not having any moral quandaries at the current moment. He just got married a few day's ago; everything's great!

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at Ireena, gripped with the realization.

What's she doing, dragging her into this?

Why hasn't she paid attention to this question?

Ireena didn't bring this up before, of course she didn't, this - this Suldae understands.

Could her herself have done better?

Can she do better still?

Suldae Westwind: ...

Suldae looks at her, the young woman she's been determined to not let Strahd have ever since she first met her, and at her lover and friend.

"...You don't have to, Ireena," she says quietly. She doesn't know how Ireena will react, how she'd want to react, so it's her job to leave all the doors open. "It's not your fight to fight, it was never supposed to be, it's so unfair that you ever had to."

She looks down, unable to focus on what she wants to say while looking at her.

"...But I, I, I won't leave. I've wanted to see this through with you, to leave afterwards, together, when Strahd is dead, but -" she looks up again, "I'm not that selfish. And it's not as though we couldn't find each other anew, afterwards. I could tell you where my father lives, give you a letter. You can leave, Ireena, you're right, and I'm awful for not thinking about this earlier," she hiccups slightly.

"You can. I won't, but you can."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's eyes go wide as he suppresses the urge to shout "What? No! She is like a sister! A terrifyingly powerful literal force of nature type of sister" Henry says "Joan I really really like and appreciate you" Henry twitches realizing how much like a rejection that sounds "What I'm trying and failing to say is made heart was shattered and maimed almost beyond repair but I think it's healing kinda so maybe we could take it slow if you are fine with committing adultery with me..." He says rapidly voice going quieter as his face grows redder Suldae Westwind: Suldae puts all the persuasion she has into that "you can".

She wants Ireena to understand that she means it, even if the thought is new.

Henry of Willowsbrook: *my heart (how did my turn into made)

Suldae Westwind: (no idea but it's surprisingly easy to understand from context)

Joan: "I... I like that."

"I mean, not the adultery part, so much, but..."

Joan beams.

Joan: "But... Yeah."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena stares into the distance, sitting absolutely still.

"Yes... I suppose I could... Leave..."

She stares down at her food.

She picks at it with her fork.

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, you can, it's possible," Suldae whispers, now forcing an actual excitement into her perspective, even if it's slightly hysterical.

Ireena Kolyana: Suddenly, she throws down her fork with a clatter, and turns to Suldae, flush with rage. "No, dammit! I'm not leaving without you. We started this together and we're going to finish it together."

"And there's Ismark, too. I can't leave until... Until..."

She leaps to her feet abruptly, knocking over her chair, and flees the chamber.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks after her.

Oh, yeah, Ismark.

She's been... doing so much not-thinking-about-that.

She looks at her food, then stands up and follows.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods chocked with emotion "Good" He croaks out Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well," says Ezmerelda.

"That was... Abrupt. Should we check on her?"

Joan: "What was abrupt?"

Marcus Veranius shakes his head with a frown

Joan: Joan turns to look, and realizes who has left the table. "Oh."

"I'm sure she's fine. And Suldae's gone after her."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks back at them and quickly shakes her head, as she's still at the door.

Marcus Veranius: "We can't possibly imagine the chains Ireena has with all this repeating history."

Suldae Westwind: (Can she follow Ireena, or does she have to guess where she went / look for her?)

Marcus Veranius: "If anyone can, it's the bard who's read countless lifetimes of stories."

Rictavio: "To have come so far—so much farther than ever before... It must make things just that much harder."

Suldae easily catches up to Ireena, and finds her in the courtyard, pacing aimlessly.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is not crying, but she has a shell-shocked, automatic look to her, and her eyes seem to stare beyond the walls of the world.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks after Ireena and Suldae with a concerned look "I hope they are okay"

Joan: "I'm sure they're going to be just fine."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh. Hello, Suldae."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes to a stop to the side and behind her, waiting for Ireena to notice her.

"Hello," she says quietly, unsure of what to say.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's voice is frighteningly even and controlled. "You didn't have to follow me. I'm fine."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pats Joan's hand once before going back to eating "This really is a wonderful spread" he says quietly

Joan beams again.

Suldae Westwind: "Yes, I'm very sure that you're very fine, with your brother actually dead and only walking around in a possibly very temporary fashion," Suldae's voice turns venomous. This one she's not afraid of hurting Ireena's feelings on. Even if she does hurt them, that's a wound that deserves to be lanced.

"I was so scared when he fell over earlier," she adds after a second, more quietly.

If Ireena won't talk about her own fears first, she's not averse to making the first move.

Ireena Kolyana: "So was I," says Ireena. She does not seem affected by what Suldae said. She stares into the distance, picking at her lip.

Joan: "So... How come you never got divorced?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "So what are we going to do with the golem?" Ezmerelda asks Marcus.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up to her and hugs her from behind, standing on her toes to do so, placing her forehead against Ireena's back.

"It's scary. The situation is... objectively terrifying. Between Strahd and Ismark and everything," her voice is both clinical and emotional.

Ireena Kolyana: "Mhmm..."

Suldae Westwind: "There's, like... you know, when bards are taught, we are taught to recognize when things are objectively fucked up so we can treat it appropriately in the telling."

"So it's as an expert that I'm telling you that this is all fucked up and horrifying."

"If I said otherwise in class my teacher would use me for an object lesson in mockery."

"It's as official as it gets, that it's horrible."

Marcus Veranius rubs the back of his head. Reconstructing the golem was fine on paper, but in practice...

Marcus Veranius: "The baron's wife is magically-inclined. She ought to be able to use the Golem Manual."

"We CAN rebuild it. Not quite sure how to keep it from being mad at us though."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena breaks away from the embrace and turns around to face Suldae. There is a sternness and an anger in her face, but under it there is terror, and grief, and anxiety. "I have to face this. All of it. Every day. But you shouldn't have to. You're not a warrior, Suldae. You're just a storyteller. If you don't survive, neither does the tale. I think you should leave Barovia."

(make an Insight check)

Suldae Westwind:

15

INSIGHT (7)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana:

6

DECEPTION (3)

(She's lying. Badly. She desperately wants Suldae to stay, but she's scared of what Strahd may do to her.)

Rictavio: "In my experience, golems tend to have a duty to their maker that supersedes any emotion they may 'feel'."

"But then again, the golems I have faced have usually been of flesh, or of metal. This creature may be different. For one thing, it can speak."

Vasilka: "That would seem to suggest to me that it has been imbued with something resembling a soul."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at her. Well, at least Ireena's finally talking to her. Better the exact opposite of what she thinks than nothing at all.

"I'm not just a storyteller," she says quietly and pauses. She finds a place to sit, because this deserves to be expanded as a thought.

"I'm a person. Everyone's a person. It's a trick that bards have to learn, how to be a character in your own story."

"Because no matter how badly you try to pretend to be above it, just the teller, when the story's happening you're part of it."

Ireena Kolyana: "Where are you going with this?"

Ireena crosses her arms as though to defend herself from the words.

Suldae Westwind: She blinks and looks at Ireena, almost surprised.

"It doesn't matter what the story will be, if it'll even be told later. Maybe I'll die and we'll all die and no-one will ever know."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena turns away, swallowing tightly.

"I'll know."

"In my dreams, I'll know."

Suldae Westwind: It's strange, how easy it is to imagine, to think about it. So many stories were lost, only reconstructed later from historians' effort.

"Maybe we'll win though, and you won't," Suldae says quietly.

Ireena Kolyana: "He's won every time, Suldae."

"Every. Time."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I married her so she could stay at my families farm with ...my sister without anyone being to suspicious" Henry says "We were already engaged so it was convinient. And since I was officially in chare after marrying none of my extended familiy could gainsay it when I appointed my sister to run things while I left to be a mercenary" He takes a sip of water thinking of his his kind but greedy familiy, Gods he even began to miss that lot', "She always had a better had for the buisness than me anyway"

Marcus Veranius tilts his head. "Objects can be bound with souls?"

Suldae Westwind: "Everyone survives every time until they die, Ireena," Suldae counters. "Precedent is meaningless."

"Some things only can happen once. This one hasn't happened yet."

Marcus Veranius: "Like, without god-mother shenanigans?"

Suldae Westwind: "He hasn't yet lost. That doesn't mean he's invincible any more than me being still alive means I'm immortal."

Ireena Kolyana: "And when it does, I lose Ismark. Again. Forever."

"Even if we win, we lose."

With a sudden shout of rage, she unleashes a blast of unconstrained, unshaped magic. It ripples into the sky in an eruption of prismatic color.

"I just wish..."

"Fuck, I don't know what I wish. I wish I had been born someone else."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sits quietly, with her head tilted back.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (do we see the sudden light show btw?)

Suldae Westwind: "Do not take this as a negative comment on your person in any way, but I could have guessed that," she murmurs.

"...There might be a way, for him."

"We're dealing with the stuff of gods and angels, Ireena, and while there's usually no cure for death, well," she shrugs.

"He's doing a pretty good job so far."

"And..."

Suldae closes her eyes. This one is making her dizzy to think about, but...

Suldae Westwind: "I'm a cleric, Ireena. If I manage to push this far enough..."

"...I'd probably die long before I succeeded, but I wasn't planning on not spending my life doing things in my god's name."

"It wouldn't exactly be out of my way, to try to eventually become someone who can bring people back from the dead."

GM: (Yes, the lightshow is visible from the windows)

Suldae Westwind: "And I'm pretty sure it's the sort of thing I'm damn well allowed to be selfish about."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena stares at Suldae, her face hard, her eyes searching.

"My god, you're serious."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares back.

She very much means it.

Ireena Kolyana: "You'd do that for me? Walk right into the hells? Punch a devil in the face for Ismark's soul?"

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, you've met me. What have I been doing this past month?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, in spite of herself, laughs.

She gives Suldae a very sudden, very warm embrace.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grips her closely.

Ireena Kolyana: "You're crazy, you know that, right?"

"But don't stop."

"Don't ever stop being crazy."

Zanshuken: Henry points out the window just after the lights subside "Should we be concerned? Because I'm feeling very concerned right now"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae buries her face in Ireena's shoulder.

"That's the kind of crazy I want to be. The kind people don't want me to stop being."

Vasilka: Vasilka blinks slowly.

"No, I sense no disturbance. We are safe for now."

Suldae Westwind: She doesn't want to keep Ireena forever at her side. But she does want to keep her forever in another sense. As her friend. As someone who's important to her. Her and her brother both.

Vasilka: "There is another matter we must attend to, one I have hesitated to bring up before the others, and one that we must raise cautiously and wisely in the war council."

"Rahadin."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena chuckles a little wetly. She breaks the embrace to dry her eyes.

Marcus Veranius rolls his eyes in frustration.

Marcus Veranius: "You know, I was hoping he'd save us the trouble of hunting him down by crashing my wedding."

Ireena Kolyana: "Right, we should... We should go back. Check on Ismark first, maybe... Then go back and... Apologize for my behavior."

Marcus Veranius: "No luck on my part. He just let the happiest day of my life slide without a hitch."

Rictavio: "As to the other question; souls and inanimate objects. The answer is 'yes.'"

Vasilka: "Rahadin has not been sighted for some time. This is very troubling."

"It is possible he may have already infiltrated key zones. He is not undead, so the protections against him are limited."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae snorts and pulls her down with her.

"Ismark has Kasimir looking after him, and there's absolutely nothing wrong with your behavior. If you want to finish your food and check on him anyway that's fair, but... Can I be selfish for a couple of minutes here? Please?"

Her tone descends into almost-pleading.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena nods, smiling. "Of course."

Marcus Veranius: "You think it'd be easy to spot someone who supposedly has dead men screaming around his person?"

Ireena Kolyana: She sits down on the edge of the well.

Suldae Westwind: (Which is totally where Suldae has been sitting all along also,, right?)

Vasilka: "Indeed," says Vasilka.

Marcus Veranius: "Someone has the souls of the dead wailing when they approach? Don't let them in past the checkpoint. Can it not be that simple?"

GM: (Re: the well for a bench: yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Rahadin" Henry says "everytime he comes he irks me"

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Ah, there's her totally-made-of-steel girlfriend back again. Suldae does love her so, especially when they've actually talked some of this through.

Her turn, though.

Vasilka: "Well, we can certainly hope that it is. It may be that he can conceal the effect."

"If not, then we have nothing to fear; he can easily be detected."

Marcus Veranius frowns. "He wouldn't be Strahd's best assassin if he was easy to spot."

Vasilka: "The fact that he has not confronted you directly in all this time is not a comforting one."

"It indicates to me that he has indirect plans for a confrontation."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to Vasilika "This Rahadin how does he look like?"

Vasilka: "Most of the time, he appears to be an ordinary high elf. He wears his hair quite long, and is often garbed as a simple servant."

"He has been Strahd's companion for many centuries, and he has slaughtered untold thousands."

"The fate of the Dusk elves of Vallaki was entirely his doing."

Suldae Westwind: "I brought the book up, earlier," she says and pulls it out again, carefully. "I haven't opened it yet. What's a guess you would take as to what's inside? What do you expect it to say about what we've done today? All the things?" She swishes her hand around her. Some of what they've done was in and about the abbey.

Her movements are slightly faster than usual, more twitchy, her voice in a storyteller's cadence more than her usual expressiveness, at odds with what she's actually saying..

Marcus Veranius checks his ledger for a moment, realizing his entry for Rahadin is just a scribble of a cat.

Marcus Veranius: "...bah, wish I knew that before I filled in the box."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Suldae shrewdly.

"I think, whatever I guess, it will be wrong. If this book is what it is supposed to be, then... There's no telling what secrets it might contain."

"If there were, we wouldn't need the book."

"I think you're nervous about what you might learn from it."

"And I think you have nothing to fear there."

"There's no one more worthy of it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae listens, with her eyes half-closed.

"...but what if..." she trails off.

Ireena Kolyana: "No what if's."

"Just read the damn thing."

Ireena smiles.

"And don't be afraid. Whatever is in there, it's meant for someone just like you."

Marcus Veranius: "Speaking of missing persons. Do you know if Izek Stranzi has been spotted anywhere as of late?"

Joan: "Thank you, Henry. For telling me. So your sister was of the... Sapphic persuasion?"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae nods, then breathes in.

"I don't think you understand, not quite," she says quickly. "You're not a cleric, right?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "No, that's true. I'm not a cleric."

 Sulda Westwind: She's... at this point, that's genuinely a question. Ireena's a more plausible secret one than Rictavio.

 Marcus Veranius: "I know we aren't quite friends, but I'd rather like to steer clear with his Ireena hunt still active."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I can't understand the connection you have with Correllon. But I know that he wouldn't have chosen you if he didn't think you were worthy of him."

 Vasilka: "Izek has been sighted in the northern forests, wandering in the mountain foothills."
"The woodland creatures tell me that he is deeply troubled. His monstrous arm has... Spread."
"It may be that he seeks the Mad Mage of Mount Baratok, in hopes of a cure."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Long haired elf in servants clothing" Henry repeats something working it's way to the front of his mind, a memory. "Scar on his neck like someone had tried to open it?" Henry says standing up his hand trembling with building anger

 Vasilka: Vasilka nods serenely. "Yes. That is Rahadin. You have met him?"

 Marcus Veranius: Oh good. The very mage they were considering recruiting. How quaint.

 Sulda Westwind: "That's the opposite of what I'm thinking," Suldae murmurs.
"It's not actually gods who choose their followers."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Oh? It's not?"
"Well, my books have always been on the older side. Maybe it was the prevailing theory of a bygone era."
"So you chose Correllon, then?"
"But he still deems you worthy, right?"
"Otherwise, he wouldn't grant you power?"
"I'm a bit fuzzy on how clerical magic works, to be honest."

 Sulda Westwind: "Well, clearly yes," Suldae says, her voice giving a worried tremor. "Which has all kinds of implications, considering the kind of thing I'm thinking right now, and what kind of thing I'm thinking about this book," she brushes its surface carefully, then packs it back into the bag gently.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry almost slams the table with his full might barely stopping himself from reducing it to firewood "MET HIM? THAT BASTARD IS THE REASON WE CAME HERE!" He shouts "HE HIRED US! LEADING US INTO THAT AMBUSH LIKE LAMBS TO THE SLAUGHTER!" Henry stands up and begins to pace

 Ireena Kolyana: "When you cast, I can feel the Weave moving. But sometimes there's
"Oh. I see... Well, I think I see. You're worried that you might not be worthy of the book?"
"To be honest, I'm not sure what about it gives you such anxiety. It's just a book. Magical or not, it exists to be read."

"You're not evil, so it won't hurt you—even if the legends are true."

Vasilka: "Calm yourself, Henry. There will be a time for this rage."

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena, no," Suldae says, exasperated.

"That's not what my worry is."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I saw him talk with the captain a couple times before he even announced we were taking this job" Henry says voice strained "I Knew it sounded to good but the others"

Vasilka: "We must consider how best to lay traps for Rahadin. If we do nothing, if we wait? He will come upon us when the moment is right for him, and we will be taken unawares."

Suldae Westwind: "Even if the book didn't want me, I'd..."

She trails off. "This is the thing, and... okay, listen, okay?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sits back, a little exasperated, but listening.

Marcus Veranius quiets at Henry's uproar, slowly ducking under the table

Joan fans herself with a napkin, watching Henry, her cheeks a little flushed.

Marcus Veranius has seen this man punch through a house when angry. He is NOT taking chances.

Suldae Westwind: "I've been asking questions to Correllon and receiving answers for... years now," Suldae closes her eyes. "It was only faint at first, just a confirmation that I really was his. Then clearer, clearer still in Barovia, and then he gave me help as well."

"I do not doubt his favor," this still feels heretical to say, but it's also obvious and she had to say it out loud sometime.

"...He's not always had answers, though."

"And even when he did, I..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry freezes in his pacing turning to face the others "I am going kill him" Henry says sounding like he was noting the sky was blue

Suldae Westwind: "...I know he wanted me to... he wanted us to... kill the Raven Queen."

"I have that answer."

"But I don't have the answer as to whether that was the right thing to do, because it's not the same thing."

Marcus Veranius: "If it's any consolation, I think he's the only objecting party."

Joan giggles manically and stops herself by taking a drink.

Joan: "Goodness, he'd better be terrified of you."

Suldae Westwind: "...Ireena, if I open the book and read it and the book disagrees with what I've thought, what if I think it's the book that's wrong?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena raises an eyebrow.

"You're talking about fallibility?"

"The idea that even the gods can be wrong about the nature of good and evil?"

"If this artifact is what it's supposed to be, then... Even that would be a way of forcing you to come to grips with what is really, truly right. In the end, the book would have served its purpose."

Suldae Westwind: "...fallibility means these things don't always work right, Ireena."

Ireena Kolyana: "The fact that you would have the integrity to disagree with it would be a point in your favor, right?"

Suldae Westwind: "What if I decide that the book is wrong and I'm wrong?"

Ireena Kolyana: "That there are no answers?"

"I see.. That's a terrifying thought."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nestles closer to her girlfriend, grateful.

Ireena Kolyana: "But if it leads you to seek out the truth, and the correct answer... Then isn't the book doing exactly what it's supposed to?" Ireena wraps an arm around Suldae as she says this.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae presses to her, enjoying being small next to her, enjoying the comfort she can take in her presence.

"It's not about the book, Ireena. That's just..."

She pauses. The thing she's about to say also feels like blasphemy, and also like something she has to say, because it's obvious and the truth, and telling the truth is what bards of Correllon do.

"...It's just a book. It does its job when people read it, but it's not the fucking book that's going to... fight Strahd, whatever I'm going to do afterwards."

"...And I don't think I believe that the book is infallible in that-"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, Correllon isn't fighting Strahd either."

Suldae Westwind: "In that it always works."

Ireena Kolyana: "But he's being supportive, right?"

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, see, now you're following."

Ireena Kolyana: "So the book will do what it can to be supportive, too. I guess?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah, he is, and the fact that I knew he's supportive in situations like this is kind of why I'd chosen to join his clergy, way back when."

"Oh, that's a good way of putting it."

...That actually does make Suldae feel better. She's got a book in her corner!

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head slightly "This isn't about justice even if killing him will no doubt be just. No. I will kill him for because he killed my comrades. Because he brought me into this hell. Because He made me wish as I was bleeding out on that field that night, that they would kill me to" Henry's hand drifts to his sword the one brought with him, plain steel now silvered and engarved. "I'll kill him because I hate him"

Ireena Kolyana: "Books were my companions, growing up. They were the only friends I had, other than Ismark, and he was... Well, he was a hair-puller and a doll-stealer."

 Sulda Westwind: Books make excellent allies, and suddenly instead of feeling like she's standing on a mountain peak buffeted by winds, she feels like she's sitting in a library nook with a light. Much better.

 Ireena Kolyana: "But books can be good friends, if you let them."

Henry feels a shadow creep across his soul.

A familiar shadow...

 Sulda Westwind: "Yeah," Suldae closes her eyes.

"I... thank you. This really helped, actually."

Just as quickly as it came, the feeling passes.

Marcus Veranius remains semi-under the table in fear

Vasilka: "Now. Traps? How does one trap a shape-shifting immortal wizard assassin?"

Marcus Veranius: "He probably shouldn't have out-sourced the burial. Nothing stays in their coffins in this country."

Vasilka: "We must assume that he will attempt to infiltrate key holdings, and destabilize important regions."

Sulda Westwind: "I never had siblings."

Vasilka: "We must assume that any ally we cannot verify may have been replaced."

"It is just possible he may even be able to pose as a Wereraven, if his magic is strong enough."

Sulda Westwind: "Well, I suspect I might on my mother's side, but I never met her - since I was born, I suppose, so I functionally never had siblings. Nor... not friends."

Vasilka: "Does this change how we approach the War Council?"

Sulda Westwind: "Friendly acquaintances, plenty."

"But only teachers and books, for friends."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, I'm glad that's changed."

Ireena smiles, and squeezes Suldae a little.

Sulda Westwind: "...Oh, me too."

Suldae snuggles even closer, somehow.

Marcus Veranius shakes his head. "He can look the part maybe, but he probably can't pass the Knife Test. Let's assume the Wereravens can be proven easy enough."

Joan gets the joke about things not staying buried, and laughs a little.

Sulda Westwind: "...Just, huh, it's actually true that even if this book won't solve all my problems, I'll still have a book in my corner."

Marcus Veranius: "Plus there's the monthly, now weekly family gatherings. It's too risky a disguise."

Vasilka: "I concur. Immunity to ordinary weapons is an easy thing to test."

"We can safely, I think, rule out the were ravens then."

Suldae Westwind: "...I do believe that I'll be worth of it," Suldae murmurs, staring far into the distance. She's surprised to discover it within herself, this core of confidence. But when Ireena was speaking earlier... Suldae did not find herself doubting anything she'd said.

She's tried hard enough to know she was trying.

*worthy

Vasilka: "As for Krezk, the community is small enough that an outsider would have been noticed, and the watchmen are always in pairs."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm just worried that I'll fuck up anyway."

Ireena Kolyana: "Even if you do... As long as you tried your best, I think whatever judgment comes to you will be a kind one."

Marcus Veranius: "Revenant party seems to have that spiritual pull. We may not know who they are but can guarantee their purity."

"Which leaves the Dark Elves. Ironically enough."

Vasilka: "Agreed. The revenants of Argynvostholt are bound together by the Silver Dragon."

Suldae Westwind: "Aaaah, you're missing the point again!" Suldae whips her head back. "This isn't actually about me, Ireena."

Vasilka: "The Dusk Elves are an even smaller community... I find it hard to believe that they would not notice one of their number being replaced."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Vasilka: "Vallaki, to me, seems like an obvious place to infiltrate."

Marcus Veranius considers Henry's story for a moment.

Suldae Westwind: "It's - that no-one'll remember the story is the scariest thing, possible judgement, that I can imagine, and I've already said I'm fine with that, for myself."

Suldae shivers.

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey."

Suldae Westwind: That, being fine with it, might have been a slight exaggeration.

For rhetorical purposes.

Ireena Kolyana: "Even if no one else remembers... I will."

"One way or another."

"And even if no one remembers... It still happened, didn't it?"

Marcus Veranius: "If not Vallaki's weakened forces, then perhaps any outsiders that may enter the mists. If Rahadin can trick one band of mercenaries, who knows how many more he can with the mists down."

Ireena Kolyana: "It will be nice to have one lifetime I can look back on with happiness."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head.

"Don't talk like all our deaths would necessarily mean failure."

"... that, uh. That's -"

Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry, that's very morbid of me."

Suldae Westwind: "...I was about to say that."

Suldae laughs a little.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena laughs too.

"I guess you just get used to thinking like that, living here..."

Marcus Veranius: "We may want to keep the War Council light. Just confirmable allies."

Vasilka: "In that case... The Martikovs, certainly?"

Marcus Veranius nods

Vasilka: "Perhaps not the Baron and Baroness of Krezk."

"And the thought of Rahadin on the road... Outside Barovia... That is, indeed, a highly troubling one."

"Yorhish has already sealed the roads, but if Rahadin could pass through the mist already..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius pauses to consider

Vasilka: "There is no telling what may be coming our way."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Vasilka: "We should ask the Ravens to form a search party, and forewarn us of any incoming forces."

Marcus Veranius: "On the off-chance we suspect someone of being Rahadin, how might we might test it?"

Vasilka: Vasilka shrugs eloquently.

Suldae Westwind: "...Anyway, it's - Ireena, it's not even about you," Suldae murmurs. "You're one of the people it's about, but -"

"...what you said. More than the story, what matters is the consequences."

She shivers.

"It'll matter what actually happened."

"To other people, who are not me."

She delivers that last one in a slight deadpan tone. It's a quote, sort of.

Ireena Kolyana: "All we can do is our best, Suldae."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "With what he offered us?" Henry says considering Marcus idea "A lot, Only some of the largest or most esteemed companies can afford to turn down such a pay day if they want to stay together beyond the rejection"

-  Ireena Kolyana: "If Strahd wins even then, well. It won't be the first time I've jumped off a castle."
-  Marcus Veranius: "I hate to bring suspicion to our own house, but the Baron seemed to have forgotten the Birthday Party he specifically invited us to..."
-  Ireena Kolyana: "But it will be the first time I've done that with wings."
-  Suldae Westwind: Suldae fights a smile, then realizes she has no reason to, and smiles.
Then laughs openly, at what Ireena says.
-  Vasilka: "Oh no..."
-  Marcus Veranius turns to Henry
-  Suldae Westwind: She does so love it when cliches are right.
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is already on the way to the door
-  Suldae Westwind: She doesn't want to think about it anymore, doesn't want to pus further. It's true that the particular platitude Ireena wisely chose here can be used as an excuse to do less, but right now she feels within her right to take it.
"...want to go back inside?" she asks. She does remember Ireena suggesting that earlier, and she's pretty much done with the ten minutes of selfishness she'd asked for. Ready to rock now, and all.
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps outside marching right past Suldae and Ireena without seemingly noticing them
-  Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, I'm ready."
"Oh, hey Henry! Where are you off to?"
-  Marcus Veranius: "Ez, fill Sundae in.. I'm going to cover Henry."
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: "Confirming something, maybe tearing someone limb from limb"
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: "Sure you won't need help?"
-  Marcus Veranius: "We probably will. I'll fill you in by ring."
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: "Alright. I'm going to eat here. I mean wait here."
-  Vasilka: "We will seal the chamber until you return."
-  Suldae Westwind: Augh. There goes the nice relaxation time.
-  Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry, come again? Limb from limb?"
-  Suldae Westwind: Suldae waves to them weakly.
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry keeps on moving
-  Suldae Westwind: "...Do you, like, need me for that?" Suldae asks weakly.
"I can make people obey me and stuff."
-  Marcus Veranius: "Hey, remember how the Baron was super frightened of the Abbey's residents?"

"Notice how he's fine with them now?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry calls over his shoulder in reply to Suldae "Only if you want to"
He keeps walking

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sighs and gets up. No, she doesn't want to, but she'd rather.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena tags along.

Suldae Westwind: "...I prefer to."

Marcus Veranius: "Suldae, remember how he forgot his own son was brought back to life?"
"How could we be so STUPID!"

The party descends the switchback road down into Krezk proper, and soon finds themselves in the streets of Krezk...

Ireena Kolyana: "So you're thinking the Baron is an imposter?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks straight to the Barons home coming to a stop only as he reaches the door

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd could push over Vallaki in an evening if he wanted to. And almost DID."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rather dislikes the amount of imposters and shapeshifters and people they have to suspects of things they've faced in the last 24 hours, but maybe this is the last one?

Anna Krezkov is in the front yard, playing catch with her son. Her eyes light up as she sees the party approaching.

Ilya Krezkov catches the driftglobe, and turns to smile at the party.

Anna: "Hello!"

"Are you here for the party? You're a bit early yet!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Where's your Husband?" Henry asks without pretending to have listend to her question

Marcus Veranius looks unusually frightened as he approaches

Anna: "He's inside, resting. He usually takes a mid afternoon nap. Is something the matter? Should I wake him?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae mostly looks tired. It's a good poker face and decidedly does not take effort to maintain.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Suldae, raising an eyebrow.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I just have a quick question for Him I won't be long"

Anna: "I'll wake him for you. Just a moment."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry approces the door

Anna Krezkov enters the hut.

A short moment later, there is a blood-curdling scream from inside.

Marcus Veranius looks to Ireena, then the Baron's son

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry runs sword clearing his scabbard in a flash

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is the second after Henry.

Marcus Veranius: Unless...

Marcus Veranius hates this spy nonsense!

Inside the hut, Henry and Suldae find Anna Krezkov standing at the bedside of her husband, who lies pale and still upon the pillows, which are drenched in blood.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes Ilya firmly by the hand and leads him away from the hut as the rest of the party enters.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae kneels next to him, checks his vitals just in case.

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey, hey, it's alright. Let's play catch, ok?"

The Baron is dead. He has been dead for at least an hour, as he is quite cold and stiff.

His throat has been cut from ear to ear.

Marcus Veranius follows Ireena

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks worriedly at Marcus, but tries to keep Ilya's attention.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry has gone still before he speaks" Sulade see if you can find any traces of that bastard"

Anna Krezkov has become inconsolable. She is on her knees, weeping terribly.

Suldae Westwind: (i asked a question on discord)
(it's important)

Marcus Veranius: "Mind if I join the game of catch?"

Ireena Kolyana: "By all means," says Ireena. "Right Ilya? Marcus can join?"

Ilya looks at Marcus curiously for a little while, then says: "Sure."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Marcus meaningfully, and tosses the Driftglobe to him.

Suldae Westwind: "...Okay, so actually," Suldae swallows.

"...He's not been dead for... for so long that..."

She doesn't quite dare finish the phrase, and yet.

Marcus Veranius tosses the Driftglobe back to Ilya

Suldae Westwind: "...We need to find who killed him."

Ilya Krezkov catches the driftglobe deftly and tosses it to Ireena, all in one fluid motion.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena barely catches it in time.

"Wow, you're good at this!"

Ilya: "Thanks!" Ilya beams.

Marcus Veranius: "You know, I don't think we've been introduced. I'm Marcus Veranius."

Anna: "You mean, you can..."

Suldae Westwind: "...I might be able to," Suldae whispers. "After the Abbott, I-"

Ilya: "I'm Ilya," says Ilya, catching the Driftglobe from Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: "...I think I could."

Ilya tosses the Driftglobe to Marcus in a soft, underhand throw.

Anna: "Please! Please, I will give you anything! Anything that you ask!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head.

Anna: "Give me back my Dmitri!"

Marcus Veranius attempts to catch it, then tosses it back as fast as he can

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry approaches the body

Suldae Westwind: "I will try, and whether or not it'll work is not up to me."

Ilya catches it effortlessly. He smiles.

Ilya tosses it to Ireena without looking at her.

Suldae Westwind: "...I will try. I promise," she looks at the woman.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena catches it—just barely.

"Goodness, you've got an arm on you, little mister!"

Anna Krezkov swallows shakily, and nods very slowly.

Marcus Veranius: "Quite! Wish I had someone to play catch with when I was growing up. Dad was a seaman; never at home. Always on the ocean."

GM: (Make a perception check, Suldae and Henry)

Marcus Veranius: "This hat is the only thing I've got left of him. You're lucky to have such a good father."

Suldae Westwind:

24

PERCEPTION (12)
Suldae Westwind

Ilya Krezkov cocks his head curiously at Marcus.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

23 + 1 | 19 + 1

PERCEPTION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae realizes that something dark is puddling out from under the door to the side chamber of the Krezkov's little hut.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (still exhausted so skill checks are at disadvantage)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae had a long rest and no longer is iirc)

Henry does not notice this, but he does notice something about Anna that unnerves him slightly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (divine sense)

Something about her eyes...

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Suldae Westwind: (I love this)

Henry's divine sense picks up... Nothing out of the ordinary.

Ilya: "My dad is the Baron, he's pretty cool."

Suldae Westwind: "Hey, Anna," Suldae says lightly. "What is that?"

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena tosses the Driftglobe to Ilya, who catches it effortlessly—without looking at her or breaking his eye contact with Marcus.

Suldae Westwind:

Suggestion
Abjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't performed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

Anna: "What is what? Oh that? Oh, we slaughtered one of the pigs, it bled a little more than usual."

"You know how pigs are, always so full of blood!"

Suldae Westwind: "...In the house?"

Anna Krezkov smiles widely.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh whoever did this will regret it for what little life they have left when I catche up to them" Henry says looking deeply in her eyes"

Suldae Westwind: slight wording retcon: "Pleaese answer, what is that?"

Anna: "It does my heart good to hear that, brave Paladin."

Suldae Westwind: "Truthfully, tell me - what is that?"

Marcus Veranius: "You know, I'm actually not that smart a guy. Some people think I'm clever, but I've just got some intuition."

Marcus Veranius tosses the driftglobe to Ireena

Anna: "It's just pig's blood."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena catches the Driftglobe. Looking meaningfully at Marcus, she begins muttering a spell under her breath.

Ilya: "What are you doing?" Ilya asks, looking at Ireena very seriously.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gapes suddenly as the Weave is torn out of her grasp.

Suldae Westwind: (note, this is not Suldae repeating herself, it's a retcon to what she said)
(she knows how the spell works even if I don't)

GM: (Ah; Anna's response remains unchanged)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (No save agaisnt suggestion?)

GM: (You can assume the dice were rolled off-screen)
(Or that other extenuating circumstances are at play)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

(this was just a tuning, I did assume the answer was honest as far as she thought)
"Why'd you butcher a pig in the house?"

Anna: "I wouldn't go in there, if I were you. We made more of a mess than we usually do, and it's a bit stinky."

Marcus Veranius doesn't need knowledge of magic to know what happened.

Anna: "I was going to clean it up with Urwin's help, after he finished sleeping."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe I'm just an old fashion kind of man, but I've never seen a child get their present before the party."

Ilya sticks his tongue out at Marcus.

Ilya: "Well, I'm special. Mom and dad really, really like me."

Suldae Westwind: (i really want to sleep sorry so im going to) (night)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wrong Husband" Henry says reaching for Annas thraoat throat

GM: (G'night)

Marcus Veranius: "They do. A lot of people do. You're the most loved child in all of Krezk."

Ilya: "Do you really think so?"

Marcus Veranius: "It's why Ilya is the safe disguise when your cover gets unexpectedly blown."

GM: (Henry, make an athletics check)

Marcus Veranius: "Rahadin."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

24 + 1 | 27 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Poof! Ilya disappears in a little blast of bluish smoke.

Anna: 18

Henry manages to grapple Anna by the throat before she can slip away.

Anna: "Henry! What are you doing?"

"My husband is dead! Why are you angry with me?"

Marcus Veranius casts a spell, then uses his action surge to fire shots at his location

Marcus Veranius:

Locate Object

Divination 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S, M (A forked twig)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Describe or name an object that is familiar to you. You sense the direction to the object's location, as long as that object is within 1,000 feet of you. If the object is in motion, you know the direction of its movement. The spell can locate a specific object known to you, as long as you have seen it up close—within 30 feet—at least once. Alternatively, the spell can locate the nearest object of a particular kind, such as a certain kind of apparel, jewelry, furniture, tool, or weapon. This spell can't locate an object if any thickness of lead, even a thin sheet, blocks a direct path between you and the object.

Marcus Veranius locates the driftglobe still in Rahadin's possession, then uses his Oathbow to fire wherever Rahadin has vanished off to. Invisibility, teleportation, he couldn't have gone far either way.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Then why would you worry about cleaning up if you just lost the love of your life" Henry says voice ice cold

GM: (Ireena has the Driftglobe)

(She was the last one to catch it)

Marcus Veranius: (MY PLAN. I FUCKED UP)

(SHE WAS SUPPOSED TO TOSS IT)

GM: (Don't worry, I'm not going to make you shoot Ireena)

Marcus Veranius: (Is there any chance I can Locate Object - Elf Ears)

GM: (No)

Marcus Veranius: (Fuck.)

GM: (Also, he doesn't currently have Elf ears)

Anna: "I was just describing the plan I had before knowing my husband was dead! I didn't know he was dead!"

Marcus Veranius attempts to locate the clothing Ilya was wearing?

Henry feels the faintest calling of a lingering soul, coming from beyond the side door.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry drags "Anna" over to the door

Marcus's spell comes back with nothing. He senses that it has been blocked somehow; perhaps with some kind of non detection spell.

Henry of Willowsbrook: And listens

Anna: "No, don't go in there! It's just a huge, bloody mess."

"You really don't want to go in there."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry opens the door with a kick

He sees Anna Krezkov and Ilya Krezkov, lying near each other, both of them staring sightlessly beyond the walls of the world. They lie in the pool of their commingled blood.

Marcus Veranius lowers his weapon, not sure what to do now.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry squeezes shut

Anna Krezkov shifts and changes sharply in his hand; in an instant, she is a purple-skinned, mouthless monstrosity, with two staring yellow eyes.

GM: (Aaaaaaaand Cliffhanger.)

(See y'all next week!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry screams as light begins to stream of him (Man what a session

GM (GM): (Howdy y'all!)

Marcus Veranius: (HELLO)

Liliet (Suldae): eyyy

GM (GM): Now... Where were we

Marcus Veranius: When we last left off, the party discovered the remains of the Baron, his wife, his family, and our hopes of forming an effective standing army without sabotage.

GM (GM): Lol

At the last part, not at the corpses of the whole family

The corpses of the whole family is objectively tragic

But I hadn't actually considered the fact that you're going to have a very hard time making an army now

So thank you for that

Henry of Willowsbrook: So lets see how this works

GM (GM): Is the tablet working ok for you?

Henry of Willowsbrook: Writings a bit of a pain

GM (GM): Was Discord working well on your computer?

Or is it just the internet in general

Since this whole session is likely to be RP, we could potentially run it through Discord

Henry of Willowsbrook: But i'll mannage i used discord on my phone

GM (GM): Gotcha

Well, best of luck

Hopefully your internet starts working properly midway through the session

Marcus Veranius: (I second GM, we probably don't need maps)

Henry of Willowsbrook: I rather use roll20 because its easier to look up related stuff here rather than discord

Marcus Veranius: (Fair)

GM (GM): Alrighty, then we will proceed

The purple-skinned creature writhes in Henry's grasp... 23

GM (GM): (That's a contested roll, need Athletics from Henry)

Marcus Veranius sits down, having run out of tricks for this particular hunt. Magic nonsense; where's Hiere when you need him? Not here, that's for sure.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

22 + 1 | 28 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM (GM): (Omg)

Marcus Veranius: (Tie means no change in status. Creature doesn't escape)

(At least i think that's how it works on contested checks?)

GM (GM): (Henry wins by default)

(That's correct)

The creature's desperate efforts almost catch Henry by surprise, but his strength is great enough that the monstrosity cannot escape.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae is tense behind him, ready to assist in case he needs it.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think he got away, Marcus."

"Let's check on the others."

Ireena Kolyana enters the hut and freezes in the doorway, arms akimbo, eyes wide.

Ireena Kolyana: She moves to Suldae's side.

Zanshuken: Henry drags it outside

Suldae Westwind: goddammit iwas about to write Suldae going out hate it when the browser freezes

Ireena Kolyana: "Poor Ilya..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns to her, wide-eyed. "Are you okay? What happened?"

Ireena Kolyana: "We were playing catch. Ilya wasn't... Wasn't Ilya."

"Marcus realized it was Rahadin, and the moment he did, Rahadin just disappeared. A teleportation spell, I think, of some kind."

Marcus Veranius stays outside, berating himself for not acting sooner. This could have ended once and for all. He KNEW that child was Rahadin from the start; it was the only logical choice.

Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus doesn't seem to be able to track him."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods quietly.

"I could... I..." she turns around, eyes trailing over three bodies.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena kneels beside the corpses of Ilya and Anna Krezkov. "Is there nothing we can do for them?"

Suldae Westwind: She doesn't know if she can help them all.

"Maybe," she says quietly.

"I..."

"They have not been dead for long."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at Suldae, eyes wide again. "I didn't know you were so powerful."

Marcus Veranius: [We have 5,000 in diamond from the Amber Temple alone]

Suldae Westwind: Suldae holds her holy symbol.

Closes her eyes.

"I don't know if I am."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll take this up to kasimir and Vasilika"

Suldae Westwind: "I feel like I know how, but..."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena stands shakily and gives Suldae a squeeze on the shoulder.

"I believe in you."

Suldae Westwind: "...Tomorrow. I'll need a night's sleep to figure this out. I..."

Suldae shakes her head.

Ireena Kolyana: "Tomorrow..."

"What do we do until then? Should we... Should we hide the bodies? Bury them?"

"Should we tell the villagers...?"

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think we should tell them," Suldae murmurs.

"...what could they even do?"

"If I fail, then... then we tell them."

"And then we bury them."

Ireena Kolyana: "If we don't tell them, and someone stumbles in here, looking for the Baron..."

"Won't it look like we killed them?"

Suldae Westwind: "Doors have locks."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry begins dragging the shapeshifter up the hill to the Abbey

Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps towards the bodies.

"Help me... help me move them to..."

She gestures towards their sleeping places.

Ireena Kolyana: "Right," says Ireena. "Right..."

She helps Suldae lift the bodies of Anna and Ilya Krezkov, one after the other.

Soon, the family could be merely sleeping—if not for the blood.

Ireena's face is pale, almost bloodless, and there is a faraway look in her eyes. She stands otherwise emotionless, picking at her bottom lip from time to time, looking down at the bodies in their bed.

Suldae Westwind: (what was Marcus doing)

Marcus Veranius: (Glooming outside)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae calls Marcus over.

She explains her half-plan.

Marcus Veranius taps on a nearby window, not wanting to brave going inside.

Marcus Veranius: "It won't work."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Watching Henry work as usual:p)

Suldae Westwind: "Why?"

Marcus Veranius: "The Kreskovas have shifts on the wall. Our poor luck that they were so active in their community's protection."

"We got maybe a few hours till one of them is supposed to report in."

The creature in Henry's hand suddenly shifts into Anna Krezkov, winding up to scream.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Enry decks it

WHAM. That nips the budding scream, and snaps the creature back to its native shape.

Marcus Veranius: "No, we need to report this to the guard immediately and point Rahadin as the culprit."

It is not foolish enough to try such a maneuver again.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says "There's another option..."

Marcus Veranius: "It won't help morale but the town's in a precarious situation with its newfound peace. If no culprit is labeled, most will assume the Abbey is at fault."

Ireena Kolyana: "The Hat of Disguise."

Suldae Westwind: "...we can say they'd been gravely injured."

"Point to Rahadin. Not say they're dead."

Ireena Kolyana: "If we say that, one of the medicine women will want to see them."

"We could replace them for the duration of their shifts upon the wall."

Suldae Westwind: "I... want to try, but I don't want to advertise it. Whether I succeed or fail."

Marcus Veranius: "Their son just celebrated his re-birthday. A Resurrection is not out of believable fact."

Ireena Kolyana: "That is true..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks up his pace as his patience grows thin

Marcus Veranius: "We cannot sew dishonesty and expect honest aid in the future."

"That's not how trust works."

Suldae Westwind: "...we should take them to the Abbey, then."

Marcus Veranius: "I agree."

Suldae Westwind: "You're the person to talk about trust, Marcus."

Ireena Kolyana: "Should we call the guard, then?"

Suldae Westwind: "...But yes, you're probably right."

Marcus Veranius tilts his head

Marcus Veranius: "How many times must I apologize for poor decisions made a lifetime ago?"

Suldae Westwind: "Call the guard, tell them we're taking them to the Abbey."

"I'm sorry," Suldae raises her hands, "I didn't mean it like that."

Marcus Veranius frowns, genuinely hurt by the comment.

Marcus Veranius: "No, you're right. I'll go alert the guard."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena slips away to the front door of the hut, cups her hands around her mouth, and shouts: "GUARDS! GUARDS!"

Marcus Veranius starts walking off

Suldae Westwind: Suldae catches his arm.

"Ireena has it."

"Marcus, I'm sorry."

Marcus Veranius sighs

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena slips outside the hut, shutting the door behind herself, and waits for the guards. Marcus and Suldae are given some privacy.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Has Henry reached the top of the hill yet?)

Suldae Westwind: "I meant it in the sense that I cannot follow why sometimes you think deception is the best tool and sometimes you insist on the principle of telling the truth always."

"I see things differently, and..."

"Well, I'm sorry. You are right like I said."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, it's very simple."

Henry reaches the top of the switchback stair, and finds Vasilka, Rictavio, Ezmeralda, Joan, and Kasimir waiting for him at the gates.

Suldae Westwind: "I just think you're right because of the practicalities of it, not the principle. Sometimes deception IS the ethical choice."

Marcus Veranius: "If you are playing games against an opponent, the last thing you want is for them to know your hand."

Suldae Westwind: "Sorry, I'm listening."

Vasilka: "Henry! What is that in your hand? Where are the others?"

Joan runs to Henry but stops several yards away, watching as the hideous purple beast assumes her own form.

Marcus Veranius: "You don't treat your friends like opponents in a game. Else they DO become your opponents."

Joan: "Gods above and hells below... What is that?"

Rictavio: "That, dear ladies, is a Doppelgänger. A notoriously evasive shapeshifter."

Marcus Veranius: "...that's probably how Rahadin sees all of this after a long, centuries-old career. Some twisted game with living pieces."

Suldae Westwind: "...I don't know if now's the best time to talk about this, but..."

Rictavio: "Wherever did you find it?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae releases his arm.

"...Can we talk about this?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Baron and his family are dead. Rahadin got them and left this behind to impersonate them" his tone is tense

Suldae Westwind: "I just want to - get my head in order, I guess."

"Can we talk, if not now then sometime soon?"

Ezmerelda Veranius gasps, covering her mouth with a hand. "No..."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Is Marcus alright?"

Marcus Veranius: "In the morning."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Marcus Veranius: "When all this settles down."

"Someone has to fill in on the wall tonight."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The others stayed behind to sort things out"

Guard: "What's all this, then?" Suldae and Marcus hear the voice of the guard, muffled by the door.

Ireena Kolyana: "It's... I'd better let them explain. Inside."

Ireena knocks on the door.

Marcus Veranius approaches the guard, hands empty and visible

Marcus Veranius: "Spies and assassins."

Guard: The guard, impatient to enter, sees Marcus first thing.

"Spies and assassins? What do you—" He sees the "sleeping" Krezkovs. "Oh no... No!"

Marcus Veranius: "We'll see if the abbey can 'fix' this situation. Keep your wits."

Guard: The guard's knees seem to buckle. "The Baron... The Baroness... Even the little Baronet!"

"What evil bastard did this?"

Marcus Veranius: "Rahadin. And a doppelganger in his employ."

"The doppelganger was dragged up to the abbey to be interrogated by a Monster Hunter."

"The other... escaped."

"But I do not think he will risk another infiltration on high alert."

Marcus Veranius pats the guardsman on the shoulder, trying to offer some reassurance where there ought to be sorrow

Guard: "Alright," says the Guard, straightening up with a sniffle.

Marcus Veranius: "Listen. The sun came back yesterday. Greater miracles have happened."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Suldae is sitting against the wall. Somehow it's the guard's reaction that hits the hardest.

Guard: "We'll double up the watch tonight. No one stands alone on guard."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Quick break eating some dinner)

(BRB)

Marcus Veranius: "I'll take over the Baron's shift. If my company is not minded."

Guard: "Minded? Nay, it'd be welcomed."

"The men could use the morale boost."

Marcus Veranius: "You and me both."

Marcus Veranius starts heading for the gatehouse

Marcus Veranius pauses

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena slips back into the hut with Suldae.

She begins ritually casting Floating Disk.

Marcus Veranius: "Umm... perhaps you should arrange a transport to the Abbey. I know the dead has a habit of wandering away when unattended in this country."

Ireena Kolyana: "We're already working on that, Marcus," says Ireena, looking up from her book for a moment.

"No wagon will be necessary."

Marcus Veranius gives a thumbs-up, then continues off. Don't need to understand this magic nonsense to trust in its potency Ireena Kolyana: She moves her hand through the air, incanting under her breath. After a minute-long ritual involving a drop of mercury and an intricate incantation, a vast circle of invisible force manifests nearby.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae helps where Ireena can use it, still quiet and numb

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is equally quiet and equally numb, but when the ritual is complete she glances at Suldae with sudden warmth and concern.

"Hey."

"Even if you can't... You know."

"We can still avenge them."

"And they're not bound by the curse, anymore. Their souls aren't trapped here. They can go on to Elysium."

"It's not the end, right? Not really..."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena snuffles slightly.

"Can you help me... Help me move them?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods and moves where Ireena directs her.

Ireena Kolyana: Together they lift the bodies onto the invisible disk. Then, in stately procession, they glide out behind Ireena and Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: The fact that avenging is generally the suggested way of dealing with loss in situations like this is not helping her feel better about world as a whole, right now.

As the floating disk leaves the hut, a villager moving down the road freezes in place, staring at the hovering corpses.

Guard: "I'd best spread the news," says the Guard. He lifts a trumpet to his lips and blares it.

Within seconds, most of the villagers have arrived—all bearing weapons. They see the procession, and stop, and stare.

A wailing begins. It follows Suldae and Ireena all the way up the winding switchback road to the abbey.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shivers. This is the exact spectacle she'd hoped to avoid.

But Marcus is right, there's no way to keep it quiet without digging themselves deeper in case she fails.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena takes Suldae's hand for strength as she walks, leading the disk and its heavy burden behind her.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae squeezes her fingers gently.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena stares straight ahead as she walks. Her eyes are wet, but hard and angry.

At the top of the winding switchback road, they encounter the rest of the party, minus Marcus.

Vasilka sighs.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Where's Marcus?"

Rictavio removes his glasses and pinches the bridge of his nose, shutting his eyes wearily.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir stands stoic, unmoved.

Suldae Westwind: "Joined the watch. I think he'd be glad for the company," Suldae tells her and nods back down.

"For tonight, I mean, not for good," she adds after a pause.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'll go find him," Ezmerelda says. With that, she's off at a dead sprint, racing down the hillside.

She catches up to Marcus just as he reaches the gatehouse.

"Reporting for watch duty," she says.

Marcus Veranius turns to Ezmerelda, expression quickly brightening.

Kasimir Velikov approaches Henry and his burden. He stands at a carefully selected distance, observing the creature with a meticulous, scientific eye.

Kasimir Velikov: He turns back toward the Abbey and enters it, saying over his shoulder: "I will need its blood. All of it."

Joan shudders.

Marcus Veranius: "Hmm... I don't know. We at the Vallaki Gatehouse don't just take any random passer-byer from the street. What's your qualifications?"

*Kresk

*Feck

Marcus Veranius says, as a random passer-byer from the street

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, I know we're in Krezk, not Vallaki, so I've got some spatial reasoning on you."

"And I have my own weapons! Won't be needing the village supply."

"And I've got, let's see..."

Ezmerelda Veranius counts the notches on her heavy crossbow.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Forty-eight vampires under my belt."

Marcus Veranius: "You're gunna need to get that thing reinforced if you keep weakening the stock like that."

Marcus Veranius smiles

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I happen to be married to a tradesman, for your information. He's very good with his hands. I'm certain he could reinforce it for me."

Marcus Veranius pauses

Marcus Veranius considers

Marcus Veranius: "...I might know a guy, but he'll be upset that it's not his crossbow I'm bringing in."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Why, did his melt?"

Marcus Veranius: "In all fairness, it melted a handful of gods with it. Talk about quality!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "What an unlikely thing to happen to a crossbow!"

Ezmerelda Veranius smiles.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Really though. I'm here to help. Put me where I'm needed."

"We've got to give these people something to hold onto. At least until one of your demigod friends manages to rip open the halls of the dead and bring souls screaming back into the sunlight."

Marcus Veranius: "I figure we're just going to sit around the gate a few hours till morning, let the sun take over where the Barons aren't. Might not seem like a fair trade at first but it's only the second time it's ever shown up in this country."

Vasilka: Vasilka looks sadly at the bodies on the invisible bier. "Please. Bring them this way. There is a storm this night, and it will not do to let Krezk's lord and lady lie exposed to the rain."

Marcus Veranius: "Imagine. An entire country of people who grew up not seeing the sun. Ever. Giant ball of fire in the sky every day now."

Ezmerelda Veranius smiles.

Marcus Veranius: "You think that brings hope or fear?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Their whole world is different, now. I think there's real hope in that."

"To a people wrapped so long in darkness, light can only bring hope."

"...But I'm no philosopher. So don't quote me on that."

"I suppose the Drow might disagree."

"These people don't seem like they ever got comfortable with the darkness."

Marcus Veranius: "Eh. Pity for the drow then. Barovia must have been a paradise for them."

"...save the whole Rahadin-ear-collection thing."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (BACK)

Ireena Kolyana leads the invisible bier in through the gates of the abbey, and as it crosses the threshold, Suldae hears the ghost of a bell ringing out bright and clear and beautiful through the courtyard.

Ireena Kolyana: "Where should we put them?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Take all you need Kasimir" Henry says

Vasilka: "In the main hall, I think. I shall ensure that their bodies do not begin to degrade."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena nods. "Ok."

Suldae Westwind: (are dusk elves and drow the same thing)

GM: (No, dusk elves lack the connection to Lolth.)

(Dusk elves are a strictly Barovian race.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ez was talking about actual drow i believe)

Vasilka: Vasilka leads the way into the main keep of the Abbey, and sees the bodies laid to rest in a corner of that grand hall. There, she kneels over them, and from her hands fall petals of ethereal green light.

In moments, the bodies seem like they could almost be just sleeping. A scent of roses lingers around them, and there is no scent of death.

"It is all I can do for them, unfortunately."

"They shall not rot, nor wither. For a further 24 hours."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena turns to Suldae. "What's our next move?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir taps Henry on the shoulder. "Bring it this way."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Where should we go for the exsanguination ?"

Kasimir Velikov: He leads the way out the main hall and across to the North Wing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows

Kasimir Velikov: There, in one of the side chambers, Ismark lies comatose on a bed in the corner. The rest of the floor space is clear and empty.

"Please hold it quite still. This will be terribly painful."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shifts his grib to reduce the doppelgängers range of motion from 'not much' to 'none'

"Please" Henry says "no need to be gentle"

Kasimir Velikov: "I was not planning to be."

White fire flashes in Kasimir's dark eyes. At the same time, a crimson glow rises from beneath Ismark's closed eyelids. Power shifts and moves, slithering between them and around them as something that is not quite Kasimir and that is not quite Ismark brings its might to bear upon the task at hand.

The Doppelgänger screams.

The Doppelgänger withers, and shrinks, and within moments it is nothing more than a husk of skin and bones.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae closes her eyes.

"I'll... need to figure this out. The connections, how to... I'll see you tomorrow."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry unceremoniously drops the remains

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena nods.

"Do you... Want company?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Yes, actually."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena smiles broadly.

"Then we should take our leave for the night."

She bows to Vasilka gracefully.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hugs her and tucks her head under her chin

Vasilka: Vasilka bows in return.

Suldae Westwind: "I hate all of this," she murmurs so that only Irena can hear.

"...But I'll figure this much out, at least."

Rictavio: Rictavio is kicked back in a chair, feet on the table, fingers playing idly with the lip of a wineglass.

"I'll keep the first watch."

Suldae Westwind: The odd thing is, this is not a gift from her god. This one is a child of her own understanding, just on the cusp of it, she just needs to change perspective.

It's a gift of her god in another sense.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena squeezes Suldae tightly. To Vasilka, she says: "You said there were rooms for us?"

Vasilka: "Yes. In the North Wing. Yours is beside Ismark's. Suldae's is beside yours."

 Ireena Kolyana: "We won't be needing two rooms, I think."
"Come on, Suldae. Let's go."

 Ireena Kolyana leads Suldae to the North Wing, and to her own room.

 Kasimir Velikov: The light fades from Kasimir's eyes and from Ismark's as well. The power retracts, shrinking away like a wind unleashed.

 Suldae Westwind: (id prefer to not rp the rest of the evening in detail)

 Kasimir Velikov: "It is done."
"The creature is... Understood."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anything else I can help with?" Henry asks

 Kasimir Velikov: "I will need to speak with Vasilka now. Your power may be needed."

 Vasilka knocks on the door of Ismark's room.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: He nods

 Kasimir Velikov: "How convenient," says Kasimir, opening the door.

 Vasilka: "I sensed that I was needed?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "Indeed. We now understand the nature of this creature. Together, we will have to create a Forbiddance spell specific to its blood. I have the necessary components. What I lack is the power."

 Vasilka: "I have a similar spell already in place. It can be altered slightly, to include the creature in question."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Then you need only the knowledge that I now possess."

 Vasilka: "And Henry's permission, of course."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Permission?"

 Vasilka: "As the current representative of the Will of Sylvanus, I cannot alter the region-wide powers without his consent."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Whatever it takes"

 Vasilka: "I shall take that as acquiescence."

Vasilka's eyes flash emerald green.

"It is done."

"The Doppelgänger can no longer enter Krezk. However..."

"Something in Vallaki resists my will. An overlapping power?"

"A holy power, but not of Sylvanus."

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir smirks. "An issue of jurisdiction, then?"

Vasilka: "Perhaps."

"For the moment, our allies in Vallaki will need to be warned of the possibility of a Doppelgänger invasion. It is convenient that we are holding the war council here, since the barrier around Krezk and the surrounding lands should prevent any of the creatures from entering."

"Well. I am drained. I shall now sleep. Goodnight, all."

Kasimir Velikov: "Goodnight."

"Henry?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes?"

Kasimir Velikov: "You are in my room."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "....right I'm in your room" Henry pauses "goodnight" he says leaving

Kasimir Velikov: "Goodnight."

Kasimir shuts the door behind him.

Henry sees Vasilka crossing the courtyard to the main hall.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He approaches her

Vasilka: She seems comforted by his presence, but makes no effort to break the silence of the slowly deepening evening.

At the steps of the great hall, she says: "A tiresome day."

"Following on the heels of a tiresome night."

"It will be good to rest, knowing that you and your friends are safe."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Speaking from my soul" Henry sighs out

Vasilka: "If you seek Joan, I believe she is in the kitchens, washing up after the feast."

"I go to my chamber. Sleep well, brave paladin."

Vasilka climbs the stairs out of sight.

Somewhere to the east, there is a booming roll of thunder.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stays still caught in his own mind for a brief moment before walking into the kitchen. Leaning on the door frame he asks "need some help?"

Joan turns around with a little scream, dropping a plate. She catches it just a moment before it can hit the ground.

Marcus Veranius grumbles. One night, just ONE night of peace!

Joan: "Oh no, I can manage. It would be so unseemly!"

"A knight of the realm getting his hands in mucky dishwater, as if."

Joan turns her attention back to the dishes, scrubbing with intent.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smirks a bit "Adorable as it may be you really should stop being so jumpy around me, I'm not that impressive to begin with" he says walking over to help anyways

Joan relinquishes some space before the sink, saying quietly: "I disagree..."

Joan looks at his face suddenly, furtively. She looks back at the dish in her hands, and resumes scrubbing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head lightly "I've been stumbling and bumbling my way through this mess for what? A month? Maybe two? I just got lucky if anything." He hesitates scrubbing a plate before continuing quieter "You're much more impressive, having lived in this hell so long and still being able to...well do anything but be afraid and miserable"

Joan smiles slowly, feeling perhaps a bit of pride.

Joan: "I'm almost always frightened. But there's always work to be done."

"So I do the work, and that helps."

Joan looks at Henry.

Joan: "But you're never afraid. And I'm never afraid around you."

"You're not like other men."

"Most nights are swaggering braggarts without the brains to understand that they're just tools, weapons in the hands of their lords and kingdoms. But you... You're not like that."

"You're not a tool."

"I'm not a follower by nature, Henry. But when you showed up, I... Well, I wanted to follow. I wanted to see where you were going, and to be there when you got there."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh I just hide it with anger but deep down there is always fear" Henry says

Joan: "I don't believe that."

"But thank you for sayin' it."

Joan puts down a dish. She begins untying her apron.

Joan: "You know what, I think the rest of these can wait till the morning."

"Now, you were saying something earlier about adultery? Piqued my interest, might have."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry puts down the plate blushing before taking a deep breath and smirking stepping close up to her

"You sure" he says pulling her into an embrace "Curriostiy can lead to ...interressting places..."

Joan: "Interesting places? I like the sound of those... My room's just this way..."

"Now, mind you, it's not all that interesting of a place."

"But with the two of us in there, I bet we could make it into one."

Joan winks.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks her up into a princess carry "I think we'll manage"

Joan: "Oh my."

The night passes quietly, but not uneventfully. In the chambers of a scullery maid, two souls become more closely acquainted. In Ismark's chamber, Kasimir meditates long into the night, watching over his sleeping friend and speaking to him in the trance. In Ireena's chamber, Suldae masters spells of such power that few mortals ever attain them. On the wall-top, Marcus and Ezmerelda stand side-by-side, watching the storm roll in out of the east. In the great hall of the Abbey, Rictavio stands leaning in the window, drinking wine, staring out into the storm-wracked night.

The storm hits at midnight, and with great violence. The winds are mighty, uprooting the weaker trees and damaging some of the Krezkian rooftops. A fire breaks out due to a lightning strike, but the Krezkian bucket brigade makes short work of it.

The rain pours in blinding sheets, and the lightning nearly splits the sky. The thunder is an almost continuous grumble in the heavens, rolling down the mountainsides.

At dawn, the storm breaks, ripped to pieces by the rising of the sun. Marcus and Ezmerelda still stand on the battlements of Krezk, side-by-side. As dawn's first blush lights the road, they see a horrific sight.

An army stands in the road before the gates of Krezk. An army wrapped in tattered armor and in tattered flesh. An army bearing the banners of the silver dragon on the field of black. An army of the undead—and not sent by Strahd.

A revenant breaks from the ranks. On his head is the helmet of a captain, and he marches forward towards the gates.

With a voice like wind through a cobwebbed attic, he breathes out the words: "Argynvostholt comes to join the War Council."

Guard: A guard nearby, trembling with fear, turns to the highest ranking person he can find: Marcus.
"What do we do, sir?"

Suldae and Ireena wake as dawn's light enters at the window. Henry and Joan wake together, still entangled. Rictavio snorts himself awake in the main hall, and puts on his spectacles, and gets stiffly to his feet.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes idly to the window and looks.

From the windows of the Abbey, the army is plainly visible.

Kasimir Velikov: (Behind Marcus and Ezmerelda): "HOLD YOUR FIRE!"
Kasimir climbs to the wall-top, Ismark by his side—and awake.

Suldae Westwind: "Oh my," Suldae murmurs.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's eyes are now like to burning coals, as though the animating force within him blazes more closely to the surface of his soul.

Ireena Kolyana: "Mm? What is it?"

Suldae Westwind: She calls Ireena to the window, then without waiting for her reaction rushes down to find out what's going on.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena rolls over lazily and gets out of bed. She glances out the window.
Immediately she races to get dressed, and sprints after Suldae.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I hope today is a bit less dramatic" Henry murmurs half asleep still

Marcus Veranius: ((I go away for one bathroom break...))

Joan smiles, her fingers teasing their way up his neck and tapping gently on his lips, then the tip of his nose.

Joan: "Me too."

"Let's just stay in bed all day. Make them wonder where we are..."

Marcus Veranius: Marcus's attention turns between the guardsman and the army. First day on gate watch and he gets the HARD assignment...

He quietly stows away the Helm of Brilliance / Undead Melting Device, believing it not to be the proper time.

"Do... do we have room in the Abbey for a proper army?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hmm sounds lovely" Henry says kissing her forehead softly "They'll come around if they need us so let's enjoy the time before they do"

Marcus Veranius breaks out the Sending Stone and yells into it for backup. "SULDAE! DO WE HAVE ROOM IN THE ABBEY FOR AN ARMY?"

At that moment, Suldae arrives at the gatehouse, Ireena only a short way behind her.

Suldae Westwind: "...What?!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We won't need to house them," says Ismark. His voice is different: deeper, hollower, more alien.

"They will stand guard around the village."

Suldae Westwind: "How the fuck should I know?!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Only Vladimir needs to enter."

Marcus Veranius stares at Ismark for a moment

Suldae Westwind: "...oh, cool," Suldae says weakly, looking at him.

Marcus Veranius checks his ledger

Marcus Veranius: "Open the gate for their general."

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda's hands tighten on her crossbow, but she doesn't take aim... Yet.

Guard: "Open the gates!"

Marcus Veranius: "Open the gate a little."

Slowly, with a rattle of chains, the great gates swing outward.

The leader of the Revenants enters, never once looking back at his companions.

He is a towering man, fully seven and a half feet in height. He is wrapped in rusted half plate and in black and rotting silks. His cloak is a tattered ghost, drifting ethereally behind him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes to meet him.

This is diplomacy and everything. She's... totally competent at this. Yes.

Vladimir Horngaard: "I am Vladimir Horngaard. Where is the one called Ismark."

Suldae Westwind: Also very confident.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I am here, brother."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks towards where Ismark is.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark descends from the wall-top and joins Suldae in the road. Kasimir follows.

Marcus Veranius turns to the guards. "These are enemies of Strahd. It might seem unusual but please do not fire upon them."

Guard: The Guards tighten their grip upon their spears and keep a respectful distance. After Vladimir enters the village, the guards swing the gates shut tight behind them.

The army outside waits, unmoving.

Marcus Veranius: "Why today of all days..." Marcus grumbles to himself about the timing, then runs down to meet with the general

Vladimir Horngaard: "The bones of Argynvost cry out for vengeance," says Vladimir. "Their call has never been so clear."

"We must make haste to Ravenloft, and leave no stone stacked upon another."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "No," says Ismark, without fear. "We must plan. We must wait. We must gather all our forces. Strahd will not fall easily."

Vladimir Horngaard: Vladimir hisses like an animal.

"The time for waiting has passed! Strahd is weak and cornered. Now is the time for vengeance."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Your army has had countless centuries to face him, and you have never once succeeded. We will not waste our lives and resources on a futile effort. No, your day is done, old man. We will save Argynvost, and slaughter Strahd, but we will do so on our terms, and in our time."

"You will wait, and guard Krezk. It is the will of Argynvost."

Marcus Veranius doesn't like intervening in a family feud but now seems a good time to butt in.

Marcus Veranius: "You are both correct. The time is waiting has passed, for our position is at incredible risk. Strahd's spies intend to undermine us so speed is of top priority."

"We also need time to organize and mobilize. An army does not prepare for siege in a single day."

Vladimir Horngaard: "Mine does."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yours is not the only army at play, Vladimir."

"And yours are not the only soldiers on the field."

Marcus Veranius: "We will need every hand to breach Ravenloft, and so I propose this:"

"One week."

"The first cannon fires on Ravenloft in one week."

Vladimir Horngaard: Vladimir stands silent, waiting.

After a time, he says: "Agreed."

Then he turns, and walks calmly up the stairs to the wall-top.

Marcus Veranius: "HOWEVER!"

"This will not be an idle week."

Vladimir Horngaard: He pauses, one foot perched on a crenelation of the wall-top, looking back at Marcus.

Marcus Veranius: "We have a siege engine that, with your forces, could be expedited to be prepared in time for the siege."

Vladimir Horngaard: "Go on..."

Marcus Veranius: "Iron golem. Materials at hand. It will surely breach the gate if it is prepared."

Vladimir Horngaard: Vladimir laughs.

"Those gates cannot be breached so easily. But you are correct: it will help."

"Bring the materials and instructions to us. We will see that it is made."

Marcus Veranius nods

Vladimir Horngaard: Then, without another word, Vladimir steps right off the wall, and lands with a heavy, meaty crunch.

Marcus Veranius: ...oof.

Vladimir Horngaard: He picks himself up, shattered limbs reassembling. In moments he is whole. He walks back to his men.

"Encircle the village."

With the sound of many marching feet, the army begins to separate into two long chains that embrace the little village completely.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shudders. She looks at Ismark, and looks away.

She says, to Suldae: "At least that's over..."

Rictavio pounds on the door of Joan's chamber.

Rictavio: "Henry? Henry, are you in there?"

"There's something happening in the village. I'm going to check it out."

Marcus Veranius: "Gonna be honest. Stressed as I am, this is more pleasant than when it happened at Vallaki."

Suldae Westwind: "...Agreed."

She looks back at the Abbey.

"...Do we have diamonds?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...No?" Henry replies before getting up "What's going on?"

Ireena Kolyana: "I was pretty sure we had some diamonds," says Ireena.

Marcus Veranius: "5,000 worth. At least in the Amber Temple provisions alone."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'm eager for some sleep. That was a helluva night. And a helluva way to start the morning."

"Back to the Abbey?"

Rictavio: (outside Joan's door) Rictavio laughs.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae heads to the Abbey before explaining what she needs them for.

She's... pretty certain.

It will work, if they arewilling.

Rictavio: "I'd get dressed, if I were Henry and he were in this room."

"Morning, Joan. What a lovely deep voice you have today."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm not hiding...just not willing to get up yet you old donkey" Henry grumbles getting up and dressed

Marcus Veranius wobbles around. Ez was right; he's too tired for this today

The party regroups—more or less by accident—in the great hall of the Abbey.

Marcus Veranius is passed out on the table

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir swiftly brings Rictavio, Henry, Vasilka, and Joan up to speed.

Joan is wearing her dress backwards, and hasn't noticed yet.

Rictavio: "An army of revenants. I must say I find the thought somewhat distasteful. I suppose we shall have to deal with them once Strahd himself is dead."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry says one arm slung around Joan holding her close Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark raises an eyebrow at Rictavio.

Kasimir Velikov: "We may not have to. Once their vengeance is complete and the curse is broken, they will pass from this world like mist in the sun."

"And Ismark, I fear, will be among them."

Ireena Kolyana: "Can't we like... I don't know. Imprison Strahd? Forever? Wouldn't that make Ismark stay alive?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I have only the one year."

"I will see him dead, and you safe. Then I will go to my peace with the rest of Argynvost's followers."

Ireena Kolyana: "...But I don't want you to go."

Kasimir Velikov: "Nor do I. Unfortunately, there is nothing to be done about that."

"It is better to face facts than to run from them."

"Now. What is our next move?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I had a thought."

"About that wizard..."

"Couldn't the ravens find him for us?"

Marcus Veranius considers

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is listening and waiting, but she's antsy to try what she has to.

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae," says Ireena. "I'm here with you. Are you ready to try this?"

Marcus Veranius: "If they are successful, we could try that similar trick provided by Vasilika in the past."

Ireena Kolyana: She seems to turn to the new task almost as a way to turn away from any thought of Ismark.

Marcus Veranius: "Teleport in, handle the wizard, regroup in Vallaki for the siege."

Rictavio: "That may be the most efficient way to handle it, yes. My old bones weren't looking forward to a long and pointless march through snow, looking for someone who might be taking any form."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "So maybe we really should have a War Council?"

"With the Martikovs, I mean. And whoever else we can think of."

Marcus Veranius: "After I get some rest."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes," Suldae murmurs, but lingers yet, not waiting to miss out on the conversation.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Or maybe we don't even need to, we've got those Sending Stones."

Marcus Veranius: "And if we can bring in all active members..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Rest, yes. Rest sounds good."

Marcus Veranius: "...no pressure"

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda glances at the dead Krezkovs. The room goes quiet.

"Suldae... Do you...? If any among us had that kind of magic, it would be you."

Rictavio: "Oi! I'm right here."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, do you have that kind of magic?"

Rictavio: "Well, no."

"But I can ensure that none of them are under the effects of any curses, before we attempt anything."

"In fact, I think I'll do just that."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods.

Rictavio: Rictavio kneels over the bodies of the Krezkovs, and casts Remove Curse three times.

"There. Now an experienced cleric of uncanny power—which we are not likely to find within Barovia, I can tell you—can bring them back to life."

Suldae Westwind: "...Or a bard," Suldae says.

Rictavio: "We have about ten days before that becomes impossible, if I remember my training aright."

"Or a bard...?" says Rictavio, echoing Suldae numbly.

 Suldae Westwind: "I don't think you know the limits of what's possible, Ric."

 Rictavio: He looks at her, awe plain on his face.

 Suldae Westwind: She comes up to the bodies and glances over at Marcus for the diamonds he'd promised.

 Rictavio: He steps away, bowing slightly.

 Suldae Westwind: "Their souls are not yet gone," Suldae says.
"I believe I know how to call out to them."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda hugs Marcus.

 Suldae Westwind: "That's what the ten days are about."

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena watches, twisting her fingers anxiously, fidgeting in place.

 Suldae Westwind: "A cleric can do it as well, but... a god's power is not necessary."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae" Henry says quietly simply nodding at her in encourgaa once she looks

 Suldae Westwind: (im waiting for the fucking diamonds)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: encouragement

 Vasilka: Vasilka watches everything, her face illegible.

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe. The diamonds."

 Kasimir Velikov: "I have never seen such magic performed, in person."
Kasimir approaches, keeping a respectful distance, but eager to satisfy his curiosity.

 Marcus Veranius wakes up long enough to lift up his hat and pull a diamond out of it

 Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda takes it and hands it to Suldae.

"Will you need one for each?"

She sits next to Marcus on the table, toying with his hair.

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark turns away, and stands in the window, choosing not to watch the proceedings.

 Suldae Westwind: "I'll need... a weight of diamond for each," Suldae says, eyeing the diamond. "This one looks the right size. I haven't exactly done this before."

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir notices Ismark's attitude, and silently joins him at the window, putting one arm around him and staring into the distance with him.

 Rictavio: Rictavio sits down to watch Suldae at work.

 Marcus Veranius sleepily pulls out half a diamond more from his hat and slides it over to Suldae

Joan: "What are they doing? What's all this talk about diamonds and souls and such?"

Rictavio: "The Krezkovs are dead, aren't they? What good does it do not to bury them?"

GM: (That should be from Joan, my bad)

(Not from Rictavio, he knows better)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae kneels next to the Baron - somehow, she expects him to have the least worst reaction to waking up next to the dead bodies of his wife and son.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry chooses to stand near the sides of the room giving Suldae space "Just watch"

Suldae Westwind: She flips the guitar over to her front and begins the song.

This one is complex enough for her to be both playing and singing to aid, her entire attention on twisting the Weave so as to reach those who are already beyond, if not yet gone.

This is going to take an hour.

Rictavio sits, staring into his folded hands. Perhaps praying?

Kasimir Velikov stands with Ismark, immobile by the window. They seem to be having a conversation that no one else can hear.

Ireena Kolyana watches Suldae work, and gently massages the Weave around her, smoothing eddies and disturbances so that the Weave Suldae reaches for is as smooth and unruffled and pure as it can be. It does not ease the casting by much, but it does by some.

Ezmerelda Veranius sleeps on the table next to Marcus, snoring slightly.

Vasilka stands rooted like a tree, her eyes brightly watching the magic begin to move.

Joan cries silently in Henry's arms, lost in the haunting beauty of the song.

Joan: "I've never heard elvish singing like this... I didn't know they could express so much... So much feeling..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands quietly holding Joan close and simply waits.

There is a flash of white light from the heart of the diamond. It becomes weightless, lifting silently into the air as Suldae's singing surrounds it.

Suldae senses that more than one soul has come to her call. The three Krezkovs are... Holding hands.

With eery grace, their dead hands move, and grasp each other.

With a final, dazzling flash, the diamonds are consumed.

Suldae Westwind: (Can she bring back all three with one spell?)

All three Krezkovs open their eyes at the same time.

Suldae Westwind: (oh nice)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena lowers her arms, visibly weakened, gray in the face.

"That was a marathon," she says.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out and drops her hands.

She's shaking, more with the awe of what she'd just done than exhaustion.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir glances over his shoulders at the waking Krezkovs, and grips Ismark a little more tightly. Ismark does not turn.

Suldae Westwind: She knows exactly how it worked, but that doesn't mean she believed it would.

Rictavio: Rictavio lifts his glasses and wipes one of his eyes. He snuffles slightly, and hops to his feet with a clap of his hands.

Suldae Westwind: She's watching them for signs of anything at all being wrong.

Rictavio: "Well."

Suldae Westwind: Or whatever their reaction ends up being.

Rictavio: "I am unabashedly overwhelmed and impressed, Suldae. That was some truly excellent magic."

Baron Krezkov: "Where... Am... I?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae finds the strength to lift her hand to flip him off.

"At the Abbey."

Baron Krezkov: Baron Krezkov sits up.

"I feel as though I've been sick."

"Was I sick?"

He looks around, and sees his wife and son beside him, both awake now, slowly stirring.

Suldae Westwind: "...You were not sick, no."

Anna Krezkov sits up abruptly, with a sharp scream.

Suldae Westwind: "You were a little bit stabbed."

Baron Krezkov: "My dear, we are alright."

Baron Krezkov comforts his wife.

Suldae Westwind: "You are," Suldae confirms, still sitting in front of them.

Anna Krezkov says: "The knife...! Ilya!"

Ilya Krezkov sits up and says: "Here I am, mom!"

Anna: "Oh, Ilya!"

The family shares a warm embrace for a long time.

Baron Krezkov: "I feel so... So very weary."

"As though we have just taken a very long journey."

"Wait," he says.

"Stabbed?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls Joan tightly against him pain flickering across his face.

Baron Krezkov: "I... I remember now."

Suldae Westwind: "...for Ilya it'll be his second one," Suldae says quietly, watching the kid worriedly.

He's... very small, and this spell takes a toll.

Well, not very small.

He just looks small nextt o his parents.

Ilya seems to be fine, surprisingly. Tired as he may be, he still leaps to his feet and turns a cartwheel.

Ilya then sits down very suddenly and falls asleep in a chair, snoring loudly.

Baron Krezkov: "He seems to have the right idea."

"Are we alright to... Return to the village?"

Marcus Veranius is having his idea stolen

Baron Krezkov: "I feel I could sleep for days."

Suldae Westwind: "Just don't mind the giant undead army surrounding it, they're allies," Suldae says deadpan.

Anna: "I could sleep for a week!"

Baron Krezkov: "Undead army?"

"Nevermind, I don't want to know."

"You lot can... You can manage that."

Suldae Westwind: "You're going to anyway," Suldae says pitilessly.

"...After you sleep."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Before you go do you rember anything as to how Rahadin got close to you?"

Baron Krezkov: Baron Krezkov seems to think for a time.

"It was Roger. He was coming off his shift at the wall, and stopped in to report something. Anna was out, with Ilya."

"Then he pulled a knife, and I..."

"Well. I suppose I didn't fight back as well as I thought I did."

Suldae Westwind: "Roger, huh," Suldae glances at Marcus who she figures might know who that is.

Rictavio: "I imagine we'll find Roger's remains tucked away somewhere," says Rictavio.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "No, we met Roger last night. He was on the wall with us."

"Unless there's more than one Roger in town?"

Baron Krezkov: "There isn't."

Ireena Kolyana: "He could have been under a spell," says Ireena. "Or it could have just been Rahadin, slipping past him."

"He's apparently an accomplished shapeshifter."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pells of the wall "Looks like I just found my job for today, checking in on everyone in Krezk

Joan: "I'll go with you! Leftovers are in the ice box!"

"Oh, let me grab my coat."

Baron Krezkov looks at Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae touches the bag at her side. She'd grabbed it on reflex before running downstairs in the morning, and she's still barely clothed - barely decent though decent - but the bag, the bag she has.

Baron Krezkov: "You... It was your voice. You called us back."

Suldae Westwind: She meets the Baron's eyes.

Baron Krezkov: "My debt to you grows beyond all possible repayment."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs.

Debts were never the name of it.

She's still reeling from the fact that it worked.

Rictavio: "Well, it was a single diamond worth 500 gold pieces," says Rictavio. "Hardly beyond all possible repayment."

Baron Krezkov blanches at the cost.

Baron Krezkov: "So much gold! On us?"

"Why?"

Suldae Westwind: "...We got that from the temple," Suldae says.

"Lives aren't valued in gold."

"...though I guess ultimately they are, if we run out before we save everyone," she mumbles.

The unpleasant part about being able to bring people from the dead is picking and choosing.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Some of you may have to take my road back."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why not" Henry says getting ready to head into the Village

Suldae Westwind: She knows this much before reading the book.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Replying to the Baron*

Joan and Henry head down into the village.

GM: (Wait, ignore that)

Baron Krezkov: "Wait!" says the Baron.

"Could you take us with you? Escort us to our home?"

"I would be... Glad of the company."

Suldae Westwind: "There's an actual reason though," Sudlae says, looking at him.

Interrupting his speech several seconds of silence later.

Baron Krezkov: It is clear that it costs the Baron a great deal of willpower to ask this—and a good amount of pride.

Suldae Westwind: "You're the leader of this place. These people rely on you."

"There's a job you have to do."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry simply nods and waits.

Suldae Westwind: "Many more lives will be saved by saving yours."

Baron Krezkov: "Whatever you ask of me, I shall be glad to do."

Suldae Westwind: "Your job. Nothing more, nothing less."

Baron Krezkov: "If it is within my power to grant your will, I will grant it."

Suldae Westwind: "You've been doing it before we came along."

"And you'd have continued doing it even if I said nothing."

"I just wanted to say... There was an actual reason."

Baron Krezkov: The Baron nods.

Suldae Westwind: She closed her eyes, still sitting.

Baron Krezkov: "Thank you."

"You have given this old man back some measure of his pride."

Suldae Westwind: She won't be able to save everyone.

Baron Krezkov: "Come, family. The knight is waiting for us."

The Krezkovs leave, following Henry and Joan.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Still technically not a knight" Henry says in a srage whisper as they leave

Rictavio: "Well," says Rictavio. "I, for one, am very tired."

"I will meet you all for dinner."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Stage*

Rictavio leaves.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe."

"Babe."

"Wake up, babe. It's time to go to bed."

Marcus Veranius: "Mhhhhh..."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Come on, you."

 Ezmerelda Veranius grunts as she lifts Marcus up from the table and sets him on his feet.

 Ireena Kolyana: "You were amazing, Suldae," whispers Ireena.

 Marcus Veranius is not very heavy

 Ireena Kolyana: "Truly amazing. I've never heard music like that before."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs the compliments off, almost annoyed.

"...I hate that I needed to."

"I like that I could."

 Marcus Veranius: "Okaaaaaaaaay. Sheesh. Not even the dead can get proper rest in these parts."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I know," says Ireena. "But I love that you were able to."

 Suldae Westwind: "I really, really hate that I needed to."

She presses herself close to Ireena for comfort.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gives her a tight squeeze.

"Well, at least we've got an army now."

"Rahadin won't find it easy to slip past the unsleeping dead."

 Suldae Westwind: "...There's something amazing about the fact thjat I could," she murmurs after a moment in agreement.

 Marcus Veranius stumbles off to the designated proper sleeping area

 Suldae Westwind: "That its' the kind of thing a person can do and that... I figured out how."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh no you don't," says Ezmerelda, as Marcus nearly flops into the bed fully clothed. "You're not getting away that easily..."

 Suldae Westwind: "...I'll go read. You with me?"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark turns at last from the window and approaches Suldae, Kasimir beside him.

"You did a good thing for those people."

"I wish you could have done it for me."

"I know that such a thing was... Not possible. At the time."

"But I am grateful, for the Krezkovs, that it was now."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Come. Leave them be. They have been through quite an ordeal..."

 Kasimir Velikov leads Ismark away.

 Marcus Veranius turns to Ez sleepishly

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah," says Ireena, turning to Suldae. "I'm with you."

Marcus Veranius: "Did I forget something?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Here," says Ezmerelda, preparing him for bed more properly. "Let me see if I can't remind you..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Have you opened it yet?"

"The book, I mean?"

Suldae Westwind: "You didn't even give me the fucking time if I could, Ismark," Suldae says with a bitter laugh.

"You went ahead and did what you did."

"...Also, I couldn't."

"And I wish I could, too."

Suldae glances at Ireena and shakes her head.

Ireena Kolyana: "I know," says Ireena. "He's impossible."

Suldae Westwind: "...I haven't had the time to open the book yet. Doesn't seem as easy as just flipping the cover open."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, I for one am interested to see what it looks like inside..."

GM: (Here seems like a good place to end the session)

Suldae Westwind: yeah

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Good session I had a lot of fun)

GM: (Me too! Thank you all for playing!)

Zanshukun: (BRB)

GM (GM): (Howdy y'all!)

(What would we like to start this session off with?)

Marcus Veranius: (GOOD QUESTION! Suldae?)

Liliet (Suldae): (im here sorry)

(i have a headache and dont remember the full list of things besides talking to marcus)

GM (GM): (Well, we can start with that maybe?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

GM (GM): (Since Henry is afk for a moment)

(Seems like a good time)

Liliet (Suldae): (mhm)

(just let me find the context)

GM (GM): (Good point, I don't remember what that was going to be about)

(It was something to do with the Krezkov's Hut Experience, IIRC—the importance of honesty with allies and expediency otherwise)

(Something something Marcus's past decisions questionable)

(Something something people change)

Zanshuken: (am back)

GM (GM): (Sweet!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I could start if you two want to think a bit longer)

GM (GM): (Go for it!)

(We can have overlapping stuff as usual)

Liliet (Suldae): (alright, I caught up on what it was about. Request: can it be Marcus approaching Suldae? I don't think she'll take the initiative in continuing this conversation)

Marcus Veranius: (Sure; what's Suldae doing right now?)

Liliet (Suldae): (let's say hanging out on the abbey wall, with a book but not reading it rn)

GM (GM): (Is Ireena sitting with her?)

Liliet (Suldae): (or a rooftop? what's available)

(not at the moment)

GM (GM): (There's the wall-top, and there are rooftops to both the north and south wings)

Liliet (Suldae): (i like wall-top)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry while walking the Krezkovs home says "So once we are back and you settled in for some rest, I'll go ahead and start checking who else might have had a run in with Rahadouch and his Imposter pose" while his tone remained fairly even and relaxed he was dreading what he might find.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae is sitting in an arrow-slit, watching the horizon, no longer limited by mists.

Marcus Veranius stumbles up to the Abbey's parapets, having received little actual rest after all's said and done. Mixture of guilt, mixture of distractions. Mostly guilt; wounds from the other day from multiple sources.

Marcus Veranius notices Suldae on the wall looking outwards.

Marcus Veranius: "Don't suppose you'd still buy it if I said 'Good Morning'? The lack of mist makes it harder to oversleep without excuse."

Liliet (Suldae): (...what time is it actually)

Marcus Veranius: (Afternoon)

(Otherwise Marcus is asleep)

Liliet (Suldae): (ty)

"An excellent morning," Suldae assures him.

"Words are made up anyway."

Suldae Westwind: (wait, the last thing that happened was resurrecing the krezkovs)
(next afternoon after that, or the same one?)

Marcus Veranius: (Same)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)
(scene established)

She's still both exhausted and exhilarated. She's barely opened the Book of Exalted Deeds and already feels like she needs to clear her head of all... everything.

"Are you alright?"

She notices Marcus's frazzled state.

Marcus Veranius: Ahaha, it was that obvious? Fuck.
"Called it for what it is! To be frank, I am absolutely miserable."

Baron Krezkov: (To Henry, in the village): "Yes, I think that would be wise... Under ordinary circumstances, I would round up a posse for you. As it is, you may have to do so yourself. I'm sure the villagers will listen to you. They hold great respect for you in their hearts."

Marcus Veranius slumps down in the corner, dropping the fake smile for the frown it was underneath.

Baron Krezkov: "And Henry... Thank you again for what you and your companions have done for my people."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is... mostly the opposite of that. Not that she'd need to think hard for reasons someone else wouldn't be.
She turns to him - he looks to her like he wants to talk, and she's ready to listen.
Or maybe he wants to talk about... that thing. That she'd brought up. Maybe that.

Marcus Veranius: "...I knew it was Rahadin disguised as the Young Baron. All the signs were there. Unnatural tossing skill, items that didn't belong. Nevermind it was the obvious play."
"He was open. Vulnerable. I could have reasonably ended his life right there and spared so many others."

Suldae Westwind: "But even a one in a thousand chance of being wrong was too much, was it?"
Suldae guesses. That would have been her reason.

Marcus Veranius nods

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waves him off "It's nothing, eh you might want to tidy up before resting first we kind of forgot to" he says remembering the mess they found in the Barons house. Scratching his neck he says "Well let's get to it".
Henry begins knocking on every door in Kresk and inspecting every house

Marcus Veranius: "It was the same sure feeling when Rictavio begged my aid in Vallaki. And we all know how that ended up."

GM: (Henry, roll Investigation)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Joan is supposed to be with Henry so may I have advantage?)

GM: (She's not proficient in Investigation, but sure)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5 + 1 | 15 + 1

INVESTIGATION (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(Neither is Henry)

Joan: "Hang on, we haven't knocked on that one yet!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your right"

Joan leads the way to the overlooked hut in the corner of the village, deep in the walled-in forest of Krezk.

The hut is small and ragged. It looks as though no one has lived in it for a long time.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tilts her head back and closes her eyes.

"...Yeah. 'S why I get it, so to speak. I was this close to being sure back then, too. I didn't not believe him, you know. I didn't think they could be under glamour. I didn't have a specific thought of "he could be lying" or "there could be magic". I just thought "SOMETHING could be wrong". And... yeah."

She shrugs.

"I've not read through much of the book yet. But from what I can surmise myself? This is why Good acts Good. Because in these cases, being wrong is unacceptable."

"Of course, there's the possibility of being wrong in the other direction, like this time. But... I don't know. It feels more right to be mistaken in this direction."

Joan: "Hey, look... The wall isn't finished here. It just... Stops. Before the hill even! You wouldn't notice it from the road, because of the trees, but..."

"This village isn't actually very secure, is it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It isn't" Henry says hand hovering over his weapons."Okay same as before, you stay 3 setps behind me until I say we are in the clear" Henry approaches the hut with measured steps

GM: (Roll Perception, Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 1

PERCEPTION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry notices, in the fresh mud, footprints leading to the door of the hut and back out into the forest, through the gap in the wall. Someone has entered the village by this path, entered the hut, stayed there for a time, and left again, heading into the village. The boot-prints are crisp and point-toed, with a deep heel impression. The boots that made them are fashionable, expensive boots.

Marcus Veranius 's frown deepens.

Marcus Veranius: "If being good means being vulnerable, then that's a flank Strahd can use to break down our formation."

Zanshukun: "Would you look at that" Henry murmurs "Vasilika can you hear me?"

Vasilka: "Of course," says Vasilka, her voice a sweet-smelling whisper on the breeze.

"What do you require, Paladin?"

Marcus Veranius: "Either we play cautiously and leave an opening to die, or strike at shadows and lose any moral ground we've earned."

Marcus Veranius sighs. "If I survive this vampire business, I'm retiring. Immediately. This monster-hunting nonsense is no good for the soul."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods quietly.

"This is all pretty bad, isn't it? I know I'll continue my journeys, but... yeah."

"That said, evil's just as vulnerable. Moral ground is meaningful in the warfare sense, too - it's how we make and keep allies."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We ought to actually close the wall around Krezk if it's meant to be more than a friendly suggestion" Henry says "Also I think I might have found one of Rahadins hide-outs" Henry draws the War Pick as he approaches the door "So you know be prepared to send reinforcements if You hear screaming"

Suldae Westwind: "Even allies who are themselves shitty people will generally prefer those who they're sure won't stab them in the back."

"...Not that we've done great on that metric."

She winces.

Raven Queen.

Vasilka: "Understood. I was not aware that there were any gaps in the wall... I shall have them sealed at once. Yorhish will gladly help."

Suldae Westwind: It was... probably the right thing they did. It still doesn't sit well with her, and probably never will.

Marcus Veranius: "Allies that Rahadin will then turn on us with his cunning, to the point where we're all alone again." Marcus points out.

The forest of Krezk hisses, although there is no breeze. Then, with a groaning of earth, great pines burst through the dirt and rocket into the sky, growing to maturity within seconds. The walls of Krezk are soon completed by living timber.

Marcus Veranius: "Doesn't matter what good we've done with him running around. Bonds are as good as tissue with him breaking everything we've built."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head.

"Turning another person's allies on them also takes resources. We're still providing them with a conundrum, even if it's solvable for them."

"...I'm not exactly a general."

"But he cannot break everything. Walls can be torn down, but foundations stand."

Marcus Veranius: "We're fighting doppelgangers now. Tricked us good; how can we expect lesser trained town guardsman to be more vigilant?"

"Vallaki couldn't even hold off a murderer without us solving it."

Marcus Veranius sighs

Suldae Westwind: "We cannot," Suldae shrugs. "But... as all storms, it'll pass."

"...You put great value on being able to literally believe everything from your allies."

"You've brought it up earlier. I... don't. People keep secrets, people lie. It's just how people are, allies or not."

"Some kinds of deception are more harmless than others. This is pretty bad, but... It doesn't break everything."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That's one way out closed" Henry says before raising his shield and testing the door "Now let's see what's behind door number I-stopped-counting-half-an-hour-ago"

Marcus Veranius: (Behind Henry): "Hey, can I help?"

Suldae Westwind: "A doppelganger that wants to actually blend in can't go around murdering people, right? There's a cost to secrecy."

(are the two scenes simultaneous or)

GM: (Yes, they are)

Suldae Westwind: (well, now I'm confused)

GM: (You forget that I have access to all of your character sheets)

Suldae Westwind: (oh)

(Hi, it's me GM)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pauses Looking behind him (what does he see?)

Henry sees Marcus standing relaxed beside Joan, one hand on his hip.

Joan: "Maybe you ought to stay out here with your crossbow, in case something happens inside...?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You done talking with Ric?"

Marcus Veranius: "I don't want to talk about it. I'm here to help."

"Need to kill this Rahadouche before he strikes again."

(Abbey) "They got the baron, his wife, and their child. One team. And if we weren't here, it would have killed Vallaki. What cost is there? Strahd has all the resources he needs and nothing we do cuts them down."

(Abbey) "For every weapon we dismantle, Strahd pulls out ten more. What costs does he suffer from anything?"

*Killed Kresk. Wew

Suldae Westwind: "...That's not a result of us being good or trusting, though. I doubt Rahadin made himself as vulnerable as you're now convincing yourself in retrospect."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry slowly nods "Well sure could you check the door for traps? You're better at that than me"

Suldae Westwind: "Teleported away, did you say?"

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "Sure thing, Henry. Let me take a look..." Marcus closely inspects the lock and the door.

(With Henry): "Doesn't look trapped to me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry kicks out his legs

Marcus Veranius: (Abbey) "Yeah, so that's one weapon more in the toolbox. We killed his dragon, his wolves, his temple of immortality. His spies, his murderers, his Night Mother grove. His mists, his hags, his druids, and so many of his undead servants."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (shove prone)

Marcus Veranius: (Abbey) "Are we any closer to ending his life? No. No we're not."

(With Henry) Marcus hops easily over his leg-sweep. "What was that for?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Yes. Yes, we are."

Suldae reaches over and swats him lightly on the head.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No one ever in the History of everything would want to talk to Ric"

"ever want to want

Suldae Westwind: "Come on. You cannot compare what we knew about Strahd before to what we know about him now and say he's got more tricks now."

"He has less, that we used to know about fewer of them means we're making progress on its own."

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "That's why I said I didn't want to talk about it."

(Abbey) "But he does! We were expecting Rahadin, but now these doppelgangers? It just... doesn't end."

(With Henry): "Now, are we doing this or not?"

(Abbey) "And all we built up in the process. By the end, it seems like we'll be storming the castle alone cause we can't even trust our own allies now,"

(With Henry): "You want to take point, or should I?"

Suldae Westwind: "It hasn't ended yet," Suldae corrects stubbornly. "What, did you expect him to keel over dead once we killed enough of his servants?"

She shrugs.

"We're not dead yet either."

Marcus Veranius: (Abbey) "Maybe this is why Ric works alone. Can't imagine he'd leave himself vulnerable. If I wasn't his splitting image he wouldn't have come along at all."

Suldae Westwind: "Imagine this from his perspective."

"Still not seeing the "vulnerable" part. Or do you mean like emotionally vulnerable? Capable of feeling bad about him killing someone else?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm" Henry says "Did you make up with Ismark before coming he seemed quite upset with you" Henry asks

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "Ismark? Mad at me? Why?"

(With Henry): "First I'm hearing of it."

Marcus Veranius (abbey) stares at Suldae. "Well, I'd consider knives coming in even our safe grounds to be 'vulnerable'. Then again, he had mundane spies before all this. Lady Wachter, the coffin maker. Only difference now is that they wear the faces of friends instead of strangers."

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "Look, can we just focus on the task at hand for a minute?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry casts Dispel magic at Marcus

Suldae Westwind: "And the fact we even HAVE safe grounds is not a consequence of us being the good guys?"

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Abbey Marcus pauses to consider

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "Hey!" Marcus's Hat of Disguise fails temporarily, causing him to appear in hybrid form.

Abbey Marcus can't contest that argument

Abbey Marcus: "Alright. You've a point."

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "What was that for?"

Abbey Marcus sighs. "You know what might cheer me up? I'm a bit new to this whole hero business. Even after all of this I'm just a shoemaker."

Abbey Marcus: "Why don't you read me a few of those stories of how the real heroes do it."

Marcus Veranius: (With Henry): "Alright, fine. You're clearly suspicious."

(With Henry): "It was worth a shot..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I tried to hit the dorr sorry I'm new to this" Henry says before whispering

"Vasilika Where Is Marcus?"

Vasilka: "Sitting on the wall with Suldae. Why?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Crap Send Help"

Rahadin: "Well, I suppose the charade has gone on long enough."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings for the head

Rahadin: "I bow to you, master investigator," Rahadin says, as he ducks the swing.

"And now I must bid you adieu..."

DEATHLY CHOIR.

Any creature within 30 feet of Rahadin that isn't protected by a mind blank spell hears in its mind the screams of the thousands of people Rahadin has killed. As a bonus action, Rahadin can force all creatures that can hear the screams to make a DC 16 Wisdom saving throw. Each creature takes 16 (3d10) psychic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12 + 4

WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Rahadin: POOF! Rahadin vanishes in a puff of bluish mist, even as Joan screams in terror and confusion, falling to her knees.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "FUCK" Henry screams

Joan: 22

Joan faints.

Henry of Willowsbrook: before turning to Joan hands glowing

Lay on hands for 15

Joan: Joan's eyes flutter and open. "Oh.... My head. Where are we? What happened?"

Joan looks around.

Joan: "He got away again!?"

"You saved me!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He did" Henry says

Joan: "Oh, Henry! You scared him off! I've never... I've never heard anything so horrible in all my life..."

 Sulda Westwind: "Sure," Suldae opens her book. As little as she's read of it there was already some pretty nice stuff in there that she'd love to reread, too...

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I doubt he would have cut and run if we weren't this close to potential back up" Henry frowns

Joan: "As far as I'm concerned, he's scared of you. And that's good enough for me!"

"Now let's go back to the Abbey without talking to anyone and without being alone with another living soul."

"There's got to be some kind of strategy we can employ!"

"There must be some way to foil him..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods "Vasilika can you keep an eye? on the hut?"

 Vasilka: "Certainly."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes Joan by the arm and leads her back to the abbey holding her close to remind himself how close he just came to fucking up

Joan walks steadily, trembling only slightly from time to time—whenever they pass by a person walking alone.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Did Rahadin drop his disguise for the last bit?)

GM: (Yes, for a moment he was himself: a tall dark-haired high elf with black eyes twinkling with mischief and malice. I'll link a picture.)

 Sulda Westwind: An hour of peaceful reading with periodic joke exchanges and wiseass remarks later, Suldae is staring off at the horizon again, with Marcus still sitting nearby.

"...We really do think about deception differently, I think, you know?"

This is a bit of an abrupt change of topic, considering they weren't talking about anything nearly like this immediately before. But Suldae doesn't feel like crafting a masterpiece of oratory right now. Marcus is a friend, and he does have the context.

 Abbey Marcus: (I'm not changing Rahadin's picture in the NPC chart)

GM: (I wasn't aware that you had a picture for him in the NPC chart)

 Abbey Marcus: (If anything it's more fitting. He usually looks like anything but himself)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Everytime Henry feels Joan flinch the roiling anger in him grows ready to rip that bastard to shreds

 Abbey Marcus continues to talk to Suldae from the safety of the Guardhouse Room, out of sight from Henry

 Sulda Westwind: (We're on top of the wall)

 Zanshukun: Henry approaches the Abbey letting Joan lean on him

 Sulda Westwind: (But we aren't looking at the road)

Henry and Joan arrive at the Abbey, and find Vasilka waiting to greet them.

Vasilka: "Greetings, Henry! Greetings, Joan!"

Abbey Marcus: "Doing deception differently? I don't follow."

Suldae Westwind: "...You said, yesterday, something about how one cannot deceive friends. When I proposed to pretend the Baron wasn't dead."

Suldae swings her leg back and forth anxiously. She doesn't REALLY want to revisit that, but also... she does.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We are back" Henry says with a slightly sour tone

Abbey Marcus: "Well, maybe call me an old-fashioned craftsman. Pillars of the community should be trustable, you know?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Huh, yeah, that would do it," Suldae says thoughtfully, looking at the horizon and still not down where Henry and co are.

"...I think more like a traveler, I suppose. It's not exactly wise to reveal everything about yourself to strangers, no matter how friendly the terms you plan on being with them."

"...I guess I just don't trust people much, in general."

Vasilka: "The walls of Krezk are now secure. It is a pity that Rahadin has escaped once again..."

Suldae Westwind: "Ironic, isn't it?"

Vasilka: "We must find some way to secure the village against him."

"Perhaps... Passwords?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Don't think those will work"

Vasilka: "I know it seems crude, but sharing some information he does not have access to might be enough to make it so he can be more easily discovered, when he is attempting to deceive."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It seemed like he could read my mind or atleast part of it"

Vasilka: "That's an alarming thought..."

"I would hope that my presence and Sylvanus's would temper the ambitions of any psychic."

"Is it not possible that he is just... Wiley?"

Abbey Marcus shrugs

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He dodged my attacks without any effort and despite how I might have been less than calm I'm not that shoddy"

Abbey Marcus: "I suppose that's one way to look at things. Trust no one and you'll be safest."

Vasilka: "That is also alarming."

"You are no slouch, when it comes to combat..."

Suldae Westwind: "...That's not quite it though."

"I don't trust anyone completely, but that's a far cry from no trust at all."

"I wouldn't trust myself to win a swordfight with you, as an example."

"Trust is relative, you know?"

Vasilka: "What can we do, then?"

"I am conscious of the locations of all your companions, but I did not sense him at all."

"In fact, I can sense everyone in the village, and yet... When he murdered the Krezkovs, I did not know."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to Joan "And we didn't hear him coming either did we`"

Joan: "No," says Joan. "No, we didn't. Quiet as death, that one."

"Until he changed his disguise. Then... The screaming..."

"I've never heard anything so horrible."

Vasilka: "The angry spirits of those he has slain. Countless thousands, I am told."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pats Joans head in comfort to comfort her

Vasilka: "Quiet as death... I wonder..."

"I must speak with Kasimir and with Ismark. There is something we might try."

"Will you join me, Henry?"

"Your input will be... Needed."

Abbey Marcus: "I see. Well, relatively speaking, I like to trust others more than I like to NOT trust others."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods "Might aswell tell everyone what happend to"

Suldae Westwind: "Yes, but - there's trust in intentions, and then there's trust in competence."

Vasilka: "Kasimir, Ismark? May we enter?"

Suldae Westwind: "Overestimating your allies' competence is really, really, really dangerous."

Kasimir Velikov: "Please."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Make yourselves comfortable."

Abbey Marcus blinks.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry ushers Joan to take a seat "I-we ran into Rahadick again"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Again!? I thought he had left the city!"

Abbey Marcus: "Is... there a point to this? Do forgive me, I don't see what you're getting at."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir stands in the window, staring out, his hands folded behind his back.
He says, after a long moment: "He will not stop until he has dismantled the threat to his master."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I think we found his base of operations here in Krezk and when we were about to investigate it he approached us under disguise"

Vasilka: "To call Krezk a city is, perhaps, overstating matters. Nevertheless, the fact that we cannot defend even this small village from his skill is... alarming."

"I have one potential solution, but it is a terribly dangerous and somewhat morally dubious one."

Vasilka stands in the corner. She steeples her fingers, and says—very quietly: "Have either one of you ever made contact with Kelemvor?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark fidgets, looking away.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir sighs.

"We have tried."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark picks at a spot on his pants.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry cocks his head "Which one was that again?"

Vasilka: "The god of Death."

"He is notoriously opposed to the undead."

"Since he cannot reach Strahd, at the moment, he may be willing to hear the screams of those Rahadin has slain unjustly."

"He may be able to trace Rahadin, or grant to us the power to do so."

"Or, he may be able to simply... Remove Rahadin from the equation. For a price."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Right" Henry says nodding before winching pointedly not looking at Ismark

Vasilka: "What that price will be, I can't say."

Kasimir Velikov: "He will want Ismark."

"He is a god of balance."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You can't know that."

"He may not want anything. Strahd has been a thorn in his side for centuries, right?"

Kasimir Velikov: "That is probable, yes. But there is always great danger in this kind of transaction."

"Assuming, of course, that he even deigns to hear us."

Vasilka: "He will deign to hear the emissary of Sylvanus."

Kasimir Velikov: "And he will want something from him," says Kasimir, turning to fix Henry with a sharp-eyed stare.

Vasilka: "I believe Kelemvor and Sylvanus are on good terms."

"There is no one-upmanship involved there; they are two sides of the same coin."

Kasimir Velikov: "A god is ever looking for a faithful servant."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry let's out a sigh "And that's why Ma always preached I should read anything thrice before signing it" He grumbles in undercommon

Straightening out he says "Well might aswell try, not like asking for a deal will cost us much besides time right?"

Vasilka: "No, that's true. It will require a midnight ritual, but we have the supplies for such on-hand."

Rictavio: Rictavio steps into the room without knocking.

"As a cleric of Pelor, I must voice my disapproval."

"Well, not my disapproval. Pelor's."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry almost draws on Rictavio

Vasilka: "Why would Pelor disapprove? This does not concern him."

Rictavio: "What you call a god of balance and of justice is a fanatical being that was once a man. Though he has reformed the process of death, and the passage of souls, in ways that Pelor does approve of, he is still just a man at heart, and Pelor sees his cruelty."

Vasilka: "We are, of course, open to other suggestions."

Rictavio: Rictavio turns meaningfully to Henry. "Pelor could use a man like you, Henry. He really could. And he could grant you the power you'd need to find and slay Rahadin. And he'd do it without risking Ismark's life, and for no price at all."

Vasilka: "Except, of course, the cost to Sylvanus."

Rictavio: "Wild nature stands opposed to Man. What Sylvanus loses, Mankind gains."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir scoffs. "You cannot seriously believe that."

Zanshuken: Henry frowns "All this talk about gods is making my head spin, we never really looked at it that way back home"

Vasilka: "Few mortals ever do."

Rictavio: "Except clerics, of course."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir scoffs again. "One miracle and you're a saint."

Rictavio: "That's one more miracle than you've got under your belt."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head "No not even them, for us it was always just the Divine Light"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Kelemvor has rejected our attempts to contact him," Ismark says, taking Kasimir's hand. "I believe he finds my state... Distasteful."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry furrows his brow remembering something "Wait there was one goddess they occasionally mentioned, mostly when talking to preachers from outside"

Abbey Marcus finishes his conversation with Suldae and moves to check in with the others.

Vasilka: "What god was that?" Vasilka asks.

Marcus Veranius taps on the window

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae stays at the top of the wall, her eyes closed. That didn't really work the way she hoped it would, though at least she hopes she'd settled some of Marcus's fears and doubts.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sune? I think? Yeah, I believe Father Primrose said the whole Baronie was devoted to Sune" Henry says "Again I think it was mostly to get the other Preachers of his back but now that I think about it all our temples were dedicated to her" Henry looks around at the others eyes wide Vasilka: "The goddess of Love," says Vasilka.

Marcus Veranius keeps tapping on the window

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir opens the window. "Yes?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Marcus! Join the party!"

Marcus Veranius: "Hey, have you seen Ric around? Wanted to talk to him about something."

Rictavio: "Present," says Rictavio, waving his hand slightly.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena finds Suldae on the wall-top.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry points to the man literally standing next to him

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles at her.

Ireena Kolyana: She leans casually against one of the crenelations, and says: "Hey. Come here often?"

Suldae Westwind: "First time, actually," Suldae smiles at her. "Come sit down?"

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, umm. In private. Actually, this is fine."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooo" Henry asks after the brief pause Marcus arrival had given everyone
"Could she help?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Sure thing," says Ireena, seating herself beside Suldae. "Though I have to say, you're a bit too cute to be a guard."

"Plus you're facing the wrong way."

Marcus Veranius: "I was going to visit the Krezk pool. If it can purify a sword, maybe it can relieve some guilt."

Rictavio: Rictavio climbs through the window to join him.

"Seeking the light of the Morninglord, are we? I can hardly deny my holy duty, now can I?"

Marcus Veranius: "Is that what it's about?" Marcus asks, walking down the road a bit.

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey," says Ireena. "Kasimir just contacted me. Rictavio is trying to persuade Henry to become a paladin of Pelor instead of Sylvanus. Kasimir needs backup."

"And there's something about... Kelemvor?"

"That can't be good."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, I was hoping you might have directions. Maybe an instructions manual."

Rictavio: Rictavio chuckles.

"No, I'm afraid not. But I can help."

Suldae Westwind: "He what?"

Rictavio: "Are you trying to join the clergy? Or to seek some kind of redemption?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae blinks.

"...Yeah, let's go."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena gets to her feet and helps Suldae up.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at Kasimir, Ismark Joan and Vasilika "...if you guys are going to laugh at the Idea could you hurry it up please?"

A moment later Ireena and Suldae arrive at the room where Henry's conversation is happening.

Marcus Veranius 's smile starts to fade, adopting a more serious look.

Marcus Veranius: "Well I'm not the holy sort, even after all this vampire nonsense."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Can we say that Ireena and Suldea heard Henry's last sentence?)

Marcus Veranius: "But there are a few things I'd like to make peace with all these hidden knives around every corner."

Ireena Kolyana: "What are we laughing at?" Ireena asks.

Vasilka: "We are not laughing," says Vasilka. "We are seriously considering the option..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Asking Sune for help against Rahadouchcanoes sneaking around"

Kasimir Velikov: "Sune is... Complicated."

"She is one of the most ancient gods. Older even than Pelor."

Suldae Westwind:

26

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

(what does Suldae know about Sune)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So are Pelor and Kelemvor" Henry says

Kasimir Velikov: "There is no question that she could help us. The real question is: why would she?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a moment to think "...Because what ever Strahd is doing here is an affront to Love and helping us against Rahadin is like kicking him in the dick?"

Marcus Veranius: "...suppose I never properly atoned for the wagon. And though I'll keep it a secret to my grave, there are some I can't keep it secret from."

Suldae knows that Sune is the goddess of Love. Some call her the Firstborn. Her domain is the bonds between people: the trust between friends, the love between members of a family, and romantic attraction. She is offended by betrayal, treachery, and cruelty. She rarely intervenes in any way, and is often presented/understood as more of a raw force than a sentient being. Suldae has heard many poems and stories that seem to present her in another light, however—as a conscious, malicious, manipulative entity, reveling in the chaos of relationships. She can be equally kind and cruel.

Rictavio: (To Marcus): "A wise consideration, Marcus. In fact, I should probably join you in atoning for that... After all, it was my fault."

"Or, my fault too."

 Sulda Westwind: "...Huh," Suldae says, leaning against the doorframe. "I'd say bringing gods into it is something we shouldn't do lightly, but then it's a bit late for that, isn't it?"

"...Why Sune, though?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "The difficulty is that love is not something only experienced by the good. Rahadin's love for Strahd may be 'real' in that sense. Strahd's 'love' for Ireena may even be real, so far as he is concerned."

 Sulda Westwind: "Actually, what started this?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Rahadin ambushed me and Joan"

 Marcus Veranius: "Maybe. If you think it's wise."

 Vasilka: Vasilka turns to Suldae. "Rahadin has proven that he is able to hide from my senses, and even hide his victims from them. This cannot be tolerated. If we cannot guarantee that he is out of the equation, every decision we make will be dogged by the possibility of his interference."

 Rictavio: Rictavio puts an arm around Marcus's shoulders.

 Sulda Westwind: "Ah," Suldae frowns.

 Marcus Veranius overhears Henry's statement from the window

 Marcus Veranius: "...did something happen?"

 Joan: Joan quickly explains the situation to Marcus.

 Sulda Westwind: "...And Sune was brought into it as in-?..."

 Marcus Veranius: "I see."

 Vasilka: "We were discussing the possibility of contacting various gods who might be able to track and/or eliminate Rahadin for us."

"Kelemvor was my suggestion. Pelor was Rictavio's. Sune was Henry's."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I might possibly be a Sune worshiper" Henry says

 Sulda Westwind: "Ah," Suldae nods to him.

 Vasilka: "Since Sylvanus seems to be... Unable to do so."

 Sulda Westwind:

33

RELIGION (13)
Sulda Westwind

(context on Pelor + Kelemvor that Sulda has?)

 Marcus Veranius looks to Kasimir briefly, then taps Rictavio on the shoulder.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Religion back home was odd I'm beginning to understand" Henry says with a shrug

Marcus Veranius: "It seems you are more needed here then. I'll be fine to go alone."

Suldae realizes that Pelor and Kelemvor are aligned on opposite sides of the Day/Night divide, and though they are not maliciously opposed to one another, they do have a serious long-standing rivalry. Pelor is a higher-level god. His domain is Humanity, Light, and the Sun. He is as opposed to undeath as Kelemvor is, although his approach to it can be—if anything—more vindictive. Kelemvor is the one who binds Revenants to a certain span of allowed time, whereas, if it were up to Pelor, Revenants would not exist at all. Pelor has never been a mortal, though Kelemvor has. (Pelor is Lawful Good, Kelemvor is Lawful Neutral)

Suldae Westwind: "Ouch," Suldae says.

Rictavio: "Nonsense, Marcus. I'll come with you. They've heard my piece. If they need me to perform a ritual, I shall be more than glad to—at dawn tomorrow."

"For now, you and I atoning may be the wisest move we can make."

"And besides, if Rahadin is on the loose, we must not travel alone. Even short distances."

Marcus Veranius gives Rictavio a serious look.

Rictavio: "And, of course, to the rest of you: if we should happen to see one of you, walking alone, coming upon us unannounced, we will have to kill you."

"So stick together!"

Marcus Veranius: "There are SEVERAL things I need to atone for."

"I will be fine."

Vasilka: Vasilka sighs. "At least we know that the Doppelgänger are taken care of."

Rictavio: "So have I, lad. So have I."

"I would be glad of your company."

"We can stand at opposite sides of the pool, when the time comes."

Marcus Veranius sighs. "Alright. Let's get going then."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "To be honest, if we can avoid asking any additional gods for help here, I think we'll be safer... And our lives will be less complicated."

"We owe a lot to a lot of beings, as it is."

Rictavio joins Marcus on the quiet walk to the pool.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "But my vote doesn't count. My soul already belongs to the silver dragon."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir gives his shoulder a squeeze.

Suldae Westwind: "...Can we, like, check in? Check if they might be willing to help, no strings attached?"

Vasilka: "Each god in question has a different ritual to contact them—assuming we want to use Henry as emissary."

"Without having a saint on hand, we would have to find a cleric of each, and ask them to intercede on our behalf."

 Suldae Westwind: "Well, I think we have a cleric of Pelor," Suldae muses.

 Vasilka: "Do you want him representing us before that god?"

 Suldae Westwind: "Well, no," Suldae agrees.

 Vasilka: "No offense intended, of course. But as a purely practical consideration..."

 Suldae Westwind: "...So what can we do then?"

"Or do you mean using Henry as an emissary is the other option?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll do it" Henry says "However many rituals I'll do2

"

it

 Vasilka: "Yes. With the right ritual, we can send him physically to the domain of each god."

 Suldae Westwind: "...Ah. What's the downsides?"

Meanwhile, Marcus and Rictavio arrive at a large pool of sparkling, crystal-clear water.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Meeting gods physically in their domains I reckon"

 Vasilka: "Yes," says Vasilka. "Although Sylvanus's power and reputation are great enough that I do not foresee any real danger there..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sylvanus was ...intense and the Big Guy like me I think"

 Vasilka: "Although, if one of the gods does take offense at the fact that we are turning down their offer..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: likes

 Vasilka: "Well, there is no end of ways that they might make trouble for us."

 Suldae Westwind: "...Well that sounds bad," Suldae muses.

"I wonder if I could ask Correllon for any help here...."

 Marcus Veranius: "Well, it looks pretty sparkly. This the right place?"

 Suldae Westwind: The idea sounds absurd, but then so does everything that's happened. Why not ask Correllon for help as a mediator or something?

Not like there's a downside to asking a god of knowledge things.

 Rictavio: "This is the place. You'll want to kneel, and wash your hands, then your face. Then, assuming there is real holy power here, simply sit in meditation. The god will come to you."

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir facepalms.

"I'm an idiot."

 Suldae Westwind: "Oh?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "Correllon is a god of sound. If anyone or anything could hear the screaming of ten thousand souls, it would be him."

"AND he is a good-aligned god of ELVES."

 Sulda Westwind: "...Oh yeah," Suldae says brightly.

 Kasimir Velikov: "Rahadin is an elf."

"Correllon has precisely what we need."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark sighs heavily. "That's a relief."

 Vasilka: "Then why hasn't he offered to help before now...?"

 Marcus Veranius stares at the pool.

 Marcus Veranius: "Is that really it? Doesn't seem like much of a ritual."

 Sulda Westwind: "...Has he not been helping?" Suldae raises her eyebrows at her.

 Rictavio: "If you'd like a better guarantee of success, you will need to intone the name of the god three times, and let fall your own blood into the pool."

 Sulda Westwind: "...I'm just going to... well, I'm going to ask," Suldae frowns.

"...I feel like I have what I need to do it, but... any advice?"

 Rictavio: "Pelor is the god of humanity, and he is, as such, ever watchful and ready to hear the prayers of his children."

"If you were an elf, things would be more complicated."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry facepalms "Forest for the trees, and yeah limited as it may be Gods are rarely the proactive types in these sort of deals, you gotta ask first"

 Rictavio: "Since you're a wereraven... He may or may not choose to hear you."

 Sulda Westwind: She wants to say she hasn't done this before, but... she has. She's been asking her god, both questions and for help, all the time. Just... maybe not as insistently as she's going to now. This is absolutely terrifyng, by the way.

 Vasilka: "Be cautious not to offend him," says Vasilka. "That is all the advice I can offer."

 Marcus Veranius takes another glance to the water and sighs.

 Vasilka: "He has aided you until now because your goals were in alignment. If he believes that he has achieved what he wanted to, with you, then... Well, gods have abandoned their followers before."

 Sulda Westwind: "I could have guessed that," Suldae murmurs. "Still thank you, that IS valuable. Nothing's too obvious when it's this important."

 Marcus Veranius: "I didn't realize this would be invoking gods. Thought it was just extra-sparkly water of forgiveness."

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir snaps: "Correllon is not like that."

 Sulda Westwind: "...Thanks," Suldae sneers at her.

"I'm PRETTY SURE I'm not done accomplishing what Correllon wants of me, no."

 Kasimir Velikov: "Correllon never abandons his followers. Not even when they walk astray for thousands of years. The life of an elf is something you, as a new-made creature, cannot possibly comprehend."

Suldae Westwind: "...Which is kind of bad news," Suldae adds, "Rahadin being one and all. Still."

"At the very least I can try to ask for his intercession with... the others," she shivers.

Correllon feels... familiar, compared to those.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around the room at the slightly flaring tempers. "Do you need like a bit of quiet?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Many among the slain of Rahadin were elves themselves," says Kasimir. "Women. Children."

"Correllon will want justice. Have no fear, Suldae."

Suldae Westwind: "Mm."

Suldae sighs.

She knows this. She's younger than Kasimir, but - she's the cleric, among the two of them. Still, the older elf's words are comforting.

"...I think I'll want a room to myself," she says.

Not like the Abbey should lack for those.

Ireena Kolyana: "We can use my room," says Ireena. "I mean, the one that was prepared for me. Since it hasn't been used."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae blushes intensely.

"...Yeah, show me the way?"

Ireena Kolyana: "This way," says Ireena. She takes Suldae by the hand, and leads her from the chamber.

Suldae Westwind: "...Please everyone don't summon an avatar of Tiamat or anything while I'm doing that," Suldae adds as she's leaving the room.

Ireena Kolyana: In the room, Ireena pauses with her hand on the door. "I'll keep an eye on them, make sure they don't get into any trouble."

"Do you need anything?"

"Before I go, I mean..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nudges Joan "Want some tea? I have to do something while we ait or I'll start builing a stable"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head. Her bag's on her, as always.

Ireena Kolyana: There's something mischievous in Ireena's eyes.

Suldae Westwind: She has everything she needs.

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, in that case... Have something you don't need."

She gives Suldae a kiss on the forehead.

"For luck."

Marcus Veranius continues staring at the waters of the Krezk pool, hesitating. He instead resolves to sit down at the water's edge, placing down the Oathbow to appear unarmed.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae blushes and rubs her head near the spot. She reaches on her tiptoes to kiss Ireena's cheek in return.

"Thanks. I hope I won't need it."

Ireena Kolyana: "You won't," says Ireena. "But it's nice to have it anyway."

She departs quietly.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods, then draws a long breath as Ireena leaves.

Vasilka: Vasilka turns to Henry, Kasimir, and Ismark. "Well, while Suldae is doing that..."

Marcus Veranius: "Do all these problems require gods to fix? Are we so powerless that we can't get anything done by ourselves?"

Suldae Westwind: She takes out incense, considers changing her clothing - no, a bard's clothing is as good as that of the clergy, for her god. She knows that.

Vasilka: "Are there other strategies we might employ? More mundane, or perhaps magical strategies?"

Suldae Westwind: She lights a stick, then sits on her knees on the floor in front of it, letting the smell help her focus.

Both hands on her holy symbol, she prays.

(Marcus): The waters of the pool ripple faintly, sparkling.

Suldae Westwind: Asking for audience.

The oathbow vibrates.

(Suldae): The incense swirls and dances, caught in a music that no mind can hear.

Then, slowly, the music grows in the ears of Suldae, and she hears the melody/harmony/rhythm of Correllon all around her in the room.

The incense smoke seems almost to be singing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We could try a double deception marker like a band of cloth hiding a symbol" Henry says doubtfully "If the symbol doesn't match we would know he is fake but that only works if He doesn't know we have those under the cloth"

Marcus Veranius shifts his eyes between the bow and the pool. This quest for vengeance was supposed to be over ages ago. Dragon was dead. Family was put back together. He had riches to start over. Wasn't even a gate to the country anymore.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Yes I'm blatantly ripping off One Piece)

Marcus sees a ripple on the surface of the pool as he thinks this, and feels...

"There is vengeance, and there is justice."

The voice burns in his mind like the fires that hurled him from the church in Vallaki, so very long ago.

"Justice for what you have done is to be the justice against the Castle and its King."

Vasilka: "That's actually a very good idea," says Vasilka. "Of course, it's undone if he is already among us, spying..."

Kasimir Velikov: "What about the sending stones?"

"They can only communicate with each other, right?"

"How many of those did we have?"

Marcus Veranius clenches his head in pain.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae listens to the sound, then sings back when she feels like it's her cue. Her voice does not sound like she's singing inside a small abbey room, to her ears.

It's still a prayer. Could they please have some help against Rahadin? is the gist of it.

She's not sure she's doing this right.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "A few but those would only keep us save and not our allies"

Suldae Westwind: Her education did not actually include "seeking Correllon's personal audience", which was a definite drawback, really, in retrospect.

Marcus Veranius: "What's justice but vengeance in someone else's name? It's all the same! You can't build a house by tearing down another! All you're left with is a larger pile of rubble!"

Marcus feels the voice burn again, this time white-hot with rage. "What you have done is unforgivable. Your soul will writhe in the pits of the hells, for I shall see it planted deep there among its peers. That would be the justice you speak of—raw, retaliatory rebalancing of the scales. The justice I speak of is the end of cruelty, the end of suffering, the end of something that cannot be allowed to continue. You have your life, your wife, your future, and your gold. What has Barovia? What has Barovia for a future? The blood cries out for blood, and I will answer—with or without you. Take up your bow. Get on your feet. Slay the devil Strahd, and leave no stone of his castle stacked upon another. Then, in the pile of rubble you speak of, the gods will lay a new foundation. The souls of the departed will be made, at last, to rest. That is the justice sought by the gods, and you can be its hand or its hindrance."

At the same time, Suldae hears—very clearly—an androgynous elven voice speaking the tongue of the Eladrin. The words have the music they were long ago born with, the music that has faded from the modern elvish. It says, quite plainly: "Sure."

Correllon says: "How can I help?"

Kasimir Velikov: (To Henry): "Even so, we could use the stones to at least ensure that our immediate group is not infiltrated."

"That would be a huge advantage on its own—he would no longer be able to imitate one of us without being caught."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leans his head back against the wall 'There has to be something we can do, something I can do...what good is all this strength and might of mine if I can't even protect her when she is right next to me' He laments in his mind

Vasilka: As though hearing his thoughts, Vasilka says: "We will find a way, Henry."

"You do not fight this fight alone."

Ireena Kolyana: "Proof against detection," says Ireena, thoughtfully.

"He's got an amulet of proof against detection—or something like that. It's why you can't sense him, Vasilka. And it's why Marcus wasn't able to track him."

Kasimir Velikov: "I hesitate even to suggest this, but might it be wise to prepare anti magic fields?"

Ireena Kolyana: "That would kill Ismark."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Only temporarily."

Kasimir Velikov: "The larger problem is that such magic is, for the moment, out of my reach... It would require an intense effort of research."

"But hypothetically, that would reduce his disguises to nothing. And it would prevent him from teleporting."

Vasilka: Vasilka nods thoughtfully. "Possibly. The fact that he can still do so even within the bounds of a Forbiddance spell is alarming, however."

Suldae Westwind: Only the rhythm of hte music and the discipline of the musician keeps Suldae from screaming - in awe or terror, she couldn't tell.

It was one thing to think it. It's another to truly hear her god's voice.

Rahadin, she sings, the music of her sould and her voice creating image enough for it to be entirely unambiguous who she's talking about. He is hard to track, but we need a way. There is no way to stop him short of killing him, is there?

Still a question. One Suldae does not think she will ever stop asking; one Suldae does not thinkin her god will ever mind hearing her ask.

*does not think also *soul

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Maybe something in that hut helped him keep the magical back door open? I barely understand this stuff" HENry conceed Kasimir Velikov: "We should search the hut, yes," says Kasimir.

"That should be one of our first orders of business..."

Suldae hears the voice again: "He cannot be traced or detected by magical means. There is no way to stop him without killing him, that much is true."

"He worships Strahd as a deity, and Strahd would be greatly weakened by the loss of him..."

"I shall find the heart of his secrets of concealment, and show you the strings to pluck."

"Was there anything else you needed? Any other questions needling your mind?"

Suldae Westwind: This question is... overwhelming. To put it mildly. What's a mind that doesn't generate questions for everything it sees?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We can head over there once Suldae is finished...or before it gets dark whichever happens first"

Vasilka: "Yes, it would be advisable to have her input—and whatever insights she may have been able to gain."

Suldae Westwind: Too many to ask, Suldae sings, knowing a sign of her god's favor when she hears it, yet completely at loss still for how to react, save for raw honesty of whatever comes to mind. She already knows, too, that Correllon does not have an answer to one of the questions that burns her mind the most - about the Raven Queen and her true intentions. She's already asked, after all.

No, she has one.

Ismark, she sings. What would or will it take to help him, after his duty is done. His death was too soon, and a result of my failure among others. Can it be righted

Ireena Kolyana: "Plus, that way if she catches up to us later, we don't have to kill her..."

Marcus Veranius picks up the Oathbow

Marcus Veranius chucks it into the pool

Suldae hears the voice of Correllon. "If the curse upon Barovia is lifted, so too will be many, many curses, chained to it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah I'm already sick of attacking people that look like friends"

Marcus Veranius: "Let this be my final quest then. For when the devil dies, this Sunsword will never again light, and it will be the last weapon I ever touch."

Suldae hears Correllon say: "Oh my. Marcus has angered Pelor..."

"Wait... No."

"He has gained Pelor's deep and lasting respect?"

"How curious."

"At any rate, Ismark's fate is yet unwritten. If the curse of Strahd is broken, his soul will rest in peace. That is all that a mortal can ask for, at the end of their fate."

"I apologize. I know that this is not the answer you sought."

Suldae Westwind: ...Yeah, it's not.

I might ask again, when I know the question better, Suldae sings stubbornly. And I have thought of another. Can you tell me about Rictavio? What is his relationship with Pelor?

(all the stuff in asterisks is a short retelling / translation from high elven poetic. its also not english so there)

Marcus sees the sparkling lights upon the surface of the pool suddenly dissipate and fade. The water becomes smooth and clear as glass, and he sees right to the dark depths of the pool, and watches the oathbow crumble and disperse like dried ink mixing in the water. As it touches the bottom of the pool, he sees a flash of golden light. A box of gold lies at the bottom of the pool: a coffin.

Suldae hears Correllon answer: "Pelor finds him a distasteful yet useful tool. As, I think, do you. Yet in Rictavio's heart there is a kind and loving and wise old man, twisted and buried by the cruelty of his own fate. That man may yet emerge, before the end."

Sergei: "Marcus, I'm touched."

Marcus Veranius: "...Sergei?"

Suldae Westwind: That... was one of the most horrifying things Suldae could have heard from her god.

Was this a test? Or had she truly been acting like...

People are not tools, she replies in song. I will endeavor to not forget.

Yes, this is her being rude to Pelor, maybe. She does not mind being rude to Pelor in this context.

I thank you for the answers, she sings. And so, of Rahadin...

Sergei: "Mhmm?"

Marcus Veranius: "Is this your coffin then? Or is this some kind of metaphor I'm not smart enough to understand?"

Sergei: "Yup. That's my corpse."

"Well, inside, I mean."

"The coffin didn't used to be gold..."

"Pardon, I mean: the coffin was not made of gold, formerly."

Marcus Veranius: "So it's both then."

Suldae hears Correllon say: "Rahadin, yes... Rahadin. Traitor, coward, monster, fool. I have a dark song for him. It will wound you to sing it, and it will cost things you do not now understand. You must trust me, and sing it anyway, knowing that I would never ask more than I believe you are capable of."

Suldae hears Correllon say: "Now, listen well, and hear the song. It will wound even in the hearing of it. Be strong, and be not afraid."

GM: (Suldae, make a Charisma save)

Marcus Veranius: "Well, win or lose. At least one of us is ending up in a better place."

Sergei: "Yeah, I guess so..."

Suldae Westwind:

24

CHARISMA SAVE (12)
Suldae Westwind

Sergei: "I guess, in a way, what you said about Justice and vengeance... It..."

"Well, maybe I wasn't hearing you right before. It made sense this time."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae listens, then. This is the service she'd chosen; there's no question, and at the very least her god knows that.

Sergei: "I release you from your bondage to me, Marcus. I won't be like that god. But I hope you'll still use me to kill Strahd."

"But not for vengeance. Not anymore. This time, it will be for Ireena. It will be for Barovia."

Suldae takes half of 50 psychic damage.

Marcus Veranius: "You are the only weapon I choose to use. No more endless chains of vengeance passing from hand to hand on deaths and deaths."

The song she hears is cruel and haunting, sharp and jagged. She will have to play it where no one can hear.

Marcus Veranius: "The ashes will settle once and for all."

Sergei: "Yes. That's as it should be."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae listens, and impresses it on her mind, even if it hurts on a level she'd not known of before.

Sergei: "A final peace, come what may."

Suldae Westwind: She will not stop.

Marcus Veranius steps away from the pool for Rictavio to have his turn getting yelled at by burning voice god.

Suldae easily memorizes the song, and knows that she will be able to sing it later.

Suldae Westwind: Whatever the price is, she believes; no, she knows it will be worth it.

Correllon says: "When the night falls, go to the highest place in Krezk and sing this song. The souls that linger by Rahadin will awaken, and justice will be done."

Suldae Westwind: I will

"Now go, Suldae. Your friends have need of you."

"Where you go, I go also."

Suldae Westwind: Thank you

The song finally fades, with that.

Rictavio: Rictavio catches up with Marcus a moment later.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gets to her feet at her god's command, even though her head is ringing with grief, and fear, and shame.

Rictavio: "So? Did you learn anything? A productive conversation?"

Suldae Westwind: There is anger, too, and it is perhaps that that lets her move still.
That, and stubbornness.

Rictavio: "Pelor did not deign to speak with me, but you seemed to be having a lively conversation..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stumbles to where she'd parted with the rest of the company.

Her head is pounding, to put it mildly; she doesn't even quite realize how much, too focused on keeping moving.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry puts down the empty tea cup and stretches "Oh hey I was just about to come check on you Suldae"

Ireena Kolyana: "You feeling alright? You look a bit pale!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks. Nothing seems immediately on fire. Maybe she was too literal and Correllon just meant in general? Or is something on fire elsewhere?

What was that about Marcus, anyway?

Marcus Veranius: "I sacrificed my most potent weapon as a statement and got brain burns."

Rictavio: "Sounds like a good conversation with Pelor."

Suldae Westwind: She does not answer, because her head is pounding and she doesn't quite manage to register that she should.

Rictavio: "He's a bit... How to put this delicately..."

"Direct?"

"Forceful, maybe."

Marcus Veranius: "Loud."

"Loud is a good word."

Rictavio: "Loud. Yes, loud."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches out to Suldae and uses lay on Hands for 10

Rictavio: "Well, I'm a bit thick. Slow to pick up on hints. In my younger days, Pelor was the god that worked best with my natural... Bull-headedness."

"He respects that kind of thing, I think."

Marcus Veranius: "Suppose that's good for a monster hunter. As for me, I think I'll be taking retirement seriously."

Rictavio: "I can't say I blame you."

"Shall we get back to the others?"

Marcus Veranius: "Some old man gave me a stipend to get my old shoe shop back up and running. Gunna take the offer seriously."

"Let's get back to town so Rahadin can kill us easier."

Rictavio: "Excellent," says Rictavio, clapping his hands and rubbing them vigorously.

The sun, it seems, is beginning to set. Nightfall is perhaps an hour away.

Rictavio: "Getting late, isn't it..."

"I expect we'll be getting another storm tonight. Strahd's power sleeps as he does."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, at least we got a small circle of revenants as a wind break."

Rictavio: "True," says Rictavio, with a chuckle.

(Assuming no objections) Marcus and Rictavio return to the Abbey and find the remainder of the party crowded into Ismark's room.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks outside at the darkening sky "Guess well have to search the hut tomorrow"

-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "Just a suggestion," says Ismark, "But maybe we could go to the main hall? It's getting to be standing-room-only in here."
-  Marcus Veranius: "Hello! Rahadin must be out of teleports; didn't take the bait."
"Figure he's got two assassination attempts a day. Ought to keep track in a ledger."
-  Kasimir Velikov: "He is likely biding his time. Waiting until our guards are down."
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: (Btw Liliet I healed you for 10) "So Suldae how'd it go?"
-  Rictavio: "I like to think he was scared off by my presence," says Rictavio.
"Or perhaps he is only interested in killing particular party members?"
-  Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, but Marcus and Henry are like... The biggest threats to him."
-  Marcus Veranius: "Maybe he thinks he can wait you out but not the rest of us."
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: "He ran as soon as he was sure I made him"
-  Kasimir Velikov: "I disagree there. Suldae may be his greatest bane."
-  Ismark Kolyanovich: "He doesn't seem all that interested in actually sticking around for a fight, does he?"
"I wonder why..."
-  Ireena Kolyana: "He must know that he couldn't hope to take on all of us at once."
-  Vasilka: "Or it might not be his goal."
"His goal may be to cause dissension in the ranks. Distrust among allies."
"To prevent us from raising an effective assault force."
-  Ireena Kolyana: "What did you learn, Suldae?"
-  Joan: "Right," says Joan, squeezing past Henry and the others. "Main Hall? Everyone? Main hall?"
-  Marcus Veranius: "We could probably fit a few more. Hiere, Ezmerelda..."
"The golem."
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry beings shoving Marcus out the door while taking Joan by the Hand
"Main Hall"
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, hey babe. I just woke up."
"What's... All... this?"
-  Ezmerelda Veranius watches Ismark's room empty like a clown car.
-  Ezmerelda Veranius: "Huh."
-  Marcus Veranius: "We're discussing Rahadin in the main hall."
"SO! What is the plan?"
-  Ireena Kolyana: "We're waiting for Suldae to tell us what she learned. I think the ritual took a lot of effort..."

Vasilka: "Yes, you do look a bit dazed, Suldae. Is there anything we can do to help you?"

(From Tops K.): TEST

(From Tops K.):

DC19

The creature is not pushed.

Strength Save

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to knock the target down. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and if the target is Large or smaller, it must make a Strength saving throw or be knocked prone.

>A prone creature's only Movement option is to crawl, unless it stands up and thereby ends the condition.

>The creature has disadvantage on Attack rolls.

>An Attack roll against the creature has advantage if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature. Otherwise, the Attack roll has disadvantage.

1

Bonus Damage

[Trip Attack]
Marcus Veranius

Tops K.:

16

21

Sunsword (+13)
Marcus Veranius

1

Radiant

17

Radiant

15

29

Sunsword (+13)
Marcus Veranius

1

Radiant

13

Radiant

29

29

Sunsword (+13)
Marcus Veranius

6

Radiant

16

Radiant

(Blessed be having one weapon. I can reduce my number of toggles)

Liliet (Suldae):

26

30

PERFORMANCE (11)
Suldae WestwindHenry of Willowsbrook: So are we good to start?Rahadin: I'm ready when y'all are!

(Narrating): "This is the tale of the greatest king in history: the immortal Strahd Von Zarovich. I have been his faithful steward for 7,352 years. I was there at his birth. I was there at his death. I was there at his rebirth. It was I who punished the undeserving woman; mine was the hand that pushed her. Defenestration is such a clean, simple form of murder—well, perhaps not clean in the physical sense, as there is always a great deal to vanish afterwards—but motivationally, especially if the victim is already known to have an ostensible reason to take their own life. My beloved Strahd never realized that Tatiana would never have killed herself. She was far too stubborn and strong-willed for that. She would have fought him to the death, and found some way to avenge herself upon him."

(Narrating): "Ah, well. This tale is the tale of my downfall. You see, there was a band of adventurers—there's always one or two, but they are usually much more easily dispatched than these! These have survived everything. Everything that my lord could throw at them. Our lines of defense have broken, our kingdom lies in ruins, and my beloved Strahd rampages in his castle, pacing, each night a storm of fury growing—half unwitting—from him. These adventurers have even found some of his artifacts. They know his tale, they know his curse, they have slain his dragon and his mother. They have found his brother, and his beloved Tatiana, and the two are near together for the first time since the beginning of the curse. It is the working of that accursed Bard. My master knew that these adventurers were nothing to trifle with after they undid the death of Ismark. The Bard is more than she seems—a sorceress of great power and skill. Then there is the Warrior, the last survivor of his mercenary troop, and by far the greatest among them. The saving hand of Sylvanus has protected him. He saw through my disguise the other day in mere seconds, on instinct. Then there is Marcus. I have not decided what Marcus is. He was dragon-touched, but now is not. He and the monster hunters seem to have a good relationship, and yet he is not truly one of them. He—and all the party, truly—has/have magnificent boots. He was a ranger, but just this evening he threw his bow into a pool. I watched it sink all the way to the bottom, and was tempted to retrieve it. The artifact is of some value, after all. This man is the one who wields the Sunblade now. He saw through my disguise not with instinct but with guile. How will he fare, in a sword-fight against my beloved Strahd? We shall see. Perhaps it will not even come to that."

(Narrating): "The hour is upon me. The song is coming. Even now, as I pace the streets of Krezk, I feel the brooding anxiety of its weight upon my fate. Soon it will fall, and everything will change. For the moment I am resolved, confident in the murders I shall soon commit for my master."

Rahadin: (Narrating): "Up in the Abbey, they are talking in the great hall. From my perch I can see them clearly. With a simple touch upon the Weave, I can even hear their voices."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Damn he's good, monologing while not in range of the party)

Rahadin: (Narrating): "Vasilka is saying: Yes, you do look a bit dazed, Suldae. Is there anything we can do to help you?"

Liliet (Suldae): (give me a minute bc i think i need to reread)

(its b een slightly longer than expected)

Suldae shakes her head.

"...what is the highest place in Krezk?"

Rahadin: (Narrating): "Vasilka is saying: The top of the Abbey tower, certainly."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae looks out of the window to gauge time.

Rahadin: "Now Ireena is saying: Don't break your neck, that's a long fall. The Bard looked straight through me. It's almost as if she knows... Perhaps she can feel that looming song too. Perhaps she feels the same weighty dread upon her soul. At any rate, thank goodness for invisibility. The sun will set in half an hour, and it won't matter nearly as much.

"Correction, dear Diary: Ireena is saying Don't break your neck, that's a long fall.

Everything after that is my own inner monologue. Punctuate correctly in revision.

Suldae Westwind: (oh my god)

Rahadin: "I wonder why she looked my way? To gauge the time?"

Suldae Westwind: The sun is setting soon. Suldae has no wish to wait inside.

"...I need to go to that tower. Who wants to escort me and wait at the bottom?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands up "I come with you"

*|'|

Rahadin: "The Vistani woman is saying: We should all go. Tell us where you want us."

"Now the failed corpse bride is saying: Yes, it would be best if we all participated in this, in whatever fashion you deem suitable."

Suldae Westwind: "...Somewhere you won't hear me sing, specifically. But also probably maybe somewhere you can make sure nobody can get to me? From below, anyway."

Rahadin: "What the devil is she talking about? Singing? Where no one can hear? She must be practicing something—a spell to destroy the master in some devious way. I must hear it."

Marcus Veranius nods

Marcus Veranius: "I've got a Silence spell. We can sit in that, keep our eyes keen on all corners. Sound won't matter then."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do you need anything beyond that?" Henry asks moving to head to the tower

Rahadin: "Now Ireena is saying: A silence spell is a good idea."

"Why is she so concerned that none of her own companions hear it?"

Suldae Westwind:

21

28

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Rahadin: "It must be deadly magic indeed. I shall have to shield myself."

Suldae Westwind: (is it?)

Suldae pauses, not sure.

GM: (A silence spell would protect against the effects of the song, yes)

Suldae Westwind: "...If there is a fight, you might have to leave the circle, though. I'm not sure it's particularly practical"

"I will need to be outside it, myself."

"Distance is safer."

GM: (However, it might even be possible to sing the song within the Silence spell, and still have it work. It will be harder, since you won't be able to hear yourself, but the song isn't for ears on this plane.)

Suldae Westwind: "Although it's possible that both is better."

(hmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm)

"Or..."

"...No, it could work."

"I would be inside the spell."

"I think it'll work, yes."

Suldae Westwind: "The only thing is that I'll need to stay inside."

Suldae walks after Henry.

Rahadin But Cooler: "Now Marcus is making a suggestion: It's a tower. We can easily cast Silence on a lower level, have you stand on a stool or something just outside it while we stand around in its area. Same floor."

GM: (A handout of the Abbey roofline should have appeared for y'all)

(Those onion roof-towers don't show up on the map, but they are accessible, and the domes are hollow)

Rahadin: "Now Ireena is saying: Wait, I thought it had to be the highest point in Krezk?"

Suldae Westwind: "No, I'm pretty sure it'll work better if I'm Silenced," Suldae disagrees.

"And yes, it does."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If you say so" Henry says "Not like I know how this magic stuff's supposed to work" he shrugs eyeing the towers "Just tell what to do to not mess it up and I'll be fine"

Suldae Westwind: "Honestly, I kind of feel like sitting on the top of that tower instead of just on the highest level."

Suldae shifts to the hybrid form, pulling her raven sister in.

Rahadin: "For a moment, I am briefly confused by her determination to reach such a high tower. Then she transforms into a bird, and I recall that she is a wereraven."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the roof "Vasilka, please tell me there's a hatch I can't see from here to get up onto the roof"

Suldae Westwind: "Irena, can you cast the spell?"

Rahadin: "Vasilka is thinking. Ireena is checking her spell books."

"Ireena is saying: I'm afraid not."

"Vasilka is saying: Yes, there is a hatch, in the spire of this tower. One can access the roof by it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the surrounding mages. "Who can?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry points at Marcus

Rahadin: "I look up at the tower and grimace. It is a long, long, long ways up. The storm in the east is gathering and approaching even now, the sun has not yet fully set. Strahd's anger is so great that even as he slowly wakes his mind twists the storm into being. It will be very unwise to be so high in the storm that is to come."

"I look in through the window again."

"Vasilka is saying: Sadly it's not my area."

"Kasimir is saying: Wait a moment..."

"Kasimir is saying: No, unfortunately I cannot cast it either."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at Marcus

Rahadin: "I look at the mutilated ears of Kasimir and I smile to myself. That was an interesting day. I have a feeling today will be twice as interesting, when all is said and done."

Rahadin But Cooler: "Marcus points out: Silence is like... a really big area spell. It'll probably cover the entire tower roof and the room inside if we cast it at the right spot."

"His note is astute. I should know; I am very smart."

Suldae Westwind: (oh my god)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the tower, the brewing storm, his friends, the tower the storm and back to the tower before saying "There will be words if this doesn't accomplish something" Already he felt his stomach sink at the prospect of going up on the tower

Rahadin: "Whatever this sorceress is up to, she must be stopped. This is beginning to look more and more like some vitally important casting. With so many of our defenses already destroyed, and such power arrayed against us, we cannot afford to have it focused. I shall have to be swift."

"Vasilka is saying: Well, I shall lead the way, when you're all ready?"

"The Vistani woman is saying: I've got a bad feeling about this."

"Her eyes look through the window, straight through me, to the distant sunset."

"Ireena is saying: We've got your back, Suldae. I'll use Message to check in on you, if that won't break your concentration?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Uhm dinner is ready for me so I'll have to step away for a bit, again anything really important just ping me on discord)

Rahadin: "I chuckle to myself, thinking that there are far simpler ways of breaking someone's concentration."

Marcus Veranius mentally communicates to the Sunsword. "Hey, do you remember those tricks you mentioned in the Amber Temple? The variable shapes and stuff?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes her head.

Sergei: "Yeah, sure! Why?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Better not."

Rahadin: "Ireena is biting her finger. She is saying: Alright then. But we'll have to be someplace where we can see you at all times."

Suldae Westwind: Just staying sane through the song is already going to tax her. She is not sure what the effect of friendly conversation would be but she doubts it'd go great for her mind.

Marcus Veranius: [Now that we don't have the Oathbow, we're going to need to use every weapon trick I know to keep up the pace.]

Suldae Westwind: "...You could be up there with me and communicate with the others," Suldae suggests.

Rahadin: "Ireena is nodding."

Suldae Westwind: "You won't be able to hear in the spell, if there's someone who can cast it?"
Suldae looks at Marcus again.

Marcus Veranius: [If I call a weapon, you take its shape. That simple.]

Sergei: [Sure enough!]

Suldae Westwind: (brb)

Rahadin But Cooler: "Marcus is giving a thumbs up now. So he can cast the Silence spell. What tricks has he yet played?"

Suldae Westwind: [back]

Suldae ascends the tower with the others.

GM: (The red tiles indicate a 20' drop. It's not actually a drop, it's just a very very steep slope, which will be very very slippery once it starts raining.)

Rahadin But Cooler: "And now Marcus is casting the spell. A good trick, but not enough to stop my power."

Silence

2 (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: 20-foot-radius sphere centered on a point you choose within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, no sound can be created within or pass through a 20-foot-radius sphere centered on a point you choose within range.

Any creature or object entirely inside the sphere is immune to thunder damage, and creatures are deafened while entirely inside it.

Casting a spell that includes a verbal component is impossible there.

Rahadin: "Ireena and Suldae appear to be having some kind of mental conversation."

Ireena Kolyana: (Via Message, to Suldae): "Should I say good luck, or break a leg, or..."

Suldae Westwind: "Please don't wish me to break a leg here," Suldae is staring off into the distance, a dreamy smile on her face. She's not afraid of heights, oh no, especially since she's grown able to fly.
(Can I assume it took them half an hour to get there?)

Rahadin: "This rooftop would be a terrible place for a fight. I shall have to be very cautious."

GM: (We can say the sun is about to set, yes)

Ireena Kolyana: "Good luck, then."

Suldae Westwind: (Can we also say Suldae cast Fly on Henry?)

Rahadin: "Ireena kisses the elven bard on the cheek. Lovers? How could I have missed that? That complicates things... Or does it simplify them?"

GM: (I'm cool with that, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (awesome, I'm marking the daily use used then)

Rahadin: "The storm is nearing Krezk. Even before the sun sets completely, it will be upon us. Whatever this elven witch is going to summon, she had better start doing it soon—I have no desire to stay up here and be revealed by the falling rain."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles and nuzzles her cheek, then breathes in and out. She does not have an instrument right now; she could not hear it anyway, and her voice will be enough.

Marcus Veranius sets his Animated Shield to hover, and holds the Sunsword in two hands. Hopefully he wouldn't have to test this new combat routine he's developed.

Rahadin: "The Vistani woman is eyeing Marcus up and down as though seeing him properly for the first time. I have the feeling that this is a flirtatious gesture of some kind."

Suldae Westwind: Dusk falls, and Suldae begins to sing.

She cannot hear herself, but she knows every note, every movement and vibration of her vocal chords. She knows she's getting it right - Correllon's terrible gift is too clear to mistake.

The storm breaks as the first note touches the world of spirits. Lightning arcs and flares across the darkened sky—but no thunder falls. Even outside the dome of silence, the lightning snaps and snarls in blinding silence.

Rahadin: "My soul quavers in the titanic shadow of another. Hers? No, not hers."

"The one I have forgotten, all these years..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands stonefaced trying his best to ignore the steep drops beyond the very unsafe roof surfaces

Suldae Westwind: (Henry currently has Fly cast on him)

The lightning flares, revealing a tall elven man standing behind Suldae, beside Ireena, one hand on each of their shoulders. He is a towering being, his face hooded and veiled in shadows.

Suldae Westwind: (and if Kasimir is not an idiot, so does everyone else who cannot normally fly actually)

Quietly, the thin wail of a child breaks the silence. The rain has not yet started to fall.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Yes but fear rarely is taht rational now is it?)

The thin wail of a child is joined by a cry of piercing agony.

Suldae Westwind: (yeah but you could incorporate that into your narration too)
(just making sure you saw it)

Piercing agony and wailing child are joined by a slowly mounting chorus of horror. The voices are unearthly, looming and echoing and moving like the wind.

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is in the Zone of Silence. Can he hear this?)

Suldae Westwind: (same q for Suldae)

GM: (Even those within the zone of silence can hear the voices, yes.)

The lightning strikes! A man cries out in agony!

Rahadin drops to his knees, steaming, visible, on the lower slope of the roof.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'It's fine, it's fine I can fly I'm fine, it's fine' Henry thinks before catching a glimpse on the way down '...This is not fine at all' he almost whines in his head

The song is not over yet: more comes pouring forth.

The wailing screams howl all around the fallen man, who cries out: "MAKE THEM STOP!"

Marcus Veranius: And there he is.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh thank the lights a distraction" Henry murmurs a fixing the object of his deep seated rage with a a muderous stare

Suldae feels a hand on her shoulder, a tight squeeze. The voice of Correllon whispers silently: "Stop them! The spell is not complete!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry flies over to Rahadin

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nudges Ireena

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks over her shoulder and sees the towering elf-god.

Ireena yelps silently, then takes the hint. Her Message blasts to everyone: "WAIT! DON'T TOUCH HIM!"

Marcus Veranius pauses at the message, taking a step back

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses on the song. It hurts her soul even though she cannot hear it - especially with those other sounds she CAN hear

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry freezes in mid air now hovering 5 feet of the ground looking down at Rahadin unmoving

The screams are getting louder now, more urgent. A fine mist now swirls around Rahadin: a veil of final breath, one gasp for each of his victims.

Rahadin, on his knees, lifts up his hands and cries out: "PLEASE! HAVE MERCY!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...no.." Henry says regarding him with contempt

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cannot hear him, nor does she see him, too focused on her song for her eyes to be anything but blind

The figure behind Suldae does not flinch. He whispers silently: "You're nearly there, Suldae. Hold on. Things will get worse, before the end."

Each time Rahadin breathes out, a spurt of white vapor emerges from him, and lingers, and flows, and orbits around him without fading. By gentle degrees, the spirits begin to glow.

A pillar of light suddenly strikes down from the heavens: a solid beam of silent lightning that rips into Rahadin and roots him to the spot. A spectral chain, vast and golden, stretches off into the sky. The spirits spiral and surge: the chain breaks. Rahadin screams.

The lightning fades in silence. Rahadin stands, dazed but virtually unharmed.

Rahadin: "IS THAT THE BEST YOU'VE GOT?"

At that moment, Suldae finishes the song.

Rahadin gapes.

Rahadin: "Wait..."

"No..."

He looks at his own hands.

His face contorts in rage and sorrow, and he turns on his heel with a snap of his fingertips, and vanishes in a blast of blue smoke.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shifts her gaze at him, finally starting to see again.

Only to see him vanish.

Henry of Willowsbrook: " 'and by the spoils of their wickedness they will be laid to rest in the unforgiving dark of night' " Henry quotes before he disappears

Marcus Veranius looks around for where Rahadin could have gone. He can't keep escaping like this!

Correllon says: "He is severed from me. Neither shall he rest, nor dream, till you weave him back into me, or death claims him."

"Within seven days, he will be dead if he is not restored to me."

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae breathes out and lowers her head in a nod, acknowledging her god's words.

"He will flee to his Strahd, and he will discover that his god cannot help him. And he will return to you."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (to suldae or all of us?)

"It will be yours to decide his fate, then."

 Sulda Westwind: It is a terrible thing she did; necessary and deserved both, but a thing of terror nonetheless.

GM: (Only Suldae can hear him atm)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Okay)

 Sulda Westwind: Decide his fate. There are options, are there?

What can I do?

she thinks to him in a silent question.

It seems he has disappeared.

 Sulda Westwind: Well then.

Suldae sits in the spell still, heedless of the silence, dazed.

The hoot of a Bookworm owl hootles at her in a friendly way—even within the silence.

 Rictavio: "Well," says Rictavio. "That was something."

 Vasilka: "The storm is shifting back into Strahd's power, I think. We would do well to get indoors."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "No need to tell me twice."

 Marcus Veranius dims the Sunsword. not quite understanding the purpose of this ritual. Escaped yet again. How can they fight an opponent that can disappear at will?

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stares at the spot Rahadin occupied slowly drifting back onto the roof. His hand clenched into a white knuckeld grip around the sheath of his sword.

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir approaches. He says: "Next time, I suggest we entrap him with a Magic Circle."

 Rictavio: "That's not a bad idea, actually."

 Kasimir Velikov: "I find myself becoming... frustrated... with his prowess for teleportation spells."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to beckon Suldae out of the Silence

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae is not reacting. She's... out of vision again.

Ireena Kolyana: "It's over, Suldae. We can leave the Silence."

"Are you alright?"

Suldae Westwind: She just stares at the horizon.

Suldae shrugs, not articulating speech even mentally.

Marcus Veranius: If only there was a spell that could keep Rahadin bound in place! But he just wasn't hearing any suggestions!

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae, come on." Ireena gently shakes her.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae slowly slides off the spire onto the rest of the roof.

She won't go any further unless led.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sees her in her absent minded state and approaches her.

Marcus Veranius goes back inside. Just gunna sleep this storm off.

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae? Suldae, are you alright?"

"What happened?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "[Are you alright?]" he asks before remembering he is inside the Silence spell

Suldae Westwind: (is the silence spell off)

(can marcus like deactivate it)

GM: (It is Concentration, yes, so it can be deactivated at any time)

Marcus Veranius: (He can if you ask)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he could it's just droppping concentration

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows Ireena silently, obedient like a child.

Rictavio: "I think we've broken our bard. A shame, I was just beginning to like her."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shoots Rictavio a dirty look.

"Come on, Suldae. Let's get you inside..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I just liked the Idea of Henry being his concerned older brother self and forgetting she literally can't hear him)

Ireena Kolyana leads the way down into the tower proper.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae doesn't even have energy to flip Rictavio off, though at least the idea of the gesture enters her mind, beginning to revitalize her.

It takes several more minutes before she remembers how to speak.

"...He will die within a week, unless he can convince me to undo what I just did," Suldae summarizes and goes silent again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Alright" Henry says feeling and looking visibly conflicted "...How are you feeling?" he asks

Marcus Veranius considers

Marcus Veranius: "Well so much for spending the week relaxing and reading tomes."

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't know, I think we can afford to wait him out."

Rictavio: "He'll become desperate."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "The screaming we heard will never stop. He won't be able to hide."

Marcus Veranius: "We planned to spend the week preparing for siege regardless. The time is booked."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "And he'll be hearing it long enough to go mad."

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae shrugs. She's feeling?

Suldae Westwind: Her ears are ringing still.

Ireena Kolyana: "That's such a... Complicated thing to ask your follower to do."

"I feel sick just thinking about it. He used you like a pair of scissors... And asked you to be used again like a knife."

Suldae Westwind: "I asked him," Suldae contradicts her.

This is enough for her to at least summon the energy for a reply.

Rictavio: "The ways of the gods are not ours to question. It's clear Rahadin deserved what came to him—or Correllon certainly thought so, at least."

Suldae Westwind: "I asked for this. Do not mistake it."

Ireena Kolyana: "Alright."

"It just..."

"Are you alright?"

Marcus Veranius: "Asked for what?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles at her gorgeous, wonderful, kind girlfriend.

"I'll be fine."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena smiles back.

Suldae Westwind: It might be truth or not regarding her health, but ultimately she'll be fine, knowing she did this.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls Suldae into a quick hug

Suldae Westwind: She doesn't have the strength to answer what seems like an idle question. Maybe later.

Vasilka: "Now that the issue of Rahadin is... handled... we should turn to other business."

Marcus Veranius is genuinely baffled. She played a song and now Rahadin will die? Was this one of those bard things?

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir sees the look on Marcus's face.

"As humans must sleep, so must elves enter the Trance. In the trance, we become one with the essence of Correllon, and live the memories of our previous incarnations."

"Correllon has severed Rahadin from himself. Rahadin will no longer enter the Trance. He is cut off from his cycle of reincarnation, and will truly die if he is slain. He will become exhausted very quickly, without the rejuvenating effects of the Trance."

Marcus Veranius: "Ooooooh, I get it! Suldae is playing so loudly that the neighbors can't sleep anymore!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Something like that."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles.

Marcus Veranius smirks in jest

Marcus Veranius: "That's quite rude of you."

Kasimir Velikov: "As the saying goes: 'the blood cries out, and I, no echo, answer.'"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has the strength to shrug.

About the level of conversation she can keep up right now.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "You know, I think this will all look much easier to handle in the morning. Perhaps we should rest for the night?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe read a book or two?"

Marcus Veranius: "Indeed. The other business is the same as we discussed. We have seven days to unlock the power of the Book of Good Deeds. And in the middle of those days, rescue a possibly insane wizard once found in the north."

Vasilka: "The Ravens have not yet managed to find his lair, but they have found his roaming grounds. He seems to have a very large territory."

Marcus Veranius: "In the interim, Vallaki and Krezk prepare for war. The Revenants construct siege engines while man sharpens their knives."

"There is little we can do but wait and prepare."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods "Anyone want some tea before we head of to sleep?"

Suldae Westwind: Yes, compared to this, reading the Book of Exalted Deeds really seems like a relaxing activity.

Suldae smiles again, renewing what had lapsed into nothing in exhaustion.

She also nods to Henry.

Tea.

Tea is good.

Joan: "On it!"

Joan says this merrily as she enters the chamber with a tray of tea.

"Thought you might like some. It's a cold night!"

Marcus Veranius: "You know what, there IS something I can do."

 Joan: "I've brought hot cider, too."

 Marcus Veranius: "Since I have somehow become the bridge between Krezk and the Revenants, I'm going to look between both to see if a proper shieldsmith is present between them."
"Leave a cup for me when I return."

 Joan: "Will do!"

 Marcus Veranius: "HENRY! Pass me that dragon skull you've been hefting around."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe, it's storming out. It's nighttime. You'll get attacked by hobo Rahadin."

 Marcus Veranius: "Good. Let him burn spell slots trying to steal my bone umbrella."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smiles at her as he takes a cup "Darling you are a gift" he says winking at Joan before turning to Marcus "Oh if we're doing that I'll come with you, sorry but I doubt you know what to look for in a shield"

 Marcus Veranius 's jaw drops

 Marcus Veranius: "EXCUSE ME! I'll let you know I practiced in many arts of war preparing for my suicidal jaunt against an elder dragon!"
"Just because I botched the suicide part doesn't mean I'll fail the shield bit."

 Suldae Westwind: (i dont think 'spell slots' are in-universe terminology)

 Marcus Veranius grins

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae smiles faintly, listening to her friends bickering.
The tea warms her hands, and she finds the strength to lift the cup to sip, as well.

 Vasilka: "Oh, hang on a moment."
Vasilka departs.

 Marcus Veranius: "You're welcome to come along. More the merrier!"

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sips her tea.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry gives him a look "My shield, my commision" He says flatly before smirking "Besides whens the last time you actually took a hit on purpose?"

 Marcus Veranius considers

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ez doesn't count"

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'll come with you. Somebody's got to make sure you don't get swindled."

 Marcus Veranius: "Well, I walked into a wall of knives cause my wife asked me to save a child."
"Granted, I was going to do that anyways."

 Ezmerelda Veranius: "Yes, it was very manly," says Ezmerelda.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Also very bloody"

Vasilka: Vasilka returns, clutching a letter.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm starting to get good at it too! Didn't hurt nearly as much as the first time!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae regrets being too tired to figure out how to make jokes with gestures.

Also too tired to formulate filthy jokes out loud.

The tea is good.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You looked like butcher's scrap"

Vasilka: She says: "The Knights of Argynvostholt gave us this. It's a list of their equipment and material."

"They do have a smith. They have two smiths, actually: one for weapons and one for armor."

Marcus Veranius: "You should have seen the first time. Barely able to move, looking like a fruit platter. I look up thinking I was free, and goddamn Strahd was there. Watching me bleed out on the floor."

Ireena Kolyana: "That was pretty funny, in retrospect."

Marcus Veranius: "Talk about a first impression."

Ireena Kolyana: "At the time, though—damn."

Marcus Veranius: [Memories of the Death House]

GM: (Sounds like a band name)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has her own traumatic memories regarding that, but Ireena is here and she seems to have stopped trying that, which is good!

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I woke up in a field with an open gut and a shattered arm after coming here" Henry muses "Only the second worst welcome if ever recieved"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at him.

Marcus Veranius: "At least they gave you a nice coffin."

"Shame we broke it open getting you out."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shoots tea from her nose.

Henry of Willowsbrook: I've not if

Ireena Kolyana: Red-eyed and coughing, she frantically vanishes the spilled tea before it can make a mess.

She wipes her nose, still cough-laughing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It was a nice coffin" Henry says "Excellent carpentry and upholstery"

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh man, oh. That hurt."

Marcus Veranius: "They had to stuff vampires in crates cause you stole the good bed. How dare!"

Ireena Kolyana: She blows her nose fervently into a handkerchief.

Rictavio: "Yes, that was strange."

"I'm a bit unclear as to why the vampires weren't in their coffins."

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe it's like when you spook a cat. They want to run and hide in the darkest corner under the bed."

"All the noises of Vallaki, all that blood they couldn't have—must have driven them mad. They probably felt better in the dirt."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, they WERE smuggled into the city by those crates. Henrik was probably too cheap to give them proper boxes."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Right, are we doing this? Are we going off to see the shieldsmith?"

Marcus Veranius is done joking.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "No point waiting for the storm to clear, I suppose..."

Marcus Veranius: "Yeah, let's head out. Poor smith's gonna have to fit in that shield project between golem pieces."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hey Kasimir. How precise do you think he can be with that lightning?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir wobbles a hand. "Unclear. At this range, I'd say not very."

"The fact that no vital structures or people were harmed the previous night indicates to me that he either cannot direct the lightning, or that he is very bad at it."

Vasilka: "I have been redirecting some of his more... Murderous... blows."

"In general, however, this storm is more fury than death."

GM: (brb)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out her flute.

She cannot speak, she cannot do most things, but her hands and her lungs still remember how to play.

And this sounds like fun.

She stands up, smiling.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's just salty he can't be the land anymore. Mid-afterlife crisis has him movin into the Sky now."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes to the nearest window and sits in it, splatters of rain wetting her even more than before.

She begins to play, delighting in sounds that are not death and hatred and grief and parting, a song that she can actually hear.

DC19

Dexterity Save

15

Lightning

120 feet

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day
Suldae Westwind

(whoops)

(Flute) Call Lightning, 1/day

3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A point in the air where a storm cloud could appear 100 feet directly above you

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

A storm cloud appears in the shape of a cylinder that is 10 feet tall with a 60-foot radius, centered on a point you can see 100 feet directly above you. The spell fails if you can't see a point in the air where the storm cloud could appear (for example, if you are in a room that can't accommodate the cloud). When you cast the spell, choose a point you can see within range. A bolt of lightning flashes down from the cloud to that point. Each creature within 5 feet of that point must make a Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes 3d10 lightning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. On each of your turns until the spell ends, you can use your action to call down lightning in this way again, targeting the same point or a different one. If you are outdoors in stormy conditions when you cast this spell, the spell gives you control over the existing storm instead of creating a new one. Under such conditions, the spell's damage increases by 1d10.

It's not a big section of the storm that she can take control of, not at all, but it'll be enough to cover a single person walking under it, and besides, it'll piss Strahd off either way.

The storm falls easily under Suldae's control. It seems it is an emanation of Strahd, but not an actual spell he is in control of.

Suldae Westwind: It feels nice, to feel the Weave tremble under her fingers - metaphorically speaking. It's not entirely natural, this storm, but it's hers now regardless, and she enjoys the power and the fury.

A couple lightning strikes hit all of nothing at her command.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena leans against the wall nearby, watching her play, and watching the storm make its music in response to her.

She says nothing, but her admiration is plain.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a deep drink of his tea "Well let's get to hit before the path gets to muddy to walk on." Passing Joan on the way out he leans in and whispers "You can wait and get comfortable in my room until I'm back if you want"

Joan: Joan giggles and skips away.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, you've made her happy."

"Shall we?"

Marcus Veranius smiles, following behind Esmeralda in the shield party

The shield-smith is a great big bull of a man—or he was, anyway, prior to death. Now he is merely a very tall, very thin, very hairy zombie. His horns are fit with golden rings, and in his big cow's eyes there is a flickering ember of pure hate. The undead minotaur wields his hammer with great ease.

He pauses, hammer in the air, and looks at the little party of the living that has come to find him in the camps of the dead on this dark and stormy night. What compels them?

He lowers his hammer and cocks his head.

Marcus Veranius hadn't considered tat non-humans could be revenants. Not that he knew enough to debate the fact, he just... hadn't considered it.

Marcus Veranius: Death is an equal opportunity employer

Ireena Kolyana: (Back at the castle): Ireena says: "Have you made any progress in the book?"

Suldae Westwind: (brb)

The minotaur snorts impatiently.

Zanshukun: "Hey there" Henry says nodding at the minotaur "I've come to make a commission"

The Minotaur nods, understanding. It snorts again.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry unslings the skull plate from his back,propping it up on a table "To make it short I want this turned into a shield"

The minotaur looms appreciatively over the chunk of bone. He picks it up in both hands, and turns it around several times.

The minotaur silently turns to the anvil and the forge, still holding the bone.

The minotaur draws out a knife of dragon-claw, and delicately traces it across the surface of the bone, scratching circles and runes.

Then he steps back, flings out his arms, and claps thunderously.

The runes and circles glow: green and blue and red and gold and white. With a lurch, the shield lifts off the ground and into the air. He takes it in both hands, and carefully walks it back over to Henry.

He waits patiently for Henry to hold out his arm. There are, as yet, no straps on the bone.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry raises a brow at the process before shrugging and holding out his arm

The minotaur lowers the shield. Henry feels two bands of invisible force clamp firmly around his forearm. The shield hovers patiently a few inches from his arm, weightless.

The minotaur gently reaches down and grabs one of the invisible bands around Henry's forearm. With a sharp pull, he snaps it, and the shield releases him. It remains hovering in the air.

The minotaur guides the shield away to about sixty feet. Henry can feel it moving.

The minotaur gestures, pointing out his arm and fist.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves his arm as if to pull it back

The shield swoops across the distance, and latches once again onto his arm. Despite its weightlessness, it clearly still has mass, for it takes a great deal of strength to catch it without being knocked over by it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry falls into a stance before he swiftly Starts to shadow box with it

The shield stays locked to his arm, perfectly floating to his movements. It does not impede his hands in any way.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well," says Ezmerelda. "That's neat."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry wills it to move covering his back first before trying to make it orbit him slowly

The shield, it seems, does not obey mental commands. It can be thrown, and it returns to his hand.

Henry realizes that throwing it would be relatively easy on his end, and a bit like hurling a boulder at the other end.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks up a large piece of wood throwing it up before hurling the shield at it with all his might

The shield blows right through it, reaches the end of its sixty foot range, whirls momentarily in the air, and comes rocketing back to Henry's hand.

The minotaur turns to other projects, ignoring Henry and the rest.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well, that was quick! And, apparently, free?"

"Should we head back now?"

Marcus Veranius: "Now that henry has a new toy to play with, yes."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Gift bull, bulls hift same thing" Henry comments gift

Marcus Veranius: "I feel safer by proximity!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I feel sorry for anyone who tries to catch that thing."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It'll be one of Strahds flunkies so don't"

The party returns to the abbey.

Liliet (Suldae): (pls assume Suldae answered Ireena's question with the accurate answer which i dont remember)

(and the chat archive is still not cooperating)

GM: (No worries, it never cooperates for me either)

(Alrighty, time for a long rest I think. How do you use the downtime?)

Ezmerelda Veranius: (We can also do a longer time-skip, if there is nothing else that you want to RP)

Liliet (Suldae): are there any long term effects from what Suldae did with the song?

GM: (Like, on Suldae?)

Marcus Veranius: (I'm good with timeskip. Marcus has no current projects beyond OFFSCREEN SUNSWORD TRAINING MONTAGE)

GM: (The only lingering effects on Suldae would be whatever psychological ones she has in response to it. No mechanical effects are at play.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is preoccupied with training and well being obnoxiously flirty with Joan outside of wanting to look through Rahadins hut in Krezk...tomorrow

Liliet (Suldae): (ty)

Marcus Veranius is making significant progress now that he's got an Animated Shield to cover his defenses. The Sunsword was best used two-handed. Plenty more opportunities, plenty more techniques.

Liliet (Suldae): (Suldae reads the book and recuperates in what normality she can snatch from all this)
(not just from the song, from... everything)
(hmmm)

Night falls in earnest, and the party rests. Outside, the wrath of Strahd roars on.

Suldae falls deep into the book, and finds far more than story and philosophy there. It is as though the book knows her innermost thoughts, and lays the answers where she will find them. In the illuminations of the manuscript she even finds scenes from her own life: dubious moments of morality, and times where her goodness was like fire in a dark world. The book answers her questions without fail, and there is no note of condemnation in it. The book is good, but it is not a book about Justice or Judgement. It is a book about goodness: how to see it, how to find it, how to reach it, how to make it grow.

Marcus masters the use of the Sunsword, even as Henry masters the use of his new shield.

The next few days pass quietly enough. By the time Henry goes to Kasimir's hut, he finds it completely empty. Whoever was staying there seems to have left in a hurry, taking some kind of moderately heavy equipment with them.

Marcus Veranius: "Alright, think we've got the Slashey weapons all practiced yesterday. Do we wanna start with the Bashey weapons or the Pokey ones?"

Marcus Veranius is up bright and early, supplementing practice with more practice. Better than sitting around waiting for the siege

Henry and Joan become even better acquainted. Ireena helps Suldae in her studies, acting as a sounding board to help get her thoughts in order as she processes some of the more difficult passages.

Ezmerelda shows up to spar with Marcus.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I've always been partial to the stabby ones," she says, drawing a silver shortsword.

Marcus Veranius: "Pokey it is!"

Marcus Veranius holds out the Sunsword's handle, conjuring the shape of a lance from solid light

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh my! It's so big!"

Marcus Veranius: "Every weapon has its own host of techniques. Big ones and the small ones."

"...that wasn't meant to be innuendo but the statement is true either way."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry enters his room quietly carrying a tray of food doing his best not to disturb the still sleeping Joan

Marcus Veranius: "The secret will be swapping between weapons to take advantage of benefits when most useful."

Marcus Veranius charges towards Ezmerelda with the lance

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Seems like a highly convenient weapon."

Marcus Veranius:*1410 (20 ft charge)>Charge (Sun-Lance) (+13)
Marcus VeraniusDC19The creature is not knocked prone.Strength Save

If you move at least 20 feet straight toward a creature before hitting it with a Sun-Lance attack, the target takes an extra 1d12 damage and must make a Strength saving throw. On a failure, the target falls prone.

>A prone creature's only Movement option is to crawl, unless it stands up and thereby ends the condition.

>The creature has disadvantage on Attack rolls.

>An Attack roll against the creature has advantage if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature. Otherwise, the Attack roll has disadvantage.

11*Radiant26Radiant*

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae finds her thoughts more in order than before. It's been a difficult trial, this... has it been less than a month? It felt like a longer time than her entire lifetime before that, everything before feeling like a blanket of fog separated it.

A blanket of fog that she'd once gotten lost in; a blanket of fog that was no longer there... but her life was not either.

She was not the same entity as before, in many senses; not the same species in a sense, though technically lycanthropy was just a curse. She had talked to her god in person, and been his instrument in great deeds; she understood more about that now, although her mind was still unsettled around some of the thoughts she hadn't even told Ireena about.

She wasn't alone anymore; the persistent loneliness of being the only one of her kind she knew faded despite technically being still true: none of the people she'd come to know where half-elves, specifically. That didn't matter though, and there was greater freedom in that than there could ever be found in finding those like her.

She was powerful now, in a way that sometimes unsettled her to think about; her understanding of the Weave grew ever deeper, and while she was always called a talented student, this went beyond "talented". She had her god's favor as well, which was still as terrifying to wield as it was the first time; but there was a burgeoning confidence in her, a seed of an idea, a foundation being laid.

She didn't know what it would be like, to not have found the Book when she did. It felt like a lifejacket, a piece of driftwood to cling to in the storm; a rope thrown from a passing ship to rescue her from drowning. She was not the same person as before, but not all of it was from the terrible trials she'd experienced; there was always the life-changing power of a good book, and she wasn't quite the same person as she was before she read it, either.

Liliet (Suldae): Too bad she was still the person who needed to beat Strahd and hadn't done it yet. But that could be fixed with time, couldn't it?

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda sidesteps him neatly, tapping his lance once with her sword as it passes by.

"Nice! You need to work on your footwork a little, though."

"Here, let me show you..."

Marcus Veranius accidentally skewers the wall

Marcus Veranius struggles to retrieve the Sun-Lance from the wall

Ezmerelda Veranius:

ACROBATICS
Ezmerelda Veranius

Skill: 14

Ezmerelda does a quick handstand, kicking his legs out from under him with her wooden leg. (Or attempting to, at any rate)

Marcus Veranius:

15

ACROBATICS (11)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus Veranius barely dodges the swipe, pushing the lance further into the wall in consequence

Marcus Veranius: Henry's bedroom tea time is disturbed by the sudden appearance of a surprise wall lamp

Vasilka: "Please stop attacking my abbey," says Vasilka.

"I come with news from the Ravens."

"They have found the lair of the Mad Mage of Mount Baratok."

Marcus Veranius dims the sunsword, stumbling without the lance's leverage. "Umm, my apologies."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sets down the breakfast for two he'd made sitting down on the bed next to the bundled up Joan kissing her on the forehead and saying "Good morning my love"

Marcus Veranius: "I assume we can teleport there as before with the Amber Temple. Is it far? We're likely walking the way back."

Liliet (Suldae):

LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY

(pls ignore this)

Vasilka: "Yes, it should be easy enough to send you there. You will want the warmest clothing you can manage—it is bound to be horrible there."

Marcus Veranius: "A... hmm..."

Marcus Veranius remembers the trip to the amber temple, and the freezing temperatures there.

Marcus Veranius: "...you wouldn't happen to know if Krezk has a tailor shop?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry again tries to wake Joan a little more incidentally this time, cute as she was he had put effort into this meal and it wouldn't do to let it get cold

Vasilka: Vasilka chuckles. "No, it does not. It has no shops of any kind, really."

"But people will be more than willing to help you, I think. Almost everyone in the village knows how to sew warm furs together."

Joan: "What is it? I'm up, I'm up!"

"Is there a fire? Is someone bleeding?"

"Oh! You've—"

Her eyes get a little watery. "You've brought me breakfast in bed!"

"That's so sweet! Thank you, Henry."

She gives him a kiss. "I'd better eat it before it starts getting cold!"

Marcus Veranius: "I'll speak with the baron. He might be able to coordinate something."

Marcus Veranius heads down to the village. Heaven forbid he freezes his wings off a second time

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You're welcome besides if my mother were to find out I had you do all the cooking she'd whoop my ass" he says with a smirk followed by a brief haunted look "never seen my dad so scared not that I could blame him" he murmurs

Joan: Joan chuckles at this.

"She sounds like a good woman."

"Do you miss her?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah I miss her and my father" Henry sighs into his cup "and Lorelei" he frowns "I really need to talk to her once I get back, I fear she thinks I hate her"

Joan: Joan cups Henry's cheek. "Who's Lorelei?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "My sister" Henry says "I think I miss her most and the way we were when I left makes this separation sting even worse"

Joan: "Oh, dear. I'm sure she understands. Or if she doesn't, I'm sure she will in time. Once this is all over, I'm sure you'll win her back."

"And if she doesn't want to talk, why, there's no gate or castle wall that could keep you out. So you'll get your chance to talk."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smiles a bit "yeah but just the thought that I could have hurt her or made her think I'd feel anything but love for her...it wears on me"

Joan: "You were close, then? Back in the day?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Basically inseparable. Some of my other friends stopped wanting to hang out with their siblings once they got older but I just ...didn't and neither did she. Maybe it's because she used to be so sickly when she was younger, my parents had to make help with work till I dropped to stop me from dotting on her the whole day and so she could actually rest

Joan: Joan laughs. "You sound like quite a pair."
"I look forward to meeting her someday."

Henry of Willowsbrook: " Henry wistfully takes a drink "I stopped being quite as overbearing once she learned how to kick where it hurts."
(And scene)

GM: (Howdy y'all!)
(Where should we pick things up?)

Liliet (Suldae): (i had a half-typed message with Suldae detailing her new changes from the book but I couldnt decide on the spell and then i timed out of roll20 so idk where were we?)

Zanshuken: (we were in the downtime before we try to recruit the crazy wizard and storm the castle unless I missed something)

GM (GM): Looks like Marcus was about to see about warm coats for the party

Marcus Veranius: (The wizard was in fact located; Marcus is fetching equipment for the expedition)

GM (GM): Let's say it's still fairly early on the morning of the last day of the allotted time for the book. The wizard's lair has been discovered. Marcus and Ezmerelda are the first to learn from Vasilka that this is the case. Marcus is heading into town to get warm clothes for the party. Suldae is basking in the balmy afterglow of the Book she has just fini+s6
(F*cking cat dammit)

Book she has just finished reading before this dawn. I imagine Suldae would choose her location for the final reading carefully, so wherever she is, the sun's light is on her.

Henry is with Joan, having breakfast in bed

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae is sitting on the wall, of course.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (oh god I just realized I haven't added my new shield to my sheet yet...)

GM (GM): (Is your AC 30 yet?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (25)

GM (GM): (Lmao)
(What have I done)
(Oh well, you'll need it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Given yourself an excuse to pull out the +18 to hit bonus homebrew monsters)

GM (GM): (Good point)

(Alright Suldae, go ahead and place yourself on the wall somewhere)

(I'll place you, Henry)

Suldae Westwind: (do we need dynamic lighting here()

GM: (I didn't realize it was turned on)

(Sorry about that! I don't see it unless I choose a token to see through)

GM (GM): (Has it been on this whole time on this map?)

Marcus Veranius: (Haha, I can't control this Marcus token)

GM (GM): (Wtf)

(Can you control either of those? I can delete the one you can't)

(Not sure how you wound up with two)

(I can't remember whose room is whose)

Suldae Westwind: (we established whose room is whose at any point?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (may I try the attack part of my shield real quick to see if I did it right on my sheet?)

GM (GM): (Suldae, do you have a token on this map? I can't find yours)

(Henry: yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

7

Bludgeoning

60 feet line

Bone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (I put it on the wall next to the gate)

(as requested)

GM: (Oh! Found you)

The sun, freshly risen, is a glorious thing in the eastern sky. Barovian lands still unused to its warmth respond with birdsong and the rustling of happy trees. Marcus and Ezmerelda are walking along the path to the village, about to pass through the gate of the Abbey. Suldae, seated on the wall nearby, does not at first see them approach, and they do not at first see her. Suldae has finished the book. Marcus and Ezmerelda are talking measurements and logistics.

Meanwhile, Henry feels the presence of Vasilka near his bedroom door. She waits patiently, not knocking.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Rictavio's a small, I'm pretty sure."

"Henry, well... Let's just hope they have a bearskin on hand."

Marcus Veranius shrugs

Marcus Veranius: "The boots will be fine. Dragonskin is rather insulating."

"Someone else's job for the rest of the outfit."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "That's a relief. Trying to guess all the shoe sizes would be a pain."

"I'm thinking hats, scarves, cloaks, gloves. Lots of fur. Although come to think of it I don't think the Krezkites do much hunting..."

"Well, we can't ask the revenants for anything, they don't feel the cold anyway."

Marcus Veranius: "If we could find a wedding dress in an undead apocalypse, we can find warm clothes." Marcus retorts.

"Might end up being werewolf furs given the local hunting. But that won't matter much if its warm."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "That's a good point."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods wistfully sipping his tea before turning towards the door "So even if I know you are waiting outside knocking is still a common courtesy you know?"

Marcus Veranius continues down the path to Krezk village, dreading to impose on the baron further. It's been a crazy week for him.

GM: (Did you want to RP the book's effects taking hold, Suldae?)

Suldae Westwind: (one sec)

GM: (No worries)

Suldae Westwind: (that was to say, one sec until i answer, i was called away at that exact moment)

(the answer is actually i dont, i would rather flashback it later)

(i was already going to describe it as a flashback in that writeup i lost and honestly i think ill come up with better than that as it becomes relevant)

(sorry)

(i can if i gots to)

GM: (Works for me)

From her perch, Suldae hears the voices of Marcus and Ezmerelda. She sees them walking along the path.

Somewhere, Ireena is sleeping in.

Suldae Westwind: Upon consideration, she watches the newlyweds without interjection. They're too cute together to ruin it.

Vasilka: (At Henry's door): "I did not wish to disturb your slumber."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But you saw me messing around in the kitchen..." Henry says slightly confused "anyway please do come in"

Baron Krezkov is seated on a stump outside his hut, smoking a pipe, staring at the sky in wonder. He does not notice Marcus and Ezmerelda until they are nearly upon him.

Vasilka: "I was being, as they say, tactful."

"My apologies, Joan."

"I must borrow Henry for a moment."

Marcus Veranius waves to the Baron.

Joan: Joan pulls the blankets up higher around her neck.

Marcus Veranius: "Good morning! Has the week been more peaceful?"

Baron Krezkov: "Oh! Oh, it's you! Gave me a bit of a fright."

"Isn't it glorious?" He points at the sky with the mouth of his pipe.

"Never seen anything like it."

Marcus Veranius: "If the boots squeak then it's not something I made. Dreadfully sorry."

Marcus Veranius looks up. Looks like a normal day.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Give me some time to get properly dressed and I'll be right with you" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: Suppose that'd be unusual in these parts.

Vasilka: "I shall await you in the courtyard. I am collecting the others as well."

Marcus Veranius: ...maybe it's better that Marcus never grew used to the endless shadow. This sunshine day was so much better.

Joan: "I'd better get a proper breakfast going for the troops," says Joan, hastily scarfing down her own breakfast in bed. As he dresses, she kisses Henry's shoulder, mouth full. She chugs tea. "This is incredible. Go, I'll catch up."

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe the most wonderful morning I've seen in ages. Cloud's in perfect arrangement to break up that blue sky canvas. Not too grey, not too bulky. Just perfect."

Baron Krezkov: "It's really something. That... sun."

"I'm going to have to get used to it. Like a big eye in the sky, watching you with love."

"Sorry, I'm getting sentimental. I'm no poet." He wipes his eye with a tear. "Well, you're a man of action. You didn't come here to chat. All you have to do is say the word, and I'll do whatever I can to aid you."

Suldae Westwind: "You're making it sound creepy," Suldae comments, dropping down next to them casually.

(thats about the sun)

Marcus Veranius: "You're going to want a glassblower moved in. Gunna have everyone go blind staring upwards without some proper tinted lenses." Marcus smiles.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hi Suldae!"

Marcus Veranius waves to Suldae as she approaches

Suldae Westwind: "Admittedly there's all sorts of gods watching you, but they can see you regardless of the sun. It's just a giant hearth."

Suldae looks up.

She waves to her friends.

Baron Krezkov: "It's magnificent."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head with a grin pointing at the pile of his weapons, armor and gear in the corner of the room "I think I might take longer getting dressed"

Joan: Joan giggles. "Good point."

Marcus Veranius: "Speaking of artisans, we've in need of one to produce warm clothing. Found a lead on some last minute firepower for the siege but it's in the cold north."

"As fun as it was going up those southern peaks with no coats I'd rather not repeat the experience."

Joan: She dusts her hands off, chews and swallows, and slips out of bed. Then, methodically and expertly, she begins putting armor on Henry.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae hesitates. She feels like something's changed within her; she might not need warm clothing...

...but no. She would still rather dress for the weather.

Baron Krezkov: "Warm clothes? We've got plenty. I'm sure we could find enough to outfit you. Is there anything else you'll want for the journey? The cold north is said to be merciless to life."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry begins fastening all the belts and loops holding his armor together as Joan hands him the pieces. This is definitely something he could get used to.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to think of a joke, but nothing comes to mind. Her brain seems to be stuck in solemn mode for the moment.

Joan: Joan slaps his hands away. "I want to do it."

Baron Krezkov: "Will you be taking your mounts? They'll need warm-weather gear as well."

Marcus Veranius considers

Baron Krezkov: "They're lovely creatures, but they're not cold-weather beasts."

Marcus Veranius: Did... did the party HAVE any mounts?

GM: (I swear you had like eight black horses or something)

(And Henry has his summon)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is a bird wearing a Disguise Self spell. He just flies)

Suldae Westwind: (YES)

(WE HAD BOUGHT HORSES)

(WELL MORE LIKE RENTED THEM)

(RIGHT BEFORE WE GOT THE FLYING VEHICLE)

(We got to Baba Lysaga's on them)

(they are super cool mega excellent extra expensive warhorses)

GM: (Yes, and IIRC you have to bring them back alive to their master when you're done with them)

(You bought them in Vallaki I'm pretty sure)

Suldae Westwind: (yes we did)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry quirks an eyebrow at that "Sure but then what should I do with my hands then..." He grins at her and winks Marcus Veranius: "...it might be best if they traveled with the army to Vallaki." Marcus considers. If not worrying for Strahd's ambush then the wizard's own traps.

Baron Krezkov: "You may even want skis, or a dogsled. I could provide both. Bringing the horses into the Deep Snow may not be wise, come to think of it."

Joan: "Oh, use your imagination!"

Marcus Veranius: "I can get us through the snows without a loss of movement. Fixed attachments to boots will be sufficient."

"Worst case, we found something in the Amber Temple that can carry some of us in case of injury."

"All we need is to not die of frostbite while we're there."

Baron Krezkov: "Very good. As to the army... I've spoken with the leader of the revenants."

"He agrees with me that any movement of our war effort can only be made once. We cannot afford to be battered back or to retreat. We have too few soldiers as it stands."

"We have decided to wait until you you can lead us into battle. The revenants have agreed to wait as long as you deem necessary."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But I told Vasilika I'd be there soon..." Henry pouts pulling Joan in for a quick kiss "and what I'm imagining is anything but quick" he almost purrs in her ear

Joan: "Later, later, you dirty boy."

She kisses him on the cheek. "Now go. Save the world."

"Or meet a wizard. Or something. Whatever it is you're doing today."

"I'm going to go see about breakfast."

Marcus Veranius: Quite unfortunate. Not that Marcus was expecting much from Vallaki after their dealings with the various murderers. But still disappointing to hear.

"The only concern I yet have leading a march is that there is a particular outpost between us and Castle Ravenloft. It may prove troublesome if not dispatched before the army passes by."

Baron Krezkov: "What's it called?"

Marcus Veranius: "The Bonegrinder."

Baron Krezkov: "I've heard of that. The windmill, where the hags grind Vallakian children's bones to powder for their dream-cakes."

Marcus Veranius blinks

Suldae Westwind: "They - what?"

Marcus Veranius checks his ledger

Baron Krezkov: "If the legends are true, then yes, that could become a problem."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smiles as they separate to go about their businesses subtly adjusting his armor 'We'll have to work on that' he thinks to himself not even trying to hide his massive grin as he walks into the courtyard

Marcus Veranius blinks again

Suldae Westwind: "How many children does Vallaki have?"

Marcus Veranius: "At this point, a depressingly small amount."

Baron Krezkov: "But I believe it would be better for your group to handle it with an army at your back."

Vasilka: Vasilka greets Henry. "They await us in the main hall. Rictavio, it seems, was hungry."

Marcus Veranius: "...I don't want to consider what a coven of witches could do to a marching army. The one we've dealt with in the past had enough alchemist fire to evaporate the northern lake."
"Which is impressive because we tried and failed to do that once."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "After you then" Henry says

Baron Krezkov: The Baron scoffs. "And you'd rather face them without an army?"
"An army of unkillable undead?"

Marcus Veranius frowns.

Marcus Veranius: "Fewer caught in the blast zone of their explosives."

"As seemingly invulnerable as the Revenants are, they take time to be ready again after a deathblow in battle. Time we cannot sacrifice once our army marches."

Ireena Kolyana: "Good morning Henry!"

Marcus Veranius: "For all intents and purposes they're as good as one death and done. At least for our siege."

Rictavio: "You've been letting the cook sleep in, Henry! We're starving! Reduced to Ismark's dismal cooking!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Ismark's cooking is delightful."
Kasimir delicately eats a piece of scrambled egg.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "'sup."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Morning" Henry says pulling up a chair and flipping Rictavio off in the same motion

Baron Krezkov: "Hmm... That's troublesome."

"Still, perhaps you're right."

"In that case, it may be better to face the hags with a smaller infiltration group."

"One imagines they will, by now, have been preparing for your eventual arrival. Word of you has spread wide across the land."

Marcus Veranius: "If we are quiet enough in our approach, we may even be able to seize additional munitions for our march."

"Still got a few jars of fire stashed away somewhere."

Baron Krezkov: The Baron's eyebrow raised slightly. "Alchemist's fire?"

"Ingenious."

Marcus Veranius nods

Marcus Veranius: "Lacking a proper catapult, we'll likely need the Golem to lob them into position."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "If we are facing a coven of hags, we'll have a better chance of survival after we meet our contact up north."

"So maybe waiting is a good idea. We make our contact. We handle the bonegrinder. Then we return to Krezk and beat the drums of war."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods to Ezmerelda's words.

Marcus Veranius: "We may even catch Strahd by surprise if we sync the march with an ambush on the Bonegrinder. Although at this point, I doubt Strahd would be truly surprised by anything we do."

Baron Krezkov: "Anyway. You'll want to keep your strategies close to your chest. I understand that, especially these days. It's best to keep any major plans to the inner circle, if Rahadin is on the prowl."

"I'll set about getting warm clothing for you. If you think of other supplies you need, send word."

Vasilka: (At the Abbey): Vasilka says calmly: "Greetings. I have gathered you all to tell you that the Lair of the Mad Mage of Mount Baratok has been found. Marcus and Ezmerelda have already been informed of this, and have gone to get warm clothing and supplies."

Suldae Westwind: "Rahadin is doing... something," Suldae said, her eyes half closed. She hadn't seen him since that evening, and she wondered what he was up to. There was no doubt in her as to Correllon's word, but that was no guarantee of mortal inventiveness.

*for

Marcus Veranius: "You mentioned cold weather supplies for our group's animal companions? I've got a pet bird for scouting that could use something to keep its wings warm."

Vasilka: "I suggest you prepare yourselves however you can. Where you are going is hostile to life, and the Mad Mage is a being of truly incredible power. He will be more dangerous than ever."

Baron Krezkov: "I suppose there might be sleeping hoods and things that would be relatively warm. But I don't think there's anything I can have made for you that will warm your bird without weighing him down too much to fly."

Marcus Veranius: "Quite unfortunate."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "We'll be carefull" Henry says

 Suldae Westwind: "Magic's still a thing," Suldae comments.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't really have anything I could prepare"

GM: (Timeskip to "Ok, portal's open, let's step onto the mountain in our warm clothes." Y/N?)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Y)

 Liliet (Suldae): (Y)

GM: (Marcus?)

 Marcus Veranius: (Y)

The portal opens with a roar of icy wind. Through it you see a towering slope of smooth, glossy snow. Grey clouds move swiftly overhead, scudding on frostbitten winds. Snowflakes fall, fat and lazy.

 Vasilka: "Fare thee well, my friends!"

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, wrapped in a cloak and hood of wolf-fur, shares a look with Suldae.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (And dinner is ready---)

 Liliet (Suldae): Suldae smiles at her in excitement. A new place to go!
Admittedly it's still within Barovia. But!

 Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir and Ismark approach the portal side-by-side. Hand-in-hand, they step through onto the snow.

 Marcus Veranius: Oh gods, it was already frigid without stepping through! Why couldn't the mad mage have gone into exile in a sunny beachside cabin?

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls his cloak tight and steps through the portal.

 Marcus Veranius wanders through begrudgingly

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'll be afk for a bit)

 Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda runs to catch up to Marcus.

 Rictavio: Rictavio sighs deeply, resolutely. He steps in.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's expression is not so much one of excitement as one of nervousness, but seeing the light in Suldae's eyes seems to banish her fear.

The party enters the portal. With a pop of thunder, the portal shuts behind them.

They stand now on the slope of a mighty mountain. They are below the clouds, not near the peak. Even so, they cannot see the world below for the falling snow.

Though it is not yet noon, the blizzard turns the world to night.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out her flute and begins playing again, clearing space for everyone to breathe as she leads snowflakes in an intricate dance.

It is the flute's power, not her understanding, that allows that, but what does that matter when the tune is merry?

Visibility increases as the area around the party clears. Before you in the darkness and the falling snow, you now see the red glow of a square of light, crossed through with bars of darkness.

Ireena Kolyana: "That looks like... A window."

Ireena looks at Suldae. She marches closer to the light.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes with her.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir steps forward. "Wait! It may be a trap."

"We must examine this apparition carefully."

Ireena Kolyana: "We can't even see it yet."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stops obediently.

She's still playing.

Kasimir Velikov:

23

27

ARCANA (8)

"Impossible..."

He stares for a moment or two.

Marcus Veranius: Hmm. A paranoid wizard likely preparing for the worst of Strahd's ambushes. Probably plenty of traps against intrusion.

Kasimir Velikov: He turns to the party. "It's safe to approach."

Kasimir Velikov approaches the strange light.

Ismark Kolyanovich follows.

Marcus Veranius follows behind. The best thing to do is the opposite of what Strahd might do.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes at the front.

As the falling snow clears away, you find yourselves standing before a red wooden door. It stands upright in the snow, attached to nothing. Ornate carving-work decorates the frame. At the top of the door is a four-paneled window, from which pours the balmy light.

Ireena Kolyana: "Is that...?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Mordenkainen's Magnificent Mansion," says Kasimir.

"Even I have only ever heard of it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes into the flute, injecting her wonder at the... well, the wonder, into the melody.

Ireena Kolyana: "Do we open it?"

Suldae Westwind: A safe house in the blizzard; an unexpected marvelous encounter.

Kasimir Velikov: "As far as I can tell, the door bears no arcane booby trap."

"It may, however, bear a mechanical one."

Marcus Veranius: "I've heard of minimalist house designs but this is a bit much for me."

Suldae Westwind: "Knock," Suldae suggests in a short pause in between beats.

"Let's be polite, please?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Who wants to do the honors?"

"Actually, you know what, it makes the most sense if it's me."

"Just in case there is something. Strahd has manners. Sort of. He can't enter a dwelling without permission, after all."

Ismark approaches the door and raises his fist to knock.

The door creaks inward.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Marcus Veranius walks inside without a formal invitation. This proves he is not a vampire, and hopes that might be sufficient for calming a paranoid wizard

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waits outside for everyone to come in, as she's still providing the whole "breathing without choking on snow" and "not having your eyes blocked by spontaneously forming snowballs" thing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: back let me read the backlog real quick

(okay back for real) Henry looks at the door then the surrounding snow then the door again "Atleast it'll be a warm ambush if any" He says stepping into the mansion

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares after him, unsettled. It's not that cold... is it?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so what's inside?)

GM: (One sec)

Suldae Westwind: (also have the NPCs entered)

Rictavio, Ireena, Ezmerelda, Kasimir, and Ismark enter as well, passing by Suldae. The first room is a grand foyer, tastefully decorated. The architecture is gothic: heavy and overdone. Tall spiraling pillars reach to the ceiling, where four stone dragons glare down, their eyes flickering in the torchlight. Curiously, from this side, the door is actually just one half of a set of double doors. Ahead, another set of double doors bars your passage to the rest of the mansion.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at the dragons adoringly as she enters after the others. No such thing as overdone if you ask her.

im sorry what are we seeing beyond the doors

Oops

Marcus Veranius stares at Ezmerelda

GM: (Not sure what's producing that light)

Marcus Veranius: "What are the chances we can glue something like this onto a wagon for a portable workshop?"

Suldae Westwind: (well whatever it was it is no longer doing that)

Suldae lowers her flute, although she is still keeping it at the ready.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I, uh..."

Ezmerelda swallows.

"I don't know if I will ever be able to cast something like this."

Suldae Westwind: "Not with that attitude," Suldae mutters under her breath.

She nudges Ireena in the shoulder.

Marcus Veranius considers

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena laughs.

Marcus Veranius: "Ah well, just the wagon would work."

Ireena Kolyana: "I am determined to one day be able to cast something like this."

"So I'll help you out, Marcus."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around for a moment "Anyone home?" He calls out loudly

He hears, briefly, the sound of ten thousand screams. Then the doors on the far side of the chamber open. Between them stands Rahadin, dressed in fine green robes. He seems younger and fresher than you have ever seen him.

Rahadin: "Good evening. Do you have your invitations?"

Marcus Veranius looks just behind Younger Rahadin and stares wide

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns a deadpan look to the party "Please someone tell me that's the real one?"

Marcus Veranius: "No... it couldn't be..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae narrows her eyes as she casts about for the trick.

28

31

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae realizes that this is a variant of the "invisible servant" spell. In this case, the servant is visible, and it has taken the form of a much younger version of Rahadin—complete with harmless psychic screams. It is like a memory made solid.

Rahadin: "I beg your pardon?"

"The real one?"

"I assure you, I am very real."

"Now, do you have your invitations?"

"I'm afraid I shall be forced to toss you out on your ears, if you don't."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir sends a brief Message to all of you. "We had better come up with something. He has the power to do it. We are guests in this plane."

Marcus Veranius stares at the figures behind Rahadin and gets an idea.

Marcus Veranius: "We need no invitation, for we are the companions of your guests already inside!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Right of cause our invitations to ...the thing...to which we were invited ...Suldae did you pack them?" Henry says ignoring Marcus Suldae Westwind: "I'm pretty sure the door opening for us means we were invited," Suldae suggests.

Marcus Veranius: "This here is Ismark, a revenant under Vladimir Horngaard over there! Both of the silver dragon!"

Rictavio: "Revenant? Excuse me?"

GM: (Whoops, ignore that)

Rahadin: "Revenant? Excuse me?"

Rahadin looks at Vladimir Horngaard, young living human warrior, and raises a finely arched eyebrow.

He looks at Ismark. "Yes, your friend does stink of undeath."

"However, I do not see what that has to do with your invitation."

Marcus Veranius: "Invitations usually allow a Plus One. The guests of your guests. And we are of relation to all the guests in the room."

Madam Eva: "These fine folk are with me," says Madam Eva, stepping into view. "You let them be, young man."

Marcus Veranius: ...just like that! Conveniently enough

Suldae Westwind: (is that the fortune teller?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind: "Thank you, and hello," Suldae smiles at her in relief, recognizing the woman.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the new arrival and asks in a whisper "Who's that?"

Suldae Westwind: She checks anyway,

29

27

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (brb)

Rahadin: Rahadin looks at Madam Eva, and shrugs. "It's on you if they misbehave. The master will be most displeased if the occasion is ruined."

Madam Eva: "I can vouch for them." Madam Eva winks at Suldae.

Suldae recognizes that this is the genuine article—not an illusion. The real Madam Eva is here, in the flesh.

Suldae Westwind: "It is good to see you," Suldae says with full sincerity.

There's admittedly the awkward matter - that awkward matter, with the tiger and other Vistani, which Suldae would rather not think of, but even with that for their group to account for, she's glad to see the fortune teller.

Marcus Veranius nods, not yet realizing this was the genuine article. The phantom fortune teller must have read into the future and predicted their arrival here!

Madam Eva: "You'll want to come with me," says Madam Eva, in a tone that says: "Please please please please listen to me."

"This way, I think. Into the dining room."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns to the others and nods, trying to catch everyone's eye as she does.

Inside the chamber, Ireena leans against a pillar, flanked by two pale and beautiful men. No—no, it is not Ireena. It's someone else, someone with the same face, the same hair, the same eyes. She wears a blue gown of incredible opulence.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae clutches the real Ireena's hand tightly.

Here, she's here, both of them are here.

You recognize one of the pale and beautiful men, but only barely. He is younger than you have ever seen him, and his curse has not yet claimed him. Alive and in the flesh, young Strahd Von Zarovich is an undeniably handsome fellow. Even now, however, there is a glitter of murder in his cold black eyes.

Suldae Westwind: This is illusions, memories brought to life for some reason. They're both alive, and here.

The Abbot: "Ah, another clutch of trespassers! More refugees to serve! How delightful!"

Suldae Westwind: Stil, Suldae tries to take in every detail she can. She expects the reproduction to be at least somewhat faithful.

Vladimir Horngaard: "Any of you cause trouble, and you'll be answering to me."

Patrina Velikovna: "Kasimir?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae inclines her head to the man.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir averts his eyes furiously and sprints from the room, heading south, in the general direction Madam Eva was leading.

Marcus Veranius follows behind the phantom fortune teller without question. He didn't quite enjoy being in a room with the dead after so many hard-fought battles to remain living.

Marcus Veranius: That he could recognize most of the individuals in the chamber gave little comfort.

Suldae Westwind: (where should we be

)

Madam Eva leads the way to a set of doors at the end of a short hall. She unlocks them with a key, then slips through and holds the door.

Madam Eva: "Quickly, quickly!"

"Don't draw their attention!"

Marcus Veranius: (The tokens are so small I can barely recognise anyone)

GM: (Ignore the tokens, the map was for shock value)

Suldae Westwind: (we're all coming right)

GM: (One assumes)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yes)

Three enormous crystal chandeliers brilliantly illuminate this magnificent chamber. Pillars of stone stand against dull white marble walls, supporting the ceiling. In the center of the room, a long, heavy table is covered with a fine white satin cloth. The table is laden with many delectable foods: roasted beast basted in a savory sauce, roots and herbs of every taste, and sweet fruits and vegetables. Places are set with fine, delicate china and silver. At each place is a crystal goblet filled with an amber liquid with a delicate, tantalizing fragrance.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows still confused by this whole situation muttering something very unkind about the nature of magic

At the center of the far west wall, between floor-to-ceiling mirrors, there stands a massive organ. Its pipes blare out a thunderous melody that speaks in its tone of greatness and despair. Seated at the organ, facing away from you, a single caped figure pounds the keys in raptured ecstasy.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sympathizes, elven/wereraven hearing being what it is.

There are several Vistani refugees here. They look thin and haggard, and there are bags under their eyes.

Come to think of it, under Madam Eva's heavy makeup, her eyes look tired too.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooooo" Henry begins after everyone of them has entered the room "The fuck was that?"

Madam Eva: "You will have to forgive the... State of things. This is the only chamber we have found peace in."

"We have had to make do."

Suldae Westwind: "Those were all illusions," Suldae says, expecting confirmation.

Madam Eva: "Yes," says Madam Eva.

"However, the demiplane is quite powerful. You would be surprised what an illusion can do, in here."

"He's mad. He's absolutely mad."

Suldae Westwind: "...Wasn't doubting that. Just, any coherent reason why? - oh, that'd do."

Madam Eva: "And his magic gets madder by the day..."

Suldae Westwind: "...any way we could help?"

Suldae fingers her flute. Magic of music is particularly powerful at getting through to people.

Madam Eva: "I don't know. He doesn't speak to me anymore."

"He won't let us sleep. He won't let us leave."

Marcus Veranius: "...wait, you aren't an illusion?" Marcus stares dumbfoundedly

Madam Eva: "He plays the organ for hours upon hours..."

Suldae Westwind: "Nobody here," Suldae confirms.

(is there a token for that guy on the map)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "What was that scene he's making the illusions play out?" HENry asks Suldae Westwind: "Is that even a real scene? I don't think all of those people would have met at the same time, would they?"

Madam Eva: "I don't know. I think, in his way, he's trying to figure out what happened."

Suldae Westwind: Kasimir's sister sticks out to her, in particular.

Madam Eva: "He's trying to understand the curse."

"He has the pieces and the parts, but he does not know how they fit together."

Suldae Westwind: "...Well, we have some knowledge about what happened."

"Perhaps we could help?"

Madam Eva: "He has forced me to lay out the cards a hundred times..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae eyes Marcus's sword.

Madam Eva: "Please. You have to help us. We are all exhausted."

Marcus Veranius takes Madam Eva's hand.

Marcus Veranius: "Remember back at the camp when we first met? You told us a story and said we would meet again."

"It is only fair we tell a story if it breaks this mansion's madness."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well" Henry says taking in the room once more "I think Introductions are in order"

Madam Eva: "Be careful!"

"There's no telling how he'll react. Some days he's just a beast."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae begins playing to set the stage. Just some background music - calm, with a little build up - something epic is about to happen, but the expectation is that it will be peaceful. Just magnificent.

She weaves her tune with the sound of the organ.

Marcus Veranius hold up his hand towards Suldae

Marcus Veranius: "Not quite yet. I have an idea."

Suldae Westwind: It almost seems to be background music to her melody now.

She pauses.

Marcus Veranius: "Simply telling the story won't do. The mage does not seem in a position to listen."

Marcus Veranius motions to the organ player

Marcus Veranius: "What I DO know is that he's set up a number of actors in the main chamber trying to piece together what has happened."

"But the wizard didn't learn the truth of Barovia. He built up an army of peasants and stormed the castle, then got flung off."

Suldae Westwind: "...You propose interfering with that?" Suldae bites her lip, lowering the flute. "Are you sure that's what we should do without trying easier means first?"

Marcus Veranius tosses Suldae the Hat of Disguise

Marcus Veranius: "I suggest we become actors in his own play and fill in the missing details."

"Then he can come to the conclusion on his own."

Suldae Westwind: "...I don't want to be a part to that," Suldae admits as she looks at it uneasily. "Ireena?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't think that will work if he has no reason to believe us"

Suldae Westwind: She doesn't want Ireena to be a part to that either, truth be told, but she will make her own decision.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena thinks for a moment or two.

"I don't want to feed his madness in any way."

"But if he learns what happened—if he understands—maybe it will cure him?"

Marcus Veranius: "He's not the one we need to convince. His actors seem to be created as they were."

Ireena Kolyana: "But I agree—easier methods first, maybe."

Marcus Veranius: "If they are true replicas then we simply need make them do as they did in history."

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't necessarily want to re-enact my own murder."

Kasimir Velikov: "And I, for one, want nothing to do with the illusion of Patrina."

"She should not even be here—it makes no sense."

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah, that," Suldae says anxiously. She doesn't miss Ireena saying "my own" but that's something else; right now... "We have someone here who literally was present for the events."

She looks at the sword meaningfully again.

Marcus Veranius shakes his head

Suldae Westwind: "There's little to lose by trying to introduce them, is there?"

Marcus Veranius: "Three hundred years ago the wizard made his failed attack on the castle."

"The abbot would have been here."

"Horngaard may have made his siege around the same time."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns "Excuse, I'll go do something possibly reckless" he says approaching the Organist

Marcus Veranius: "Rahadin is an old elf. It's within his lifespan."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows Henry.

She's ready to protect him should need arise.

Marcus Veranius: "All these people were around when the wizard... wait what are you doing."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry waits for a pause in the playing however brief and begins applauding once he finds one still calmly approaching

Better to not even give the illusion of sneaking up on him him

Suldae Westwind: Suldae begins the background music again.

Perhaps it can fit with his madness to understand the events better if music explains them as they happen.

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage plays without ceasing for several long minutes. Then, there is the briefest of pauses as he turns an invisible page. He wipes some sweat off his brow, glances at Henry applauding, and smiles broadly.

"Why, thank you! It's not many appreciate the works of Mordvodezdovus."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It is rarely performed quite this expertly" Henry says

The Mad Mage is a tiny man in oversized ornate robes. His bald head gleams in the candlelight and his white beard is thick with curling ringlets. His eyes are kindly, magnified by thick round spectacles.

He pushes up his sleeves.

The Mad Mage: "Perhaps you'd like some more? This next one is short—just three hours and twenty-eight minutes, if I get the timing right."

He giggles. "Tricky with all these pedals."

He hiccups and shrinks by two inches at the same time.

"Well, that's me out of time for the pedals. Unless someone here knows how to play them?"

"Oh, ticky boo. Rahadin will know how to do it. He's ever so useful."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is still playing, and considers the mage's lack of reaction to her to be proof of concept - she's just setting the stage, she might as well not be there.

The Mad Mage: "I say," says the Mad Mage. "What is that delightful music?"

"Reminds me of the elves."

Marcus Veranius: Rahadin, Rahadin, Rahadin! Why does the mage consider Rahadin to be his servant!?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shoots a glance at Marcus.

The Mad Mage: "One must get in the mind of one's victim, if one wants to succeed in deicide."

Suldae Westwind: Enter the head shenanigan-er, please.

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage wags one finger in the air.

"I had him. I had him dead to rights. Blasted him: dead to ashes! Dead to ashes!"

"And what does he do?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is made slightly uneasy by mention of deicide. Close to home, these days.

The Mad Mage: He slams the keys. The organ groans and screams.

"HE! COMES! BACK!" He punctuates each word with a slam on the keys.

"Not even a full twenty-four hours does he give me to recover."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How vexxing that must have been" Henry says airily

The Mad Mage: "Bloody fucking curse!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae certainly hopes someone is about to start explaining things to the guy, considering he seems to be listening.

The Mad Mage: He points sharply at Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Someone being Marcus.
Specifically.

The Mad Mage: "You."

"Play."

Suldae Westwind: She raises her eyebrow.

She is playing,.

She nods, still.

The Mad Mage: "Play me... Wind on the Mountain Brooks."

"You know that one. Your aunt used to hum it."

Suldae Westwind: (does Suldae know this aunt)

The Mad Mage: "Pieces! Bits and pieces! Bits and bits and itty bitty pieces."

Suldae Westwind: (also does she know this song)

GM: (Yes, it's a factual statement)

Suldae Westwind: (i love open-ended backstory)

GM: (She knows the song, she knows the aunt in question)

Suldae Westwind: (give me a minute to figure out)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Quite the demanding host, not even leaving time for introductions" Henry says

The Mad Mage: "She's on her way, you know," says the Mad Mage, looking up at Henry as he waits for the song to begin.

"She'll be there waiting for you. She went searching, when you disappeared."

Suldae Westwind: (aha gotcha)

Gretchen Westwind, her father's younger sister, never having the midn for finances or organization, ever focused on her crafts and hobbies - but oh, how wonderfully she played.

Suldae puts off questioning how the guy knows this, and plays.

The Mad Mage: "I'm me," says the Mad Mage. "You're you. Names are a waste of precious, precious sound."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's face remains a pleasant mask as he speaks "How vexing it must be to know so much yet being unable to figure out the Nature of Strahd's curse"

The Mad Mage: His fingers take the keys as if of their own accord, and with perfect timing they begin to play harmony to Suldae's song.

"Indeed," says the Mad Mage, serenely. "My greatest tragedy. The genius, the master, the wizard supreme! A puzzle he can't solve... So he goes mad."

"Oh, woe is he. I pity him."

"None shall ever solve it now, I'm afraid."

"You've come, I suppose, to haunt me? Taunt me?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glares daggers at Marcus.

Marcus Veranius looks blank-faced at Suldae, not understanding what he did wrong

Suldae Westwind: He's still being quiet is what. And so's Sergei.

Marcus Veranius coughs

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hmm I suppose giving the answer to your question could be considered taunting if one were caught in the trappings of one's ego"

Marcus Veranius: "Madness is entirely logical. Suppose one is made to solve a puzzle without holding all the pieces. What other answer is there than to go mad?"

The Mad Mage: "Ego? Ego? I will have you know that the Grand Wizard was the humblest of all personages. Why, he was good friends with many peasants!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces at that one so hard, it's nearly audible in the music.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry almost laughs at the irony that was delivered with such a straight face but manages not to

The Mad Mage: "Logical, you say. Logical?"

"I think, my friend, you might not be mad."

Suldae Westwind: That seems an inaccurate observation!

The Mad Mage: "Puzzles, pieces, bits and pieces. Bricks and cheeses."

"Mash the pieces into a fine paste, add water. Stir. Bake at seven thousand degrees for two minutes. Curse solved!"

"When it's ready, when it's ready."

"Takes so much time, putting it all together, you know!"

Suddenly he leans towards Marcus, putting a finger to his lips conspiratorially. The organ continues to play itself without him.

"Shhhh! Can't let him hear that. Can't let him know. If I know what I'm doing, I'll have to stop!"

The Mad Mage: "And I mustn't stop. Mustn't ever stop."

Marcus Veranius quietly nods

The Mad Mage: "Nearly there. Nearly there. Waning like the moon, but I'll make it."

Marcus Veranius: "Alas, the cake does not rise without the yeast. Bound to make brownies at this rate."

"I'll check the cupboard. You continue stirring."

The Mad Mage: "What's that? What's that? Yeast? I haven't added yeast, you say?"

"The yeast comes from the air, my friend. We're making sourdough."

"At least, that's what the old wives tell me."

Marcus Veranius: "Darn the family recipes. Why does no one ever share the instructions?"

The Mad Mage: "You there," he says, pointing sharply at Suldae. "Stop playing."

"Your voice. I must have it."

"I simply must have it."

Suldae Westwind: She complies.

"You have it if you wish," she says.

The Mad Mage: "Ah, I knew it. I sensed it!"

"Heard your harmonies when you walked through the mists."

Suldae Westwind: What the fuck else has he sensed.

The Mad Mage: "Correllon's thread rings true in you..."

"Beware the fickleness of gods."

Suldae Westwind: "I've noticed," Suldae says. "Did you know Raven Queen was Strahd's mother?"

Mincing words is for courtiers. They're here for business.

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage turns around completely.

"Goodness, there are a lot of you."

"Have you been here long? And you've not been served dinner yet?"

"Raven... Queen?"

"The Raven Queen..."

He stares into space. Something burns suddenly in his pupils—a white star.

The Mad Mage: He looks at Suldae and there is a clarity on his face that he has not had before now. Gone is the jollity, gone is the mirth. Now a stern and serious man sits here, wreathed in power, ancient and wise and full of pride.

In the brief moment of clarity, he says: "I see."

Suldae Westwind: "She stole the mantle of another god," Suldae says. "We've torn her away from it, and she's gone now. With her, so should be most of the curse."

The Mad Mage: Then he turns to Madam Eva, giggles like a schoolgirl, and pleads: "Read the cards for me, mommy! Read the cards for me, will you?"

Suldae Westwind: "She was the one who'd given her son power."

"You do not need her cards."

Marcus Veranius shoves the Hat of Disguise into Henry's hands and whispers. "Words alone wont solve this. I need backup. Can you disguise yourself as the lich?"

Suldae Westwind: "We have the story."

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

The Mad Mage: "Baby wants cards!"

"Pretty pictures for the story!"

Suldae Westwind:

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

"Listen," Suldae orders him, Correllon's authority reverberating in her words.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the hat now in his hands frowning

The Mad Mage:

WISDOM
The Mad Mage

Ability: 13 | 13

Marcus Veranius: "Please. Only madness can fight back madness." He continues to whisper

Suldae Westwind: "Do not harass your guests. Your manners are better than that. We are here to answer your questions. Ask them."

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage listens dutifully.

Then he laughs, and says: "No."

Suldae Westwind: "Why?"

The Mad Mage: "Is one polite to the figures of a dream?"

"Well, I often am. So I suppose you're right!"

"It could be fun to have a proper feast."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "

The Mad Mage: He claps his hands firmly. Thunder rolls through the chamber. Suddenly, the feast vanishes. A moment later, it reappears—even grander than before.

"Madam Eva, the cards; if you feel up to it."

Madam Eva: "I don't think we should," says Madam Eva.

"Things are complex enough as it is. It will only make things harder."

Suldae Westwind: "Leave her alone," Suldae requests, Correllon's power pushing her words into the mage's consciousness.

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Suldae Westwind:

Suggestion

2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't performed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage pouts.

This spell, curiously, bounces right off the Mad Mage's mind. Suldae senses that some kind of spell upon his mind deflected it.

The Mad Mage: "Oh, come on! I'm asking nicely."

"I have to know. I have to see the pieces. I need the clutter out!"

Suldae Westwind: "Have you counted how many times you asked already?"

The Mad Mage: "Everything is so much a mess..."

Suldae Westwind: "I can give you cards, if you wish," Suldae says and throws her arm out towards the table.

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Suldae Westwind:

Major Image

Illusion 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: A spot that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A bit of fleece)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You create the image of an object, a creature, or some other visible phenomenon that is no larger than a 20-foot cube. The image appears at a spot that you can see within range and lasts for the duration. It seems completely real, including sounds, smells, and temperature appropriate to the thing depicted. You can't create sufficient heat or cold to cause damage, a sound loud enough to deal thunder damage or deafen a creature, or a smell that might sicken a creature (like a troglodyte's stench). As long as you are within range of the illusion, you can use your action to cause the image to move to any other spot within range. As the image changes location, you can alter its appearance so that its movements appear natural for the image. For example, if you create an image of a creature and move it, you can alter the image so that it appears to be walking. Similarly, you can cause the illusion to make different sounds at different times, even making it carry on a conversation, for example. Physical interaction with the image reveals it to be an illusion, because things can pass through it. A creature that uses its action to examine the image can determine that it is an illusion with a successful Intelligence (Investigation) check against your spell save DC. If a creature discerns the illusion for what it is, the creature can see through the image, and its other sensory qualities become faint to the creature.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, the spell lasts until dispelled, without requiring your Concentration.

(does this work for cards Suldae can customize as she likes and "move")

GM: (Yes)

Suldae Westwind: (excellent)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry considers what he can actually do here

Marcus Veranius continues to eyebrow waggle at Henry

Suldae Westwind: A deck of card appears and spreads itself on the table. The card images feature the people in his ballroom.

The Mad Mage: "Ohhh..."

"Pretty. Finely worked illusion, my friend."

"Go on, then. Give me the reading."

"Please?"

"Please please pretty pretty please?"

Suldae Westwind: "I will."

"Sergei," she says, looking at Marcus's sword still. "Will you help me tell the story?"

(not "still", "directly")

(sometimes a typo is a word)

Sergei: (Silently, to Marcus only): Should I?

GM: (He's still Marcus's sword, at the end of the day)

Marcus Veranius: [I'm not going to be able to tell the story myself without a second actor to talk to. Might as well see if it works.]

Suldae Westwind: For a start, Suldae arranges the cards to show who's who: the Raven Queen who had been a mortal, her sons, the woman unfortunate to have the interest of both, other actors scattered around in accordance with their relationships at the start.

As far as Suldae knows, anyway, relying on Marcus and Sergei to correct any inaccuracies.

Sergei: Alright then.

"I'll help."

The Mad Mage: "You should all help! It will be lovely!"

"Wait, what are we doing again?"

Suldae Westwind: "Strahd's story," Suldae reminds him.

"You asked for a show; watch now."

Marcus Veranius places the sunsword down on the table, then leaves the Hat of Disguise on a chair for anyone to take.

Marcus Veranius snaps his fingers and alters the Disguise Spell he had cast upon himself, taking the appearance of a familiar figure.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes but ignores him.

The Hat of Disguise whisks across the table and lands on the hilt of the Sunsword, which rises suddenly from the table, tilting up to balance on its tip.

Suldae Westwind: She's waiting for someone to begin narrating.

There is a flash.

Afterwards, a handsome young man sits on the edge of the table.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sits down abruptly.

"Queen Ravenovia": Now THIS will work

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grasps her hand, which she can do because the cards are just an illusion and she doesn't manipulate them with her hands.

"Queen Ravenovia": "My dearest son, Sergei. Have you heard progress of the construction of my Amber Temple?"

"Queen Ravenovia" speaks, attempting to re-enact history as a visual demonstration

Sergei Von Zarovich looks at Suldae. "The position of the cards looks right." He looks at Marcus.
"Why yes, mother, I—"

Sergei: "Wait, that's not how it happened."

"The Queen didn't build the Amber Temple."

The Mad Mage: "The Amber Temple?"

Sergei: : "Suldae, can you just... Just give a quick rundown?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry buries his face in his hands before clearing his throat and begining to tell the take of the Amber temple#

Sergei: "What if he remembers more than he knows? He may just need us to jog his juice."

Henry of Willowsbrook: tell the tale of the Amber Temple

Several minutes later...

Henry of Willowsbrook: He had narrated at the summer plays a couple times so it came easy to him

The Mad Mage: "I see..."

"Yes... That solves the curse."

"Well," says the Mage. "Fascinating."

He shrugs. He eats a piece of chicken.

He hiccups slightly, shrinking another two inches.

"Queen Ravenovia": "Was it not the plan of my most trusted cohort, Tenebrus? He approached me with a most wonderful idea. Seal dead gods within the temple, and leech their power to strengthen the seat of Castle Ravenloft. The crystal heart of our most perfect castle."

Zanshuken: (...the temple was in Barovia before Strahd conquered it for his mother iirc)

Sergei: "No, it was an ancient temple already present there, formed of the ichor of dead gods, guarded by a priesthood of wizards. Tenebrous was the one who convinced my mother—you—to conquer the temple and kill the wizards so that he could use it to turn her into a god."

The Mad Mage: "AMBER TEMPLE!" Shouts the Mad Mage, pointing a finger suddenly. "Yes, yes... Amber Ichorvault..."

"Queen Ravenovia": "Oh, that was it, yes."

Sergei: "So by this point you would be, like, in the thrall of what's his face."

"Tenebro."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry mouths to Suldae to show a miniature Amber Temple with her Magic

A miniature Amber Temple manifests on the table near the cards, perfect in every detail.

Sergei: "I'm seventeen in this scene," Sergei says, to the Mad Mage, as an aside.

"Right. Now you come into my room, and you shout at me that it's six in the morning and I'm supposed to be at the front of the platoon already."

"This is the day we go to conquer the Amber Temple. It's important. It's the first day I meet Tatyana."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a deep breath trying not to imagine the old drow exile that lead the local theater troupe whiiping him and his friends for their haphazard use of the art

"Queen Ravenovia": "And the siege went well, did it not?"

The Mad Mage: "You're skipping ahead. This is before the siege."

Sergei: "Well, we can skip ahead if we want to."

(To Marcus): So we're skipping ahead?

"Queen Ravenovia": (I don't know the details of your love life! I was going to explain the nature of the curse!)

"Queen Ravenovia" mentally sweats

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over to Marcus and whsipers "Want me to tag in?"

"Queen Ravenovia" nods

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the hat from Marcus and Transforms into the Queen

"Queen Ravenovia" points to Sergei, who has the hat

Marcus Veranius changes his own disguise back

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hangs his head 'Sylvanus give me strength and maybe a disguise'

Henry takes a breath before speaking again impersonating what he had heard of the Queen before "Well what are you wating for Sergei? Neither the soldiers nor your Brother have much tolerance for tardiness"

Sergei: "Ooh, that's good. Well, if you must know, I was sleeping in because I didn't want to go."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do I roll for accuracy of the impression?)

GM: (You can roll performance, if you so desire)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8 + 1

PERFORMANCE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(advantage please?)

The Mad Mage: "I must say, you're not a very convincing Queen."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we have props...)

The Mad Mage: "But you'll do, I suppose..."

An illusory crown appears on his head and an illusory raven appears on his shoulder.

The Mad Mage: "That's much better."

Sergei: "This is the part where Tatyana comes in. She comes to tell my mother that it's time to go and the horses are waiting."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You have a duty Sergei" Henry says trying his best to sound like a disappointed mother "Ah see everyone is waiting for you"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena senses the gaze of several people upon her and shakes her head. "Don't look at me."

Rictavio: Rictavio sighs.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He gestures at Rictavio

Rictavio: Putting on his best girlish voice, he comes up beside Henry. "Oh, aye, it's me, Tatyana."
"And I'm here t' tell ya that it's the time to be goin' now, milady, and we'd best be off quick, since those wizards won't wait forever to get murdered."

Marcus Veranius: "It was love at first sight."

The Mad Mage: "No no no no, you're the Monster Hunter long foretold. You can't be the fair and beautiful Tatyana."

"Here, I'll fix this..."

The Mad Mage waves a hand. Rictavio transforms: in an instant, he is Tatyana.

"Much better."

Rictavio: Rictavio takes this placidly, without complaint.

Sergei: "Right. So this is where I fell in love with Tatyana. She was just crackling with power and intelligence and wit and charm."

Rictavio: Tatyana growls suggestively, clawing the air with a hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry says to Marcus in a whisper "MA

Sergei: "And then and there I decided that I had to go to the Amber Temple with the rest, and see that no harm fell upon this mysterious enchantress."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "

Ignore that

Sergei: "Where should we skip to?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (i Keep hitting enter instead of backspace)

"You, Tatyana and Strahd" Henry suggests

Sergei: "Alright."

"I'm Sergei, and I'm in love with you, Tatyana."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pushes Ricyana at Sergei

Rictavio: "Er... Likewise?"

Sergei: "Oh me, oh my, we're so wonderfully happy."

"But then along comes Strahd."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry clears his throat and does his best Strahd impression "Brother, It is I Strahd"

Rictavio: "Oh Strahd, you're so manly, and your chest is so Biiiig!"

"Strahd" swoons

Sergei: "No no no, that's not how it happened. Tati cared nothing for Strahd. She thought he was a pompous tyrant and a monster. But he was the king..."

"And he fell madly in love with her."

"Strahd had always been jealous of me. My carefree life. My spoiled upbringing. My parents' obvious favoritism of their younger, fair-haired son."

"So he wanted to take what was mine. He wanted to destroy what I had."

Rictavio: "Strictly speaking, I object to this kind of speech regarding women. Or people in general! Nobody should own anybody else."

Sergei: "Nevertheless, I had her heart, and she had mine."

Rictavio: "I suppose that's fair enough."

"Oh, Strahd! Stay away from me! I have eyes only for your hotter, younger brother."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But I want her so I decided to do what any Selfrespecting adult would do, I went and complained to my Mother" Henry continues in his Strahd impression

Rictavio: "You may be king, but we have our love!"

Sergei: "Marcus? We need a mother."

"Strahd": "Hang on a second."

The Mad Mage: "Of course! There were two of them!"

"I killed the one, but not the other!"

Sergei: "No, wait, hang on a minute."

"Sort it out, you two. Who's being mom and who's being big brother?"

"Mommy Ravenovia": "It takes a while to cast the spell OK?"

Sergei: "Right. Strahd. You were complaining to mommy."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why does Sergei get to be loved mother" Henry continues "Why doesn't she love me when I have done nothing to make her love me and a lot that repulses her"

Henry might be enjoying this a bit to much

"Mommy Ravenovia": "You are old. But this is not your fault. Time takes us all unless we have the will to take it back."

"When our business in the temple is concluded, you will make a pact to me and I will grant you a portion of my power."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Compensating for the lack of motherly love with promises of eldritch power?" Henry says

"Mommy Ravenovia": "You do not know it, and I will never tell you. But to become a true god I must make a sacrifice of my own. My sons must kill each other."

"And so for the gift of Vampirism, I will have you kill Sergei."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That sounds fair and reasonable" Henry agrees

"Mommy Ravenovia": "My plan will also see that you are made invulnerable. The blood of the temple will keep you alive and immortal. Because I need Sergei to deal the death blow against you."

"For I will turn his spirit into your bane, the sacred Sunsword."

Sergei: "We're getting ahead of ourselves. Let's do the part where he murders me."

"It was a dark and stormy night. We were drinking on the balcony—Tatyana and I."

"Mommy Ravenovia": "Foreshadowing."

Sergei: "Rahadin was there, serving the drinks."

"And Strahd came in."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry speaks again "Rahadin, Tatyana my love how lovely you look this evening Oh Brother you are still here"

Sergei: "He was wild in the eyes, despite his fine manners. There was murder, glinting there. I did not see it."

Sergi: "Poor Tati did, though, and she tried to warn me."

Rictavio: "Pst. Pst. He's got murder in his eyes, don'tcha think?"

Sergei: "Couldn't be. He's just happy to see us."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry mimes for Suldae to give him an ilussionary dagger

An illusory dagger appears in his hand. It is weightless and not solid, but it moves properly as he pretends to manipulate it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry badly hides it behind his back "Sergei my brother I heard you were already planning your wedding"

Sergei: "Indeed we are! And a wonderful wedding it will be."

Rictavio: "Oh, it'll be magnificent. Simply scrumptious."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It might be unusual but I already have a gift for you" Henry says

"Tsundere Rahadin": "I too am excited! Perhaps now my secret love will abandon the foolish girl and realize his true love was with him all along."

Rictavio: "A gift! Oh, Sergei. Isn't that wonderful? How generous of our kind and merciful king who never ever ever murders his subjects or family members!"

Sergei: "Quite, quite. Thank you, brother. Your foresight is commendable."

The Mad Mage: "No! Stop! Stop him! He's going to kill you!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It just occurred to me that essentially what is going on is our characters riffing on the plot of the modul like we normally do outside of the game...boi is this meta)

Sergei: "NO! Don't stop, Henry. He didn't stop."

"His blade fell and I died."

"Tsunami Rahadin": "Fuck."

Sergei: "Without even the chance to defend myself..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "My gift is this Dagger here let me put it in you" Henry says stabbing him

"Tsunami Rahadin": "Goddamn it."

Sergei: "Oh, bollocks! I'm a sword now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: with the illusion dagger

The Hat of Disguise falls off the Sunsword, which falls flat to the table with a rattle.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Tatyana now will you love me after I murdered my brother who you loved with all your heart?"

Rictavio: "Who, me?"

"Over my dead body!"

"Eeeeeee!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Dang it"

Rictavio: Tatyana pantomimes running away.

Sergei: "She ran. She ran through the halls of the palace. She made her way to the tallest tower."

"And there..."

"Tsunami Rahadin": "Strahd my love, I will talk reason into her."

"Tsunami Rahadin" mock shoves tatyana

Rictavio: "Aaaaargh! I am falling and now I am dead!"

Sergei: "She fell to her death. The final link in the curse remained unsealed."

"Or something like that, I forget really."

"At any rate, she died. And Strahd, alone in his grief, killed himself."

"Only to rise again."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh no Why would she kill herself instead of marrying me" Henry says "Wait Guards why are you pointing those arrows at me your King?"

Sergei: "Oh, he didn't kill himself? I always assumed he had."

Ireena Kolyana: "No," says Ireena. "He was killed by his guards."

"Some of them became Revenants."

Sergei: "Fair enough. He was shot to death by his own guards, in his own castle, after murdering his brother and the only woman he had ever loved."

"Or obsessed over, at any rate."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "AH oh no the consequences of my actions led to my death" Henry says Falling to the ground dieing only to get back up "Sike I'm a vampire now and I'm SAD"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena giggles despite herself.

Sergei: "Right. He rose again—an undead, Nosferatu, the Vampyr."

"The Vampire King."

"And his curse fell across the land, binding the Amber Temple and the Castle together."

Rictavio: "Right, Tatyana's dead. I'm going to eat now."

Rictavio shakes off the illusion and moves down a seat or two, and tucks into the feast.

"Tsundere Rahadin": "What luck for me, that my true love came back from the dead!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And If I am sad then so should all of Barovia be miserable all the time because I'm an Immature man child who never learned to deal with rejection" miserable

"Tsundere Rahadin": "Alas, the gods were upset. Pelor, Corallion, everyone sensing the near-ascension of Queen Ravenovia put their power together and cut Barovia off from the world."
"The mists."

The Mad Mage: "The mists...."

"Yes, the mists..."

"Of course... The barrier, soap-bubble skin, between this plane and the Prime..."

"Leaving all Barovia to the dark demigods..."

"Containment, then? Not protection..."

"Encouraging news."

The Mad Mage: "And the mists are gone, now... Yes... They're gone."

"What happens next?"

"Tsundere Rahadin": "What happens next is the pesky soul of that woman came back, trying to steal my love."

The Mad Mage: "Poor Patrina, mad with power... The Silver Dragon's Hall Besieged... The Abbey of the Mad Angel..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry drops his Strahd impression and continues as himself "Tatyana kept being reborn and dieing whenever Strahd tried to make her love him"

The Mad Mage: "How sad!"

"Tsundere Rahadin": "I made it my goal to hunt down every reincarnation, though would never confess this. Only the gods knew."

The Mad Mage: "Poor dear. Poor, poor, poor dear."

"Tsumdere Rahadin": "Patrina was one reincarnation. Perhaps it was my tip that led to her execution. Perhaps the dark gods had a sense of humor. She yet died, and I was made to punish the elves for their folly."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Because the Queens bargain was yet unfulfilled" Henry says "But after Tatyana had once again been reborn something changed a group of unfourtunate but talented poor souls ended up in Barovia and meet her current incarnation befroe Strahd did" before

The Mad Mage: "Ooooooh," says the Mad Mage. "My party!"

"Yes, I remember. The mayor's daughter, in the swamp-lands..."

"Looked just like you!" says the Mad Mage, twinkling at Ireena.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well yes but actually no" Henry continues

The Mad Mage: "I see," says the Mad Mage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Because even your ---peerles intelect and Magical prowess weren't enough to break the Queens curse" Henry says "Not because of weakness no you simply weren't attacking the right part of the curse, the Demi-God Queen herself"

The Mad Mage: "THE QUEEN!" Shouts the Mad Mage, pointing suddenly, eyes wide.

"Yes, yes, I see it now."

"What happens next? What happens next?"

"Tsumdere Rahadin": "You did make a fine effort, but I had ordered the Sunsword destroyed. For without it, none would kill Strahd."

"Mommy Raven Queen": "I of course needed the sword in-tact, so I had it whisked away to my temple. The handle anyways."

"Only one truly capable of slaying Strahd would find it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "An entrapped band of a runaway farmer, a vengeful shoemaker, an amazing bard, an elven archmage, two seasoned veteran monster hunters and the current incarnation of Tatyana and her brother found it in the temple and learned the truth of the Curse of Strahd" Henry says "THere they slew the remnants of the sealed evil gods and somehow managed to seperate the QUEen from the Raven god she had stiched herself to making Strahd vunerable to death for the first time in how long has it been?" he turns to Sergei

"Mommy Raven Queen": "Six hundred years."

"Not once in six hundred years did I realize the flaw in my plan."

"I was invulnerable to mortal power, yet weak was I to my own."

"My sun turned against me, my ravens turned against me, my temple turned against me."

"And now I am no more. All that is left are the scattered pieces of my glorious plan waiting for the right force to knock them over."

Marcus Veranius dispels the disguise spell, revealing the true Wereraven he was underneath

Marcus Veranius: "All of Barovia is gathering to bury its history for good."

"We need you as well."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Allow us to introduce ourselves again, We are the the ones who will kill Strahd once and for all" Henry says spreading his arms "How about it, ready to get out there and turn that pompous ass to ash oh Greatest of Wizards?"

The Mad Mage: "What happens next?"

"The sun kills the mother... The curse doesn't end."

"Shouldn't it end, if it's her curse?"

"No, no, no... Something is missing."

"Oh well."

"Back to the pipes, I think."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Strahd still wields her power that's why the curse still persists"

Marcus Veranius: "Her power is yet contained in the castle's heart."

"And you of all people know what must be done to a vampire's heart."

Marcus Veranius stabs an arrow into the table with a loud 'thunk' for dramatic effect

The Mad Mage: "Kick it?"

"No no, of course, I forgot."

"You eat it!"

Marcus Veranius: "We usually stab it with wood. Doubt a 600 year old heart tastes any good."

The Mad Mage: "Heart. Heart heart heart. Beans, beans, good for the heart, the more you eat, the more you... No, what was it again?"

"One half the spell yet rings, I hear its song. It vibrates ever from the east, mad with rage."

"Injustice—Aye, that's the curse that lingers."

"Curse not of the Mother but of the Brother and his would-be Bride. Sune's the whip that goads this horse toward hell..."

"The heart. Yes, the heart still beats... For Sergei."

"They must be reunited, yes..."

The Mad Mage: "But even then: you face the god of Barovia."

"I failed. I failed... I..."

"No. No! I must continue. I must build my song. It is nearly finished. It is almost time! Must complete the work. I must."

He hops off his chair.

"Soon there won't be a curse, a castle, or a kingdom."

"No. Mustn't remember... I'm only playing. I'm only playing the music."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry Turns to him "I know your loss mage"

The Mad Mage: "I'm playing the music that comes to me..."

"Nothing more. Nothing more is happening. Nothing under the surface... Only music."

He hiccups. He shrinks by a full two inches.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I to have lost dear friends to him" Henry continues "

"The lack of understanding wasn't why you fled and hid here was it? It was grief that drove you to hide from the pain and the world"

"To hide so far even away even you yourself couldn't find you" Henry says face sorrowful "So far away you could oly only go mad"

The Mad Mage: "No, no. I had to be mad, or I would not complete the work."

"So I put on my crown of madness, and now the work is nearly done!"

"And he cannot find me... He thinks me dead... He knows me dead... He watched me die."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "'I couldn't have failed them if I was mad' is that what you told yourself? It wasn't carelessness or a lack of preparation or sheer dumb luck no you must have been mad to have failed right?"

Henrys face distorts with painfull grief "They wouldn'T want you to blame yourself, to torture yourslef like this you know that don't you?"

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage scoffs. "You understand nothing! Soon I shall finish the work, and you shall see..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But you believe you deserve this"

The Mad Mage: "Madness, madness with an end! Is it madness?"

"Yes, it's madness."

"But it has an end! So that's something."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head softly "You don't have to do this whatever it is" he says calmly "You only have to take of your crown, come back to your senses and help us kill Strahd"

GM (GM): (BRB)

Ok, I'm back

Zanshukun: okay

Liliet (Suldae): ^^

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage says: "But I like my crown! It's cozy. And Strahd won't be around much longer, once I'm—No, no, I'm only playing. It's only music."

Suldae Westwind: "Could you tell me more about that? What your music is not doing?"

The Mad Mage: "No no, absolutely not! I can't tell you about how it's not gathering in force and working its way around the cracks in the cosmos, trying to pop ten miles of continent out of reality. I could never tell you that! It's a deep, deep secret, and such things must not be shared with outsiders..."

Suddenly he gasps as though struck by an idea.

"Outsiders! Of course!"

"Yes, yes, you'll do nicely... You're not from here. Like Madam Eva! You're new, you're not woven into things yet..."

"And look at you! Each touched by the Divine..."

"Yes. Yes, you'll do nicely."

The Mad Mage: "Hmm..."

Marcus Veranius blinks

Marcus Veranius: "Umm, this 'ten miles of force' calculation. Does it account for Barovia no longer being cut off from the rest of the world?"

"Would it leak over?"

The Mad Mage: "Tell me, do any of you have any objection to acting as spell components?"

"It probably won't consume all of you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why do I have the feeling I won't like where this is going?"

Marcus Veranius turns to Suldae, face stern

Suldae Westwind: Well, that plan worked!

"Why would you... not want to do that?"

"As you clearly don't, as you have just stated."

The Mad Mage: "I did? I don't remember doing that... It's not my memory that's batty, young woman! Or are you an old woman? Elves, ha!"

"Oh, no, I see... Half-elven! Strange then that Correllon has bonded so strongly with you!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Tell us more about your crown," says Kasimir. "It's very lovely."

Suldae Westwind: "It's a bard thing," Suldae explains. "Would you like to hear some of my music?"

Her voice overlaps with Kasimir's.

The Mad Mage: "No no, wouldn't do, wouldn't do..." The Mad Mage pats at his balding head.

"Oh! Music's just the thing!"

"What will you play me?"

The Mad Mage is not wearing a crown.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae starts the melody. It's an old lullaby she had heard as a kid, one she can put all her feeling into.

Wouldn't it be so lovely to rest?

Can't everything wait till tomorrow?

Oh, sleep, blessed sleep, isn't it great?

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Suldae Westwind:

61

Higher Level Cast

24

Hit Points of Creatures

90 feet

Sleep

Suldae Westwind

(only the mage is within the target area ofc)

Suldae hopes that at least a lullaby would not be seen as an attack, even should it fail.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry whispers to Marcus "If he hadn't said he plans on blowing all of Barovia to kingdom come I'd have said let's deal with him after we dealt with Strahd"The spell breaks over him, crashing all around him, somehow sliding right off his soul. Either this feeble little man is far heartier than he looks, or some kind of magical effect is at play.The Mad Mage: He claps, jumping up and down. "Oh, goody! I love a good lullaby."Suldae Westwind: Suldae continues playing. Maybe he'll just fall asleep from the music, without the magic?

She's certainly putting her all into it.

GM: (Give a performance roll please)Marcus Veranius considers the situation. For a spell that potent to not work he'd have to be rather robust as a wizard.Suldae Westwind:*14*17*PERFORMANCE (11)
Suldae Westwind

(OUCH)_

(Marcus how can you tell how potent a spell is)

The Mad Mage: "Well, it's good, but it's going to be distracting. I'd like to get back to my own song now, if you don't mind."

The Mad Mage turns back to the keys, raises his hands, and begins again to play.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Is there a way to tell if the mage is actually physical? and not just like an illusion? asking GM hereMarcus Veranius: ...hold on, there was something Vilnius mentioned at the Amber Temple. If there was some truth hiding behind what the False Adventurers were saying.Suldae Westwind: Can Suldae tell what effect his music is having, now that she knows what he's trying to achieve?GM: (Yes, although the illusions in this place are pretty convincing—solid, having warmth, texture, movement, and sound. There are certain spells and senses that they won't show up for.)Suldae Westwind:*20*29*ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(i dont think im supposed to have advantage)

(its jsut 20)

Marcus Veranius: "Pity, pity. Pity to you."

"THIS is what you've been reduced to? Your master stroke?"

"Destroy the land because you had no other ideas? What would the academy who sent you think?"

"Mordenkainen."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Detect Magic

Divination 1 (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, you sense the presence of magic within 30 feet of you. If you sense magic in this way, you can use your action to see a faint aura around any visible creature or object in the area that bears magic, and you learn its school of magic, if any. The spell can penetrate most barriers, but it is blocked by 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt.

Detect Magic

Divination 1 (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

For the duration, you sense the presence of magic within 30 feet of you. If you sense magic in this way, you can use your action to see a faint aura around any visible creature or object in the area that bears magic, and you learn its school of magic, if any. The spell can penetrate most barriers, but it is blocked by 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt.

Henry casts detect magic Suldae feels the groaning pipes reach out their song, stretching it out to fill the whole of the demiplane. She senses that the song is not the casting itself; it is a metaphor for the process of spell creation and discovery. She can't begin to follow its complexity, or guess at what it truly means. It is all some kind of code.

The Mad Mage: "Mord...En...Kain...en....?"

"What a strange and funny name!"

"Yes yes, you're quite right! It's my best idea. Pity me, pity me! For how great my failure, for how deep my despair."

"Academy..."

He pauses, clinging to that word, his eyes growing large, staring through the walls, beyond time, deep into memory.

He seems deeply sad all of a sudden.

Marcus Veranius: "The first wizard they sent to study the Amber Temple."

The Mad Mage: He shakes himself.

"No, no. Can't think about that now. Can't think about them now. Must finish the work."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry using Detect Magic looks at the mage to maybe see if he is even real Marcus Veranius frowns. Vilnius mentioned he might turn up mad or mind blanked. Perhaps he should have been rooting for the latter.

Henry's Detect Magic spell opens to his eyes a baffling world of colors. Many forms of magic are woven into everything in the chamber, and he sees the illusions clearly for what they are now. He sees that all of the Vistani are real. He sees that Madam Eva is real. He sees that his own companions are real.

He sees also that the Mad Mage is real—and wrapped in many spells. On his head there is a ring of cycling energy, pulsing with many lights. On his hands, his rings glow brightly from this new perspective. His belt is a line of burning runes.

Here Henry also sees the Spell—huge and sprawling, vast lines of energy rooting their way through the whole of the demiplane, which stretches on to the very limits of his arcane sense. It seems you have seen only one very small piece of the demiplane.

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage pauses in his play.

"Outsiders..."

"Outsiders... Yes... Outsiders could do the trick..."

"Divine-touched—even better..."

He swivels on his stool and looks at you all.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns "Kasimir do you think he meant a leiteral crwon turned him mad? or was that more of a metaphor?"

literal

crown

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks at Henry. "I can see it, limning the edges of our reality. It's a very pretty piece of astral work."

"It may be a spell, it may be a magical item of some kind."

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage scoffs. "How rude! Prying into another wizard's secrets."

He snaps his fingers. Kasimir disappears.

Marcus Veranius: o-o

Suldae Westwind: "No more rude than trying to use someone else as a spell component," Suldae says disapprovingly.

She folds her arms in front of her chest and glares at him.

27

CHARISMA (6+2)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "Kasimir!"

The Mad Mage: The Mad Mage pouts. "Sorry. I did ask, though!"

"And you never did answer, which is also very rude!"

Suldae Westwind: "You are supposed to wait for an answer," Suldae glares at him.

The Mad Mage: "Well, I haven't done it yet!"

Suldae Westwind: "And you won't!"

Marcus Veranius: Alright. The time for pleasantries was over. "Return our acquaintance."

The Mad Mage: "No. He was terribly rude."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks up to the Mage "Here goes nothing" Hreaches out for the Crown like lights and casts Remove Curse, action surge Dispel Magic

Marcus Veranius: "Then I will simply have to look for him."

Marcus Veranius starts moving for the doors

Henry of Willowsbrook:

Remove Curse

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: One creature or object

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

At your touch, all curses affecting one creature or object end. If the object is a cursed magic item, its curse remains, but the spell breaks its owner's attunement to the object so it can be removed or discarded.

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect

within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

GM: (Technically speaking, action surge won't let you cast two leveled spells on the same turn. Since we're not in initiative order though, I'll allow it)

Marcus Veranius: (I don't think there's a limit on casting multiple spells a turn. Just not one Bonus Action spell and an Action Spell)

(You use a Bonus Action spell, it's only cantrips for the action)

GM: (Need a DC18 spell casting ability check from you, Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18

CHARISMA (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: (lol)

Suldae Westwind: (can Suldae's glares work as Insp for Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I might have just hit my knee from jumping with joy)

Suldae Westwind: (...or it works as is)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (pain of potential victory?)

CRACK.

The ring of cycling energy on the Mad Mage's head suddenly breaks, bursting out in a shower of sparks.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tenses, watching him worriedly. She could only vaguely follow what Henry did, but... it sure did SOMETHING.

Marcus Veranius pauses, arms outstretched for the door handle. Something's wrong...

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the Mage standing before him hoping he hadn't just made things worse

The wizard sits there for a moment or two, placidly staring off into space, a line of spittle dribbling its way down from the edge of his open mouth.

Then he shakes himself sharply, and looks around.

He looks straight at Henry.

He sighs.

Mordenkainen: "Adventurers. Bugger it all, I should have expected this."

He slams the lid of the pipe organ down and hops to his feet.

"You've just saved Strahd, you know. I hope you're happy."

"I nearly had it finished, too. A few more minutes was all it would have needed."

Suldae Westwind: "I assure you, Strahd isn't exactly safe right now."

Suldae is glaring at him again.

Mordenkainen: He spreads his arms. Suddenly, power collapses throughout the demiplane.

Scaffolding of spellcraft come rushing into the chamber.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't think we did but I'm sure we stopped you from blowing up a whole realm"

The kindly old man transforms, growing suddenly, shedding decades of age.

A tall, pale, bald man with a fine and delicate goatee stands now before you.

Suldae Westwind: "Would you like a better plan?" Suldae sks pointedly, ignroing his transofmration.

*asks

*ignoring *transformation

Mordenkainen: "I was making my best attempt at the self-sacrifice play."

Suldae Westwind: "Self?"

Mordenkainen: "Madness, magic, the devastating erasure of a small kingdom, consumed in a casting that would have taken every last ounce of my power out of this world with it."

Suldae Westwind: "Did you know you're not the only person who matters here?"

Mordenkainen: He shrugs. "I was the only one around who had any capacity to handle Strahd. It would have been a mercy killing to the poor people of this accursed kingdom."

"At least their souls would at last have been free."

Suldae Westwind: "Well, you might have been at the time, but nw you're not."

Mordenkainen: "No. I suppose not. Now. What brought you all the way out here to foil the plans of a nasty old wizard?"

"I presume you have better ones?"

Suldae Westwind: "Actually we had no idea you had any plants to foil so yeah, we do."

Suldae glances at her teammates.

She's not the military person.

Marcus Veranius: "We've been dismantling the scaffolding around Strahd's ability to remain immortal and ressurect."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Before we get to that could you return our friend? The Elf"

Henry points where Kasimir stood moments ago

Marcus Veranius: "His fortress foundations are on the verge of collapsing. They need only a less-than-subtle push to fall inwards."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen twitches an ear. Kasimir reappears.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir falls to his hands and knees and kisses the ground.

He gets back up.

He assesses the situation.

"Ah, I see you have it handled."

"I'm going to go enjoy existing for a little while."

"Ismark, come with me."

Mordenkainen: "There are chambers up the stairs. I'm having the servants prepare them for you."

Turning to Marcus, he says: "A less than subtle push, hmm?"

"I'm good at those."

"What did you have in mind?"

Marcus Veranius: "We have a sword created specifically to end Strahd's existence. But without the original drawback of creating a greater evil."

Suldae Westwind: "We also have an army of Revenants eager to march on his castle."

"But willing to coordinate."

Marcus Veranius: "And now that the heart of the castle is without a generator of power, he won't be so quick to regenerate like prior attempts."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sits down, the others surely have the explaining handled He could relax for a moment and recover from the brief moment where he was sure he might have gotten them all killed (BRB Dinner)

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen cocks a wiry eyebrow. "You've dealt with the Raven Queen, then?"

"Impressive..."

"Yes, most impressive..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces. That's still not one of her best memories.

Marcus Veranius: "Well, you probably could have done it more cleanly."

Mordenkainen: "I tried," says Mordenkainen.

"She bested me. I was no match for her."

"In my defense, she had an alarming amount of help, and I was quite alone."

Marcus Veranius: "Fair."

Suldae Westwind: "We kind of managed it the other way around."

Mordenkainen: "Failing to slay the mother, I turned my attention upon the son. He was... a challenge."

"But I bested him—once."

"And of course, in my hubris, I underestimated the power of his curse. Vampires cannot ordinarily recreate their body so easily."

Marcus Veranius: "Shame he cheats."

"Shame for him. We cheat too."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen grins wickedly.

Marcus Veranius draws a staff and tosses it to Mordenkainen

Mordenkainen: "I imagine Strahd has reinforced his defenses since last he and I crossed spells."

Marcus Veranius: "I've got a proposition. No peasants this time, just a proper army."

Mordenkainen: "We shall need cannon fodder, yes..."

"Revenants are perfect for this usage."

"They won't complain or flee, because it is what they are driven to do anyway. We will be merely taking advantage of a natural phenomenon—a wave of undead, crashing down upon the seed of their hate."

Suldae Westwind: "Has anyone ever told you you're kind of gross when you talk?"

Mordenkainen: "And no innocents need suffer," says Mordenkainen thoughtfully.

Suldae Westwind: "...Better."

Mordenkainen: He looks at Suldae. "Apologies. I don't have many guests. Or friends. Or acquaintances, these days."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae suppresses a reflexive "and whose fault is that". Strahd's, truthfully.

Mordenkainen: "Working alone has served me well, and protected me from many terrible fates. As you can plainly see, it has certainly failed me as well."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm sure it'll get back to you with time," she says with a pointed sympathy.

Mordenkainen: "As a strategy, it avoids certain pitfalls. However, it has its own flaws."

Marcus Veranius: "Well you're alive. More than a lot of people can say after fighting Strahd."

Mordenkainen: "This is true."

He holds a hand to his head briefly.

"The fog. Of course, the fog..."

He looks at you all, and in his quick dark eyes there is a piercing gaze of newfound respect.

"You saved me from making a truly terrible mistake," he says.

"Barovia no longer belongs to him, does it?"

Mordenkainen: "And my mansion no longer resides within his territory."

He seems pale now.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lets out a sigh of relief.

Marcus Veranius: "He still has squatters rights on the castle."

Mordenkainen: "Yes, that would have been... That would have been truly awful."

"I cannot thank you enough. You are more than welcome to spend the night."

Marcus Veranius: "Also a coffin in the south ruins with enough explosive runes to level a castle."

"SPEAKING OF."

Suldae Westwind: "Well who hasn't nearly destroyed reality by accident," Suldae says with somewhat sarcastic sympathy.

Marcus Veranius: "We have been preparing a siege and I was wondering if you could help us device a means of launching it."

Mordenkainen: "Catapult spell. Easy."

Marcus Veranius: "Got one that can summon it to the battlefield?"

Mordenkainen: "Yes," says Mordenkainen. "That's what I just said. Catapult spell."

Marcus Veranius grins "You really ARE the best!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae finally goes to the banquet table and slumps in a chair.

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen looks sharply at Ireena.

"You. You're the spitting image of Tatyana."

"Are you a part of this curse?"

Suldae Westwind: This whole "siege" stuff is not really her area of expertise. She'll just pay attention as it happens, but planning? Ugh.

"Hands off," Suldae says, looking up at him.

Mordenkainen: "I assure you, my hands have never strayed near a woman."

Marcus Veranius: "Not woven into the spell, but an unfortunate consequence."

Mordenkainen: "But this is a puzzle with many pieces, and we must consider them all."

Suldae Westwind: There are various ways of interpreting that and Suldae has to suppress, like, five childish jokes. It's surprisingly easy, as they're too busy competing.

Mordenkainen: "You said that you had a sword?" Mordenkainen says, looking at Marcus.

Marcus Veranius holds up the Sunsword, lighting it briefly

Sergei: "Sup."

Mordenkainen: "Fascinating, fascinating..."

Sergei: "I'm Strahd's brother."

Mordenkainen: "Sergei?"

Sergei: "That's me!"

Marcus Veranius: "Rather swell guy."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen shakes his head briefly. "So complicated."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae pulls Ireena to sit with her.

Wasn't there food?

Marcus Veranius: "Not as much if you consider it in layers. The bewitched Raven Queen designed Strahd's immortality to crumple under this sword. It is because she needed Sergei to kill Strahd for her own purposes."

Madam Eva: "So," says Madam Eva. "You have found the blade."

"That is good..."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen looks at Madam Eva as though seeing her for the first time. "Oh! Oh, Madam!"

"I'm so terribly sorry for my earlier behavior! I do apologize, I can't imagine how frightful that must have been. Please, allow me to show you the hospitality of the sane Mordenkainen. I am preparing rooms for you as we speak."

Madam Eva: "I'm just glad it's over."

Madam Eva winces.

"Don't think I'll ever enjoy pipe organ again."

"Not that I did much before..."

She grimaces, shakes herself, and says: "Right. I need sleep. Undisturbed sleep. I think my troop will want the same. It may take us all some time to... Warm up."

Mordenkainen: Very sadly, Mordenkainen says: "I quite understand. My servants will show you the way."

Madam Eva and her troop of Vistani refugees leave the chamber.

Marcus Veranius waves as Madame Eva's caravan departs

Marcus Veranius: "...there is one more small issue with our planned siege."

"The fortune teller told us three relics we would need to unweave the curse."

"The Book of Strahd, which we have used to understand its nature."

"The Sunsword, which will be the tool of his bane."

"But there is a third relic, and Strahd has it sealed in the catacombs of his castle."

"You've been inside Ravenloft. I don't suppose you may have some insight as to how we get down there?"

Marcus Veranius: "Having to enter the main door, climb down, then climb back up might prove costly."

Mordenkainen: "I have seen his teleportation apparatus. I should be able to hijack it."

"But that would put us somewhere in the middle of the castle, not in the vaults."

"Do we know where within the catacombs, this last treasure can be found? Or what it is that we're actually searching for?"

Marcus Veranius: "A powerful force for good and protection. A Holy Symbol of great hope."

"Whatever that means."

"It is within a room with a chandelier of bones."

"And a table of bones."

"And walls of bones."

Mordenkainen: "An ossuary, of some kind?"

Marcus Veranius: "Supposedly the bones of enemies long forgotten."

Marcus Veranius thinks

Marcus Veranius: "...suppose if we knew the identity of some of Strahd's more eccentric enemies, we could use Locate Objects to find... iunno, Goblin Bones."

"It'd have to be unusual enough that we don't ping off the undead minions."

"We can't exactly say 'Holy Symbol' either cause that I just point us to Henry."

Mordenkainen: "There was a dragon, I believe, that caused him a great deal of trouble at one point. I learned of it in the course of my research."

Marcus Veranius: "Dragon Bones!"

"..."

"...what kind of dragon?"

Mordenkainen: "I am told it was silver. Often took the form of a human warrior."

Marcus Veranius wipes his brow. Black Dragon and the spell would have bounced off the party itself

Mordenkainen: "I imagine, if there is an ossuary within the castle, that the bones of the beast are likely to lie among them."

Marcus Veranius: "Silver Dragon Bones ought to get us there then."

Mordenkainen: "Personally, I find that dragon bones make excellent ossuary statement pieces."

"A bit of humor, I assure you!"

"My victims rarely leave bones."

Marcus Veranius: "Well I mean, if the dragon's pissed you off enough. I can see that."

GM: (BRB)

Marcus Veranius: "So that might be our proposed plan then. March our army to the castle gates. Begin the siege and allow the castle's occupants to react for a frontal assault. That might clear the interior halls enough for us to storm the Catacombs with less resistance."

"Whatever we find down there, let's hope Madame Eva's prophecy was right about it being worth it. We're gunna need all the hope we can get."

Mordenkainen: "What would our strike force look like? Who do we dare bring face-to-face with Strahd?"

Suldae Westwind: "Those present," Suldae comments from her seat.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stands up once again confident his legs wouldn't give out from under him "Well gald we could help,...I gotta go thank that owl for pointing us here before we all learned about your plan after you blew us up"

(BRB)

Mordenkainen: "A suggestion, if I may."

Marcus Veranius: "Revenants of the Silver Dragon's spirit. The standing forces of Krezk. A number of Lycanthropes. The reclaimed and rather upset forests of Barovia featuring Dryads and Treants. What remains of Vallaki's guard. An Iron Golem of the Amber Temple."

"And then our bunch as the main strike force against the vampire."

Mordenkainen: "I believe Strahd to be a powerful and prideful wizard. In order to save on funerals afterwards (Since Strahd is surely to respond to a frontal assault on his palace with a degree of arcane violence rarely seen on this plane) might it be wise for me to remain outside the castle, drawing both his attention and his firepower?"

"We could persuade him that I am not connected to your group, thus giving you the option to sneak in unseen."

"I have brought an army against him before, after all. It's a believable lie."

Marcus Veranius: "That... is incredibly wise. If we are to split apart, we would need someone powerful to oversee the army."

"Even if Strahd doesn't fall for it, your presence would be most potent."

Mordenkainen: "Oversee and protect, I think. The people of this land has suffered enough undefended. I should be able to offer at least some protection to the army, against his spellcraft."

Marcus Veranius: "We'll be as swift as we can to not drain your resources."

Suldae Westwind: "Please," Suldae says seriously.

Mordenkainen: "Fear not; I have a great many resources."

"Now. I'm sure you've all had a long day."

"What time is it, anyway? I so rarely know."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Should be ugh noon I think" Henry says "Travel by portal messes with my sense of time"

Mordenkainen: "In that case, you've rested well recently, I hope. Perhaps we can return to your fortified position to discuss this further with other allies. Unless you have the power to decide a day and time for me to arrive at the gates of Castle Strahd, prepared to defend an army?"

"You passed by way of a Pass Without Trace spell, yes? And you shielded yourselves from scrying, of course."

"Before coming to my lair, I mean."

"That way we can be certain his spies or power haven't followed you."

"Although you were traveling in the Day, so he'd be asleep, I suppose..."

"Still, his spies—especially the mortal ones—still infest these lands. Perhaps not so much the high mountains."

Mordenkainen: "Unless you were trailed by someone with some kind of link to one of you."

Marcus Veranius: "We uhh... were teleported here. By the dryad."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Not quite a friendly dryad queen opened a portal and that spit us out on your doorstep"

Mordenkainen: "That's nearly as good. Certainly too quick for him to see it, even if he were awake."
"Very good... So we already have a competent teleportationist. We can prepare in secret."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm I better let Vasilika know that we were successful here, Excuse me I'll step out real quick"

Mordenkainen: "My demiplane is perfectly safe to transmit from. Now that you have met me, I can permit teleportation between this place and that one. Since we have a teleportationist on both ends, we now have instant secure transfer of goods."

"This plane is secured from all forms of invasion, spying, and psychic intrusion. Nothing can enter or exit without my knowing will."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh okay than" Henry says nodding in Sylvan he says "Vasilika can you hear me?" he says outloud and in his mind

Vasilka: "Loud and clear."

Vasilka's voice rings audibly through the chamber.

Mordenkainen: "Are there any long-duration summoning spells I should be building?"
(He says this casually, quietly, to those around him, not to Vasilka)

Marcus Veranius: "I'm... not much a mage to be honest with you. More a shoemaker that's gotten incredibly lucky the past year."

"I got this horn that can summon, like... a bunch of ghost vikings. Proper angry bunch."

"Maybe you can do something with it to help the army."

"Or we can bring it with us to buy an exit to the catacombs."

Mordenkainen: "Let me take a look."

Marcus Veranius slides the Horn of Valhalla over

Marcus Veranius: "Oh, and I'm back in business if you need some repairs done. No need to march into battle uncomfortably."

"My treat, forget the cost."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen chuckles. He guffaws. He busts up, in uproarious laughter, doubling over, slapping the table. It's clear he's struggling to contain himself.

He slaps Marcus on the shoulder and wipes a tear from his eye.

"Oh, Marcus, Marcus. It's very kind of you to offer."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we met the Mage and he is no longer mad and also willing to help" Henry says again both out loud and in his mind adding metally 'we also barely got here in time to stop him from turning all of Baraovia and probably more into a giant smoking crater'

Marcus Veranius smiles, hoping that laughing wasn't meant as an insult

Mordenkainen: As he says this, he is touching the chest of his robe, which instantly begins to repair itself with faint motes of glowing light.

"But there's no need. You amuse me."

Marcus Veranius: "...remind me not to set up shop in wizarding towns."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes. She's been mending all of the team's equipment constantly. And keeping it clean!

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda catches Suldae's eye and rolls her eyes dramatically, nodding her head towards Marcus.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena giggles but hides it by taking a drink.

Rictavio: "So... What sorts of things can you summon?"

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen is busily turning the horn over and over in his hands, considering it. He doesn't seem to hear Rictavio.

Vasilka: "Excellent. This is wonderful news."

(To Henry Only): Goodness. Well, that's something. At least he's powerful. What do you make of him? Can he be trusted?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He appears to be some famous wizard called Mordenkainen? Have you heard of him?" Henry says still in sylvan KNOCK. KNOCK. KNOCK.

Mordenkainen: "There's someone at the door," says Mordenkainen.

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, yes."

"..."

Mordenkainen: "Did you leave anyone behind?"

"Shall I remove the door?"

Marcus Veranius: "Wait, there SHOULDN'T be anyone at the door."

Mordenkainen: "I can move the demiplane, if necessary."

Marcus Veranius: "Who is it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Vasilika did you just knock?"

Vasilka: "Not I."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen's eyes go misty white.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay I have no clue"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers.

"Might be Rahadin."

Mordenkainen: "An elf. Male. Wrapped in screams."

Suldae Westwind: "He was apparently due to seek me out."

Mordenkainen: "He's... Badly injured."

Suldae Westwind: "...I don't think we have any reason to let him in."

Marcus Veranius: "RAHADIN! That's Strahd's second in command!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh really now" Henry says

Mordenkainen: "He seems very weary."

Marcus Veranius: "You uhh... have a copy of him in the lobby."

Suldae Westwind: "He should be. He'll die if I do nothing. I don't intend to do anything."

Mordenkainen: "Oh yes! Yes, it is Rahadin. He's hardly recognizable."

"Looks a thousand years older."

"What's the story there?"

Suldae Westwind: A fairly disturbing way of killing someone, but... it IS Rahadin.

"Correllon cut him off."

Mordenkainen: "If I am to assist in negligent homicide, I should like to know why."

Suldae Westwind: "You seriously need an actual answer to that?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry feels the familiar anger flare up again "I could go deal with him real quick"

Mordenkainen: "I interfere with the affairs and judgements of the gods as a hobby, Suldae. I hardly think any one of them has a mastery of true ethics."

"Neither have I, of course."

Suldae Westwind: "That's not what I mean."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's gunna know if he passes away. This is... not great."

Suldae Westwind: "That's - I mean - that's Rahadin."

"You've heard of the guy, right?"

Mordenkainen: "Could he not be useful, as a source of information?"

"After all, here we have a replica of my memory of the castle."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Punishment for being Strahds hatchet man for centuries"

Mordenkainen: "With him, we could have a replica of the entire castle."

Suldae Westwind: ...that's...

Mordenkainen: "Complete with traps, monster dens..."

Suldae Westwind: "...There was one in Amber temple..."

Marcus Veranius: "Rahadin's admiration of Count Strahd is genuine. He would not surrender anything helpful."

Mordenkainen: "Ah, if there is one we can acquire, then he becomes superfluous on that front."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry regards Mordenkainen "He'd be almost powerless in here right?"

Rahadin: "Please! Please, Suldae!"

Suldae Westwind: "...That's really creepy, but also, yes, I don't think we should do anything."

Mordenkainen: "I am merely evaluating the situation."

Suldae Westwind: "He's killed far too many people and there's no way of ensuring he doesn't anymore."

Mordenkainen: "Are there other fronts on which he might be useful?"

"Before we so casually discard his life on my doorstep."

Marcus Veranius: "I would mark Rahadin as the kind to use his last breaths in self sacrifice."

Suldae Westwind: "Not so much that it would be worth the risk."

Mordenkainen: "If I could assure you that he is quite unable to cast, let alone to fight?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks of towards the mansions entrance

Mordenkainen: "He is unarmed. His magic is broken. His mind seems halfway gone."

Marcus Veranius follows as Henry walks

Suldae Westwind: It's surprising, how easy Suldae finds it to dismiss his dismissiveness of her god's judgement and talk around it. Correllon's word is something she trusts, but... there is a new core of understanding inside her.

The basis on which judgements are truly made. Be they hers, Correllon's, or Mordenkainen's.

Suldae bites her lip. This does not rest well with her, but...

"...Which half is gone?"

"And which half remains?"

"This is a rhetorical question, by the way."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches the door almost blind to his surroundings safe for the door or rather the despicable creature behind it

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, please don't."

Suldae catches up with him and puts her hand on his shoulder.

"Pity is not a good reason to make a decision like this."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Pity?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. That's what she's feeling, at least.

"I wonder how many people he's killed have said please. And I wonder if him being unarmed now is a guarantee of him being unarmed always in the future."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at her briefly his expression is blank but his eyes are filled with hate

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: "Let him die."

"He's brought this punishment on himself."

"We don't need to do anything more."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh he will die"

Marcus Veranius: "Suppose that'd be the just and wise thing to do. Let him die."

"It'd be the Barovian way. Dying alone, in the cold, as one's soul slowly withers."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. She's not feeling particularly just, nor wise. It just feels like the thing to do, full stop.

Marcus Veranius turns to Suldae, frowning.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't rather like the Barovian way of things."

Suldae Westwind: "Fine, what do you propose?"

Suldae looks at him straight.

It's not as though she's particularly into what he's saying, either.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a deep breath "He is a dead man walking, be that death dealt by my hand or your magic but...I Need to be there"

Marcus Veranius: "Suppose your god has made his judgment. If death is so certain, then let this be his punishment."

"To die knowing the mercy he's never known before."

"In warmth, and not in the cold."

"We're better men than this."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Suldae looks at the door.

It still feels like a trap to her.

But sometimes traps are worth being sprung.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry opens the door

Suldae Westwind: "...Yeah."

She steps back, and watches.

Rahadin: Rahadin collapses across the threshold. He's covered in snow, pale as a sheet. His skin is withered, spotted, wrinkled. He's lost most of his hair. He's bleeding from severe lacerations on his head and face, like the marks of some strange, enormous claws. Wounds in his body bleed also, soaking through his clothes.

He lies there sobbing on the stone for a moment or two. He collects his breath.

Shakily, he pushes his face up from the stone. "Thank.... You...."

He collapses. He cringes away from the howling wind coming in through the open door.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks down on him

Rahadin: "I'm... Sorry..."

Strahd von Zarovich: "You did well, Rahadin."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry slams the door

Strahd von Zarovich: A set of claws rakes softly down the wood on the other side.

"Fascinating."

"I doubt I shall be able to penetrate this."

Suldae Westwind: "Mordenkainen!" Suldae calls out. "You were saying things about moving the demiplane!"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Admirably done..."

Marcus Veranius: "You've grown predictable, Strahd."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Mordenkainen?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well now we know"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Then Mordenkainen is alive.... Interesting..."

Mordenkainen: "As good as done!"

Marcus Veranius: "Using dying men as your tools of war, even when they plead reverence to your name."

There is a sudden lurch. Everything in existence briefly isn't. Then it is again, somewhere else. The wind no longer howls outside the unseen walls.

Mordenkainen: "We're elsewhere."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out her dagger, kneels down and slits Rahadin's throat.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "There goes that surprise"

Suldae Westwind: This was her job to finish.

Rahadin: It is quick, clean. His final gasp is thankful.

Instantly, the screaming souls stop their howling wail.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands up and steps back. She'd been careful to not get any blood on herself. Still, this is... this is something she'd never done before.

To kill a person like that.

Rahadin: He lies, if not in peace, then at least no longer in earthly suffering. He has gone on to the judgement of other beings.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Strahd could have done that you know."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at Suldae and the monster that hounded his nightmares "...He deserved much worse"

Suldae Westwind: It feels like it should be more special, like she crossed a threshold. But it's just the same place, with the same people, and now one dead body. Which she'd decided should be dead long before.

Marcus Veranius: "If Strahd held any ounce of good, he would have offered mercy to his most loyal servant."

Suldae Westwind: "...Deserving is not a word I like."

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen enters the room without walking through any intervening space.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry opens the door again taking a look outside to see where they were now

Mordenkainen: "I could easily revive him, if you wished to give him a fair fight. Or better torture."

"But I do believe this was mercy, what we did here."

"And at the same time, it was justice."

"And perhaps it isn't fair to those, the living, who seek revenge."

"But I can assure you—as one who has mastered the art of revenge—it is always this hollow."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs. "Revenge isn't much of a worthy cause."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head "I'm done giving him anymore power of me"

Suldae Westwind: "Protection's what matters."

Marcus Veranius: "Mercy. I think after these weeks in this cursed land, that one is what we should hope for."

Mordenkainen: "Wise words, all round."

Henry of Willowsbrook: over me

Marcus Veranius: "Everyone in this country needs more mercy."

Suldae Westwind: "Also that," Suldae points at Marcus.

Mordenkainen: "Indeed."

Suldae Westwind: "What he's saying."

Marcus Veranius: "We'd be worse men to not offer it, deserved or not."

Mordenkainen: "Indeed, in some senses, what we seek to do to Strahd is also Mercy."

"He is a monster. He is in his hell."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae screws up her face. That's definitely not her priority in this situation.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So Strahd now knows we are working together" Henry says to Mordenkainen

Mordenkainen: "Sadly, it seems that way."

Suldae Westwind: "...I mean, if you're really inclined to care about Strahd's wellbeing," she murmurs under her breath.

Marcus Veranius: "It's not much a loss. He would have known quick."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Btw Henry was looking outside to see where Mordy moved his magical crib to)

Mordenkainen: "I care more for the imbalance he does to my precious Material Plane," says Mordenkainen. "Only I should be distorting reality like that. I'm at least considerate about it."

Marcus Veranius: "At this point, Strahd sees us as a primary threat. Anyone else is auxiliary."
"...no offense, Mordenkainen."

Mordenkainen: "Naturally, none taken."

"He is blind to the real threat, which is right where we want him."

Marcus Veranius: "I doubt Strahd would have believed you to make a second army with us not involved in some fashion."

Mordenkainen: "However," says Mordenkainen. He turns to face away, folding his hands dramatically behind his back as if deep in thought. "What if I did bring an additional army?"

"What if I led an army, and you led an army?"

"Only you weren't you."

"The real you, at the same time, might be doing anything at all, really."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd will expect trickery. We may yet trick him if there is two tricks."

"A trick to spot, and a trick to not spot."

"I like this plan."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leans against the wall "IS being cryptic a requirement for being a wizard or is that just self selecting?"

Suldae Westwind: "I think it's a professional quirk," Suldae tells him,

"When most of the time people don't understand what you're saying anyway, you end up no longer trying after some point."

Mordenkainen: "Why, you've put it perfectly."

Suldae Westwind: "Bards get special training against that."

She flourishes a bow.

"Like that, yes."

Mordenkainen: "The point is this: I can turn this mansion somewhat inside-out. I can spill some of the demiplane out onto the prime material, creating a small but real fortified position. I can also produce a great many illusory servants—although they are quite useless in combat."

"I can produce illusory replicants of each of you, along with an illusory army."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs "So where do you put us anyways?" he asks mordenkainen did you

Mordenkainen: "I can get you into his primary teleportation chamber. He has a device there. I believe he hardly ever considers it anymore—it is a relic of a long-ago time, before he mastered the art of teleportation magic."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae goes to a corner to do some brooding while staring at a corpse. The military stuff isn't her stuff.

Figuring out how she felt about slitting someone's throat while they were lying helpless was.

*is also * her job

Marcus Veranius: "A mortal army at the front gate. One in the rear entrance... if there IS any. Maybe the Valhalla Warriors with the mansion to make the other illusions seem genuine."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs opening the door again to look outside since the wizard didn't answer him (Where in Barovia are we now?)

In peering out the door, Henry determines that they are now somewhere deep in the jungles of Kesh.

Suldae Westwind: (Barovia is no longer separate from the rest of the mortal plane iirc)

Marcus Veranius: "Could pop a few traps."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry close the door, opens it again and then closes it again. "Mordy where the hells are we?"

Mordenkainen: "Anyway, the device isn't the point. The device is merely a point of entry."

"Oh, sorry. We're in the jungles of Kesh. I have a bungalow near here—or I used to, a few centuries ago. It's probably overgrown now. At any rate, I always miss it when I try to land there. Somehow it's never in the same place twice. I forget why."

"I'd shut the door if I were you, there's Yuan-Ti about."

"Strahd cannot hope to follow us here."

"Even he can't project himself that far."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at him before throwing his arms up and muttering something very unchairitable about Wizards, Goats and Outhouses in undercommon while he slides down the wall to sit on the floor

Mordenkainen: "The door, Henry."

"Henry, the door!"

Marcus Veranius shuts the door

Henry of Willowsbrook: (It was closed btw)

Marcus Veranius: "As much as I've always wanted genuine snakeskin boots, now's not the time."

GM: (Oops)

Mordenkainen: "Oh, good job, Marcus. Thank you. Sorry about that, sometimes you have to get it twice for it to sink in."

Suldae Westwind: (So I have to leave early today but Suldae was just brooding in a corner anyway)
(g'night)

GM: (Goodnight Suldae)

Marcus Veranius: (I think we have just about everything we need to seriously consider the siege next week)

Mordenkainen: "Oh," says Mordenkainen. "One thing the Jungles of Kesh are known for is their Ironwood trees. I don't know why, but I feel compelled to mention that. It's probably important somehow."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Gathering himself Henry Stands back up looking at Mordenkainen with a serious expression "When you where...batshit crazy you said she came to Barovia to look for me. Is that true?"

Mordenkainen: "I said she was coming, I think."

"Let me think. Where was I at that moment..."

His eyes roll back into his head and strange mutterings fall from his lips. Runic tattoos—invisible until now—glow briefly on the sides of his head.

"Ah yes," he says calmly, as the effects fade.

"A vision of a relative of yours. Female, traveling with a companion. She was headed to Barovia, having heard the news of the kingdom's sudden reappearance."

"Apparently, there's quite a kerfuffle about that. I'm getting messages from some old friends of mine, asking me about my Barovian exploits."

Mordenkainen: "Looks like the memory of the kingdom has reappeared. Bound to be lots of people traveling here, I think."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry curses in every language he knows Rubbing the bridge of his nose "Any chance we could stop near my idiot sister before we return to Barovia? I belive I need to act like the responsible older sibling once again and tell her to go the fuck home"

Mordenkainen: "I suppose we could attempt to find her, yes."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Only if it doesn't take to long, if she is not in Barovia I can go find her after we are done with von Zarobitch"

Mordenkainen: "Oh. Someone said something about a map in the amber temple?"

"It may be useful to have that. We could replicate the interior of the castle and learn about the various traps and locations in advance."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait IRonwood trees?"

Mordenkainen: "Yes. Famous for it! The Yuan-Ti guard them jealously in their sacred groves."

"Said to be eight different kinds, each with its own elemental infusion. Cultivated by the Yuan-Ti queens."

"They don't take kindly to outsiders, and they are deeply rooted to nature."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...How long do you reckon it would take to steal some saplings? I think Vasilika and Barovias natural spirits would appreciate having one of those again"

Mordenkainen: "Steal? Why, it would be a challenge. Perhaps an entertaining one."

"We could attempt a frontal assault on the temple, or we could pass by stealth—although these serpents are cunning. No mere invisibility will deceive them, for they detect the heat traces of the body with a special sense."

"We could also barter for them, if we could find a way to communicate our intent. The Yuan-Ti are a complex people, but they are not total savages."

"We could also attempt a frontal assault on the temple. Did I mention that? Those are fun."

"Probably unethical, probably..."

"Greater good, maybe? No... No, I suppose not."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Vasilika? Can you hear me? Didn't Barovia need an Ironwood tree?" Henry asks reaching out through his connection to nature

Vasilka: "I forget. Did it?"

"Wait. Probably?"

"You're very far... It's hard to reach you. Where are you?"

"I'm pleased that you're alright."

Marcus Veranius: "The opposite. I believe there WAS an Ironwood tree in Barovia. Along the path to the wizard."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Some owl mentioned the old one gave its life to help Barovia. We are in Kesh? I think that's what it's called."

Marcus Veranius: "We might have run into it if we traveled on foot."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry had gotten disturbingly used to speak to people that weren't there and expecting an answer

Vasilka: "Kesh. The Jungle of Kesh? I've read about it!"

"Is it beautiful? What color is the sky?"

Mordenkainen: "Well, I don't know about any Ironwood tree living in Barovia."

"There's certainly a dead one. It's not far from where you found my door."

"The cultivation of Ironwood trees is, sadly, a long-lost art. They are from a bygone era, when Moradin first shaped his portion of the world."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a peek out the door describing what he sees to Vasilika Closing the door after he had a good look

Vasilka: "Fascinating."

Mordenkainen: "At any rate, is there anything else we ought to do in preparation for our siege of the castle?"

"Any outside aid we ought to seek? Any kings or queens we might beseech?"

"There may be others in the land who will wish to help, once they learn of the monstrous king of Barovia."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"Well I don't know anyone that ain't dead. But I AM in an unusual spot."

Rictavio: Rictavio's eyes twinkle.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I don't think we want to give Strahd too much time to prepare while we go around looking for possible help"

Rictavio: "I know a few people. We'll want their help."

Marcus Veranius: "You see, we're the only ones that know of the dread dragon Vorgansharax's death."

"We're also the only ones that know he moved into Barovia."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We should collect Blinsky and his shop."

Marcus Veranius: "Might be a few pieces we can scavenge from his cave for the army."

"I've got everything I need."

"Hell Mordenkainen. Maybe you can take the gold yourself and hire out some minions in the future."

[Cough cough]

Mordenkainen: "Dead Vorgansharax is a pretty good diplomacy chip," says Mordenkainen. "'Behold, we are the adventurers who hunted and slew Vorgansharax the Black, and in our quest to do so we encountered a monster more fearsome than he. Come to Barovia for the time of your adventuring life.' Or something like that."

"We could use that, yes..."

Mordenkainen picks up the horn and holds it strangely. He blows it very slowly, very quietly.

A billowing mist rises from the mouth of the horn, and grows, and grows, and rises to huge proportions.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Only person that comes to my mind is the Baron of Schoenmark but I don't think his personal guard and whatever he could raise from the peasantry are the kinds of forces we want near Strahd's hell hole of a Castle"

"Meaning they are alive and not used to fighting anything more coherent than the odd group of bandits"

Mordenkainen: He stops the slow blast on the horn, and the mist at once solidifies into an enormous purple-skinned white-haired giant, eyes blizzing with stormlight, wrapped all around in spectral thunderheads, hunched halfway over to fit into the room.

Mordenkainen passes the horn back to Marcus.

"Horn of the Storm Giant, now."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Mordenkainen: "Don't worry, your friendly Valhallan warriors are all present. The giant is composed of their compressed energy and will. With the aid of a few runes of Thor."

"They will return to normal once they return to Valhalla. Alternatively, you can blow the horn in the ordinary fashion, and produce the warriors themselves instead."

"Do you like?"

Warrior of Valhalla: ((SKALL! NOW I NEED TO MAKE NEW TOKENS)))

((FAK))

GM: (Thank you all for playing! We'll pick up here next session)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the Giant "Vasilika unless you want me to bring a probably stolen Ironwood sapling with me, I'll go take a nap before all this magic makes me question my sanity"

"Anymore than it already does" He adds with a long suffering sigh

Vasilka: "A sapling?"

"That would be wonderful, if it could be managed."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7 + 1

PERSUASION (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

1 + 1

11 + 1

STEALTH (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

12 + 1

18 + 1

INTIMIDATION (8)
Henry of Willowsbrook

25 + 1

INSIGHT (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14 + 1

NATURE (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

10 + 1

NATURE (9)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21

26

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

19
Slashing

31 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry walks back into the magical Mansion Covered in leaves, specks of mud and carrying an Ironwood branch and a jug of fertilizing goo looking deeply pleased with himself and whistling an old hunting song. That worked out quite well and now he could take a nap in peace, after making sure Mordenkainen had a way to keep the sapling-branch fresh untill they were back in Barovia

Tops K.: (To GM)rolling 1d10

(8)

= 8

Tops K.: (To GM)rolling 2d10

(3 + 5)

= 8

Tops K.: (To GM)rolling 3d10

(10 + 5 + 3)

= 18

Tops K.: (To GM)rolling 4d10

(8 + 3 + 8 + 5)

= 24

Tops K.: (Hey, umm. Not to question how SUPER COOL this map looks) (Aren't we teleporting into the castle?)

GM (GM): (You are, yes)
(This is the place where Mordenkainen is doing his illusion)
(I figured it might be nice to have a visual aid)

Tops K.: (Haha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (thats a lot of tokens

Tops K.: (I like how all the revenant soldiers look more badass than Hoorngard)

GM (GM): (I went and got token art just for them, because the standard revenant look is not cute)

Wow, my Discord crashed

So you have to imagine that this army isn't all composed of identical-looking zombies

Lots of different races and classes are represented

You see that Minotaur smith who helped you make the shield

It seems Argynvostholt had a very diverse set of soldiers

Marcus Veranius: "Vengeance is a universal language."

"Sings a bit better in Elvish though."

GM (GM): Lol

Lore question for those who remember: stretch those memories all the way back to the werewolf cave

Do you remember a fellow by the last name of Toranescu?

Marcus Veranius: (We didnt go through the entire cave. So no. We didnt meet him.)

(Got the prophecy book and... booked it.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (We did blow up a bunch of wolves and werewolves in that one room like at least 9 but no that name didn't come up)

Liliet (Suldae): (I'm here!)

After winding through the forest and craggy mountain peaks, the road takes a sudden turn to the east, and you find yourselves in the shadow of Castle Ravenloft. Although the day is young and the sun is bright, in the shadow of the castle it is icy cold.

GM (GM):

The lone traveller walking up the path bows his head against the chill. He leans on a staff; a common wooden walking stick. His hood is drawn low, concealing his peculiar features.

He comes to a stop before twin turrets of stone, broken from years of exposure. Beyond these guard towers is the precipice of a fifty-foot-wide fog-filled chasm that disappears into unknown depths.

A lowered drawbridge of old, shored-up wooden beams stretches across the chasm, between this traveler and the archway to the courtyard. The chains of the drawbridge creak in the wind, their rust-eaten iron straining under the weight.

From atop the high walls, stone gargoyles stare down, grinning hideously. At the far end of the bridge, a rotting wooden portcullis, green with growth, hangs above the entry tunnel. Beyond it, the main doors of Ravenloft stand open. A rich, warm light spills from within, and torches flutter sadly in sconces on both sides of the open doors.

The hooded figure stands suddenly tall, hunching no longer. He throws off his hood, and crashes his staff against the ground. In an instant, he and his staff and the surrounding hillside are transformed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not to break up your flow but we did have a long rest right?)

Mordenkainen the Magnificent stands now before the gates of Castle Strahd, surrounded by an army of the undead—an army that stretches back nearly to the bottom of the hill.

GM: (Yes)

Mordenkainen: "STRAHD!"

"It is I, Mordenkainen the Magnificent, Master of Magicks Most Mighty! You have failed to kill me, tyrant! I have brought your doom! Come out, and face me like a man!"

There is no response. Strahd von Zarovich slumbers.

His power creeps through ancient stone, worming its way up from the roots of the ancient, cursed castle.

A flicker of light briefly manifests in the space before the portcullis. Then, with a shriek and a flash, a stroke of spellcraft crosses the distance.

Mordenkainen catches it in his palm, unfazed.

Like fireworks, then, the power of Strahd unleashes. Dozens of strange and mighty spells rain down on the attackers. Mordenkainen deflects what he can, but he is taken by surprise at the ferocity of the attack, and holes are blown in the army.

Meanwhile, deep in the bowels of the castle, a rather smaller army is making inroads...

Marcus Veranius is making his last minute preparations as the door drops him in.

Marcus Veranius: "Allow me to reiterate the plan before we go in."

"Mordenkainen and the Combined Barovian Army are at the castle gates fending off whatever armies Strahd has prepared."

"At another entrance, The Magical Mansion is laying siege with a mix of illusions and summoned monsters to spread reinforcements thin."

"We are using this opening to breach the castle catacombs and retrieve the third prophesied bane of Strahd."

"A holy symbol of great hope."

Mordenkainen will teleport us into the castle proper. From there, we use the Apparatus of Kwamish to breach rooms and trigger traps."

Marcus Veranius: "Save our strength for monsters instead of the mechanisms."

"Once we have the Holy Symbol, we'll storm back up to Strahd's tower and finish this."

Suldae Westwind: (breach i think)

(sorry)

Marcus Veranius: "Any questions?"

Suldae Westwind: "None that you could plausibly answer on my part," Suldae murmurs.

Like "are we going to survive this". And "what is that thing anyway". And..

Well, mostly that first one.

Mordenkainen: "Are you ready?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods, Ireena's hand in hers.

Marcus Veranius: "Valhalla guys! Are you ready?"

Apparatus of Kwalish: "SKOL! WE ARE READY!"

Marcus Veranius: (Biggify the crab tank plz) rolling 2d4 additional Warriors of Valhalla are joining the Mansion Servants in an attack elsewhere

(1 + 3)

= 4

Mordenkainen: "Very well. Once I send you in there, I'll only be able to pull you back via the mechanism in the castle, or if you manage to find some way to get out from under stone."

"Do you understand?"

Marcus Veranius: "If all goes well, you can pick us back up in the keep."

Mordenkainen: "Probably should have mentioned that earlier, I suppose."

"Very good. We won't be able to stay in contact once you go inside, so you won't have any idea how the battle is going out here."

"Stay safe."

"Oh, wait! I suppose we'd better agree upon a place and time, if you're not going to be able to communicate with me."

"Goodness, that almost made things hairy."

"How long will you need?"

Marcus Veranius: "...I'm not sure. We'll light a signal flare in case of danger."

Mordenkainen: "That may be difficult to see, with all the fireworks... Well, I suppose you can figure it out once you're inside."

"Good luck!"

FLASH!

You find yourselves deep under stone.

Suldae Westwind: "Amazing planner, that guy," Suldae says philosophically.

This room is thirty feet square, rising to a twenty-foot-tall flat ceiling. A stone brazier burns fiercely in the center of the room, but its tall white flame produces no heat. The rim of the brazier is carved with seven cup-shaped indentations spaced evenly around the circumference. Within each indentation is a spherical stone, twice the diameter of a human eyeball and made of a colored crystal. No two stones are the same color.

Overhead, a wood-framed hourglass as tall and wide as a dwarf hangs ten feet above the brazier, suspended from the ceiling by thick iron chains. All the sand is stuck in the upper portion of the hourglass, seemingly unable to run down into the bottom. Written in glowing script on the base of the hourglass is a verse in Common.

Two nine-foot-tall iron statues of knights on horseback, poised to charge with swords drawn, stand in deep alcoves facing each other. The brazier sits between them.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We aren't really ones to talk I Fear"

"MOst of our plans would make trained tacticians weep"

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah, so when WE say that about him..."

"...what is this place?"

Ireena Kolyana: "It looks like some kind of..."

Ireena shrugs.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whips her head around, studying the place with fascination.

Marcus Veranius attempts to read the inscription

GM: (You should see a handout now with the inscription)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae quickly scribbles out notes. This has potential to be very VERY helpful.

Marcus Veranius: "Mordenkainen mentioned this was some kind of teleportation chamber."

Suldae Westwind: Assuming it's true, but hey. Why would lies be here.

Marcus Veranius: "We ought to keep this room in mind if yellow leads to a Master's Tomb."

Suldae Westwind: "Red, blue and green..." Suldae mutters.

Ireena Kolyana: "This could be quite useful..."

Suldae Westwind: Green is probably where they were planning to go. The other two, uh, well.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I wonder why he stopped using it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So green right?" Henry says looking at the others

Marcus Veranius: "Umm."

"We're in the castle now."

"Probably don't need to use this yet."

Suldae Westwind: "...You know what it is?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, I think it's pretty clear it's a teleportation device, right?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Are there doors into the room?

Ireena Kolyana: "You toss one of the stones in, it takes you to a predetermined destination."

GM: (Yes, there are doors in the room: three at the north wall and one at the south)

Suldae Westwind: "We're not at the castle's peak," Suldae points out.

Marcus Veranius: "Right then! We are looking for the hall of bones where our holy symbol rests! Let's detect a Silver Dragon Skull and get a hint as to where to go."

Ireena Kolyana: "Or it's an awful booby trap."

Marcus Veranius casts Detect Objects

Marcus Veranius:

Locate Object

Divination 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V, S, M (A forked twig)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Describe or name an object that is familiar to you. You sense the direction to the object's location, as long as that object is within 1,000 feet of you. If the object is in motion, you know the direction of its movement. The spell can locate a specific object known to you, as long as you have seen it up close—within 30 feet—at least once. Alternatively, the spell can locate the nearest object of a particular kind, such as a certain kind of apparel, jewelry, furniture, tool, or weapon. This spell can't locate an object if any thickness of lead, even a thin sheet, blocks a direct path between you and the object.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tests the doors to see if they are locked and if they are not he tries to peek out of each Liliet (Suldae): A very functional booby trap, Suldae had to admit. If she were on her own, she'd need some serious willpower to not follow the lure.

GM: (One sec, locating the skull)

(Want to be sure I'm giving you accurate information)

(This is a six story map)

Marcus Veranius: (Theoretically it's in the BONES ROOM with our holy symbol)

(If the prophecy is right anyways)

GM: (Oh, I know where it is)

(I'm just trying to make sure I can give you good relative directions)

Suldae Westwind: (I love the phrasing of "I know where it is")

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM has to think in 3 dimensions right now please stand by)

Marcus senses that the skull is directly above the party's current position.

Henry of Willowsbrook: So what's behind doors one through four?

Marcus Veranius looks up

Marcus Veranius: "It's... right above us?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the ceiling.

There's the reasonable way, and then there's the fast way.

What are the odds Strahd can tell when his castle is getting broken?

Probably too high, alas.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm going to be honest. Not really prepared for this."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs.

"Are any of us, ever, for anything here?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well should we look for stairs?"

GM: (To clarify, it's one floor above you)

Marcus Veranius: "We look for stairs!"

Suldae Westwind: "Probably a better idea than breaking the ceiling," Suldae agrees.

"Not that I would do that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: GM Henry wanted to check the doors

Marcus Veranius: "Tank team! Lights on! Breach south!"

GM: (What's that aura for)

Apparatus of Kwalish turns on its lights 30 ft bright, 30 ft dim

Apparatus of Kwalish turns 90 degrees, south

Suldae Westwind: so basically we're all blinded

Apparatus of Kwalish: (No, bright as in no penalties for vision)

GM: (Don't worry, none of the rooms are large enough for that to matter)

Suldae Westwind: (the aura looked like we are)

Apparatus of Kwalish goes forward

Suldae Westwind: That poor door.

Through the door on the southern wall, you find a small alcove and a long red velvet curtain, completely barring your path.

Apparatus of Kwalish continues through the curtain. The tank goes where the tank wants!

The northern doors open onto staircases. The central staircase has fog rolling down it from the landing above. All three staircases seem to ascend.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Stairs are over here folks" Henry calls out over the noise of a door being turned to firewood

Apparatus of Kwalish knocks over chairs

Marcus Veranius: "Wha... wait turn around!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae reaches for Marcus and pats him on the shoulder sympathetically.

You see a massive chamber full of brackish standing water. It sparkles darkly in the light of the apparatus. Where you stand, you are on a balcony ten feet above what seems to have once been a torture chamber. You recognize the rack, the bed of nails, the iron maiden, the stocks. The skeletons of their last victims still lie within them, their jaws seemingly frozen open in silent screams.

Suldae Westwind: Maybe the giant crab should not be the scout.

Two red chairs sit on this balcony overlooking the waterlogged torture chamber.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So we have 3 sets of stairs which one do we pick?"

Apparatus of Kwalish turns 90 degrees.

Apparatus of Kwalish turns 90 degrees.

Apparatus of Kwalish goes forward

Apparatus of Kwalish turns 90 degrees.

Apparatus of Kwalish: We all know where this is going.

Marcus Veranius: "The tank can't take the round stairs."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the mechanized crab thing "Yeah I was just thinking that"

Marcus Veranius: "...maybe?"

"It's a barrel. Maybe we can roll it up."

Suldae Westwind: "I think it's a little heavy for that if we don't use magic"

"In which case there have to be better ideas than rolling."

"Anyway we do have two other options..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So then it comes down to do we take the creepy foggy stairs or the only creepy because they are inside this damn castle stairs?"

Marcus Veranius: "Tank! Retract claws."

Rictavio: "We could split up?"

Apparatus of Kwalish retracts claws

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda slaps him on the back of the head. "Not funny."

Marcus Veranius: "Look, if Hiere can do this in a winehouse with wooden barrels, we can do it with a sturdy metal one in a castle."

Kasimir Velikov: "Have you considered the amount of noise?"

"I imagine it is only a matter of time before Strahd realizes we are here."

Ireena Kolyana: "That's true, we don't really have time to debate..."

Marcus Veranius: "...spiral stairs for the symbol, then we come back down for the tank."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So fog or no fog?"

Henry tries to gauge how far up each stair case should take them if he can do that

Apparatus of Kwalish moves to guard one of the staircases

Suldae Westwind: "Spiral stairs first," Suldae agrees.

Worst case scenario, how soundproof is this castle? If the tank does anything at all, they'll probably hear.

"...We shouldn't go too far away though."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait why are we so obsseed with the spiral stair case?)

Apparatus of Kwalish: (The skull, and holy symbol, are directly above us. The spiral staircase turns inwards.)

Suldae Westwind: (Well for one it goes right where we need to go)

(that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (kay yeah makes sense)

"So who takes the lead?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at the guys with the swords.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena just looks at Henry. When the Tank asks who should go in front...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Right redundant question"

Marcus Veranius pats Henry on the shoulder

Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry, big guy."

"But you're probably scarier than anything we're going to find in here."

Suldae Westwind: "We have your back," Suldae follows up.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs drawing his War Pick and snapping the shield to his arm
"Onwards and upwards as they say, I think my homes flat as a lake"

A blazing hearth fire fills this room with rolling waves of red and amber light. The walls are lined with ancient books and tomes, their leather covers well oiled and preserved through careful use. All is in order here. The stone floor is concealed beneath a thick, luxurious rug. In the center of the room is a large, low table, waxed and polished to a mirrored finish. Even the poker in its stand next to the blazing fireplace is polished. Large, overstuffed divans and couches are arranged about the room. Two chairs of burgundy-colored wood with padded leather seats and back cushions face the hearth. A huge painting hangs over the mantelpiece in a heavy, gilded frame. The rolling firelight illuminates the carefully rendered portrait. It is an exact likeness of Ireena Kolyana.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at the painting over Henry's shoulder.

That's never going to not be creepy.

Marcus Veranius stares at the painting

Marcus Veranius blinks

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shudders and squeezes Suldae's hand, averting her eyes.

Marcus Veranius flips through his notes

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We have been in here for what 5 minutes and I'm already sick of this place"
Henry says glaring at the portrait

Suldae Westwind: Suldae half-hugs her, careful in the cramped staircase.

Marcus Veranius blinks again

Marcus Veranius: "...you have got to be joking..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Which way now Marcus?"

Suldae Westwind: "...Why is the fireplace lit?" Suldae asks the next obvious question, arrived at by means of wondering if they could burn the painting.

Marcus Veranius double checks his skull-tracking spell before speaking more Suldae Westwind: Is there firewood in there?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Maybe Strahd likes to keep his servants busy by just having them keep all rooms presentable at all times?"
presentable

Marcus Veranius: (Is the Dragon Skull to the west of us?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps further into the room keeping his shield up and watching his step to avoid any obvious patterns in the rug

Suldae Westwind: "Barovia does have thick forests, but maybe not this thick," Suldae answers.
(waiting for DM)
(Can Suldae see what's burning?)

GM: (Sorry, one sec)

Marcus senses that the dragon skull is below your current location. Suldae sees that there is nothing in the fireplace actually being consumed; the fire is some kind of spell. Henry, roll Perception or Investigation.

Marcus Veranius: "...well the skull is below us now."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

15 + 1

PERCEPTION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry does not spot any traps.

 Marcus Veranius: "I have good news and bad news."

 Ireena Kolyana: "Wrong staircase?"

 Marcus Veranius: "That's the bad news."

 Suldae Westwind: How long were they going up?

"...Yeah, that's magical fire."

Suldae stares at it.

"...Ireena, wanna burn that painting anyway?"

It's hard to tell on the stairs in this castle. They all seem endless, until quite suddenly you're at the end of them. You could have climbed quite some distance.

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at it. She cocks her head slightly.

"You know what? No, not really."

"It's not a painting of me. It's a painting of her."

"I think she deserves to be remembered. We'll give her portrait a better home. If it's not evil. Or cursed. Or haunted. Or possessed."

 Marcus Veranius: "I would say it's a painting of a woman of great beauty." Marcus remarks.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "So do we go back down and try another staircase?"

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up to the portrait and examines it..

31

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

24

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Is there anything wrong with the idea of taking it?

The portrait is old. Very old. It has been very well preserved. It is four feet wide and six feet tall.

 Marcus Veranius: "Don't touch it."

It is not magical in any noticeable way.

 Suldae Westwind: "...Will it fit in the tank?"

However, Suldae senses a faint draft coming from behind the back wall of the fireplace.

 Ireena Kolyana: "I'd rather not take it now."

"We can get it later..."

 Suldae Westwind: "...there might be a secret door there."

"Yeah, good plan anyway."

"Let's go back down."

Marcus Veranius: "The fifth prophecy. A vault of temptation hidden behind a woman of great beauty."

"The card that leads us to him."

Kasimir Velikov: "Oh..."

"And yet he is not here, is he?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Where's the vault of temptation, though?"

Marcus Veranius: "Well we aren't behind the painting yet are we."

Rictavio: "I'm afraid I don't follow, dear boy."

Suldae Westwind: "Let's not find out what the vault is?" Suldae suggests and leads the way back down.

Marcus Veranius: "I suspect a painting that large might be covering a secret passage, or the trigger for one."

"Strahd will surely know if we meddle with it."

"So let's remember this room later."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry claps his hands once "Could we get the Holy Symbol of great things first? Before we try to be clever again?"

Marcus Veranius nods

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Great" Henry takes the lead down "Center or left next?"

Marcus Veranius: "Center. Actual tank first."

(Actually, left seems to go upwards)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (all of them go up)

Suldae Westwind: (they both go upwards i think?)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d2

(1)

= 1

This staircase of ancient stone is worn smooth. Thick dust covers its steps, and cobwebs choke the passage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Or right then..." Henry says seeing Marcus head that way first

Marcus Veranius lets the tank lead first, weapon at the ready

The moment the tank reaches the landing, a faint glow fills the air, coming from under the tank.

A sickly mist fills the stairway ahead, barring your path.

It coalesces suddenly into the form of the vampire Strahd, his eyes blazing like two crimson stars.

Strahd von Zarovich: "You have worn out your welcome," he says, quite calmly. "Whatever gods you believe in cannot save you now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do we even see him around the corner?)

Marcus Veranius leans over the tank

GM: (He's hovering in the air near the landing)
(Roll Initiative)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 8.15

Marcus Veranius:

20

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

14.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

INITIATIVE
Apparatus of Kwalish
Initiative: 9

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE
Strahd von Zarovich
Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius
Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana
Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov
Initiative: 6

INITIATIVE
Rictavio
Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 9

Ezmerelda Veranius: "What's going on? I can't see! Are we in trouble?"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's Strahd!"

8

PERCEPTION (6)

GM: (Dammit Ireena)

Ireena Kolyana:

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

4

Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

Henry of Willowsbrook: (What else did you expect?)

Suldae Westwind: (I swear to fuck)

(This is not how probability works, yet the curse is clearly real)

Determined to hurt him at any cost, Ireena unleashes a casting of Magic Missile. Unfortunately, she pops it off too quickly, loosing it at only level one.

The darts pass harmlessly through "Strahd."

Ireena Kolyana: "What...?"

Suldae Westwind: "Hey, who can try to dispel that?" Suldae asks.

With a chuckle, Strahd melts away like a wax doll in a bonfire, leaving no trace behind.

The faint glow fades from the area. It does seem to have been localized under the apparatus of Kwalish.

Ireena Kolyana: "Well."

Rictavio: "I'm too old for this sort of thing."

Marcus Veranius: "So much for stealth. Loud time!"

Kasimir Velikov: "Wait!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...of cause he used his own face for that" Henry mutters

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir puts up a hand.

"Move the apparatus, please."

Suldae Westwind: "...That might have been an automated trap and he still has no idea," Suldae suggests.

Marcus Veranius: (out of initiative?)

"Err, tank forward?"

GM: (Yes)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir squeezes his way gently to the front of the group, then crouches on the landing.

With a wave of his hand, he creates a gentle gust of air, which blasts the dust from the stone.

An intricate glyph, made of many interweaving lines of stone, is revealed from under the dust.

"A Glyph of Warding. Perhaps not the only one we will encounter."

"That was merely a pre-programmed illusion."

Ireena Kolyana: "I thought he didn't seem very personal."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Hey! It's still daytime, too. Can he even be awake right now?"

Rictavio: Rictavio waffles a hand. "He's not awake, but he's not asleep either."

Marcus Veranius: "I didn't think Strahd would stoop to parlor tricks, but this might work on the peasantry."

Marcus Veranius pretends to not have been fooled

Kasimir Velikov: "I imagine many amateur adventurers have soiled themselves here, yes."

"Perhaps before dying grisly and brutal deaths."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Right then, shall we?"

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae was, in fact, expecting this to be a trick, but she pretends she buys Marcus's bluster as well.)

Marcus Veranius skips the landing and marches forward

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...This place better not beat the Amber Temple or I'm going to be so damn pissed"

GM: (Awkward)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is muttering to himself tension mixing with annoyance now on his face
Anything else on the stairs?

Before we reach the next exit I mean

There is nothing else on the stairs aside from cobwebs. Soon you reach what seems to be the back of a bookshelf. It blocks the hallway completely, perhaps the undecorated backside of a secret door.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Break it?" Henry suggests

Marcus Veranius: "My wrong way senses are tingling."
"Screw it, break the thing down."

Marcus senses that the party is now on the same floor as the skull. It lies to the south somewhere, but quite near.

Marcus Veranius: (Scratch what Marcus said. He has right way senses)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry knocks on the Crab "Onwards" he says

CRUNCH.

As the apparatus walks through the wooden wall in a hail of books and splintering timber, something shrieks a hellish shriek, and swoops over the apparatus—a black shadow.

15 to hit

Apparatus of Kwalish is made of sturdier stuff than that!

Something like claws rake across the metal hide of the apparatus, sending a little shower of sparks into the room. Then the shadowy shrieking thing swoops on to some other part of the room.

Ismark Kolyanovich: The Apparatus lumbers forward into a room that is in absolutely perfect order, aside from one smashed bookshelf/wall. A great table stands here with its chair, inkwell, and quill set carefully in place. Lances, swords, and shields that bear the Barovian crest are hung neatly on the dark, oak-paneled walls.

GM: (Grr)

The Apparatus lumbers forward into a room that is in absolutely perfect order, aside from one smashed bookshelf/wall. A great table stands here with its chair, inkwell, and quill set carefully in place. Lances, swords, and shields that bear the Barovian crest are hung neatly on the dark, oak-paneled walls.

GM: (Sorry about that)

Rahadin is seated at the table. He does not seem to have noticed anything amiss.

He looks down at an empty desk, his hands composed thoughtfully before him.

Marcus Veranius: Another illusion. Marcus will not be fooled.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae throws a dagger at him.

GM: (Roll the attack please)

Suldae Westwind:

27

20/60

Dagger of Venom (+8)

Sulda Westwind

4
Piercing13The dagger sticks deep in his head.Rahadin: "Mmmmph."Sulda Westwind: Suldae blinks. That wasn't one of the anticipated options.*Rahadin emits a strange, dull, brainless moan.Henry of Willowsbrook: "...we've barely been here and I'm already sick of this places brand of nonsense" Henry saysSulda Westwind: Suldae elects to keep her silence on that to prevent from jinxing it.
(can we have the next map)GM: (lmao I thought I had already moved you, sorry)Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hurls his War Pick at the Rahadin? The Rahadouble24

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

16
Piercing1
Acid*His warpick rips through the figure meatily, scattering chunks and limbs in all directions. They splatter the walls and bounce around for a while like the results of an awful rotted-meat piñata.Rahadin: The meat is thick with maggots, and clearly quite rotten.Sulda Westwind: "Ewwwwwwwww"Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir cocks an eyebrow and covers his mouth with his cape, avoiding the stench.
"A zombie. Under Seeming... Locked in place."Ismark Kolyanovich: "What a sick memorial..."Sulda Westwind: Suldae collects her dagger and cleans it with Prestidigitation.
She cleans the apparatus as well.Marcus Veranius: "...well, I take back what I said."Sulda Westwind: And Henry's warpick.Marcus Veranius: "Suppose Strahd DID care for Rahadin in some manner."Ireena Kolyana: "I guess he missed having him around..."
"Jeez, he's probably really unhinged now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches the Pick "...Moving on where to next?"

Suldae Westwind: "News of the century, that," Suldae comments dryly.

Strahd? Unhinged?

Marcus Veranius: "Breach south."

Suldae Westwind: Who could have ever imagined.

Suldae scrambles out of the way of the tank. The summoned vikings seem to be really enjoying that thing. She can relate.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes a quick look back at the remains "Why do I have the felling that wasn't the last one we've seen"

Warrior of Valhalla: "SKOL! NOW WE ARE THE GIANT THAT SMASHES!"

This thirty-foot-square room is a shambles. Scattered furniture lies in heaps near the walls. Broken bones lie scattered amid crumpled and crushed plate armor. Shields and swords jut from the walls as if driven into them by some tremendous force. A dark archway leads through the east wall towards a passage which runs twenty feet to a staircase. Some alcoves here contain rotting cots and dirty rags.

A set of double doors on the southern hall seems to be the only barrier between Marcus and the skull.

Marcus Veranius grabs a Barovian Shield from the wall in the office and follows the tank south

Marcus Veranius: "Right then, we don't know what traps Strahd has put on this artifact to keep it secure here."

"Be ready for anything."

Marcus Veranius readies to light the Sunsword once Viking Tank crashes through the door

Dark stains cover the floor of this area. Large oak tables, scarred and beaten, lay scattered like toys about the room, their wood crushed and splintered. Replacing them are furnishings made entirely of human bones.

The walls and the twenty-foot-high vaulted ceiling are a sickly yellow color, not because of faded or timeworn plaster but because they are adorned with bones and skulls arranged in a morbidly decorative fashion, giving the room a cathedral-like quality. Four enormous mounds of bones occupy the corners of this ossuary, and garlands of skulls extend from these mounds to a chandelier of bones that hangs from the ceiling above a long table constructed of bones in the center of the room. Ten chairs made of bones and festooned with decorative skulls surround the table, resting atop which is an ornate, bowl-shaped vessel made of yet more bones.

The doors to the north and south are sheathed in bone, but the steel-banded double doors in the center of the east wall are not. Above these eastern doors is mounted the skull of a dragon.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae readies her halo weapon in the event of clear hostiles.

(whoops two seconds too late)

Lying on the bone table is an amulet...

Suldae Westwind: ...and is instead confronted with an ossuary.

She cannot stop looking.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...That's a lot of bones" Henry says looking around

Marcus Veranius looks over the room, grinning widely at what he sees

Ireena Kolyana: "There must be...."

Suldae Westwind: This place is beautiful, in its own morbid way.

Ireena Kolyana: "Hundreds of people here."

Suldae Westwind: Also that, not like that's news.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's eyes blaze with white fire.

Marcus Veranius: "All that remains of enemies long forgotten." Marcus remarks.

Ismark Kolyanovich: He steps past the others and further into the room, approaching the skull of the dragon.

Marcus Veranius: "The last prophecy we've yet to uncover."

Marcus Veranius follows Ismark

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Anyone wanna bet on how they are trapped?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark reaches up his arms.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows Marcus and Ismark

Marcus Veranius helps Ismark

The hollow sockets of the dragon's skull fill with silvery flame.

Henry of Willowsbrook: bet

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Don't touch it!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae just watches, mesmerized.

Everything that happens in this room will be the stuff of legends.

Ismark Kolyanovich: In Draconic, he mutters: "Argynvost, captive no longer. Return to us, and join us in vengeance."

Faintly, somewhere outside the castle, you hear the roaring scream of an ancient silver dragon.

With a crunching sound, several pieces of bone furniture suddenly collapse.

Bits of the chandelier rip themselves free, and fall to the ground and roll in the general direction of the skull.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Uh, guys..."

Marcus Veranius: "You know, Vistani prophecies have a funny way of fulfilling themselves."

Kasimir Velikov: "This room is a little small..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae dashes for the holy symbol before it's buried in an avalanche of bones or something.

Trap or no trap.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Soooo remind me who just said don't touch it?"

It seems a majority of the bones in this chamber once belonged to Argynvost, who now begins to reassemble himself.

In a few moments, much to the chagrin of every piece of furniture in the room, he is whole once more—a skeleton joined together by flames of vengeance, wrapped in the spectral memory of silver flesh.

Argynvost howls his fury.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...We now he definatly knows we're down here"
well

Marcus Veranius: "Hello, our powerful force for good and protection!" Marcus bows, still grinning widely.

Marcus Veranius intended for this very thing to happen the entire time

Argynvost is brimming with icy rage. His soul has been imprisoned for a long, long time. Bringing his great undead head low to look Marcus in the eye, he says: "Where. Is. Strahd."

Suldae Westwind: (Meanwhile, Suldae has grabbed the symbol.)

Marcus Veranius points upwards

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to Ismark "How long have you been able to make more Revenage driven murder undead?" he asks

Revange

Revenge

Ismark Kolyanovich: "That wasn't me. That was his own power. He brought me back, just like all the rest of them. But he couldn't bring himself back... Not without one of us."

Marcus Veranius: "I suppose you can take things over from here, good sir? No need to have Ismark lead the armies?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry nods turning to the Dragon "HOw long have you been dead ?"

The Dragon, it seems, has no interest in conversation at the moment. As soon as Marcus points upwards, it is gone, spreading wide its massive wings and launching itself straight through the ceiling.

The ceiling remains, whole and undamaged. It seems Argynvost is not bound by mere physical matter at the moment.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll take that as a yes."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Yeesh."

Marcus Veranius claps his hands together

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well that certainly just happend"

 Ireena Kolyana: "What's our next move? Quick!"

 Sulda Westwind: (The holy symbol is inert?)

The castle rumbles.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Suldae you got the Holy thingy?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Plan's going well so far! Just one small hitch."

The holy symbol is crackling with power. Unfortunately, there is no obvious way to tap it. (Requires attunement)

 Marcus Veranius: (Fuck :D)

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae lifts it, showing Henry, then hides it next to her Correllon's one. Later.

 Rictavio: "Now we find Strahd and put him out of his misery."

Marcus Veranius pats Ismark on the shoulder

 Rictavio: "Best, I think, if we can find him before it begins to get dark."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Great so now we have reached the part of the plan where we go and kill Strahd right"

 Marcus Veranius: "I've got one loose end to tie before that."

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae stands next to him.

 Marcus Veranius: "Suldae, are you certain the Reincarnate spell will work?"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae closes her eyes. Is she?
"It would be unconscionable to not try," she replies.

 Marcus Veranius: "In that case, I have a proposition."

 Sulda Westwind: It is one of the boons bestowed by the tome she'd read, in addition to the wisdom contained to it. It's as though there's a thread tying her to it, bestowing power for as long as she is true to what she learned. And there is a shape to that power...

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to Ireena and murmurs "Do you know what they are talking about?"

 Marcus Veranius: "Kasimir, I owe you the world. And to that, I have figured a way to end Kasimir's curse of the revenant."

 Sulda Westwind: (Kasimir?)

 Marcus Veranius: *Ismark

*Feck

We doin this for Kasimir though

Suldae Westwind: (i propose you retype that again)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh nevermind he explained it" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "Kasimir, I owe you the world. And to that, I have figured a way to end Ismark's curse of the revenant."

"If he falls, and Suldae brings him back, he may do so as full flesh and blood."

"But I can only do this if you are willing to try."

"No sneak-ambushes or surprises."

"If this works, we all leave this castle with our own happy endings."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark raises a finger. "Uh, objection, your honor."

"Reincarnate means new body. Also, not-revenant body. Maybe it's best to save this for after we all survive?"

Kasimir Velikov: "I assure you, I would still love you even if you were a Goliath."

"If you were a gnome, I would still think you were a pretty swell pal."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark punches Kasimir gently in the shoulder without looking at him. "But seriously."

Marcus Veranius: "Well... you've mentioned fading away after Strahd's death. We kindof can't put this off."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We kill Strahd, I die, you... Try to call me back."

Suldae Westwind: "Also there are other people who care about you in the room," Suldae adds.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "If I'm able to come, I'll come."

Marcus Veranius: "Also one of my anti-Strahd weapons will literally melt your face off."

"We kindof need to do this now."

Ireena Kolyana: Wordlessly, Ireena throws a huge hug onto Ismark.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark tears up a little in Ireena's arms.

He swallows tightly.

"Alright," He says. "Let's do this."

He looks at Kasimir.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir kisses him once, then steps back.

"I am afraid that I shall not be able to watch."

He turns away.

Ireena Kolyana: "It's going to be alright, Ismark," Ireena says.

"You're going to live."

Marcus Veranius: "This is going to hurt for just a moment."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark spreads his arms wide.

"I'm ready."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae reaches for the power. It is at her fingertips, fluttering.

Marcus Veranius takes a knife and cuts off a lock of hair

Marcus Veranius passes it to Suldae

Ismark Kolyanovich: "You know, technically, this isn't my original body."

"Does that matter?"

Suldae Westwind: "You are you," Suldae says with more conviction than she truly has.

Marcus Veranius: "Finders keepers."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well... If you're sure."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks between Marcus and Suldae briefly "Why didn't you tell me you were planning this?" Henry mutters to himself "It's not like I'm the type to gossip"

To Ismark he says "You'll be fine Izzy"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives him a wan smile. "Didn't want to jinx it?"

Marcus Veranius lights the sunsword

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh hello Strahd token)

Marcus Veranius gets ready to swing

GM: (Roll perception)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 1

PERCEPTION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind:

25

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius:

28

PERCEPTION (12)
Marcus Veranius

Ismark Kolyanovich: All three of you notice, at the same time, that Strahd von Zarovich is calmly seated in the last remaining intact chair, near an intact section of table beside Rictavio. He is holding a human skull in one hand, contemplating it lazily.

GM: (Imagine that was in the narrator's voice. My bad)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh, please. Don't interrupt your little ritual on my account. Do continue."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Strahd von Zarovich: "You know, Ismark, I'm pretty sure this one is yours."

"It's so hard to tell after all the what do you call it is gone. Flesh."

"Yes," he says, picking at one of his teeth with a fingernail.

"Could be yours."

"Could be one of hers." He glances at Ireena.

"Darling, you are radiant this evening."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Or is it morning?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hurls the Warpick

GM: (Roll the attack)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

33

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

17
Piercing

6
Acid

The warpick rips through the chair and the table, and passes through Strahd harmlessly.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh, please."

"As if I'd be such an amateur."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Read the room you prick"

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd watches the hammer come flying back to Henry's hand.

"Interesting little trick. I have something rather like it..."

"But I'll wait."

He sits back in his illusory chair, putting his feet up on the illusory table.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We can go somewhere else, guys."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir's eyes flash with hot rage.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll not let you cast doubt on this evening. You may not recognize it, but this is what genuine love looks like."

"One where BOTH partners accept it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the others before saying in a stage whisper "I almost forgot how horribly smarmy and annoying he sounds"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Mhmm."

"As I said, I was enjoying the show."

"Please, do continue."

Kasimir Velikov: A blast of powerful magic rips outward from Kasimir, briefly guttering the torches and the light of the apparatus.

Antimagic Field

Abjuration 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (10-foot-radius sphere)

Target: Self (10-foot-radius sphere)

Components: V, S, M (A pinch of powdered iron or iron fillings)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 hour

A 10-foot-radius invisible sphere of antimagic surrounds you. This area is divorced from the magical energy that suffuses the multiverse.

Within the sphere, spells can't be cast, summoned creatures disappear, and even magic items become mundane. Until the spell ends, the sphere moves with you, centered on you. Spells and other magical effects, except those created by an artifact or a deity, are suppressed in the sphere and can't protrude into it. A slot expended to cast a suppressed spell is consumed. While an effect is suppressed, it doesn't function, but the time it spends suppressed counts against its duration.

Targeted Effects. Spells and other magical effects, such as magic missile and charm person, that target a creature or an object in the sphere have no effect on that target. Areas of Magic. The area of another spell or magical effect, such as fireball, can't extend into the sphere. If the sphere overlaps an area of magic, the part of the area that is covered by the sphere is suppressed. For example, the flames created by a wall of fire are suppressed within the sphere, creating a gap in the wall if the overlap is large enough. Spells. Any active spell or other magical effect on a creature or an object in the sphere is suppressed while the creature or object is in it. Magic Items. The properties and powers of magic items are suppressed in the sphere. For example, a +1 longsword in the sphere functions as a nonmagical longsword. A magic weapon's properties and powers are suppressed if it is used against a target in the sphere or wielded by an attacker in the sphere. If a magic weapon or a piece of magic ammunition fully leaves the sphere (for example, if you fire a magic arrow or throw a magic spear at a target outside the sphere), the magic of the item ceases to be suppressed as soon as it exits.

Magical Travel. Teleportation and planar travel fail to work in the sphere, whether the sphere is the destination or the departure point for such magical travel. A portal to another location, world, or plane of existence, as well as an opening to an extradimensional space such as that created by the rope trick spell, temporarily closes while in the sphere. Creatures and Objects. A creature or object summoned or created by magic temporarily winks out of existence in the sphere. Such a creature instantly reappears once the space the creature occupied is no longer within the sphere. Dispel Magic. Spells and magical effects such as dispel magic have no effect on the sphere. Likewise, the spheres created by different antimagic field spells don't nullify each other.

The moment it hits, it passes, and the magic returns to the space.

The illusory Strahd is gone.

Kasimir Velikov: "Come. There isn't time for delay."

Marcus Veranius 's Disguise Self spell fizzles out

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Like does he practice that in front of the mirror? How to best sound like an annoying douche? Wait can Vampires use Mirrors? Rictavio do you know that?"

Marcus Veranius: "Well fine then!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae focuses again.

Marcus Veranius attempts a quick execution of Ismark

Suldae Westwind: There is fear in her, but no doubt.
She knows what to do.

Rictavio: "Oh, no. Vampires can't see their own reflection. It's a wonder he gets his makeup on so precisely!"

"Probably uses magic."

Marcus Veranius: (Do I need to roll for this or can we assume it works)
(The stabbing bit)

GM: (We can assume Marcus isn't going to miss a willing target)

Suldae Westwind:

Reincarnate

Transmutation 5

Casting Time: 1 hour

Range: Touch

Target: A dead humanoid or a piece of a dead humanoid

Components: V, S, M (Rare oils and unguents worth at least 1,000 gp, which the spell consumes)

Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a dead humanoid or a piece of a dead humanoid. Provided that the creature has been dead no longer than 10 days, the spell forms a new adult body for it and then calls the soul to enter that body. If the target's soul isn't free or willing to do so, the spell fails. The magic fashions a new body for the creature to inhabit, which likely causes the creature's race to change. The GM rolls a d100 and consults the following table to determine what form the creature takes when restored to life, or the GM chooses a form. d100 Race 01–04 Dragonborn 05–13 Dwarf, hill 14–21 Dwarf, mountain 22–25 Elf, dark 26–34 Elf, high 35–42 Elf, wood 43–46 Gnome, forest 47–52 Gnome, rock 53–56 Half-elf 57–60 Half-orc 61–68 Halfling, lightfoot 69–76 Halfling, stout 77–96 Human 97–00 Tiefling The reincarnated creature recalls its former life and experiences. It retains the capabilities it had in its original form, except it exchanges its original race for the new one and changes its racial traits accordingly.

Rictavio: rolling 1d100

(89)

= 89

GM: Lmao no way

He's human again

Henry of Willowsbrook: Neat

Suldae Westwind: (cast thru the book and therefore 1 action long and not what that says lol) and NICE

GM: (Do you want to roleplay killing him, Marcus?)

Suldae Westwind: rolling d6

(4)

= 4

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Can I note that I find it mildly amusing that 69 turns you into a tiefling?)

GM: (I'm sure that's an inside joke)

Suldae Westwind:

e>

E>

Marcus Veranius raises the sunsword high. Knowing the sight is likely uncomfortable, he quickly brightens the blade as to blind the others the moment he swings. One swift cut downwards to burn away a revenant's body

Ismark falls, mostly ash.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait I can't read 69 turns you into a halfling)

GM: (Can you RP the spell for us, Suldae?)

Suldae Westwind: (ye was going to)

Kasimir Velikov flinches in the flash.

Suldae Westwind: The power rips force the moment Ismark's body crumbles, held back only until it could take hold. It is not Suldae's own will guiding it; no, this is a gift. One that is hers to pass on.

Ireena Kolyana paces, not looking in that direction, fidgeting with her hands and staring at the walls.

Suldae Westwind: *forth not force

jeez

A soul bound by the need for revenge twists for a moment in the void between planes. Elysium calls it, but so too does Bahamut by proxy. He dangles in the darkness, still lost in the final pain.

A music moves through the darkness, a sound that reminds him of everything he has left behind.

Revenge vanishes. Its tethers no longer bind him.

He follows the sound, forgetting his pain.

With a thunderclap and a pulse of blinding light and a rolling sound of singing angels, Ismark stands before you—completely himself, completely human, completely alive, and completely naked.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Whoopie! Nobody look!"

He flexes his muscles and rolls his shoulders, and his shadow thickens and steams black mist that wraps him smoothly in fine dark cloth.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the remains of Ismarks clothes "...so did anyone bring a spare shirt? This ones got a new big hole"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "We're good! You can look!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Neat," Suldae produces, as she steps back, briefly overwhelmed.

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir turns and stares.

"Ismark?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "It's me."

Suldae Westwind: This is not the first time she defies death. It does not stop being a miracle.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Kasimir is far too dignified to run to him, and Ismark knows this. He does the running instead.

Henry of Willowsbrook: How different does he look?

Suldae Westwind: (i think not at all if the race didnt change)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Aside from looking five years younger, and not made of slowly rotting corpse, he's identical.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is not too dignified for running, so she throws herself into the group hug.

Rictavio: Rictavio carefully looks away and rubs under his glasses with a finger.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Wow."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands there and smiles, overwhelmed.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Every time I think I'm blown away, you guys manage to pull something else off."

Suldae Westwind: They did it? It worked?

Oh, Strahd is still alive, whatever.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Could you have made him blond?" Henry asks "Not that I think theres anything wrong with his hair but I think it would suit him"

Suldae Westwind: This was the important bit.

"I don't decide," Suldae said.

Not looking at Henry.

Marcus Veranius puts the Hat of Disguise on Ismark

Suldae Westwind: "This was a miracle of luck, on top of a... regular miracle."

Marcus Veranius: "Please... please... illusion clothes."

Suldae Westwind: "You know what I mean."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Could he have turned blonde?" Henry says walking up to ismark

Suldae Westwind: (he has clothes)

(the DM said that twice)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh)

(I am big dumb)

Suldae Westwind: "...maybe if he turned into a species that could only have blond hair?"

GM: (I love that you were picturing Kasimir and Ireena both hugging on naked Ismark and didn't say anything)

(Lmao)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I like my hair!"

Kasimir Velikov: "I'd like you even without it. I'm afraid it is greying."

"Goodness, somehow that makes it feel even more like I'm robbing the cradle. My hair went white sixty years ago."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh yeah, I guess I'd better become a vampire now, so we can be together forever."

Marcus Veranius: "We're not making that joke."

Kasimir Velikov: "I've got maybe eighty years left. I can mourn you for forty or so."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae slaps him at a distance.

Mage Hand is very convenient.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs "I just said I think it would suit you" and with a big grin he picks up all 3 of them in a bear hug

Suldae Westwind: *slaps his head

"Hey, is this a good time to remember we're inside Strahd's castle?"

Rictavio: "This is really quite something. I didn't believe it was possible to return a Revenant from their condition? Some of the greatest clerics in history have attempted it, to no avail."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae speaks up.

Kasimir Velikov: "You knew that before we began, and said nothing?"

Suldae Westwind: "And good thing he did!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Right, Strahd's castle!"

Suldae Westwind: "But. Strahd."

Marcus Veranius retreats back to Ezmerelda, enjoying the sight.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Suldae's right, Strahd first. Everything else next."

Marcus Veranius: "Well, my ledger's clear now. We can botch this and I'll die with no regrets."

Ezmerelda Veranius: (Privately, to Marcus): "You did good. I would not have had the courage to kill him."

Kasimir Velikov: "Thank you, Marcus. Suldae."

Marcus Veranius whispers back. "It hurt, a lot."

Suldae Westwind: That was terrifying! Time to relax by killing the terrifying undying vampire, lord of the land!

Henry of Willowsbrook: Setting Ismark, Ireena and Kasimir bback down Henry says "Well that was a great appetizer what do you say we move on to the main course, killing Strahd right in his stupid face"

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda gives Marcus's hand a squeeze. "Right," she says. "We're all alive now. Let's keep it that way."

Suldae Westwind: "Say, we're not dying yet. We might want to take this time," Suldae says and takes out the holy symbol.

Ireena Kolyana: "Which way...?"

Marcus Veranius: "We wanna try bringing back anyone else in this room before we head out?"

Ireena Kolyana: "What are we looking for?"

Marcus Veranius: "Back to that painting room is our current direction."

Suldae Westwind: "Hold on, hold on."

Rictavio: "The heart!"

"Remember? We still have to break it!"

Marcus Veranius: "A..."

"..."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, this!" Suldae waves the symbol in everyone's faces.

Marcus Veranius: Bollocks!

Ismark Kolyanovich: "It... It will take all day to search a castle this large!"

Suldae Westwind: (So, big question. Does the book count as taking up one of Suldae's attunement slots?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes.)

GM: (I believe it does, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Suldae turns to Ireena.

"Maybe you should have this."

GM: (Only a cleric or a paladin can attune to the amulet)

Marcus Veranius: (Do we wanna give the symbol to Henry? Then all the PCs would have an artifact)

Ireena Kolyana: The moment the amulet touches Ireena's hand, her skin steams. She cries out and snatches her hand away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Blue to ancient magics womb" Henry quotes from memory "Think that will take us near the heart"

Ireena Kolyana: "Not for me, I think," says Ireena.

"It must know I'm... Part of all this."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae snatches it away, horrified.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is full on attunements)

Suldae Westwind: (Say, it says that it's the symbol of ravenkind. Can Sudlae tell?)

GM: (Roll History)

Suldae Westwind:

11

HISTORY (8)
Suldae Westwind

(fucking wow)

GM: (Unfortunately, you don't recognize the amulet for what it truly is. You do see that it has a raven motif worked into the silver.

Suldae Westwind: (ty, that's sufficient for this purpose!)

Suldae's next glance lands on Ezmerelda.

The raven on the amulet makes her think that perhaps the wereravens are a natural choice for this.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda raises her hands. "Noooo thank you."

Rictavio: Rictavio comes forward.

"Perhaps, I..."

"Good lord!"

"That's... Why, that's the Holy Symbol of Ravenkind!"

Suldae Westwind: This is questionable, but Suldae knows neither she nor Marcus could draw power from more magical items without discarding one.

"Oh?" Suldae perks up.

Someone knows something!

Rictavio: "It's ancient! Said to have vanished centuries upon centuries ago!"

"According to legend, it was given to a paladin named Lugdana by a giant raven—or an angel in the form of a giant raven. Lugdana used the holy symbol to root out and destroy nests of vampires until her death."

"Well, her disappearance."

"Sadly, in this line of work, that's usually how it goes."

Ireena Kolyana: "She must have come to Barovia..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Well, that sounds like a piece of history," Suldae mutters. Ravens and vampires, huh.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry watches the conversation whilst taking out his waterskin and taking a sip after a moment offering it to Ismark

Suldae Westwind: "...I could discard the cloak. I trust my teammates with my protection."

(is it possible for unattune one item and attune another at the same time or would that take 2 hours instead of 1)

Marcus Veranius: (Attuning a 4th item bumps off the item attuned 1st)

GM: (I believe breaking attunement is instant, yeah)

Suldae Westwind: (that sounds good anyway)

"I will not say we are safe here, but while we have time..."

Suldae takes off the cloak and hands it to Ireena.

Ireena Kolyana: "Ooh, thank you! It's beautiful!"

Suldae Westwind: Her teammates other than her have not seen her without it in a long while.

GM: (Remind me: what kind of cloak is it?)

Marcus Veranius: (Protection. From the Death House I think?)

Suldae Westwind: Cloak of Protection

(yeah its from the Death Housee)

(under the cloak, Suldae is wearing a short purple tunic with half-length sleeves over a ruffled white shirt)

(as everyone already knew - the cloak was only covering the top of it)

Ireena Kolyana: "Do you want my cape of the Manta Ray?"

Suldae Westwind: (didnt Henry have that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait you also have one of those??"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, it's on my character sheet. I must have had it this whole time!"

GM: (Ignore that)

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, yeah. It's not that rare a piece of magic. My dad gave it to me on my sixteenth birthday."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ignores the conversation, being as how the entire point of this exchange was that she focuses on the amulet instead.

The inscriptions are intricate, and... is the power within it familiar?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I got mine from a Nymph the one time I threw you into the lake"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's probably going to take time to understand the amulet. If we want to do that, we should find a more secure location to do so."

"This room has a lot of doors..."

Suldae Westwind: (brb 3 min)

(assume Suldae follows everyone wherever they go lol)

Marcus Veranius: "...Rahadin's Office maybe?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs "Works for me"

Ireena Kolyana: "Yeah, at least there we can barricade ourselves in."

Marcus Veranius stands guard outside the office, with the Valhalla Guys tank in the stairwell

Marcus Veranius puts on the Helm of Brilliance as an undead detector

Marcus Veranius: "Haha, I look silly in this."

"Goddamn I hope this stops Strahd from ambushing us."

[As long as it has at least one diamond, The Helm emits dim light in a 30-foot radius when at least one Undead is within that area. Any Undead that starts its turn in that area takes 1d6 radiant damage.]

Suldae Westwind: Suldae situates herself comfortably in the corner of the room, studying the pendant.

GM: (Roll Perception and take a short rest)

Suldae Westwind: (the question of whether its power is similar to hers is still up)

24

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae finds that the power of the amulet is not similar to hers, but it is rooted deep in the same thing that Suldae's raven spirit is. The power of this amulet is rooted to the power of the Raven—before it became the Raven Queen.

Suldae Westwind: (basically exactly what i meant ty)

(actually the first phrasing was 'familiar' jeez @ me)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leans next to the door alongside Marcus pulling out some jerky from his bag and popping it into his mouth "Want some?"

11 + 1

PERCEPTION (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae realizes suddenly that Strahd von Zarovich is standing in the corner of the room, leaning against the wall. Henry does not yet notice him.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae moves to poke Henry and point him in Strahd's direction, before settling back down.

He does not seem to be particularly bothered by the radiance of Marcus's helmet.

Strahd von Zarovich: "What are you doing?"

Marcus Veranius: (Passive 22; does Marcus notice?)

GM: (Marcus does notice, yes)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh, I see."

"The amulet."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns to look "Again?"

Strahd von Zarovich: "How quaint."

"Well, I must be a gracious host to my guests."

"Especially considering they won't be leaving. One must observe good manners."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You really don't have to bother with bothering us"

Suldae Westwind: "Someone died bringing it here. Quaint isn't the word I'd pick."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh no, she didn't die on the journey."

Suldae Westwind: (is this the start, the middle or hte end of the short rest)

GM: (This is toward the end of the short rest)
(so the short rest is accomplished)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Strahd von Zarovich: "She died in my dining room."

"We had soup."

Suldae Westwind: "Cute," Suldae assures him. "Approximately what I meant anyway."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Afterwards, Rahadin took that wretched thing and defiled it. Or tried to."

"But it was quite stubborn..."

"It's the platinum, you see. Not silver. Silver can tarnish, despite its holy purposes."

"Platinum, however..."

"One comes to learn these things, as one collects artifacts."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is actually pretty interested in this, as she is in artifice.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks up to Strahd and swings his fist right at his stuoid face

Marcus Veranius: "Shame. We should have tried putting things aside for a lovely dinner."

Suldae Westwind: But that, that is valid.

Marcus Veranius: "Probably a bit late for it now though."

Strahd von Zarovich: Henry's face does not miss. It passes right through Strahd's face and hits the stone wall behind him.

fist*]

Suldae Westwind: HENRY'S FACE

Strahd von Zarovich: lmao

Suldae Westwind: I AM NOW PICTURING THAT YOU CANNOT STOP ME

GM: (Henry Head-butts a hole in the wall of castle strahd)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry used Headbutt. It failed.

Suldae Westwind: (face-butts)

(his nose is sturdier than that wall anyway)

Henry used Headbutt. It had no effect!

At any rate, this seems to be another illusion.

Suldae Westwind: Everyone is surprised, nay shocked at this.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Will you shut up for once in your miserable unlife!"

Strahd von Zarovich: "I suppose, being so terribly clever as you are, you've already learned how to use that nasty little thing."

"It won't avail you much. The god behind it died long ago."

Suldae Westwind: "Really?" Suldae raises her eyebrows.

Does he not know?

That's adorable.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Your little illusory invasion was quite something, I must admit."

"One has to give Mordenkainen credit for such things."

Strahd runs his finger along the desk, then rubs the invisible dust on his fingertips.

He does this after walking through Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Mimimimi I'm Strahd von Zarowhocares and I have to talk constantly lest anyone notices how whiny I sound"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Rahadin is slipping, I see. Leaving great maggoty messes in his own study."

"And you! So callous! To wreck his body, and choose the room of his rotting corpse for your midday nap!"

"And they call me a monster."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Cause you are one"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Granted."

Suldae Westwind: "Truly, nothing like the defiling of dead bodies to... I'm not even going to finish this sentence"

Suldae says deadpan

(holy shit for once we're having a banter scene and Suldae is NOT elsewhere or busy playing lmao)

Strahd von Zarovich: "I'm merely surprised that you can stomach the stench..."

Marcus Veranius frowns. The cracks were starting to become more clear.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd von Zarovich's eyes blaze like a pair of crimson stars.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is just waiting for any more useful insights into the nature of the artefact or whatever.

[say, HAS Suldae figured out how it works]

The maggots in the remains of "Rahadin" begin to writhe, and swell, and grow...

GM: (Yes, she has successfully attuned to it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry stabs down

GM: (As soon as she RPs it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Into the corpse

Marcus Veranius: "We're coming upstairs Strahd."

"We're putting you out of your misery."

Strahd von Zarovich: "How fascinating."

Marcus Veranius: "And deep down, I think that's what you want as well."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Do get on with it, then. I grow bored of waiting."

Suldae Westwind: [well I bloody well cannot without knowing what it does can I]

GM: (Did you see the handout that should have popped up)

(scroll down)

Suldae Westwind: (oh fuck I hadn't realized, the window was the exact size of the pic, thanks & sorry)

GM: (Lmao no worries)

(What is Henry using to attack the maggots?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Vorpals Sword

GM: (Go ahead and roll the attack)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

29

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

22

Slashing

Henry casually stabs the ground forty-four times, impaling each maggot once.

Strahd von Zarovich cocks an eyebrow.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae presses the symbol against her forehead, slowly and showily so Strahd can see. She has two patrons - one of her soul, one of her body, so to speak; but that is rhetoric. She serves Correllon, but she owes the Raven some degree of allegiance as well. And so she will carry out the mission this holy symbol carries in it, so she pledges.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sorry were you trying something?"

Strahd von Zarovich: "It seems I didn't need to, to get under your skin."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I got bored listening to your pointles drivell"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Anyway. See you in a few, I suppose."

Strahd von Zarovich disappears.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena relaxes noticeably. "I could live without him doing that."

Suldae Westwind: "You know, when you two talk, I cannot tell who enjoys the sound of their own voice more, he or you," Suldae remarks to Henry after Strahd vanishes. "The difference is one of those, I enjoy too."

"Don't, uh, read too much into that, though," she adds, protectively wrapping her hand around Ireena's as she gets up.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Only makes me want to stab him harder which I admit is impressive because of how much I already wanted to do that"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Anybody know how to cast Silence for next time? I'd love to see him go on an angry tirade that we don't have to hear."

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus?" Suldae looks at the man.

He'd helped with that one song.

Marcus Veranius gets up from his rest, snapping his fingers to re-enable the Disguise Self spell

Marcus Veranius: "Well then! Best face for the trip onwards!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Which way?"

Marcus Veranius: "Madame Eva has yet to disappoint. I think we ought to take our chances with that painting."

Suldae Westwind: "Sounds good to me," Suldae says.

Marcus Veranius: "If the heart was so valuable, Strahd might be inclined to lock it up."

Suldae Westwind: The two pendants on her neck hang together, the raven slightly below the god of music. That does not feel like too many.

Marcus Veranius: "Ironical if he left it with a beautiful woman he could never have."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I can't help it Suldae, whenever he talks I just have to make clear how much it annoys me if I didn't know any better I'd say he cursed me to be unable to shut up when he is around"

A blazing hearth fire fills this room with rolling waves of red and amber light. The walls are lined with ancient books and tomes, their leather covers well oiled and preserved through careful use. All is in order here. The stone floor is concealed beneath a thick, luxurious rug. In the center of the room is a large, low table, waxed and polished to a mirrored finish. Even the poker in its stand next to the blazing fireplace is polished. Large, overstuffed divans and couches are arranged about the room. Two chairs of burgundy-colored wood with padded leather seats and back cushions face the hearth. A huge painting hangs over the mantelpiece in a heavy, gilded frame. The rolling firelight illuminates the carefully rendered portrait. It is an exact likeness of Ireena Kolyana.

Suldae Westwind: "Have a cleric check you after we're done here, just in case," Suldae suggests in the most serious tone she can manage.

Mage Hand

Conjuration Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A point you choose within range

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

A spectral, floating hand appears at a point you choose within range. The hand lasts for the duration or until you dismiss it as an action. The hand vanishes if it is ever more than 30 feet away from you or if you cast this spell again. You can use your action to control the hand. You can use the hand to manipulate an object, open an unlocked door or container, stow or retrieve an item from an open container, or pour the contents out of a vial. You can move the hand up to 30 feet each time you use it. The hand can't attack, activate magic items, or carry more than 10 pounds.

Suldae tries to take the portrait off its hook or whatever without coming close.

The portrait is far too heavy for her mage hand to lift, unfortunately. The frame is quite sturdy.

Suldae Westwind: "Boo," she says, disappointed.

Marcus Veranius flies up to try himself.

Ireena Kolyana: "We should have taken our rest in here."

"It would have smelled better... And been warmer."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Verily Strahd's magics are frightening in their sheer inane horribleness" Henry replies in an equally serious tone

Suldae Westwind: "And have the guy know we've found the place?"

Marcus Veranius: "We were upset about three doors. This room has five."

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think we have a lot of element of surprise left, but not squandering what little is left is worth a little stink."

"Also that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at Marcus "You need a hand with that?"

Marcus Veranius: "Yes actually; get the bottom of the frame if you can."

Marcus is able to lift it off the nail, and between him and Henry they soon have it off the wall.

Marcus Veranius: "Someone's got to repossess this castle at some point. This might be a museum piece!"

The wall behind the painting is smooth, unremarkable stone.

Ireena Kolyana: "I have to admit, it's very beautiful."

Suldae Westwind: (do we still have the tank?

)

Ireena Kolyana: "It must be worth a small fortune..."

GM: (It would have had to stay at the bottom of the spiral stair for this room)

(So no, no tank right now)

Suldae Westwind: (o right)

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lowers herself onto the closest couch. Why not enjoy the luxury when it's right there?

Marcus Veranius stares at the blank wall

Suldae Westwind: She does not comment on Ireena's statement, finding it self-evident.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry knocks against the wall with the back of his Warpick Suldae Westwind: "Inside the fireplace," Suldae suggests.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Listening if it sounds hollow

Suldae Westwind: There's a chimney there.

Or supposed to be.

Would be really weird if it wasn't hollow.

Marcus Veranius: "Alright, who has the Wand of Secrets?"

The wall sounds hollow because it is part of the chimney.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I thought you had it!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I'm a giant dumbass"

Henry hurls his pick through the fire against the back wall of the fireplace

Gertruda: "Oh!"

"Who are all of you?"

Marcus Veranius: (I thought I gave it to someone else but...)

Gertruda: "What are you doing in here?"

Marcus Veranius turns to the surprise guest, wand in hand

From the western doors, a small figure has emerged. She looks to be a girl of about sixteen.

Suldae Westwind: "Hello," Suldae says, not hurrying on attack.

"What's your name?"

Marcus Veranius: "Umm... chimney sweeps?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Getting lost mostly" Henry says without turning to look at the speaker

Gertruda: "I don't think you're chimney sweeps. You're those adventurers that have been driving him mad!"

Suldae Westwind: "And you?"

Gertruda: "Can't you see how much you upset him? Why won't you leave him alone!"

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Suldae Westwind: "Hold on, this might be a misunderstanding."

Gertruda: "I'm Gertruda," says Gertruda, with a little curtsy.

Suldae Westwind:

Suggestion

Enchantment 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't performed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

To Henry's senses, she is neither a fiend, a celestial, or an undead.

Suldae Westwind: "Very nice to meet you, Gertruda. Maybe we should all figure out more about each other, to avoid misunderstandings? What are you doing here?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry turns leaning on his Divine Senses as he takes a look at the girl. "Huh that's a surprise"

Suldae Westwind: (also, did that work)

Gertruda: Gertruda falls for the simple spell—or begins to.

Then, it crashes against a larger spell, one that has her quite tightly wrapped.

Someone has carefully been working charm magic on her for an extended period of time. She's completely enthralled.

In spite of the failing magic, she finds the request reasonable.

"I suppose that makes sense..."

"Well, I'm from the village of Barovia, down the hill, you know."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cocks her head to one side.

"We might have met your mother..."

Gertruda: "I lived under the shadow of this huge, magnificent castle all my life. And one day, I thought to myself—'oh, I'll just go mad if I can't walk inside that beautiful castle!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Btw Henry kinda attacked the fireplace anything happen with that? Threw his Pick at the backwall)

Gertruda: "So I came up here and asked to be let in, and the king was very kind to me."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to catch Henry's eye. He's done a fun trick before...

Gertruda: "He's given my my own room, and books, and gowns..."

She bites her lip wistfully, big eyes staring fondly into the distance. "Oh, he's just the dreamiest."

When Henry's pick hits the back wall, it dents the stone. Then it flies back to his hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks conflicted catching Suldaes look he mouthes 'only twice a day'

Gertruda: "I'm just a peasant girl, you know."

Suldae Westwind: "What about your mother?" Suldae asks gently.

How many girls could have gone missing from one small village, really?

...yeah, Suldae really hopes the answer is "one".

(Henry cast Dispel Magic before the long rest)

Gertruda: "Do you think he could ever think of me as...?"

Marcus Veranius fiddles with the Wand of Secrets as Suldae speaks with Gertruda. He can't be wrong about the vault! His wit is endless!

Gertruda: She blushes, twisting her hands. "No, no. Of course not. That's silly..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry has only 2 3rd level slots...)

The wand points directly to the back wall of the fireplace.

Suldae Westwind: (and he's out? gotcha)

Suldae glances at the other mages in the party.

Marcus Veranius: ...oh. That makes more sense.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (no but I kinda wanna keep them for a fight...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena has been watching this whole situation with growing discomfort.

Suldae Westwind: (that's fair, but...)

Ireena Kolyana: "This is... A complicated spell."

"He's really got her enthralled."

Suldae Westwind: "We promised your mother that we'd ask you to come home if we met you..."
Suldae says gently.

"If your king is as good as you say, surely he'd allow you a visit?"

Marcus Veranius pauses, a flash of realization hitting as Suldae speaks

Marcus Veranius: Oh bother.

Rictavio:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLYDispel MagicAbjuration 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: One creature, object, or magical effect within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Dispel Magic*Abjuration 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: One creature, object, or magical effect within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Suldae Westwind: (yeah im pretty sure this is that one Babys First Quest since the two of us joined)

Rictavio: Rictavio quietly comes up and prods her once in the forehead.

There is a little spark of light.

Gertruda: Gertruda blinks her large eyes several times.

"Oh... Oh!"

"My mother! My mother! Is she still alive? Is she alright?"

Rictavio: Rictavio bows slightly. "You're welcome."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes to her and hugs her gently.

"She's worried out of her mind."

(Possibly literally)

"You should really go home."

Gertruda: "He'll never let me leave..."

She begins to tremble.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena assists Suldae in trying to comfort her.

"There there. We're here to kill him."

Suldae Westwind: "He won't be having the last word on what anyone here does for much longer."

Gertruda: "He'll just kill you all. I... I don't want to fight him."

Marcus Veranius: "Well that's rather convenient that he kept you one chamber above a teleporter then."

Gertruda: "A tele... Porter?"

"What's that?"

"Is that some kind of special servant?"

Marcus Veranius: "Nonsense magic that sends you somewhere from somewhere else."

Gertruda: "I'm afraid I'm terribly naive about these sorts of things..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Teleporter only works inside the castle" Henry reminds Marcus

Marcus Veranius: "Oh. Bollocks."

Suldae Westwind: "We have a tank," Suldae notes.

Gertruda: "I..."

"No! No, I won't go with you!"

"It's not safe... It's safer here."

"At least I'll be in his good graces. At least I won't die..."

Suldae Westwind: "We have a place where it's safer than here."

"Not with us, no."

The tank can't go up the stairs anyway.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around "I mean we can just come and get her when we are done right?"

Strahd von Zarovich: "They're quite right, child. You will be safe with them."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whirls around, passing Gertrude to Henry on sheer reflex.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry throws the pick at Strahd

The pick hurtles right through Strahd, and returns to Henry's hand.

Suldae Westwind: (grapple check?)

GM: (Go ahead with the grapple check)

Suldae Westwind: (strength or athletics or can i use dexterity or acrobatics?)

(it's all about unbalancing her the right way)

GM: (Athletics or Acrobatics)

(Actually wait, I think strictly speaking it's athletics for making the grapple)

Suldae Westwind:

11

ACROBATICS (7)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: (initating a grapple is always athletics I'm afraid)

GM: (Luckily, she's a commoner)

Suldae Westwind: (I mean I'm not trying to hold her, just pull her around)

(strictly speaking a proper grapple is not the goal)

Suldae quickly snatches Gertruda out of the way, with the unfortunate side effect of switching places with her.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (rules don't care about context)

Suldae Westwind: (Rule #0)

The doors close instantly.

Suldae now stands alone with Strahd.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Hello."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waves.

Strahd von Zarovich: "We haven't had the chance to talk much."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry kicks the door with all his inhuman might Suldae Westwind: She then takes out the flute and gives that door the what-for.

DC19

Constitution Save

12

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:Shatter is a 10 foot AoE ---

It's a glorious explosion of sound and fury. Henry's booted foot blows the door off its hinges even as Suldae's thunder turns the door to a blast of splinters. Everyone in the vicinity is peppered with wooden shrapnel.

Suldae Westwind: (oops)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd giggles.

"Oops. Look what you've done."

Gertruda: Gertruda gasps, and collapses.

Suldae Westwind:

10
Healing

60 feet

Mass Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Suldae why"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae says a bad word.

It heals everyone.

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, shit."

Suldae Westwind: (can't one hit kill even a commoner, that's just stupid)

(also i was going to draw a circle for how i'm aiming)

(fyi)

(the aoe i mean)

(i just have trouble with my browser cause my every click is 5ft to the side from where im aiming)

Everyone is back on their feet and in good shape a moment later, as though nothing happened. Gertruda picks herself up dizzily.

Gertruda: "Oh wow... What happened?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Nothing, sweetie. Come with me.

Marcus Veranius is checking if the fireplace fire is real, ignoring Strahd's shenanigans

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena pulls her further into the study.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I honestly don't think there was a way to use shatter there with Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps back to everyone, definitely not embarrassed.

The fire in the fireplace is real.

Henry of Willowsbrook: out friendly fire

Suldae Westwind: (yeah shed get hurt by the wooden shrapnel but not by the spell itself)

(and thats not 1HK therefore the spell healed her)

Suldae might or might not have personal space issues with This Fucking Guy

Henry of Willowsbrook: (she has like 4 hp a stiff breeze could kill her)

GM: (Technically, it was enough to instantly kill her)

Suldae Westwind: (the damage from the door?)

GM: (But that's just... A cheap way to go)

Marcus Veranius grabs a fire poker and tries to push logs aside

Suldae Westwind: (again, the SPELL didnt touch her)

GM: (Also I try not to do instant kills because it's already bleh)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae has brains)

(and ty)

(what are the rules on unconsciousness and going below 0hp)

(btw)

There are no logs in the fire to poke, but Marcus picks up the poker anyway. The moment he does, there is a Click.

The secret panel swings inward on the other side of the fire.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (those normally only apply to PCs but even then Commoners have 4hp so 8 damage instantly kills them raw)

Marcus Veranius turns to Strahd

Marcus Veranius: "Hey, wanna tell us how to put out your fireplace?"

Suldae Westwind: (oh its that? anyway like i said the spell didnt hurt her, it would have been just the door)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Not particularly."

Marcus Veranius: "Worth askin."

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd waves a hand towards the fireplace.

GM: (Dex save, Marcus)

Marcus Veranius:

15

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries her old trick with Gusting the fire aside. She has a suspicion it will not work quite as well with Strahd here to check her, but just to spite him she tries anyway.

The fireplace belches out a sudden roar of flame, but Marcus ducks it neatly and is not even singed.

Suldae Westwind:

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

Marcus Veranius: "Whoops! Shouldn't be standing so close to this! Someone might get hurt!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How rude, what happen to the gracious host routine?" Henry asks Stahd

The gust of wind beats the flames back into the fireplace before they can escape again. They beat the flames down, but not enough to extinguish them completely.

Strahd von Zarovich: "What, you didn't want to warm yourself by the fire?"

Marcus Veranius: "I think he's being quite gracious."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ignores him as she comes up to the fire herself and studies the interior of the fireplace.

Marcus Veranius: "Reminds me of my stepmother."

Suldae Westwind:

19

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Strahd von Zarovich: "Gertruda, sweet thing. Come to your king."

Gertruda: 12

"Uh..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (is that a save?)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena rolls her eyes. "Come on, don't be stupid!"

She pulls Gertruda's arm, snapping her out of it.

Gertruda: "Right... Right..."

Gertruda seems paralyzed with fear.

Marcus Veranius: "Oof, rejected again. Not your day Strahd."

Suldae spots runes etched into the stone under the flames. The flames are an enchantment produced by these runes.

Marcus Veranius: "What happened to that Trophy Bride we sent you the other month?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae really feels quite bad for the little girl. It cannot be denied that using her as a hostage would be a good move for Strahd, and there's only so safe they can keep her even in their midst.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the remains of the door saddend beyond belief that he can't slam it shut in Strahds face

Strahd von Zarovich: "She tasted of old wines and stale cheeses," says Strahd. "A pleasant apertif."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Gross"

Strahd von Zarovich: "I suppose I should thank you for at least that dinner."

Strahd paces into the chamber.

He looks around the bookshelves, tutting to himself.

Marcus Veranius: "Thanks for being distracted by it."

Strahd von Zarovich: "So typical. Here you stand, in one of the greatest treasure vaults of the world, and you look for hidden doors."

"My collection here is quite literally priceless."

"There is no reason for us to be enemies, you realize."

"I can pay quite handsomely to encourage you and your friends to leave."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Kinda your fault for hiding the doors in the first place"

Suldae Westwind: "Really," Suldae says flatly, unable to hold back at this.

Marcus Veranius: "Well, people are kindof dying outside. Wouldn't want to disappoint them shuffling through a good book."

Suldae Westwind: He hurt her girl.

Strahd von Zarovich: "I am even willing to let Ireena go."

"You can all survive this. I'll not chase you—you can be certain of that. I cannot leave the castle now."

Marcus Veranius: "Sorry, big man upstairs told me to."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Your Ismark is returned to you, your Ireena is free, and there is no justice left to do. I am already prisoner—immortal, eternal."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah same"

Strahd von Zarovich: "All that drives you is hate. Do you think your gods will appreciate that?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yes"

Marcus Veranius: "You've got a 10 o'clock appointment booked in hell, and I'd be a rather shoddy tailor to not have you proper dressed for it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I asked him this morning"

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd picks a book off the shelf and opens it. He peruses the title and the cover.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "He really doesn't like you"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Here. Examine this: the works of Theodicinidimedes. A theologist of high caliber, some two thousand years ago."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is not driven by hate, actually. She's driven by an understanding of what is necessary to protect others.

Strahd von Zarovich: He tosses the book. It thumps off of Henry's armor and hits the floor.

Suldae Westwind: She doesn't like him, really, but it's more about the threat she poses than a personal emotional response. One does not hate a snowstorm when one builds a house to hide from it. Well, someone probably does, but Suldae does not. She doesn't care to talk about that, though.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry picks it up and tosses it onto a couch

Suldae Westwind: She's examining the inside of the fireplace for moer hidden switches. (I even rolled a check for that)

Marcus Veranius jumps across the fire to the hidden room across

As Marcus is leaping across the fire... (Roll a Dex save)

Marcus Veranius:

18

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae does not see more hidden switches, but she does see the magical runes on the ground.

Marcus leaps the flames, which suddenly burst up white-hot the moment he is amid them. He takes half of 31 fire damage.

Resting on the floor of this smoke-filled room is a closed chest surrounded by piles of gold, silver, and copper coins. The fittings and clawed feet on the chest are evidence of great workmanship.

Attached to the east wall are two torch sconces. The southernmost one holds a torch with an intricate metal base. The other is empty. A skeleton in broken plate armor lies against the wall. The skeleton's right hand is on its throat, and its left hand holds the matching torch from the empty sconce.

Marcus Veranius resists the damage further to a mere 7

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We both know you think I can't read" Henry says to Strahd shaking his head "So why would you think thrwoing books at me would work?"

Suldae Westwind: "Say, Henry," Suldae calls out. "Want to defile some writing?"

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd smiles.

Marcus Veranius: (I passed the save right?)

Strahd von Zarovich: He picks up another, heavier book.
He heaves it at Henry's head.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry has alreedy walked over to Suldae

Strahd von Zarovich: 16 To hit

Marcus Veranius: (I actually need to know if that was a pass or not. The Helm of Brilliance has a self destruct condition)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae points at the runes.
She doesn't think words are necessary, here.

Henry ducks it.

GM: (It was a success, yes)

Marcus Veranius: (thanks)

Strahd von Zarovich: "You just don't GET it yet, do you?"
"I'm going to torture you all to death."

Suldae Westwind: "He's getting mad," Suldae whispers to Henry.

Strahd von Zarovich: "This is your last chance at mercy."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry ducks to look at the rune Suldae is pointing at thus causing the book to sail past him into the fire

Marcus Veranius looks at the skeleton

Marcus Veranius looks at the chest

Marcus Veranius: "My goodness, it's this routine again!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh he is isn't he?" Henry says tone airily

Marcus Veranius: "We must be getting close if Strahd's making threats."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry takes the Vorpall Sword and begins carving away at the Runes

Marcus Veranius: "I mean no disrespect to our host of course. But he ought to know very well why taking an offer isn't on the table."

Suldae Westwind: ...omg its the babies...

The vorpal sword cuts smoothly through the ancient stone, scooping the runes right out of existence.

The flames instantly die.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How sad, the poor fella lost his wits" Henry says leaning into a thick country accent

Suldae Westwind: "So sorry about defiling your hearth, Strahd," Suldae says with fakest sympathy she eve faked.

"Really feeling bad here."

Marcus Veranius: "Don't touch the chest. Remember that secret room in the old Durst place?"

"The one with the chest and the corpse in it?"

Marcus Veranius blinks

Henry of Willowsbrook: "There was a chest in a chest?"

Suldae Westwind: "No," Suldae admits. She vaguely remembers something like that but what exactly happened afterwards is kind of a blur of everything trying to kill them.

Strahd von Zarovich: Suddenly Strahd is right in front of Marcus.

"Enough games, I think."

"Did you really think I was going to take this laying down?"

"You've come quite far enough, I think."

Suldae Westwind: "You have been so far," Suldae supplies pleasantly.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd, you misframe the current situation."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Think? No. Hoped? Kinda?"

GM: (Marcus, make a CON save)

Marcus Veranius: "You think we're here as adventurers trying to claim glory, fame, vengeance."

20

CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (any chance Henry could have moved close enough for the Aura?)

(I keep forgetting to moove my token)

Suddenly, the secret door swings shut, trapping Marcus in the little box. At the same time, the treasure chest swings open, unleashing a blast of thick green smoke.

Marcus manages to hold his breath in time.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's laughter echoes as he fades once again from view.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Really getting sick of that closing the doors gimmick"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at Henry.

This time she won't try to shatter what a paladin can without collateral damage.

Marcus Veranius figured this was the case after the neck-grabbing skeleton. Poor bugger.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's voice echoes. "What's the matter, Marcus? I can't hear you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry Begins to break open the secret door

Marcus Veranius rolls his eyes

Henry of Willowsbrook: (What do I roll?)

GM: (Roll an attack)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

25

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

20
Slashing

Marcus Veranius: ~~"Poison gas in the room honey. Trigger to the door is the fire poker."~~

Marcus Veranius mentally speaks to Ezmerelda

Swish! The vorpai blade cleaves through the stone wall. Green gas issues from the crack, quickly clouding the area in front of the fireplace.

Suldae Westwind: (Ireena and Ismark got a third siiibling)

GM: (Suldae and Henry, both make CON saves please)

Suldae Westwind:

12

CONSTITUTION SAVE (1)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Oof)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

20 + 4CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(+3)

for Suldae

Suldae Westwind: (that makes 15!)

Suldae catches a whiff of the gas, and stiffens. She falls over—paralyzed.

GM: (For 4 hours, unless there's some kind of intervention)

(I didn't write the trap, but man is it nasty)

Suldae Westwind: Well, @*#$!@

GM: (As I said: oof.)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Lesser Restoration

*Abjuration 2Casting Time: 1 actionRange: TouchTarget: A creatureComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

You touch a creature and can end either one disease or one condition afflicting it. The condition can be blinded, deafened, paralyzed, or poisoned.

Suldae Westwind: (thats in-character commentary)

The gas continues to issue from the new slash in the wall. Do you continue breaking through?

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Wait! The poker!"

Marcus Veranius tries to close the chest

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda snatches it up. "Marcus said it's the poker to trigger the fire."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae really wants someone to carry her out of the poison gas place.

Ezmerelda Veranius: She snatches it up from the ground and puts it back into its position in the holder. Nothing happens.

Ireena Kolyana: "Suldae!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry reaches down picks Suldae up casting Lesser Restoration once they leave the Gas

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena dashes for Suldae, holds her breath, and drags her out of the smoke—or tries to.

10

CONSTITUTION SAVE (6)

Suldae Westwind: "Th-fucking-anks" Suldae coughs as Henry drags her out of the place.

"Oh my fucking fuck-" she holds her breath and drags Ireena away.

Ireena Kolyana: (Ireena doesn't end up needing to go all the way to the fireplace, so ignore that)

Suldae Westwind: (ah ok)

Ireena Kolyana: "What do we do? Marcus is still in there!"

Suldae Westwind: *as Henry drags her into Ireena's arms.

Henry's restoration spell restores mobility to Suldae's limbs.

Suldae Westwind: "My turn?" she suggests, looking at Henry.

While holding the flute suggestively.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Go for it"

Suldae Westwind:

DC19

Constitution Save

18

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Meanwhile, Marcus is attempting to close the chest, which is resisting his efforts.

GM: (Go ahead and roll athletics, Marcus)

Suldae Westwind: Considering how chimneys work, gas shouldn't go out into the room.

Marcus Veranius:

6

ATHLETICS (0)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Unless, of course, there's something clogging the chimney.)

Suldae Westwind: (indeed)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Unless its heavier than air aswell

Marcus is unable to close the chest, and noxious gas continues to billow forth from it—but soon begins to peter out. It seems the trap has vented all of its supply.

Marcus Veranius can hold his breath for four minutes. He'll wait this out

With a blast of shattering stone, the wall crumbles. Smoke gushes out slowly in a wave, dissipating gradually.

It seems there is no airflow via the chimney.

The greenish smoke soon begins to sink, and settle on the carpet.

Ireena Kolyana: "Are you alright, Suldae?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Are you alright, Marcus?"

Marcus Veranius nods, still holding his breath

Henry of Willowsbrook: "This damn place is quickly catching up to that godsdamn temple on my list of least favorite places in all the realms" Henry remarks

Marcus Veranius: ~~"Doin alright honey!"~~

Suldae Westwind: "I am only stupid, which is incurable," Suldae says sagely.

(i need go to go sleep)

GM: (This is a good place to stop, actually)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah it really looks like that)

(goodnight!)

GM: (Thank you all for playing! Goodnight!)

(We'll pick up here next session.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...Well atleast this one is nicer to look at" Henry concedes with a huff

Marcus Veranius readies himself to move the torch from one torch sconce to the other, next time on CURSE OF STRAHD

Marcus Veranius: Episode 64: Marcus isn't buying this hidden room; there's a vistani lady saying otherwise

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The carpet really ties the room together" Henry says grimmacing as if admiting that actually hurt him

GM (GM):

Plane Shift

Conjuration 7

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: You and up to eight willing creatures who link hands in a circle

Components: V, S, M (A forked, metal rod worth at least 250 gp, attuned to a particular plane of existence)

Duration: Instantaneous

You and up to eight willing creatures who link hands in a circle are transported to a different plane of existence. You can specify a target destination in general terms, such as the City of Brass on the Elemental Plane of Fire or the palace of Dispaten on the second level of the Nine Hells, and you appear in or near that destination. If you are trying to reach the City of Brass, for example, you might arrive in its Street of Steel, before its Gate of Ashes, or looking at the city from across the Sea of Fire, at the GM's discretion. Alternatively, if you know the sigil sequence of a teleportation circle on another plane of existence, this spell can take you to that circle. If the teleportation circle is too small to hold all the creatures you transported, they appear in the closest unoccupied spaces next to the circle. You can use this spell to banish an unwilling creature to another plane. Choose a creature within your reach and make a melee spell attack against it. On a hit, the creature must make a Charisma saving throw. If the creature fails this save, it is transported to a random location on the plane of existence you specify. A creature so transported must find its own way back to your current plane of existence.

(Ignore that)

Liliet (Suldae): here

Zanshuken: I'll need a few minutes, need to finish something else real quick feel free to start up without me

GM (GM): Howdy y'all

Zanshuken: (stupid homework)

GM (GM): Alrighty, unless I'm much mistaken, Marcus was about to move a torch?

Marcus Veranius , who survived Strahd's trap by the power of 'who just leaves the corpse in the room', begins moving the torch from one sconce to the other

Marcus Veranius: The hidden door behind him was opened by helpful allies, who can see Marcus poking around despite the gas

Marcus successfully moves the torch from one sconce to the other.

Most of the green smoke has, by now, completely dissipated.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"...maybe I need a second torch."

"Hey Henry, you got any torches?"

Zanshuken: Henry tosses him an unlit torch

The dead adventurer in the treasure chest also holds up his unlit torch.

Marcus Veranius: "Oh, thank you." Marcus takes the dead adventurer's torch and places it on... the...
Umm

Must have been a trick of the light. The skeleton clearly hasn't moved.

Marcus Veranius shoots it just to be safe. Death has yet to keep the dead from walking these past few months

As his bolt of light blows its skull to ash, the adventurer lets out one last lingering laugh, which echoes in the gloom for far, far, far too long.

Marcus Veranius quickly places the second torch

The second torch in the second sconce seems to do the trick. With a quiet 'click', a secret door in the northern portion of the eastern wall swings gently open.

It leads into an ancient hall, choked completely with spider-webs. There is a clear path down the center of the room, but the walls and ceiling are matted with thick, greasy webbing.

At the far end of the hall is a set of ornately carved bronze doors, depicting a castle on a cliff, overlooking many armies arrayed before it.

Liliet (Suldae): "...What happens if we light that on fire?" Suldae asks, pointing at the webbing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'm Afk for a bit)

Rictavio: "I imagine it burns."

Marcus Veranius: "Then Strahd probably takes control of the fire."

Suldae Westwind: "So what if you come back here and we do that?"

Marcus Veranius steps back

Marcus Veranius: "Don'

"Don't waste your spells. Lemme get a good angle on this..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae was just going to ask Henry for a torch, but whatever Marcus wants works too.

Marcus Veranius points through the gap between the secret doors and breaks a gem from the Helm of Brilliance

Marcus Veranius:

DC18*Half Damage on saveDexterity Save*28
*Fire150 ft (20 ft radius sphere)Fireball

Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: "...We could have just used a torch..."

A blast of flames engulfs the hall, and the thick webbing begins to burn. It burns like some kind of strange glue, melting and dripping and sending little wisps of ash in all directions. Soon the hall is a raging inferno.

The fire continues burning long after it should have finished consuming the webbing.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm retiring after today! Wanna enjoy this while I can." Marcus says with a wide grinIreena Kolyana: "I... I don't think it's dying down."Rictavio: "Personally, the webs might have been preferable to 'raging inferno'."Marcus Veranius: "Umm..."Rictavio: "Just my two coppers, though."Suldae Westwind: "...Do we have any means to put out a fire? Or do wizards only learn one side of the story there?"Kasimir Velikov: "One imagines this is no ordinary fire. It may need to be dispelled, rather than extinguished."Suldae Westwind: "Also, that depends on what lived in those webs."

*might have

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena points at Suldae. "Exactly."

"Fire's manageable."

Marcus Veranius: "I have to agree with Kasimir on this one. Oil doesn't burn this long when the pot is lit."Suldae Westwind: "So, who can dispel? Not me."Rictavio: Rictavio steps forward, rubbing his hands together. "I'm game to give it a try..."

Dispел Magic

*Abjuration 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: One creature, object, or magical effect within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 6

Suldae Westwind: (oh wow LMAO)

Rictavio raises up his hands and reaches his magic out over the flames, and attempts to unbind the magic of its creation.

With a spark and a fizzle, his attempt fails.

Rictavio: "Damn."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, he can't concentrate on it forever."

Marcus Veranius: "Yes he can. It's Strahd, and he's a spiteful gremlin."

Ireena Kolyana: "I've got Wall of Force... Maybe?"

"I was hoping to save that for a more important reason, though."

Marcus Veranius: "I think it's time I called in some backup. Probably the best time for it."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae edges a little further back. Just in case.

Marcus Veranius takes out another gem and crushes it, slowly destabilizing the already tenuous Barovian economy.

Marcus Veranius: A Water Elemental comes to his aid!

(I.... I made a token for this ;-)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae lets out a quiet squeak.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Impressive!"

Marcus Veranius: "Was thinking we'd need it in the Amber Temple. But now's a good time as any."

"We've got one hour with our friend here so lets make it count! Can you put out the next room please?"

Marcus Veranius motions to the flaming chamber

The water elemental moves without hesitation, and flows into the inferno. The moment it does, the flames rush away from its presence, and suddenly condense into a single point at the opposite end of the hallway. Watching all the flames stream to this single point is a surreal experience—fire simply should not move like this.

With a blast of light and flame, a figure now stands at the far end of the hall: a figure composed entirely of flame.

It is the flaming image of Strahd.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps forward to see better.

This is thoroughly interesting!

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Fight! Fight! Fight!"

GM: (Roll initiative)

Marcus Veranius:

INITIATIVE
Water Elemental

Initiative: 5

GM: (Unless you're satisfied with the initiative you already have)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 19.15

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Fire Elemental

Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 10

INITIATIVE
Gertruda

Initiative: 1

Suldae Westwind: augh

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 10

Suldae Westwind: can i get my init on the tracker

GM: (Fixed it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: I can't select Henrys token

11.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (What about now?)

(Oh no, they've done an update!)

(Now I have to figure everything out)

(Need an initiative for Marcus too)

The burning image of Strahd zooms forwards, rushing at the elemental! (16 and 22 to hit.)

Marcus Veranius: Two hits

GM (GM): \as GM 22 Fire damage. Now, funny thought experiment here: "if the target is a creature or a flammable object, it ignites. Until a creature takes an action to douse the fire, the target takes 5 (1d10) fire damage at the start of each of its turns."

Suldae Westwind: does not account for creatures that are not flammable huh

GM: (And there's nothing on the water elementals sheet that indicates that it's not flammable... Aside from the fact that it's made of water)

Water Elemental: Rules as Written, the water elemental has no fire resistance of any kind

Zanshukun: (Aren't water elementals immune to fire damage?)

lol

GM: (And technically, if you get water hot enough, it does ignite)

(But that's at the point where it's breaking down into jet fuel)

Water Elemental: Rules as Pokemon, water types can get the Burn condition

GM: (Water elementals have immunity to poison damage, but neither resistance nor immunity to fire)

Suldae Westwind: r i p

GM: (Alright, here goes)

The burning image swings its claws, which rip through the amorphous form of the water elemental. Before your very eyes, you can see the flames sink deep into the water and continue to burn. The water elemental is now on fire.

Ireena Kolyana: "Wow, that's..."

Rictavio: "Huh."

Suldae Westwind: ...it's really, really pretty.

Anyway, Suldae takes out her holy symbol and gives the water elemental a blessing.

CHANNEL DIVINITY: LIFE'S FLOURISH

Class: Cleric

At level 2, you can use your action to grant an extra attack or non-attack action to an ally within earshot that they can use on their next turn, as a standard action.

It's formal and everything, just like she was taught at the temple. Well, heard at the temple.

EoT

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena runs in for a closer look.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...would it be too much to ask for things to make at least a little sense?"
Henry says glaring at the Being of pure water which currently was on fire.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Did you know, in hell, all water burns?"

Suldae Westwind: "It's pretty though!" Suldae counters.

Gertruda: "How do you know this...?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Good question!"

GM: (Ismark is sticking near Gertruda, so EoT for him)

(Henry, you'

(you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks up shaking his head hurling his Pick at the living Fire that was responsible for the nonsense he was bearing witness to (Two attacks at disadvantage because it's more than 30 ft away and I don't want to burn any resources for this dingus)

31

26

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

21
Piercing

3
Acid

33

27

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

20
Piercing

1
Acid

GM: (Technically, from where you're standing, you don't have line of sight—but I didn't let that stop people from going "ooh" at the thing they couldn't actually see, so I think we should let it slide)

(Two hits!)

Suldae Westwind: (i disagree! i specifically out suldae in a place where she could see stuff and i think placement matters)

(let Henry walk to where he needs to be for this)

GM: (I don't think he has the movement left to get to a spot where he can see)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not seeing it would only give me disadvantage wich I already have so hey what ever) "How does this even work you stupid bonfire asshole?" He complains hurling his weapon at the glowing thing in the distance angriky trying to ignore the burning Water elemental infront of him

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

GM: (He still has to throw his weapon in a straight line, though)

Suldae Westwind: (Henry do you see theres a wall there)

GM: (It's not like it swerves around)

Suldae Westwind: (theres a wall between you and the elemental)

GM: (But I think we've spent enough time on this, so let's move on)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "'Scuze me, babe."

"Do you think we should help, or just watch?"

Marcus Veranius steps to the side

Marcus Veranius: "You could make a sport of this!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...have it punch through the wall... not like taht would be to unreasonable)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "My money's on our guy."

GM: (In Castle Strahd, there won't be any punching through walls, I'm afraid)

Ezmerelda Veranius: For now, Ezmerelda simply observes.

Suldae Westwind: (not unless we try much harder than this?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (shrugs hey your the boss)

GM: (It's physically impossible to damage the walls of Castle Ravenloft right now)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir stays with Ismark and Rictavio, to keep an eye on Gertruda.

Rictavio: "You may as well sit down, my dear. We may be here for some moments still."

GM: (It's water elemental time)

Suldae Westwind: (extra action / attack, remember!)

Water Elemental charges forward and attempts to slam the fire elemental apartWater Elemental: (Extra action for two uses of Multi Attack; 4 total slams)

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)
:
18 | 15

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)
:
14 | 13

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)
:
10 | 21

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)
:
12 | 20

GM: (I believe that's without advantage, so two hits and two misses)Water Elemental:Damage: 11 bludgeoningDamage: 12 bludgeoning

[EoT]

GM: (Ok, here's a trip)

(The fire elemental deals fire damage, which the water elemental is not resistant to. The water elemental, on the other hand, deals bludgeoning damage—which the fire elemental is resistant to)

Marcus Veranius: "...yeah, this is gunna take forever."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (The Gallons of water thing for Fire Elementals tho)

Suldae Westwind: (this is the exact opposite of how this match-up is supposed to go)

Marcus Veranius readies to join the next round of initiative

Gertruda: "Who are all you people, anyway?"

Marcus Veranius:

19

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Gertruda:

TOUCH (~-
MMBM006HDGH0xN2OLvF|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MMBM00KI-QNWITILNQJ_NPC_DMG)
Fire Elemental
Attack (~-
mmbmo06hdgh0xn2olvf/repeating_npcaction_- mmbmooki-qnwitilnqj_npc_dmg)
:
8 | 20

TOUCH (~-
MMBM006HDGH0xN2OLvF|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MMBM00KI-QNWITILNQJ_NPC_DMG)
Fire Elemental
Attack (~-
mmbmo06hdgh0xn2olvf/repeating_npcaction_- mmbmooki-qnwitilnqj_npc_dmg)
:
24 | 22

GM: (Ignore Gertruda)

Suldae Westwind: (I'm sorry who :P)

(heheh)

(I had such a mental image tho)

(but lets not thanks!)

The flaming figure stands tall under the water elemental's brutal assault, and swings its claws again.

GM: (Did the water elemental take 1d10 fire damage at the start of its turn?)

Gertruda:

Damage: 8 fire
If the target is a creature or a flammable object, it ignites.

Until a creature takes an action to douse the fire, the target takes 5 (1d10) fire damage at the start of each of its turns

GM: (I'm just going to do everything as Gertruda from now on, apparently)

Suldae Westwind: (Gertruda is the GM now)

Marcus Veranius: (Also one hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yo GM sorry to meta game a bit but what about the Fire Elementals Water Suceptibility? doesn't that apply here?)

GM: (One would think, but it's not anywhere in the mechanics, which is super weird)
(For the sake of getting through this pokemon battle, maybe it should though)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...DnD is a silly game)

GM: (The question is; when you get hit by the fists of a large water-based creature, is that a gallon of water splashed on it, or more than a gallon?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Seeing as the Elemental is Large I think it's arms are bigger than milk jugs...those are gallons right? stupid imperial system)

GM: (Anyway, moving on)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (alternatively maybe the Waterelemental should just go for a big hug)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cheers the water elemental on.

(I'm sorry, it's not the optimal use of my abilities, but it's the only in-character option)

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Marcus Veranius acts on Initiative 19

Marcus Veranius moves into the room at takes three shots at the fire elemental

Marcus Veranius:

35

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius

9 + 3

Radiant

23

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius

13

Radiant

22

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant

(I forgot to hit the sharpshooter button. Marcus is being lazy)

GM: (One sec, R20's being stupid)

(11)

(There, that's better)

(Anything else you want to do on your turn?)

Marcus Veranius: (EoT)

Three blasts of light from Marcus rip into the burning figure, and its form begins to crumble. It is now more campfire than bonfire.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think it's on its last legs."

Suldae Westwind: "Let the water elemental finish it!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "You got it!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is a bit too into this.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around at his friends and their chering and decides to just let this play out leaning against the wall and but preparing for any surprises

Henry takes the dodge action and passes

GM: (Water elemental takes 10 fire damage at the start of its turn)

Water Elemental: WOMBO COMBO FINISHER GO!!!

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)

:

17 | 14

SLAM (~-
MAMHEI6NONYPi3URMEC|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
MAN52PG3E1B3RYZP54V_NPC_DMG)
Water Elemental

Attack (~-
mamhei6nonypi3urmec|repeating_npcaction_-
man52pg3e1b3ryzp54v_npc_dmg)

:

20 | 20

Damage: 17 bludgeoning

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

GM: (Splash uses Sploosh. It's super effective!)

(Go ahead and RP it killing the fire image please)

Water Elemental pushes against the fire elemental harder and harder, giving it little space to escape. Eventually it is crushed against the door and whisps out of existence as it squeezes through to the other side.

As it is squeezing under the door, you hear a screech of spellcraft.

With a sharp jolt, it is returned to the front side of the door.

It seems the door does not like things crawling underneath it.

But then again, who does?

Marcus Veranius: "...huh."

GM: (We are no longer in initiative order)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Woohoo! Well, that was thrilling."

Water Elemental gently pats out the flames on itself with itself

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives it a round of applause.

Rictavio: "Is it over yet?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks the room for any more surprises.

Or anything at all.

GM: (Roll Perception)

Suldae Westwind:

31

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae notices a secret door on the southern side of the chamber, formerly concealed by webbing. The black char-marks of the fire make it quite plain.

Ireena Kolyana: "See any traps?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "You mean, any more traps?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae examines the secret door, looking for a way to open it.

The secret door, it seems, can be easily pushed inward.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does so.

What does she see?

This ten-foot-square room overlooks a vertical shaft to the south that plunges into darkness and continues upward.

Suldae Westwind: "Huh," Suldae says loudly so others can hear her. "Is this a chimney or a dumbwaiter?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Forgive me, would you like us to wait with our young guest, while you explore further?"

"Or do you think we should all stick together?"

Water Elemental: "Umm... splitting up sounds like a bad idea."

Marcus Veranius says this

Ireena Kolyana: "Good gods, it can talk!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, quit picking on my husband."

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Marcus Veranius: "...maybe she can wait with the Valhalla Guys at the bottom of the stairs?"

Suldae Westwind: "...I agree," Suldae says after some trepidation.

"Splitting up is just a recipe for unpleasant surprises later."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena steps back into the room and looks at Gertruda.

"We can't leave her," she says.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae also goes back just so she can give Ismark a meaningful Look.

She hasn't forgotten that.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Agreed."

Kasimir Velikov: "Perhaps we can use the teleportation chamber to send her away?"

 Rictavio: "Does anyone remember the way back to that chamber? I don't."

 Marcus Veranius: "It's just down the stairs."
"Literally the bottom of the stairs."

 Rictavio: "Well, I'm old."
"If you live long enough to get to my rage, you'll have trouble with big complicated castles too."

 Marcus Veranius: "In all fairness, this castle is more a maze than a fortress."

 Marcus Veranius goes to investigate the magic door.

 Suldae Westwind: "Does the teleportation chamber actually lead anywhere outside the castle, or just within it?"

The doors are made of bronze, and tightly sealed. Intricate bas-relief moldings depict an army arrayed before a castle on a cliff.

 Ireena Kolyana: "I don't think we know..."

 Kasimir Velikov: "It seems obvious to me that Strahd would have little use of a chamber that he has to travel all the way to, just to use to teleport within his own castle."

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Unless he can teleport to it at will?"

 Kasimir Velikov: "If he could do that, why have the device at all?"

 Ismark Kolyanovich: "Well, somebody said he didn't always know how to teleport, right?"

 Marcus Veranius: "No, Kasimir is right. We killed Strahd's dragon yet he still ignores all means of travel times in his ambushes."
"Teleportation solves that mystery."

 Marcus Veranius checks if the door has a keyhole he can pick apart

The door has no visible hinges, lock, or knob.

 Suldae Westwind: "One would assume the remote locations to be secured by Strahd's forces or constructs, though."
"I don't think it's safe."

 Gertruda: "May I have a say in my fate?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sure" Henry says "Any suggestions are welcome"

 Marcus Veranius checks if there's any gaps of some kind

 Gertruda: "I would like to stay here. Strahd has been kind to me."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "See that might be a problem in the near future as we kinda sorta are here to kill him"

Suldae Westwind: "...I know I've very room to talk here," Suldae says with a momentary flash of guilt, "but he does not care about you. He'll use you as he sees fit; so far that involved keeping you safe, but..."

"...Kindness is not a language he speaks."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena scoffs. "He's a fucking vampire, you little nitwit. He only wants your blood."

She massages her temples irritably.

"Sorry."

"It's just..."

She pulls aside her collar, revealing the two little scars.

Gertruda: "I know. And I shall be immortal... Young forever."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks at them, worried. This is the first she knows about it.

"...Not how it works, kiddo."

Ireena Kolyana: "How quickly do you think he's going to get bored of you?"

"You won't even be you, if he does turn you. Whatever you were will speed on to its final destination, and something awful will rise in your flesh."

"Besides."

Suldae Westwind: "The thing about being undead is that you die, first," Suldae picks up her thread of thought.

Ireena Kolyana: She stands below the massive portrait above the fireplace, and points up to it.

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Ireena Kolyana: "Look. He's obsessed with me. He'll forget you the moment you're no longer useful or entertaining to him."

"Countless men and women have met that same fate, here. In my past lives, I—"

Gertruda: Gertruda laughs. "Past lives? What a silly notion."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae groans and shoves her face into her hands.

Gertruda: "Look at me. I could make him forget you."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena mutters under her breath: "Did anyone prepare Sleep?"

Suldae Westwind: (thats what i was THINKING)

Meanwhile, Marcus discovers that there is a gap under the door, but he senses a faint magical field there, preventing even dust from passing through.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae exhales. "You're a really silly child. Please, sleep."

There is power in her voice, a melody just in the single syllable of the word.

14

Hit Points of Creatures

90 feet

Sleep

Suldae Westwind

Gertruda collapses limply.

Suldae Westwind: (this is what the spell is FOR, it really is)

Rictavio: Rictavio guides her fall, so she lands on the couch.

"Right, well, that's one thing settled."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Not really, now she's just dead weight."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes, well, the important thing is that she's not dead."

Suldae Westwind: "Better than actively trying to run off, though."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Also immortality doesn't mean much if people can and want to kill you, which seeing as you'd be a vampire they would want to. So you would have to live with a target on your back hoping no one gets to you for all of forever only to be damned to hell when someone finally get's to you....huh you just knocked her out"

Ireena Kolyana: "And that we can keep it that way..."

Suldae Westwind: (im so sorry henry)

(i also wanted to talk about 'is this the side you want to pick in this war' but ireena veered left)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well" Henry says looking at the sleeping girl and thinking "How long do you think it takes us to get to Strahd ? Less than 1 hour?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sighs. "I'm beginning to think we won't make it to him until nightfall."

"Especially if he's hidden in some stupid warren of secret passages."

Marcus Veranius returns from his door breaking to check on the main room situation

Ezmerelda Veranius: "So what do we do with this silly girl?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I was just thinking of putting her in a Rope Trick so till we are done"

Marcus Veranius: "The tank and the Valhalla Guys are dead weight with this mess of secret doors and a possible pitfall."

"Have them take the girl and leave."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Right! The tank!"

Marcus Veranius: "All four of them."

"We'll continue with just us."

Suldae Westwind: "More details on the "leave" part?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Yeah... We haven't even seen the exit doors yet."

Ireena Kolyana: "I doubt the windows are breakable..."

Marcus Veranius points to the stairs, and the teleport chamber at the bottom

Kasimir Velikov: "I suppose we had better tell them which orb to use."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sighs. Well, if the wizard is certain.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wasn't there a passage outside? the place with all the water on the ground?"

Kasimir Velikov: "I believe that is in the dungeons, and unlikely to lead outside."

"If we choose the wrong orb, though..."

"Cast a stone into the fire:

Violet leads to the mountain spire

Orange to the castle's peak

Red if lore is what you seek

Kasimir Velikov: Green to where the coffins hide

Indigo to the master's bride

Blue to ancient magic's womb

Yellow to the master's tomb"

"I have to confess, these all sound like they might be locations within the castle..."

"Except perhaps 'the mountain spire'..."

Marcus Veranius: "...what if they're not though."

"Ancient Magic's Womb might be the Amber Temple."

Kasimir Velikov: "If we assume that they are not locations within the castle, then we must pick the one that seems like the safest to send her to."

Marcus Veranius: "Does Barovia have a library?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Not that I am aware of."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Look, maybe... The Valhalla guys can keep her locked up."

Suldae Westwind: "...Can we just take her with us?"

"There are a lot of us."

"We can maybe take care of one sleeping kid."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Maybe we just put her in the tank with the valhalla guys, and leave them somewhere..."

Marcus Veranius: "We need her away from where Strahd can use her as hostage. Which he WILL do if she's within the castle."

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes, that does sound like his style..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at Gertudas sleeping form and sighs "Anyone else thinking being evil right about now would make things easier? or less complicated at least?"

Marcus Veranius ignores the suggestion and considers Ismark Kolyanovich: "Ok, last option... I can take her. I have Dimension Door. I think it would be enough to get us through the walls. Maybe then what's his face could send me back in?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Assuming you even can teleport through the walls of the castle, which I doubt."

Marcus Veranius: "AHA! I FIGURED IT OUT!!!"

"Indigo to the Master's bride! Which would be the residence of his chosen bride, Ireena."

"Indigo may lead to her home in Barovia Village."

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, that's the one attractive thing about evil, yes."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Or and hear me out here it could lead to the room he chose for her here or one of them rooms for his concubines, which I'll just assume he has because well he is Strahd"

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah."

"I doubt these locations are just for... this generation."

Marcus Veranius: "It's the safest to try out."

Suldae Westwind: "Try out how?"

Marcus Veranius: "If it's a castle warp, she'll appear here. This IS the bride's chamber."

"If it's a warp outside the castle, she won't appear here."

Suldae Westwind: "And if it's elsewhere in the castle after all?"

"This is actively riskier than taking her with us."

Marcus Veranius: "It very much isn't."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, just because it's a warp outside the castle - if it is - doesn't mean it's SAFE there."

Marcus Veranius: "We are also wasting time discussing this."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes, but I won't let you literally throw her into danger. Seriously, Marcus."

"This is a terrible idea."

"As it stands right now, anyway."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd had to have some method of sneaking upon Ireena's residence. This was his method."

"Everything lines up."

Suldae Westwind: "And? We don't know what's on the other side!"

Marcus Veranius: "Heck, I may even suspect Where Coffins Lie to be the coffin shop where Strahd hid vampires. Same logic."

Suldae Westwind: "...That would actually be safer."

"At least we have Vallaki secured."

Marcus Veranius: "If you wish to try it. The coffin maker was Strahd's pawn and could have established the teleporter."

"Also explains how Strahd got vampires past the wards."

Suldae Westwind: "Though admittedly, Barovia village IS her home. Still, we could be delivering her straight into the arms of Strahd's pawns there."

"And I don't think it's SUFFICIENTLY CERTAIN that the coffin thing is true."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooooooo we're gonna take her with us aren't we?" Henry says with a hint of resignation "It's the only way we can actually confirm where she is because none of us can go with to check the arrival point and then group back up if it's outside the castle"

Suldae Westwind: (OOO: what is the form of those labels again?)

(Were they inscriptions or something?)

(I forgot)

Marcus Veranius: "We can't spend all afternoon here. Strahd will get stronger if we fail to reach his sanctum by nightfall. Unless you have a better idea, we send her to the coffins or the bride."

Suldae Westwind: "Yes. We take her with us."

Marcus Veranius: "And if Strahd teleports behind us and grabs her? Like he did five minutes ago?"

Suldae Westwind: "We don't bloody well leave her behind!"

"If Strahd can teleport behind us and attack randomly, her presence doesn't change THAT much in terms of how much of a threat that is!"

Marcus Veranius: "Any one of us can survive a knife to the back. She can't."

Suldae Westwind: (that doesn't even make sense in-universe)

"We have, like, five mages here. I didn't actually count."

"But many."

"We can't protect one girl?"

She looks at Rictavio. He was the one with all the defenses last she checked.

Marcus Veranius: "Suldae. This isn't a place for civilians. She needs to go."

Suldae Westwind: "We have no safe means to send her away!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "What about this: we keep her with us for now. We look for a way to get her out if we can, or a good place to lock her up if we can't."

Marcus Veranius: "...just take her with us. We can't afford to waste more time on this."

"Someone help me with the door in the next room."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods mutely. She looks at Ismark and Rictavio. "Would you?..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Man fuck Strahd" Henry says following Marcus

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark and Rictavio glance at one another and play a hasty game of rock-paper-scissors.

Marcus Veranius: "The door's absolutely solid. I'm thinking if there's a gap, we could try a teleport spell to the other side."

Ismark Kolyanovich: Losing, Rictavio sighs and picks up the unconscious girl, slinging her over his shoulder somewhat carelessly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Have you tried opening it the normal door way?"

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir moves forward and examines the door.

22

14

ARCANA (8)

"Interesting... It seems to want a password."

"I doubt that we will be able to teleport through. Most forms of teleportation are taxing spells. Would you like to try it?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I think I've got one more Dimension Door in me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Strahd von Zarovitch" Henry blurts out hearing the word password looking addressing the door

The door does not budge.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Worth a try"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says: "Remember, he's killed loads of adventurers. He's likely defended against our most obvious solutions..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "The book! The tome of Strahd!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anyone recognize the scene on the Door?" Henry says "Might be a hint"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "There must be something in there that would give it away..."

Marcus Veranius: "OH! THE BOOK!"

"Prophecy wouldn't have wanted us to find Strahd's diary if it wasn't important somewhere in the grand scheme of things."

Ireena Kolyana: "So what did we learn from the book that we wouldn't otherwise know?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Who was holding on to it again?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Don't look at me!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Why wouldn't he just use a key," Suldae muttered to herself. Fucking immortal vampires and their hobbies.

Ireena Kolyana: "A key can be forged, a lock can be picked. A spell is better."

"I can see the logic..."

Ireena thinks for a moment.

11

INVESTIGATION (6)

GM: (Imao Ireena)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (no seriously do we have the book with us to cheat?)

Marcus Veranius: (Suldae has the book)

(She got super cursed grabbing it)

Suldae Westwind: (oh yeah)

Suldae takes the tome out.

GM: (You should see two handouts now)

Marcus Veranius: "...Tatyana?"

"Vampyr."

The door does not budge.

Ireena Kolyana: "Huh. I thought for sure..."

Suldae Westwind: "Death" Suldae suggests.

The door remains firmly closed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ravenloft" Henry says "Guards"

Suldae Westwind: "...In the name of a just god," Suldae points out a paragraph.

"Which god?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Gods of justice, uh..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Tyr, Helm, Pelor" Henry says

The door remains firmly sealed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to see if he can get anything from the depiction of the army

Marcus Veranius: "I am the ancient. I am the land."

Click.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (would that be History?)

"Oh"

As Henry is studying the doors, they swing gently inward...

Suldae Westwind: "...Thanks," Suldae says sincerely.

Ireena Kolyana: "Wow, what a pompous ass."

"He picked that for his password? Seriously?"

Marcus Veranius: "A poet."

Ireena Kolyana: "Talk about an ego."

Suldae Westwind: She argues with Marcus occasionally, but it cannot be denied that most of the time he's very, very good to have around.

"Does that surprise you somehow?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "If it weren't for the mists his ego could surely blot out the sun

Marcus Veranius: "The phrase has great meaning to him."

Suldae Westwind: "Something something the nature of the mists..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry goes through the door shield up

You hear rain and thunder outside, and the air here is cold and damp. Veils and curtains of webbing fill the room, making it hard to gauge its width and depth. A single, narrow path leads to the dark center of the room, where a rope dangles from high above. The ceiling is obscured by webbing, but you see many exposed beams.

In the center of this chamber, obscured by webbing, there stands a figure—a skeleton in a full suit of armor. The skeleton has three skulls, each facing a different way.

Suldae Westwind: (it would be really helpful if we could see on the map)

GM: (You should be able to now?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We were looking for his big magic heart right?"

At the sound of Henry's voice, the three headed skeleton cackles.

It reaches up with both hands, grasps both side-skulls, and breaks them off its neck with a crunch.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry groans "Any chance you could go back to sleep and just let us be on our way?"

Gently it upraises them, and both of them suddenly wreath themselves in emerald flame. Gem-bright stars flash in their hollow sockets as they rise into the air independently.

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE Skull Lord <hr/> Initiative: 9.16
--

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE Flameskull <hr/> Initiative: 15
--

Marcus Veranius:

20

INITIATIVE (8)
 Marcus Veranius

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE Flameskull <hr/> Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE

*Kasimir VelikovInitiative: 4*INITIATIVEEzmerelda VeraniusInitiative: 19*INITIATIVEIreena KolyanaInitiative: 8*INITIATIVERictavioInitiative: 17*INITIATIVEIsmark KolyanovichInitiative: 22*Henry of Willowsbrook:*2.1*INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Henry looks at the flying skulls "Oh for fucks sake not these chukleheads again"

(Henry is to annoyed to react fast this fight it seems)

GM: (Still need an initiative from Suldae)Henry of Willowsbrook: (brb)Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 8.15

(sorry)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh shit!"13

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)12*13

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing

Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

9

He looses two Eldritch Blasts, both of which glance harmlessly off the skeleton's tarnished plate mail.

GM: (Marcus is up)

Marcus Veranius is greatly intimidated by the prospect of more floating fire skulls. He immediately puts everything he's got into shooting them down

Marcus Veranius: He shatters a diamond from the Helm of Brilliance and traps all three skulls in a cone of rays

DC18

Half Damage on save / No Effects

Dexterity Save

1. Fire
2. Acid
3. Lightning
4. Poison
5. Cold.
6. [No damage; Restrained]
7. [No damage; Blinded]
8. Struck twice. Roll two d8s.

33
Damage

1
Damage Type

60-foot cone

Prismatic Spray
Marcus Veranius

DC18

Half Damage on save / No Effects

Dexterity Save

1. Fire
2. Acid
3. Lightning
4. Poison
5. Cold.
6. [No damage; Restrained]
7. [No damage; Blinded]
8. Struck twice. Roll two d8s.

35
Damage

5
Damage Type

60-foot cone

Prismatic Spray
Marcus Veranius

GM (GM):

MAGIC RESISTANCE.

The flameskull has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Marcus Veranius:

DC18

Half Damage on save / No Effects

Dexterity Save

1. Fire
2. Acid
3. Lightning
4. Poison
5. Cold.
6. [No damage; Restrained]
7. [No damage; Blinded]
8. Struck twice. Roll two d8s.

33

Damage

3

Damage Type

60-foot cone

Prismatic Spray

Marcus Veranius

(One for each target)

DC 18 dex saves?)

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY

Flameskull

Ability: 6 | 22

GM: (First skull passes its dex save)

Marcus Veranius: (First skull had fire damage so I dont care about him)

GM: (Skull lord will roll now)

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY

Skull Lord

Ability: 13

GM: (He'll burn a legendary resistance)

GM (GM):

LEGENDARY RESISTANCE
(3/DAY).

If the skull lord fails a saving throw, it can choose to succeed instead.

DEXTERITY

Flameskull

Ability: 23 | 16

EVASION.

If the skull lord is subjected to an effect that allows it to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half the damage, the skull lord instead takes no damage if it succeeds on the saving throw, and only half damage if it fails.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

GM: (The last skull got hit with lightning, yes?)

Marcus Veranius: (Yes)

GM: (He's got resistance to that, so half damage then resistance)

Marcus Veranius: 8

GM: (So... 8 points of damage gets through on that last one)

Marcus Veranius stares

Nimbuses of magic dance around the armored skeleton. It seems, despite a direct hit, the skeleton's armor deflects the entirety of the blast.

Marcus Veranius: Action Surge

Marcus Veranius draws the Sunsword and takes potshots at Armor Skeleton. This is why we don't deviate from the classics.

Marcus Veranius: (4 hits, Two attacks, 1 firstround, 1 bonus action)
(Err, 4 attacks)

GM: (So action to cast the ray, then action surge?)
(I get confused so easily)

Marcus Veranius: (Yee)

GM: (I trust ya)

Marcus Veranius: (I was gunna double-ray but nah)

19		15
120
>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)
(+10)
Marcus Veranius
24
Radiant

29		24
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

22 + 3
Radiant

17 | 28
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

20
Radiant

21 | 30
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

19 + 6
Radiant

GM: (Four hits)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 4d8+16 Undead Target

(2 + 7 + 8 + 6)+16

= 39

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

17
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

15
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Jeez dude, he's dead)

Suldae Westwind: (omfg wow)

GM: (Strahd is shaking in his coffin now)

(Go ahead and RP it please)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (back aaaaaaaand it's dead)

Marcus Veranius rolls his eyes as the skeletons dance around cones of magic from a dead god's helmet of destruction.

Marcus Veranius: He draws his sword and manually sends rays of light to hit their mark instead. Four quick shots. EVADE THIS!

The skull lord is quite literally atomized, armor and all.

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda steps up, seeing the effectiveness of the direct approach, and lunges at the nearest flameskull with her rapier and her handaxe.

+3 RAPIER (DEFENDER)
Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 30

Damage: 9 piercing

+3 RAPIER (DEFENDER)
Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 15

Damage: 13 piercing

+1 HANDAXE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 20

Damage: 9 slashing

The skull is nimble, but it cannot evade the precision of her blows. Clinging to life, it prepares its counterattack.

Rictavio: "Don't mind me, I'll just be watching the girl..."

Flameskull: "EEEEHEHEHEHEHEEEEE!"

DC13

Half damage

Dexterity Save

27
Fire

150 ft

Fireball

Flameskull

Water Elemental isnt fighting more fire monsters.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry groans seeing the by now familiar bead of red form in the Skulls mouth

GM: (Need a dex save from Henry, Marcus, and Suldae)

Water Elemental:

31

21

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

Kasimir Velikov:

21

14

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

Ireena Kolyana:

8

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

GM: (I think Ezmerelda is just barely outside of it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (question can Henry deflect the Fireball with his cool new shield?)

Suldae Westwind:

24

DEXTERITY SAVE (7)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Wait can he)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

BONE SHIELD

Other: Magic Item

The rune covered unbreakable bone plate hovers weightlessly next to the wearers arm.

+3 to AC

As a reaction the wearer can duck behind the shield to deflect a single blow or an evocation spell.

Deflected line spells reflect back in a cone the size of half their remaining length.

As a bonus action the shield can be thrown out to attack enemies (see attacks)

Suldae Westwind: (rip ezmerelda if you do that tho)

GM: (HMMMMMMMMMM)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (nah Henry could just send it upwards right?)

Marcus Veranius: (I hate to be that guy but Fireball typically wraps around obstacles. Might not work only for this spell)

GM: (That's probably true)

Suldae Westwind: (Henry could probably reflect it to the center of detonation)

GM: (Also, since it's positioned right beneath him, I don't think it would work very effectively to deflect it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hey I was just askin cause Fireball is evocation)

Suldae Westwind: (so shield Suldae, fuck over Marcus)
(or that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so yes or no?)

Marcus Veranius: (Leave marcus to burn. It's thanksgiving now; roast bird is in season)

GM: (But it would also be so cool)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is fine)

GM: (Let's go with no, for now)
(I'll revisit that later and come up with something)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ducks behind Henry successfully.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Well everyone takes half anyway because of Aura of Warding
(except Ireena of cause)

GM: (Except Ireena, yeah)

Suldae Westwind: (ouch)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (girls just unlucky)

GM: (And it's the second flameskull's turn, but he's focused on Ezmerelda)

Flameskull:

9

Higher Level Cast

12

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile
FlameskullMarcus Veranius: (Half Damage from the marriage ring)

(Marcus takes half)

The wounded Flameskull cackles and looses a powerful Magic Missile spell.Marcus Veranius:*23*14*CONSTITUTION SAVE (4)
Marcus VeraniusHenry of Willowsbrook: 13 damage for pass or fail in aura 6 for pass in aura and Irenea takes 27 from the firball btwMarcus Veranius: (Concentration)GM: (Suldae is up)Suldae Westwind: HALO TIME.21*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind17

Thunder

GM: (Hit)Suldae Westwind:*28*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind17

Thunder

GM: (Hit)Suldae Westwind:*24*Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind10

Thunder

GM: (Also, he's dead now)

(Hit again)

(Not enough to kill the northern flameskull, but the southern one is dust)

Suldae Westwind: (aand I'm out of targets)

While the halo is whistling through the air, Suldae plays.

DC19

Dexterity Save

11

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame

Suldae Westwind

Flameskull:

MAGIC RESISTANCE.

The flameskull has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Suldae Westwind: The name of the song is "Fuck The Northern Skull"

Flameskull:

DEXTERITY

Flameskull

Ability: 14 | 17

Suldae Westwind: :)

Flameskull: "YAAAARGH!"

GM: (Still alive though)

(But jyyyyuust barely)

(Any additional movement/action?)

Suldae Westwind: (nah, I'm good)

EoT

(sorry i keep getting distracted rip)

Ireena Kolyana: "That," says Ireena, walking to gain line of sight, "hurt."

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

5
Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

Three darts fly from her outstretched hand, whistling past Henry's ear. They strike the skull pulverizing it.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Now what?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ends the song and gives her a thumbs up.

The webbing here is horribly thick.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks up.

Ezmerelda realizes, after a moment, that she is stuck.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Uh, guys..."

Marcus Veranius looks at the rope going upwards

Something enormous sits in the rafters, a bulk of furry shadow with a great many limbs.

The walls of the chamber seem to be oozing with something—something beetle black and shiny, flowing slowly down the stone—and the webbing.

Marcus Veranius: (How much web is left after the flameskull fireballs?)

GM: (Oddly enough, this webbing doesn't seem to be flammable.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It could have just pretended to be still dead but nooooooooooooo it had to get all prickly about it" Henry complains before turning to look up "Don't you fucking dare..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae guides the halo to try to cut Esmerelda free of the webbing.

The halo cuts easily through the webbing, and Ezmerelda leaps free.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17 + 1 | 12 + 1

INTIMIDATION (8)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Something chitters in the darkness far above.

Marcus Veranius looks further up

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Well," says Ezmerelda. "Do we pull the rope?"

Ireena Kolyana: "It's probably just the belfry. Do we want to ring the bell?"

Beyond the rafters, the bulk of the enormous furry thing is all that Marcus can see. It—and the incredible webbing—conceals the distant ceiling.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Anything else in the room besides the rope and fred the spider that Idamn well hope knows better?

Marcus Veranius: "Unless we want to look around for another secret door. Maybe on the floor this time."

The shiny darkness creeps lower and lower on the walls...

Suldae Westwind: "...Would it even ring with all the webbing?"

"We won't know unless we try."

Suldae pulls the rope.

Marcus Veranius moves to pull the rope

GM: (The rope is in the middle of the curved portion of the room)

Marcus Veranius teams with Suldae to pull the rope with advantage

Henry of Willowsbrook: How far up is the spider?

GONG!

A great brass bell rings out, rattling the stones.

At once, from the darkness of the ceiling, huge shapes come lumbering down, following the creeping darkness.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Uh, guys..."

Suldae Westwind: "Retreat to the previous room?"

It becomes apparent, by the way the darkness is moving, that it is not a liquid at all. It is millions upon millions of spiders.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yup"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Out of my way!"

Ezmerelda quite literally vaults over both Henry and Ireena.

Marcus Veranius smiles, readying to cast a perfectly-shaped Wall of Flame along the tower's inner walls

Suldae Westwind: Suldae... retreats with dignity.

She can appreciate a bunch of giant spiders. She is much less onboard with a wave of tiny ones.

Marcus Veranius: "Twenty foot diameter circle! I love this castle!"

(Should I do this on initiative or do I have time before the spiders come down?)

GM: (You have time, they're still pretty high on the walls)

Marcus Veranius:

DC18

Half Damage on save

Dexterity Save17
*FireWall of Fire
Marcus VeraniusHenry of Willowsbrook: (how far away is the big one from Henry?)GM: (It's about fifty feet up, on the wall still)Suldae Westwind: Suldae leaves the halo hovering where it was near Ezmerelda to save timeMarcus Veranius: You create a wall of fire on a solid surface within range. You can make the wall up to 60 feet long, 20 feet high, and 1 foot thick, or a ringed wall up to 20 feet in diameter, 20 feet high, and 1 foot thick. The wall is opaque and lasts for the Duration.

When the wall appears, each creature within its area must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 5d8 fire damage, or half as much damage on a successful save.

One side of the wall, selected by you when you cast this spell, deals 5d8 fire damage to each creature that ends its turn within 10 feet of that side or inside the wall. A creature takes the same damage when it enters the wall for the first time on a turn or ends its turn there. The other side of the wall deals no damage.

GM: (The chamber is quite tall)Suldae Westwind: (can i have the token)Henry of Willowsbrook:*DC18no damage on saveStrength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

21*Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer
Henry of Willowsbrook

at the big one

Marcus Veranius: Marcus turns the 20 ft at the bottom of the tower into an inferno, the flames filling the entire cylinder

Everyone outside is safe

Suldae Westwind: (what's "quite tall")
(in feet)

GM: (You haven't seen the ceiling yet. The rafters are about 70 feet up.)

 Sulda Westwind: (ty)

(I'm guessing Marcus waits for the spiders to be in range)

GM: (23 Strength)

 Sulda Westwind: (would the halo be damaged by fire? it's not a creature and i doubt its physical enough to be flammable)

 Marcus Veranius: (Nah, marcus does it immediately to keep the spiders from coming down)

 Sulda Westwind: (ooh ok)

 Marcus Veranius: (We can shoot upwards)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (ow dang I hoped the first time using the shield would hit something)

Though the shield makes a satisfying thud as it strikes the enormous spider, it shrugs it off.

 Sulda Westwind: (uh that leaves an area of space)

The enormous spider hisses, baring huge clicking mandibles and many glinting eyes. It has far more than the usual eight.

 Marcus Veranius: I assume the tower itself is the round portion, with a room at the bottom)

 Sulda Westwind: (dnd: where you get to beat up your phobias and set them on fire)

 Marcus Veranius: Spiders have to pass the wall to get to us

It lunges its body suddenly, contorting to bring its spinnerets to bear.

 Sulda Westwind: (ohhhhhh)

A vast net of webbing sprays down onto the flames, coating them thickly. The webbing does not burn...

The wall of flames continues, because it needs no fuel and no oxygen to do so.

Webbing and flame fight for a while, seemingly without purpose...

 Sulda Westwind: wait hold on if we're doing this Sulda also sends the halo up it rips up the webbing and also attacks the spider and the smaller swarms

*swarms

 Marcus Veranius: (The flames have no mass. The webs would probably fall through to the ground fruitlessly, neither resisting the other)

 Sulda Westwind: (sorry)

(i accidentally clicked the spider)

The halo hurtles upward, tearing webbing, passing harmlessly through flame...

GM: (Ok, roll the attacks, then let's get into initiative)

Marcus Veranius:

23

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Giant Spider:

INITIATIVE
Giant Spider

Initiative: 18

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Swarm of Spiders

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius

Initiative: 25

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 19

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich

Initiative: 4

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 5

Suldae Westwind:

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

Suldae's initiative is 8.15
(this is @ the nearest swarm)

GM: (That's a hit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I didn't have my token selected mb)
(do I roll again?)

Suldae Westwind:

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

GM: (I've gotcha)

Suldae Westwind: (big spider)

GM: (Big spider is still 50 feet up the wall, so make sure you take that into account)
(That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (ty, that's 50 ft)
(how far from the spider to deal meaningful damage to the next swarm next to it)

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (It's quite close to the swarms on that side of the room)

Suldae Westwind: (im guessing its less 'distance to combatant' and more 'distance traveled through the swarm') (well, this was on that)

GM: (We'll call it five feet)

Suldae Westwind: (ty, 55 ft for the moment)
(im guessing that s a hit)

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (Yes, it was)

Suldae Westwind: (big spider)

(also a hit)

(60 ft)

(that was a question sorry i lost the mark)

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

GM: (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (back at the same swarm, 65 ft)

26

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

(big spider, 70 ft)

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

(swarm, 75 ft)

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

Suldae Westwind: (spider, 80 ft)

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16 + 7

Thunder

(swarm, 85 ft)

(dangit why couldnt it crit at the big spider)

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20
Thunder

(spider, 90 ft)

Suldae Westwind: (still hit?)

GM: (Still a hit)

(lmao)

Suldae Westwind:

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14
Thunder

28

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13
Thunder

18

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14
Thunder

25

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16
Thunder

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17 + 9
Thunder

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

6/27/23, 5:07 PM

Suldae Westwind: "I do not like many tiny spiders," Suldae confides in her.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Me neither," says Ezmerelda.

Marcus Veranius: "I'll take care of it! Don't you worry!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'll let you!"

Ezmerelda takes a brisk jog further back.

Marcus Veranius , seeing his wife's panic, draws out the big guns. "It aint surviving this one! Just a matter of how long it lasts."

Marcus Veranius:

27

28

600 ft

Dragontooth Arrow (+15)
Marcus Veranius

While stuck within an enemy, they continue to pump acidic venom with every round. For each round they remain stuck in an enemy, the enemy takes 1d6 acid damage. This damage increases by 1d6 with every round. (Round 1: 1d6. Round 2: 2d6. Round 3: 3d6.) There is no upper cap on this damage. Removing the arrow requires a strength save with a DC equal to the attack roll which embedded the arrow in the victim's flesh.

14
Radiant

17
Acid

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

8

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

DC 36 Strength Save to remove the arrow

GM: (Yeah, it's not going to make that save lmao)

(That arrow is going nowhere)r

Suldae Westwind: "I can only take as many spiders as I can count", Suldae says, looking at the hugely comforting wall of flames blocking the view.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus follows up with three shots on the swarm spiders

(Do these have disadvantage due to single target attacks against swarms?)

Suldae Westwind: (are you shooting arrows at spiders)

(i can understand a broom if i really have to but this is a new low)

(damage resistance)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is just shaking his head "Man this place is so vexing"

Marcus Veranius:

26 | 21
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

20
Radiant

26 | 11
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

22
Radiant

12 | 13
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

20
Radiant

Suldae Westwind: (...ubt not to radiant)_

GM: (I don't see any reason for them to have disadvantage, no)

(And I'm visualizing this as blasts of light)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah thats what the damage type says)

(i keep forgetting marcus shoots from a sword)

Marcus Veranius: (Zelda-style)

[EoT]

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir steps into the chamber and sees the situation.

Several huge shapes are descending the walls of the tower, even as the enormous spider begins to make its retreat.

Kasimir Velikov: "Eurgh!"

Kasimir suddenly raises up both his hands, and fire shoots from his eyes as his power roots itself deep in Marcus's spell...

14

28

ARCANA (8)

With an awe inspiring roar, the circle of flames suddenly jets to new and incredible heights, surging up the tower in a halo of scalding death. It sounds and feels like a blast furnace.

Marcus Veranius grins widely. Nothing like fire-tanned leather

With crispy splats, six huge corpses tumble to the floor, piling there.

The moment the large spider hits the ground, it bursts horribly, unleashing a tidal wave of newborn spiders that floods towards the party.

Kasimir Velikov: "GAHHH!"

Kasimir flees.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...no Kasimir stop leave some for the rest of us..." Henry says in the flattest of monotones

Suldae Westwind: (of course it hits the ground within that wall of flames...)

Suldae is fine.

She is not cowering behind Ireena.

She's... preserving her mental endurance.

Unfortunately, Kasimir's efforts seem to have taken the last of the energy from the wall of flame spell.

Suldae Westwind: That's not a whimpering sound you hear, that's an auditory hallucination.

Kasimir Velikov:

INITIATIVE Swarm of Spiders <hr/> Initiative: 14

Ireena Kolyana: "Eep!"

"Not ok not ok not ok not ok"

Marcus Veranius frowns. "Strahd really needs to hire a chimney sweep."

Ireena Kolyana:

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

2
Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

Henry of Willowsbrook: "these don't look like they need snacks brought to them"

Ireena Kolyana: Shakily, she unleashes a weak Magic Missile that hardly dents the swarm.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is holding on tightly onto Ireena's clothes, using her last remaining willpower on not interfering with her movements.

Marcus Veranius: "...fair point, Henry."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena pulls further back into the chamber.

"WATER ELEMENTAL! WATER ELEMENTAL!"

She's clinging to Suldae too now, pulling her further away.

Water Elemental:

INITIATIVE
Water Elemental

Initiative: 11

Suldae Westwind: Suldae clears the way for the elemental

Water Elemental is ready to fight now that the fire is gone

GM: (Henry's up)

Water Elemental now has a deep-rooted fear of flames

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we better wrap this up quickly" Henry says swaying his pick lazily before hurling it at the densest part of the swarm twice

20

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

17
Piercing

3
Acid

28

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

14
Piercing

6
Acid

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

13*Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

The pick rips through the swarm twice, blowing huge holes in it. The swarm seems unconcerned, and not much diminished.

Henry of Willowsbrook: bonus action

The shield is far more effective—it pins fully a third of the swarm, crushing millions.

GM: (assuming it blows through the swarm, crushing part of it against the wall)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it should)

GM: (Any additional?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Nope EoT "Man that sure is a lot of spiders" Henry says catching his pick on the return frowning at the writhing mass

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae WHIMPERS, but gets her shit together enough to blow a high note that expresses fully her opinion on this amount of spiders.

(one sec)

Strahd von Zarovich: "What do you think of my little pets? Are they not lovely, in their billions..."

GM: (Make a perception check, Suldae)

Suldae Westwind:

DC19Constitution Save*9*Higher Level Cast*9Thunder60 feetShatter

Suldae Westwind

Swarm of Spiders:

CONSTITUTION

Swarm of Spiders <hr/> Ability: 4 11

Sulda Westwind:*25*PERCEPTION (13)
Sulda Westwind

The halo rips through the swarm as well, from its position 50 ft up back down

27Halo throw (+12)
Sulda Westwind20

Thunder

Sulda notes that the darkness at the top of the tower has not abated, and that even as she rips into this swarm with her magic and her halo, another swarm just as large is already creeping down the walls.

Strahd von Zarovich: "I assure you, they're quite endless."Sulda Westwind: "...Marcus! Get back here and close the door the fuck back! Please!"Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well that settles that then"Rictavio: "Here, watch her for me, will you? There's a good lad."

Rictavio offloads Gertruda as the Water Elemental moves into play.

Water Elemental: "THERE HAS TO BE SOMETHING HERE! Strahd's been super whiney about us finding this place!"Marcus Veranius says thisWater Elemental: (Should I have Elemental take its turn?)GM: (Yes please)Water Elemental moves forward onto the swarm of spidersSulda Westwind: "OKAY MAYBE," Sulda agrees with far more volume than strictly necessary.GM: (I was going to wait until next round but this feels good)Water Elemental:

WHELM (RECHARGE 4-6) Water Elemental
--

Each creature in the elemental's space must make a DC 15 Strength saving throw. On a failure, a target takes 13 (2d8 + 4) bludgeoning damage. If it is Large or smaller, it is also grappled (escape DC 14). Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained and unable to breathe unless it can breathe water. If the saving throw is successful, the target is pushed out of the elemental's space. The elemental can grapple one Large creature or up to two Medium or smaller creatures at one time. At the start of each of the elemental's turns, each target grappled by it takes 13 (2d8 + 4) bludgeoning damage. A creature within 5 feet of the elemental can pull a creature or object out of it by taking an action to make a DC 14 Strength and succeeding.

Even with its prodigious size, the water elemental struggles to fully whelm the swarm—but manages.

Swarm of Spiders:

STRENGTH
Swarm of Spiders

Ability: 7 | 9

Water Elemental: rolling 2d8+4 Living Blender Damage

(4 + 5)+4

= 13

One can see the water elemental struggling to contain the now-swirling swarm of spiders—but managing.

The spiders don't stand a chance.

Water Elemental evolves into Spider Elemental

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is still whimpering, considering she noticed more of them above.

In a few moments, it's over—the swarm inside the water elemental is clearly dead.

Even as it finishes off one swarm, however, the second one is drawing near...

Rictavio:

Dispel Magic
Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 7

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 5

GM: (Ignore those)

Rictavio steps into the room, raises his hand, and mutters an incantation.

With a flash of golden light, the second swarm disappears, and the darkness at the top of the tower clears.

You see now, amid dense webbing, the rafters, the rope, and the bell.

Rictavio: "There," says Rictavio. "Not so endless now, are they?"

Sulda Westwind: "...Thanks," Suldae squeaks.

Strahd von Zarovich: "How clever."

Marcus Veranius: "Heart of the Castle can't be too far. Once we smash what's left of its magic, you're next."

Strahd von Zarovich: "I hope you have enjoyed this little diversion as much as I have."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Once we have layed Strahd to rest once and for all I'm going to burn this whole castle down to the bedrock"

Marcus Veranius: "Diversion nothing. We both know these tunnels hold something important."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Would I send spiders to defend something important? Come now."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae casts Prestidigitation on herself and Ireena multiple times, making absolutely sure they are, yes, definitely clean.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Give me some credit."

Marcus Veranius: "The Vistani told us in prophecy. Even they want to see your story end."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is trembling slightly. "Thanks."

Marcus Veranius: "You have no one on your side Strahd."

Suldae Westwind: "Absolutely not," Suldae squeaks back at Strahd's credit remark.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry raises a hand to wave of any comments "yes yes I know I shouldn't fantasize about arson but please let me have this for now

"

Strahd von Zarovich: "I have allies innumerable, in the darkness."

"As night falls, I will introduce you to each and every one of them..."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, I'll be helping you," Suldae says, ignoring Strahd.

Strahd von Zarovich: "In the meantime, stay. Enjoy yourselves! Guests of Castle Ravenloft."

Marcus Veranius: "We shall. Thank you for the entertainment, but we must attend to business."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Worlds most annoying intercomm whatever that may be" Henry grumbles

Marcus Veranius: "Elemental, wash away the itsy bitsy spider's webs. I want to know what they were hiding."

The elemental does its best, but the spiderwebs are as waterproof as they were fireproof.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sets her halo on the job.

The halo makes short work of the webbing, which soon lies in white piles on the ground.

The bare stone walls are revealed.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Maybe I should rip out one of his arms and stuff it down his smug throat, maybe that will give us a moment of blessed peace and quiet"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is really glad she doesn't get tactile feedback from it, because EWWW. Her mental defense is about at its limit.

"Just ignore him when he talks, it'll hurt him more," Suldae advises.

Strahd von Zarovich: Right behind Suldae, right in her ear, Strahd's voice whispers: "Ignore me, hmm?"

Suldae Westwind: She comes into the Spider Room on shaky legs, still holding onto Ireena, and studies it carefully.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Do you think that will work?"

Suldae Westwind:

Suldae Westwind

Strahd von Zarovich: "Irritating me is not the way to keep your friends safe..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae ignores him.

Marcus Veranius also ignores Strahd, instead rolling the web off of the floor

Marcus Veranius: "We both know you're too afraid to send more than illusions down. Not while Sergei is with us."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Is that so?"

With a clash, the bronze doors swing sharply shut.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Your right next time he opens his stupid mouth to bother us I'll think of something actually scary like division"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Let us wait until nightfall, then, if you really are challenging me to a 'fair' fight."

Marcus Veranius: "EZ!"

There is no sound from the other side of the door.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Marcus!" (through the ring)

"Marcus! Are you ok? Why'd you close the door!?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings the Vorpall sword to cut the hinges of the door

Suldae Westwind: (is Ezme on speaker?)

Surprisingly, there are no hinges on this side, either.

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's shutting doors again. Vanish off with your cloak until we can find a way back."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Ok. Kasimir's casting Pass Without Trace. We'll..."

"Should we go and hide?"

"Or...?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm" Henry proceeds to try and dice the door like an onion

The vorpall sword clangs sharply against the bronze, rebounding from an unseen, arcane barrier.

Ireena Kolyana: "Can you dispel it, Rictavio?"

Rictavio: "I suppose I can try, but I don't think he'd do this just to annoy us..."

Marcus Veranius: "Bunker down in the teleporter room for now. We'll find a way around."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Ok. Stay safe! And in case I—In case we..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You know this all-cutting sword has made realize how many things just don't care"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I love you, Marcus."

Henry of Willowsbrook: made me

 Marcus Veranius: "I love you to."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I think it's limited to 'all matter'. Energy can be a lot harder."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: many

 Marcus Veranius: "We still have that retirement to think of."
"I have just the place for that shop."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Does it look like there are any doors or openings further up the room?

 Marcus Veranius: "..."

From where you currently stand, there are no obvious signs of a door further up.

GM: (Suldae rolled a perception roll earlier, which I neglected to respond to) (Gimme one sec)

 Marcus Veranius keeps searching the floor. They haven't found any secret doors on the floor yet
Suldae spots a single stone that doesn't match the rest of the masonry on the northern wall. Behind the cobwebs, it would have been invisible.

GM: (Marcus, roll investigation please)

 Marcus Veranius:

6

INVESTIGATION (0)
Marcus Veranius

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry climbs up the rope to get a better look if there is anything up there beyond the bell

 Marcus Veranius is too freaked out to concentrate well

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "THIS MIGHT BE REAL LOUD SORRY"

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae comes up to the wall and sends the halo to tap it gently.

No one can hear him over the incessant and horrible gonging of the bell as he climbs.

The halo taps the wall gently.

Marcus finds no secret doors on the floor of the chamber.

 Suldae Westwind: (the stone i mean)

The halo taps the stone gently.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Anything up there except tinnitus?

Suldae Westwind: That doesn't seem to have triggered any traps... yet... so Suldae touches it.

She then immediately jerks her hand away, just in case.

Henry reaches the top of the rope and finds himself among the rafters. There is a great brass bell hanging from the peak of the ceiling, but aside from this, there is nothing in the chamber—except for a set of open, glassless windows. They are more arrow slits than anything, but they are just wide enough that a petite person might be able to squeeze through.

The stone is cold and smooth to the touch.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry slides down the rope just slowing down enough to not hurt himself with the landing

Suldae Westwind: Suldae examines the stone, tries pressing it and the like.

Through the windows he sees a thick and gathered darkness—a storm. He cannot see the army from this angle, as they are arrayed before the other side of the castle. Instead he has a magnificent view of a drop that must be several thousand feet.

GM: (While he was up there, I mean)

(Roll investigation, Suldae)

Suldae Westwind:

7

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

12

SLEIGHT OF HAND (4)
Suldae Westwind

(sorry)

(misclick)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Once the bell has stopped ringing after his descent Henry says "Well taht was a bust sorry about all the noise"

Perhaps it's just another stone. Nothing seems to happen, though she fiddles with it.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tugs Ireena's sleeve to have her look at it now.

Rictavio: Rictavio wiggles a finger in his ear. "WHAT?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena welcomes the distraction, and investigates the stone. She rolls a natural one, I'm calling it now.

19

INVESTIGATION (6)

GM: (Oh damn whaaaat)

Suldae Westwind: (HOLY SHIT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks over Ireena and Suldaes shoulder

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh!"

"It's like this."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Like what?"

Suldae Westwind: (try calling natural ones more, maybe it'll fix Ireena's luck situation)

Ireena Kolyana: She pulls out her dagger and jams its blade into the masonry, slipping it between two blocks.

Click!

The northern wall swings gently inward on oiled hinges, revealing another chamber. This octagonal vault is free of dust and cobwebs. The domed ceiling forty feet above is painted black and sparkles with a display of stars in unfamiliar constellations. Barely contained within this vault is a square tower, twenty feet on a side and thirty feet high, with arrow slits on all sides and a battlemented roof.

Standing just inside the doorway is Lady Fiona Wachter, looking a little worse for wear...

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...so stabbing the door didn't work but stabbing the wall did? Thats just unfair" Henry says in a huff

She is flanked by two suits of armor with burning crimson eyes. On the walls of the chamber are eight swords, and in the corners of the chamber are four suits of iron armor, each bearing a huge shield.

Suldae Westwind: "Long time no see," Suldae blurts out.

Lady Fiona Wachter: Lady Wachter twitches unnaturally.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at the suits of armor "Boy this is gonna be a pain innit?" He says moving in front of everyone else

Lady Fiona Wachter: She doesn't seem to be undead, per se. She seems more like a corpse stitched together as some kind of horrible automaton. Bits of brass and copper piping stick from her at odd angles, and whatever is under her skirts moves with far too many long limbs. Her face is ruined: four huge claw marks rake it from right temple to left jaw, ripping right through both of her eyes. The wounds are clearly rotting.

She cocks her head.

She raises a hand.

All eight swords fly off the walls, and all four shield guardians turn on their plinths to face you.

GM: (Aaaaaaaaaand cliffhanger.)

Marcus Veranius: (This is a really big encounter for 'half the party was forcibly cut off') o-o

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Called it" Henry says pulling the Vorpal sword

Suldae Westwind: (this is what we get for downing the big spider before the first round started i guess)

GM: (Indeed, but nothing says you can't retreat and shut the door)

(Also, let's be real here: all eight swords are going bye bye in the first halo assault, and up to two of the suits of armor are likely to be gone by the end of the first round

(Y'all will probably be fine)

(Probably)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Maybe they all go back on standby if we kill her...again?)

Marcus Veranius: (Im more nervous about Buckethead)

(He has a very big danger energy)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also if the door is a 5 fett choke point Henry can just stand there ...meancasingly)

GM: (You mean bucket heads)

(There are two of those)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Menacingly

Suldae Westwind: (well, this is a tightly packed multi-target environment. I'm feeling pretty good)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is the door a 5feet choke point?)

GM: (The door is a 5 ft choke point, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (beautiful)

GM: (Now the real question you should be considering

(Is what's inside the box)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Bard Pitt voice WHATS IN THE BOOOOOOOOOOX???!?!?!?!?!?!?)

Suldae Westwind: (we dont want to go into that room without checking it first huh)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So are we ready?)

Liliet (Suldae): (im staring down the 'halo activation is a bonus action' line)

(as in the protective halo shedding bright light and protecting against attacks from undead and fiends)

(admittedly im in close quarters surrounded by allies whose eyes the bright light must hurt so maybe its both mechanically and dramatically appropriate to not, and character-wise it waits)

Marcus Veranius is afraid but ready

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is still high from succeeding at the Ismark thing, and also these are not a million spiders so whatever)

(she's a bit too out of it to be afraid)

GM: (I'm here, sorry sorry)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Shield Guardian

Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE

Flying Sword <hr/> Initiative: 3

INITIATIVE Lady Fiona Wachter <hr/> Initiative: 4

INITIATIVE Death Knight <hr/> Initiative: 1.11
--

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 17.15

Now, you've opened the door, so there is going to be a readied action that gets triggered

Henry of Willowsbrook:

8.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Wow this is a small room)

Suldae Westwind: (isnt it? :D)

Marcus Veranius:

11

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

(Nah fam, we need luck for this)

17

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

(Okiedokie! Luck die well spent!)

All four shield guardians raise their shields and slam them against the ground. Magic explodes through the chamber as four identical spells are cast simultaneously, catching the entire party in their areas of effect.

GM: (Make four wisdom saves—each.)

Marcus Veranius:

14 + 3

WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus Veranius

12 + 3

WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus Veranius

28 + 3WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus Veranius18 + 3*WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus VeraniusSuldae Westwind:*16*WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind21*WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind18*WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind14*WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae WestwindHenry of Willowsbrook:*7 + 4*WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook13 + 4*WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook26 + 4*WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of WillowsbrookSuldae Westwind: (luckily we are also all within Henry's aura!)Henry of Willowsbrook:*7 + 4*WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of WillowsbrookSuldae Westwind: (oh wow)Marcus Veranius: (Wanna give us the DC to hit for sake of buncha rolls?)GM: (Rolling for Ireena, but adding Henry's aura bonus: 10 26 11 23)

(Rolling for Rictavio, but adding Henry's aura bonus: 10 10 17 12)

Marcus Veranius: (Also can you re-sort the initiative?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So what did we just get hit with? I have to go eat dinner real quick but I wanna know first)

GM: (Let's see, that's two fails from Marcus, two fails from Suldae, three fails from Henry)

(And two fails from Ireena, and three from Rictavio)

A powerful Confusion sets in...

Suldae Westwind: (two fails from me even with +3 from Henry?)

GM: (Ah, in that case just the one fail from Suldae)

(I didn't see that you hadn't added that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so everyone is confused)

Marcus Veranius: (Is this the shield guardian spell storage? Did Strahd cast these spells?)

(I vaguely remember that coming up when I gave Powered Armor to a doomguy spinoff character)

GM: (Don't worry, at the end of your turn you get to roll the save again)

(And if you roll high on the d10, there's basically no effect)

Marcus Veranius: (I only mention cause if this is Strahd's magic, Marcus rolls the saves with advantage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Anyway I'll be right back getting dinner.)

Marcus Veranius: (Favored enemy and such)

Suldae Westwind: (isnt marcus's favored enemy undead, so deifnitely covers these?)

Marcus Veranius: (The shield guardians are constructs, but they store spells for their master. Which would make the spells VS Favored Enemy: Strahd)

GM: (Hmm... I don't see the advantage on saves in the description of favored enemy, can you quote the section you're referring to?)

Marcus Veranius:

GREATER FAVORED ENEMY (DRAGONS)

Other: Ranger 6

At 6th level, you are ready to hunt even deadlier game.

Choose a type of greater favored enemy (dragons). You gain all the benefits against this chosen enemy that you normally gain against your favored enemy, including an additional language. Your bonus to damage rolls against all your favored enemies increases to +4.

Additionally, you have advantage on saving throws against the spells and abilities used by a greater favored enemy.

(Oh. Shit. It's advantage only against the greater favored enemy. Not the lesser.)

(RIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIP)

(Favored enemy is wonky)

GM: (It is)

Marcus Veranius: (In that case, one lucky die reroll)

22 + 3

WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus Veranius

And one Legendary Save from the Scarab of Protection

GM: (Alright, looks like Marcus is not confused)

Marcus Veranius cannot afford to be confused in the Death Room

Marcus Veranius:

INITIATIVE
Water Elemental

Initiative: 22

GM: (Alrighty, looks like the water elemental is first to act)

Water Elemental charges into the room before more fire starts to exist

Water Elemental is really sick of fire

Water Elemental:

WHELM (RECHARGE 4-6)
Water Elemental

Each creature in the elemental's space must make a DC 15 Strength saving throw. On a failure, a target takes 13 (2d8 + 4) bludgeoning damage. If it is Large or smaller, it is also grappled (escape DC 14). Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained and unable to breathe unless it can breathe water. If the saving throw is successful, the target is pushed out of the elemental's space. The elemental can grapple one Large creature or up to two

Medium or smaller creatures at one time. At the start of each of the elemental's turns, each target grappled by it takes 13 (2d8 + 4) bludgeoning damage. A creature within 5 feet of the elemental can pull a creature or object out of it by taking an action to make a DC 14 Strength and succeeding.

VS Lady Wachter / Armor Dude

GM (GM):

STRENGTH
Shield Guardian

Ability: 5 | 22

STRENGTH
Lady Fiona Wachter

Ability: 2

GM: (That's not with advantage on the shield guardian, so that's a crit fail)

(Go ahead and roll damage!)

Water Elemental: rolling 2d8+4 Bludgeoning V Wachter

(7 + 7)+4

= 18

rolling 2d8+4 Bludgeoning V Guardian

(3 + 4)+4

= 11

Both are Grappled / Restrained

(You might wanna move the Water Elemental to the bottom layer)

[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: rolling 1d10

(9)

= 9

(aw yeah)

GM: (Lol)

Suldae Westwind: (now let me see what i can do) (i was genuinely not expecting this)

Water Elemental: [Restrained]

>A restrained creature's speed becomes 0, and it can't benefit from any bonus to its speed.

>Attack rolls against the creature have advantage, and the creature's Attack rolls have disadvantage.

>The creature has disadvantage on Dexterity Saving Throws.

(In regards to Lady Wachterbot and Shield Guardian)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, her head spinning from the powerful spell, finds it in herself to start playing, at least. She is looking at the death knight as she plays and backs away;

DC19

Dexterity Save

14

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

The water elemental engulfs Lady Wachter and one of the Shield Guardians, and dark waters swirl around them, crushing them down. Lady Wachter makes no sound as she is overwhelmed.

Suldae Westwind: (not guardian sorry)

Before she backs away, the halo rings out.

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

GM (GM):

DEXTERITY SAVE
Death Knight

Save: 11

GM: (Who's your target?)

(That's a hit and a kill)

Suldae Westwind: (oh wow nice)

As the construct shatters, the halo continues on.

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(wow, the halo is also confused, from those rolls -_-)

GM: (Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13 + 11
Thunder

GM: (Miss)

(Nah, just kidding)

Suldae Westwind:

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20
Thunder

GM: (That, alas, is a miss)

Suldae Westwind: (well, rip)

GM: (But you killed one of the swords)

Suldae Westwind: (NICE)

GM: (Chamber of the High AC Bois)

(Except Lady Wachter because she's just spoo factor)

(Go ahead and gib RP please)

(And at the end of your turn try that DC 18 Wisdom save again)

Suldae Westwind: The magic animating the sword falls apart and it uselessly clatters to the floor, but the halo veers off course as well.

20

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Suldae shakes off the confusion)

Suldae Westwind: Still, Suldae's head clears from its song.

EoT

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

(This is where everything in the room melts)

Marcus Veranius aims the sunsword towards the Death Knight that Suldae struck. He doesn't like the look of such strong undead making moves against confused allies

Marcus Veranius: First a few shots as a bow, then sword beams to finish it off

21

600 ft

Arrow of Slaying (+15)
Marcus Veranius

DC17

No Piercing Damage on save

Strength Save

The creature must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking an extra 6d10 piercing damage on a failed save, or half as much extra damage on a successful one.

9
Radiant

30
Magical Piercing

Suldae Westwind: (fucking god)

(sword beams)

GM (GM):

STRENGTH
Death Knight

Ability: 18

GM: (Passes the save, unfortunately)

Marcus Veranius: (Half of the piercing

GM: (Got it)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d8+4 Radiant from Sunsword / Favored Enemy

(7)+4

= 11

24

600 ft

Dragontooth Arrow (+15)
Marcus Veranius

While stuck within an enemy, they continue to pump acidic venom with every round. For each round they remain stuck in an enemy, the enemy takes 1d6 acid damage. This damage increases by 1d6 with every round. (Round 1: 1d6. Round 2: 2d6. Round 3: 3d6.) There is no upper cap on this damage.

Removing the arrow requires a strength save with a DC equal to the attack roll which embedded the arrow in the victim's flesh.

5
Radiant

10 Radiant		12 Acid
-----------------------------	--	--------------------------

(/roll 2d20 Crit checks from First Round advantage. I'm forgetting everything this morning)

rolling 2d20

( + )

= 15

11		29
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

11
Radiant

21 + 3
Radiant

14		15
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

10
Radiant

24
Radiant

Marcus Veranius:

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

19
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Lmao)

(I just picture Marcus's hands are a total blur while he's doing this)

(Last shot was a miss)

Suldae Westwind: (all of this happened in a fraction of a second (c) xianxia)

Marcus Veranius:

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

6

Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]

Marcus Veranius

(If its not too late)

GM: (It's not too late, that turns it into a hit)

Marcus Veranius: (I am scared of bucket man)

GM: (Marcus: Miss? I don't Miss.)

(Bucket man is still standing, but just barely)

Marcus Veranius activates his secret technique

Marcus Veranius hides behind Henry

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Lmao)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 4d6 BLAZING WEAPON I HAVE MORE DICE

(3 + 6 + 1 + 5)

= 15

Moving simultaneously, all four Shield Guardians step off their plinth and approach the water elemental (with the exception of the one currently grappled by it.)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 blazing weapon crit plz I have a reputation to uphold

(6)

= 6

The Death Knight stands tall and proud for a moment longer, then a final blast of flames jets out the slits in its visor, and it crumples, ash in armor.

Visibly, something invisible leaves from it, disturbing the ash cloud.

The Shield Guardians raise their fists as one entity, and pummel the water elemental.

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 22 | 27

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 15 | 21

Damage: 16 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 21 | 18

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 14 | 15

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 26 | 13

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 18 | 25

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 21 | 16

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 15 | 14

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

GM: (Last two should be disadvantage, not advantage)

(Actually none of those should have advantage)

(So just take the first rolls)

(It's resistant to bludgeoning, and these attacks are technically nonmagical)

Marcus Veranius: All hit. 95 damage resisted / 47 Damage total

Suldae Westwind: > and these attacks are technically nonmagical

ITS BEEN A WHILE

Water Elemental STILL STANDS

GM: (So a total of 47.5 after resistance)

Suldae Westwind: (i still cant get over the fact that the one non-wereraven PC is the TANK)

GM: (And now Henry!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(10)

= 10

GM: (Lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry for now shrugs of what ever was clouding his mind and vision focusing on the task ahead

Suldae Westwind: (bless)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry fixes his glare on the remaining undead pointing with his Warpick "You."

Fighting spirit plus some SMITE

Death Knight: \em points at himself, looks behind himself. Shakes his head slightly.

GM: (That was supposed to work, dammit)

Suldae Westwind: (right through the elemental)

(its transparent after all)

(im visualizing it all cinematically at the same time and its beautiful)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Catch"

2719

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook18Radiant Smite Damage/Undead Smite21Piercing1Acid17*22

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook11Radiant Smite Damage/Undead Smite16Piercing1AcidGM: (Wait, is he throwing his pick right through the elemental?)

(Oh, gotcha)

(Well, from this angle, you can't actually see him, because of the giant metal box)

(But this map is dinky, so I'll take it)

(To get to that position, you'd have to pass through the range of one Shield Guardian, right?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry also provokes one opportunity attack yes)Shield Guardian:*FIST
*Shield GuardianAttack: 26 | 26*Damage: 12 bludgeoningHenry of Willowsbrook: (...really? damnit that barely hits)GM: (Lol)

(That's two hits on the Death Knight)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 68 totalGM: (I've applied the damage)

(He's still looking pretty beefy)

Henry of Willowsbrook:*8 + 4*WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (There is supposed to be a giant metal fortress/box thing in the middle of the room. The map's a bit too cluttered to see it clearly, but it's there. We'll say Henry curved the bullet for that one)

Suldae Westwind: (its not like these people literally take up 5x5 squares)

GM: (Henry remains Confused)

(Says you, I like my men C U B I C)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (well thats my turn) Henry grimaces as the fog returns to the edges of his vision

EoT

The flying silver swords move simultaneously, diving towards the water elemental! (Which should, realistically speaking, be immune to slashing damage, but apparently isn't. The sword attacks count as magical.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Yo Gm I think you removed the Death Knights from the initiative tracker by accident but they rolled a 1 so it doesn't matter)

Flying Sword:

INITIATIVE

Death Knight

Initiative: 12.11

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 17

Damage: 6 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 19

Damage: 9 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 10

Damage: 6 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 10

Damage: 7 slashing

LONGSWORD*Flying SwordAttack: 21*Damage: 4 slashingWater Elemental STILL STANDS

The Flying Swords keep flying, returning to roughly their original positions (because this map is so tiny I can't see shit)

Flying Sword:*INITIATIVEInvisible StalkerInitiative: 17

Something else swoops towards the Water Elemental, and deadly invisible blows rain down upon it!

Flying Sword:*SLAMInvisible StalkerAttack: 12 | 14*Damage: 11 bludgeoningSLAMInvisible StalkerAttack: 9 | 25*Damage: 8 bludgeoning

GM: (Oh man I forgot to add Ireena and Rictavio to initiative)

GM (GM):*INITIATIVEIreena KolyanaInitiative: 3*INITIATIVERictavioInitiative: 13

Suldae Westwind: (can Ireena go now?)

Water Elemental is invisibly slaughtered

Ireena Kolyana: rolling 1d10

(6)

= 6

Suldae Westwind: (...welp)

GM: (Apparently not lol)

Ireena Kolyana sways on the spot, looking at pretty butterflies no one else can see.

Rictavio: rolling 1d10

(1)

= 1

Suldae Westwind: (OUCH)

Rictavio: rolling 1d8 (1 is north, then clockwise from there)

(6)

= 6

Suldae Westwind: (...could be worse)

Rictavio walks into the door. He doesn't seem to notice that it's closed.

GM: (Suldae is up)

Suldae Westwind: (can the halo attack the sword it ended up missing last turn and stayed on the square with)

GM: (No, it has to move before attacking)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

GM: (It's the momentum that does it)

Suldae Westwind: The halo, barely missing the sword, whirls around it and goes at the shield guardian attacking Henry.

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

GM: (Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

GM: (Hit, just barely)

Suldae Westwind: (feels like the halo's still confused from those spells...)

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13

Thunder

GM: (Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

18

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (Targeting the Death Knight?)

Suldae Westwind: (ye)

GM: (Miss)

The Death Knight smacks the sword out of the air with its blade.

GM: (Also, since I accidentally nixed the Death Knight's turn, I guess they haven't acted this round)

(So that last one had better go now)

(I wrote sword but I meant Halo)

Suldae Westwind: (I got the point lol)

GM: (No mechanical effect, just RP)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah it's just going to whirl around and try again)

Death Knight:

HELLFIRE ORB (1/DAY)
Death Knight

The death knight hurls a magical ball of fire that explodes at a point it can see within 120 feet of it. Each creature in a 20-foot-radius sphere centered on that point must make a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw. The sphere spreads around corners. A creature takes 35 (10d6) fire damage and 35 (10d6) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae darts to the right so she can see more of the fight, trying to ignore Rictavio's confused movement. She has no time to try and help him.

(right, and that) (dont think it matters what order this happens in lol)

22

DEXTERITY SAVE (7)
Suldae Westwind

Water Elemental:

25 + 3 | 27 + 3

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

The Death Knight swings his blade, and a streaking orb of hellfire flies from the tip, and explodes in the chamber beyond.

Rictavio:

DEXTERITY
Rictavio

Ability: 7

Marcus Veranius: (Just the 27 for Marcus. He aint in Henry's fun aura)

Ireena Kolyana:

3

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

4 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (OUCH)

(uhhhh shit)

Ireena Kolyana: \as GM (That's 48 fire damage and 46 necrotic damage, half on success)

Suldae Westwind: (what)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do we count that as a spell for Aura of Warding or not?)

Suldae Westwind: (oh yeah Ireena's inside the aura)

GM: (It's technically just one of his abilities, but I'd call it a spell)

Suldae Westwind: (its an ability to cast a spell to my eye)

GM: (If we were doing massive damage rules, Ireena would be dead)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well If we count it as a spell she would only take half

Suldae Westwind: (yeah but half still takes out all her HP)

GM: (So that would be 24 fire damage and 23 necrotic damage, after halving, for those inside the aura)

Suldae Westwind: (..and the same for those outside but passing the save?)

GM: (In which case, Rictavio's still up)

(Yes, the same for those outside but passing the save)

Suldae Westwind: (wow, how lucky i took the bonus action before you remembered to take his turn! not.)

Death Knight:

MULTIATTACK
Death Knight

The death knight makes three longsword attacks.

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)
Death Knight

Attack: 25

Damage: 15 slashing + 15
necrotic

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)
Death Knight

Attack: 15

Damage: 11 slashing + 20
necrotic

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)
Death Knight

Attack: 31

Damage: 6 + 2 slashing +
15 + 31 necrotic

Having hurled destruction upon his foes, the Death Knight advances through the swirling flame and shadow, and brings his sword crashing down thrice on Henry's shield.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that stupid fireball was a bonus action?)

GM: (Aren't they fun?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 15+7+8+23

(Henry takes 53 because the armor gives resistance to necrotic)

GM: (And now Marcus is up)

(Just think what would have happened if that first Death Knight were still alive too)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'd rather not thank you)

Suldae Westwind: (oh hey Mass Cure Wounds is an action! excellent)

Marcus Veranius moves to finish off Sir Buckethead

Ireena lies unconscious, still steaming. The blast knocked her out cold.

Suldae Westwind: (WHAT)

(my turn isn't over yet!!!)

(i have only taken the bonus action, not the action)

GM: (Oh shoot!)

Marcus Veranius does not move because Suldae is not done being cool

GM: (I'm sorry, I didn't realize you hadn't completed your turn)

Suldae Westwind: The song of death from the spell detonating in the middle of the room is answered with a call of the flute - a simple high sound, calling to life and restoration.

28
Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds
Suldae Westwind

(that covers everyone)

EoT

GM: (Ok, now Marcus is up)

(Again, I'm so sorry for skipping half your turn!)

Suldae Westwind: (ehhhhhh)

(im just glad you didnt remember the death knight after my turn was over, i uh... probably wouldnt have finished it off)

Marcus Veranius , while the GM is out, attempts to evaporate his favorite enemy

Marcus Veranius:

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

9

Radiant/Fire

23

Radiant

16

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

11

Radiant/Fire

20

Radiant

Suldae Westwind: (what a phrasing)

Marcus Veranius:

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant/Fire

23

Radiant

Marcus Veranius goes back into hiding

Marcus Veranius: ETERNALLY SHAMED

Suldae Westwind: (r i p)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Henry of Willowsbrook: (brb)

Invisible Stalker:

MULTIATTACK
Invisible Stalker

The stalker makes two slam attacks.

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 10 | 18

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 14 | 13

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

Something thumps pathetically against Henry's shield.

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

Moving in unison, the Shield Guardians advance, flanking the Death Knight—and Henry.

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 27

Damage: 11 + 9
bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 20

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 15

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 15

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 21

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 21

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 24

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian
Attack: 26

Damage: 16 bludgeoning

GM: (I believe that's exactly 2 hits)

The Shield Guardians pummel Henry's defenses, and two blows in the flurry manage to land.

GM: (Henry, you're up, and the Death Knight will go after you)

(Also, Ireena is back on her feet. Her brief dirt nap seems to have shaken off the Confusion)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(6)

= 6

Can I still use a bonus?

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level (1).

10
Healing

Second Wind
Henry of Willowsbrook

The Magic fogging up Henry's mind overwhelms him making it so that standing up right takes all of his focus even as he hears distant whispers of Sylvanus ordering him to stand his ground

11 + 4

WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Henry remains Confused)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Welp EoT

Death Knight:

MULTIATTACK

Death Knight

The death knight makes three longsword attacks.

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)

Death Knight

Attack: 23

Damage: 15 slashing + 21 necrotic

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)

Death Knight

Attack: 23

Damage: 14 slashing + 17 necrotic

LONGSWORD (TWO-HANDED)

Death Knight

Attack: 18

Damage: 6 slashing + 21 necrotic

Henry of Willowsbrook: (all miss)

Despite his confusion, Henry's shield arm knows how to stave off a longsword—even a cruel and magic one, wielded by an undead horror. Not even looking, he deflects the rain of blows.

Then the flying swords move in.

Flying Sword:

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 4

Damage: 5 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 15

Damage: 5 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 8

Damage: 5 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 5

Damage: 9 slashing

LONGSWORD

Flying Sword

Attack: 7

Damage: 8 slashing

Suldae Westwind: (LMAO)

(I thin they got in each other's way)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I swear to god if one od those fucks had crit me again)

Again, miraculously, Henry's arm moves, deflecting blow after blow after blow. The swords ping off the face of his shield as harmlessly as rain.

Ireena Kolyana:

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

4

Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

GM: (Casting at level 4)

(So 24 points of force damage straight to helmet head)

Ireena Kolyana gets painfully to her feet, loosing a barrage of arcane darts at the Death Knight.

Ireena Kolyana: "Thanks, Suldae!"

Suldae Westwind: "Do me a favor and get back?!"

"Don't fucking die, please!"

Ireena Kolyana: "Right! Sorry!"

Ireena flees to stand behind Suldae.

Rictavio: rolling 1d10

(5)

= 5

Suldae Westwind: (i meant more out of range of AoEs that would blast the entire party but this is sweet and its possible theres no such spot anyway)

Suldae relaxes slightly in her presence. Slightly.

Rictavio: Rictavio stares at the closed door. He touches it gently, smacking his lips a little. He seems to eat an imaginary piece of something from the door.

WISDOM
Rictavio

Ability: 11

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hm it would be real nice to know which shield guardian was the one concentrating on Henrys confusion)

GM: (Suldae is up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes in and out, and picks up her song again. Spring is coming - spring has come to Barovia, and ice is melting. This is only a question of how fast.

4

Higher Level Cast

17

Healing

60 feet

Mass Cure Wounds

Suldae Westwind

The halo chases after the death knight that had smacked it away briefly.

Ireena Kolyana: "Oof, thank you Suldae."

Suldae Westwind:

19

Halo throw (+12)

Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

GM: (I'm so sorry, but that's a miss)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is back at 40 HP)

Suldae Westwind: ...the death knight smacks it away again.

(n o t e d)

Without even looking, the Death Knight swings its blade once behind its back, deflecting the halo.

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (Marcus, you're up—redeem yourself from your shame)

Marcus Veranius attempts redemption arc!

Marcus Veranius:

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

11

Radiant/Fire

24

Radiant

21

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

13

Radiant/Fire

24

Radiant

20

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

18

Radiant/Fire

21

Radiant

GM: (Those are all hits)

(Oh, and he's dead)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Suldae Westwind: (N I C E)

Something hisses from the burnt-out husk of the collapsing Death Knight—another invisible being, no doubt.

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 8 | 12

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 12 | 11

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 17 | 22

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 15 | 9

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

Invisible blows rain on Henry's shield, but he stands tall beneath the storm.

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 15

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 11

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 14

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 8

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 24

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 13

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 26

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 16

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

Suldae Westwind: (I love a tank at a chokepoint)

The Shield Guardians pummel him, but only one blow even grazes him.

GM: (Henry is up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(10)

= 10

GM: (WOOT)

Suldae Westwind: (HECK YEAH)

(...did Henry roll the Wis save last turn?)

(ah yeah)

GM: (He did, it was a 14ish)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches himself from his pained and dazed stumble "Okay that's it" he grunts out

"Ruinatation" Fighting Spirit Action Surge

21	17
60ft
Baleful Dragonbone Warpick
(+16) Henry of Willowsbrook
21 Piercing	8 Acid
22	23
60ft
Baleful Dragonbone Warpick
(+16) Henry of Willowsbrook
16 Piercing	8 Acid
20	31
60ft
Baleful Dragonbone Warpick
(+16) Henry of Willowsbrook
15 Piercing	6 Acid
28	35
60ft
Baleful Dragonbone Warpick
(+16) Henry of Willowsbrook
18 + 2 Piercing	4 + 7 Acid

GM: (Do you want to concentrate on one shield guardian at a time until it's dead, or spread the damage around? Those are all hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Let's go one after the over starting left and going clockwise
(btw what's the CR on these guys?)

GM: (That severely weakens the guy on the left of you, but doesn't quite kill him)
(They're just CR 7, don't worry)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (damnit if they were 6 my crit effect would have killed him)

GM: (Ahahahahaha)
(Oh well, I suppose it was not meant to be)
(Any additional action/movement?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hm nope man that guy took 105 and still stands huh)

21 + 4WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of WillowsbrookGM: (Yup, they are tough bois)Suldae Westwind: (THANK FUCK)GM: (Yay!)*The lingering Confusion slips from Henry's mind.)Suldae Westwind: (and then theres Rictavio)*The Flying Swords swoop for the hero in the doorway, hurling themselves at him, blade-first.Flying Sword:*LONGSWORD
*Flying SwordAttack: 9*Damage: 9 slashingLONGSWORD
*Flying SwordAttack: 9*Damage: 8 slashingLONGSWORD
*Flying SwordAttack: 21*Damage: 7 slashingLONGSWORD
*Flying SwordAttack: 14*Damage: 2 slashingLONGSWORD
*Flying SwordAttack: 15*Damage: 9 slashing*He deflects them all.Ireena Kolyana: "Henry, how would you feel about some Haste?"Henry of Willowsbrook: "I would like that quite a lot to be honest with you"

Ireena Kolyana:HasteTransmutation 3Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 30 feetTarget: A willing creature that you can see within rangeComponents: V, S, M (A shaving of licorice root)Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Choose a willing creature that you can see within range. Until the spell ends, the target's speed is doubled, it gains a +2 bonus to AC, it has advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and it gains an additional action on each of its turns. That action can be used only to take the Attack (one weapon attack only), Dash, Disengage, Hide, or Use an Object action. When the spell ends, the target can't move or take actions until after its next turn, as a wave of lethargy sweeps over it.

"I thought you might."

The power buoys him from within like six gallons of coffee might.

Rictavio: rolling 1d10

(10)

= 10

Rictavio shakes his head. "What the..."

Dispel Magic*Abjuration 4Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: One creature, object, or magical effect within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (AC 27 achieved or Crit me if you can)

He breaks the enchantment on himself the moment his head is above water.

Rictavio: "What a dirty, dirty trick!"

"I thought better of you, Strahd!"

GM: (Suldae is up)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Despite the dirtiness of my trick, you seem to be faring well enough."

"And who are you to speak of dirty tricks, 'Rictavio?' After all, you are all the ones who attempted to infiltrate my defenses by treachery."

Suldae Westwind: "Treachery presumes the person was originally on your side, no?" Suldae asks.

The halo strikes at the guardian next to it 20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

Marcus Veranius: "Where did you get the time and resources to assemble this entire trap!?"

GM: (Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh, you know. A century here. A century there. You'd be surprised how much time a god can have."

Marcus Veranius: "Do you just have corpse puppet supplies in a closet somewhere?"

Suldae Westwind:

20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

Strahd von Zarovich: "That was Piddlewick's contribution, such as it was. I thought you might appreciate seeing your friend, Lady Wachter, one final time."

"Perhaps, when I am done with you, I will have him do the same to your corpses."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, we did," Suldae assures him. She does not elaborate.

(hey i need to know if either of hte guardians is dead)

GM: (I'll tell you if they die. So far they're very much alive)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha ty)

13

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (O O F)

Suldae Westwind: (...RIP)

The halo bounces between the guardians before veering off course out of sheer annoyance at Strahd's voice.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Oh, am I distracting you?"

Suldae Westwind: "Nah, keep talking," Suldae says. Maybe reverse psychology will work?

(one sec)

Marcus Veranius: "You need a girlfriend. Seriously."

"Probably a couple elves somewhere that won't care how old you are."

Strahd von Zarovich: "My, what a pretty wife you have, Marcus!"

"She's in a spot of trouble, now..."

"Too bad the door won't open. That must be so frustrating!"

"Perhaps I had better go see what I can do to help."

"Strahd" walks through the door as though he is nothing more than an image.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers her ability to hurt the guardians. She casts Minor Illusion to make Strahd look like a cow standing upright to everyone looking at him.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Minor Illusion

Illusion Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: See text

Components: S, M (A bit of fleece)

Duration: 1 minute

You create a sound or an image of an object within range that lasts for the duration. The illusion also ends if you dismiss it as an action or cast this spell again. If you create a sound, its volume can range from a whisper to a scream. It can be your voice, someone else's voice, a lion's roar, a beating of drums, or any other sound you choose. The sound continues unabated throughout the duration, or you can make discrete sounds at different times before the spell ends. If you create an image of an object—such as a chair, muddy footprints, or a small chest—it must be no larger than a 5-foot cube. The image can't create sound, light, smell, or any other sensory effect. Physical interaction with the image reveals it to be an illusion, because things can pass through it. If a creature uses its action to examine the sound or image, the creature can determine that it is an illusion with a successful Intelligence (Investigation) check against your spell save DC. If a creature discerns the illusion for what it is, the illusion becomes faint to the creature.

The cow walks through the door, not noticing that it is now a cow.

Marcus Veranius trusts Ezmerelda to handle herself just fine.

Suldae Westwind: EoT

Marcus Veranius: Strahd has no power beyond words

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's right. Gotta check in on the missus, so you all have to go!"

Marcus Veranius takes potshots at the robots

Marcus Veranius:

29

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

5 + 4

Fire

22 + 6

Radiant

30

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

4 + 6

Fire

22 + 1
Radiant

17

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

5
Fire

21
Radiant

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

15
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

19
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Silver linings folks. The more he talks the more satisfying ripping him to shreds will be" Henry says

GM: (The second crit kills it)

(That 17 can go to a different target, if you want)

Marcus Veranius: (The one below it)

GM: (Two kills

)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Invisible Stalker: Something screams in the darkness, watching two of the Shield Guardians crumble to disjointed pieces of metal.

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 13 | 19

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 14 | 8

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 14 | 14

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 23 | 24

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

Four invisible blows find Henry's shield, dealing no damage.

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 9

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 19

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 8

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 10

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

The remaining shield guardians do their worst. To Henry's defenses, their best is meaningless.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook:3460ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

17*Piercing6Acid1960ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

18*Piercing3Acid2960ftBaleful Dragonbone Warpick*(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

19*Piercing7Acid*

Henry swings at the Guradian to his right "You heard the man time to wrap this up and scrap you lot"

DC18*no damage on saveStrength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

7*Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

(oh wow thats a low roll)

GM: (These are medium Shield Guardians, so it can pin them)

(Which one are you hurling it towards?)

Shield Guardian:

STRENGTH
Shield Guardian

Ability: 6

Henry of Willowsbrook: (also the one right next to him)

GM: (So he's knocked prone and squashed against the wall, but not outright killed by it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (84 total)

GM: (Still alive)

(Don't forget you're Hasted)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I haven't I did 3 attacks)

GM: (Gotcha. Is that EoT?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

Flying Sword:

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 21

Damage: 3 slashing

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 14

Damage: 4 slashing

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Man these are some sturdy can heads"

Flying Sword:

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 14

Damage: 9 slashing

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 5

Damage: 6 slashing

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 7

Damage: 2 slashing

Henry says this while swords are pinging off his shield and armor harmlessly.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, wishing to save her magical power for later, whips out her heavy crossbow and looses a single massive bolt.

7

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)

9

Piercing

It pings off Henry's back harmlessly, aimed just a bit too low.

"Sorry Henry!"

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 10

Damage: 6 piercing + 8
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 6

Damage: 4 piercing + 7
piercing

Suldae Westwind: (fucking rip)

Rictavio: Rictavio looses a couple of crossbow bolts as well—both of which miss.

Suldae Westwind: (suldaes crossbow didnt even occur to me as a possible action lmao)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: The halo zeroes in on the pinned guardian first, as it's marginally closer.

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

21

Thunder

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17

Thunder

GM: (Second one is a miss)

Sulda Westwind: (RIP)

GM: (We're just not having good luck with this poor halo)

Sulda Westwind: (not in this one no)

(tbf these are, like, armored enemies, targeting AC will do that)

Finding herself with little productive contribution to do, Sulda focuses on conjuring magical bananas for everyone to eat the minute they have a breather. Well, mostly Henry, she eyeballs.

Goodberry

Transmutation 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: See text

Components: V, S, M (A sprig of mistletoe)

Duration: Instantaneous

Up to ten berries appear in your hand and are infused with magic for the duration. A creature can use its action to eat one berry. Eating a berry restores 1 hit point, and the berry provides enough nourishment to sustain a creature for one day. The berries lose their potency if they have not been consumed within 24 hours of the casting of this spell.

(uhhh i cast it at lvl 3)

(why didnt it ask me)

Sulda Westwind: (give me a minute)

(actually EoT)

(ill say the numbers later)

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius is flying in circles between cover

Marcus Veranius:

15

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

24

Radiant

24

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

24
Radiant

16

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

23
Radiant

Henry of Willowsbrook: (the pinned guys is prone so watch out with your ranged attacks)

Suldae Westwind:

Goodberry

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: See text

Components: V, S, M (A sprig of mistletoe)

Duration: Instantaneous

Up to ten berries appear in your hand and are infused with magic for the duration. A creature can use its action to eat one berry. Eating a berry restores 3 hit points, and the berry provides enough nourishment to sustain a creature for one day. The berries lose their potency if they have not been consumed within 24 hours of the casting of this spell.

At Higher Levels. Each berry restores +1 extra hit point for each level above 1st

(this is correct)

Marcus Veranius: (I had an arrow pointed at the north one but it disappeared)

Suldae Westwind: (so +5 HP per berry, 10 berries)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

GM: (Whoops, accidentally removed the guardians from initiative, one sec)

Rictavio:

INITIATIVE
Shield Guardian

Initiative: 17

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 19 | 21

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 10 | 9

Damage: 6 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 19 | 16

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 11 | 9

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 19 | 11

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 13 | 12

Damage: 5 bludgeoning

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 16 | 26

Damage: 13 + 4
bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 24 | 20

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

A hail of invisible blows rains down on Henry, and—by the barest miracle—one actually manages to harm him.

Henry senses that he is half-surrounded by the invisible things, which flurry around him in the air.

Suldae Westwind: (these poor critters)

GM: (The best part? They have non-magical attacks)

Suldae Westwind: (so what you are saying is Suldae could go there and tank for Henry)

GM: (Henry and Rictavio are the only people they can hurt, and they basically can't hurt Henry)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Potion was an action right?)

Suldae Westwind: (...note: sit on Rictavio)

GM: (Yes, it's a full action)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is waving at Henry and showing him berries in her hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Hasted action would work right? to drink a potion?)

GM: (Yes, that's the Use an Object action)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry drinks a Superior Healing Potion

rolling 8d4+8

(4 + 2 + 3 + 2 + 1 + 2 + 1 + 3) + 8

= 26

24		17
60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

15		5
Piercing		Acid

18		20
60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

17		4
Piercing		Acid

The one thats prone

GM: (First hit kills him)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do I use the 18 or do I reroll for the other guy with out advantage?)

GM: (Either way it's a hit)

(We'll just take the 18)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (k)

DC18*no damage on saveStrength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

17*Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

(On him aswell)

Shield Guardian:
STRENGTH
Shield Guardian
*Ability: 23*The Shield Guardian raises its shield and deflects Henry's in midair.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs the healing properties of the potion calming his annoyance slightly "Guys anyone have anything to make invisible pests less invisible?" EoT

Flying Sword:
LONGSWORD
Flying Sword
Attack: 15Damage: 5 slashing
LONGSWORD
Flying Sword
Attack: 17Damage: 8 slashing
LONGSWORD
Flying Sword
Attack: 4Damage: 6 slashing
LONGSWORD
Flying Sword
Attack: 5Damage: 4 slashing

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 21

Damage: 2 slashing

Five flying swords ping uselessly off his armor.

Ireena Kolyana: "Invisible things? I don't see them!"

"Oh, right."

"Fog Cloud!"

Rictavio: "No!"

Ireena Kolyana: "It will work!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ireena would a fog cloud requirer your focus to maintain? Like the Haste you worked on me?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh! Oh, you're right!"

"Not Fog Cloud then!"

10

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)

11

Piercing

Ireena Kolyana takes careful aim with her crossbow and misses brilliantly.

Ireena Kolyana: "Shit!"

Suldae Westwind: (kind of wish i hadnt swapped out that lvl 3 mass confusion spell, oh well live and learn)

Rictavio: "I could try dispelling it, if it's a magical effect, but if it's the nature of the creature that won't work!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry blinks and questions who Ireena has offended in the cosmic order to be cursed with such a colossal air head on her shoulders

Rictavio: "I only have one of those left in me, and we might need it later!"

Suldae Westwind: "...Henry, could you step away on my signal?"

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW
Rictavio

Attack: 9

Damage: 1 piercing + 12 piercing

HAND CROSSBOW*RictavioAttack: 22*Damage: 1 piercing + 8 piercingRictavio finally gets in at least one good shot.Henry of Willowsbrook: *colossalGM: (Oh, huh. That extra piercing damage is only supposed to happen on undead targets... So that's actually a really crappy shot)

(Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (Does Henry have the juice/willingness to cast Misty Step?)GM: (He'd have to have a bonus action left, and I think he used it to hurl his shield)Suldae Westwind: (Suldae asked a question & the answer is important to what she does) (I'll ready an action if Henry agrees to the plan)Henry of Willowsbrook: (He can on his turn)Suldae Westwind: (yeee)

Suldae gets ready to cast Shatter as soon as Henry Misty Steps away from invisible attackers.

Meanwhile, the halo flies on.

15Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind16ThunderGM: (Aaaaaaaaand that's a miss)Suldae Westwind: (oh my fucking god)

(ok)

GM: (I'm busting up over here, rip)Suldae Westwind: (anyway readied action Shatter on Henry's general area)GM: (Gotcha)Marcus Veranius decides to go for easier targetsMarcus Veranius:21120>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)(+10)

Marcus Veranius

6
Fire

24
Radiant

26
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)
(+10)
Marcus Veranius

2
Fire

20
Radiant

27
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)
(+10)
Marcus Veranius

1
Fire

19
Radiant

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry could just walk he has a free disengage plus well his stupid high Ac)

GM: (Three hits, three kills)

Marcus evaporates three of the flying swords.

Suldae Westwind: (...I guess in a turn-based environment that would work, i was just thinking realistically that Suldae cannot aim at them)

Shield Guardian:

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 14

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 15

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is hasted he can out run the sound explosion...)

Suldae Westwind: (oooooooo)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (DnD is a silly game)

The Shield Guardian slams its fists against Henry's shield—quite uselessly.

Suldae Westwind: (and its Suldae giving the signal anyway)

(he does what he chooses to, in-universe)

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 7 | 25

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 7 | 18

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 16 | 22

Damage: 7 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 16 | 26

Damage: 10 + 8
bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 14 | 12

Damage: 7 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 18 | 13

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 16 | 22

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 12 | 26

Damage: 15 + 4
bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 22 | 10

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 18 | 9

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

The invisible blows come thick and fast and brutal, and two actually manage to hit flesh under all that armor.

Suldae Westwind: (two crits??? wow)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (That's a whole lot more attacks than before)

GM: (Two per invisible stalker)

(One invisible stalker per death knight/shield guardian)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives the signal, and without waiting casts Shatter.
after Henry...

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry grunts in pain and decides being surrounded by invisible enemies was getting old as he raises his shield and moves back wards out the door.

Haste to Disengage

Suldae Westwind: (you mean Henry reacts to Suldae's signal, right?)

DC19

Constitution Save

9

Higher Level Cast

13

Thunder

60 feet

Shatter

Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: On Suldaes Signal because surely she had something in mind

Suldae Westwind: (anyway,)

Invisible Stalker:

CONSTITUTION

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 13

CONSTITUTION

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 19

CONSTITUTION

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 13

CONSTITUTION

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 17

CONSTITUTION

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 7

Shield Guardian:

CONSTITUTION

Shield Guardian

Ability: 22 | 22

Flying Sword:

CONSTITUTION

Flying Sword

Ability: 17 | 8

Suldae Westwind: (rip) (well i hitting that one wasnt the point anyway lmao)

BOOM! A roar of Thunder explodes in the spot where Henry stood a moment ago, blasting through several invisible enemies—and two visible ones. One sword is shaken completely to pieces, but the Shield Guardian hunkers down behind his shield and weathers the brunt of the blast.

GM: (So that was your haste action and your movement, do you want to use your actions/bonus actions?)

Suldae Westwind: (You can take a banana from Suldae!)

(they restore HP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (how much?)

Suldae Westwind: (...5 HP per banana)

(she has 10)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (interesting question would be how many bananas Henry can chow down in 1 turn)

GM: (How many bananas can you eat in 6 seconds?)

(I mean, he's got to peel them and everything)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (You don't want to know that GM...trust me you really don't)

Suldae Westwind: (ok maybe declaring them bananas wasn't the best plan)

GM: (I'm picturing Henry just cramming the entire bundle of bananas down his throat like a python)

Suldae Westwind: (if I draw that)

(can he do it)

(ill even color it)

GM: (If he RPs it)

(Yes)

(I expect this work of art on my desk ASAP)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...I think He will just touch himself instead, that seems more dignified)

Henry taking in the carnage Suldae just unleashed where he stood places a hand on his chest as he takes a deep breath

Lay on Hands for 40

Suldae Westwind: (aw)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I may have little dignity left when it comes to eating bananas but Henry deserves better despite the image being absolutely hilarious)

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

15

Bludgeoning

60 feet line

Bone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

He also sends the shield flying to hit any invisible foes

GM: (Just straight ahead?)

Invisible Stalker:

STRENGTH
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 14

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ye)

GM: (Gotcha, so you hit one, but it's immune to the prone condition, the grappled condition, etc)

(So you don't pin it, but you do sort of blast the shield right through it)

(Is that EoT?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoTFlying Sword:

LONGSWORD
Flying Sword

Attack: 11

Damage: 8 slashing

Henry of Willowsbrook: (btw how many turns has it been since Ireena cast Haste?)

GM: (Good question!)

(I'd say no more than 4 probably)

(I seem to recall about 3 uses of the haste action, so probably 3)

Ireena Kolyana:

15

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)

7

Piercing

Ping! A sword bounces off Henry's shield, even as Ireena's crossbow bolt bounces off the Shield Guardian's shield.

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW
Rictavio

Attack: 6

Damage: 5 piercing + 8
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW
Rictavio

Attack: 6

Damage: 5 piercing + 13

piercing

Both of Rictavio's shots miss.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: The halo reverses and flies right at the shield guardian

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind:

30

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (Hit, sword is still alive)

(With 1 HP though)

Suldae Westwind:

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19

Thunder

(augh)

GM: (Aaaand miss)

Suldae Westwind: HMM

Henry of Willowsbrook: (attacking Invisible enemies is possible at disadvantage...nvm)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah thats what im thinking)

(imma try to hit those fuckers)

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Sacred Flame

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Flame-like radiance descends on a creature that you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take 1d8 radiant damage. The target gains no benefit from cover for this saving throw.

(AH FUCK)

GM: (Yup)

Suldae Westwind: (the spell wording specifically prevents that nm)

GM: (Other options?)

Suldae Westwind: upon wisely considering all available options, Suldae charges into melee trying to tackle whatever the fuck it is attacking Henry / however many of them there are.

GM: (Lmao)

Suldae Westwind: (arms spread, trying to cover as large an area as possible)

GM: (Point of order: She doesn't know that the attacks of these creatures might be nonmagical)

Suldae Westwind: (She knows they MIGHT)

GM: (But if that's what she would do anyway, go ahead)

Suldae Westwind: (and with that possibility in mind, this is ABSOLUTELY what she would do)

(if there are many tiny fuckers, she can at least swat them, and if there's one, maybe she can pinpoint its location for Henry to stab)

(and she IS wearing armor...)

GM: (Go ahead and make a grapple check with disadvantage)

(Assuming it is a grapple you're trying to do?)

Suldae Westwind: (yes, basically)

(...is that a Strength/Athletics ability check?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yes)

GM: (Athletics, yeah)

Suldae Westwind:

2

ATHLETICS (1)
Suldae Westwind

3

ATHLETICS (1)
Suldae Westwind

(...well that answers that)

Suldae heroically misses them all and sprawls on the floor prone instead.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Suldae faceplants into the doorframe I guess) into

Suldae manages to get her arms around something, but it slips through her grasp like a wind through the trees.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is currently prone because her attack was aimed to put her weight on whatever she caught)
(and if she didn't, well, at least she's not in Henry's way)

GM: (Is that EoT?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (this was almost - almost! - just as planned)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus aims one shot at the sword and two for the armor still standing. It was about time for this ambush to conclude.

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

3

Fire

21

Radiant

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

5

Fire

20

Radiant

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

6

Fire

24
Radiant

...or not.

GM: (Oof)

(Three 14s in a row)

(I think the random number generator on Roll20 is a bit busted)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that's actually impressive)

GM: (Is that EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: [EoT]

Shield Guardian: The Shield Guardian advances, raising its shield, and brings it crashing down upon Suldae—twice.

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 23 | 16

Damage: 11 bludgeoning

FIST
Shield Guardian

Attack: 25 | 12

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

It tickles.

Invisible Stalker: Then, quite suddenly, Suldae is surrounded by whipping winds, and many fists attempt to strike her.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's body contorts around the attacks with supernatural grace that comes from effectively shapeshifting around them.

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 13

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 12

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 14

Damage: 8 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 12

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 12

Damage: 10 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 25

Damage: 14 bludgeoning

Invisible Stalker:

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 7

Damage: 12 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 18

Damage: 9 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 7

Damage: 13 bludgeoning

SLAM
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 9

Damage: 5 bludgeoning

GM: (Those should all be with advantage, but it's irrelevant anyway)

Suldae Westwind: (i do love how one (1) of those would have hit anyway)

Suldae hears something—the ruffle of raven feathers. The invisible fists do no damage whatsoever, though she senses them striking her.

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is strongly grateful the attacks appear to be nonmagical, even as she's slightly freaked out by the wereraven nature taking over her body for the moment.

This wasn't her best plan.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (The one sword still lives right?)

GM: (Yes)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

17

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

20
Piercing

7
Acid

34

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

20
Piercing

6
Acid

GM: (That's hilarious because that's its exact AC, but it's also a nat 1, so it's an automatic miss)

(The second hit obliterates it, assuming you're still aiming at the sword)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Yes

Suldae Westwind: (whyyyyy the sword and not the guardian)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I did not think I#d miss 20

34

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

20
Piercing

12
Acid

(that was not supposed to be disadvantage Henry attacks the Guardian)

GM: (That's a hit, but he's still on his feet)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

14*Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

on the Guardian

Shield Guardian:

STRENGTH
Shield Guardian

Ability: 14 | 12

Henry of Willowsbrook: and any Stalkers in between I guessGM: (That's a kill, do you want to RP it?)Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry after flaying around first to swat away the sword Brings both arms forward so that both his Shield and Pick smash the Guardian at the sametimeThe Guardian crumbles, little more than a suit of armor without a wearer.Something invisible flies from it...Suldae Westwind: (of course it does...)Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs deeply "...just think how good it will feel to kill him Henry" he says "It will all be worth it.

All. of. this. shit. will. be. worth. IT."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena runs up, grabs the prone Suldae, and forcibly drags her back out of the room. As she retreats, she plucks her dagger from the wall, and the secret door seals itself once more.

"Ok, ok, before you complain:"

Suldae Westwind: "...could have taken them," Suldae mumbles.Ireena Kolyana: "Use your halo, if you can. Henry, take five. I'm going to drop Haste. Once the effects pass, we reopen the door, try a fog cloud, see what we can do. It's going to suck once the fog cloud is up, so we'll want to stick close together."

"Are you alright, Suldae?"

"Unless anybody has a better plan."

"Literally, any better plan. I'll take it."

Marcus Veranius: Marcus raises a hand. "Anyone see any visible treasure in there? How about we fireball the room and let the flames mark them?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could moonbeam the door way"

 Suldae Westwind: "...My plan was "flail at them and hope I hit something", so... Oh! One more thing!"

 Rictavio: "I believe these are Invisible Stalkers. I could cast Magic Circle, which can be set to prevent them from entering its radius."

 Suldae Westwind: "...Oh nice."

 Rictavio: "It takes a full minute to cast, but since we seem to find ourselves with additional time..."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I can't cast Fireball."

 Suldae Westwind: "Anyway, I don't believe they pose danger for wereravens."

"Ironically, the paladin in the suit of armor is one of the only two people present vulnerable to their attacks at all."

"The... curse, however it works, deflects mundane attacks."

 Rictavio: "In that case, perhaps a magic circle to protect the non-wereravens, and the wereravens can remain outside of it?"

 Suldae Westwind: "That's a plan, yeah."

 Ireena Kolyana: "What if they pick up those silver swords, though?"

 Suldae Westwind: "Have some berries, Henry."

 Ireena Kolyana: "I mean, can they?"

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae shoves the berries at him.

 Rictavio: "If they have the brains... Which I doubt."

 Suldae Westwind: "I mean it's not like the circle would bar US from entering it, right?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Thanks" Henry begins to scarf down the berries

 Rictavio: "The Circle would only bar the enemies which I set it to."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (so does Henry get all 10 berries?)

 Suldae Westwind: (Distribute them as you see fit or store indefinitely, I don't think they expire)

 Rictavio: "In case Strahd himself is lurking within that metal fortress, it may be wise to tune it to reject both undead and elementals—assuming that these are ordinary Invisible Stalkers..."

 Suldae Westwind: (also everyone else should be topped up on HP from Suldae's consecutive nuke heals)

"That sounds like a good plan, now that we no longer have an undead in the party ourselves," Suldae agrees. "Not that Ismark's even here."

She glances at Ireena.

 Ireena Kolyana: "We should check in with them, if we can..."

Suldae Westwind: "He's probably safer outside, this time."

"Hey, Marcus, you can check with Ezme, right?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: The gathered party are, well party to the slightly unappetizing sight of a grown man stuffing ten bananas down his throat.

Rictavio: "Gods, Henry. Chew!"

Marcus Veranius: "I can if she's on this plane." Marcus comments.

Suldae Westwind: "Well let's bloody well hope!..."

"...does Rope Trick count?"

Suldae considers her magical knowledge for this.

25

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "Rope Trick, the Robe of Stars she's wearing. Strahd could waste his time trying to find her, but he'll just come back here eventually."

Suldae knows that Rope Trick would cause some interference, as it is a demiplane, but not enough to cut off contact entirely.

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm sure they're fine."

Rictavio: "I'm not."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swallows loudly "After all that I frankly don't care enough to chew for now" he says with a grunt "At this rate i'm gonna be sore until I'm 40 even with all this magic flying around"

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's taunting means nothing. Remember; without my equipment, Ez is the stronger of the two of us."

"Something he will unfortunately learn the hard way."

Suldae Westwind: "...I wonder if it would have worked between Barovia and the outside..."

Suldae is thoroughly up a tangent.

Marcus Veranius readies the Sunsword. "Right then, blast or fireball. I'm ready when you are."

Ireena Kolyana: "I told you, I can't cast Fireball."

Rictavio: "Nor can I, I'm afraid. Do we want to try the Magic Circle?"

Marcus Veranius: "Sorry, my mistake."

Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry Henry," Ireena says, as she releases concentration on Haste.

Marcus Veranius: "What I meant to say was, do you want ME to fireball the room?"

Suldae Westwind: "I think we want to, yes."

"About time we protected Henry."

(Henry, all bananas can heal 50 hp)

Marcus Veranius taps the Helmet of Who Needs Hiere Anyways

Suldae Westwind: (or any amount less than that in increments of 5)

Rictavio: "I know the most wonderful chiropractor in Neverwinter, Henry. After this is all over, I'll give you his card."

GM: (Ok, I have to go now, but this was a really fun session, and I'm glad we'll get to hop right back in with RP and combat)

(Thank you all for playing!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry ate all ten and is now at 96 HP because of it)

Marcus Veranius: (Thank you for hosting! I'll be less distracted next week; promise)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha, right)

(forgot you were that low rip)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yup he was down to 6 HP at one point)

Suldae Westwind: (henry was standing against approximately all the contents of that room)

Liliet (Suldae): IM HERE

alright so we were taking a short rest right

GM (GM): Hi Here, I'm dad

Damn, I'm GM would have been better

Liliet (Suldae): youre thinking about another player :3

GM (GM): Nah, if I were I'd say "Hi Here, I'm Daddy ;) ;) ;)"

Right, so go ahead and take that short rest if you haven't yet

I think I have super dyslexia

Whole words change when I'm not looking

Like I could have sworn you wrote "You're thinking about another campaign"

Not "Another player"

GM (GM): Your joke was funnier

But the way I read it, I was thinking "She must be talking about the curse of strahd game I play with my boyfriend"

So now it's just double layers of awkward

ANYWAY

Would you like to stick with the initiative order we have now, or roll your initiatives again?

And do you want to coordinate a first-round breach-and-clear?

Marcus Veranius: "So I've come to an unfortunate conclusion."

"Fireball will probably destroy whatever we were prophecised to find in there."

"I'm gunna try a Prismatic Spray instead, hope they get stuck in the cone."

Rictavio: "That little fortress looked sturdy enough to me..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Prismatic Spray might be a better idea anyway. With luck, one of the effects might leave one of our enemies visible."

Rictavio: "Do we have a sense of how many there are?"

Liliet (Suldae): "Lots", Suldae suggests.

Suldae Westwind: She is very useful.

Zanshukun: "Somewhere around 5" Henry says "Going by the amount of hits they threw my way"

Marcus Veranius: "Don't think they're undead. They would have lit up like a festival pine."

Rictavio: "If these are what I think they are, they may be elementals."

Marcus Veranius: "Ah, yes. The Element of Surprise."

Ireena Kolyana: "I think he means wind, Marcus."

Rictavio: "At my age, that has a certain element of surprise to it."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena pulls a face of disgust.

Rictavio: "Speaking of breaking things," says Rictavio, "What should the rest of us do when you cast this spell?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hit things or try to atleast" Henry suggests

Suldae Westwind: (weren't we talking about a magic circle for our 2 (two) non wereravens)

Rictavio: "Shall I prepare a magic circle?"

"We could place it right in the doorway, so that none of them can escape the room and hide in that ridiculous belfry tower."

Suldae Westwind: "That sounds like a good idea. These things didn't seem prepared for... the automatic wereraven defense mechanism" Suldae makes a grimace. She doesn't enjoy that, though she enjoys it significantly more than getting stabbed. Ah, comparisons.

"Means there are only two of us they even can hurt at all, without silver weapons"

Rictavio: "And there are several silver swords lying around in that room," says Rictavio, thoughtfully.

"They're not the brightest creatures, though. I doubt they'll have the sense to use them."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well now that sounds like as good a plan as any"

Rictavio: Rictavio takes powdered silver from his pouch and carefully begins arranging the circle. "It will just barely fit in the chamber. For safety's sake, I'm including celestials, elementals, fey, fiends, and undead."

"Give me just a moment..."

Magic Circle

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: 10 ft

Components: V, S, M (Holy water or powdered silver and iron worth at least 100 gp, which the spell consumes)

Duration: 1 hour

You create a 10-foot-radius, 20-foot-tall cylinder of magical energy centered on a point on the ground that you can see within range. Glowing runes appear wherever the cylinder intersects with the floor or other surface.

Choose one or more of the following types of creatures - celestials, elementals, fey, fiends, or undead. The circle affects a creature of the chosen type in the following ways.

- The creature can't willingly enter the cylinder by nonmagical means. If the creature tries to use teleportation or interplanar travel to do so, it must first succeed on a Charisma saving throw.
- The creature has disadvantage on attack rolls against targets within the cylinder.
- Targets within the cylinder can't be charmed, frightened, or possessed by the creature.

When you cast this spell, you can elect to cause its magic to operate in the reverse direction, preventing a creature of the specified type from leaving the cylinder and protecting targets outside it.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the duration increases by 1 hour for each slot level above 3rd.

Suldae Westwind: "The sooner we end the fight, the less time they'll have to find sense within themselves," Suldae highlights the obvious.

Marcus Veranius:

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level.

2
Fire

13
Healing

Second Wind
Marcus Veranius

(Ignore the fire damage)

Marcus Veranius feels fit and fine to start helmet-blasting some invisibles!

Suldae Westwind: (wait werent we taking a short rest)

Marcus Veranius: (Use my second wind before the rest, get it back after and save some hit dice)

GM: (Oh you sly dog)

Suldae Westwind: (legit)

(can we assume the short rest already happened and the discussion is happening as everyone is fresh...er)

Ireena Kolyana: "Before we breach, I could cast Haste? Maybe?"

GM: (That's what I was assuming)

(Make sure you roll your healing if you haven't already though)

Suldae Westwind:

SONG OF REST

Class: Bard

Beginning at 2nd level, you can use soothing music or oration to help revitalize your wounded allies during a short rest. If you or any friendly creatures who can hear your performance regain hit points at the end of the short rest by spending one or more Hit Dice, each of those creatures regains an extra 1d6 hit points.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

5

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

5

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

rolling 2d6

(6 + 5)

= 11

GM: (Also I just realized True Strike is awesome for invisible enemies)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

9

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (isnt magic missile also)

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d6

(3)

= 3

Suldae Westwind: (it has the 'cannot miss' gimmick right)

GM: (I believe you still have to see the target for magic missile)

Suldae Westwind: (though true strike is a cantrip?)

(oh i see rip)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7

HIT DICE (D10+3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

rolling d6

(6)

= 6

(So Henry is back at full juice)

GM: (I've returned both Ireena and Rictavio to full health, and increased their remaining spell slots slightly.)

Ireena Kolyana: "Right, so, Haste? Who wants it?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I mean, I would take it." Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "Extra sprays from the helmet? Sure!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "OR that"

Rictavio: "Before we go in there, I just want you all to understand how very much you mean to me. I pray for Pelor's blessing upon each and every one of you."

Bless

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Up to three creatures of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A sprinkling of holy water)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You bless up to three creatures of your choice within range. Whenever a target makes an attack roll or a saving throw before the spell ends, the target can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to the attack roll or saving throw.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 1st.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm bound to end up doing a bunch of flailing about like an ass"

GM: (All players and Ireena are now under the effect of Bless)

Ireena Kolyana: "Marcus it is, then..."

Haste

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A willing creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A shaving of licorice root)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Choose a willing creature that you can see within range. Until the spell ends, the target's speed is doubled, it gains a +2 bonus to AC, it has advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and it gains an additional action on each of its turns. That action can be used only to take the Attack (one weapon attack only), Dash, Disengage, Hide, or Use an Object action. When the spell ends, the target can't move or take actions until after its next turn, as a wave of lethargy sweeps over it.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae treats everyone to the magical world edition of benny hills with a sequence of limericks about how badly they're going to whoop the ass of these invisible fuckers.

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Suldae Westwind: (One on Marcus, one on Henry, one on Rictavio, one on Ireena, one left)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So are we ready?" Henry asks

Ireena Kolyana: "As ready as we're gonna be, I think... I guess we all just start shooting as soon as we open the door?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Pretty much yeah"

Marcus Veranius is has his hands in the helmet's diamonds, ready to cast at will!

Rictavio: "It is important to note that they will still be able to attack targets on the periphery of the circle, but that the circle's magic should offer some protection."

"So perhaps we ought to put our meatier young fellows up in front."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I do have a name" Henry says sardonically

Suldae Westwind: "Wereravens, he means wereravens."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Could we get to it dinner is ready)"Oh right yes"

Ireena Kolyana: "If those swords start flying, we'll, uh... Let you take over."

Suldae Westwind: "That, yes."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena steps in front of the door and slips her knife into the crack slightly. "Ready?"

GM: (Does the formation look right?)

Marcus Veranius: "Umm... I kindof need to be in the front for this one."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Yeah)

(Cones)

Marcus Veranius: "Unless you wanna play Magic Beam Tapdancing."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh," says Ireena. "Right."

"Well, we're all right behind ya."

She leaves her dagger in the crack, ready to be jammed in and trigger the door.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "okay" Henry says tenseing "Now go"

GM: (All you, Marcus)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Could I already roll my attacks I got to go real quick please?)

GM: (Go ahead!)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

36 + 2 | 31 + 2

30ft/60ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

16 Piercing	5 Acid
------------------------------	-------------------------

29 + 1	17 + 1
---------------	---------------

30ft/60ft
Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
 Henry of Willowsbrook

20 Piercing	4 Acid
------------------------------	-------------------------

 Marcus Veranius: (I have no idea how to measure a cone)

GM: (A cone extends in a direction you choose from its point of Origin. A cone's width at a given point along its length is equal to that point's distance from the point of Origin. A cone's area of Effect specifies its maximum length.)

 Ireena Kolyana: A cone's point of Origin is not included in the cone's area of Effect, unless you decide otherwise.)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Brb)

 Marcus Veranius: (Cone is 60 ft)
 (Fuck it, room is blasted)

GM: (Yeah, you can easily position it such that there is no cover)

 Marcus Veranius:

DC18

Half Damage on save / No Effects

Dexterity Save

1. Fire
2. Acid
3. Lightning
4. Poison
5. Cold.
6. [No damage; Restrained]
7. [No damage; Blinded]
8. Struck twice. Roll two d8s.

6
Fire

38 Damage	2 Damage Type
----------------------------	--------------------------------

60-foot cone

Prismatic Spray
 Marcus Veranius

(Ignore the fire from blazing weapon)

(How many targets do I need to roll beams for?)

GM: (6)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 5d8

(4 + 7 + 1 + 7 + 2)

= 21

Invisible Stalker:

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 17

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 21

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 7

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 14

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 18

DEXTERITY

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 12

GM: (4 failures)

(Looks like... Acid, (dodged poison), Blinded, Fire, (dodged blinded), and Acid again)

(Do you want to roll the 10d6 separately for each, or just use the 38 across the board?)

Marcus Veranius: [38 acid damage to target 1][19 Poison damage to target 2][Target 3 is Blinded][38 fire damage to target 4][Target 5 is unaffected][38 Fire to target 6]

On a failed save, the target is Blinded. It must then make a Wisdom saving throw at the start of your next turn. A successful save ends the blindness. If it fails that save, the creature is transported to another plane of existence of the DM's choosing and is no longer Blinded. (Typically, a creature that is on a plane that isn't its home plane is banished home, while other creatures are usually cast into the Astral or Ethereal planes.)

With the power of Haste: Use an Object, marcus fires another volley

DC18

Half Damage on save / No Effects

Dexterity Save

1. Fire
2. Acid
3. Lightning
4. Poison
5. Cold.
6. [No damage; Restrained]
7. [No damage; Blinded]
8. Struck twice. Roll two d8s.

30
Damage

4
Damage Type

60-foot cone

Prismatic Spray
Marcus Veranius

rolling 5d8

(8 + 6 + 7 + 6 + 2)

= 29

rolling 2d8

(2 + 2)

= 4

Invisible Stalker:

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 19

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 20

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 10

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 7

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 8

DEXTERITY
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 7

Marcus Veranius: [15 Poison damage to target 1][30 fire damage to target 2 from two beams][Target 3 is also Restrained][Target 4 is Blinded][Target 5 is Restrained][30 Fire to target 6]

On a failed save, the target is Restrained. It must then make a Constitution saving throw at the end of each of its turns. If it successfully saves three times, the spell ends. If it fails its save three times, it permanently turns to stone and is subjected to the Petrified condition. The successes and failures don't need to be consecutive, keep track of both until the target collects three of a kind.

Marcus Veranius introduces Barovia to the concept of laser light shows

Invisible Stalker: [pass: Poison] [pass: Struck Twice] [Restrained—but it's immune] [Blinded] [Restrained—but it's immune] [Acid (I think)]

(Is that right?)

Marcus Veranius: (I calculated the poison damage it's taking in my blurb)

(Half damage on a pass)

GM: (It's immune to poison anyway, so sort of a moot point)

Marcus Veranius: (oof)

The lazer light show is now over.

[EoT]

GM: (I'll deal with Henry's rolls now, assuming he comes up and hurls his warpick)

(That's one hit and one miss)

The room is briefly filled by dazzling rays! Several targets are struck by a variety of entertaining magics. Two are now blinded, and several are on the verge of death. Henry's flying warpick finishes one of them off, and a puff of fine silvery dust falls to the ground.

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays a rather simple melody that she's accustomed to by now.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

(The closest critter is pushed away)

Invisible Stalker:

STRENGTH
Invisible Stalker

Ability: 6

INITIATIVE
Invisible Stalker

Initiative: 16

GM: (That's a misclick, sorry)

(Ok, he's pushed away)

Suldae Westwind: And then there's the halo, flying rather blindly.

20 + 4

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16
Thunder

31 + 4

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19
Thunder

GM: (That's going to have to be at disadvantage)

Suldae Westwind: (twice for disadvantage)

GM: (Gotcha)

(It's definitely a hit—seems like it was guided by the gods lol)

Suldae Westwind: Bouncing off something invisible, the halo continues its flight off to the side...

$$21 + 3 \quad | \quad 30 + 3$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20
Thunder

It is, all things considered, quite difficult to dodge a sound, even if the thing that's dodging is invisible.

$$31 + 2 \quad | \quad 28 + 2$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

$$28 + 1 \quad | \quad 30 + 1$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16
Thunder

$$31 + 4 \quad | \quad 15 + 4$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

Suldae Westwind: (im assuming the last one hit too?)

GM: (Yup!)

Suldae Westwind:

$$31 + 4 \quad | \quad 30 + 4$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16
Thunder

$$18 + 1 \quad | \quad 14 + 1$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17
Thunder

(is that finally a miss)

GM: (That's still a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (I love this)

Pelor's blessing is no joke, apparently.

$$25 + 3 \quad | \quad 29 + 3$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

11
Thunder

(how do i measure again)

$$32 + 1 \quad | \quad 15 + 1$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

(ty)

GM: (the Q key drops pins)

Suldae Westwind: (thanks!!!!)

GM: (You've done 80)

Suldae Westwind: (now more)

$$19 + 3 \quad | \quad 16 + 3$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

$$14 + 3 \quad | \quad 19 + 3$$

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12
Thunder

GM: (And that's as far as it can go)

Suldae Westwind: The halo whirls around the room in a chorus of destruction. It manages to chorus with itself, that's how fast it is.

Ireena Kolyana: "Jeez!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae can barely hear Ireena's exclamation behind the melodic din.

Ireena Kolyana:22*21

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)8PiercingSuldae Westwind: (EoT)GM: (1 Bless)Ireena Kolyana takes a potshot at one of the spots where she saw the Halo bounce, and her crossbow bolt rips through the ethereal creature, dealing some damage.Rictavio: "Keep up the pressure!"HAND CROSSBOWRictavioAttack: 19 | 10*Damage: 5 piercing + 14
piercingHAND CROSSBOWRictavioAttack: 21 | 15*Damage: 6 piercing + 16 piercingGM: (He doesn't have Bless, but he'll use that Bardic inspiration)

(Was that 1d6?)

Suldae Westwind: (excellent)

(1d8 by now i think)

BARDIC INSPIRATION*Class: Bard*

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspiresRictavio: 7Rictavio looses two crossbow bolts to the same target, which screams like a whirlwind.*Invisible Stalker:

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 17

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 15

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 7

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 19

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 4

INTELLIGENCE

Invisible Stalker

Ability: 20

GM: (Wait, two of those are dead)Suldae Westwind: (RIP)Suddenly, three of the silver swords on the ground scoop themselves into the air—revealing the positions of their bearers.Invisible Stalker:

INITIATIVE

Invisible Stalker

Initiative: 11

GM: (Ignore that, I don't know how I keep misclicking that)Invisible Stalker:LONGSWORD +1 (TWO-HANDED)Invisible Stalker

Attack: 1 | 9

Damage: 9

You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

One of the swords flies towards the Circle, and with a pulse of light you see an almost humanoid form of solid air bounce off the barrier, never even getting time to swing at its intended target.

Invisible Stalker:

LONGSWORD +1 (TWO-HANDED)
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 6 | 1

Damage: 7

You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

LONGSWORD +1 (TWO-HANDED)
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 20 | 3

Damage: 3

You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

Suldae Westwind: (oh my god)

A second sword swoops for the doorway as well, and is rebuffed twice—just as effectively.

Suldae Westwind: (they are REALLY stupid

E>

Invisible Stalker:

LONGSWORD +1 (TWO-HANDED)
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 7 | 1

Damage: 11

You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

LONGSWORD +1 (TWO-HANDED)
Invisible Stalker

Attack: 19 2

Damage: 10

You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

Suldae Westwind: (this keeps being entertaining)

And the third sword is no more effective than its brethren. Seeing that they have given away their positions for nothing, they drop the swords and attempt to flee!

Marcus Veranius: "..."

GM: (You can each make an attack of opportunity with disadvantage, Marcus and Suldae)

Marcus Veranius: "Do you... wanna just leave the castle?"

"We won't pursue if you just leave."

Suldae Westwind:

17 + 4		12 + 4
20/60
Dagger of Venom (+8)
Suldae Westwind
6		7
Piercing

Suldae lashes out with the dagger.

that seems to find its own way into her palm.

She feels the edge of the blade strike something like thickened wind.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae also nods along to Marcus's proposition.

Invisible Stalker: The whirling winds keen sadly, fearfully, keeping their distance now.

Rictavio: "They may be able to understand us..."

Ireena Kolyana: "Quick! Does anyone speak Auran?"

Rictavio: "It may not do any good. Think about it. They've been imprisoned here by Strahd, by who knows what spellcraft?"

Ireena Kolyana: "That doesn't mean they're compelled to fight us."

Rictavio: "You underestimate the power of a Geas."

Ireena Kolyana: "Like Strahd can even cast that."

Marcus Veranius: (Any of the primordial languages would work; they're understandable by the other languages. You'll just come off as having a thick accent)

(Alas, I dont have any of the four)

Suldae Westwind: (i dont think gobliln or gnomish are related, right?)

Marcus Veranius: (Nope. I think only the four Primordial languages act that wat) *way

"...funny enough, I always wanted to learn Auran."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh wait! I'm a dummy. I have Comprehend Languages in my spellbook."

"Give me just a moment here..."

"I know I have it somewhere..."

She digs through her spellbook hastily, rifling through the pages.

She finds the spell, and hastily begins to read. "One second, guys..."

GM: (It takes a full minute for her to ritually cast it)

Marcus Veranius is just standing there awkwardly

Marcus Veranius: No weapon drawn, just... ???

Rictavio: "I wonder if they play cards. That's pretty universal."

Rictavio pulls out a deck of antique cards and begins to shuffle them. He draws several, and shoves the rest of the deck across the line of the circle.

Marcus Veranius: "I don't think now's a good time. Strahd will just peek at the cards."

Rictavio: The cards scatter and tumble, bashed about by winds.

Marcus Veranius: "...or that."

Rictavio: "Well. I guess they don't want to play cards..."

Ireena Kolyana: "I've got it!"

Marcus Veranius begins playing Extreme 52 Card Pickup; Tornado Edition

Ireena Kolyana: She stands up very carefully, leaving her spellbook open on the ground. She lifts a hand in an arcane gesture, and tips her head, and opens her mouth, and the strangest sounds of wind and air begin to flow.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae restrains her halo, waiting for the diplomacy attempt to bear fruit.

Ireena Kolyana: Also, Marcus suffers the effects of an ending Haste spell, because it only lasts for a minute anyway.

Marcus Veranius falls to the ground, dropping the cards again

Marcus Veranius: "Drat."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena says: "Shhav' ghaess it?"

Invisible Stalker: Winds whisper and hiss in response.

Ireena Kolyana: "They say they're having a bad day."

"What should I ask them?"

Suldae Westwind: "Why they are attacking us," Suldae suggests.

Ireena Kolyana: "Vshash verrh ihhai ittikkig iss?"

Invisible Stalker: The winds hiss and scream.

Ireena Kolyana: "They say we stole their bodies and ruined their homes (?)"

"I think they mean the armor."

Marcus Veranius: "Their homes attacked us." Marcus comments.

Ireena Kolyana: "Sshaarr shhanness ittikket iss."

Invisible Stalker: The winds howl and roar.

Ireena Kolyana: "Apparently they don't see it that way. We broke into their home, where they've watched her sleeping for centuries and centuries. They won't let us touch her."

"Not sure who the 'her' is here?"

Rictavio: "It doesn't sound like they're prisoners."

Ireena Kolyana: "No, wait. A person can be a prisoner and not even know it."

Suldae Westwind: "Why won't they let us touch her?"

Marcus Veranius: "...probably whatever was meant by the prophecy."

"I wonder... is she who I think?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Vshash vhan't ihhai let iss thaaksh sherr?"

Invisible Stalker: The wind roars.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena twists a finger in her ear.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'm back and up to speed)

Ireena Kolyana: "They say, and I quote: 'She lies sleeping, and will soon wake, and nothing must disturb her slumber.'"

Marcus Veranius draws the sunsword and shoots a bolt clean into the air

Ireena Kolyana: "Again, quoting here: 'especially not meddlesome adventurers!'"

Suldae Westwind: "What happens when she wakes? Also is there a useful answer to who is she?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Vshhi iss ssshe?"

Invisible Stalker: The winds whisper long and sad.

They seem to be further away, deeper in the room now—perhaps because of Marcus's bolt.

Marcus Veranius: "...sorry, wind was getting a bit loud."

Ireena Kolyana: "They... They say she... Fell? And they tried to catch her, and their sisters in the water softened her fall, and their brothers of the land... Tried to hold her. But the man came, and stole her, and would not let her rest. So they followed, and he... Let them stay, to watch her, and see that she was not disturbed."

Ireena puts a hand to her mouth.

She looks at Suldae, her eyes wide.

"It's me. My body, I mean. My... Old one."

Marcus Veranius frowns. This was a cruel prophecy indeed.

Rictavio: "The tomb of Tatiana?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena nods.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well" Henry surmises "Fuck"

Suldae Westwind: "...That was my guess," Suldae admits uneasily.

Ireena Kolyana: "The heart of the castle... The heart of the curse..."

Suldae Westwind: "...What do we do about that?"

Marcus Veranius: "A vault of temptation hidden behind a woman of great beauty. These prophecies continue to be obtuse."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, what do they mean about her waking?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Vault of temptation... What vault of temptation? Are we supposed to assume Strahd keeps his treasure in there, too?"

She gestures towards the fortress.

"I'll... I'll ask them."

"Vshit thi ihhai nnein, ssshh vill ivike?"

Invisible Stalker: The winds whisper, sift, and shudder.

Ireena Kolyana: "She'll come back—her wind, they mean. It will return to her, and she will rest, and they will rejoice, and return to the sky."

Marcus Veranius: "They need to let go."

"So much of this land bleeds because no one knows how to let go of what's passed."

"Their corpses parade around as puppets, burying what could be with what's long gone."

Ireena Kolyana: "Her wind..."

Rictavio: "Her soul, perhaps?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Vshen viss tshh lisst tinnh ihhai ssiv sherr fike?"

Invisible Stalker: The winds whisper.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I would assume" Henry says frowning

Ireena Kolyana: "The last time they saw her face was when she was sealed inside the stone."

Suldae Westwind: "Well," Suldae says uncomfortably.

Marcus Veranius steps into the room, ignoring the stalkers. There is only one thing to do here, and no negotiation will bar him.

Ireena Kolyana: "I... I want to try something."

Suldae Westwind: "...Be safe," Suldae grips her hand.

Invisible Stalker: The winds scream and roar, threatening to dive upon him.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena jogs to catch up to him.

Marcus Veranius ignores the howling, ready to take every cut they offer. It won't be enough

Ireena Kolyana: "Viit! Ihahak idhan nne! Dhi ihhai nhat nhav nne?"

Invisible Stalker: The winds spiral around the two of them, searching, feeling.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Why do I get the feeling this is gonna be an awful mess in about one minute"

Invisible Stalker: Then, with wails of joy, they hurtle away.

The air grows very still, and silent, and watchful.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena beams.

Suldae Westwind: "Okay, that's nice, what now?" Suldae says nervously.

She keeps worrying about Ireena getting hurt.

Ireena Kolyana: "Now we figure out how to... Get inside."

Marcus Veranius: "A very uncomfortable thing. I suggest you stay in the circle."

Marcus Veranius flies to the top of the fortress, looking for an easier way inside

Suldae Westwind: How big are the windows compared to bird size?

There were openings, right?

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Could either of you share what their plan or are we actually that cliched as adventures?"

plan is

Suldae Westwind: "I'm also curious..."

Marcus Veranius: "Not this time." Marcus continues to frown, looking for ways inside.

The stars in the domed ceiling, upon closer inspection, are little crystals which each burn as brightly as a candle flame. The tower is twenty feet on each side and thirty feet high, with arrow slits and a battlemented roof. The arrow slits are four inches wide and two feet tall, and the walls of the tower are at least three inches thick. On the north side of the fortress is an adamantine door, and on the roof is an adamantine trapdoor.

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't have a plan, I'm afraid."

"But I asked them if they recognized me."

"They did."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae turns into her raven form and tries to squeeze through the arrow gap.

Ireena Kolyana: "They're going to let us into the chamber, unharmed, but they don't know how to open the fortress.

GM: (Roll a dex save)

Suldae Westwind:

8

22

DEXTERITY SAVE (7)
Suldae Westwind

(ER)

(welp)

Marcus Veranius follows Suldae's plan, having done the same in the Amber Temple easy enough

32

Suldae Westwind: (wasnt meant to be disadvantage but that doesnt seem to matter rip)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who rolls dex?)

Suldae Westwind: (people who are ravens and trying to get through the arrow slit im guessing)

A blast of raw magic strikes Suldae right as she tries to squeeze through the arrow slit. It hurls her aside like a toy, leaving her stunned and prone. (Make an INT save to shake off the stun)

GM: (Yes, trying to slip through the arrow slit incurs the dex save)

Marcus Veranius:

24

DEXTERITY SAVE (11)
Marcus Veranius

42

A blast of raw magic strikes Marcus right as he tries to squeeze through the arrow slit. It hurls him aside like a toy, but does not leave him stunned or prone. He takes only half the damage.

Ireena Kolyana: "Huh."

"Guess the windows aren't the best option..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries the door

The door has no handle, and no visible hinges. It is a three-inch-thick plate of pure adamantine.

Marcus Veranius has lost his temp HP from super crits

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries pucjing it

Suldae Westwind:

19

INTELLIGENCE SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: pushing

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shakes herself as she regains her bearing. It looks pretty funny in bird form.

GM: (Temp HP can't be added together, so each super crit changes the number of temp HP you have, not adding constantly to a pool)

(But your temp HP probably is enough to take the brunt of the blast anyway)

The door does not open at his push.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena knocks on the door. The sound echoes for a time.

"There's probably a secret password again."

Suldae Westwind: "Bwuh," Suldae complains, coming back into humanoid form. She's sitting on the floor glaring balefully at the tower..

Rictavio: "It's only adamantine. Between all of us, we might be able to batter it down."

Ireena Kolyana: "Only adamantine?"

Suldae Westwind: "Please open," Suldae tries.

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Suldae Westwind:

Command

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range

Components: V

Duration: 1 round

You speak a one-word command to a creature you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or follow the command on its next turn. The spell has no effect if the target is undead, if it doesn't understand your language, or if your command is directly harmful to it. Some typical commands and their effects follow. You might issue a command other than one described here. If you do so, the GM determines how the target behaves. If the target can't follow your command, the spell ends. Approach. The target moves toward you by the shortest and most direct route, ending its turn if it moves within 5 feet of you. Drop. The target drops whatever it is holding and then ends its turn. Flee. The target spends its turn moving away from you by the fastest available means. Grovel. The target falls prone and then ends its turn. Halt. The target doesn't move and takes no actions. A flying creature stays aloft, provided that it is able to do so. If it must move to stay aloft, it flies the minimum distance needed to remain in the air.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional creature for each slot level above 1st. The creatures must be within 30 feet of each other when you target them.

Marcus Veranius: (To clarify, I've only been keeping the highest pool of Super Crit temp HP)

The spell fails, because the tower is not a creature.

GM: (I figured you were, just wanted to make sure)

Suldae Westwind: "Aw, that didn't work."

Ireena Kolyana: "I could try to cast Identify, maybe? See what we're dealing with?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Uhm what was the name of Ireenas first live again I for the live of me can't remember atm)

Suldae Westwind: "Sounds like a plan!"

GM: (Tatiana)

Suldae Westwind: (Tatyana)

(or that)

GM: (Probably Suldae's spelling)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus has only one other option he can think of.

Ireena Kolyana: "Ok. I'll have to ritually cast it, which will take ten minutes."

Suldae Westwind: "Anyone get any faster ideas to get out of the way first?"

Marcus Veranius: "Hey Sergei. Remember that thing you mentioned about teleporting me to your location through astral whatsits?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Tatyana" Henry says tentatvily

Marcus Veranius YEETS THE SUNSWORD

Rictavio: "Perhaps a dispel magic?"

Marcus Veranius: (though the arrow slit)

7 29

Henry of Willowsbrook: Placing his hand on the door as he says it

The sunsword bounces violently off a blast of magic, and spins back into the room, steaming.

Sergei: "Ow."

Marcus Veranius: "SHIT! SORRY!"

Sergei: "Just... Ow."

"I'll live."

"Oh wait, no I won't, haha"

Marcus Veranius picks it back up and tries polishing it off."

Marcus Veranius: "It's fine, it's fine."

Sergei: "I am unharmed, except for my dignity."

The sound of Tatyana's name does not awaken the door of the tower.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (any reaction to Henry's password test?)

(kay)

Rictavio: "I could try to dispel the magic of the door, but it would only be temporary, and we'd still have to deal with the door itself, which isn't exactly a lightweight item..."

"Or... I could attempt to dispel the magic that keeps yeeting things back out the windows?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How heavy would you say the door would be?"

Suldae Westwind: "I could open the door if it's unlocked."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Brb)

Suldae Westwind: (Thaumaturgy can cause an unlocked door to slam open or shut)

Marcus Veranius looks at the door

Suldae Westwind: (no clarification of how heavy it can be for it to work in the description)

"If the only lock is magical..."

Marcus Veranius: "You telling me we can break this thing for scrap if you dispel its protection magic?"

Rictavio: "That assumes the lock is strictly magical, yes..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Actually I could try that right now."

Suldae gives a melodic whistle, summoning the awe of her god for a moment.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Thaumaturgy

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: See text

Components: V

Duration: Up to 1 minute

You manifest a minor wonder, a sign of supernatural power, within range. You create one of the following magical effects within range: Your voice booms up to three times as loud as normal for 1 minute. You cause flames to flicker, brighten, dim, or change color for 1 minute. You cause harmless tremors in the ground for 1 minute. You create an instantaneous sound that originates from a point of your choice within range, such as a rumble of thunder, the cry of a raven, or ominous whispers. You instantaneously cause an unlocked door or window to fly open or slam shut. You alter the appearance of your eyes for 1 minute. If you cast this spell multiple times, you can have up to three of its 1-minute effects active at a time, and you can dismiss such an effect as an action.

(just in case the door itself isnt even locked, just that heavy)

(XD)

Rictavio: "Well, break for scrap might be an overstatement. But metal is metal, after all. Even adamantine can be... Dealt with the old fashioned way."

Marcus Veranius has a dream. The dream is ADAMANTINE CROWBAR

The door does not budge under the effects of Thaumaturgy. It appears it is, in fact, locked.

Ireena Kolyana: "Adamantine is immune to non-magical damage, and resistant to magical damage. Breaking this down will take time—time we don't really have."

Suldae Westwind: "Well, it's locked."

"Try dispelling it?"

Marcus Veranius: "...you don't suppose..."

Ireena Kolyana: "I'm working on Identify, I should have some more answers soon... But try dispelling things for now."

Marcus Veranius tries just... picking the lock

Rictavio: "Right, so should I target the door, or target the spell?"

GM: (Roll the check, Marcus)

Marcus Veranius:

29

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

rolling 1d8 Bardic Inspiration

(1)

= 1

Marcus works his best magic on the lock, and to some avail. The mechanical aspect of the lock clicks open.

The arcane aspect remains.

Ireena Kolyana: "I heard a click. Did that get us anywhere?"

Marcus Veranius: "I've got the physical lock jammed open."

"Just magic holding it closed now."

Rictavio: "I'll try dispelling the magic lock, then."

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 15 | 7

Suldae Westwind: (OUCH)

Rictavio: "Aargh!"

Rictavio cries out in pain and shambles backwards.

"It... It fought back!"

Ireena Kolyana: "What in the hells is this thing?"

Marcus Veranius: "This is the last of Strahd's defenses. The one thing no one's breached."

Ireena Kolyana: "And where did Strahd get it? He's not up to crafting something like this..."

Marcus Veranius: "A general of war's personal fortress. The castle may be his family's but this is distinctly his."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (back)

Ireena Kolyana: "It must be ancient, then..."

"But it looks as though it were forged just yesterday."

Marcus Veranius: "As is its master."

Suldae Westwind: "...Rictavio, could you try again? Perhaps I could help, somehow," Suldae readies her flute.

Rictavio: "Magic," says Rictavio, and he spits.

"I... I'd be willing to try, yes. I barely pulled away in time, just now."

"I'll put more power into it this time."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I could try aswell" Henry says

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces, but still looks at him imploringly.

She offers accompaniment to his magic now, a reinforcement and a prayer for all that she doesn't know this spell herself.

BARDIC INSPIRATION

Class: Bard

You, the target, get a Bardic Inspiration die - a d6 initially, a d8 starting from level 5, a d10 starting from level 10, a d12 starting from level 15. You keep it for 10 minutes. During these 10 minutes you can use it up by rolling it and adding the result to one ability check, attack roll or saving throw. You can only have one at a time and uses refresh at short rest, so use it up!

Suldae Westwind inspires

Marcus Veranius: "Henry, you're the only one strong enough to open the door when the magic's busted. Get over here."

Rictavio:

Dispel Magic

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: One creature, object, or magical effect within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect

within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

Suldae Westwind: (last one, for Rictavio)

Rictavio:

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 19

6

GM: (Total of 25)

Suldae Westwind: (o nice)

Rictavio: "Ha!"

Marcus Veranius puts his crowbar in the door for Henry to use

Marcus Veranius: "Make it count big man!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whistles again, beside the flute.

With a flash and a ripple, a field of arcane power breaks like the skin of a bubble.

Suldae Westwind:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Thaumaturgy

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: See text

Components: V

Duration: Up to 1 minute

You manifest a minor wonder, a sign of supernatural power, within range. You create one of the following magical effects within range: Your voice booms up to three times as loud as normal for 1 minute. You cause flames to flicker, brighten, dim, or change color for 1 minute. You cause harmless tremors in the ground for 1 minute. You create an instantaneous sound that originates from a point of your choice within range, such as a rumble of thunder, the cry of a raven, or ominous whispers. You instantaneously cause an unlocked door or window to fly open or slam shut. You alter the appearance of your eyes for 1 minute. If you cast this spell multiple times, you can have up to three of its 1-minute effects active at a time, and you can dismiss such an effect as an action.

> ou instantaneously cause an unlocked door or window to fly open or slam shut.

Rictavio: "Watch out, now! There's still that blasting spell, that's a separate effect. It won't necessarily be safe to enter. And the door won't be restrained for long!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry readies himself to force the door open.

A the tootling of Suldae's flute, the door springs inward.

Suldae Westwind: (Inward???)

(How does that work geometrically speaking)

Marcus Veranius: Henry's participation trophy is stolen by bard

You see 50,000 copper pieces, 10,000 silver pieces, 1,000 platinum pieces, 15 assorted gems each worth 100 gold pieces, and a shield emblazoned with a silver dragon. Lying atop this incredible pile on the ground floor of the fortress is Ireena Kolyana, beautiful and alive and gently sleeping—or... Is she?

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena swallows.

"It was... One thing to think about it. It's another thing to see it."

Suldae Westwind: "Odds on that being an illusion?"

Rictavio: "Gentle Repose," says Rictavio.

"Over time, the effects can become permanent."

Suldae Westwind: "...Or that, also makes sense."

Ireena Kolyana: "That's very disturbing."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sooo what now"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is holding Ireena's hand tightly.

"Great question!"

Ireena Kolyana: "What are we supposed to do with m— with her?"

Marcus Veranius: "Ric, I need Freedom of Movement."

Rictavio: "Granted."

Freedom of Movement

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A leather strap, bound around the arm or a similar appendage)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a willing creature. For the duration, the target's movement is unaffected by difficult terrain, and spells and other magical effects can neither reduce the target's speed nor cause the target to be paralyzed or restrained.

The target can also spend 5 feet of movement to automatically escape from nonmagical restraints, such as manacles or a creature that has it grappled. Finally, being underwater imposes no penalties on the target's movement or attacks.

Marcus Veranius: "And I need everyone else to look away."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus please tell us what you are trying to do"

Ireena Kolyana: "It might just kill you, if you're not Strahd. There are spells that can do that, you know."

"We should at least figure out what's going on here..."

Rictavio: "No time. That door will reassert itself at any moment."

Suldae Westwind: "...Say, Marcus, how vulnerable are its hinges to magic light sword, while the spell's not there?"

Marcus Veranius: "I'm only doing exactly what the prophecy wanted since the day we heard it. This treasure will lead us to Strahd."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Could the door be removed from its hinge?)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae eyes the door's mechanism.

Marcus Veranius: "Because this is the only way to force Strahd out of hiding!!!!"

GM: (The door does have concealed hinges, visible now that it is open.)

Marcus Veranius charges into the room, attempting to strike at the corpse of Tatanya

GM: (Roll a Dex save)

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, the hinges first!"

Marcus Veranius:

20

DEXTERITY SAVE (11)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry lifts the door out of its frame

Suldae Westwind: "...or that."

52Suldae Westwind: Thanks.

^ Suldae's speech

Marcus Veranius hopes the freedom of movement will stop the push. Just need to get within cutting distance*Power blasts over Marcus, glancing off of Rictavio's Freedom of Movement. He is not hurled aside or slowed, but the power still strikes him hard (52 points of force damage)*Henry of Willowsbrook: (Athletics for the door?)

GM: (Athletics for the door)

Henry of Willowsbrook:*21 + 1*ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

rolling d8

(3)

= 3Marcus Veranius: (I dont suppose this is something I can Scarab of Protection for half damage?)Henry of Willowsbrook: 25Suldae Westwind: (dont forget Henry's aura)

(it halves stuff, right?)

The doors are insanely heavy, but Henry manages—using his entire body—to heave one of them off its hinges and hurl it aside.Marcus Veranius: (OH! I have advantage on the save)29*DEXTERITY SAVE (11)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (In that case, it's half damage)

Marcus Veranius: (Thanks scarab!)Rictavio: "Well, that solves the door..."Marcus Veranius pushes through towards the treasure pile, towards the corpse, the sunsword lit and blazing*Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry drops the slab of metal thoughtlessly watching Marcus attemptMarcus Veranius raises the sword, ready to strike the heart

With a rattle, the coins on the floor begin to move...

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, shit, shit, shit..."

Marcus Veranius brings the sword down

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to light the coins on fire, sort of.

Marcus Veranius:

32

Sunsword (+13)
Marcus Veranius

14 + 9
Radiant

Suldae Westwind:

DC19

Dexterity Save

11
Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

Divine flame washes over them. Is there any effect?

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 Blazing weapon

(4)

= 4

With a blast of holy fire she is able to hurl the nearest coins aside, breaking their animating effect without melting the coins themselves.

Marcus Veranius:

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

19
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

At the same time, Marcus rams the sunsword right through Tatyana's heart.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena faints.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches her

Tops K.: (o-o)

There is a CRACK like the dawning of creation, and something, somewhere, shatters.

Henry of Willowsbrook: and checks her Vitals

You hear the sound of millions of pounds of solid crystal falling several hundred feet and striking a stone floor.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is unconscious, but alive. Her vitals are shockingly weak.

Sergei: "Tatyana, it is me, my love! Come to me!"

The floor of the castle rumbles, and dust shakes from the ceiling, and somewhere, a man roars in impotent rage.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grabs Ireena and holds her.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Come on Ireena this is a horrible place for a nap"

In a brilliant supernova of sudden light, Tatyana's body vanishes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to shake her awake

The sunsword dims slightly... Then stabilizes.

Sergei: "Thank you, Marcus..."

Tatyana: "Thank you all."

Suldae Westwind: What is that?

(more specific sensory description pls)

Sergei: "I'm sorry I won't be able to see this through... But I leave the sword in your care, Marcus. Use it wisely."

Suldae Westwind: (I need to know exactly how much Suldae is freaking out)

The voices boom, louder than a person present in the room. Souls long imprisoned now seem to be freed.

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Another link in the curse has shattered irrevocably.

The voice of Tatyana comes again.

Marcus Veranius: "You found your future, not through vengeance or hatred."

"How could I be upset Sergei?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is pressing Ireena to herself protectively.

She's looking around in frantic half-panic.

Tatyana: Right in Suldae's ear, she hears the voice of Ireena Kolyana: "Be not afraid. She is free now—as are we."

Suldae Westwind: WHAT THE FUCK DOES THAT MEAN?!

The voice does not find a receptive audience.

Marcus Veranius: "The curse's heart no longer binds souls to the land for Strahd's protection."

With a heavenly howling, the spirits seem to fade and depart.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena's eyes flutter open.

Marcus Veranius: "The crystal heart has shattered."

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh. Hey."

Marcus Veranius: "And so has any hope of Strahd ever meeting his chosen bride."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whimpers then presses her face to Ireena's shoulder in a bear hug.

Marcus Veranius: "No paths will bar us from him, for Strahd will want to attend us personally."

Suldae Westwind: She cannot word right now.

Ireena Kolyana: "Why sssso sssad?" Ireena says. Her words are a little slurred.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry ignores Suldae for a moment to give Ireena a meical once over Rictavio: "I'd never have believed it, if I hadn't seen it for myself."

Henry of Willowsbrook: medical

GM: (Go ahead and roll Medicine)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21 + 1

MEDICINE (1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level.

12
Healing

Second Wind
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ireena could you follow my finger with just your eyes please, as best you can"

Ireena Kolyana: "Shure thing, big guy."

"Why are you holding up so many?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Magical curse induced fainting aside first aid was still first aid

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is medically unharmed, but having a parasitical soul stripped away from you is bound to have some after-effects. With some rest, she should be fine.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well her mind and sould just got walloped something fierce but she should be alright once she gets a chance to sleep it of." Henry explains "But I'll just go ahead and assume she'll have a murder hangover afterwards"

Ireena Kolyana: "Oof. If I'm going to have a killer hangover anyway, can I at least get drunk first?"

Rictavio: "Perhaps another time, my dear," says Rictavio.

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, right... We needed to figure out what this thing was."

"I think I'm... Ok."

She gets up gingerly, stiffly, like a much older woman. "Oh, my head..."

Liliet (Suldae): (sorry, my internet decided to not for a while there)

Suldae helps her up, full contact.

Ireena Kolyana: "Thank you, Suldae."

Marcus Veranius cries in joy at the happy passing of his best friend sword spirit, his long-deserving bride, and the 1000 platinum no one is eyeing closely due to Ireena's fainting

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah I don't think there is much we can do about the pain, sorry Ireena" Henry says keeping an eye on her to prevent her from falling over Suldae Westwind: Suldae still hasn't registered there was actually money there. She's a little distracted.

Rictavio: "If I might interject into our rejoicing: the spells upon this fortress are not gone, you know."

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Rictavio: "I'd stop standing there if I were you, Marcus."

Marcus Veranius grabs the shield, bags the coin, and BOOKS IT

Ireena Kolyana: "The word... I know the word."

"She... Told me."

"He used to come and visit her."

Ireena shudders.

Suldae Westwind: Back to "she", Suldae notes.

A good sign, probably.

Maybe?

She has no idea how this works.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So how about we make like the trees and leave so we can regroup, murder Strahd right in his face and get out of here?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "The word is Fratricide."

There is a rumble from the tower, then several powerful spells dim.

 Ireena Kolyana: "That's better."

 Suldae Westwind: "...can we all agree they were both kind of awful?" Suldae asks weakly, staring at the tower.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Yes."

"It was another time... Another world."

"But I think it's fair to judge them anyway."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wow" Henry says "Somehow I'm still surprised by his petty douchieness"

 Ireena Kolyana: "At least they're on to whatever fate awaits them."

 Rictavio: "He is remarkably... childish, in some ways."

 Suldae Westwind: "Not a rare thing, in people who think the world should bend to their desires..."

 Ireena Kolyana: "We won't be allowed out, I think. That other door... We're still sealed inside. He's going to wait until nightfall."

"We might as well get whatever we can from this thing. There's a second story with some better loot."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "You say that like this whole mess wasn't caused by him throwing histories largest tantrum"

 Marcus Veranius: "Not quite. There's still the belltower." Marcus points out.

 Ireena Kolyana: "So we could get out onto the roof? That's not a bad idea."

 Suldae Westwind: "I wouldn't be so sure about largest. History contains some... remarkable competition."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah I checked up there and it leads nowhere"

 Ireena Kolyana: "I can't cast Fly, though... Henry might have a hard time."

 Suldae Westwind: "I can cast Fly."

 Marcus Veranius: "No windows?"

 Rictavio: "With Henry, we can make windows."

 Suldae Westwind: "I can also just go up and check manually."

 Ireena Kolyana: "No, we can't. The walls won't let us."

 Marcus Veranius: "It's very likely we just destroyed the castle's magical protection. I heard the crystal heart falling to pieces."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae extricates herself from Ireena, a little embarrassed by the spot of clinginess she had there, and makes herself useful by flying up.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs with defeat "There were windows"

 Suldae Westwind: There are no more spiders... right?

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry checks for more loot to distract himself

 Marcus Veranius checks the upper floor of the fortress inside a fortress

 Marcus Veranius: "Can someone explain to me why Strahd had a tower built inside a tower?"

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena finishes casting her Identify spell, picking up the ritual where she left off.

 Marcus Veranius: "Is this some rich person flex I'm too poor to understand?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "It's a Daern's Instant Fortress."

"He's not using it the way you're supposed to... But it is a bit of a flex, yeah. Dwarven craftsmanship."

"Ludicrously expensive, probably."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Can we steal it`?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Once we take all the treasure out, yeah."

"We might have a hard time repairing the door..."

 Marcus Veranius: "Good thing we didn't damage the door."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well sorry about that"

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks at the door that was ripped off its hinges and lies nearby, on the ground.

"Uh..."

 Suldae Westwind: "Just gotta put it back on its hinges, right?"

 Marcus Veranius: "..."

 Marcus Veranius turns around

 Rictavio: Rictavio palms his face slightly.

 Marcus Veranius stars at the door

 Marcus Veranius stares at Henry

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "What"

 Rictavio: "I mean, we can just put it back and pretend it's locked...?"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Not like he'd know from a glance."

"Wait, but he knows the magic word already."

"I don't know how to reset it..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I didn't even get that good of a grip"

 Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe it's best to come back for it, after we've killed him?"

Marcus Veranius: "You know what? I don't care. Wife wanted a lifestyle on the move, I wanted four walls and a shop."

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, did you break the lock or just pick it?"

Marcus Veranius: "Think about it; a portable shoe shop!"

Suldae Westwind: "Your shoes are your fortress," Suldae suggests a slogan.

Rictavio: "FOOT FORTRESS!"

Marcus Veranius: "Sturdy boots from a sturdier tower."

Ireena Kolyana: "No, no... Foot locker!"

Marcus Veranius: "Ric why?"

"NO! I am not taking branding suggestions!"

Rictavio: "Fortified feet?"

Marcus Veranius: AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

Suldae Westwind: so Suldae was checking out the belltower

Ireena Kolyana: "Sorry Marcus."

The belltower does have arrow-slit windows, each about a foot wide and three feet tall.

Marcus Veranius throws his arms up and checks the second level, rather done with this

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry all the loot out of the fortress placing it to the side for now.

The upper floor of the tower contains 10 pieces of jewelry (250 gp each) in a red velvet sack, an alchemy jug, a +1 rod of the pact keeper, and an unlocked wooden coffer with four compartments, each one containing a potion of greater healing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So that should be everything" Henry says "I'll try putting the door back"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks what's outside of the windows.

GM: (I'm afraid I have to call the session there—thank you all for playing!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (One last door repair check before we stop?)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae will help with that after she's done with the tower, too)

Outside the windows, a dense storm swirls in the darkness. The tower seems to be about halfway up the castle heights, and below it you see a large circular rooftop of greened copper.

GM: (You can make the repair check, but it won't work)

(Gotta be a wish spell to repair the thing, sadly)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is the diligent type so he will still try to put it back so what Int? or Wis check)

GM: (Luckily, you do have at least two spellcasters capable of casting Wish—both of whom are currently outside the castle)

Marcus Veranius: (Might be better to just glue on a mundane door. Otherwise people might try attacking the walls and it'll be a more expensive fix)

GM: (That's an Int check)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

10

INTELLIGENCE (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Honestly that's not a bad idea, Marcus)

Henry carefully lines up the hinges and sets the door back into place.

The door teeters over very slowly, and hits the floor of the chamber with a resounding crash before he can catch it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "To be fair, I broke it before we knew we could use it so I take no blame for this" Henry says crossing his arms in front of his chest

Suldae Westwind: "You also broke it so Marcus wouldn't get stuck in there and die," Suldae adds.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Also that" Henry says with a nod

Suldae Westwind: "Aaand I was the one trying to convince Marcus to be even more destructive with it, so y'know, Henry's immune to criticism over this, really."

Marcus Veranius looks at the doorframe

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe something made of mahogany..."

Suldae Westwind: "Anyway, if we're not absolutely married to the idea of taking a pile of copper coins with us, the belltower has windows that we could fit through with a couple of Polymorph spells."

Thunder rolls outside the walls of Ravenloft. Inside, our heroes stand around a tower and a pile of treasure.

Rictavio: "So, what's our plan?"

Marcus Veranius is looking over some sketches of the castle between today's scouting and a copy of the model from the Amber Temple

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Still the same I reckon with a few minor adjustments in the middle" Henry says

Ireena Kolyana: "We should probably check in with the others, if we can. Just to let them know we're not dead..."

Marcus Veranius: "...I have something. It's a bit crazy but could possibly work."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Do I have to get out on the roof?"

Marcus Veranius: "Technically we all do. I think I've located where we are in the castle."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs "Continue"

 Marcus Veranius: "That belltower is one of the eastern towers not visible from the front, but we got a good look at it from the model in the amber temple."

"And adjacent to those tower windows is the roof of the keep section."

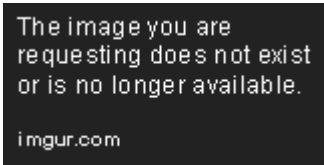

"Adjacent to the keep roof is the large tower that bridges into what is likely Strahd's chambers at the very top."

 Ireena Kolyana: "So we just have to get to the wall-top somehow?"

 Marcus Veranius: "So I was thinking, we could break through a window, walk across the roof, then blow a hole into the bigger tower."

 Marcus Veranius prepares a handy sketch for the purpose of visualizing the plan

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Slight problem" Henry says raising a hand before ramming his sword into the wall with full force

 Marcus Veranius:

Even Wxudt, it seems, cannot pierce the walls of Castle Ravenloft—not while the curse still lingers.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Walls appear annoyingly indestructible"

 Ireena Kolyana: "That is pretty annoying..."

 Marcus Veranius: "That's what I figured. Which is when I came up with an even more stupid plan."

 Rictavio: "I wonder if it would be possible to tamp down the effect temporarily?"

 Marcus Veranius: "That tower has windows."

"One of which faces the roof we'd be exiting on."

"It's about 30 ft up though."

 Liliet (Suldae): "I fail to see how that's a problem"

 Marcus Veranius: "It is for some of us. Yet it also isn't."

"Because we found a ladder."

 Suldae Westwind: "I have enough juice in me for a couple of Polymorph spells yet, also."

"In case the ladder is insufficiently helpful."

 Marcus Veranius quickly sketches an amendment to his plan.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "I also have 50ft of good rope"

Marcus Veranius:

The image you are requesting does not exist or is no longer available.

imgur.com

"Size about lines up. 20 ft gap between the towers, 30 ft upwards to the window."

"We just move Strahd's portable fortress right there in the middle!"

Suldae Westwind: "A rope is also a good idea, yes."

"I love being able to fly."

Suldae high-fives Ireena.

Marcus Veranius: "And since the castle is indestructible right now, the roof will support it completely!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...damnit This makes sense" Henry says visibly displeased "Alright fine let's get onto the damn roof..." he trails off meekly

Ireena Kolyana: "So wait, let me get this straight. We go out into the storm that's controlled by Strahd, get to the wall-top, circle the wall until we get to the big round tower, put the instant fortress there for extra height, climb the gap between the fortress and the bridge, then cross the bridge to get into the taller tower?"

Marcus Veranius: "Honestly, we can just set the Instant Fortress right outside the window to this tower and the only storm-facing we'll be doing is 5, 10 ft intervals at best."

"Measurements are that tight."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "It's that or sit and wait" Henry says

Ireena Kolyana: "So we put the fortress on the round copper chapel roof, then? I'm still just a bit confused..."

Marcus Veranius: "Not on the round roof."

Rictavio: "Won't we have to polymorph to fit through the window anyway?"

Marcus Veranius: "The gap between the two towers, under the bridge."

Suldae Westwind: (im posting questions on discord)

(in visual form)

Marcus Veranius has taken the time while everyone was arguing about architecture to empty out the tower's treasury into Rictavio's bag of holding.

Marcus Veranius: Except the Alchemy Jug. That went into Marcus's bag

Suldae Westwind: "So, any specific requests about the Polymorph spell?" Suldae grins predatorily, looking at Rictavio and Henry.

Rictavio: "Something respectable, please."

Suldae Westwind: "So a spider."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs

Suldae Westwind: "Personally I respect spiders greatly. Any objections to spiders?"

Rictavio: "I've always wondered what it would be like to be a spider. I've no objections."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Let's just get on with it before this castle makes my headache any worse"

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Suldae Westwind:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Polymorph

Transmutation 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A caterpillar cocoon)

Duration: Concentration Concentration, Up to 1 hour

This spell transforms a creature that you can see within range into a new form. An unwilling creature must make a Wisdom saving throw to avoid the effect. The spell has no effect on a shapechanger or a creature with 0 hit points. The transformation lasts for the duration, or until the target drops to 0 hit points or dies. The new form can be any beast whose challenge rating is equal to or less than the target's (or the target's level, if it doesn't have a challenge rating). The target's game statistics, including mental ability scores, are replaced by the statistics of the chosen beast. It retains its alignment and personality. The target assumes the hit points of its new form. When it reverts to its normal form, the creature returns to the number of hit points it had before it transformed. If it reverts as a result of dropping to 0 hit points, any excess damage carries over to its normal form. As long as the excess damage doesn't reduce the creature's normal form to 0 hit points, it isn't knocked unconscious. The creature is limited in the actions it can perform by the nature of its new form, and it can't speak, cast spells, or take any other action that requires hands or speech. The target's gear melds into the new form. The creature can't activate, use, wield, or otherwise benefit from any of its equipment.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Polymorph

Transmutation 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A caterpillar cocoon)

Duration: Concentration Concentration, Up to 1 hour

This spell transforms a creature that you can see within range into a new form. An unwilling creature must make a Wisdom saving throw to avoid the effect. The spell has no effect on a shapechanger or a creature with 0 hit points. The transformation lasts for the duration, or until the target drops to 0 hit points or dies. The new form can be any beast whose challenge rating is equal to or less than the target's (or the target's level, if it doesn't have a challenge rating). The target's game statistics, including mental ability scores, are replaced by the statistics of the chosen beast. It retains its alignment and personality. The target assumes the hit points of its new form. When it reverts to its normal form, the creature returns to the number of hit points it had before it transformed. If it reverts as a result of dropping to 0 hit points, any excess damage carries over to its normal form. As long as the excess damage doesn't reduce the creature's normal form to 0 hit points, it isn't knocked unconscious. The creature is limited in the actions it can perform by the nature of its new form, and it can't speak, cast spells, or take any other action that requires hands or speech. The target's gear melds into the new form. The creature can't activate, use, wield, or otherwise benefit from any of its equipment.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Marcus have you tried reaching the others again?" Henry asks while he still can Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays a merry ditty that sounds like hte crawling of a million legs. But this time thye're on her side!

Marcus Veranius: "I'll check."

Marcus Veranius tries sending a message over the wedding ring

Marcus Veranius: "You there, Honey? I think we may have broken something important."

Rictavio: "Oh myyyyy woood!" Rictavio says, shrinking rapidly, his voice getting squeakier as he goes.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "What's... honey? You're.....up!

"Are.....alright?"

The sound of Ezmerelda's voice is broken by something that sounds like heavy breathing.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry crawls around slowly at first before skittering up the wall to Ireena's eye level

Marcus Veranius doesn't like this. Probably takes something strong to interfere with a god's own devices

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks up, worried. She glances at Suldae, her eyes saying: "Well, that's not good..."

Without comment, she transforms into her raven form.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is just happy Ezme seems alright.

Also, she might or might not be highly selfish and just happy Ireena's here.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Spider-Henry leaps from the wall onto Marcus Suldae Westwind: She transforms into the hybrid form and flies up to the window. Is it open? what's outside?

Rictavio: Rictavio skitters up the wall to the top of the belfry, and perches on the window-slit.

Marcus Veranius: "We're fine. Remember the plan. Strahd's on the...."

stares

"...ropes. I'll call back later."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Can't.....you. Stay....!"

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, just say every sentence three times."

"Then she'll hear all the words at least once, odds are."

Marcus Veranius: There wasn't a plan. But Strahd was likely listening in, and making him think there was a greater scheme at work could throw off his game.

"I don't think that's how it works."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We're...Had some trouble....witches. Be careful....!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry leaps off Marcus and begins to skitter up on his own his plan to hitch a ride foiled

Marcus Veranius turns to the others

Suldae Westwind: "Just say we're fine!"

The windows of the tower are open due solely to the fact that their glass is artfully shattered. Given the state of the castle's defenses, this must be assumed to be a stylistic choice on Strahd's part. Outside, the storm is wild and dark, flickering constantly with lightning. The wind is strong and the rain comes in pounding sheets.

Marcus Veranius: [We're we're we're we're fine fine fine fine]

Suldae Westwind: [I am assuming Marcus is rapping this]

Suldae shows him two thumbs

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Stay....safe safe safe...."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd's minions are still putting up a fight despite the five armies we've thrown up."

"Nothing Ez can't handle but I'd rather not tax her resources."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Spider-Henry Spider-Henry does whatever a spieder does which admittedly wasn't all that much if he was being honest

Suldae Westwind: Suldae watches over both the spiders as she plays the winds into gently buoying others to the tower top, then flies over herself after a particularly strong gust.

BOOM! A massive stroke of lightning strikes the copper roof just below your window, nearly blinding you.

Suldae Westwind: (very weak wind manipulation is my jam)

Marcus Veranius birb squawks

Suldae Westwind: Suldae flattens herself on the roof, already in hybrid form as it is heavier and thus less likely to be winded the fuck off the roof.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Jokes on Strahd Spiders eyesight wasN't all that great to begin with Rictavio: Spider Rictavio scuttles up onto the rooftop.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena lands beside Suldae, also in hybrid form.

The feathers on her head begin to stand up.

Marcus Veranius is glad for magic resizing hats. This storm was terrible

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry in an act of petty immature spite draws S= a crude drawing of a dick in spider silk on the nearest surface

From the tower-top, looking west, you can see between the two main towers of the fortress. A bridge connects them about twenty feet above you. Below the roof you are currently standing on is the main roof of the keep. You can just barely see a chimney through the pounding rain.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (BRB dinner)

Ireena Kolyana: Little blue sparks flicker through Ireena's head-feathers and she looks up in dismay.

Marcus Veranius mimics the sound of a trumpet to rally the Polymorph Gang, then starts flying towards safety under the bridge

Suldae Westwind: Suldae moves towards the angle between the towers.

Ireena Kolyana:

8 | 7
ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind: It seems like it should be in wind shadow from most directions.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena, perhaps foolishly, reaches out to try and redirect the lightning building above her. This of course causes it to strike. 53

10

20

DEXTERITY (1)

GM: (Wasn't supposed to be at disadvantage either time, whoops)

(What's Henry's aura bonus again? Plus something and advantage?)

(Ah, +3 to saves, resistance to spell damage)

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena!" Suldae screams. Magic builds up in her voice, almost involuntarily.

12

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

BOOM. A bolt of lightning strikes Ireena directly, sending whirls of steaming feathers in all directions.

Ireena Kolyana: She seems to be briefly stunned, but Suldae's healing words snap her out of it. She scrambles to keep up with Suldae and Marcus.

Rictavio: Rictavio hitchhikes under the rim of Marcus's hat.

GM: (I'm going to assume Henry follows y'all)

Suldae Westwind: (And also is on someone)

"This should be safest!" Suldae yells, pointing up while in the wind shadow of the corner.

Ireena Kolyana: "The bridge! It should protect us from at least some of the lightning!"

Marcus Veranius points to the top of the bridge with his beak and starts flying up. Bridge has to have a door

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena follows, squawking.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae makes sure Rictavio and Henry are both on them, then follows as well.

Rain splashes against the sagging, sloping rooftop. Flashes of lightning illuminate gargoyles perched on the roof's end peaks, their hideous stares forever fixed on the courtyard some one hundred thirty feet below. The party makes it to the bridge... (changing maps)

Once on top of the bridge, you see an archway on the northern tower, leading in to a huge spiral staircase where the remains of something made of ruby still flicker with crimson light. Jagged shards of crystal hang from a growth on the ceiling of that tower, and their glow comes out into the storm. To the south you see the rooftop of the squat tower, and a spiral staircase leading down into its guts. There is no obvious entrance to the tall spire conjoined to this one, and the windows are all shut.

As you land, you hear the Fwump of heavy wings beating the air...

(Perception checks, please)

Marcus Veranius:

23

PERCEPTION (12)
Marcus Veranius

Marcus sees that the gargoyles are gone.

Suldae Westwind:

18

PERCEPTION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Suldae sees that the gargoyles are gone.

Marcus Veranius returns to hybrid form and runs to the safety of the heart chamber Suldae Westwind: "Indoors!" Suldae yells and follows him.

Marcus Veranius: (Henry and Ric are also pulled inside by virtue of Hat Bus)

Suddenly you hear the roar of an Elder Dragon, and the silvery specter of Argynvostholt glides smoothly overhead, rippling with lightning. You have time—before ducking indoors—to witness him turn three gargoyles into gravel.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena ducks inside last, shaking her feathers. She transforms slowly back into human form.

"Well, that was something."

Marcus Veranius thinks

Suldae Westwind: "Henry, Rictavio, crawl on my hand if you want the Polymorph off", Suldae sticks her hand out in front of herself.

Rictavio: Rictavio hops from Marcus's hat and lands on Suldae's hand.

Suldae Westwind: The spell is off him just as Suldae turns her palm over so he'll be under it and not over it.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena approaches the edge of the landing and peers down nearly 200 feet to the bottom of the tower, where the remains of an enormous crystal heart lie shattered on the floor.

Rictavio: "Thank you, my dear," says Rictavio, growing back to full size.

"And thank you for the ride, Marcus."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena stands at the edge, hugging herself, staring down.

Marcus Veranius: "I was hoping for a door or something where the towers meet. We may have to go back downstairs and look around for another way in."

"...so this is what's left of the crystal heart Hiere described."

Rictavio: "There was a staircase leading down, on the roof of the other tower," says Rictavio.

Suldae Westwind: "There might be a passage there," Suldae agrees.

Rictavio: "This whole tower seems to be devoted to... This."

Suldae Westwind: "...Are we going back over to the other staircase?"

Suldae has already Prestidigitated everyone dry and warm, but still.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena shakes herself out of her reverie. "That might be best, yeah."

"Unless we want to climb higher here?"

Several halberds that once hung on the walls now lie on the stairs.

The staircase does continue both upwards and downwards, without any guard rails.

Ireena Kolyana: "This thing is a death trap," says Ireena.

Rictavio: "Do you suppose these halberds might once have been animated?"

Suldae Westwind: "I like how you sound confident that they no longer are."

Suldae sighs and steps back into the storm.

Rictavio: "Wouldn't they have attacked us, if they were?"

Marcus Veranius: "Broken or not, this tower is giving me the creeps. Anyone got the Horn of Blasting from the amber temple?"

Rictavio: "I think it's in my bag," says Rictavio.

Marcus Veranius: "Mark me as a man who appreciates a good story. Broken by heartbreak or not, I'd rather be sure this thing is completely dusted."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena follows Suldae out into the storm just in time to see Argynvost swoop past and eat a gargoyle out of midair.

"Nice to watch a dragon, when it's not trying to kill you," says Ireena.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods in agreement.

Rictavio: "I'm all for it," says Rictavio. He pulls out the horn of blasting.

Suldae Westwind: She takes out the flute and starts playing, calming the winds around them slightly.

Suldae Westwind is casting a spell, please stand by...

Rictavio: Without further ado, he steps up to the edge of the landing, raises the horn to his lips, says the magic word, and blows...

Suldae Westwind:

(Flute) Gust

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 ft

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You seize the air and compel it to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

One Medium or smaller creature that you choose must succeed on a Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 5 feet away from you.

You create a small blast of air capable of moving one object that is neither held nor carried and that weighs no more than 5 pounds. The object is pushed up to 10 feet away from you. It isn't pushed with enough force to cause damage.

You create a harmless sensory effect using air, such as causing leaves to rustle, wind to slam shutters shut, or your clothing to ripple in a breeze.

(Chained Cantrips, Best Thing Ever)

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, that's better, thank you Suldae."

Marcus Veranius takes the horn of blasting. "Thanks ric."

Marcus Veranius: "Unless you want to do the honors?"

BWOMMMMMMMMMM!

Rictavio: 54

Marcus Veranius: He does

Rictavio: 30

The horn does not explode, and its magic thunders over the crystal remnants of the heart. You hear the tinkling of many fine cracks forming, then there is a glittery burst as what remains of the crystal is, quite literally, dusted.

The crimson cloud of glitter falls slowly down the two hundred feet of the tower, illuminating countless coffins standing upright on the spiral staircase, all of them open and empty.

Rictavio: "Uh..."

"So, Marcus, there's something I've been meaning to bring up."

"Vampires, you know. They don't like the sun. Typically they sleep through the day, and it's not an optional thing."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae discovers that she really likes loud horn sounds.

Rictavio: "But every once in a while, if a vampire really knows what he's doing..."

Marcus Veranius stares at the empty coffins

Rictavio: He looks at Marcus very seriously.

Argynvost swoops past again, his claws rending a gargoyle in the air.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena whoops, pumping her fist in the air.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae adds a triumphant trill to the melody.

Marcus Veranius: "...if he knows what he's doing what?"

Rictavio: "He doesn't lie dormant, during the day."

"Or at least, he can choose not to. Though it taxes him greatly."

Marcus Veranius: "I'm rather certain Strahd's awake, yes."

Rictavio: "So might his minions be," says Rictavio.

"As evidenced by... All of that."

Marcus Veranius: "Reaching Strahd before nightfall has never been about catching him sleeping."

"If he's not dead before the moon rises, everything trapped in here gets to march outside."

"I don't think the Barovian army can hold off the vampire spawns."

Rictavio: "It's possible he's not awake, really. He has enough power that even lying dormant he might be able to manifest images and spell effects."

"But that's a good point..."

"But under the darkness of the storm... What's stopping them now?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

"We need to move quickly."

Rictavio: "Let's keep moving. "

Rictavio says this at nearly the exact same time as Marcus.

Marcus Veranius moves for the southern stairwell

Marcus Veranius:

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level.

14

Healing

Second Wind
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry skitters up to Suldae to be despidered

Suldae Westwind: So he is, as Suldae steps back to give him room to transform.

He is..... big

Henry of Willowsbrook: Once he returns to his original form he shudders "Stupid roofs"

GM: (Brb 5 minutes, sorry)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae considers the logistics of hugging him while playing the flute, then nuzzles his armor with her cheek.

Henry of Willowsbrook: He nods at her in thanks "Happy thoughts, like fresh vegetable stew, warm summer nights, burning this castle to ruins and turning those ruins into rubble maybe use that rubble to make a road" He says mostly to himself

GM: (back)

Rictavio: "You could make a big road, maybe big enough to turn all of Barovia into something other than a podunk piece of shit garbage heap."

Ireena Kolyana: "Hey! Some of us are from here."

Rictavio: "Are you denying that it's a podunk piece of shit garbage heap?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Well no, but... Fine. Let's keep moving."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks down the staircase.

The staircase continues downward twenty feet to the first landing, then continues further down.

At the first landing, you find a door on the westward side.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae plays a tweet to open it with Thaumaturgy.

Marcus Veranius peeks downstairs a bit to see if there's a landing on the eastern side a bit further down

The next landing is larger, but it is also on the western side.

Marcus Veranius: "Maze of a castle..."

Suldae Westwind: (does the door open)

Marcus Veranius returns to Suldae's landing

The door springs open at Suldae's subtle spellcraft. The low ceiling of this twenty-foot-square room presses down on you. Torn and broken couches lie in heaps, haphazardly strewn about. Deep claw marks cover the hardwood furniture, and the once lush upholstery has been sliced to shreds. From the dark shadows amid the rubble, three pairs of green eyes stare back at you.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waves at the... cats?

One cat tentatively emerges from the rubble, carefully sniffing the air.

It approaches cautiously.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae crouches down and offers it a hand to sniff.

"Mrrow?"

The cat sniffs her hand.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to smoothly transition from the sniff to scratching its neck/ear /whatever it'll agree to.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry regards the cats with suspicion

Suldae Westwind: Suspiciousness is cats' natural state, in both ways. Suldae finds the situation quite natural, and believes in diplomacy.

Chomp! The cat bites her hand like the bite of a tiger, sinking six-inch fangs into her. There is a grumbling roar of monstrous purring from the rubble.

GM: (Suldae takes 8 magical piercing damage.)

Marcus Veranius: "Hey, HEY! Bad kitty!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to free her hand via tricks with the inside of the cat's mouth.

10

CHARISMA (6+2)
Suldae Westwind

10

DEXTERITY (2+2)
Suldae Westwind

(what)

(i was trying to roll just dexterity)

(but, like, wow)

The cat releases her on its own, and darts back into the safety of the rubble.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry uses his Divine Sense

Ireena Kolyana: "What the hell was that?" Ireena asks.

"That wasn't any ordinary cat..."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

DIVINE SENSE

Class: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Ireena Kolyana: "Are you alright, Suldae?"

Suldae Westwind: "It didn't want to be friends..."

Marcus Veranius pats Suldae on the shoulder

Marcus Veranius: "Seems a bit hungry. Or psychotic."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nurses her hand. That was obviously magical, considering how it pierced through all her defenses, but it feels exactly as upsetting as a regular cat bite.

Henry does not sense any celestials, fiends, or undead.

Suldae Westwind: "Don't be mean to cats."

"They are suspicious of strangers."

"Sometimes... they just don't want to be friends."

Marcus Veranius goes into his bag and tosses a ration of meat into the room.

Suldae Westwind: "Ooh, good thinking."

A huge black paw—easily the size of a panther's death mitten—reaches out and pulls the ration under the rubble.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm not devil or undead cats" Henry muses "probably fey"

Ireena Kolyana: "I... Don't think these are cats."

Marcus Veranius: "Uhh..."

Ireena Kolyana: "At least, not house-cats."

"Maybe... Maybe we skip this room?"

Marcus Veranius: "We have to find a way westward. I'll bite bolts here."

Rictavio: "Come on, after everything we've killed? You think these will be more than a minute's challenge?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Maybe they can be reasoned with?"

Ireena looks meaningfully at Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to toot at the big paw owner.

Animal Friendship

Enchantment 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A beast that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A morsel of food)

Duration: 24 hours

This spell lets you convince a beast that you mean it no harm. Choose a beast that you can see within range. It must see and hear you. If the beast's Intelligence is 4 or higher, the spell fails. Otherwise, the beast must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for the spell's duration. If you or one of your companions harms the target, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can affect one additional beast for each slot level above 1st.

Rictavio: "Look, we can't spare evil monsters just because they're cute."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae backs up enough that she can kick him while still playing.

Animals can't be evil.

The spell fails.

Suldae Westwind: Well, not meaningfully evil.

Marcus Veranius disagrees. All seagulls are evil

Suldae Westwind: "Well, that thing's no beast," Suldae concludes.

"Hmm."

"Please let us pass?" she asks instead.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry frowns "Stay" He says in Sylvan

Suldae Westwind:

Suggestion

Enchantment 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you

Components: V, M (A snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil)

Duration: Concentration Up to 8 hours

You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and magically influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the spell. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it pursues the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a knight give her warhorse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the spell expires, the activity isn't performed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the spell ends.

There is no response to Henry's Sylvan, and Suldae feels that the Suggestion spell has not taken hold.

Marcus Veranius steps into the room, walking along the edge of the wall as to avoid direct conflict

Something like a tiger's rumbling growl threatens him, but there is no immediate attack.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae estimates ceiling height and how high the beast looks like it can reach.

GM: (growl*)

The ceiling is only about eight feet up.

Marcus Veranius mimics the growl with raven mimicry, attempting to frighten it down with a deeper tone

Marcus Veranius:

20

INTIMIDATION (6)
Marcus Veranius

The growl of the beast becomes a curious, almost playful one.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (armor gives advantage)

(btw)

Marcus Veranius: ...maybe that worked?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to mimic what Marcus said.

The growling stops.

Suldae Westwind:

18

PERFORMANCE (11)
Suldae Westwind

You can hear the swishing of an enormous tail.

For the moment, the beasts seem hesitant to attack.

Marcus Veranius continues along the wall, gently moving across the room

Marcus Veranius: "Good kitty, sweet kitty..."

A black cat darts out from some rubble in his path, and hides under rubble on the opposite side of the room.

Marcus Veranius opens the door on the other side

Heavy beams support the ceiling of this large room, the outer wall of which curves to follow the shape of the tower. Dim light filters into the room through the steel lattice squares of two leaded glass windows. Several tables stand throughout the room, weighed down by stacks of glass jars and bottles, all of them bearing labels.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae follows.

Marcus Veranius: Now that's more like it!

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena darts across to join Suldae.

Suldae Westwind: Upon consideration, she waves the others over.

Marcus Veranius tosses another meat ration in the corner, then motions for the others to move while the cat is eating Rictavio: "After you," says Rictavio, to Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows the others unhurried

Rictavio: Rictavio follows last, muttering: "That's a good kitty, yes, you're a big stupid brute, aren't you, you can't understand a word I'm saying!"

There is a low but blood-chilling grumble.

Rictavio: Rictavio skips the last few steps and squeezes through the door.

Marcus Veranius closes the door quickly

Suldae Westwind: "Ric, do you actually have a death wish?"

Marcus Veranius: "He... kindof does?"

Suldae Westwind: "The odds that it can understand us but doesn't want to talk are much higher than-"

"It's not an animal or my spell would have worked!"

Suldae hides her face in both her palms.

She's so glad she's got Ismark and Ric is Marcus's pain in the ass.

Marcus Veranius: "I might not know much about monsters but food is food.

Suldae Westwind: "Sorry, he's an idiot!" she yells into the gap after some consideration after opening the door a little.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around the room for anything interesting

Suldae Westwind: Then she slams it back shut.

Henry sees several labeled ingredient bottles: "Virgin's Tears", "Eye of Newt", "Brick of Stubbed Toe", "Broken Nose", "Cat's Breath", "Devil's Tongue", "Rancid Brain", "Slithering Toadstool", etcetera. The names seem to have little bearing upon the contents of their bottles, which all appear to be various herbs and dried mushrooms.

Rictavio: Rictavio shrugs a little ruefully. "I couldn't help myself."

Suldae Westwind: "These seem like alchemical ingredients..."

"Marcus, you have that silence spell, right?"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena looks around the room, picking up jars and putting them down as she reads labels and examines their contents.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry moves to the next door

Suldae Westwind: "I'm not saying cast it, but do keep it in mind. Just saying."

Ireena Kolyana: "I don't know what half of these are, or what you'd do with them."

Marcus Veranius: "I have spells. They are limited though."

Suldae Westwind: "The other half looks useful though?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Some of them are common garden herbs."

"I don't see any finished potions..."

Suldae Westwind: "Look, you and I both now this might be vital."

Ireena Kolyana: "Or brewing equipment."

Suldae Westwind: "...well, none of us are alchemists, so whatever, I guess?"

The next door seems to be locked from the inside.

Suldae Westwind: "Ric, wanna take those?"

Rictavio: "Not particularly," says Rictavio.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Any plants Henry recognizes?

Suldae Westwind: Suldae shrugs and moves on.

Rictavio: "We could pitch them out the window, if we want to ensure that our enemies can't use them."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

21 + 1

NATURE (9)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: "All this stuff screams trap for someone way smarter than we are."

Henry recognizes Athelas and Elfroot, Wolfsbane, Astor, Black Arum Lily, and Redcap.

Henry of Willowsbrook: What are those used for ? Would he know?

Ireena Kolyana: "These names... They must be nicknames."

"This makes me think of witches or hags."

Suldae Westwind: "I honestly don't think Strahd could..." Suldae trails off halfway through, realizing she nearly said "this could not possibly go wrong" equivalent.

"...That sounds like a plan."

"Unless someone objects, let's do that?"

Marcus Veranius: "You know, wasn't Baba Lysaga the caretaker of Strahd?"

"Maybe this is his alchemy room."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry step closer to the glasses squinting at them

GM: (Henry unfortunately does not have enough alchemical knowledge to know what all of them are for, but he recognizes Elfroot as a common ingredient in country poultices used for burns, and Redcap is poisonous. Wolfsbane is also said to be useful for combating werewolves.

Marcus Veranius moves towards the locked door to see if he can make it slightly less so.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Most of these aren't really all that dangerous" Henry says pointing out the plants he recognized and what bits he knows about them

Marcus Veranius: "Doesn't have to be a trap or a weapon. I'm sure Strahd has uses for potions now and then."

(Roll Thieves Tools for unlocking the door?)

GM: (Go ahead)

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah, but Rictavio got me paranoid now..."

Marcus Veranius:

27

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

Rictavio: "Why? What did I say?"

Click! The lock gives easily under Marcus's skilled hands.

Suldae Westwind: "Well, I nearly replied "eh, it'll be fine" and I just really don't like that."

Marcus Veranius gently pushes the door open

Green-glowing wisps of steam bubble up from a fat, black cauldron in the center of this dark, oppressive room. Surrounding the cauldron are seven tall wooden stools.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "We could burn them I don't think anyof them do anything besides smelling unpleasant when burned"

Ireena Kolyana: "I'd hesitate to burn this one, it's poison oak. It doesn't grow in Barovia, but I've read treatises about it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And that's a dead end" Henry remarks looking over Marcus shoulder into the room

Ireena Kolyana: "If you breathe the smoke, you can get the rash in your lungs. Very deadly..."

Rictavio: "Why seven stools?"

"Surely Strahd doesn't have that much ass."

Marcus Veranius: "Strahd must run a killer coven."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Hm never heard of that plant so burning is out" Henry says

Marcus Veranius: "Which means those cats may have been Familiars possibly?"

Suldae Westwind: "Hmm..."

Suldae investigates the eastern and northern walls.

Ireena Kolyana: "Familiars..."

Suldae Westwind:

15

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

Marcus Veranius: "Witch's den."

Ireena Kolyana: "Makes sense."

Suldae does not discover any secret passages.

Suldae Westwind: (oh hey how's Ireena's familiar doing)

GM: (Is she searching the ingredient room, or the potion room?)

Suldae Westwind: (the potion room first)

GM: (Lmao I think I took that spell off her list for some reason, I haven't thought about it in a year and a half)

(No secret passages or hidden goodies in the ingredient room.)

Suldae Westwind: "...Ugh. What IS behind this wall?" Suldae knocks on it trying to just understand how thick it is.

Marcus Veranius uses the wand of secrets, attempting to detect secret passages within 30 ft of himself. He does this while standing in the doorway

Suldae Westwind: (this wall)

The Wand of Secrets sits quite still, not pointing anywhere.

Suldae determines that the wall is only a few feet thick.

Marcus Veranius: "This is incredibly frustrating."

She also spots a heavy tome, lying open on a stand just on the north side of the room. It was not visible from the doorway.

Ireena Kolyana: "I want to know what fucking architect designed this place."

Rictavio: "Yes, I'd like to dig them up and have a word with them."

Marcus Veranius: "Probably one of the Amber Temple corpses. The floor plans were there."

Ireena Kolyana: "Makes sense."

"Deranged wizards, probably."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry once again tries to use his Sword shaped universal key on the wall
Suldae tried

Marcus Veranius: "Should have inspected the model more closely..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks out the tome without touching it.

Wxudt deflects off the wall without even scratching it.

Suldae Westwind:

16

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

The book radiates an aura of pure malice. She sees that it is a spellbook—and a heavily enchanted one, at that.

Ireena Kolyana: "What have you got there, Suldae?"

Suldae Westwind: "A spellbook. Do you like evil spellbooks that want to kill you or curse you or something?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I think I'll might try myself as a woodcutter for a while after all this is over, you know to work out all this frustration with uncuttable things"

Ireena Kolyana: "Ooh, a feisty spellbook that needs me to break its spirit, crack its spine, and rip the secrets from its pages? I'm all for it."

The book whimpers slightly.

Ireena Kolyana: "Shall I try a mage hand?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...what?"

"Did you hear that book cry in fear? Or am I losing my mind"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ireena Kolyana: "No, I'm pretty sure I heard that too..."

Marcus Veranius: "Pass me the book. Lemme take a look at it."

Suldae Westwind: That actually creeped Suldae out a bit, so she sympathizes with the book.

"...Or maybe it'll just be a nice book and let us check it out without need for extreme measures?"

27

INTIMIDATION (8)
Suldae Westwind

20

INTIMIDATION (8)
Suldae Westwind

(cause armor advantage)

The book swings shut, closes its latch, and turns its little lock.Ireena Kolyana: "Aw. That's almost... Cute."Rictavio: "It's bound in human skin," says Rictavio. "Still cute?"Ireena Kolyana: "How do you... No, I don't want to know."Suldae Westwind: Suldae picks it up with Mage Hand and brings it towards Rictavio.Rictavio: "One encounters such things from time to time."

"I have absolutely no desire to touch that."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm assuming the book didn't bind itself."

"Just open your bag."

Rictavio: "I don't want it rooting around among our possessions."Marcus Veranius: "We're not putting that in the bag of holding."Rictavio: "Since it's plainly animated in some fashion..."Suldae Westwind: "...You're no fun." Suldae puts it in her own bag.Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rolls his eyes "Just chuck it in the fire if it doesn't wanna be read"Suldae Westwind: Her possessions will be fine, she's sure the book will behave :)*Suldae feels a throbbing migraine stab her suddenly behind the eyes. 10 (psychic damage).Suldae Westwind: "...Maybe later," she answers Henry.Ireena Kolyana: "Are you alright, Suldae?"Rictavio: "What do you suppose this potion is, anyway?" Rictavio asks.

"And where are the ones who brewed it?"

"Why aren't they here, if their familiars are here?"

Marcus Veranius: "Downstairs with my wife probably."

"She mentioned witches."

Rictavio: "That is not a comforting thought."Marcus Veranius: "Poor cats. Never gunna see their masters again."Ireena Kolyana: Ireena busts out laughing at that, then she says: "Aww... That's kind of sad."Suldae Westwind: "...Eh."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well we should head down further since this is a deadend"

Suldae Westwind: "And yeah, kinda."

Suldae's Migraine throbs. 10 psychic damage.

Suldae Westwind: "Ugh." She takes out the book, still using Mage Hand.

"What was that about burning it? I'm warming up to the idea."

Marcus Veranius: "Toss it into the cauldron."

Suldae Westwind: That sounds like a good idea. Not "nothing could go wrong" good idea, but "take out the frustration on it" good idea. So Suldae does that.,

The book it tossed into the cauldron.

The book plunks beneath the green and boiling surface, then floats back to the top, bobbing on the little waves of its own ripples.

Then its latch clicks, it swings open, and lying flat upon its back it sinks again—on purpose.

There is a Click as the door to the chamber locks itself.

Marcus Veranius: Wha?

Marcus Veranius messes with the door again, being locked out on the wrong side

Suldae Westwind: "Hmmm."

"That might have been a mistake."

Marcus Veranius:

28

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Go ahead and attempt a thieves' tools check, Marcus)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae tries to light the contents of the cauldron on fire.

DC19

Dexterity Save

15

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

Marcus manages to break through the lock once again, but this time it is much more difficult. Luckily, his skill is more than a match for it.

Suldae Westwind: Sorta.

Marcus Veranius makes sure to jam the lock this time with a sliver of adamantine from the fortress

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs "Maybe you should stop touching every ownerless book around Suldae" Suldae Westwind: Holy fire.

"Never."

There is a muffled scream of pain beneath the bubbling surface.

Suldae Westwind: "Also, technically I never touched it, depending on your definition."
Suldae continues.

Then, slowly, several charred pages drift up to the top.

Suldae Westwind:

DC19

Dexterity Save

11

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

She argues with Henry in between delivering chunks of the melody.

It's a little like "Fweet!" - pause - "Fweet!"

Arguing fits in the pauses.

There is no further sound from within the cauldron, but blackened pages bubble to the surface, tearing apart on the little waves.

Ireena Kolyana: "I think that's done it..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks over and begins to spear(sword)fish in a cauldron

Suldae Westwind: Suldae continues for a little more time, just in case.

He manages to spear the remnants of the book.

Henry of Willowsbrook: cauldron

Suldae Westwind: "...Say, is any of that still readable?"

Marcus Veranius: "I gotta say fellas, Henry's girlfriend makes this cooking thing look easy."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Anyone want these" He asks pointing at them hanging off his sword like the world's most disappointing kebab kebab

Suldae Westwind: Suldae checks out the remains.

The book is a charred, blackened wreckage of itself.

Unfortunately, nothing remains legible.

 Ireena Kolyana: "Oh well," says Ireena.

 Suldae Westwind: "Boo. Greedy."

 Marcus Veranius: "Darn shame. Overcooked."

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae magics up some berries for herself.

 Rictavio: "Eurgh, that smell! It's atrocious!"

Marcus Veranius starts heading back to the stairwell

 Suldae Westwind:

Goodberry

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Target: See text

Components: V, S, M (A sprig of mistletoe)

Duration: Instantaneous

Up to ten berries appear in your hand and are infused with magic for the duration. A creature can use its action to eat one berry. Eating a berry restores 3 hit points, and the berry provides enough nourishment to sustain a creature for one day. The berries lose their potency if they have not been consumed within 24 hours of the casting of this spell.

At Higher Levels. Each berry restores +1 extra hit point for each level above 1st

 Ireena Kolyana: "Sort of like bad roasted pork..."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry flings the remains into a corner "Now let's go"

 Marcus Veranius: "We're gunna need to try from one floor lower."

 Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sighs. "Alright."

 Suldae Westwind: (did you reduce my hp for that psychic damage)

 Marcus Veranius: "I have a sneaking suspicion as to where we need to go."

GM: (I did not)

 Marcus Veranius: "..."

 Suldae Westwind: (then Suldae consumes all ten bananas one after another)

Three enormous black panthers with long, whipping tentacles sit perched on the rubble now, watching you, sphinx-like, with huge emerald eyes.

Ireena Kolyana: "Uhhh..."

Suldae Westwind: "Hi!", Suldae waves to them. "Let us by?"

She takes an experimental step along the inner wall.

One of the beasts begins to lick the back of his paw.

Quite suddenly, the beast blurs. It seems to be in two or three places at once.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae takes out three meat rations, following Marcus's wise example, and throws them to all three of the creatures.

"Please?" she adds.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Wait I hearfd of these they are from the Feywilds I believe"

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE
Displacer Beast

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE
Displacer Beast

Initiative: 8

INITIATIVE
Displacer Beast

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 17

Marcus Veranius:

24

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Rictavio:

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 3

Henry of Willowsbrook:

2.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 20.15

(aaaa)

(why are you like this r20)

Marcus sees that all three of the beasts are looking at Suldae with far more interest than they are looking at the rations she just threw. He knows instinctively that they will pounce.

Marcus Veranius: "She aint on the menu!"

Displacer Beast:

DISPLACEMENT

The displacer beast projects a magical illusion that makes it appear to be standing near its actual location, causing attack rolls against it to have disadvantage. If it is hit by an attack, this trait is disrupted until the end of its next turn. This trait is also disrupted while the displacer beast is incapacitated or has a speed of 0.

Marcus Veranius rushes in front of Suldae and starts taking potshots at...

Marcus Veranius: (First round advantage)

(Cancels out until hit

16

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant

Suldae Westwind: (wow)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 blazing weapon

(3)

= 3

(Oh that was a miss)

Suldae Westwind: (that displacer beast was really just not there huh)

Pew! The blast from the sword hits the wall, zooming right through the spot where the beast seemed to be.

Rictavio: "They project illusions!"

Marcus Veranius:

16

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius4
*Fire9
RadiantIreena Kolyana: "No shit!"Marcus Veranius: (Lucky)35

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius1 + 2
*Fire9 + 5
Radiant

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

13
*ColdCritical Fury
Marcus VeraniusGM: (It's just crits and crit fails, with you lmao)Marcus Veranius: (I use my last lucky dice for a crit)
(Haha)Suldae Westwind: (this is beautiful)GM: (So that's two misses and a hit, or one miss and one hit?)Marcus Veranius: (One miss, one rerolled miss)GM: (Gotcha)The second blast does not miss.Marcus Veranius: (I'm gunna action surge so 5 more attacks in total)GM: (Lmao)Marcus Veranius:

21

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

2*Fire20Radiant18

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

5*Fire22RadiantGM: (Everything above a 13 hits, I think you can only miss with a crit fail)Marcus Veranius:*23

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

4*Fire19Radiant17

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

1*Fire24Radiant16

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

1
Fire

23
Radiant

(Anything that rolls over goes onto the next cat)

GM: (Wait, how did you roll 16 with a nat 1, then roll 16 with a 6? Is that coming out right?)

Suldae Westwind: (i think its a sharpshooter thing?)

(theres a modifier there)

GM: (Oh, gotcha gotcha)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Sharpshoter yeah

Marcus Veranius: (The opening attacks was without Sharpshooter for better to-hit)

GM: (v confuse)

Marcus Veranius: (I could have rolled all of those with advantage with the Displacement effect disabled, but I got lazy)

In the space of six seconds, Marcus turns one of the beasts into a single mark on the wall with a somewhat comical inverse-silhouette of a cat in mid-lunge. By the time he turns his attention to the second beast, both it and its companion are scrambling like panicked cats, kicking rubble out from under themselves in their attempt to flee. One of them quite literally runs on the wall, but Marcus tracks it easily and brings it back to the floor with two well-aimed blasts.

GM: (EoT?)

Marcus Veranius: (EoT)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hears noises of terrible violence from beyond the door and contemplates if drawing a weapon is even nessecary for this

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae uses the fact that the beast near the door is down and rushes over to it.

(can bonus action be readied)

(if yes, then Suldae readies the halo to fly over to whatever cat looks like it's about to hurt one of her friends, if that happens)

(and also in that case, EoT)

GM: (Just one problem—both displacer beasts have a reach of 10 feet, so you're triggering AoOs if you do that)

(RAW I don't think a bonus action can be readied, but in this case I don't mind it)

(Although in this case, is Suldae readying it to defend her too? Because it would trigger, if that's the case, since both displacer beasts are going to try to maul you)

Marcus Veranius: (Are they hiding from Marcus or are they preparing to attack?)

GM: (They're prepared to fight for their lives, but there's a good chance they might flee by the time they actually have a turn, at this rate)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (crying in fear is a free action)

Suldae Westwind: (can AOOs stop movement or just nick you while you're moving?)

GM: (Depends on the AoO. These are not automatic grapples, so they won't stop your movement.)

Suldae Westwind: (In that case Suldae eats those, and no readied action is not on at that point yet)

GM: (Fair enough)

Ireena Kolyana:

TENTACLE (~- MNTL9fHYyKxADWLJJRT REPEATING_NPCACTION_- MNTLA-7DY0sIECWOHVr_NPC_CRIT) Displacer Beast <hr/> Attack (~- mntl9fhyykxadwljjrt/repeating_npcaction_- mntla-7dy0siecwohvr_npc_crit) : 32 19

TENTACLE (~- MNTL9fHYyKxADWLJJRT REPEATING_NPCACTION_- MNTLA-7DY0sIECWOHVr_NPC_DMG) Displacer Beast <hr/> Attack (~- mntl9fhyykxadwljjrt/repeating_npcaction_- mntla-7dy0siecwohvr_npc_dmg) : 26 30

GM: (Those were... Not from Ireena)

(And not with advantage, just the first rolls

Displacer Beast:

Damage: 9 + 5 magical bludgeoning + 3 + 2 magical piercing
--

Damage: 13 magical bludgeoning + 2 magical piercing
--

Suldae Westwind: (yeowch)

Thwack, thwack! Suldae is swatted twice by spiked tentacles, but she makes it to the door.

Suldae Westwind: (deduct the damage pls?)

GM: (You still have your action, too)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stands pressed to the wall so she's not impending movement in case the kitties want to run.

She readies the halo as I said.

EoT

(no action)

GM: (Dedication, I dig it)

Ireena Kolyana: "Holy shit, Suldae!"

Suldae Westwind: "I'm fine!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No you are not!"

Suldae Westwind: Swelling bruises are invisible under clothing anyway, right?

(Suldae is wearing dragonscale armor, so damage comes in from of bruises, whether it's piercing or not)

Ireena Kolyana:

13

100/400

Heavy Crossbow (+5)

5

Piercing

Ireena takes a potshot at the wounded beast, simply because its displacement effect has ended.

The bolt sticks, prompting a cry of rage.

Displacer Beast: The wounded beast lunges for Marcus, ready to kill, and—

GM: (It's halo time)

Suldae Westwind:

13 + 1

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

20

Thunder

(WOW)

GM: (wow indeed)

Suldae Westwind: (WOW THIS REALLY DID HAPPEN)

Suldae's unwillingness to hurts the kitties affects the halo's trajectory unfavorably.

The halo zooms for the beast somewhat more sluggishly than usual, and the beast twists out of the way and lunges for Marcus, tentacles flying.

Suldae Westwind: (also bless probably ran out by now?)

Displacer Beast:

TENTACLE (~-
 MNTL9FHYYKXADWLJJRT|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
 MNTLA-7DY0SIECWOHVR_NPC_DMG)
Displacer Beast

Attack (~-
 mntl9fhyykxadwljjrt|repeating_npcaction_-
 mntla-7dy0siecwohvr_npc_dmg)

:

19 | 25

TENTACLE (~-
 MNTL9FHYYKXADWLJJRT|REPEATING_NPCACTION_-
 MNTLA-7DY0SIECWOHVR_NPC_DMG)
Displacer Beast

Attack (~-
 mntl9fhyykxadwljjrt|repeating_npcaction_-
 mntla-7dy0siecwohvr_npc_dmg)

:

23 | 14Suldae Westwind: (or did it?)Marcus Veranius: (One hit)GM: (It's definitely gone by now, I think)Henry of Willowsbrook: (it did)Displacer Beast:

Damage: 7 magical
 bludgeoning + 5 magical
 piercing

Marcus Veranius:30Melee

Retaliation Fury (+13)
 Marcus Veranius

When a creature you can see damages you, you can use your reaction to make a melee attack against that creature, with advantage on your attack roll.

1
*Fire17
*RadiantGM: (That was the wounded one, so you actually do have advantage, not just a flat roll)

Marcus Veranius takes the moment of its hit as an opening and stabs the creature with sunlight

GM: (In case you feel like crit fishing)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d20 Critfish

(17)

= 17

GM: (Oh well)

Displacer Beast: The beast screams.

Marcus Veranius: (The displacement turns on again at the end of its turn, so RIP)

(My attack doesnt turn it off again)

Displacer Beast: Its companion takes one look at the situation, turns to the window, pops the latch with a tentacle, and leaps out into empty space.

BOOM!

In midair, it is struck by a massive blast of lightning. Still falling, steaming, it is snatched up by a swooping silver dragon...

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh"

Rictavio: "Well, that was something!"

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 18

Damage: 2 piercing + 9
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 17

Damage: 6 piercing + 14
piercing

GM: (That's disadvantage, sorry)

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW

Rictavio

Attack: 14 | 17

Damage: 5 piercing + 15

piercing

GM: (Still two hits)

(Henry, you're up)

The beast is severely wounded, but now that it knows it is truly cornered it is prepared to fight with all its fury.

GM: (The displacement effect is not on right now, thanks to Ric's hits)

(So no disadvantage)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Where is the window?

GM: (Western wall)

Henry of Willowsbrook: next to it?

GM: (Yeah)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Here let me help you" Henry graps the beast

34 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

(Would you like to guess Henry's plan?)

Displacer Beast: "Yipe!"

GM: (Proceed)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And out you go" Henry tosses the oversized cat out of the window like a sack of potatoes

(Do I roll to yeet?)

GM: (Though mayest roll to yeet)

(Thou*)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

31 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (Damn autocorrect)

And verily, the beast was yought.

Argynvost swoops past, snatching the beast right out of the air with one clash of his mighty jaws.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm sure it'll land on it's feet" Henry says "..or not"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae sighs.

Argynvost: (In Draconic) "Delicious! Thank you."

Marcus Veranius: "So it's confirmed then. Outside isn't safe for anyone right now."

Suldae Westwind: "I feel like it's safer for us than... not-us," Suldae shares thoughtfully.

Marcus Veranius brushes off the bite attempt, magic tattoos absorbing most of the damage

Marcus Veranius: "Another landing on the floor below us. Let's try this again."

Ireena Kolyana: \as GM (Holy shit, I just realized I owe you guys a bunch of XP for this session and last)

GM: (Dammit)

Marcus Veranius: (I kindof assumed XP was on pause due to MEGADUNGEON)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh right you do)

GM: (I keep mixing up the slashes because the one you use for commands in the coding language I use for work is the other one)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae heals herself with a muttered prayer.

12
Healing

60 feet

Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

GM: (I mean right, yeah, totally. XP is on pause because of the megadungeon)

Suldae Westwind: (so i realized i have a mana potion)

Marcus Veranius: (We also have four greater healing potions)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You know that was quite carthatic so I might just thow the next thing that annoyes out of the tower aswell" Henry says stroking his chin in deep contemplation

Suldae Westwind: (what does a mana potion do in this game, specifically? i know this came up before but i forgot)

Henry of Willowsbrook: annoys me

Marcus Veranius: (Long rest in a bottle)

Suldae Westwind: "That sounds like a plan," Sudae agrees, then sighs. Cats)=

Henry of Willowsbrook: (refills all your spell slots)

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, I feel sort of sorry for them, but... Man they had it coming."

Marcus Veranius: (We had one each and I dont remember if we used any)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry used his when we fought the gods)

Suldae Westwind: (I was wondering if Suldae used hers but i think i would have remembered to mark it off SOMEWHERE if i did and all copies of my inventory insist i have it)

Rictavio: Rictavio goes to the window and spits out of it. "Good riddance. I was always more of a dog person anyway."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm sure there are plenty of cats out there just waiting to be love n´by you"
Henry says ruffling Suldaes hair with affection

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena makes a noise of disgust. "Oh, come on. It's not their fault they were evil."

Marcus Veranius: "The dogs dont like us either." Marcus reminds as he's heading down the stairs.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae throws the halo at him. Lighhtly.

No damage, but an educational scream in the ear.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shakes his head grinning and following Marcus down the stairs

Marcus comes to a dark landing ten feet wide and twenty feet long. An ornate square rug covers the floor to the south. Set into the west wall is an ironbound wooden door with a wooden trapdoor set into the floor in front of it. Hanging on the north wall above the trapdoor is a framed portrait of Strahd Von Zarovich—in younger, better, more flesh-and-blood years..

Suldae Westwind: (yeah Henry mentioned drinking his potion but Suldae never did)

Suldae tosses a dagger at it.

Marcus Veranius stares

Marcus Veranius: "Now that's a bit rude. Thing's a museum piece!"

Suldae Westwind: (The dagger is aimed at his heart)

"Sometimes, being rude is an appropriate response," Suldae says primly.

The dagger stops in midair and drops to the floor.

Suldae Westwind: Bard wisdom and everything.

"Hey?!"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE Rug of Smothering <hr/> Initiative: 12
--

INITIATIVE Guardian Portrait <hr/> Initiative: 12
--

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE

*Rictavio*Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE

Initiative: 18.15*Marcus Veranius:*24INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus VeraniusSuldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 20.15*Ireena Kolyana:

INITIATIVE

*Ireena Kolyana*Initiative: 21*Suldae Westwind: (well this is definitely better than being nearly eaten by a door from knocking on it)Henry of Willowsbrook: "OKay out the window it is"

The eyes of the portrait turn to look upon you, and at the same time the carpet at the south end of the room rears up like a huge upholstered cobra.

Marcus Veranius sees the rug start coming to life and attempts to cut it apart. BAD RUG!*Suldae Westwind: (Note: Suldae will pick up her dagger as soon as the fight is over, even if I don't remember that, assuming we finish it in the same room)Marcus Veranius:*13*16

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

4*Fire21Radiant22*30

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

1 + 3*Fire*

20 + 6
Radiant

17		25
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

1
Fire

23
Radiant

20		22
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)
Marcus Veranius

2
Fire

21
Radiant

GM: (We should probably pause the session here, actually)

Marcus Veranius:

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

7
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (a good plan, its my bed time)

GM: (But I'm glad Marcus has such a visceral reaction to his Age-Old Enemy)

Suldae Westwind: (age old enemy being rugs or mimics period?)

Marcus Veranius: 109 mixed damage against Death House V2: Death Mansion

GM: (Actually Marcus just killed both the portrait and the rug...)

(So it's not much of a cliffhanger lol)

(But it's still time to end the session, unfortunately—many things to do)

(Thank you all for playing!)

Marcus Veranius: "FURNITURE!!!"

(thanks for running o3o)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ruined a perfectly good rug by making it evil"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae toots a few winning notes on the flute, then picks up the dagger.

Liliet (Suldae): omg r20 changed its greeting!

its only half that size now :0

Zanshukun: I'll be afk for a bit in case GM gets here soon

GM (GM): Oh wow, the greeting looks different!

I wonder if that means they updated the chat function so you can edit things? Probably not.

Suldae Westwind: its only half that size now :0 hmm

nope

they did not anyway the important thing is it only takes up HALF the screen now, not the whole of it --

GM (GM): It is kind of a nice change

It never needed to be that big, anyway

Suldae Westwind: y e p

i wish there was a toggle to turn it the fuck off

GM (GM): Alright, now where were we

Suldae Westwind: the description of the deaths! didnt happen

Upon stepping into the room, Marcus sees a portrait of Strahd von Zarovich contort to life, raising a painted hand to deflect Suldae's dagger. Behind him, he hears the rug rear up like a striking cobra. In reaction to this sudden rearrangement of the room, he (very understandably) instinctively atomizes both the rug and the portrait in a sudden spray of radiant death.

Zanshukun: Back

GM (GM): There is now a rug-shaped soot-mark obscuring much of the southern portion of the chamber, and a vaguely portrait-shaped soot mark remains smeared across the northern wall.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm never going to be able to trust any furniture again."

GM (GM): (I'll give another description of the room, since it got sort of glossed over)

The description as written was "You come to a dark landing ten feet wide and twenty feet long. A cold draft of wind rushes down the spiral staircase at the north end of the east wall and whistles mournfully through the room before streaming down the stairs to the south.

An ornate, square rug covers the floor to the south. Set into the west wall is an ironbound wooden door with a wooden trapdoor set into the floor in front of it. Hanging on the north wall above the trapdoor is a framed portrait of a handsome, well-dressed man with a serene yet penetrating gaze."

Now it's just a ten foot by twenty foot room with entrances to two spiral staircases, one going up, one going down. There's a trapdoor on the floor in front of a shut, locked door.

Ireena Kolyana picks up Suldae's dagger and hands it back to her.

Rictavio: "So, which way do we want to go next?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae kisses her on the cheek.

Rictavio: "There's liable to be a lot of furniture in this place, Marcus. That thing doesn't run out of 'arrows', does it?"

Marcus Veranius: "About as often as the sun runs out of light."

Suldae Westwind: "Let's explore the floor first?" Suldae suggests as she tugs the door curiously, carefully stepping around the trapdoor.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry carfully kneels next to the trapdoor seeing if it's locked or trapped

Marcus Veranius: "We should wrap around the floor, see if there's an entrance to the tower from this level. I have a feeling of where we need to go."

Marcus Veranius opens the western door

Both this door and the trapdoor are currently locked, by mechanical means.

GM: (Roll Arcana, Henry)

Marcus Veranius isn't asking nicely

Marcus Veranius:

17

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

Click! The lock resists him.

Rictavio: "That's a tough nut to crack. I've seen one like it before, it's a nearly prehistoric design."

"Here, you've got to apply torque at the same time, I'll help." (roll again)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

19 + 1

ARCANA (-1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius:

22

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

Rictavio: Henry determines that both this trapdoor and the door in front of him are booby trapped with evocation spells, triggered to activate the moment the door is opened unless a command word is said.

"There, that's done it!"

Marcus and Rictavio defeat the lock on the door.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "DOnT"

Ireena Kolyana: "What is it?"

Marcus Veranius holds his hand above the doorknob

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Whoops my voice cracked there" Henry says standing up "The are trapped to blow up unless you speak a command word" they

Ireena Kolyana: "We'd better figure out how to counteract the spells. It might trigger if you let go at this point, Marcus."

Suldae Westwind: "Please don't?" Suldae suggests and pauses for Henry to verify that it was not, in fact, the command word.

Marcus Veranius: "Hmmmmmm."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I think, evocation was the explosiony kind of magic right?"

Ireena Kolyana: "Let's check out what spell will be released, and see if we can pry the command word from the glyph," says Ireena, to Suldae.

Marcus Veranius: "Are you certain it's explosives?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae nods and crouches to study the trapdoor.

20

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Rictavio: "Evocation magic includes a lot of different spells," says Rictavio. "It might not be limited to an explosion."
"It might have the force of one."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Might be lighting" Henry says with a nod "Lightnig sucks"

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena crouches beside her, offering assistance. (Help action)

Marcus Veranius: "The brute force approach then. I'm going to try tying a rope to the doorknob so we can open it from the cover of the stairwell."

Henry of Willowsbrook: lightning

Suldae Westwind: (help action means advantage on the roll?)

Ireena Kolyana: "If you release the doorknob at this point, the spell may trigger anyway."

GM: (Yes, Suldae)

Marcus Veranius is not touching the doorknob

GM: (She's going to help on both the trapdoor and the door, so you can roll again for the trapdoor if you want to crit-fish, and roll with advantage on the door)

Rictavio: Rictavio is. He was applying torque.

Marcus Veranius: "...shit."

Rictavio: "Don't worry about me, old boy. Just figure out the solution."

Suldae Westwind:

23

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(that was reroll for the trapdoor)

(now for the door)

15

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

19

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(...rip)

Suldae and Ireena together determine that the spell on the trapdoor is a powerful flame spell (level 7 fireball). It is set to trigger only if the trapdoor is opened without the command word being spoken. With Ireena's aid, Suldae is able to extract the command word: "Welsa".

The door, on the other hand, is a little more difficult to crack. They are able to determine that it is a very powerful spell (level 8), but they are unable to find the command word.

This also seems to be a fire-based spell.

Suldae Westwind: "Mmmmgh," Suldae says, unsatisfied.

Ireena Kolyana: "It's not much to go on..."

Suldae Westwind: "...Fire harms me less since I've finished the book and gained its boon.." "I could just try to take it on?"

Rictavio: "I might be able to attempt dispelling the magic?"

Suldae Westwind: "Or let's try that first!" "Good plan!"

Rictavio: "I have one more good Dispel Magic in me." (one 4th-level slot)

Ireena Kolyana: "I can try to counterspell it right as it triggers."

Suldae Westwind: (can Suldae offer advantage on the involved Arcana roll by helping)

GM: (Don't you have bardic inspiration?)

Suldae Westwind: (oo one sec)

(i have one bardic insp left. we really need to start marking who i gave it to that hasnt used it yet)

(also at this point it feels more in-character for Suldae to try to help more directly, she's a high key magic nerd)

GM: (Works for me)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Dispel magic is a wisdom check not arcana since Ric is not a wizard but a cleric)

GM: (Oh shit, Henry's right)

Suldae Westwind: (aw dammit)

(RIP Ric)

GM: (Well, for a good performance roll and some musical RP, I'd allow him to roll with advantage on that check)

Rictavio: "Well? Shall I proceed with my attempt to dispel?" (This is Rictavio's last 4th-level slot. He is out of third and fifth-level slots.)

Ireena Kolyana: "If you fail, I can be ready with Counterspell."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathed and nodeed, then started whispering a prayer, improvising a prayer to Pelor as best she could Ireena Kolyana: "Unless there's a cleverer way we could do this? What else can we use?"

Rictavio: "I wouldn't mind having a shield of some kind between myself and the door, to be honest."

Suldae Westwind: (hey can i use Religion for this)

Suldae moves forward, fitting her slim body between him and the door for the most part.

GM: (I'll allow it)

Rictavio: "Oh. Hi Suldae."

Suldae Westwind:

22

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

Rictavio: "No, I meant a literal shield. I was going to say it more directly, but I didn't want to sound greedy." He looks pointedly at Henry's massive fuckoff dragonbone shield.

Suldae Westwind: Both is better anyway.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is bracing for the worst "Here" Henry says walking over to place the shield flush against the door

Suldae Westwind: the order is: shield - Suldae - Rictavio.

Rictavio: "Right. Well, I'm already touching the doorknob, so I'll try to cast the spell through that. Perhaps some of the lesser spells that might detect me removing my hand can be broken before we need to brute-force the larger spell...

"Here goes..."

Dispel Magic*Abjuration 4Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: One creature, object, or magical effect within rangeComponents: V, SDuration: Instantaneous

Choose one creature, object, or magical effect within range. Any spell of 3rd level or lower on the target ends. For each spell of 4th level or higher on the target, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a successful check, the spell ends.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you automatically end the effects of a spell on the target if the spell's level is equal to or less than the level of the spell slot you used.

WISDOM*RictavioAbility: 11 | 13

"Fuck."

BOOM.Ireena Kolyana:CounterspellAbjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feetTarget: A creature in the process of casting a spellComponents: SDuration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he needed a 14+ on the roll)

Ireena Kolyana:

8

ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind: (i dont know what annyone expected)

Marcus Veranius: "Alright, well. I got an idea that's worth a shot if we're gunna try brute forcing it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (We already kind of blew up Tops)

Marcus Veranius: (Haha, I missed the boom)

(Scroll buffer)

A blast of flame erupts from the door! 40 fire damage to the shield.

Rictavio: "Oh, that wasn't that bad."

Henry of Willowsbrook: 20

Rictavio: "And on the plus side, I've got my hand off the door." Rictavio pulls back a steaming stump. A moment later he realizes that his hand is completely gone. He screams.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Because cuddling Henry is literal magic

GM: (The shield takes no damage)

(It just absorbs it all)

Suldae Westwind: (can lesser restoration fix the hand)

(i wont lie i expected the hand thing)

(...can lesser restoration cast at lvl 4 fix the hand)

GM: (Probably not, no)

Suldae Westwind: (i have no lower 2+ spell slots left lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I'll just assume no because the spell regeneration exists)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh no! Rictavio!"

"Your hand!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae whispers a prayer as she caresses his arm. She cannot bring the hand back, but she can heal the stump at least.

Ireena Kolyana: "Is it cauterized? Is it bleeding? We'd better clean the stump, we---"

Suldae Westwind:

11

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

Rictavio: Rictavio busts up laughing.

Marcus Veranius quickly breaks out his waterskin. "It's ok, you're OK!"

Rictavio: He slides his hand out of his sleeve.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so we all took 20 fire damage)

Rictavio: "Got you."

Marcus Veranius: "You're..."

"..."

Suldae Westwind: (hey fun fact thats not funny)

GM: (None of you took damage, the shield just killed the explosion)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Oh neat

Marcus Veranius blank stares

Suldae Westwind: (ignore Suldae's action, she would look at what was happening before she did that)

Suldae pushes Rictavio in the side, utilizing her small stature and closeness to him.

20

DEXTERITY (2+2)
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena sees red. "You ass!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry smacks Ric across the back of the head "Jackass"

Rictavio: Rictavio is weeping tears of laughter now.

Suldae Westwind: (also, he's on the floor now)

Rictavio: "He-hey! Ow! You should have seen your faces!"

Marcus Veranius goes through the door. He's got no time for this Suldae Westwind: Suldae also kicks him for good measure.

Ireena Kolyana: "Now is not the time for this."

Escher: "Hello. You don't look like the usual food."

Suldae Westwind: "Hello," Suldae waves.

GM: (Room description coming right up)

Suldae Westwind: (ye this was just inevitable lol)

As thunder shakes the tower, heavy beams groan under the weight of the ceiling. Three ornate lanterns hang by chains from these beams, each casting a dim glow. The curved west wall is fitted with three windows of leaded glass in steel latticework. A bookcase sits on the east wall between two doors. Plush, overstuffed chairs and couches are placed about the room. The fabric has faded with age, and the patterns it depicts are nearly gone. Lounging on one couch is a handsome young man whose attire, while elegant, is worn and faded.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Unrelated to this sorry excuse of decency I'm really starting to like this thing" Henry says inspecting his shield with an approving nod

Marcus Veranius: "...good evening. Sorry to disturb your rest."

Escher: "I wasn't resting. I was waiting for my dinner."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Try to eat any of us and you will regret it" Henry says in way of a greeting

Escher: "But you don't look like food..."

Escher gets gracefully to his feet, smoothing his silk pants.

Sulda Westwind: "We're not food, no," Sulda confirms. "Excuse us, we were just looking for a way to pass into the other tower?"

By the glide in his step, you sense that he is a full vampire.

Sulda Westwind: She points with her arm to clarify where.

Sulda ignores that for the moment. Maybe he'll just answer and that'll be that.

Escher: "Into which tower? There are several."

Marcus Veranius: "The master's tower."

Escher: "Why are you wandering the grounds unescorted?"

Sulda Westwind: (as I have said, Sulda points with her arm towards the other tower)

Escher: "This is highly unusual. The master will want to hear about this."

Sulda Westwind: "He knows," Sulda assures him.

Marcus Veranius: "Oh, don't worry. He knows we're here."

Escher: "What are you looking for, anyway?"

Sulda Westwind: Fully sincerely.

27

PERSUASION (11)
Sulda Westwind

"The way to the main tower."

Sulda blinks at him guilelessly.

Escher: "And after that?"

Rictavio: "He's stalling."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yep he is"

Suldae Westwind: "Well, we were looking for Strahd."

Escher: "I can take you to Strahd."

Suldae Westwind: "I don't think you want to," Suldae says, again with full sincerity.

19

INTIMIDATION (8)
Suldae Westwind

24

INTIMIDATION (8)
Suldae Westwind

(armor advantage)

She blinks and turns her head just so, turning the very innocence of her expression into an unsettling threat.

Escher: He raises his hands placatingly. "Now now, let's not be hasty. There was no malice in my offer. I know where Strahd is, at all times."

"I will gladly lead you to him."

"I know the ways and corridors of this castle better than most."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh" Henry lets out in the flöates monotone

Marcus Veranius dims the sunsword

Suldae Westwind: "We'd honestly prefer instruction to a guide," Suldae says seriously. "Could you ddraw a scheme?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: flatest

Escher: "The castle will obstruct your path. It always does."

"Until Strahd wishes to be found, you will not happen across him. He has many lairs."

Suldae Westwind: "Oh, that kind of architecture," Suldae says with both sudden understanding and sympathy.

Marcus Veranius: "...I believe his claim. This isn't the first residence with malice we've been forced to endure."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Who are you any way random poffy shirted vampire dude" Henry says tilting his head

Suldae Westwind: "Hmm," Suldae tilts her head, visibly evaluating him as a guide, then glances at her party members.

Escher: "I am Escher. Once upon a time, I was Strahd's muse. I wrote him poetry, and sang him songs, and pleased him with my harpsichord and my skill with the organ. After he finished his lessons, he no longer needed me, and so he gave me this floor. From time to time, he visits—when he is in a mood. He is always in a mood, these days, and I grow very tired of it."

"He will feel better once he has eaten you."

"And maybe he will reward me for assisting him."

"You see, you get to your destination, and we both get what we want."

"I see no reason an amicable arrangement cannot be arrived at."

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7 + 1

INSIGHT (6)

Henry of Willowsbrook

(Well Henry buys whatever this guy is selling wholesale) "I guess"

Sulda Westwind: "Just so long as it's clear that if you attack us after we arrive to the destination, you'll be a smear on the floor before Strahd has a chance to do anything," Suldae says amicably. "He's run from us before; he'll certainly be more confident in his castle, but whichever way the fight goes? You, we can take. And will."

27

INSIGHT (8)

Sulda Westwind

Escher: "Oh, I'm no warrior. I hate the taste of battle-blood."

"I prefer my meals to be... Weary. I send them to sleep, and they do not hate me."

Sulda Westwind: "When we're close, you'll run, and we'll both take the wager," Suldae evaluates his willingness to stick to this plan.

Escher: "Oh, I won't run. I'll just watch. Maybe I'll compose something about it afterwards."

He picks at his fangs with a bored fingernail.

"Anyway. I'm ready if you are."

"I suggest that you follow me from a respectable thirty foot distance. Allow me to do the talking."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae stares at him skeptically

(hey DM what can she discern)

GM: (She discerns that he is not lying or omitting anything, and that he has no intention to trap you or betray you or fight you himself. Either he is an exceptional actor, or he is not attempting to deceive you.)

Sulda Westwind: She shrugs and turns to the others.

"We might as well?"

Marcus Veranius: "I see no harm. Lead the way good ser."

Sulda Westwind: Suldae turns to him with a smile that's subtly predatory. First, it's fun. Second, just in case he gets any ideas.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shrugs "If he lied, well what is one more dead vampire anyway?" Henry says rolling his shoulders "

Sulda Westwind: "Lead the way."

Marcus Veranius actually sees no point. Lost with a guide or lost without a guide. It makes little difference, but observing Escher's path through the castle may gleam insights to its inner workings.

 Marcus Veranius: Marcus will wait to see which way Escher intends to go, dimming the sunsword to let him pass safely without... melting.

 Escher: "Thank you kindly."

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae figures there's at least a chance it'll save them some energy. Maybe not time, but if he's not lying about diplomacing his way through obstacles...

 Escher: "Please give me as much space as you can. Oh, I do detest the stench of mortal battle-sweat."
He comes out to the landing, and leads the way down the southern spiral staircase.
"It's this way. We have to go all the way to the bottom."
"Keep up! But not too close!"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rolls his eyes "Great we just had to run into the pretenious one didn't we"

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae casts Prestidigitation upon herself as others with a light flute melody as she follows. Mends any dents on the equipment as well.
Not for the sake of this stink ass dude, but he reminded her.

 Ireena Kolyana: Somewhat huffily, Ireena says: "Well / think you smell wonderful."

 Henry of Willowsbrook: He follows

 Marcus Veranius tries to contact Ezmerelda through his ring

 Marcus Veranius: [You doing OK? We found a guide but I'm rather certain he's leading us astray.]

 Sulda Westwind: By the time everyone's down the stairs, they all smell like fucking lavender.
Literally, if not for long after Suldae stops playing.

At last, after passing through five or six floors, the party reaches the bottom of the spiral stair.

The last few steps descend into murky black water. Escher walks on top of the dark waves, his feet not touching the surface of the water.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "Are we there yet?" Henry repaets with the smae annoyed monotone repeats same

 Sulda Westwind: Suldae tries the water with her foot, grimaces.

 Henry of Willowsbrook: as the last 4 times he asked

 Sulda Westwind: "I can dry us out afterwards," she says dryly and continues down the stairs.

"Careful, here," he says, his voice echoing magnificently. "There are several hidden trapdoors in this hall, each containing a teleport trap. It will not kill you, but it will be a chore to retrieve you."

 Sulda Westwind: Carefully.

The water is two feet deep.

Ireena Kolyana: "Eurgh."

Suldae Westwind: She begins playing again, simply looking for wisps of magic.

Marcus Veranius: (Most of the partu has waterwalking from Marcus's boots, right?)

Suldae Westwind: (oooooh wait that was a thing?)

GM: (I believe that's correct)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I don't remember getting a pair of those)

Suldae Westwind: (retcon then)

Marcus Veranius: Boots of Dragon Hide:

Allows the wearer to walk on acid, water, and lava without harm and without sinking.

(Marcus made pairs for everyone but himself; he went with swimming)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae offers her arm to Marcus with a suggestive gesture - why not be a raven and ride?

She continues after Escher without missing a beat.

Marcus Veranius begrudgingly plays shoulder parrot, cursing his variant designs

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Did the NPCs also get boots?)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "...$@&...f....sh....u?"

Suldae Westwind: (I'm sure they did)

(Henry can carry Rictavio if they did not, and Ireena can make Suldae into Odin)

Marcus Veranius: (Of course they did. What self-respecting shoemaker leaves out a good friend from the joys of comfortable boots)

Ireena and Rictavio follow, stepping out onto the water, boots active.

Ireena Kolyana: "These boots were genius, Marcus."

Rictavio: "Highly useful!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Huh I forgot they did that" Henry says following Escher: "Oh drat, I always forget," says Escher.

Suldae Westwind: "What do you forget exactly?" Suldae asks, stopping.

Escher: "Well, these fellows don't talk, so I'm afraid you'll have to do some fighting. Zombies. I'm not sure how many live in the torture pit."

"Where would you like me to stand while you... do what you do best?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae points towards one of the staircases to their sides.

With a perfectly flat expression.

(then to the other. she doesnt care which)

Escher: "As you wish."

"What does one say upon such occasions?"

"Happy Hunting?"

"Break their legs?"

"In any case, I should get to it, if I were you."

Strahd Zombie:

INITIATIVE

Strahd Zombie

Initiative: 18

Henry of Willowsbrook:

7.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius hops off Suldae's shoulder and onto the staircase. He can shoot bolts from there

Marcus Veranius:

26

INITIATIVE (8)

Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 12.15

(welp, Suldae's on mop up duty lmao)

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE

Rictavio

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE

Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 18

Marcus Veranius aims carefully for the four zombies somewhat in view of his corridor. Gunna be a few tricky shots here but nothing he cant handle

Marcus Veranius:

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

8

Radiant/Fire

20
Radiant

22

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

10
Radiant/Fire

24
Radiant

14

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

15
Radiant/Fire

24
Radiant

17

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

9
Radiant/Fire

20
Radiant

(Shoot, these should be with advantage)

rolling 4d20

(6 + 16 + 15 + 18)

= 55

GM: (Final rolls and damage numbers? Any bonuses against undead?)

Marcus Veranius: 28 / 34 / 39 / 29 against the zombies

(Err, 14, 22 / 15 / 18 to hit)

With four blasts, Marcus turns two zombies into little puffs of ash, and blasts apart the upper bodies of two others, leaving only two sets of legs to toddle blindly forward.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae gives a demonstrative full-body shiver as she sees that. Eugh. Creepy. (Kind of fun creepy, but still)

Marcus Veranius: "...huh. Must have aimed too high..."

[EoT]

Ireena Kolyana: "That's pretty gnarly."

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

4

Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

Suldae Westwind: (does Ireena not have damaging cantrips)

Ireena Kolyana sees only one more available target, further in the room, and she looses several arcane darts of force at it, dealing some damage—and decapitating it. The headless zombie staggers on.

GM: (She does not have any damaging cantrips, no)

(Brb one sec)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

(at least this spell doesnt involve attack rolls adksdlfjsdkjf)

Perhaps a dozen zombies converge on the mouth of the tunnel, moving with slow but military precision.

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh fuck, there are a lot more of them!"

The halo sings greedily.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae throws it.

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

GM: (They have an AC of 8)

Suldae Westwind: (beautiful)

(watch as i crit miss the next tone)

26

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13

Thunder

30

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

(this one's for the legs)

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(also legs)

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

20

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12
Thunder

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14
Thunder

Suldae Westwind:

18

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14
Thunder

13

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

(AAAND crit miss)

(rip)

Zooming around, ricocheting off the zombies, the halo severs many heads.

Suldae Westwind: The halo swishes through the narrow corridor, and upon swishing past the latest zombie it targets, returns back to Suldae.

Headless, the zombies keep coming, arms outstretched.

Suldae Westwind: (using the rest of its movement to move it back)

GM: (works for me)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's flute sings.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Sacred Flame

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Flame-like radiance descends on a creature that you can see within range. The target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take 1d8 radiant damage. The target gains no benefit from cover for this saving throw.

Strahd Zombie:

DEXTERITY
Strahd Zombie

Ability: 11

Suldae Westwind:

DC19

Dexterity Save

13
Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

(like this)

(@the closest one)

EoT

Rictavio:

HAND CROSSBOW
Rictavio

Attack: 11 | 5

Damage: 3 piercing + 11
piercing

HAND CROSSBOW
Rictavio

Attack: 20 | 15

Damage: 4 piercing + 10
piercing

"Finally, something even I can hit!"

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry walks forward to the closest Zombie and hacks away with Wudxt

26

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

18

Slashing

28

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

19

Slashing

37

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

15

Bludgeoning

60 feet line

Bone Shield Hammer
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: (rip for all these already not having heads)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Just straight ahead

GM: (That's a kill on the first hit, and you could kill another nearby guy with the second one if your movement's not all gone)

Strahd Zombie:

STRENGTH
Strahd Zombie

Ability: 9

STRENGTH
Strahd Zombie

Ability: 4

STRENGTH
Strahd Zombie

Ability: 14

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Man these guys are annoying" Henry grunts falling into a ready stance shield raised

EoT

SPLAT! The shield flies unimpeded straight to the wall, turning three zombies into a fine paste. The shield returns to his hand a moment later.

Chunks of splattered zombie fall off the wall, hitting the water with dark plunking sounds.

GM: (Marcus, you're up)

Marcus Veranius takes more shots at the zombies. Thank henry for bringing them over

Marcus Veranius:

16

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant/Fire

24

Radiant

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

15

Radiant/Fire

20

Radiant

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

13

Radiant/Fire

22

Radiant

GM: (Three shots, three kills. Do you want to describe them?)Marcus Veranius: (I dont think I'm getting better than the two zombies that got evaporated top-halves)

(That was brutal GM)

(YOU get the kill of the day)

(Play of the Game material right there)

P-p-poof! With a casual spray of deadly radiance-bolts, Marcus turns three zombies into temporary craters in the pool of dark water. The water splashes back into place a moment later, faintly steaming. Henry is sprayed with a fine mist of rot.

Rot-soot, really.

One zombie remains, arms upraised, mouth gnawing the air. The waterlogged corpse is putrid with rot, and she draws a ragged hiss of reeking breath as she staggers towards Henry.

Suldae Westwind: (aw yeah this is awesome)Ireena Kolyana:

Prestidigitation

Transmutation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 10 feetTarget: See textComponents: V, SDuration: Up to 1 hour

This spell is a minor magical trick that novice spellcasters use for practice. You create one of the following magical effects within range: You create an instantaneous, harmless sensory effect, such as a shower of sparks, a puff of wind, faint musical notes, or an odd odor. You instantaneously light or snuff out a candle, a torch, or a small campfire. You instantaneously clean or soil an object no larger than 1 cubic foot. You chill, warm, or flavor up to 1 cubic foot of nonliving material for 1 hour. You make a color, a small mark, or a symbol appear on an object or a surface for 1 hour. You create a nonmagical trinket or an illusory image that can fit in your hand and that lasts until the end of your next turn. If you cast this spell multiple times, you can have up to three of its non-instantaneous effects active at a time, and you can dismiss such an effect as an action.

"Ew ew ew, here, let me get that for you, Henry."

Ireena vanishes the filth.

Suldae Westwind: (im so proud of my magical understudy)

GM: (Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (what? ireena started seriously studying magic when Suldae was around. theres no other way it could have gone)

GM: (Lol)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae catches up.

DC19

Dexterity Save

9

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame

Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry who had be standing stock still with his eyes closed after being sprayed lets out a deep breath "Thanks Ireena"

Strahd Zombie:

DEXTERITY
Strahd Zombie

Ability: 18

Suldae Westwind: (RIP)

GM: (Lmao)

(Is there such a thing as a crit save?)

Suldae Westwind: (i think its only attacks but let me google)

GM: (RAW there is not)

(Looks like it is only attacks)

(So that's an automatic fail no matter what she rolls, and she rolled the best she possibly could)

Suldae Westwind: (she did her best. we applaud her. but,)

(i dont remember if she was damaged before)

The zombie jumps nimbly out of the way! Almost. Pleased with herself after her surprisingly quick movement, she does not fully escape Suldae's quick reflexes, and the spell erupts over her.

GM: (Still your turn, I think)

Suldae Westwind:

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

GM: (She was not damaged previously, no)

Suldae Westwind: The halo follows the flames.

GONG! It strikes her, knocking her arms right off her torso. The rest of her hits the water with a dead splash, but her fallen arms swim on the water like pale eels, searching for a victim.

GM: (The arms can count as different targets, for the purposes of the halo)

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

(two arms, each separate, right?)

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13

Thunder

The halo turns one arm to so much splattered goo, then turns and does the other, too.

Bits of rot float on the surface of the dark water.

Dark, low shapes thrust up out of the still, brackish water that fills this fifty-foot-square room, the ceiling of which is festooned with hanging chains that look like thick, black web strands. A balcony set into the north wall overlooks the room and has two large thrones atop it, with a red velvet curtain behind them.

The dark shapes in the water are racks, iron maidens, stocks, and other instruments of torture. The skeletons of their last victims lie within them, their jaws seemingly frozen open in silent screams.

Escher: "Oh, is it over?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grimaces as she surveys the room, then plays, cleaning herself and her companions once again, just in case.

"Yes. Ew."

GM: (The balcony is 7 feet up from the water's surface, or 10 feet up from the ground.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "How charming" Henry says glancing about the room

Escher: Escher glides out into the middle of the space. "We must get up there."

He does so by simply gliding up to the balcony.

Rictavio: "Good shooting," says Rictavio, as Marcus passes by.

Marcus Veranius gives a thumbs-up as he flies into the room, then onto a very familiar balcony

Suldae Westwind: Suldae flies up to the balcony as well, then throws a rope down to Henry and deputizes Marcus to help hold it.

Marcus Veranius: "...huh."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena lands beside Suldae. "Huh."

Escher: "Now, there are a pair of iron golems in the next room," says Escher. "You'll want to be cautious not to upset them."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ric you take the rope" Henry says securing a 10 ft run up "I don't need it" he runs and jumps up onto the balcony

Rictavio: Rictavio struggles up the rope.

At the top, he reaches for Marcus's hand.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae waits until Ric is up, then gives Henry a thumbs up.

"We'll be careful with the golems," Suldae says solemnly.

Escher: "I believe they're more intended to guard the teleportation device than anything, so as long as we leave that alone, they shouldn't wake."

"I think..."

"At least, they've never woken for me, and I am always cautious not to touch the master's contraptions."

Marcus Veranius pulls Rictavio up

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry has a 3,6m vertical on his jumps with just a 3m run up...dude got mad hops)

GM: (Boing!)

Rictavio: "Thank you, old boy."

Marcus Veranius thinks to himself; the bunker tank ought to be around here somewhere. Unless it moved...

Rictavio: "Not as... Spry as I used to be."

Ireena Kolyana: "Well, should we go through the curtain?"

Marcus Veranius swings open the curtain, nervous at what condition the other side is in

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry even without the Belt would crush the fantasy NBA)

The door beyond the curtain is closed.

Liliet (Suldae): Suldae pushes it.

(or pulls it, whichever it was)

Marcus Veranius: Something is wrong. This door was knocked clean off its hinges by a crab tank

Marcus Veranius raises the sunsword

The door swings smoothly inward.

Suldae Westwind: This might be a different part of the castle with the same architecture. Suldae wouldn't put that past this fucking place. That said...

She sure remembers the Amber Temple.

The apparatus of Kwalish stands in the corner, empty, shut down. It does not appear to be damaged.

This room is thirty feet square, rising to a twenty-foot-tall flat ceiling. A stone brazier burns fiercely in the center of the room, but its tall white flame produces no heat. The rim of the brazier is carved with seven cup-shaped indentations spaced evenly around the circumference. Within each indentation is a spherical stone, twice the diameter of a human eyeball and made of a colored crystal. No two stones are the same color.

Overhead, a wood-framed hourglass as tall and wide as a dwarf hangs ten feet above the brazier, suspended from the ceiling by thick iron chains. All the sand is stuck in the upper portion of the hourglass, seemingly unable to run down into the bottom. Written in glowing script on the base of the hourglass is a verse in Common.

Two nine-foot-tall iron statues of knights on horseback, poised to charge with swords drawn, stand in deep alcoves facing each other. The brazier sits between them.

Ireena Kolyana: "So... Where is everybody?"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae immediately runs up to check the crab.

GM: (Roll Investigation)

Escher: "Where is everybody who?"

"You... Don't suppose they might have used the device?"

"That would be... Most unwise."

Suldae Westwind:

22

INVESTIGATION (5)
Suldae Westwind

Escher: "At any rate, to get to Strahd, we must pass through this center door. It isn't far, now."

Suldae finds that the apparatus does have a faint sheen of leftover spellcraft. It looks like it endured a few direct hits from a fireball or similar magic, but it is so well constructed that the damage is entirely superficial. A little polish and it will be good as new. Inside the machine, tucked behind some of the levers, Suldae finds a hastily-folded note sealed with a lipstick kiss.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae picks up the note and passes it to Marcus. Somehow, she guesses,

Marcus Veranius opens the note

The note reads:

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry blinks before rubbing the bridge of his nose "He made us run around in a circle just to fuck with us didn't he?" He lets out a huff. "Fucking fine then"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Babe, we've decided our safest option is a rope trick. Hiere showed up in the nick of time. Strahd was right on top of us. Hiere isn't sure how the rope trick will work with the way the castle is shifting all around us (or something like that, he wasn't making sense.) You might not be able to hear me on the ring. In case things get complicated: I love you. I regret nothing."

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is resisting her urge to read over Marcus's shoulder.

Marcus Veranius closes the note, saying nothing.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae absolutely reads over Marcus's shoulder.

Rictavio: "Are they alright?"

Suldae Westwind: "Yeah," Suldae says curtly.

Ireena Kolyana: "What happened to them?"

Marcus Veranius: "Of course they are. It's my wife."

Suldae Westwind: "Not now," Suldae waves towards their guide, still in the room.

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh, r-right."

Marcus Veranius burns the note before anyone else can see it

Marcus Veranius: "WELL THEN! That door you said?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rolls his shoulders and cracks his neck "Let's just get this whole fucking thing over with"

Escher: "This door, yes. Now, be cautious, there is a trapdoor in the middle somewhere, hidden by the fog."

Suldae Westwind: "Noted."

Suldae moves right after him, scouting for magic traps.

22

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry tries to keep everyone close to him to keep them in his protective Aura

The door creaks open to reveal a stone staircase between rough masonry walls. There is little dust on the steps, but light fog tumbles down the steps from above.

Suldae Westwind: "Marcus, I check the magic, you check the floor?"

This tunnel is cut into the Pillarstone of Ravenloft itself. Its surface is slick, and its ceiling is barely 6 feet high. A lingering fog limits visibility to a few feet.

Rictavio: "This tunnel... It looks much newer than the rest of the construction."

Escher: "Yes, it is a recent addition. He wanted a shortcut between his brooding grounds and the rest of the castle."

Suldae Westwind: "His what,"
Suldae splutters in a giggle.

Escher: "One must brood, dear. When one is immortal, it is quite essential."

"He likes to pace the halls of the dead, holding the skulls of fallen enemies and family members, talking to people who exist now only in his memories."

"Quite romantic, really. He has always been such a poetic soul."

Suldae Westwind: "..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry can't even be bothered to roll his eyes anymore.

Suldae Westwind: "Well NOW they do."
"We killed his mom last week."

Escher: "Oh, how unfortunate. I thought she was already dead?"

Suldae Westwind: "You would have thought so from his bullshit, huh?"

Escher: "That just goes to show you how little he tells me, anymore."
Escher sighs dramatically.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae reaches over to pat him on his shoulder.

GM: (Need a perception or investigation check from whoever is looking for mechanical traps)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae asked Marcus)

Marcus Veranius:

23

PERCEPTION (12)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (hopefully that should do it lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Being dead hasn't stopped you so why are you acting all surprised"

Escher: "Oh, I'm not dead."

"I simply have a different form of life than you do."

Marcus Veranius is quiet, thinking on the note's contents. He pauses for a moment.

Marcus Veranius: "Stop."

Marcus spots the trapdoor hiding under the fog.

Suldae Westwind: "Philosophy," Suldae says and rolls her eyes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Semantics" Henry adds

Escher: "It can really come to occupy a great deal of one's time, yes," says Escher. "Philosophy, I mean. I have recently been getting deeper into my Aninonianoninaides. Have you ever read her?"
"Fascinating stuff."

Suldae Westwind: "We have an army of revenants outside," Suldae points out.

Marcus Veranius investigates the trapdoor, seeing if there's a way to jam it somehow Suldae Westwind: "We're in no position to be pointing fingers."

21

HISTORY (8)
Suldae Westwind

GM: (Roll a thieves' tools check, Marcus)

Suldae Westwind: (DOES Suldae know that?)

Marcus Veranius:

19

Thieves Tools (11)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (hey so who has and has not used bardic insp
)

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus is holding onto one use)

Suldae Westwind: (gotcha)

Marcus Veranius: (I need it. Sorry)

GM: (Suldae has read it, yes, and has some strong opinions on it probably. That author is known for her total endorsement of an "order of life" schema that puts predators at the top of everything. Vampires, from this schema, are a higher order of life, and thus morally obligated to control the herd-like lower forms and to use their blood so long as it can be obtained with minimal cruelty.)

Suldae Westwind: "Yeeees," Suldae draws out.

Escher: "Oh, you have! How wonderful! What did you think?"

Suldae Westwind: Her tone says everything she thinks about that.

Escher: "I find her prose a bit challenging, from time to time."

Escher seems to be very tone-deaf.

Surprising, for a musician.

Suldae Westwind: "I think it says that vampire hunters are the apex form of life?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Sounds Stupid" Henry says going solely of the authors name

Suldae Westwind: "Predators of predators and all that."

"I mean, you asked."

Marcus manages to jam the trap so that the doors will not open.

Escher: "Yes, I quite liked that bit. Rather made me feel better about the unfortunate necessities of my diet."

"I'm sure you understand."

Marcus Veranius: "Safe."

Escher: "Oh, have you found the trap? My, you are all so skilled. I have rarely had the pleasure of leading adventurers so capable."

Suldae Westwind: "I think it's stupid," Suldae says honestly.

Marcus Veranius continues while Suldae debates

Escher: "Well, I suppose one should not expect academic brilliance from short-lived mortals," says Escher, with a sigh. "Still, it is good to know that she is still being read, and that I am not entirely behind the times. One so rarely gets new books, here."

Suldae Westwind: "Also, I'm sure you have a plan for not being evil after Strahd can no longer provide for your unfortunate necessities, right?" she adds lightly.

"Apex predator you're not."

Escher: "Oh," says Escher.

"Oh no, goodness me... I had given it no thought."

Suldae Westwind: "I'm sure you will," Suldae says as she follows him closely.

Escher: "How troubling... Yes, I suppose if you do manage to kill him, I shall have to find another means of sustaining myself..."

"No matter. You will not slay him. No one has yet. I'm convinced it's quite impossible."

Suldae Westwind: "Well we'll just have to see, right?"

"I'm sure this is as good a way to pass your time as any, in either case."

Marcus Veranius: (anyone else lose the lights?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Everything is impossible until someone does it" Henry says offhandily tightneing his belt

Suldae Westwind: (ye it sure is dark suddenly)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (ye)

Suldae Westwind: (can see again)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (it's his brooding room of cause it's dark and moody)

GM: (Sorry, they've changed the way you set it up in the settings. Two incompatible systems, now.)

(I think I've got it set right now.)

Escher opens the door.

Escher: "Oh, you'll want to be on your toes. No telling what he may have brought down here. He often has his honor guard rest here, when he is brooding."

"I'm afraid I can't give you specific numbers, I've never bothered to count how many of us he maintains. He keeps some of us from the others, too, which does make things more complicated."

Vampire Spawn: "HISS!"

Marcus Veranius: "...you'll want to stand back."

"15 feet minimum."

Vampire Spawn: A pale vampire-spawn lunges for the first living person to step through the door.

Escher: "Duly noted," says Escher, swooping away.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Unfortunately for them first one is Henry

Vampire Spawn:

CLAWS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 12 | 19

Damage: 11 slashing
Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the target, escape DC 13.

CLAWS
Vampire Spawn

Attack: 20 | 26

Damage: 8 + 5 slashing
Instead of dealing damage,
the vampire can grapple the
target, escape DC 13.

The Vampire Spawn rakes its claws across Henry's shield, then stabs them into a gap in his armor, drawing blood. It licks its fingers, growling like a beast.

Suldae Westwind: (wow)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE
Vampire

Initiative: 9

Suldae Westwind: (whats Henry's AC by the way? XD)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Ghost

Initiative: 17

INITIATIVE
Banshee

Initiative: 9

Henry of Willowsbrook: (25)

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Giant Wolf Spider

Initiative: 17

Marcus Veranius:

26

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

6.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 11.15

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE
Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 13

INITIATIVE
Rictavio

Initiative: 14

GM: (Looks like Marcus is up first)

Marcus Veranius lights the sunsword and charges in

GM: (Wait, didn't have Henry have something that meant he couldn't be surprised?)

(That came up earlier, what was the wording of the feature?)

(That vampire spawn attack may not have been kosher)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Can be surprised yes loun stone of awareness)

GM: (In that case, that move wasn't kosher, so you weren't damaged)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Unseen Attackers still would have advantage so your call if the spawn was stealthy)

GM: (Oh, it has advantage for other reasons)

Tops K.: "You can't be surprised while this dark blue rhomboid orbits your head."

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so did I get hit or not?)

GM: (Yup, so the surprise attack was illegal, so you were not hit)

(I've already removed the damage)

Tops K.: (Dunno if that means the surprise attack is canceled, but if it is then Marcus has advantage for attacking something that hasn't acted)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (k)

GM: (I'm interpreting it as a canceled attack, yes, so Marcus has advantage)

Tops K.:

12

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant/Fire

20

Radiant

rolling 1d20+10

(15)+10

= 25

11

28

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

11

Radiant/Fire

21

Radiant

GM: (That's a miss)

(no just kidding)

Tops K.: (That enough to finish it?)

GM: (Pretty close, but not quite)

Tops K.:

27

19

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

14

Radiant/Fire

24

Radiant

GM: (It'll die at the start of its turn though, due to the radiance)

(Oh too late lol)

(Now it's dead)

Tops K. swings around Henry and fires three beams of light into the vampire spawn as he charges into the room

Marcus Veranius does this why did Roll20 reset my token

GM (GM):

INITIATIVE

Hell Hound

Initiative: 12

Marcus Veranius retreats

Marcus Veranius: "I couldn't see anything."

[EoT]

The ghost of a huge, rotund nobleman comes hurtling through the wall nearby. A pair of strange wings seems to be attached to him, and in a ghostly wail, he says: "I can fly! I can fly!"

Escher: "Oh, it's Prince Ariel du Plumette."

"He seems upset."

Ghost:

HORRIFYING VISAGE

Ghost

Each non-undead creature within 60 ft. of the ghost that can see it must succeed on a DC 13 Wisdom saving throw or be frightened for 1 minute. If the save fails by 5 or more, the target also ages 1d4 x 10 years. A frightened target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the frightened condition on itself on a success. If a target's saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the target is immune to this ghost's Horrifying Visage for the next 24 hours. The aging effect can be reversed with a greater restoration spell, but only within 24 hours of it occurring.

The ghost transforms into a howling monster of twisted psychic forms.

Suldae Westwind:

21

WISDOM SAVE (3)
Suldae Westwind

Henry of Willowsbrook:

19 + 4

WISDOM SAVE (6)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (I don't think Suldae can see the ghost from where she's standing)

Suldae Westwind: (it was next to her previously?)

GM: (Come to think of it, I'm pretty sure only Henry can. Escher must have seen it while it was flying.)

Marcus Veranius:

23 + 3 | 15 + 3

WISDOM SAVE (7)
Marcus Veranius

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae has darkvision, just to rmeind)

GM: (At any rate, y'all resist it)

(I know, but the angles mean the ghost has total cover from her point of view)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i mean on the way there)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I basically rolled against ageing since Henry has an Anti fear aura

Suldae Westwind: (i just dont want to give up on my temporary immunity lmao)

GM: (Lol)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

AURA OF COURAGE*Class: Paladin 10*

Starting at 10th level, you and friendly creatures within 10 feet of you can't be Frightened while you are conscious.

At 18th level, the range of this aura increases to 30 feet.

GM: (Suldae is up)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae cannot see shit from this corner but she can see SOMETHING's there, so she moves over, motioning for the vampire asshole to go somewhere else

The halo screams to life.

26

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

18

Thunder

(im assuming this hit)

(can the halo target targets Suldae cannot see?)

GM: (At disadvantage, as long as she knows roughly the area where it is by some other means)

Suldae Westwind: (alright then Suldae just moves until she can see the ghost)

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

(hit, right?)

GM: (Yes, that's a hit)

Suldae Westwind:

32

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16 + 11

Thunder

(back to the first target)

The halo's does not seem to hurt the ghost very much. (Resistance to thunder damage)

Suldae Westwind: (well it makes for a fine bounce target)

GM: (Lol that is true)

Suldae Westwind: (that thing isnt dead yet right? btw what is it, vampire spawn or?)

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16
Thunder

(ghost)

17

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

17
Thunder

(first target)

GM: (It is not dead yet, and it is a vampire spawn, yes)

(You're bouncing it off Escher?)

Suldae Westwind: (no, that was the first location where Suldae was)

(when she first threw it)

(Escher should have moved away anyway)

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15
Thunder

(does this hit?)

GM: (Yes, sorry)

(My grandma needed something)

Suldae Westwind: (mood)

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13
Thunder

GM: (Hit and still alive)

Suldae Westwind:

19

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13
Thunder

GM: (Hit and still alive)

Suldae Westwind: (ghost)

29

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

19
Thunder

(vamp)

GM: (Hit and dead)

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

21
Thunder

(ghost)

GM: (Hit but still alive)

Suldae Westwind: (well I don't have any more bounce targets so that's it lmao)

GM: (So that was your bonus action, I think)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae steps back.

Ah, but not before she lights the ghost on fire, you're right.

Ghost:

DEXTERITY
Ghost

Ability: 7 | 7

Suldae Westwind:

DC19

Dexterity Save

8
Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

Suldae's fleeter on her feet than she'd been before, since she read the book. It's as if it opened her eyes to reality in an entirely new way, making what was an obstacle before a gust of wind now.

(sorry Escher, you're gonna have to keep moving lmao)

In a blaze of thunder and flame, Suldae announces the party's position to the entirety of what sounds like a very large chamber, evaporating a ghost and a vampire spawn in the process. The darkness chitters with many sounds, and you hear the sound of tombstone slabs sliding open all around you. The light of the Sword will draw them, even as it burns them. Things are coming.

Suldae Westwind: Boom, fuckers.

Ghost:

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 20

Vampire:

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 8
--

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 20

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 19

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 24

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 13

Vampire:

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 8
--

INITIATIVE Vampire  Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE Vampire

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE Vampire

Initiative: 5

INITIATIVE Vampire

Initiative: 7

INITIATIVE Vampire

Initiative: 23

Vampire:

INITIATIVE Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE Phantom Warrior

Initiative: 18

INITIATIVE Imp

Initiative: 9

INITIATIVE Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 15

INITIATIVE Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 21

INITIATIVE Vampire Spawn

Initiative: 19

Escher: "Now hang on a minute! I'm claiming them, got it?"

Escher shouts this to the darkness, which echoes for a long time in listening silence.

"Right, I'm still a big favorite around here, and don't you forget it."

"I'll be taking the credit, thank you very much, and you won't be interfering."

"You know how the master likes it. Just bar the exit."

The darkness echoes with movement.

You see the flickering red of many staring eyes, watching, letting you know they are there.

Suldae Westwind: "...Works, thanks."

The tomb in front of Suldae opens, and a vampire male steps out, his head scraping the low ceiling, a silver longsword in one hand.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae stares at him skeptically, evaluating his aestheteic.

Further down the hall, other vampires are emerging where the party can see them. They watch, making no movement.

Escher: "Right." Escher pops his collar slightly, stiffening out the points. "That's better."

"Now, if you please. It's this way."

Marcus Veranius dims the sunsword as to not disturb the horde

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So do we have to deal with all of them after we killed Strahd? Because that might take a while" Henry asks quietly Escher stops before a closed portcullis in the northern wall.

Suldae Westwind: "One thing at a time," Suldae mutters to him.

Escher: "As I said, it's highly unlikely that you will succeed in killing him. I would suggest you take the advice of your friend here, and not worry about it. Since it's unlikely to matter."

"Ahem," says Escher, leaning on the bars. He puts his forehead to a gap between the bars of the portcullis and croons into the dark tomb. "I have a present for you, my master. Precious life, and just the kind you like."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Strahd! Open this fucking gate and let us get on with it, I tire of hacking through your pawns" Henry shouts intent on not entertaining the slightest bit of theater from Strahd anymore

The portcullis rattles open.

White marble steps descend to a tomb that has a vaulted ceiling thirty feet overhead. A stillness—a calm amid the storm—is felt here. In the center of the tomb, a white marble slab supports an intricately inlaid coffin. Chiseled into the slab is a name: Sergei von Zarovich. To the north, behind the coffin, are three alcoves. A beautifully carved statue stands in each alcove—a stunning young man flanked by two angels—looking as polished and new as the day each was placed there. An iron lever protrudes from the south wall, west of the tomb's entrance.

Seated on top of the coffin, surrounded by Kasimir, Ismark, Ezmerelda, and Gertruda, is Strahd von Zarovich. They sit casually, almost posed, all of them looking placidly in your direction. Fang markings are visible on their necks.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "'re on ou... way... hold on..."

Marcus, and only Marcus, hears this transmission through the Ring.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hiere... es like a maniac..."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, seeing this, glances at Marcus.

Being aware of the ring's existence and all.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Greetings, my friends."

"I believe I have some things that you have lost."

"I have not wholly turned them, no—not yet. But I will. Their condition is yet reversible."

"Won't you come in, and discuss terms in a civilized manner?"

Escher: "I brought them, my master. I hope you are pleased?"

Strahd von Zarovich: "More than pleased, Escher. I am overjoyed."

"This has been too long in coming..."

Marcus Veranius steps forward

Suldae Westwind: "Now fuck off," Suldae advises him quietly.

This is honestly in his best interest, while at the same time one less vampire for them to fight. Win-win.

Escher: "I think I shall observe from... The top of the stairs, yes. Right here."

"I shan't be in the way."

Marcus Veranius looks Strahd up and down, beak bobbing as he does so

Strahd von Zarovich: "You stay out of it, Escher. You're bound only to complicate matters."

Marcus Veranius: "Same as the day we first met. Do you remember Strahd? A month ago at that miserable little house."

Strahd von Zarovich: "No, it is not the same," says Strahd, very seriously.

"You have shattered my world."

"I intend to make myself thoroughly even."

"But I see also the wisdom of survival."

Suldae Westwind: "Seriously, get out of the blast radius," Suldae mumbles to the guy. "Climb a coffin or something," she jabs her thumb backwards.

Marcus Veranius: "Maybe not the same circumstances, but the same man before me."

"Maybe it's the perspective of a shoemaker, but you can tell a lot of someone by how they wear their boots."

Escher: "Oh, whispers Escher, and he flies backwards, ducking behind a wall.

Marcus Veranius: "Do you want to know what your boots say about you, Strahd?"

Suldae Westwind: ...and then there's Marcus. Suldae actually wants to know what Strahd's boots say about him.

Also, she now wants talking boots.

Strahd von Zarovich: "I'm listening."

Suldae Westwind: Preferably on someone else's feet, though.

Marcus Veranius: "Fine leather, nothing but that reserved for those of nobility. Golden alloy clasps thoroughly shined. Heal square and unscathed. The kind of art a finest tradesman put heart and soul into."

"Every statue and art piece shows you in those boots."

"And they're picture perfect to the original."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Please, I weary of your clever mouth. Bring it to the point."

Marcus Veranius: "But that's the rub. No wear and tear. These are boots that have never seen the road. Never tasted the fields of battle."

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's eyes flicker dangerously into little whirlpools of crimson flame.

Marcus Veranius: "As in all things, you are a fraud. A spoiled child who's never done his own work, relying on minions and mother to do your bidding."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Never seen battle, hmm?"

Strahd gets to his feet and steps down from the plinth. Standing between Ismark and Ezmerelda, he lets his fingers trail through their hair.

"I have trod the bones of my enemies underfoot since I was a boy."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is actively letting Marcus handle this.

Illusions are a thing!

Strahd von Zarovich: "And yet my boots remain unscuffed, untarnished, after centuries upon centuries of brutal use."

"Do you know what that says about me, Marcus?"

Suldae Westwind: She quietly chugs a potion while she's got time.

Strahd von Zarovich: "It says I am a spellcaster."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shifts his stance minutely using his Divine Sense to check if this Strahd is Real

Marcus Veranius: "And what spells do you have today? Illusions I see."

Strahd disappears into a rippling cloak of perfect darkness. Gertruda, Ismark, Ezmerelda, and Kasimir stand up and walk to predetermined positions in the room.

Henry of Willowsbrook:DIVINE SENSEClass: Paladin 1

As an action, until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any celestial, fiend, or undead within 60 feet of you that is not behind total cover. You know the type of any being whose presence you sense, but not its identity. Within the same radius, you also detect the presence of any place or object that has been consecrated or desecrated. You can use this feature a number of times equal to 1 + your Charisma modifier. When you finish a long rest, you regain all expended uses.

Strahd von Zarovich: "I see you have seen through my ruse, and thus it serves no further purpose."Marcus Veranius: "On the contrary, it DOES serve a purpose."Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd pulls a sword that is three swords vibrating in place from the sheath at his back, and all four of your companions transform.Marcus Veranius: "It shows that you are Afraid."

"Desperate to use guile to be my better."

"Your magic, you fear it wont be enough."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is loving this.Marcus Veranius: "I'm the variable none of your conquests have seen."Suldae Westwind: Especially now that the illusions are gone. She likes htat part.

"Enough," says Strahd. Two walls of invisible force ripple into place, turning the chamber into a narrow hall.

"Come and face me."

GM: (Aaaand scene)

Suldae Westwind: (can we level up 9.9)

GM: (I have to end the session here, I'm afraid)

(Yes, you can level up)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah i was going to ask for it actually)Henry of Willowsbrook: Damn it I was just typing somethingSuldae Westwind: (zzzz time work tomorrow etc)

GM: (Lmaooooo)

Suldae Westwind: (finish typing it nothings stopping you)

GM: (Please finish what you were typing!)

The vampires revealed by the illusion stand around fountains full of steaming blood, behind their walls of force.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry Looks at Marcus from the corner of his eye "I know you were on a roll right now and I applaud you, great monologe really got the fire burning" his glance shifts ahead "Buuuuut!" Henrys legs tense as he makes himself ready to dash forward "I. Call. Dips."

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 10.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 21.18

Henry of Willowsbrook: rolling d10

(2)

= 2

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 15.18

INITIATIVE
Vampire Spellcaster
Initiative: 24.18

INITIATIVE
Strahd von Zarovich
Initiative: 16

INITIATIVE
Ezmerelda Veranius
Initiative: 23

INITIATIVE
Ismark Kolyanovich
Initiative: 4

INITIATIVE
Kasimir Velikov

Initiative: 19

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE

Gertruda

Initiative: 6

Suldae Westwind: Suldae's initiative is 8.15

Roll for HP

Roll 1:	8
---------	---

Henry of Willowsbrook:*6.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

rolling 1d8

(2)

= 2

(Henry's Initiative despite calling d8 is 8)

Marcus Veranius:*27

INITIATIVE (8)
Marcus Veranius

Zanshuken:*16.1

INITIATIVE (1.1)
Henry of Willowsbrook

rolling d8

(5)

= 5

21 now

Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE

Ireena Kolyana

Initiative: 11

INITIATIVE

Rictavio

Initiative: 13

Roll for HP

Roll 1: 5

Suldae Westwind:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Destructive Wave

Evocation 5

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Target: Each creature you choose

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

You strike the ground, creating a burst of divine energy that ripples outward from you. Each creature you choose within 30 feet of you must succeed on a Constitution saving throw or take 5d6 thunder damage, as well as 5d6 radiant or necrotic damage (your choice), and be knocked prone. A creature that succeeds on its saving throw takes half as much damage and isn't knocked prone.

DC19

Half damage and not knocked prone.

Dexterity Save

17 thunder

500000
0 necrotic or radiant

Self (30-foot radius)

Destructive Wave

Suldae Westwind

oops

DC19

Half damage and not knocked prone.

Dexterity Save

17 thunder

16 necrotic or radiant

Self (30-foot radius)

Destructive Wave

Suldae Westwind

Abjuration 3

Components: V, S, M

None Spell Attack. self, one creature of your choice that you can see within range.

15

necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference

Suldae Westwind

Suldae Westwind:

You sacrifice some of your health to mend another creature's injuries. You take 4d8 necrotic damage, and one creature of your choice that you can see within range regains a number of hit points equal to twice the necrotic damage you take +5.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd, and the healing additionally increases by 1 point for each slot level above 3rd.

16

necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference

Suldae Westwind

You sacrifice some of your health to mend another creature's injuries. You take 4d8 necrotic damage, and one creature of your choice that you can see within range regains a number of hit points equal to twice the necrotic damage you take +5.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd, and the healing additionally increases by 1 point for each slot level above 3rd.

24

necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference

Suldae Westwind

You sacrifice some of your health to mend another creature's injuries. You take 4d8 necrotic damage, and one creature of your choice that you can see within range regains a number of hit points equal to twice the necrotic damage you take +5.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd, and the healing additionally increases by 1 point for each slot level above 3rd.

26

Higher Level Cast

23

necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference
Suldae Westwind

GM (GM):

I AM THE ANCIENT

Strahd causes a creature loyal to himself to take the damage instead of himself. Any vampire or vampire spawn he can see can be the recipient of this damage. If this damage kills the recipient, any leftover damage is applied to Strahd. Strahd can use this ability only three times per day.

Feck

You didn't see that

Goddammit R20

Guess that's an ability I have to scrap now

Tops K.: Didnt see what?

GM (GM): Good answer

Tops K.: rolling 2d8 Hitpoints

(1 + 1)

= 2

Well that's unfortunate

GM (GM): You can take average instead

Tops K.: Lets hope that luck doesnt carry over to game...

Liliet (Suldae):

Roll for HP

Roll 1:	3
---------	----------

...taking the average

Average for HP

Average:	5
----------	----------

Zanshiken:

rolling d10

(10)

= 10

Strahd waits at the far end of the hall, his strange sword dancing in his hand, his crimson eyes flickering from Henry to Marcus as they enter the room. On both sides, behind their walls of force, four identical male vampires stand in two separate pairs, each standing by a fountain of welling, glowing blood.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry rockets forth his magically enhanced strength letting him close the distance at almost blinding speed.

Liliet (Suldae): (what was our initiative/plan situation)

(Suldae can cast Telepathic Bond now)

Tops K.: (Lights are kill)

Liliet (Suldae): (GM can she have cast it right before the battle starts. After the mana potion)

Suldae Westwind: (cannot see anything wher we are)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM is turning off dynamic lighting?)

GM: (Sorry, I figured that would save some PC resources for everybody) (is that better?)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah but i still cant see the hall where the vampires are) (nor magnus or anyone else in it that isnt a token i control)
(now i can see it!!!)

GM: (We can say you cast Telepathic Bond before the battle, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (TY)

Telepathic Bond

Divination 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Up to eight willing creatures of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (Pieces of eggshell from two different kinds of creatures)

Duration: 1 hour

You forge a telepathic link among up to eight willing creatures of your choice within range, psychically linking each creature to all the others for the duration. Creatures with Intelligence scores of 2 or less aren't affected by this spell. Until the spell ends, the targets can communicate telepathically through the bond whether or not they have a common language. The communication is possible over any distance, though it can't extend to other planes of existence.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry draws Wudxt and the Vorpalsword begins to glow with a faint emerald glow as he unleashes 4 Strikes at the Devil Strahd

(4 attacks with action surge and fighting Spirit for advantage)

25

32

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11

*Radiant Smite Damage/Undead
Smite/Radiant*

19

Slashing

26

31

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

23

*Radiant Smite Damage/Undead
Smite/Radiant*

18

Slashing

34

21

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

18

*Radiant Smite Damage/Undead
Smite/Radiant*

19

Slashing

36

20

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

11*Radiant Smite Damage/Undead
Smite/Radiant19SlashingHenry of Willowsbrook: 73 radiant + 75 slashing

(I assume all 4 connect?)

Strahd von Zarovich:*BOUNDARIES

If a creature steps into Strahd's reach, Strahd takes one unarmed strike against them, attempting to grapple.

UNARMED STRIKE
(VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)Strahd von ZarovichAttack: 19

Damage: 7 bludgeoning +
12 necrotic

If the target is a creature, Strahd can grapple it (escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning damage.

They do all connect

He tries to grapple you, but you break his grasp effortlessly.

"Oof!"GM: (Please RP your swings)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings twice racking an X across Strahd's chest holy light glimmering of his sword's edge before swinging for his neck or at least his mouth. That should shut him up for a moment before he reforms his jaw. Henry after the last swing finds his target stands before Strahd, his normally blue eyes glowing a vibrant green "Oh You can not fathom how much I was looking forward to this" He points his sword at Strahd "Have at thee vile bastard, your day of reckoning has arrived"

Sulda Westwind: Sulda notices the lever and telepathically requests Rictavio to close the grate after they all go in - there are a few too many undead at their back for her liking.

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

Sulda Westwind: Sulda takes a step forward, pulling Ireena with her, and whispers a short rhyme.

Strahd von Zarovich: Twisted halfway around, torn apart by the arcane blade, Strahd von Zarovich just barely holds himself together.

Sulda Westwind: (one sec can't find the spell)

*a short prayer

Warding Bond*Abjuration 2Casting Time: 1 actionRange: TouchTarget: A willing creature you touchComponents: V, S, M (A pair of platinum rings worth at least 50 gp each, which you and the target must wear for the duration)Duration: 1 hour

This spell wards a willing creature you touch and creates a mystic connection between you and the target until the spell ends. While the target is within 60 feet of you, it gains a +1 bonus to AC and saving throws, and it has resistance to all damage. Also, each time it takes damage, you take the same amount of damage. The spell ends if you drop to 0 hit points or if you and the target become separated by more than 60 feet. It also ends if the spell is cast again on either of the connected creatures. You can also dismiss the spell as an action.

Strahd von Zarovich:STRIKEStrahd von Zarovich

Strahd makes one attack with a melee weapon or one unarmed attack.

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)Strahd von ZarovichAttack: 27

Damage: 15 Slashing + 13 Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Suldae Westwind: oof

Strahd von Zarovich: His crimson eyes brim with wild hate. He is a cornered beast, and he will fight to the bitter end, whether he can speak without his jaw or not. He reaches into the darkness of his cloak and draws out a black blade and swings it once, never touching it with his hand, and sending it back into the darkness of his cape an instant later.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so Strahd has 30 Strength good to know)

Strahd von Zarovich: (1 of 3 Legendary actions used)

Suldae Westwind: The halo thrums to life.

21

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

16

Thunder

Henry of Willowsbrook: (or he rolls to hit like he has 30 Strength to be clear)

Suldae Westwind: (does that hit the fucker)

GM: (No)

Suldae Westwind: welp

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So he attacked Henry right?)

Suldae Westwind: EoT

GM: (That was a legendary action to attack Henry, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (took some of Ireena's movement draggin her with me)

Marcus Veranius: Marcus knew what weapon danced within the count's hands; a sibling sword to his own with the selfsame power. Intending to counter kin with kin, the wereraven swordsman would charge forward and bathe this darkest chamber in sunlight.

The sunsword would take what shapes Marcus needed; a Lance to skewer the count, an axe to sunder his blade, a bow to place an arrow of his bane, and a beam for good measure.

Strahd von Zarovich:

LEGENDARY REACTIONS:

Strahd can take three reactions each round. As his health gets lower, that number will increase.

Marcus Veranius:*21*29

10

Sun-Lance (+13)
Marcus Veranius12Radiant/Fire17RadiantStrahd von Zarovich:*BOUNDARIES

If a creature steps into Strahd's reach, Strahd takes one unarmed strike against them, attempting to grapple.

UNARMED STRIKE
(VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)
*Strahd von ZarovichAttack: 34*Damage: 8 bludgeoning +
15 necrotic

If the target is a creature, Strahd can grapple it (escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning damage.

Marcus Veranius: (Das a hit)Strahd von Zarovich: As soon as Marcus comes within range, Strahd's hand snatches out and clutches him by the throat.Suldae Westwind: wait, if it's a lance,GM: (You can still use an action to try to escape---it's still your turn)Marcus Veranius: Held in place or free, the sun would not yield and neither would its wielderHenry of Willowsbrook: (Remember your resitances folks I almost forgot our Armor gives Necrotic resitance)Marcus Veranius: (Yo I hit the wrong button for Lance, Lemme hit the right one)

GM: (Oh go ahead sorry)

Marcus Veranius:

14

22

10 (20 ft charge)

>Charge (Sun-Lance) (+13)
Marcus Veranius

DC19

The creature is not knocked prone.

Strength Save

If you move at least 20 feet straight toward a creature before hitting it with a Sun-Lance attack, the target takes an extra 1d12 damage and must make a Strength saving throw. On a failure, the target falls prone.

>A prone creature's only Movement option is to crawl, unless it stands up and thereby ends the condition.

>The creature has disadvantage on Attack rolls.

>An Attack roll against the creature has advantage if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature. Otherwise, the Attack roll has disadvantage.

11

Radiant/Fire

23

Radiant

GM: (If it's a lance, doesn't it have the reach property?)

Marcus Veranius: (It does, but Marcus is entering Melee for followup attacks)

GM: (Strahd only has 5 feet of reach)

(So your attack could hit him before he attempts to grapple)

Marcus Veranius: (Have Strahd roll a save for prone, and disadvantage on Grapple if he fails)

Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 27

Marcus Veranius: (Then Marcus is still grappled)

Undeterred, his weapon becomes an axe of sunlight and attempts to strike the arm wielding its sibling sword.

33

16

Sun-Axe (+13)
Marcus Veranius

13 + 5
Radiant/Fire

18 + 11
Radiant

When you score a critical hit against a creature, that target takes an extra 4d6 cold damage, and you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to the cold damage dealt.

10
Cold

Critical Fury
Marcus Veranius

21

15

>Sundering Strike (Sun-Axe)
(+13)
Marcus Veranius

As part of the attack action, make a single attack roll with your Sun-Axe against a creature wielding a weapon, including natural weapons. If the attack hits, the weapon is damaged, and all attacks made with this weapon have disadvantage. Another sundering strike destroys the weapon. This attack has no effect on magical weapons, unless your Sun-Axe is also magical.

(Gunna put precision on that for good measure)

Marcus Veranius:

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

1
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

...22 to hit with the weapon-shatter

Strahd von Zarovich: [Alas, a miss]

[But the first hit was a definite hit]

Marcus Veranius: Maintaining the swing's velocity, Marcus pulls back the sword and forms a bow. He lets loose an arrow formed of the blood of his sworn enemy to dissolve its master in life.

17 | 22
600 ft

Dragontooth Arrow (+15)
Marcus Veranius

While stuck within an enemy, they continue to pump acidic venom with every round. For each round they remain stuck in an enemy, the enemy takes 1d6 acid damage. This damage increases by 1d6 with every round. (Round 1: 1d6. Round 2: 2d6. Round 3: 3d6.) There is no upper cap on this damage. Removing the arrow requires a strength save with a DC equal to the attack roll which embedded the arrow in the victim's flesh.

12
Radiant/Fire
10 | 11
Radiant | Acid

(Precision on this too)

When you make a weapon attack roll against a creature, you can expend one superiority die to add it to the roll. You can use this maneuver before or after making the attack roll, but before any effects of the attack are applied.

7
Bonus Accuracy

[Precision Attack]
Marcus Veranius

29 to hit / Removal DC

And with arrow loosed, Marcus holds the sword straight out. One beam of sunlight to the chest aimed for cursed heart.

Marcus Veranius:

25 | 17
120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)
(+10)
Marcus Veranius

11
Radiant/Fire

23
Radiant

3
Bonus Damage

Dread Ambusher
Marcus Veranius

Marcus holds out for his strikes to hold true.

[EoT]

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd takes it all: the axe upon his arm, the arrow deep into his chest, the bolt of sunlight to where his heart should be. It burns in his chest like flaming coals behind his ribs, but it only makes the crimson fire of his eyes glow brighter. He squeezes Marcus's neck very tightly through it all, and does not release his hold.

Jawless, he can only project his hate through his blazing eyes, and he does so.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae had asked Rictavio to close the door after them telepathically)
(Remidner that the entire party can communicate telepathically right now)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CAST Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Strahd casts one spell.
--

GM: (Legendary Action at the end of Marcus's action: 2 of 3 used)

Strahd von Zarovich:

Dominate Person

Enchantment 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A humanoid that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You attempt to beguile a humanoid that you can see within range. It must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for the duration. If you or creatures that are friendly to you are fighting it, it has advantage on the saving throw. While the target is charmed, you have a telepathic link with it as long as the two of you are on the same plane of existence. You can use this telepathic link to issue commands to the creature while you are conscious (no action required), which it does its best to obey. You can specify a simple and general course of action, such as “Attack that creature,” “Run over there,” or “Fetch that object.” If the creature completes the order and doesn't receive further direction from you, it defends and preserves itself to the best of its ability. You can use your action to take total and precise control of the target. Until the end of your next turn, the creature takes only the actions you choose, and doesn't do anything that you don't allow it to do. During this time you can also cause the creature to use a reaction, but this requires you to use your own reaction as well. Each time the target takes damage, it makes a new Wisdom saving throw against the spell. If the saving throw succeeds, the spell ends. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a 6th-level spell slot, the duration is concentration, up to 10 minutes. When you use a 7th-level spell slot, the duration is concentration, up to 1 hour. When you use a spell slot of 8th level or higher, the duration is concentration, up to 8 hours.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry hits him as a reaction to casting

GM: (Go for it)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

30

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

5

Radiant

16

Slashing

MAGE SLAYER

Feat:

You have practiced techniques useful in melee combat against spellcasters, gaining the following benefits:

- When a creature within reach you can take opportunity attacks casts a spell, you can use your reaction to make a melee weapon attack against that creature.

- When you damage a creature that is concentrating on a spell, they have disadvantage on the saving throw it makes to maintain concentration.

- You have advantage on saving against spells cast by creatures with your reach.

Suldae Westwind: (the melee attack does not itself disrupt the spell, right?)
(or does he immediately need to roll Concentration with disadvantage?)

Marcus Veranius: (It would force a concentration save at disadvantage)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CONSTITUTION
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 19 | 9

Henry of Willowsbrook: HA he needed a ten

Suldae Westwind: (lovin' this)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's eyes blaze with hate, and magic forms where his mouth would be, but a single moment later, Henry bonks the spell right out of his brain.

Strahd slowly turns his head back around to look at you with a ratcheting sound of dusty bones clicking, shattered, across each other.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sees the magic take form and rams his blade right trough it through

Strahd von Zarovich: [Oh right, you were using a sword, duh]
[Sorry]

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry shifts his stance slightly To show Strahd his shield hand and wags a finger at him

Suldae Westwind: Suldae mentally asks Ireena if she has anything that will help Henry... and particularly Marcus who is currently being held by his throat... in close combat.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena responds telepathically: "Oh! Haste! Duh!"

Haste
Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A willing creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A shaving of licorice root)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Choose a willing creature that you can see within range. Until the spell ends, the target's speed is doubled, it gains a +2 bonus to AC, it has advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and it gains an additional action on each of its turns. That action can be used only to take the Attack (one weapon attack only), Dash, Disengage, Hide, or Use an Object action. When the spell ends, the target can't move or take actions until after its next turn, as a wave of lethargy sweeps over it.

(On Henry)

Suldae Westwind: (so beautiful)

Rictavio: Telepathically: "I can't get to the lever! It's on the other side of the Wall of Force!"

Suldae Westwind: The spellcaster girlfriends stand plastered to the wall of the hallway, fingers interlinked, eyes on the fight, as they think coordination at each other.

Telepathically: "Alright, we'll handle it!"

(Will figure out next turn if Ireena or Suldae Mage Hands it)

Also telepathically: "Do something else useful then. Can you help Marcus and Henry? Ireena's hasted Henry!"

Rictavio: Seeing Marcus's condition, Rictavio shouts: "GET OFF HIM!"

He puts on an extra burst of speed and manages to grab Marcus by the scruff of his cloak, casting Freedom of Movement.

Freedom of Movement

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A leather strap, bound around the arm or a similar appendage)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a willing creature. For the duration, the target's movement is unaffected by difficult terrain, and spells and other magical effects can neither reduce the target's speed nor cause the target to be paralyzed or restrained.

The target can also spend 5 feet of movement to automatically escape from nonmagical restraints, such as manacles or a creature that has it grappled. Finally, being underwater imposes no penalties on the target's movement or attacks.

Suldae Westwind: (NICE!!!)

Marcus Veranius has ascended from lightsource to speed of light

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is... a little worried when she sees Rictavio charge forward towards the vampire, but okay then!

Rictavio: There is a flash of dazzling light, and Strahd's claws are forced apart, releasing Marcus.

Marcus Veranius slips out of the vampire's grasp, taking a breath of air as he prepares for the followup attack from Strahd.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd reaches out his hands, and swells, pulsing with blood. His jaw clicks back into place, even in the brilliant light of the Sunsword, even in Henry's aura. You see streamers of arcane power flying from the hands of the four vampire spellcasters, and by their power he is healed.

"My worthy opponents..."

80

Suldae Westwind: FUCKER

Marcus Veranius: Marcus's helmet shines through the room, dim light scorching the vampire even as he regenerates. Dark Power cannot stop the glow of radiance.

As long as it has at least one Diamond, The Helm of Brilliance emits dim light in a 30-foot radius when at least one Undead is within that area. Any Undead that starts its turn in that area takes 1d6 radiant damage.

4
Radiant

Diamond Brilliance
Marcus Veranius

Strahd von Zarovich: The glow is like a mild sunburn, but it counts.

[Don't forget the acid arrow venom—it will take effect on his turn]

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d6 Acid

(5)

= 5

Strahd von Zarovich:

MULTIATTACK (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd makes three attacks, uses his Shadow Step ability, and casts one spell.

"This will not be a long battle."

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 30 | 32

Damage: 16 Slashing + 15
Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 24 | 27

Damage: 12 Slashing + 22 Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 30 | 30

Damage: 16 Slashing +
14 Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

Suldae Westwind: REALLY need to do something about that sword

Marcus Veranius: (Who is Strahd hitting with these?)

Zanshuken: (who is he attacking?)

Strahd von Zarovich:

DC23

Dexterity Save

49

Lightning

150 feet

Chain Lightning

Strahd von Zarovich

He slashes three times with his blade of shadow, target Henry, then Marcus, then Henry again. He flings a finger, and looses a bolt of lightning from the tip. Then, with a twist of his heel and a turn of his cloak, he slips through his domain in an instant, in a flash of darkness, reappearing beyond the Wall of Force.

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Chain Lightning

Evocation 6

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 150 feet

Target: A target of your choice that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A bit of fur; a piece of amber, glass, or a crystal rod; and three silver pins)

Duration: Instantaneous

You create a bolt of lightning that arcs toward a target of your choice that you can see within range. Three bolts then leap from that target to as many as three other targets, each of which must be within 30 feet of the first target. A target can be a creature or an object and can be targeted by only one of the bolts. A target must make a Dexterity saving throw. The target takes 10d8 lightning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 7th level or higher, one additional bolt leaps from the first target to another target for each slot level above 6th.

[targeting Henry, Marcus, and Rictavio with the lightning bolts]

Suldae Westwind:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

Marcus Veranius: Marcus strikes back upon being hit, attempting to strike Strahd's sword wrist.

Knowing the sibling sword was likely his spell focus, this could shut down the remainder of Strahd's attack

17

23

Melee

Retaliation Fury (+13)
Marcus Veranius

When a creature you can see damages you, you can use your reaction to make a melee attack against that creature, with advantage on your attack roll.

9

Radiant

(No advantage, just 17 to hit)

(oof)

Suldae Westwind:

14

CHARISMA (6+2)
Suldae Westwind

(oof)

(so close)

Strahd von Zarovich: The sword Strahd is swinging is not in his hand; he swings it with a wave of a hand but it hangs in the air alone, as though bound to him by a spectral tether. Marcus's retaliation has no effect.

It is back in his cloak the moment he is done with his third swing.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae attempts to disrupt Strahd's casting, but her concentration slips for a moment.

Strahd von Zarovich: [need a DC 23 dex save from Henry and from Marcus for the lightning bolts]

Rictavio:

DEXTERITY

Rictavio

Ability: 16 | 11

Marcus Veranius:

16 + 3

13 + 3

DEXTERITY SAVE (11)

Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook:

18 + 4

5 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)

Henry of Willowsbrook

Marcus Veranius: The Scarab of Protection defends Marcus from his sworn enemy's attack

Henry of Willowsbrook: damage is halved due to HEnrys aura

Rictavio: [That's 49 points of lightning damage originally]

[So 24 points after halving]

Vampire Spellcaster: "He is the ancient, he is the land!" The Vampires chant around their glowing pools of blood, and the radiance of the Sunsword seems to be unable to harm them in the red glow of the fountains. As Strahd stands beside one fountain and his spellcasters chant their familiar dirge, he seems to swell in shadows and in power, his flesh mending before your eyes.

Strahd von Zarovich: "You see, Marcus. I am not without my surprises."

"I am no mere vampire to be slain by the rising of the sun!"

"I am the greatest lich in history!"

"And you have pestered me for the last time."

96

Ezmerelda Veranius: "...abe? Are you there? I think we're getting closer!"

"Hold still if you can hear us! It's a tricky landing!"

Marcus Veranius is running low on tricks. Spellcasters and their reality-bending...

Suldae Westwind: (While this is going on, so long as Ireena is concentrating on the Haste, Suldae asks her to take Mage Hand care of the lever.)

GM: (She'll have to do that on her turn)

Suldae Westwind: (yah)

(its for when that happens)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Hold still!"

"No, wait, not her too!"

FLASH!

A whirling disc of light appears above the group, and in an instant, Ismark, Kasimir, Ezmerelda, and Gertruda pop out of the strange warp. Then the hole in the universe vanishes.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Oh, hi guys! Who are we fighting?"

Gertruda: "AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAÄÄÄÄÄÄ!!!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Marcus! We're here!"

Marcus Veranius points to all the vampires in the immediate room

Marcus Veranius: "Hey Honey! We found Strahd!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "And his flunkies"

Marcus Veranius: "I think he's the real one this time cause he's lighting up like Festivus."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "That's cute. Henry, your hair is smoking."

Marcus Veranius: "...like festivos." Marcus mutters. Never go to a Veranius holiday party.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, honey."

Vampire Spellcaster: The Vampire spellcasters can be seen preparing magical spells to be released upon triggers only they could know. They are watching the party closely as their master drinks.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The pools heal him we need to take them out aswell as the walls"

Gertruda: "My prince! Help me! These people kidnapped me!"

Strahd von Zarovich: \em just laughs.

dammit

Strahd von Zarovich just laughs

Gertruda: Gertruda runs directly into a wall of force, and paws it at pathetically. "What is this? Has the world gone mad?"

Strahd von Zarovich: "My dear Gertruda. You should have stayed asleep."

CAST

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd casts one spell.

[Last legendary action]

Power Word Stun

Enchantment 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: One creature you can see within range

Components: VDuration: Instantaneous

You speak a word of power that can overwhelm the mind of one creature you can see within range, leaving it dumbfounded. If the target has 150 hit points or fewer, it is stunned. Otherwise, the spell has no effect. The stunned target must make a Constitution saving throw at the end of each of its turns. On a successful save, this stunning effect ends.

Gertruda: Gertruda staggers, and stands dumbfounded in place, swaying slightly, apparently seeing stars.

Suldae Westwind: ...She will be fine. Suldae hopes. She still feels kinda bad for having hurt her earlier and every thought about this girl just feels sociopathic... but Strahd might have just done them a favor.

Kasimir Velikov:

Arcane Hand*Evocation 5Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 120 feetTarget: An unoccupied space that you can see within rangeComponents: V, S, M (An eggshell and a snakeskin glove)Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You create a Large hand of shimmering, translucent force in an unoccupied space that you can see within range. The hand lasts for the spell's duration, and it moves at your command, mimicking the movements of your own hand. The hand is an object that has AC 20 and hit points equal to your hit point maximum. If it drops to 0 hit points, the spell ends. It has a Strength of 26 (+8) and a Dexterity of 10 (+0). The hand doesn't fill its space. When you cast the spell and as a bonus action on your subsequent turns, you can move the hand up to 60 feet and then cause one of the following effects with it. Clenched Fist. The hand strikes one creature or object within 5 feet of it. Make a melee spell attack for the hand using your game statistics. On a hit, the target takes 4d8 force damage. Forceful Hand. The hand attempts to push a creature within 5 feet of it in a direction you choose. Make a check with the hand's Strength contested by the Strength (Athletics) check of the target. If the target is Medium or smaller, you have advantage on the check. If you succeed, the hand pushes the target up to 5 feet plus a number of feet equal to five times your spellcasting ability modifier. The hand moves with the target to remain within 5 feet of it. Grasping Hand. The hand attempts to grapple a Huge or smaller creature within 5 feet of it. You use the hand's Strength score to resolve the grapple. If the target is Medium or smaller, you have advantage on the check. While the hand is grappling the target, you can use a bonus action to have the hand crush it. When you do so, the target takes bludgeoning damage equal to 2d6 + your spellcasting ability modifier. Interposing Hand. The hand interposes itself between you and a creature you choose until you give the hand a different command. The hand moves to stay between you and the target, providing you with half cover against the target. The target can't move through the hand's space if its Strength score is less than or equal to the hand's Strength score. If its Strength score is higher than the hand's Strength score, the target can move toward you through the hand's space, but that space is difficult terrain for the target. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, the damage from the clenched fist option increases by 2d8 and the damage from the grasping hand increases by 2d6 for each slot level above 5th.

Suldae Westwind: crush Strahd?

grapple and crush

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir glances around the chamber swiftly, sizing up the situation. He tosses Gertruda over his shoulder, then turns and points his hand at Strahd. "You. You killed my sister! Today you die!"

Suldae Westwind: "Ismark," Suldae calls out meanwhile in a somewhat more subdued voice, "get Marcus to the fountain to the left"

Kasimir's power twists around Strahd, becoming a massive glowing hand of force.

The hand attempts to catch and crush Strahd... 23

Suldae Westwind: > If the target is Medium or smaller, you have advantage on the check.

With advantage... 14

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 19

"Aaargh! Unhand me!"

Suldae Westwind: (BEAUTIFUL)

Kasimir Velikov: "YOU KILLED PATRINA!"

Kasimir Velikov twists his hand into a crushing fist, and across the room Strahd von Zarovich is lifted into the air in a tightening grasp. 7

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "On it, Suldae!" Ismark gives Marcus a hug from behind, and the two of them disappear in a blast of crimson smoke.

Vampire Spellcaster: ...But a spell cracks the air!

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae has used her reaction for the turn)

(can another counterspeller handle this)

(im pretty sure "counterspell the counterspell" is valid)

GM: (It's totally valid)

Suldae Westwind: (oh also hte vampire should make the check first?)

the spell is lvl 4

Vampire Spellcaster:

INTELLIGENCE
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 17

Suldae Westwind: (alas)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's eyes flash, and the counterspell is counterspelled.

Ismark and Marcus arrive at their destination, and both of the vampire spellcasters on that side of the wall unleash the spells they prepared as ready actions.

Suldae Westwind: Magic crackles in the air, as the weave shakes back and forth in the contest of wills.

Vampire Spellcaster:

Misty Step

Conjuration 2

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Target: Self

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

Briefly surrounded by silvery mist, you teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space that you can see.

Marcus Veranius: (You cant ready action a bonus action spell)

Vampire Spellcaster:

Dimension Door

Conjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 500 feet

Target: See text

Components: V

Duration: Instantaneous

You teleport yourself from your current location to any other spot within range. You arrive at exactly the spot desired. It can be a place you can see, one you can visualize, or one you can describe by stating distance and direction, such as “200 feet straight downward” or “upward to the northwest at a 45-degree angle, 300 feet.” You can bring along objects as long as their weight doesn’t exceed what you can carry. You can also bring one willing creature of your size or smaller who is carrying gear up to its carrying capacity. The creature must be within 5 feet of you when you cast this spell. If you would arrive in a place already occupied by an object or a creature, you and any creature traveling with you each take 4d6 force damage, and the spell fails to teleport you.

[oops]

Marcus Veranius: (That one's good. BURN YOUR SPELL SLOTS)

Suldae Westwind: (oh my, this was the BEST order of doing things)

(...unless the other two also teleport away)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

Haste

Transmutation 3

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: A willing creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A shaving of licorice root)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Choose a willing creature that you can see within range. Until the spell ends, the target's speed is doubled, it gains a +2 bonus to AC, it has advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and it gains an additional action on each of its turns. That action can be used only to take the Attack (one weapon attack only), Dash, Disengage, Hide, or Use an Object action. When the spell ends, the target can't move or take actions until after its next turn, as a wave of lethargy sweeps over it.

Ezmerelda casts the Haste into their ring, granting its effects to both her and Marcus.

Strahd von Zarovich:

LAIR ACTION: SHADOW

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd targets one Medium or smaller creature that casts a shadow. The target's Shadow must be visible to Strahd. If the target fails a DC 20 Charisma saving throw, its shadow detaches from it and becomes a shadow that obeys Strahd's commands, acting on initiative count 20. A greater restoration spell or a remove curse cast on the target restores its natural shadow, but only if its undead shadow has been destroyed.

Kasimir's shadow wavers in the gaze of Strahd's glowing eyes...

Kasimir Velikov:*16*2*CHARISMA SAVE (0)

[Ooh]

Suldae Westwind:*FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY*Dimension DoorConjuration 4Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 500 feetTarget: See textComponents: VDuration: Instantaneous

You teleport yourself from your current location to any other spot within range. You arrive at exactly the spot desired. It can be a place you can see, one you can visualize, or one you can describe by stating distance and direction, such as “200 feet straight downward” or “upward to the northwest at a 45-degree angle, 300 feet.” You can bring along objects as long as their weight doesn’t exceed what you can carry. You can also bring one willing creature of your size or smaller who is carrying gear up to its carrying capacity. The creature must be within 5 feet of you when you cast this spell. If you would arrive in a place already occupied by an object or a creature, you and any creature traveling with you each take 4d6 force damage, and the spell fails to teleport you.

(sorry)

Marcus Veranius takes the vampire's absence as his cue to sabotage the fountainMarcus Veranius: He retrieves an Immovable Rod from his bag and shoves it into the fountain, button down, to permanently block its flowThe fountain burbles to a stop, and its glow begins to fade.Marcus Veranius: (Is the lever pulled? And did we need to pull it?)GM: (I think Ireena cast Haste instead?)

(Rictavio was going to do it, but he couldn't get through the wall of force)

Suldae Westwind: (Ireena cast Haste last turn)Marcus Veranius goes ahead and pulls the lever too

GM: (There's only been one round so far)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah sounds good)

With a clank and a rattle, the portcullis drops into place. Beyond it, many crimson eyes are watching.

Marcus Veranius: Lacking a better option, Marcus uses his non-haste action to drink his mana potion and recover some health with Second Wind

Gotta wait for the enemies to jump back over

On your turn, you can use a bonus action to regain hit points equal to 1d10 + your fighter level.

11

Radiant/Fire

6

Healing

Second Wind

Marcus Veranius

(There is no radiant or fire damage as part of this healing)

[EoT]

Suldae Westwind: Suldae dashes towards Henry and drags him into a Dismension Door with a very calculated targeting.

GM: (lmao)

Suldae Westwind: She'd quip about a multi-target environment but actually she's a little big scared shitless so she just lets her Halo do the talking for her.

Vampire Spellcaster:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

CHARISMA
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 20

Suldae Westwind:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

(Suldae's turn again means she gets her reaction back :))

GM: (This is correct :))

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Which one tried to Counterspell ?)

GM: (One of the fellas on the right)

(Oh wait)

(How many counterspells have I used, those DDs were reaction-cast as ready actions)

Marcus Veranius: (You've used one counterspell, one readied DD)

GM: (In that case, that was their last Counterspell until their next turn, when they get their reactions back)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry points his sword at the vampire that tried to disrupt them "Bad Call"

GM: (Oh wait, you're right, one of them teleported the other. So I still have one more Counterspell.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (No one used Misty step)

Suldae Westwind:

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

(Henry, they couldnt)

(Misty Step cannot be readied)

(hence the switch to DD)

does htis hit that vampire

GM: (It does)

Suldae Westwind:

31

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

14

Thunder

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I know but one misty step the other dd solo)

Suldae Westwind: (that couldnt happen, DM retconned the misty step)

Vampire Spellcaster:

CONSTITUTION
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 14

(Concentration check)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh my bad missed have skiped that line when I was catching up)

GM: (More Halo pls)

Suldae Westwind:

23

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

12

Thunder

GM: (Hit)

Suldae Westwind:

24

Halo throw (+12)

Suldae Westwind

18
Thunder

Vampire Spellcaster:

CONSTITUTION
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 14

Suldae Westwind:

16

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13
Thunder

(miss?)

GM: (Alas, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (rip)

EoT

GM: (Good show though)

(Henry, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae has no confidence in actually managing to get Strahd with this even grappled, so she focuses on the "minions" instead)

GM: (Probably wise)

(You could have hit him, though)

Suldae Westwind: (in theory sure)

(i didnt know that before I rolled)

(and I consider it a point of integrity to determien the target before rolling --)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "On a Scale of 1 to 10 how innconviniet would smasching that fountain be"
Henry asks "Wait don't answer that"

"I'll just enjoy the surprise"

First: hasted action Henry spikes his Warpick at the fountain spout

31

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook4

Radiant

17

Piercing

3

Acid

(What happens?)

CRUNCH! The Warpick strikes the fountain beautifully, but it seems to be very sturdy—and very magical. It remains functional.Suldae Westwind: (so its damaged but not destroyed yet?)GM: (Yes)Henry of Willowsbrook:*24

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook3

Radiant

21

Piercing

4

Acid

21

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook2

Radiant

14

Piercing

1

Acid

Again with the action

Vampire Spellcaster: The Vampire Spellcasters hurl themselves in the way, taking the blows so that the fountain will not. (two hits against two separate vampire spellcasters)CONSTITUTION

Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 7*Suldae Westwind: BOOMAt the crash of one of the blows, one Wall of Force collapses.Henry of Willowsbrook: "Fine. by. me." Henry says turning and sending his shield rocketing into the fountain

DC18

no damage on save

Strength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

5

Radiant

16

Bludgeoning

60 feet line

Bone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

Vampire Spellcaster:

STRENGTH
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 23

STRENGTH
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 13

STRENGTH
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 22

STRENGTH
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 21

Henry of Willowsbrook: (no radiant damage it's not a weapon attack)

Vampire Spellcaster: The vampires leap in the way, all of them trying to sway the shield from its course—but it cannot be swayed. It slips the grasp of three of them and slams the fourth against the far wall of the chamber, plowing right through the fountain in the process in a spray of blood and rubble. The glow of the fountain fades.

CONSTITUTION
Vampire Spellcaster

Ability: 16

GM: (That was for the one who was crushed—he took 32 points of magical bludgeoning damage, so the DC was 16. He maintains Concentration)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'd compliment the dedication if you weren't bat shit shitting insane thralls to histories biggest douchbag" Henry says "Speaking of" he turns to Strahd "Miss me?"

GM: (He is immune to the prone condition, however, but he still gets smushed)

Henry of Willowsbrook: EoT

Strahd von Zarovich: "You have no idea."

ATHLETICS
Strahd von Zarovich

Skill: 18

Hand: 15

Strahd von Zarovich: He bursts free of the Arcane Hand, and swings his hand, and a different blade flies from a sheath at his side, and swings out like a spray of throwing knives.

DANCING SILVER SWORDS
Strahd von Zarovich

Requires attunement

This weapon is three silver swords sharing the same space but slightly different time intervals. Each slash can launch one of the three swords up to a distance of sixty feet. It travels in a straight line and disappears after striking a target or after hitting the ground, reappearing back in your hand. If an opponent manages to catch one of the silver swords, (via an athletics or sleight-of-hand check equal to the attack roll which threw it) the sword does not disappear. The captured sword can be wielded only with disadvantage, as it tries to resist the will of its captor. At the first opportunity, the sword attempts to escape and return to the hand of its master.

As a legendary action, the master of the sword can teleport to any one of his three swords before it disappears.

ATTACK 1: 31 to hit, 13

magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 2: 21 to hit, 8
magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 3: 32 to hit, 10
magical slashing damage.

DANCING SILVER SWORDS

Strahd von Zarovich

Requires attunement

This weapon is three silver swords sharing the same space but slightly different time intervals. Each slash can launch one of the three swords up to a distance of sixty feet. It travels in a straight line and disappears after striking a target or after hitting the ground, reappearing back in your hand. If an opponent manages to catch one of the silver swords, (via an athletics or sleight-of-hand check equal to the attack roll which threw it) the sword does not disappear. The captured sword can be wielded only with disadvantage, as it tries to resist the will of its captor. At the first opportunity, the sword attempts to escape and return to the hand of its master.

As a legendary action, the master of the sword can teleport to any one of his three swords before it disappears.

ATTACK 1: 34 to hit, 10
magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 2: 19 to hit, 8
magical slashing damage.

ATTACK 3: 22 to hit, 15
magical slashing damage.

The first one spears towards Henry, the second misses Suldae by a hair's breadth, and the third one glances off Henry's armor uselessly.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (that weapon feels like cheating but it is Strahd)

Strahd von Zarovich:

Harm

Necromancy 6

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You unleash a virulent disease on a creature that you can see within range. The target must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, it takes 14d6 necrotic damage, or half as much damage on a successful save. The damage can't reduce the target's hit points below 1. If the target fails the saving throw, its hit point maximum is reduced for 1 hour by an amount equal to the necrotic damage it took. Any effect that removes a disease allows a creature's hit point maximum to return to normal before that time passes.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Which one hit? the 13 or 10 damage?)

GM: (The 34 was the to-hit, the 10 is the damage)

(Wait, I clicked the button twice)

(He only uses it once)

(I only saw the second set of rolls)

(Let's go with the second set of rolls)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (we take those since(not because they are worse but because you already described them))

:)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd reaches out a casual hand, and lets necromantic magic fall on Henry.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae presses herself into the corner. She doesn't have anyone to shield, here, so she has nothing to distract from her fear.

Henry of Willowsbrook:

12 + 4

CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)
Henry of Willowsbrook

16 + 4CONSTITUTION SAVE (3)

Henry of Willowsbrook

(using Insp

And Suldaes Bard Insp)

rolling d8

(5)

= 5Suldae Westwind: (yaaaaaaaaaaaaa)Strahd von Zarovich: Henry takes half of 14d6 necrotic damage, but his hit point maximum is not reduced.48*Henry of Willowsbrook: (aura so 12)

Henry smiles through the pain "Whats the matter tired already?"

Suldae Westwind: "I might be getting you hurt. I am sorry," Suldae whispers to Ireena telepathically.Henry of Willowsbrook: (reaction attack for the spell castVampire Spellcaster: All four of the Vampire Spellcasters begin charging little crimson stars between their hands.Suldae Westwind: This was a plan. It still seems like a good one to her. That doesn't mean she likes it.Henry of Willowsbrook:*22

30ft/60ft

Dagonbone Warpick (+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

7

Radiant

15

Piercing

4

Acid

GM: (Miss)Henry of Willowsbrook: (yeah I was due a miss)Suldae Westwind: "...I will drop the spell if you tell me to."

(to Ireena, still)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd catches Henry's warpick and casually tosses it back to him.Vampire Spellcaster:

Delayed Blast Fireball*Evocation 7Casting Time: 1 actionRange: 150 feetTarget: A chosen point within rangeComponents: V, S, M (A tiny ball of bat guano and sulfur)Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

A beam of yellow light flashes from your pointing finger, then condenses to linger at a chosen point within range as a glowing bead for the duration. When the spell ends, either because your concentration is broken or because you decide to end it, the bead blossoms with a low roar into an explosion of flame that spreads around corners. Each creature in a 20-foot-radius sphere centered on that point must make a Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes fire damage equal to the total accumulated damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The spell's base damage is 12d6. If at the end of your turn the bead has not yet detonated, the damage increases by 1d6. If the glowing bead is touched before the interval has expired, the creature touching it must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the spell ends immediately, causing the bead to erupt in flame. On a successful save, the creature can throw the bead up to 40 feet. When it strikes a creature or a solid object, the spell ends, and the bead explodes. The fire damages objects in the area and ignites flammable objects that aren't being worn or carried.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 8th level or higher, the base damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 7th.

Suldae Westwind: what about concentratoin?
and wall of force?

The Wall of Force vanishes and four glowing pinpricks of light appear at intervals around the room, hovering in the air,

GM: (All four spellcasters are now separately concentrating upon Delayed Blast Fireballs)

Suldae Westwind: (well one of them sure is right next to Strahd)

GM: (This might imply that he's not scared of them)

Suldae Westwind: "Protect yourselves!" Suldae mentally yells at Ireena as she sees the fireballs.

Ireena Kolyana: "Shit!"

Suldae Westwind:*21*ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

"Hold on, I have a plan."

"Marcus, this is up to you. See those glowing beads? You need to throw them in that corner behind the vampires REALLY FAST."

"Ireena, ready Resilient Sphere in case something goes wrong. I think Strahd did something to Kasimir's shadow, so be on your guard, but if you are in a bad situation - just try to protect as many people as possible, okay?"

Suldae avoids telling Ireena about her plan on how to handle healing, because she suspects Ireena will not like the version where she just hurts herself any more than the version where she hurts both of them. Just as a hunch.

Ireena Kolyana: Telepathically: "Resilient sphere only carries one! I'll ready Wall of Force!"

(Ireena prepares to cast Wall of Force to protect as many companions as possible)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Kasimir, your shadow!"Liliet (Suldae): "Yes, that's a better plan!"

It's good to have companions you can rely on.

Marcus Veranius: [Move into the room a bit more! I have a plan!] Marcus thinks, looking at the space between bars blocking their exit.Ezmerelda Veranius:*+3 RAPIER (DEFENDER)
*Ezmerelda VeraniusAttack: 13*Damage: 14 piercing+3 RAPIER (DEFENDER)
*Ezmerelda VeraniusAttack: 25*Damage: 14 piercingSILVERED SHORTSWORD
*Ezmerelda VeraniusAttack: 16*Damage: 9 piercing

Ezmerelda makes short work of Kasimir's twisted Shadow, and with a final scream it fades, shredded on her silver sword.

Kasimir Velikov: "Thank you, Ezmerelda."Ezmerelda Veranius: "Into the room!"

Suldae Westwind: (or maybe not?)

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir shoves Gertruda to one side, further up the stairs, and rounds on the vampire spellcaster directly before him. Realizing that he does not want to break this vampire's concentration, he squeezes his left hand almost absently, trying to crush Strahd once again, and with his right hand he punches a hasty firebolt across the room.

10 | 11
120 ft
Fire Bolt (+8)
10
Fire

Aaaaand misses.

28 (Arcane Hand grapple check)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (wasn't Strahd already grappled?)

GM: (He broke out on his last turn)

(Also, I don't think that was a dice roll lol)

Kasimir Velikov: 10

GM: (There, that was a diceroll, but he's technically supposed to have advantage on it)

Kasimir Velikov: 11

GM: (Well)

Suldae Westwind: (wait, did he break out?)

(i dont remmeber that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I swear sometimes it feels like the NPCs aren't even trying)

(well Strahd still has to roll to avoid it)

Strahd von Zarovich:

ATHLETICS
Strahd von Zarovich
Skill: 19

Suldae Westwind: oh yeah found it

rip

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd von Zarovich easily dodges the Firebolt and forces the fingers of the Arcane Hand apart.

"A nice trick, Kasimir! But I believe I can do one better."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Don't even think about it."

23

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

817300 feetEldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

1312300 feetEldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

7

Henry of Willowsbrook: (so 1 hit)

GM: (Tragically, three misses)

Suldae Westwind: (but one was close!)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ah so Strahds AC is 24 then I believe we weren't sure if it was 23 or 24 last time)

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark's bolts of blazing rage miss, but only because Strahd dances swiftly out of the way. The first bolt passes within an inch of his chiseled jaw.

Rictavio:

Bless

Enchantment 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Target: Up to three creatures of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A sprinkling of holy water)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You bless up to three creatures of your choice within range. Whenever a target makes an attack roll or a saving throw before the spell ends, the target can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to the attack roll or saving throw.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 1st.

Suldae Westwind: whomst?

Strahd von Zarovich:

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 17 to hit, 6 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 11 to hit, 9 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

Suldae Westwind: who did rictavio bless

Strahd von Zarovich:

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 6 to hit, 9 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 6 to hit, 13 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 9 to hit, 15 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

LAIR ACTION: SPECTER

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd summons the angry spirit of one who has died in the castle. The apparition appears next to a hostile creature that Strahd can see, makes an attack against that creature, and then disappears. The apparition has the statistics of a specter.

(Life Drain Attack: 22 to hit, 13 necrotic damage on a hit. The target must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the creature finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0.

Strahd raises one clawed hand, and an icy cold thickens the chamber air. Fine mists of spectral power twist up from the foundations of Castle Ravenloft, and the twisted spirits assault Kasimir, body and mind! [17 to hit for 6, 22 to hit for 13—the rest missed]

Strahd von Zarovich:

5

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

Kasimir Velikov: (That was Kasimir's roll, sorry)

1

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

Suldae Westwind: OH MY GOD

OH MY FUCKING GOD

Kasimir Velikov: (Now Concentration checks)

11

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

19

CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

(He maintains Concentration on the Arcane Hand)

(His HP Maximum is reduced from 70 to 51)

Suldae Westwind: (this is kind of bad)

Kasimir Velikov: "Guh!"

Ismark Kolyanovich: "KASIMIR!"

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd chuckles. The sound echoes and booms in the chamber like strange thunder.

Suldae Westwind: (brb)

Marcus Veranius sees the fireballs, hears Suldae's request, and charges at the beads of concentrated hellfire. Even after all they've faced in this cursed land, this magic-shmagic stuff was utter nonsense to him.

Marcus Veranius: But shooting things at other things? That was more his speed.

Object interaction- FIREBALL YEET

(What's the DC for these things?)

GM: (You'll know it if you fail)

(It's moderate, should be fairly easy for Marcus)

Marcus Veranius: (Saves made with advantage via Haste)

14 + 0 | 31 + 0

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

30 + 0 | 20 + 0

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

28 + 0 | 24 + 0

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

30 + 0 | 31 + 0

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

GM: (Bahahahaha)

(You pass, obviously)

Marcus Veranius dances around the circle of fireballs, throwing them into the chamber's corner. He hoped it would be enough to destroy the fountain but would settle for ashed vampires instead.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae holds her breath, hoping Marcus succeeds...

GM: (So that's 171 points of fire damage)

(And four DC 16 Dex saves needed from each vampire...)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Thats a lot of rolls)

Suldae Westwind: (I sure love it when baddies Do This To Themselves)

GM: (Yeah who am I kidding)

BOOM!

Suldae Westwind: (they dont have Henrys aura either)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Nope creatures of his choice)

In a single instant, all four vampire spellcasters are completely destroyed in a blast of dazzling flame.

Suldae laughs out loud with a hysterical edge.

6/27/23, 5:07 PM

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae told her she'd drop the spell as soon as she told her to)

GM: (Are you sure you wish to proceed?)

Suldae Westwind: (I mean Suldae is harming herself for the same amount)

(I am fully prepared to argue that this is a stupid idea but it's not evil as such)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (suldae basically said "This might hurt brace yourself" without specefying)

Marcus Veranius: (The opposite; Suldae is sacrificing her own life force for a beloved NPC)

(I think?)

GM: (And stealing the life force of her friend to do so)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is harming herself and Ireena to heal Henry)

(she did not get Ireena's consent for this no but it was a mid battle decision and its not reh reason she linked them up)

*the

(I brougbht this up last session, we discussed this!)

GM: (Go ahead and roll a Charisma saving throw)

Suldae Westwind:

12 + 2

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

(holy shit)

GM: (Holy shit)

Suldae Westwind: (hold on what does the armor do)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (... on closer inspection it might have been smarter to take Henry's turn before this considering that Ireena has to roll a concentration save)

Suldae Westwind: (advantage!)

12 + 1

CHARISMA SAVE (11)
Suldae Westwind

(okay)

GM: (Lmao)

Suldae Westwind: (okay then)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (+3)4

3

Suldae Westwind: (yeah Henry's bonus also)

14+3=17

(Suldae's lowest Charisma is very high she's a bard and she knows exactly what she's doing, sort of)

Suldae reaches for the power, and feels the watchful eye of the Book upon her in the moment before she would take from Ireena's life force. She realizes instantly that this is crossing a certain moral line that the book does not approve of, but in the moment she realizes this, she feels Ireena sense the magic and understand, and give freely. The magic comes, and flows, and life is exchanged.

Suldae Westwind: (THANK YOU)

Ireena Kolyana:

7

CONSTITUTION SAVE (6)

feck

Suldae Westwind: (oh my fucking god akdlfsdajfkhsdlkfj)

Ireena Kolyana:

17

CONSTITUTION SAVE (6)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (aaaaand there goes Henry's turn)

(Or not?)

Ireena Kolyana: Expecting the pain, Ireena braces for it, and manages to hold onto her concentration. Henry remains hasted.

Suldae Westwind: (-10 for each of us)

GM: (Done)

(I applied the healing as well)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out tearfully. The pain was nothing she wasn't braced for, but...

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I already had)

Suldae Westwind: (I APPLIED IT TOO)

(HOLD ON LET ME REVERSE IT)

(so how much is Henry's HP right now and how much was it previously)

(I'm confused)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (he went from 50 to 95)

Suldae Westwind: (oh)

(welp this was more timely than I thought)

(and I already thought it was timely)

GM: (Oh wait)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM don't worry I fixed it)

GM: (Before you play your turn, Henry, I'm going to take two legendary actions: one for Marcus's turn, one for Suldae's)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh that okay)

Suldae Westwind: (I'll point out Suldae hasn't bonus actioned yet)

GM: (Assuming R20 lets me open his sheet)

(Ah, proceed)

Suldae Westwind: There is only one enemy standing before them now, and so instead of the halo Suldae straightens her spine.

It comes hesitantly - she had taken a blind leap there, and just because she made it doesn't mean she never parted with solid ground - but bright light shines around her, adding to the light from Marcus's sword.

HALO

Other: Book of Exalted Deeds

Once you've read and studied the book, you gain a protective halo. This halo sheds bright light in a 10-foot radius and dim light for an additional 10 feet. You can dismiss or manifest the halo as a bonus action. While present, the halo gives you advantage on Charisma (Persuasion) checks made to interact with good creatures and Charisma (Intimidation) checks made to interact with evil creatures. In addition, fiends and undead within the halo's bright light make attack rolls against you with disadvantage.

[EoT]

Strahd von Zarovich: "Aaargh!"

Pinned by the light of the Sunsword and the Halo, bathed in Henry's Aura, Strahd rears back and flings out a claw. He points at the half-elven bard, and whispers a deadly command.

"Die."

Suldae Westwind: (oh well that's wonderful)

The spell slams into Suldae like a tidal wave—but breaks instantly.

Strahd von Zarovich: "WHAT!?"

Suldae Westwind: (oh?)

With her shared pool of health, the spell cannot grasp her life force completely.

Suldae Westwind: (oh me likey)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (AHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAH)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae breathes out, still feeling the fingers of death slipping off her.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd whips around and points a claw at Marcus. "DIE!"

Suldae Westwind: So much of this was a bad idea, but... there was a reason.

The spell fails again, for the power of the bond between Ezmerelda and Marcus.

Suldae Westwind: There were reasons for her decisions.

sadkfjlkjfdhlsdjh

Strahd von Zarovich: "NO!"

"NO!"

Suldae Westwind: we're beating Strahd with the power of love

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is it Technically Henry's turn yet?)

GM: (Yes, go ham)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Asking because reactions)

Marcus Veranius has no idea why Strahd is pointing at everyone and screaming, but he does so love when plans fall apart. At least when they aren't his own

Henry of Willowsbrook: Without even having Time to think Henry finds himself lashing out at Strahd's attempts of spell crafting

25 + 2

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

6
Radiant

15
Slashing

(Reaction attack)

GM: (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (im loving this)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henrys eyes shift to the Sword orbiting Strahd "Hm you seem troubled Strahd, here, let me take this of your hands" Henry uses hasted action to grab the floating sword

GM: (It's not floating near him, he puts it back into his cloak at the end of every swing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh)

GM: (You're probably not going to be able to get it from him)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well then)

Then Fighting Spirit And 3 Attacks

$$28 + 4 \quad | \quad 20 + 4$$

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

1
Radiant

18
Slashing

$$18 + 4 \quad | \quad 23 + 4$$

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

2
Radiant

21
Slashing

28 + 3 | 26 + 3

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

7
Radiant

16
Slashing

GM: (Three hits)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (hm let's put some smites on those, 2 second level and 1 third level

Suldae Westwind: (aw hella boom)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (4d8+4d8+5d8)

rolling 13d8

(3 + 3 + 5 + 5 + 2 + 3 + 5 + 2 + 7 + 6 + 1 + 4 + 8)

= 54

(thats the radiant damage)

GM: (lmao)

Henry of Willowsbrook: 64 total radiant+55 slashing

Henrys Sword begins to once again glow with a violent intensity as he blurs into motion delivering a strike to Strahds outstretched arm before turning into a horizontal slash across his face and then a final vertical swing like Henry was trying to split Strhad like a log.

Strahd

Strahd attempts to protect himself from the hail of blows, but his swordsmanship is no match for Henry's skill, speed, and strength. Each blow that makes contact ignites with holy flame, and Strahd's wounded flesh steams and burns when the vorpal sword rips through his armor. He manages to avoid taking any blows to the face, and manages to avoid being cleaved in twain, but he is hard pressed and badly injured by the time Henry's assault is done.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Enough."

I am the ancient. I am the land!

Suldae Westwind: (oh is that so)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd's eyes blaze with crimson flame.

The ground begins to shake.

Suldae Westwind: "I'm pretty sure the land was there before you were," Suldae says quietly, yet loud enough to be audible.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You need a new catch phrase this one is starting to mold"

Suldae Westwind: (think stage whisper)

Marcus Veranius: (Did the second fountain get destroyed by fireball hell?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry had smashed it last session)

GM: (I believe both fountains are out of play)

Strahd von Zarovich:

MULTIATTACK (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd makes three attacks, uses his Shadow Step ability, and casts one spell.

Marcus Veranius holds the Sunsword aloft, accursed auras no longer blocking its presence. Nothing will stop the flow of light now.

Strahd von Zarovich:

VORPAL LONGSWORD (ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 26

Damage: 18 Slashing + 17 Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

VORPAL LONGSWORD
(ONE-HANDED)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 25

Damage: 13 Slashing + 9
Necrotic
Requires Attunement

You gain a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. In addition, the weapon ignores resistance to slashing damage.

When you attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without the lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

UNARMED STRIKE (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY) Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 33

Damage: 11 bludgeoning +
11 necrotic

If the target is a creature,
Strahd can grapple it
(escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning
damage.

Earthquake

Evocation 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 500 feet

Target: A point on the ground that you can see
within range

Components: V, S, M (A pinch of dirt, a piece of rock, and a lump of clay)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You create a seismic disturbance at a point on the ground that you can see within range. For the duration, an intense tremor rips through the ground in a 100-foot-radius circle centered on that point and shakes creatures and structures in contact with the ground in that area. The ground in the area becomes difficult terrain. Each creature on the ground that is concentrating must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the creature's concentration is broken. When you cast this spell and at the end of each turn you spend concentrating on it, each creature on the ground in the area must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the creature is knocked prone. This spell can have additional effects depending on the terrain in the area, as determined by the GM. Fissures. Fissures open throughout the spell's area at the start of your next turn after you cast the spell. A total of 1d6 such fissures open in locations chosen by the GM. Each is 1d10 × 10 feet deep, 10 feet wide, and extends from one edge of the spell's area to the opposite side. A creature standing on a spot where a fissure opens must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or fall in. A creature that successfully saves moves with the fissure's edge as it opens. A fissure that opens beneath a structure causes it to automatically collapse (see below). Structures. The tremor deals 50 bludgeoning damage to any structure in contact with the ground in the area when you cast the spell and at the start of each of your turns until the spell ends. If a structure drops to 0 hit points, it collapses and potentially damages nearby creatures. A creature within half the distance of a structure's height must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the creature takes 5d6 bludgeoning damage, is knocked prone, and is buried in the rubble, requiring a DC 20 Strength (Athletics) check as an action to escape. The GM can adjust the DC higher or lower, depending on the nature of the rubble. On a successful save, the creature takes half as much damage and doesn't fall prone or become buried.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who is he attacking?)

Suldae Westwind: (oh btw lets not forget about +1 to saves from warding bond)
(for both Suldae and Ireena)

Strahd sweeps his hand in a violent arc. His vorpal sword comes spinning out of his cloak, slices across Marcus's chest and slashes brutally across Henry's shield (dealing him no damage). Then Strahd's hand shoots out, unarmed, and claws Henry across the face.

Marcus Veranius: (...say, can Henry mage slayer that spell before Strahd can pull it off? o-o)
(I have bad feelings about this)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Already used the reaction to hit after the power word Kill attempt)

Marcus Veranius meets Vorpal Sword with Sibling Sword, striking back against Strahd's weapon

Marcus Veranius:

$$20 + 2 \quad | \quad 27 + 2$$

Melee

Retaliation Fury (+13)
Marcus Veranius

When a creature you can see damages you, you can use your reaction to make a melee attack against that creature, with advantage on your attack roll.

13

Radiant/Fire

14

Radiant

(No advantage, my bad)

(Wait it does, Im dumb)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grips the Weave instinctively, attempting to stop the spell from going off.

(one sec)

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

15

CHARISMA (6+2)
Suldae Westwind

(welp)

Weave rips out of her hands, Strahd's spell too powerful for her to stand against just yet.

Suldae Westwind: (WAIT)

(I have an 8th level spell slot i just realized)

GM: (You would have had to declare it before seeing the roll)

Suldae Westwind: (makes sense)

(well, now at least i still have it)

(but Earthquake isnt counterspelled by Suldae)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (this is turning into ace attorney with all the "hold it"s)

Suldae Westwind: ("...I was hoping to come up with an objection while I was objecting, Your Honor. I didn't")

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Any of our NPC want to try and counter spell?)

(So Henry makes two Dex Saves one to avoid falling prone and then one to avoid the fissure correct?)

GM: (We probably should have at least one NPC attempt the counterspell as well)

(It's a doozy of a spell)

Suldae Westwind: (so does anyone have a lvl 8 spell slot spare)

GM: (Lol I don't think so)

Ireena Kolyana:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Kasimir Seems like the most likely one to try imo)

Ireena Kolyana:

14

ARCANA (6)

Suldae Westwind: (oof)

Suldae feels Ireena's attempt fail as well.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So first things First Everyone on the ground rolls Concentration)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae wasnt concentrating on shit B))

Then the ground begins to tremble in earnest, and his power ripples through the land. (DC 18 Con saves needed for concentration, DC 18 Dex saves to avoid being knocked prone OR DC 18 Dex saves to avoid falling into the pits, which are 20 and 10 feet deep respectively from left to right.)

Suldae Westwind:

16 + 3

DEXTERITY SAVE (7)
Suldae Westwind

Rictavio:

CONSTITUTION*RictavioAbility: 13

(Bless is gone)

DEXTERITY*RictavioAbility: 6*Suldae Westwind: (can suldae shift into hybrid as part of a successful save)Ezmerelda Veranius:*CONSTITUTION SAVEEzmerelda VeraniusSave: 11*Rictavio: (Rictavio falls 20 feet into the pit)Marcus Veranius: (Can Marcus spend luck on Ez's save?)Suldae Westwind: (uh thats bad)GM: (Yes to Suldae's question, yes to Marcus's question)Ezmerelda Veranius:*CONSTITUTION SAVEEzmerelda VeraniusSave: 13*Kasimir Velikov:*DC16*Dexterity Save*44Lightning150 feetChain Lightning*GM: (Ignore that, misclick)Kasimir Velikov:*13*CONSTITUTION SAVE (0)

Ezmerelda Veranius: rolling 1d4 Bless before it fades

(4)

= 4

Kasimir Velikov: (Arcane hand is gone)

12

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

(Kasimir falls 20 feet)

Ezmerelda Veranius: +2 Ring of Bonding, with +4 bless for this one spell. Ez passes with a 19

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is now sorta-hovering by alternating pushing off the walls behind her and off the air with her wings.

Ireena Kolyana:

9

CONSTITUTION SAVE (6)

Suldae Westwind: (AKLKFHSDLKJFHSDLKFJHDSLKF)

GM: (Henry's haste is gone)

Ireena Kolyana:

6

DEXTERITY SAVE (2)

GM: (Ireena falls 20 feet into the pit)

(Probably because she's trying to save Gertruda from the fall)

Marcus Veranius:

25 + 4

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Do we have Bless and Haste for the Save or do they fade before hand?)

Suldae Westwind: > at the start of your next turn after you cast the spell the fissures shouldnt have appeared yet raw at least

Marcus Veranius: (Strahd is the land. Land does what he wants)

GM: (Yup)

Suldae Westwind: (reasonable)

GM: (But I'll let you have bless and haste for the save)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Thanks)

$$4 + 6 \quad | \quad 18 + 6$$

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

As a reaction to falling, Ireena instantly reaches out to cast Feather Fall.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So Henry does not fall into the fissure)

$$10 + 8 \quad | \quad 20 + 8$$

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

$$13 + 7 \quad | \quad 14 + 7$$

DEXTERITY SAVE (0)
Henry of Willowsbrook

And He remains Standing for now

Suldae Westwind: would he move away from right above the fissure as part of the save?

Henry of Willowsbrook: (He would be at the edge on one side but not sure which side)

Suldae Westwind: (I figure a 5ft movement up to where the fissure doesnt take up the entire square is reasonable)

(so he doesnt crash right into Strahd nor get separated from him)

Ireena Kolyana:

Feather Fall

Transmutation 1

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you or a creature within 60 feet of you falls

Range: 60 feet

Target: Up to five falling creatures within range

Components: V, M (A small feather or piece of down)

Duration: 1 minute

Choose up to five falling creatures within range. A falling creature's rate of descent slows to 60 feet per round until the spell ends. If the creature lands before the spell ends, it takes no falling damage and can land on its feet, and the spell ends for that creature.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well Henrys next turn is him coming down of his haste so he won't be doing much)

Ireena, Gertruda, Kasimir, Ezmerelda, and Rictavio all fall harmlessly to the bottom of the 20-foot pit.

 Suldae Westwind: Ireena isnt even THERE tho

 Strahd von Zarovich: "I AM THE LAND!"

 Suldae Westwind: ...i guess tremor
(wait but the wereravens)

 Marcus Veranius: (Wait, I didnt roll a save for Ez)

 Suldae Westwind: (would Ezme and Ireena not shift also)

 Marcus Veranius: (Did I need to?)

 Suldae Westwind: Ezme passed iirc

 Marcus Veranius: (There's a lot happening with this spell; sorry :C)

GM: (It's ok)

 Suldae Westwind: > Ezmerelda Veranius:+2 Ring of Bonding, with +4 bless for this one spell. Ez passes with a 19

GM: (I think that was concentration)

 Marcus Veranius: (That was concentration on Haste)

 Suldae Westwind: oh wait right

GM: (Still need Dex)

 Marcus Veranius:

DEXTERITY SAVE Ezmerelda Veranius <hr/> Save: 7
--

 Suldae Westwind: (wow. wow. wow)

 Marcus Veranius: No saving that one. OOF

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (And down the pit she goes)

GM: (If they had passed their saves, I would let them shift)

(Since they failed the saves, they fall)

(But Ireena's got them)

 Strahd von Zarovich: "I AM THE ANCIENT!"

"I AM THE LAND!"

"AND I SHALL FEED!"

The ground moves, rolling in his power, and—

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (Oh Strahd has to roll concentration on Earthquake since MArkus attacked him for 27 damage)

CRUNCH. The earth seals over your companions.

Ismark Kolyanovich: "KASIMIR!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Is mark is still there! he needs to roll dex to remain standing))

Ismark Kolyanovich:

12

DEXTERITY SAVE (3)

hem falls over, unable to keep his balance on the changing earth.

Ismark Kolyanovich falls over, unable to keep his balance on the changing earth.

Ismark Kolyanovich:

DC17

Dexterity Save

25

Higher Level Cast

14

Fire

60 feet

Hellish Rebuke

Strahd von Zarovich:

DEXTERITY SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 23

"A worthy blow! Nevertheless, an insignificant one."

Marcus Veranius holds firm. There was simply nothing Strahd could do to break his resolve. Either death would take him and his beloved together, or they would live together hand in hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Concentration check for Strahd?)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CONSTITUTION
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 18

GM: (Wait)

(Lmao I think that's a fail)

(Yeah, 39 damage, half would be 19)

Strahd von Zarovich:

LEGENDARY RESISTANCE
(3/DAY)

If Strahd fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

GM: (Oh well, we were bound to burn these someday)

Marcus Veranius: "The ancients shall hold no sway in this new land that will grow from their ashes."

Strahd von Zarovich: (Strahd maintains his Concentration)

Marcus Veranius: "Dawn comes."

Strahd von Zarovich: "Enough grandstanding!"

Marcus Veranius swings the sunsword, attempting to cut off Strahd's cloak

Marcus Veranius:

20 + 1

120

>Sharpshooter (Sword Beam)

(+10)

Marcus Veranius

13

Radiant/Fire

24

Radiant

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You are the last person that gets to say that" Henry retorts

Suldae Westwind: Suldae can tell Ireena hasn't taken damage, right?

Marcus Veranius: (Just the 20)

GM: (Neither Ireena nor Ezmerelda has taken damage.)

Marcus Veranius:

DC19

The creature is not disarmed.

Strength Save

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to disarm the target, forcing it to drop one item of your choice that it's holding. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Strength saving throw. On a failed save, it drops the object you choose. The object lands at its feet.

17

Radiant/Fire

1

Basic Damage

[Disarming Attack]
Marcus VeraniusIreena Kolyana: (Telepathically): *"Suffocating! Can't breathe!"Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Ability: 20

Marcus Veranius shoots again*Marcus Veranius:*21

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius9Radiant/Fire13RadiantDC19The creature is not disarmed.Strength Save

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to disarm the target, forcing it to drop one item of your choice that it's holding. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Strength saving throw. On a failed save, it drops the object you choose. The object lands at its feet.

5*Bonus Damage[Disarming Attack]
Marcus VeraniusSuldae Westwind: Suldae is terrified, but at this point there's little she can do other than keep fighting...Marcus Veranius keeps attempting to slash away the cloak*Marcus Veranius: (27 mixed Radiant/Fire)

(Gunna need another save from Strahd)

GM: (Working on it)

(Slow internet)

Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 9

Marcus Veranius: (sorry :C)

Strahd von Zarovich:

LEGENDARY RESISTANCE
(3/DAY)
If Strahd fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

GM: (That's 2 out of 3)

Marcus Veranius uses his bonus action shot to try again, sundering the cloak

Marcus Veranius:

20

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius

10

Radiant

Suldae Westwind: (is it?)

(Didn't he use one up earlier?)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 1d8+4+1d6 Extra damage I forgot to toggle

(4) + 4 + (1)

= 9

DC19

The creature is not disarmed.

Strength Save

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to disarm the target, forcing it to drop one item of your choice that it's holding. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Strength saving throw. On a failed save, it drops the object you choose. The object lands at its feet.

1

Bonus Damage

[Disarming Attack]
Marcus VeraniusStrahd von Zarovich:*STRENGTH
Strahd von ZarovichAbility: 25*Suldae Westwind: (I swear Strahd has already used a Legendary Resistance in this fight)GM: (Yes, this was the second time)

(You guys have been wise enough not to use many saving-throw-inducing things)

Marcus Veranius: (Can Marcus use luck to force a reroll?)GM: (Is that within the feature?)Marcus Veranius: (Lemme double check)Suldae Westwind: (no I mean last session)Marcus Veranius: (Fleck, its just opposed attack rolls)

(Im thinking of portents)

Suldae Westwind: (I think Strahd used a Legendary resistance last time)Marcus Veranius uses his hasted action to try once more*Suldae Westwind: (ill check)Marcus Veranius:*33

120

Sword Beam (+15)
Marcus Veranius12Radiant*

rolling 1d8+4+1d6

()+4+()= 13*DC19The creature is not disarmed.Strength Save

When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can expend one superiority die to attempt to disarm the target, forcing it to drop one item of your choice that it's holding. You add the superiority die to the attack's damage roll, and the target must make a Strength saving throw. On a failed save, it drops the object you choose. The object lands at its feet.

5

Bonus Damage

[Disarming Attack]

Marcus Veranius

Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 8

GM: (Wow lol)

Suldae Westwind: (nvm i was probably confusing it with reactions)

The sunsword rips into the black cloak again and again, and though the dark material resists its brilliant edge, it cannot stand under that well-aimed assault for long, and soon great glowing holes of gradually-growing immolation begin to spread from the regions Marcus has struck repeatedly, and as their glow increases and the light and embers ripple through the many layers of interwoven shadow of the cloak, Strahd cries out in anguish and in rage.

Strahd von Zarovich:

MOVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd moves up to his speed without provoking opportunity attacks.

Marcus Veranius: 116 mixed damage total

He leaps into the air, and swoops away, a ripple of hate in the air—leaving the smoldering wreckage of his twisted shadow behind.

Marcus Veranius charges, devilish smirk on his beak. There was nowhere for that Vorpal sword to hide now Strahd von Zarovich: He rests his hand on the handle of the lever to open the portcullis, grinning a feral, red-eyed grin. The vorpal sword still flashes in his free hand.

Marcus Veranius puts his free hand on the lever, holding firm. It would be a contest of strengths

Marcus Veranius: (Object interaction. Marcus is now out of actions)

[EoT]

Strahd von Zarovich:

BOUNDARIES

If a creature steps into Strahd's reach, Strahd takes one unarmed strike against them, attempting to grapple.

UNARMED STRIKE
(VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 38

Damage: 8 + 2
bludgeoning + 10 + 11
necrotic
If the target is a creature,
Strahd can grapple it
(escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning
damage.

The moment Marcus steps into his reach, Strahd has him by the throat once again—as though he has already forgotten how this ended last time.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Marcus takes 6 necrotic damage

Marcus Veranius: Marcus CAN force a reroll on that one with Lucky

rolling 1d20

(11)

= 11

Not a crit

GM: (I believe an 11+18 still hits)

(The crit is sort of irrelevant, he's not dealing damage with this)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh, shit)

GM: (It's just supposed to be a grapple)

Marcus Veranius: (Oh well, I spent the luck)

(Should have payed attention)

GM: (So Henry and Suldae, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (i gotta go first if there are no objections)

(kinda need to run to do a thing)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry feels the magical strain of Haste wieghing heavy on him making him unable to to anything but talk

GM: (Go for it, Suldae)

Henry of Willowsbrook: weighing

Suldae Westwind: Suldae has a vague hope of tatters of a plan. She just hopes Ireena and others can hold out...

DC19

Dexterity Save

9

Radiant

60 feet

Sacred Flame
Suldae Westwind

Ireena Kolyana: (Telepathically): "We can't hold out for long! Gertruda's just a child!"

GM: (Oh hold the phone, I owe you a bunch of Concentration checks)

(I'll do the Dex save first)

Suldae Westwind: (actually can i have gotten Ireena's feedback before i did the cantrip)

Strahd von Zarovich:

DEXTERITY Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Ability: 26
--

GM: (I suppose)

Suldae Westwind: (and can i change my mind)

(I know its not by the book so if no then no)

(retcon the cantrip and do another action_

(retcon the cantrip and do another action)

Strahd von Zarovich: Go for it!

GM: (Ahem, I mean Go for it!)

Suldae Westwind:

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Shatter

Evocation 2

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: A point of your choice within range

Components: V, S, M (A chip of mica)

Duration: Instantaneous

A sudden loud ringing noise, painfully intense, erupts from a point of your choice within range. Each creature in a 10-foot-radius sphere centered on that point must make a Constitution saving throw. A creature takes 3d8 thunder damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. A creature made of inorganic material such as stone, crystal, or metal has disadvantage on this saving throw. A nonmagical object that isn't being worn or carried also takes the damage if it's in the spell's area.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 2nd.

Suldae measures it so it would only break the top of earth not reach the people inside, based on Ireena's telepathic feedback

CRACK! Suldae blasts the earth apart, freeing her companions in a cloud of dirt and stone.

Suldae Westwind: With that, her melody shifts into a different cadence.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I have an RP heavy Idea so I'll start typing that up a bit)

Suldae Westwind:

11

Healing

60 feet

Healing Word

Suldae Westwind

(on Ireena)

(Suldae follows Henry's movements, hovering behind him)

(for Henry's turn just move them both at once pls)

(now brb)

and EoT

GM: (I've tabulated the damage and I think the concentration checks I need to make for Marcus's assault are: (18) (10) (11) (10) (15))

Strahd von Zarovich: 16 19 13 23 25

GM: (Fails on the first roll lmao)

The earthquake ceases its terrible rumbling, but the castle above quakes and trembles ominously, and dust dribbles from the ceiling.

Mordenkainen: (Telepathically): Finally! There you are. I've brought your favorite coffin. Do you have the brute in such an arrangement where you might be able to say his last rites and send him into range?

Suldae Westwind: "...We'll want to get out of here real fast when we're done..." - Suldae telepathically to everyone who can hear her.

Strahd von Zarovich:

BITE (BAT OR VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 32

Damage: 15 magical

piercing + 49 necrotic
The target's hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the necrotic damage taken, and Strahd regains hit points equal to that amount. The reduction lasts until the target finishes a long rest. The target dies if its hit point maximum is reduced to 0. A humanoid slain in this way and then buried in the ground rises the following night as a vampire spawn under Strahd's control.

Strahd sinks his teeth into Marcus's neck.

Marcus Veranius: 24 Necrotic taken

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry watches unable to move glaring at Strahd breathing heavily as he works his way through the spell bound exhaustion his eyes on the lever, the matching portculis and the now fresh holes in the stone floors "Vasilika, darling can you hear me? I really would appreciate a bit of help right about now" he asks through his connection

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd rumbles, amused. "Why, Marcus. Rebellious to the end."

CORNERED Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd targets one humanoid he can see within 30 feet of him. If the target can see Strahd, the target must succeed on a DC 25 Wisdom saving throw against this magic or be charmed. The charmed target regards Strahd as a trusted friend to be heeded and protected. The target isn't under Strahd's control, but it takes Strahd's requests and actions in the most favorable way and lets Strahd bite it.

Each time Strahd or his companions do anything harmful to the target, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself on a success. Otherwise, the effect lasts 24 hours or until Strahd is destroyed, is on a different plane of existence than the target, or takes a bonus action to end the effect.

"There's really no reason to resist me anymore..."

Marcus Veranius:

27 + 4

WISDOM SAVE (9)
Marcus Veranius

"A present to you, Dear Master."

His eyes are whirlpools of crimson flame in a mask of twisting shadow—and Marcus resists their power.

Marcus Veranius sticks the sunsword through Strahd's neck

Marcus Veranius:

26

Melee

Retaliation Fury (+13)
Marcus Veranius

When a creature you can see damages you, you can use your reaction to make a melee attack against that creature, with advantage on your attack roll.

16
Radiant

Strahd von Zarovich:

PARRY

Strahd adds +10 to his AC against one attack that he can see.

Strahd swats the blow aside with the vorpal sword.

Marcus Veranius: (Roll with advantage)

rolling 1d20+13

() +13

= 15

rolling 1d20+13 Luck come on plz I want this (19)+13

= 32

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Strahds AC with Parry is 34)

(I think)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Enough of this. I have been amused by your antics, but I tire of this game."

GM: (Henry is correct)

Marcus Veranius 's sword falters, strength spent on burning the cloak

Marcus Veranius is out of tricks

Strahd pulls the lever.

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus still has a hand on the lever)

(Would it be opposed to resist it?)

GM: (Yes, it would be an opposed athletics check)

Strahd von Zarovich:

ATHLETICS Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Skill: 16
--

Marcus Veranius:

18

ATHLETICS (0)
 Marcus Veranius

GM: (LMFAO)

Suldae Westwind: (B I T C H)

Marcus manages to get his foot jammed into the mechanism of the lever.

The lever is nonmagical, and not silvered—it cannot crush his foot, it cannot descend further.

Marcus Veranius: Today

Just this once

Marcus himself is the crowbar

Henry of Willowsbrook: (OOOOH DAMN SON MARCUS'S NOODLY ARMS SAVE THE DAY)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd looks at Marcus, bemused, in spite of himself.

"You know, for all your flaws, you do have a certain tenacity that I find amusing."

"In younger years, I would have kept you."

"Now, I am wise enough to fear your stupidity, your bull-headedness, your resilience..."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ez, that grosse old cunt is hitting on your husband!" Henry shouts from across the room

Strahd von Zarovich:

DC23

Wisdom Save

26

Psychic

120 feet

Weird

Strahd von Zarovich

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Weird

Illusion 9

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: Each creature in a 30-foot-radius sphere centered on a point of your choice within range

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

Drawing on the deepest fears of a group of creatures, you create illusory creatures in their minds, visible only to them. Each creature in a 30-foot-radius sphere centered on a point of your choice within range must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature becomes frightened for the duration. The illusion calls on the creature's deepest fears, manifesting its worst nightmares as an implacable threat. At the end of each of the frightened creature's turns, it must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or take 4d10 psychic damage. On a successful save, the spell ends for that creature.

Marcus Veranius:

23

WISDOM SAVE (9)

Marcus Veranius

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is immune to fear

Suldae Westwind: (Imao Suldae is decidedly outside the radius)

(I was quite right in not moving closer just yet)

Henry of Willowsbrook: and so are those in his aura

Strahd von Zarovich: Each creature in a 30-foot-radius sphere centered on a point of your choice within range

Suldae Westwind: (ah)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

AURA OF COURAGE

Class: Paladin 10

Starting at 10th level, you and friendly creatures within 10 feet of you can't be Frightened while you are conscious.

At 18th level, the range of this aura increases to 30 feet.

Suldae Westwind: (alas Henry's point about aura stands)

Suldae feels the spell slide off her soul, protected by Henry's very presence.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Paladins are great at taking things the GM wants to use against you and going "Nope, none of that nonsense")

Strahd's magic manifests in an instant, bursting through the chamber like a storm of black sand. Darkness crashes against Henry's aura like a wave, but it envelops the rest of the party.

Suldae Westwind: (its great)

Strahd von Zarovich:

WISDOM

Rictavio

Ability: 19

GM: (That was from Rictavio)

Suldae Westwind: (oof)

(Henry might want to move closer to get other people into the aura lol)

Kasimir Velikov:

13

WISDOM SAVE (5)

Ezmerelda Veranius:

WISDOM SAVE

Ezmerelda Veranius

Save: 17

Henry of Willowsbrook: (He would if he could)

Ireena Kolyana:

16

WISDOM SAVE (3)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

20

WISDOM SAVE (6)

Suldae Westwind: (next turn)

(this shit is concentration)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

DARK ONE'S OWN LUCK

Class: The Fiend

Starting at 6th level, you can call on your patron to alter fate in your favor. When you make an ability check or a saving throw, you can use this feature to add a d10 to your roll. You can do so after seeing the initial roll but before any of the roll's effects occur.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a short or long rest.

5

(Ismark resists)

"RESIST IT! THEY'RE JUST ILLUSIONS!"

Ireena Kolyana: "NOOOOOO! PLEASE, NO!"

Rictavio: "OH GODS!"

"PELOR, HAVE MERCY!"

Kasimir Velikov: "PATRINA!!! NO!!!"

Gertruda: "MOM!? MOM!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'LL KILL YOU FOR THIS, YOU BASTARD!!!"

Suldae Westwind: (oh boy i dont like this for Gertrude)

Strahd von Zarovich: Standing in the howling darkness like a pair of crimson eyes.

Strahd says: "You should all have listened when I tried to warn you away."

"Now I shall have to kill you."

GM: (And now it's the NPC turn)

Suldae Westwind: (ALKFKSDHFDS SOMEONE HELP GERTRUDE)

Marcus Veranius: (Ismark has a chance to end this. If he breaks Strahd's concentration, the spell ends before anyone else is affected)

(GO, ELF HUSBANDO)

Ismark Kolyanovich: "Sorry, Marcus..."

DC17

Dexterity Save

14
Fire

12
Radiant

60 feet

Flame Strike

FOR DESCRIPTION ONLY

Flame Strike

Evocation 5

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Target: 10-foot radius, 40-foot-high cylinder centered on a point within range

Components: V, S, M (Pinch of sulfur)

Duration: Instantaneous

A vertical column of divine fire roars down from the heavens in a location you specify. Each creature in a 10-foot-radius, 40-foot-high cylinder centered on a point within range must make a Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes 4d6 fire damage and 4d6 radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, the fire damage or the radiant damage (your choice) increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 5th.

Ismark does his best to aim the blast, and trusts in Marcus to do the rest.

In the cracks between the stones beneath the feet of Strahd, magma begins to bubble and glow. Strahd has one moment to register what is about to happen before a blast of frenzied hellfire wraps him in a pillar of flame.

Marcus Veranius:

19

DEXTERITY SAVE (13)
Marcus Veranius

Strahd von Zarovich:

DEXTERITY SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 17

CONSTITUTION Strahd von Zarovich

<hr/> Ability: 21

Strahd's darkness wraps him in shadows even amid the brilliant flames, and he can be seen in silhouette. He maintains his grip on Marcus, and on his Concentration.

Marcus Veranius dodges the worst of the flames, but holds firm onto the lever

Marcus Veranius: This costs hom more than a few burns

(him

Suldae Westwind: now I'm not saying Rictavio should Death Ward Gertrude but I'm not saying he shouldn't

"Gertrude!" Suldae yells out telepathically as she realizes what the darkness can do to a child's soul, before she has time to cast her own spell

[referring to next turn]

Rictavio: "HENRY! HENRY, WHERE ARE YOU!"

Kasimir Velikov: "GET TO HENRY!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Still standing right over here" Henry replies just slightly exserbated exasperated

In the strange and howling darkness, you see many things which look like shadows, pacing horned and winged in forms of black mist. Eyes glitter in the dark.

The Sunsword's radiance pulses suddenly, flaring up—for a single moment, the chamber is clearly visible.

Ireena Kolyana: "EZ! HELP ME WITH GERTRUDA!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "ON IT!"

You hear a flutter of wings...

Ezmerelda and Ireena, both in hybrid form, come barreling in for a landing with Gertruda screaming between them.

Kasimir Velikov: "With me, old man!" Kasimir shouts.

Rictavio: "What, but! You're older than I am!"

Suldae Westwind: (asjkdfhalsdjl)

Kasimir Velikov:

Fly Transmutation 3 Casting Time: 1 action Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A wing feather from any bird)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

You touch a willing creature. The target gains a flying speed of 60 feet for the duration. When the spell ends, the target falls if it is still aloft, unless it can stop the fall.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 3rd.

GM: (Ok, so Ezmerelda, Ireena, and Rictavio all still have spells they can cast/actions they can take)

Suldae Westwind: (PROTECTION FROM GOOD AND EVIL)

Rictavio:

Protection from Evil and Good

Abjuration 1

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (Holy water or powdered silver and iron, which the spell consumes)

Duration: Concentration Up to 10 minutes

Until the spell ends, one willing creature you touch is protected against certain types of creatures - aberrations, celestials, elementals, fey, fiends, and undead.

The protection grants several benefits. Creatures of those types have disadvantage on attack rolls against the target. The target also can't be charmed, frightened, or possessed by them. If the target is already charmed, frightened, or possessed by such a creature, the target has advantage on any new saving throw against the relevant effect.

GM: (...Who am I casting it on?)

Suldae Westwind: (Gertrude fucking first)

(this is going to keep coming up otherwise)

GM: (It's Concentration)

(But I'm cool with that if you are)

Suldae Westwind: (a better question is whether Ric or Ezme should cast it)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (So I see there are more goons around)

Suldae Westwind: (Ezme has it too)

(and Ezme has a lot less use for Concentration)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Isn't Marcus still Hasted by her?)

Suldae Westwind: (oh youre right nm)

(Rictavio should redo Bless actually)

(Suldae will handle the protection)

(like not to be subtle about it but Fuck This Shit)

(Gertrude is a fucking live grenade in our midst and I will gladly use Suldae's concentration on defusing at least part of it)

Rictavio: Rictavio casts Bless on Marcus, Henry, Suldae, Gertruda, Ezmerelda, and himself.

Strahd von Zarovich: "Not so fast!"

"The gods have intervened enough, I think..."

COUNTERSPELL

Strahd casts Counterspell at the power level of his choice.

Suldae Westwind: (what level tho)

(can we tell)

GM: (5th)

(You can tell)

Suldae Westwind:

Counterspell

Abjuration 5

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

Strahd von Zarovich:

COUNTERSPELL

Strahd casts Counterspell at the power level of his choice.

Suldae Westwind: (asdjkhalsdfjlskd)

(im assuming its 5th again)

(?)

GM: (Yup)

Suldae Westwind:

Counterspell

Abjuration 6

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

The weave screams as Strahd and Suldae wrestle with it.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (You only have 1 reaction Lil)

Suldae Westwind: "No you," Suldae breathes out as she grips the Weave with all her might.

GM: (I believe you'd have to have another reaction to cast it again)

Suldae Westwind: (ah shit)

(rip)

(does anyone else)

GM: (Strahd has three reactions because he breaks the game terribly)

Suldae Westwind: (Strahd has three reactions bc we have the whole party & thats a threat)

Ireena Kolyana:

Counterspell*Abjuration 3*

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

GM: (But at 5th level)

Suldae Westwind: (TY)

(i was terrified you were going to have Ireena roll for it)

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena intervenes, wresting the spell away from both fighting parties and unentangling all three wills. Rictavio's spell manifests as intended.

"You've underestimated us, you evil bastard!"

"Tonight you die!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Ezme Ireena still have actions)

(Ugh magic Missiles?)

Suldae Westwind: (someshit like that lmao)

Ireena Kolyana:

You create three glowing darts of magical force. Each dart hits a creature of your choice that you can see within range. A dart deals 1d4 + 1 force damage to its target. The darts all strike simultaneously, and you can direct them to hit one creature or several.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the spell creates one more dart for each slot above 1st.

3
Force

120 feet

Magic Missile

GM: (At 5th level)

Suldae Westwind: (that meas a little more damage lol)Henry of Willowsbrook: (7 darts with 3 damage each)Ireena Kolyana releases a barrage of magic missiles, pummeling Strahd from afar.

GM: (21 points of damage, Strahd will roll Concentration)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CONSTITUTION
Strahd von Zarovich
Ability: 15

GM: (A pass)

Marcus Veranius: rolling 9d6 Acid

(2 + 5 + 6 + 3 + 3 + 5 + 6 + 2 + 6)

= 38

Strahd von Zarovich:*18

Higher Level Cast

12

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile
Ezmerelda VeraniusEzmerelda Veranius: (That was from Ez, not Strahd)

(Sorry)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CONSTITUTION
Strahd von Zarovich
Ability: 14

Strahd's concentration breaks.The howling darkness falls away, but demons of shadow linger still within the vault, eager now to shield their master.*Ezmerelda Veranius:*13

Higher Level Cast11

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile
Ezmerelda VeraniusMarcus Veranius *isn't confident he can survive this many demons while fending off Strahd...Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda looses a second barrage, but as it strikes Strahd, there is a strange betrayal...Strahd von Zarovich:*I AM THE LAND

Strahd causes a creature he can see who is loyal to himself to take damage in his stead. If this damage kills the recipient, any leftover damage is applied to Strahd. Strahd can use this ability only three times per day.

One of the shadows nearby dies in agony, and Strahd seems somehow unharmed...Strahd von Zarovich:LAIR ACTION: DOORSStrahd von Zarovich

Strahd targets any number of doors or windows, causing each one to either open or close as he wishes. Closed doors can be magically locked (needing a successful DC 20 Strength check to force open) until Strahd chooses to end the effect, or until Strahd uses this lair action again.

Suldae Westwind: (oof rip)*The chain which binds the portcullis to the lever snaps within the wall, and with a grinding scream of rusty metal, the portcullis rattles up into the ceiling.Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd grins like a demon, his fangs glittering in the sunsword's blazing light. His skin is blistered and burned, and falling away in chunks; his body and his armor are hacked to pieces, his cloak has burned away, but he fights now like a cornered beast—because he knows he is one.Henry of Willowsbrook: (GM it might have gotten lost but HEnry had asked Vasilika if she were able to help last turn any response to that?)Vasilika: Henry, take strength from the land! Rise to your feet, champion!

GM: (The aftereffects of Haste end early—take your turn please)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (eh so I had a turn last turn? that would have canged things a lot) changed

Vasilka: (No no—you have a turn this turn, before your next turn)

GM: (End of this round, before the beginning of next session's round)

Suldae Westwind: (Vasilika took some time to pick up the phone)

GM: (So... Right now)

(Well, that happens sometimes, when lots of things are happening at once)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (SO About that Instant tree...

Could we have a remix for that? I'll even offer up my Javelin of Lighting for the trick)

GM: (Lol what are you planning)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...Lightning spweinng Holy Tree in the door way? y'know nothing extraordinary) spewing

GM: (Uh)

(Sure)

(Why not)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry finds the magic Javelin with his hands as the gate opens "Oh no I don'T think so" and with his full might Henry hurls it at the soil peaking out from the ruined staircase.

"Bloom" Henry calls out activating the Javelin of Lightning. The order also resonates with the magic infused wooden shaft of the weapon causing it to sprout roots and branches even in flight.

It roots deep within the stones of Castle Ravenloft, and for a single rumbling moment it seems the whole fortress will collapse above your heads. Then, in an explosion of thickening branches, the javelin blooms. Lightning flickers down its branches and crackles from its crown as it impales several running vampires and completely blocks the hall in a portcullis of lightning.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Javelin does 4d6 lightning save for half btw if you want a baseline for the effect)

(I imagine standing next to it would be less than pleasant)

Strahd von Zarovich: "WHAT!?"

"I am the Ancient, I am the Land! Wither and die, tree!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae does not enjoy the idea of the castle collapsing on them, but if it takes Strahd as well...

The tree, remarkably, seems to ignore this.

Suldae Westwind: (asdklfjasklhdf i love no sells)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "The land you may be but I Speak for the Wild. And the Wild, Strahd, says fuck off and die"

GM: (I'm going to count planting that tree as a free action)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry retorts laughing giddily like a child at the may fairgrounds

GM: (Was there anything else you wanted to do on your turn?)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings almost absent mindedly at the nearest devil

25 + 1

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

7

Radiant

21

Slashing

29 + 4

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

8

Radiant

17*SlashingDC18no damage on saveStrength Save

The shield flies 60 feet in a straight line knocking enemies prone unless they succeed on the STR or DEX save. Medium or smaller creatures pinned by this attack take double the damage.

2*Radiant21Bludgeoning60 feet lineBone Shield Hammer

Henry of Willowsbrook

at strahd

(without the radiant)

He tears the shadow demon apart like a figure of mist. It has hardly time to scream before its tattered remnants fade.

Strahd von Zarovich:

STRENGTH
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 21

Strahd catches the shield, but it slips his grasp and returns to Henry's arm. Strahd is impeded by the fact that he is currently bearing Marcus's weight in his free hand.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry follows right behind his shield advancing on Strahd at an almost relaxed pace

Suldae Westwind: (marcus is still a bird, right, just for accuracy of mental image)
(well, human sized bird)

GM: (I believe he's in hybrid form)

Suldae Westwind: (precisely thanks)

Marcus Veranius: (He's been in hybrid form for most of the castle)
(And actually before the castle too. Only difference is he's not hiding it with Disguise Self)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah im just picturing Strahd holding whats basically a giant bird with one hand)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Closing in the last couple fett Henry wags his finger and clicks his tounge
"How rude of you Marcus to hog all the fun again"

Suldae Westwind: (its a stormy night and youre a terrible goose)

(Suldae was still locked onto him & following)

Marcus Veranius: CLOAK IN THE MOAT

Suldae Westwind: (basically this is her movement this round)

GM: (Is that EoT, Henry?)

Suldae Westwind: so im not quite clear what the plan was with the coffin

GM: (Somehow I always feel like you have more attacks)

Suldae Westwind: there was that message from the mage guy

Henry of Willowsbrook: End of the Extra Turn yes

"Ready to dance?" Henry says grinning wide

GM: (Ok, well before player turn starts, I'm going to take a legendary action)

Strahd von Zarovich:

BITE

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd makes one bite attack.

BITE (BAT OR VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 34

Damage: 18 magical piercing + 42 necrotic
The target's hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the necrotic damage taken, and Strahd regains hit points equal to that amount. The reduction lasts until the target finishes a long rest. The target dies if its hit point maximum is reduced to 0. A humanoid slain in this way and then buried in the ground rises the following night as a vampire spawn under Strahd's control.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (On liner to end the session)

Marcus Veranius gives a claws-up with the lever hand, thankful for Henry's approach

Suldae Westwind: what the FUCK

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd sinks his teeth into Marcus's neck once again, drinking deeply.
(Marcus is still grappled, ye? Hasn't had a turn yet)

Marcus Veranius: (21 Necrotic)

Suldae Westwind: hey so a while ago Suldae healed Ireena for 11 hp i dont think shes taken damage since then and any other damage than that 10 from the spell period

Strahd von Zarovich: Wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, Strahd says: "Ready enough."
He prepares to wield Marcus like a bludgeon.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Stop treating our Ranger like a juice box! He is marginally better than that)

Suldae Westwind: Ireena should be at full HP right now

^^

Marcus Veranius is almost out of fight...

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How much Max HP has he lost? or better how MUch Hp can he get back?)

Suldae Westwind: "Ireena", Suldae whispers in a warning and a question

Ireena Kolyana: "Yes?"

Marcus Veranius: (Marcus can heal up to 75 damage)

Suldae Westwind: (Ireena should be able to guess what Suldae is going to do from her tone) (shes going to do the healing again)

Ireena Kolyana: "Oh. Go ahead. I'm ready."

Suldae Westwind:

You sacrifice some of your health to mend another creature's injuries. You take 4d8 necrotic damage, and one creature of your choice that you can see within range regains a number of hit points equal to twice the necrotic damage you take +5.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd, and the healing additionally increases by 1 point for each slot level above 3rd.

9

Higher Level Cast

24 necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference
Suldae Westwind

(Marcus this time)

24+9 = 33, so 17 for each of us, and meanwhile 66+5=71 for Marcus

GM: (Holy shit)

Suldae Westwind: (there is a reason Suldae is doing this)

Strahd von Zarovich:

BITE (BAT OR VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 22

Damage: 17 magical
piercing + 44 necrotic
The target's hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the necrotic damage taken, and Strahd regains hit points equal to that amount. The reduction lasts until the target finishes a long rest. The target dies if its hit point maximum is reduced to 0. A humanoid slain in this way and then buried in the ground rises the following night as a vampire spawn under Strahd's control.

Strahd attempts to bite Marcus once again, sensing the life returning to his body—but Marcus is too swift.

Marcus Veranius finds newfound strength in sacrifice. There is no lever to hold, no clothes to conceal. Marcus swings for the Sunsword's Sibling in Strahd's possession, intending to shatter it for good

Marcus Veranius:

14 + 2

Sun-Axe (+13)
Marcus Veranius

8

Radiant/Fire

10

Radiant

Suldae Westwind: (RIP)

Strahd von Zarovich: "Stop that."

Marcus Veranius follows up with another strike on the spin

Marcus Veranius:

30 + 3

Sun-Axe (+13)
Marcus Veranius

12
Radiant/Fire

15
Radiant

16 + 3

>Sundering Strike (Sun-Axe)
(+13)
Marcus Veranius

As part of the attack action, make a single attack roll with your Sun-Axe against a creature wielding a weapon, including natural weapons. If the attack hits, the weapon is damaged, and all attacks made with this weapon have disadvantage. Another sundering strike destroys the weapon. This attack has no effect on magical weapons, unless your Sun-Axe is also magical.

9
Radiant/Fire

The Sun-Sword strikes the vorpal blade with great fury, and the black crystal begins to glow where it was struck. Another blow like that...

Marcus Veranius: [Haste]

Suldae Westwind: [i love this]

Marcus Veranius turns the spin upwards, sunsword held aloft to the crypt's ceiling. He brings it down like a headsman's axe onto the Vorpal Sword

Marcus Veranius:*27 + 3*Sun-Axe (+13)
Marcus Veranius7Radiant/Fire9Radiant31 + 2*>Sundering Strike (Sun-Axe)*(+13)
Marcus Veranius

As part of the attack action, make a single attack roll with your Sun-Axe against a creature wielding a weapon, including natural weapons. If the attack hits, the weapon is damaged, and all attacks made with this weapon have disadvantage. Another sundering strike destroys the weapon. This attack has no effect on magical weapons, unless your Sun-Axe is also magical.

14*Radiant/Fire*The vorpal sword shatters with an earth-shaking BANG!Shards of white-hot shrapnel scatter in every direction, needly-thin and cruel with darkness.Suldae Westwind: (im going to deduct the damage from the healing from Ireena and Suldae's totals)GM: (Make a Cha save, Marcus, Henry)Marcus Veranius:*18 + 4*CHARISMA SAVE (3)
Marcus VeraniusHenry of Willowsbrook:*10 + 8*CHARISMA SAVE (8)
Henry of WillowsbrookGM: (Go right ahead, Suldae)Henry of Willowsbrook: ...really a 2?The shrapnel rips neatly through both Henry and Marcus, dealing 13 piercing damage and 14 necrotic damage. Neither one of their souls is affected by the spraying shards, though they feel as though the whisper of death itself has passed right through their chests.

Strahd von Zarovich:

CHARISMA SAVE
Strahd von Zarovich

Save: 23

"Aaargh!"

"IMPUDENT MORTAL!!!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry swings

Fighting Spirit 2 attacks with 2 3rd level smites

19 + 2 | 35 + 2

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

30

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite/Radiant

21

Slashing

22 + 2 | 30 + 2

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

16*Undead Smite/Radiant Smite/Radiant22Slashing*

43 slashing and 46 radiant

Suldae Westwind: (will there even be anything left for Suldae's halo asdkfhasdlf)Henry of Willowsbrook: "Whiny Wannabe Immortal" Henry roars backSuldae Westwind: (da m n)

(get his ass)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd takes the first blow defenselessly, but cannot bear to take the second blow, and its damage is transferred across the room, instantly crushing another shadow demon.

Strahd clutches at his guts, grimacing, eyes blazing with hate.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry twirls his blade in a mocking fashion like a pretentious noble duelist(From Marcus Veranius): So Marcus is still under the effects of Freedom of Movement, and there have been several large flashes of energyHenry of Willowsbrook: and then immediately undercutting any sense of dignity by blowing the wettest raspberry possible at StrahdSuldae Westwind: Suldae claps(From Marcus Veranius): I would like to use 5 ft of movement to grapple escape, then a bonus action to hide in the chasm hole next to Ezmerelda(To Marcus Veranius): /as GM Sure thingMarcus Veranius: (To GM)rolling 1d20+11+1d8

(1)+11+(3)

= 15Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd is desperate. He reaches deep into his power, calling upon the tattered remnants of his kingdom.ACCURSED
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd attempts to cast heinous magic, and the gods opposed to him resist.

Any player can roll a single skill check of their choice to contest a single Charisma saving throw from Strahd, and cause this effect to backfire to the advantage of the players. Players must confer out of character before choosing who will roll the skill check, and what skill check will be rolled.

Strahd's dark magic manifests in one of the following ways.

- 1) One character of the winner's choice is now long-rested.
- 2) Two characters of the winner's choice regain their expended spell slots, class features, and magic item charges, but not their HP.
- 3) One character of the winner's choice loses half of their AC until the end of their next turn.
- 4) One character of the winner's choice loses half of their remaining HP.

Regardless of who wins the contest, Strahd takes 2d8 psychic damage. If Strahd wins the contest, he immediately casts one spell of his choice upon one target he can hear or smell, then uses his I am the Ancient feature if he still has a reaction to use. If he has no reactions remaining for the round, his AC drops by five points until his next turn.

Suldae Westwind: Pushed by Correllon's unseen hand, Suldae raises the flute to her lips and plays a melody of defiance.

Strahd von Zarovich: (Strahd will be rolling with advantage, for this)

Suldae Westwind:

16

RELIGION (13)
Suldae Westwind

24

PERFORMANCE (16)
Suldae Westwind

(sorry first one was a misclick)

Strahd von Zarovich:

CHARISMA Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Ability: 22 12

Suldae Westwind: (LOL)Henry of Willowsbrook: (GAHAHAHAHAHA EAT SHIT STRAHD GAHAHAHAHAHAHA)

The power of Barovia twists and turns, and Suldae sinks her magic into the roots of the curse and turns it, in a moment, like the volta of a song, and in her hands Barovia rejects Strahd wholesale.

GM: (Which feature will you use, and on whom?)Suldae Westwind: can i decide by next week

pls

its 11 pm

im sleep

GM: (Lol sure thing, sorry)Suldae Westwind: that said marcus being long rested sounds like an interesting option, consideringGM: (It's a good cliffhanger to end on)Suldae Westwind: of course fucking up strahd's ac also sounds amazing and then theres the option of recovering spell slots

...

GM: (To be fair, you haven't had a hard time hitting Strahd)Suldae Westwind: yeah next week

(my halo has)

GM: (Lol next week)

(Oh true, good point)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (could you roll the damage on Strahd pls)Strahd von Zarovich: 10Marcus Veranius: rolling 5d6 Acid since Strahd's turn is coming up

(6 + 3 + 3 + 1 + 2)

= 15

Suldae Westwind: Strahd: why do i feel like im rotting from the inside what am i missing

Strahd: eh its too familiar a feelign to really tell

GM: (Strahd also happens to be out of reactions, so his AC drops by 5 and he does not use his I am the Ancient ability)

Henry of Willowsbrook: And as the land disobeys him, the acid courses through his veins and the wet spit lands on his cheeks

GM: (So if you halved his AC at this point, it would go from 19 to 9, but only until the end of his next turn anyway, which is coming right up)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (truely three equally bad occurences I swear)

Suldae Westwind: (so the meaningfully useful choice is between long resting Marcus and regaining resources on some two people)

GM: (Those are probably the wisest options, yes)

Suldae Westwind: (the thing is, returning Henry his smites slaps)

GM: (Yes, yes it does)

Marcus Veranius: (To GM)rolling 1d20+16+3

(7)+16+3

= 26

GM (GM): (Howdy)

Liliet (Suldae): (im here!!!)

GM (GM): (Alrighty, I believe we left it hanging with you about to make a very important choice)

Liliet (Suldae): yeah ive basically come to a decision about how to make the decision

GM (GM): Lol

Just do what Suldae would do in the immediate moment

Liliet (Suldae): thats not what it says in the description 9.9

also, telepathic bond

Suldae can totally mentally confer with her teammates and evaluate how they are feeling about htis

GM (GM): lol

It's ok to make a choice, even if it isn't perfect

Liliet (Suldae): yeah but like ive basically already decided I just need Marcus's input also where is Marcus's token

GM (GM): I'm not sure

(From Tops K.): Marcus is hidden in the chasm by Ezmerelda, Bonus Action Hide last round during Bladespllosion

(To Tops K.): I know

(To Tops K.): the point is I'm not telling them that

Liliet (Suldae): Marcus and Henry feel reinvigorated in all senses except the literal

(2 long rests without the healing)

also, where is Marcus's token

(To Tops K.): Is your plan actually to have Marcus ditch Henry & Suldae and the rest without telling them goodbye? Or will they be in on the fact of your "death" and this is more for the sake of some of the larger allies/Barovia at large

GM (GM): (Marcus is currently hidden very well.)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (How about GM looks for the token and you start on the Halo attacks you wanted to do)

Liliet (Suldae): OH

I was looking whose turn it was lmao

GM (GM): lol

After the Halo, it's Strahd's

Suldae Westwind: well then

15

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

15

Thunder

uh

GM (GM): (Unfortunately, that is a miss)

(His AC is currently 19)

Suldae Westwind: anticlimactic lol

ty

EoT if i remember correctly

GM (GM): Since you just ripped a very powerful spell away from him, go ahead and roll that with advantage, please

Suldae Westwind: HMM

14

Halo throw (+12)
Suldae Westwind

13

Thunder

uhhh

dice say no

lmao

GM (GM): Dice does indeed say no

Strahd von Zarovich: The Halo zooms towards Strahd.

BOUNDARIES

If a creature steps into Strahd's reach, Strahd takes one unarmed strike against them, attempting to grapple.

UNARMED STRIKE (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY) Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 20 | 35

Damage: 7 bludgeoning +
10 necrotic

If the target is a creature, Strahd can grapple it (escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning damage.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is staggered by the might of the magic she'd managed to turn against the man, and the Halo is wobbly in its flight.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd catches the Halo.

It burns in his grasp, but he clings to it even as sparks and cinders crumble from his palms.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae raises her eyebrows. She doubts he can damage it, meanwhile it can clearly damage him quite fine.

Not her original intent, but she supposes this'll do

(brb)

Strahd von Zarovich: His face is feral rage, his eyes are whirling crimson gyres of spectral flame. You have chipped through the mask of whatever once made him human. You face now the true demon within, the beast of greed and lust that turned the man into the monster.

UNARMED STRIKE (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY) Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 38 | 30

Damage: 10 + 1
bludgeoning + 19 + 22
necrotic

If the target is a creature, Strahd can grapple it (escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning damage.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (who is he attacking?)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd grips the Halo firmly in both hands, and bends it almost completely in half.

He drops it to one side with a growl and it lands with a heavy clunk.

MULTIATTACK (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd makes three attacks, uses his Shadow Step ability, and casts one spell.

UNARMED STRIKE (VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 31 | 27

Damage: 9 bludgeoning + 14 necrotic

If the target is a creature, Strahd can grapple it (escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning damage.

BITE (BAT OR VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)

Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 37 | 26

Damage: 20 magical piercing + 47 necrotic

The target's hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the necrotic damage taken, and Strahd regains hit points equal to that amount. The reduction lasts until the target finishes a long rest. The target dies if its hit point maximum is reduced to 0. A humanoid slain in this way and then buried in the ground rises the following night as a vampire spawn under Strahd's control.

Strahd reaches out a hand and grabs Henry, and crushes him close for a desperate bite. He sinks his fangs deep, sucking life from the holy warrior. (The unarmed attack is a grapple)

Strahd von Zarovich: (That's the first two attacks)

Strahd drops Henry to one side and lunges for Suldae.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (yep 50 points of damage)

Suldae Westwind: (dang)

(brb again)

Strahd von Zarovich:

UNARMED STRIKE
(VAMPIRE FORM ONLY)
Strahd von Zarovich

Attack: 25 | 25

Damage: 8 bludgeoning +
19 necrotic

If the target is a creature,
Strahd can grapple it
(escape DC 18) instead of dealing the bludgeoning
damage.

Strahd picks up Suldae by the throat.

Suldae Westwind: (so he does)

Strahd von Zarovich: (One moment)

(Buffering)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, well aware that struggling physically is futile, only pushes him away enough to flip him the bird in his field of view.

Strahd von Zarovich:

Feeblemind
Enchantment 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 150 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A handful of clay, crystal, glass, or mineral spheres)

Duration: Instantaneous

You blast the mind of a creature that you can see within range, attempting to shatter its intellect and personality. The target takes 4d6 psychic damage and must make an Intelligence saving throw. On a failed save, the creature's Intelligence and Charisma scores become 1. The creature can't cast spells, activate magic items, understand language, or communicate in any intelligible way. The creature can, however, identify its friends, follow them, and even protect them. At the end of every 30 days, the creature can repeat its saving throw against this spell. If it succeeds on its saving throw, the spell ends. The spell can also be ended by greater restoration, heal, or wish.

SPELL SAVE DC: 46

(That DC is wrong, hang on)

(wtf where did that come from)

Feeblemind

Enchantment 8

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 150 feet

Target: A creature that you can see within range

Components: V, S, M (A handful of clay, crystal, glass, or mineral spheres)

Duration: Instantaneous

You blast the mind of a creature that you can see within range, attempting to shatter its intellect and personality. The target takes 4d6 psychic damage and must make an Intelligence saving throw. On a failed save, the creature's Intelligence and Charisma scores become 1. The creature can't cast spells, activate magic items, understand language, or communicate in any intelligible way. The creature can, however, identify its friends, follow them, and even protect them. At the end of every 30 days, the creature can repeat its saving throw against this spell. If it succeeds on its saving throw, the spell ends. The spell can also be ended by greater restoration, heal, or wish.

SPELL SAVE DC: 26

(That's still wrong)

(Should be 20)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry attacks him in response to the spell cast)

Strahd von Zarovich: (Go for it)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

27 + 3

Vorpalsword (+17)
Henry of Willowsbrook

When you Attack a creature that has at least one head with this weapon and roll a 20 on the Attack roll, you cut off one of the creature's heads. The creature dies if it can't survive without The Lost head. A creature is immune to this effect if it is immune to slashing damage, doesn't have or need a head, has legendary Actions, or the DM decides that the creature is too big for its head to be cut off with this weapon. Such a creature instead takes an extra 6d8 slashing damage from the hit.

2
Radiant

19
Slashing

Strahd von Zarovich: (That's a hit)

Suldae Westwind: (so Marcus was standing next to where Henry is right now and Strahd was grappling him)

(apparently he is no longer grappled I take it)

GM: (He still had Freedom of Movement from earlier)

(He is no longer grappled, that is correct)

Suldae Westwind: (ooh I forgot that)

GM: (Henry, if the special reaction attack hits, does it automatically interrupt the spell or something?)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

MAGE SLAYER

Feat:

You have practiced techniques useful in melee combat against spellcasters, gaining the following benefits:

- When a creature within reach you can take opportunity attacks casts a spell, you can use your reaction to make a melee weapon attack against that creature.
- When you damage a creature that is concentrating on a spell, they have disadvantage on the saving throw it makes to maintain concentration.
- You have advantage on saving against spells cast by creatures with your reach.

(That's all it does)

GM: (Gotcha)

Suldae Westwind: (I have my reaction back tho)

GM: (So need a Counterspell or a DC 20 Int save from Suldae, then)

Suldae Westwind: (don't I)

(yep)

GM: (Yes, you do)

(Brb one sec)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae twists the Weave back away from Strahd in a fit of will, staring him straight in the hateful, dark eyes.

Counterspell

Abjuration 8

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

SPELL SAVE DC: 19

(if i fail to resist this i wont have any use for my spell slots anyway amirite)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (true)

GM: (beautiful)

(Now that's what I call resource management)

(Alright, it's NPC turn)

(Any special requests?)

(From Tops K.): Marcus politely requests over telepathy that Ez drops the horn into his hidey pit

Ireena Kolyana: "You let her go, you monster!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches him self after being tossed aside and swings for Strahd as he grabs Suldae (just describing the reaction attack)

GM: /w Tops She does so

Ireena Kolyana: lol

Suldae Westwind: Suldae glares Strahd in the eye. He is a spellcaster with few peers, but her own mastery had grown over the time she'd opposed him beyond what once would have been the limit of her imagination.

(To Tops K.): She does so

Suldae Westwind: (I mean would a Freedom of Movement be possible)

Strahd von Zarovich: "You are no weakling..." he says. He sounds almost surprised.

Freedom of Movement

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (A leather strap, bound around the arm or a similar appendage)

Duration: 1 hour

You touch a willing creature. For the duration, the target's movement is unaffected by difficult terrain, and spells and other magical effects can neither reduce the target's speed nor cause the target to be paralyzed or restrained.

The target can also spend 5 feet of movement to automatically escape from nonmagical restraints, such as manacles or a creature that has it grappled. Finally, being underwater imposes no penalties on the target's movement or attacks.

.....
SPELL SAVE DC: 15

Suldae Westwind: Suldae blows a raspberry in his face, using the fact he's so close to her against him.

(I take it I don't get to actually escape until it's my turn?)

Rictavio: Rictavio hops what's left of the pit, lands beside Suldae, and taps her on the foot—the only thing within reach. Strahd has gotten a bit taller in the darkness, it seems.

GM: (That is correct)

Strahd von Zarovich:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

SPELL SAVE DC: 26

Suldae Westwind: (was that lvl 4?)

Strahd von Zarovich: (No, he's going to roll)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Strahd von Zarovich:

INTELLIGENCE
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 19 | 27

Strahd breaks the spell of Rictavio before it can take hold.

"No. I am not finished with you yet."

Ireena Kolyana:

Counterspell

Abjuration 3

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect. At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

SPELL SAVE DC: 14

"Oh yes you are."

GM: (Rictavio's spell takes hold)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae feels the Weave crackle against her, as allied spellcasters pit their own wills against Strahd in aiding her escape.

GM: (Ireena, Ezmerelda, Ismark, and Kasimir still have their full actions/movements etc)

Suldae Westwind: She feels as though she's flying, which is a bit fitting in an ironic way considering her feet are, indeed, not touching the ground.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well Ismark is out of spellslots so I assume he will Eldritch Blast Strahd or one of the other enemies)

Tops K.: (More Twin-Magic Missiles from Ez?)

Ismark Kolyanovich:

26

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

14

24

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

11

16

300 feet

Eldritch Blast (+9)

Eldritch Spear with Agonizing Blast.
(range boosted to 300 feet, add CHA modifier to damage)

12

Ismark looses three beams of crimson fire at Strahd. Strahd catches one of them upon the palm of his hand, canceling its effect, but the other two strike him in the torso.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is really grateful for how good Ismark's aim is.

Kasimir Velikov:

10

Higher Level Cast

6

Force

120 ft

Magic Missile

"Unhand her, you lout! You'll get no more blood from us today!"

Ezmerelda Veranius:

MAGIC MISSILE (ROBE OF STARS)

Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 12

Damage: 23 force

MAGIC MISSILE (ROBE OF STARS)

Ezmerelda Veranius

Attack: 10

Damage: 23 force

Ezmerelda opens wide her cloak of stars and unleashes twin waves of magic missiles.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is almost feeling embarrassed from all the attention. Sure she's a bard, but being rescued and a performance aren't the same thing, and she always pictured herself as the one doing the rescuing...

Ireena Kolyana:

Dancing Lights

Evocation Cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 120 feet

Target: Four points within range

Components: V, S, M (A bit of phosphorus or wychwood, or a glowworm)

Duration: Concentration Up to 1 minute

You create up to four torch-sized lights within range, making them appear as torches, lanterns, or glowing orbs that hover in the air for the duration. You can also combine the four lights into one glowing vaguely humanoid form of Medium size. Whichever form you choose, each light sheds dim light in a 10-foot radius. As a bonus action on your turn, you can move the lights up to 60 feet to a new spot within range. A light must be within 20 feet of another light created by this spell, and a light winks out if it exceeds the spell's range.

SPELL SAVE DC: 14

Coordinating psychically, Ireena unleashes a barrage of flashing lights in the moment Suldae attempts to escape!

Suldae Westwind: Suldae, forewarned, squints, only keeping her eyes open enough to enjoy the look on Strahd's face as this happens.

(is this all NPCs)

GM: (It is)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

Strahd von Zarovich: (Go ahead and roll that escape check with advantage)

(The DC is 18)

Suldae Westwind: what check?

> The target can also spend 5 feet of movement to automatically escape from nonmagical restraints

Strahd von Zarovich: (Oh lol duh)

(What was the point of the dancing lights, then?)

Suldae Westwind: (yeah this was just for fun and to conserve spell slots lmao)

(to piss him off)

Strahd von Zarovich: (Lol)

Strahd seems momentarily irritated with the dancing lights just long enough for Suldae to slip effortlessly free from his grasp.

Suldae Westwind: (I know there's not a lot left to go but fuck this guy's composure and strategical thinking)

Marcus Veranius hasn't been seen since the sword's explosion, yet light still floods the chamber

Suldae Westwind: Suldae backs up, though not so far that Ricravio would present an easier target.

Marcus Veranius: In fact, it begins growing brighter

And brighter.

Suldae Westwind: (can I just use my movement and then the rest after Marcus's turn)

GM: (For sure)

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

(From Marcus Veranius): As Marcus uses an action to brighten the sunsword

-  Suldae Westwind: (doing that then)
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry might have to stop attacking for a turn and heal himself a bit this turn)
-  Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd snarls like a panther, crouching, shielding himself from the light.
-  Suldae Westwind: (don't. Suldae does that)
-  Henry of Willowsbrook: (So I'll go last)
-  Suldae Westwind: (go after Suldae then, that's reasonable)
-  Marcus Veranius: "Sibling slain by sibling, then slain by one who truly hates."
-  Marcus Veranius 's voice echoes from multiple points in the room
-  Suldae Westwind: (HOLY SHIT)
-  Marcus Veranius: "I have stolen your ritual Strahd; this castle gives birth to gods once again."
-  "The Dawn": "I am The Dawn, the light that rises over this new land of Barovia. Your reach can no longer grasp me. There is naught for you to slay, for now I too am eternal."

GM: (Roll deception with advantage, and intimidation with advantage)
 (And don't forget Bless)
 (Oh wait I don't think it works on skills)

 "The Dawn":

18		15
DECEPTION (12)
Marcus Veranius
31		17
INTIMIDATION (12)
Marcus Veranius

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "...did I get hit that hard?" Henry asks no one in particular

 Strahd von Zarovich:

INITIATIVE Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Initiative: 21

 "The Dawn": (Hang on, lemme double check something)

 Strahd von Zarovich: (wrong button sorry)

"The Dawn": rolling 1d8 Silver Tongue deception bonus (thanks suldae for Maneuver refresh)

(2)

= 2

Suldae Westwind: (I love this combo of deception and intimidation: don't believe him but still be absolutely terrifying)

G: < (...Reroll it)

Suldae Westwind: *terrified)

GM: (The silver tongue thingy, I mean)

Suldae Westwind: (anyway are you counting +5 from the armor? just checking)

"The Dawn": rolling 1d8

(6)

= 6

(Also yes)

Suldae Westwind: (to intimidation)

GM: (I'm going to be as generous as possible because these are going to be contested rolls)

(So a 24 Deception and a 31 Intimidation)

(Those are going to be countered with an intelligence check and a charisma check, both at disadvantage for Strahd)

Strahd von Zarovich:

INTELLIGENCE
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 14 | 20

CHARISMA
Strahd von Zarovich

Ability: 14 | 28

Suldae Westwind: (FUCK HIM UPPPPP)

Strahd von Zarovich: "No... NO! NOOO!"

Suldae Westwind: (can I toot a DUN DUN DUNNN as a free action)

Strahd von Zarovich: "I WILL DESTROY YOU! I WILL DESTROY YOUR FRIENDS! I DENY YOU, DAWN! YOU ARE NO GOD! I WILL SHOW YOU WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A GOD."

(He totally believes it tho)

"The Dawn" shines brightly, forcing Strahd off-guard. The next attack against Strahd Advantage to hit

(From "The Dawn"): Bonus Action Help Action - Mastermind Rogue

GM: (I forgot to perform a lair action, so before we go any further I'm going to do that)

(From "The Dawn"): At range of up to 30 ft if the target can hear or see you

Strahd von Zarovich:

LAIR ACTION: PASSWALL
Strahd von Zarovich

Until initiative count 20 of the next round, Strahd can pass through solid walls, doors, ceilings, and floors as if they weren't there.

Sulda Westwind: (is this an escape action lmao)

GM: (It will be, if he gets another turn)

Sulda Westwind: (that's a big ass if right there)

GM: (It just prepares him to glide through the walls like a ghost)

Sulda Westwind: (yeah I'm just looking at this like this sure doesn't look like an attack)

Strahd von Zarovich: (That was his lair action)

(I'm going to take a reaction now though)

(One sec)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...the fuck is going on...." Henry murmurs "...eh what ever, Fuck Him Up!"

Strahd von Zarovich:

NO, YOU LIVE TO SUFFER
Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd causes one enemy who has died to return to life as a Revenant.

Sulda Westwind: Sulda has no clue what's happening but is enjoying this greatly anyway.

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd reaches for the soul of Marcus, intent on ripping it back from the void beyond... Only to find that Marcus's soul is somehow beyond his power.

(Because he's not dead)

Sulda Westwind: (AKJDSHKLFJDHSKFLJSD)

Strahd von Zarovich: Strahd looks at his hands, eyes widening in horror, realizing at last how he has been outdone.

GM: (Any additional stuff on your turn, Marcus?)

"The Dawn": (I was gunna do something at round-end if we can split up actions)

GM: (I'll allow it)

(Go ahead with your turn, Suldae)

(I regret to inform you that the Halo is no longer functioning)

Suldae Westwind: (I got that impression but ty for the clarification yeah)

GM: (I mean, you could throw it, but)

Suldae Westwind: (welp frees up my bonus action)

Suldae checks with Ireena mentally, as she notes Henry's state after failing to shield her. This will not stand either way...

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena is ready for whatever Suldae has planned.

Suldae Westwind:

You sacrifice some of your health to mend another creature's injuries. You take 4d8 necrotic damage, and one creature of your choice that you can see within range regains a number of hit points equal to twice the necrotic damage you take +5.

At Higher Levels: When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd, and the healing additionally increases by 1 point for each slot level above 3rd.

7

Higher Level Cast

26

necrotic

30 feet

Life Transference

Suldae Westwind

($33/2 = 17$ to both Ireena and Suldae, $33*2+5+1 = 72$ healing to Henry)

GM: (It's so beautiful)

Suldae Westwind: (it is)

(and now for the followup)

1

Higher Level Cast

8

Healing

60 feet

Mass Healing Word
Suldae Westwind

Suldae pulls the flute away from her lips and sings, rejuvenating everyone who can hear her.
(okay could have more oomph but)
)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (...you can cast two leveled spells in one turn tho)

Suldae Westwind: (wait shit)

Henry of Willowsbrook: can't

Suldae Westwind: (i forgot)

GM: (Oh shoot, Henry's right)
(Lol)

Suldae Westwind: (ok then)

GM: (Any other bonus action activity?)

Suldae Westwind: (can Suldae use the bonus action to provide a dramatic soundtrack to make whatever Henry and Marcus do more dramatic)

GM: (Yes)
(Absolutely)

Suldae Westwind: (doing that then)
(EoT)

GM: (Henry, you're up)

Suldae Westwind: (GM did u do the damage to Suldae bc I havent)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Question did the refresh also affect Magic Items?)

GM: (What damage)

Suldae Westwind: (the life transference damage)

GM: (Yes, the refresh also affected magic items)
(I applied it to Ireena, but not to you)

Suldae Westwind: (ty i will then)

GM: (I think)

Suldae Westwind: Suldae winces as she feels not only her own strength sap, but Ireena's as well, through the bond. But Ireena is on the other side of the room, safe as can be... in this situation...

GM: (Actually wait, one sec)
(Legendary Action)

Henry of Willowsbrook: ...okay

Strahd von Zarovich:

MOVE

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd moves up to his speed without provoking opportunity attacks.

Suldae Westwind: (the Dancing Lights are still in his face)

GM: (They have no mechanical effect)

Suldae Westwind: (yes)

(im just pointing out)

(for the ambience)

(also im p sure he has a harder time seeing shit with them)

(i know its not in the spell description but really lmao)

GM: (Actually, wait)

Henry of Willowsbrook: ...well there goes my turn seeing has strahd has yeeted himself out the room, which direction did he go? into the big room or somewhere else?

GM: (I'm going to retcon that move)

(Even if it makes sense for him, realistically if it makes sense once he's just going to use it every lair action)

(He could move like... Hundreds of feet away, through the walls, before you even got your turn)

(So scratch that)

(You won't like the alternative either, but it's less cheap than he instantly gets away and there's nothing you can do)

Strahd von Zarovich:

ENOUGH OF THIS!

Strahd von Zarovich

Strahd causes one chamber of the castle to collapse, granting himself 20d6 temporary hitpoints. At the same time, he teleports to another part of the castle. These effects can be countered with two separate DC 18 Counterspells.

Chambers above the collapsing chamber also collapse. Any creature within a collapsing chamber must succeed on a DC 20 Dexterity saving throw or take 10d6 necrotic damage and 8d6 bludgeoning damage. In addition, falling characters who cannot fly take maximum fall damage from the heights of the chambers they fall through in a collapse unless they are rescued by some means or they succeed on a DC 18 Dex or Str save.

GM: (Suldae, I believe you have your reaction back)

Suldae Westwind: (so I do)

GM: (So does Ireena and Kasimir and Rictavio, I'm pretty sure)
(Who will be making the counterspell rolls?)

Suldae Westwind: (to be clear, i cannot expend a lvl 7 slot to pass this automatically?)

GM: (That is correct)

Suldae Westwind: (ty got it)

Suldae feels herself flagging - Strahd is still her superior in magic, which is no surprise. She will not be able to pull this off much longer, but for the moment she reaches out and takes hold of the Weave...

Counterspell

Abjuration 4

Casting Time: 1 reaction, which you take when you see a creature within 60 feet of you casting a spell

Range: 60 feet

Target: A creature in the process of casting a spell

Components: S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to interrupt a creature in the process of casting a spell. If the creature is casting a spell of 3rd level or lower, its spell fails and has no effect. If it is casting a spell of 4th level or higher, make an ability check using your spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + the spell's level. On a success, the creature's spell fails and has no effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the interrupted spell has no effect if its level is less than or equal to the level of the spell slot you used.

SPELL SAVE DC: 19

CHARISMA (6+2)
Suldae WestwindKasimir Velikov: (Using Kasimir because he has the highest bonus and a history of rolling well)Suldae Westwind: (ty lmao)Kasimir Velikov: (Plus he's the only full wizard in the party)14*INTELLIGENCE SAVE (8)*Suldae Westwind: (isnt it a check not a save)Henry of Willowsbrook: (It is)Kasimir Velikov: (It totally is, it's an arcana check, my bad)12*ARCANA (8)*Henry of Willowsbrook: (nope straight int)Kasimir Velikov: (Oh ffs)10*INTELLIGENCE (4)

Straight int, you say

Suldae Westwind: (well, Kasimir does not succeed it seems)Ezmerelda Veranius:

INTELLIGENCE Ezmerelda Veranius <hr/> Ability: 11
--

Ireena Kolyana:*11*INTELLIGENCE (2)*Suldae Westwind: (not everyone can be a bard and add their proficiency bonus to straight ability checks)Henry of Willowsbrook: (Unless you are an abjuration wizard you do not add prof to counterspell attempts)Suldae Westwind: (uhhh Rictavio)Ismark Kolyanovich: (Ismark has Counterspell but no spell slots left)Suldae Westwind: (Jack of All Trades)

(I knew. I fucking knew I should have refreshed one of the spellcasters and not Marcus)
(alas)

Rictavio: (Rictavio does not have Counterspell)

GM: (Henry, I'll let you make a contested grapple check to try and grab him so that the teleport takes you along)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Well seeing as we are in the basement atleast we wont fall)

34 + 1

ATHLETICS (14)
Henry of Willowsbrook

GM: (No no, you countered the collapse and the temporary hitpoints)
(All that's at stake now is the teleport)

Henry of Willowsbrook: Beat a 35 you undead dipshit

Strahd von Zarovich:

ACROBATICS Strahd von Zarovich <hr/> Skill: 34

Suldae Westwind: (LMAP)

O

(WELL HE DIDNT)

Henry manages to grab him in the instant before he teleports, and both of them vanish from sight.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh no you don-" Henry says leaping forward

Suldae Westwind: (can Suldae use Telepathic Bond to figure out where they are)

The castle twists and shifts, and beneath your feet you feel a trembling of the earth.

Boom.

Millions of massive roots burst forth from the crevasse, lunging toward the ceiling of the chamber as they grow with supernatural speed. They creep between the cracks of Castle Ravenloft and split the ceiling of the chamber wide open, thrusting the floor you stand upon into the storm-tossed skies above the castle.

You are just in time to see Strahd Von Zarovich reappear in the air above the castle, and clinging to him: Henry.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "-ddamn blood sucking piece of pompous trash" Henry curses

Suldae Westwind: ...Well that looks bad.

Strahd von Zarovich: "CAN YOU FLY, HENRY?"

"I DIDN'T THINK SO."

Suldae Westwind: (who was Fly cast on)

Lightning splits the sky behind him, and his hair whips wildly in the darkness.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (not Henry)

Suldae Westwind: (reasonable)

(can I get the wereraven token down to size

)

(To Marcus Veranius): (So how would you like to have Ezmerelda disappear at this point, to help Marcus's plans in the next bit by DM magic shenanigans if necessary?)

GM: (By how would you like I mean would you like)

(One sec

(Typing in too many things)

(From "The Dawn"): I don't thin Ez needs to at the moment

Suldae Westwind: (ty)

The roots deposit you all upon the walls of Castle Ravenloft.

GM: (Except, curiously enough, Marcus... Maybe he really is gone)

(From "The Dawn"): But Marcus will use his Action Surge to birb form and hide in Ez's cloak given that his cover is busto

(To Tops K.): Beautiful)

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae is not buying that)

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I DON'T FUCKING NEED TO IF HE CAN" Henry yells grinning manically at pointing at Argynvost shadowy form circling the castle sky "HE ARGYNVOST LOOKY WHAT I FOUND IN THE BASEMENT!!!!" He yells over the storm

Hey* not he

"The Dawn" 's voice rings out again, speaking to a far-away spellcaster through a sending stone

"The Dawn": "Launch the coffin."

Suldae Westwind: (this. is. beautiful)

Argynvost: "Ah, little wizard! How long have I waited, and watched you from your Ossuary? How long have I longed to devour you? Too long."

The great silver dragon dives through the storm, and Strahd snarls, great wings of darkness unfurling from his back in the flickering stormlight.

Strahd von Zarovich: "I am the Ancient. I am the Land!"

Now outside all holy light, Strahd begins to heal in Henry's hands.

Henry of Willowsbrook: 'Ireena tell me you still have a fether fall left in you' Henry says in through the telepathic bond 'I might need it soon'

Suldae Westwind: "Is he ever going to get tired of saying that," Suldae mumurs to the others through the Telepathic Bond link.

(I'm assuming he can be heard bc hes loud and drama)

Ireena Kolyana: "60 foot range, Henry!"

"But it's ok because Suldae has Resurrection!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: '...not reassureing'

Joan: "WHY WOULD HE NEED RESURRECTION? WHAT THE HELL IS HAPPENING IN THERE?"

Suldae Westwind: "Please come up with a different plan if you can though!!!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry still has his action right?)

Mordenkainen: "I would encourage you all to take cover expeditiously. You will need at least a foot of stone for shelter."

GM: (Absolutely, Henry still has his full turn)

Suddenly, winds whirl around Ireena, and something zooms invisibly toward Henry.

He feels his weight somehow no longer matters at all... The winds have him.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ruination is upon you Strahd"

Strahd von Zarovich: "Careful, Henry! Pride cometh before a fall!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: 4 attacks with fighting Spirit action surge and dem smites

Strahd von Zarovich: jesus

Henry of Willowsbrook:

$$29 + 4 \quad | \quad 29 + 4$$

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

38

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite/Radiant

18
Piercing

8
Acid

$$29 + 3 \quad | \quad 36 + 3$$

60ft

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)

Henry of Willowsbrook

29 + 25

Undead Smite/Radiant Smite/Radiant

1

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 21 + 2 & 28 + 2 \\ \hline 60ft \end{array}$$

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 22 & \\ \hline \text{Undead Smite/Radiant Smite/Radiant} \end{array}$$

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 17 & 9 \\ \hline \text{Piercing} & \text{Acid} \end{array}$$

GM: (Hooooooly)

Henry of Willowsbrook:

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 25 + 3 & 32 + 3 \\ \hline 60ft \end{array}$$

Baleful Dragonbone Warpick

(+16)
Henry of Willowsbrook

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 9 & \\ \hline \text{Radiant Smite Damage/Undead} \\ \text{Smite/Radiant} \end{array}$$

$$\begin{array}{c|c} 16 & 11 \\ \hline \text{Piercing} & \text{Acid} \end{array}$$

Strahd von Zarovich: For a split second as Henry raises his Warpick, Strahd thinks he still has the upper hand. Then the mighty paladin does not fall, and Strahd's expression opens wide into dismay and even terror.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (I heard you like d8s)

GM: (Final damage?)

Suldae Westwind: akdjflhasldlfjhaslkdfjhaslkjdfh

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Gimme a sec 70 piercing 123 radiant 43 acid)

Suldae Westwind: (the wind spirits???? was that the wind spirits???)
(akjsdfhlaksjfdhaj)

WHAM. WHAM. WHAM. WHAM.

There isn't even time to say "Oh Fuck."

Strahd spins away, a twisted wreck of himself, half-shattered, a figure more of mist than flesh. Bits of his body rain in all directions, burning away like singed paper. Something like the shape of a man still hangs there, in the air before Henry.

Behind the vampire still clinging to his un-life, Henry sees something getting very rapidly closer... A coffin?

 Suldae Westwind: (oh boy)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "And speaking of pride, I'm sure you are proud of your spell craft" Henry say seeing it coming" So really you brought what comes next on yourself"

 Strahd von Zarovich: Stunned, Strahd mutters: "What...?"

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry metally asks the wind to GET HIM THE FUCK AWAY OH GOD OH NO

Abruptly, the wind spirits lift Henry by the arms and swoop away with him, diving towards his companions far below.

GM: (Where do you take cover?)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry points at the coffin as he speeds away

 Suldae Westwind: (okay so) (I have a semblance of a plan)
(Kasimir and one other person should still have Fly)
(and we have 4 wereravens on top of that)
(we get the fuck down behind that wall)
(carrying whomstever is necessary, Gertruda included)

 Henry of Willowsbrook: (wait Henry so farr is the only one besides MARCUS that knows the coffin is coming right?)

 Suldae Westwind: (TELEPATHIC BOND)
(if Marcus isnt keeping it secret we all know)
(well those who are bonded anyway)
(the rest can take a hint)

 Hiere Unthere: "I gotchu fam."

A rope trick portal has appeared in the middle of the party!

 Henry of Willowsbrook: "TAKE COVER" Henry yells as he hurtles towards his friends
Henry will bowl anyone he can reach into the portal

 (From "The Dawn"): Marcus politely requests that Ezmerelda fake-trips, then disappear with the Cloak of Stars before the explosion goes off

 Henry of Willowsbrook: with him

The portal is conveniently open like a doorway, rather than a trapdoor.

 Ireena Kolyana: "QUICK!"
Ireena darts into the portal.

 Suldae Westwind: Suldae shoves everyone between the portal and herself into the portal.

Given how she can fly, she's going with "shove everyone else inside first"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark takes Kasimir's hand, and they run into the portal together.

Suldae Westwind: (well, shoves within her str 8 lol)

Suldae and Henry both make it into the portal as well, but Ezmerelda stumbles, just a moment before—

B-B-B-BOOOOOOOOOM.

Suldae Westwind: (Suldae does absolutely not make it into the portal before Ezme)
(she's making a point of this and I said so)

GM: (Just roll with it, trust me)

Suldae Westwind: (if Ezme stumbles, Suldae shoves her through and is behind her) (mmmmmmmmmmmm i mean I do trust you but I just said what I was doing)
(can you narrate it somehow that makes sense)

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Let Marcus have his romantic rescue damnit)

(From "The Dawn"): Is K. Let Suldae have her rescue

Suldae manages to get Ezmerelda into the portal just a split second before she herself makes it.

Suldae Westwind: (I hear you but I'm more willing to have Suldae manhandled by other characters or blown up than act OOC)
(i mean like the same outcome is possible with Suldae trying to do what I said)
(I wasn't trying to mess up the scene I'm sorry)

Then, from the endless white void of the interior of the Rope Trick, you see out into a roiling hell of fire and light.

Henry of Willowsbrook: (seeing as he wasn't mentioned I assume Henry collided with Ric as the winds flung him into the portal)

As you watch, the very stones of the castle begin to melt before your eyes in the heat of that blinding explosion.

Soon the light is too blinding to look at.

Many long moments later, the light begins to fade. You see a smooth lake of glass on a cliff-top, connected to the main portion of the cliff by a bridge of stone.

Castle Ravenloft is no more.

Suldae Westwind: We are also kind of in mid-air, with... well, plenty of ways to get down. But it's the principle of the thing.

The Rope Trick portal moves smoothly through the lingering smoke, heading out towards the main battlefield.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "... thank all the gods we didn't touch that thing"

Before your eyes, the army of revenants crumbles to dust.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae instinctively moves closer to Ismark.

He's fine, right? He's fine. They were on time.

The last remaining enemies, standing on the little spit of land just before the bridge, smolder and sizzle. They cling to life—just barely.

Mordenkainen: "Go away, we're done with you!"

DC17

Dexterity Save

66

Fire

61

Bludgeoning

1 mile

Meteor Swarm

The Mad Mage

A rain of meteors eliminates this last wounded group of stragglers, just moments before the Rope Trick alights on the grass before Mordenkainen.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae watches the goings-on, feeling dizzy. She takes Ireena's hand, just to ground herself, but this still does not feel quite real.

The battle feels both as if it had taken years and as if it had gone by in an instant - one minute they were preparing to enter the castle on a halfway-to-suicide-mission, the other Strahd is gone and the castle with him.

Mordenkainen: "Impressive Spellcraft!" Mordenkainen says, as Hiere and his Rope Trick disappear, depositing you all before him on the grass.

"The Dawn" sighs a breath of relief at the sighting of Barovia's greatest firebomb, bringing sunlight to cut through every inch of darkness in the country all at once. Some might call it the hands of divines that planned it out as such. Alas, the only power Marcus truly held was dumb luck.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls himself up from the ground the transition having knocked him on his ass weapon still in hand

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena slumps to the ground, shaking like a leaf.

"It's over. It's over. It's over."

"It's over."

She looks at Suldae. "It's over."

"We did it."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "We did it."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir stands staring at Ismark, as though in wonder at the fact that he is still there.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark is grinning from ear to ear.

"The Dawn": "That we did, that we did." Marcus's voice echoes through the Telepathic Bond

Gertruda: Gertruda begins to sob quietly to herself.

Suldae Westwind: "We need to get her back to her mom," Suldae points out.

(To Tops K.): At this point I think they've seen through the ruse lol

Vasilka: "Henry, someone was waiting very impatiently for you," says Vasilka, gliding smoothly through the long grass.

(From "The Dawn"): I'm gunna see if I can get Suldae to call Marcus out on it

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry for the first time since the night he lost his companions in Barovia feels his knees buckle

Vasilka: She holds out her hand, which contains a single acorn. She drops it, and it turns at once into Joan.

Joan is on him in an instant, holding him tight.

Joan: "You made it!"

"You all made it!"

"Wait..."

Joan begins to count on her fingers.

Joan: "Where's..."

"The guy with the hat?"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Marcus? MARCUS!? OH MY GOD, MARCUS!"

Suldae Westwind: Suldae looks around.

"I swear he's fine."

13

HISTORY (8)
Suldae Westwind

19

ARCANA (13)
Suldae Westwind

(the first one is misclick, sorry)

Mordenkainen: "What happened to him?"

"The Dawn": [I'm fine. But I'll never get to retire if people think the Great Hero Marcus survived this battle.] Marcus clarifies over the telepathic bond.

Kasimir Velikov: "Marcus destroyed a Vorpil sword, and paid a heavy price for his bravery."

"But his sacrifice permitted us all to escape with our lives."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Oh, Marcus!"

She slumps to her knees, "sobbing" inconsolably.

Mordenkainen: Visibly uncomfortable, Mordenkainen looks away, saying casually: "I don't suppose you managed to salvage any of the detritus? Shards, bits of vorpal material?"

"Or of course, I mean, body parts, too. A finger? An ear?"

"Did nothing remain?"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks around "Fuck this" Henry takes a step away drawing his Vorpal Sword as he steadies his Breath

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir looks dramatically at the sea of glass. "No," he says. "There wasn't time to save anything."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae rolls her eyes and walks off to the bridge to poke at it.

It's calming.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry closes his eyes as he grips the sword in both Hands sinking deep into his mind and letting every thing around him fall away in his concentration only focusing on his Bond with Marcus

"Don'T make me come over there and get you" He says to marcus both aloud and in his mind

"The Dawn": [No! I worked extra hard planning my fake death and I already gotta figure out how to disappear Ezmerelda since Suldae saved her from THAT fake death too!]

[Also thank you for saving my wife, Suldae]

Vasilka: Vasilka's eyes flash briefly green. She smiles to herself.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I'll never marry again," says Ezmerelda, tearily. She seems to be milking this a bit much.

"The Dawn": [Maybe if she fake-falls off a cliff. Everyone falls off this cliff here for real. Bards might buy it.]

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry raises the sword above his head "To bad Jackass you don't get off that easy" Henry swings down with his entire being intent on breaking Marcus smoke and Mirrors

Suldae Westwind: [Well you're welcome and also I think you're overthinking it a lot]

"Henry, come on, we can do this later and in private"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "No"

"The Dawn": [I got like two gods to run away from. I am thinking exactly as much as I need to!]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "None of this fake martirical bullcrap"

Suldae Westwind: [Turn into a raven and fly away most people wont be able to track you and gods will know either way]

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I think," says Ezmerelda.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae grabs Henry's hand.

She looks at him with big pleading eyes.

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I think we have all earned a drink. In Vallaki, maybe."

Suldae Westwind:35*PERSUASION (16)
Suldae WestwindHenry of Willowsbrook:9 + 8 | 13 + 8*CHARISMA SAVE (8)
Henry of Willowsbrook

"..." Henry pauses ".....I am way to tried for this" He puts the sword away "Marcus?"

"The Dawn": [Yeah?]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "That list of things to run away from?" Henry says "you can add one pissed of farmer to it because the moment I see you" He glares into the empty space "I. Will. Punch. You. Right in the face."

Marcus Veranius: [...]

[Henry, you are one of the most reliable guys I've ever met. I'm glad you were my impromptu best man at the wedding.]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Piss off mate" Henry says waveong him of as he puts his arm around Joan "Also next 50 rounds are on you" he adds with a tired smirk

Ireena Kolyana: "I.. I want to see the outside world," Ireena said. "A tavern somewhere that isn't in Barovia."

"A tavern someplace no one knows any of us, where we can celebrate in peace."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Well as It happens I might know a place"

Ireena Kolyana: "We can do the rounds with the Martikovs and the Krezkovs and everybody else later."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Although one person might know me"

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Or not. Maybe we just walk away... Maybe we just let Barovia be free, and let the story be whatever it becomes." "They don't really need us now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Morty can you teleport us to my Idiot Sister?"

Rictavio: "Such is the monster-hunter's life," says Rictavio, putting a hand on Ezmerelda's shoulder. "I'm sure wherever he is, Marcus is smiling at us all."

Mordenkainen: "Please don't call me Morty," says Mordenkainen. "I'll need a hair sample for that."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...shit"Mordenkainen: "No, a hair sample from you."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh yeah sure"

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen rips out some of Henry's hair without further preamble.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Ow" Henry whines

Suldae Westwind: "I want to show you the world," Suldae tells Ireena, taking her hand. "So you can find a place in it to call home... that I could come back to any time I wanted it."

Mordenkainen: Then he twists the air with his hands, looming the Weave, altering time and space... A portal appears behind him in the grass, leading to a beautiful castle and a well-appointed banquet hall.

"She wasn't happy to hear you were coming, when I told her last week," says Mordenkainen.

"She said: 'Only a week to prepare? Are you mental?'"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...what" Henry says gaping at the scene beyond the portal

Mordenkainen: "Lovely gal. Anywho, I shall be leaving now, if there's nothing else you need from the Great and Mighty Mordenkainen?"

"You shan't be seeing me again, I think; I have many projects that have languished far too long in my exile."

Suldae Westwind: Suldae runs up and gives him a hug, then dances away back to Ireena. She smiles and waves, then.

Mordenkainen: Touched, Mordenkainen says: "Ew, affection."

He clearly doesn't mean it, though.

He does Prestidigitate his robes unnecessarily, "cleaning" them after the physical contact.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "oh Lorelei what did you do..." Henry says walking towards the portal dragging Joan with him absentmindedly Suldae Westwind: Suldae Prestidigitates and Mends everyone as well. As she follows.

Marcus Veranius 's voice rings out to Ireena. [Say, do you still need that Amulet of Non-Detection? Could I barter it off you?]

Marcus Veranius: [I ought to let Henry punch me in the face. It's only fair.]

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena slips off her amulet and hands it to Ezmerelda.

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark and Kasimir step into the warp together.

Gertruda: "B-B-B-but wh-wh-what ab-b-bout m-m-meeeeee?"

Mordenkainen: Mordenkainen waves his hand and Gertruda vanishes.

"Not to worry, not to worry! I've simply returned her to her mother's side."

"What happens from there, well... That's on her."

Birb Marcus pokes his head out from Ezmerelda's cloak once she's through the warp and out of Mordenkainen's sight. He's wearing the amulet.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry steps through the portal into the Hall "LORELEI!" he shouts

Lorelei: "HENRY!"

"YOU GET OVER HERE THIS MINUTE, YOU BIG JERK!"

Lorelei looks almost exactly as Henry remembers her, but leaner and more tanned and battle-hardened.

Lorelei runs to embrace her brother.

Lorelei: "The wizard said you'd be bringing friends... I hope we've made enough food."

"Who's this?"

Joan: "I'm Joan, your ladyship." Joan curtsies.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "YOU are the last person I want to hear that from" Henry says as his arms calmly shut around her in the mother of all hugs

"Who did you swindle into letting you use this castle?"

Lorelei: "Swindle! I'll have you know, I won it fair and square. It was a jousting tournament. Lord Billoughsby was most ungraciously unseated by the tip of my spear. You should have seen it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry levels a deadpan stare at her "try the other one, you were always a piss-poor rider"

"I'd sooner believe it if you said you won it at poker" Henry says with a tone translating to 'which you were always awful at to'

Lorelei: "I've changed a lot, since you left," she says, somewhat sadly.

"You'd be surprised what I know how to do, these days."

"Anyway, let's get these hungry people fed!"

The lids are removed from all the feasting trays, and the smell of hot food wafts through the great hall.

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda seats herself without preamble, and begins to eat heartily.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry's expression changes "Where's Rihannon? And how are Mom and Pa?" He asks quietly

Lorelei seems sad.

Lorelei: "Rihannon..."

"She's taking forever to get changed, she'll be down in a minute."

"As for Mom and Dad... I haven't got the heart to tell you, they..."

"They know everything and they're fine with it, and they want to know why you didn't just talk to them before disappearing out of the blue."

"Also, I'm the heir apparent, now."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Duh"

Birb Marcus sits on the table by Ezmerelda's plate. As much as he'd love to participate in the feast with proper cutlery, Henry doesn't seem the kind of guy to punch a bird in front of his sister.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I cut and ran"

Lorelei: "Don't get me wrong, they were not happy at first."

"They disowned me for a while, and I had to make it on my own."

"You know how stubborn they can be."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Yeah..."

Lorelei: "In the end, it was Rihannon who managed to convince them. Mom came down with something awful, and the clerics couldn't do much for her. But Rihannon wouldn't give up."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "

Henry nods mutely

Lorelei: "She's a cleric now herself. Pretty high ranking, too."

"Even dad had to accept that we weren't monsters, after that."

"Once they started seeing things a little differently, well... They changed. A lot."

"I wish you had been here to see it."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You know that isn't why I left right?"

Lorelei: "...No, I didn't know that."

"Why did you leave?"

Ismark Kolyanovich: Ismark and Kasimir sit side by side, eating quietly together, holding hands under the table.

Rictavio: Rictavio seats himself across from Ezmerelda. He makes eye contact with bird Marcus.

He eats anyway, ignoring Marcus.

Ireena Kolyana: Ireena picks at her food, her mind a thousand miles away, still stunned by how much her world has truly changed. She looks up at Ismark from time to time, still surprised to see him still alive. This makes her look at Suldae with tremendous gratitude.

Birb Marcus nibbles on a cut of meat from Ez's plate, staring at Rictavio

Birb Marcus: He nods solemnly in understanding

Joan just hovers at Henry's side, but a little distance away, giving him some privacy with his sister.

Suldae Westwind: Suldae is a bit zoned out, still a little overwhelmed from everything.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry sighs putting his forehead against hers "I never really wanted it back then you know? The orchards and the farm and the quiet life. I wanted to go out and be a Hero. Slay dragons, Save Kingdoms." He pauses to shake his head "But Rhiannon loves it out here and I loved, no I love her, so I would have went with it"

"But then I walked in on you two"

"I heartbroken and at the same time set adrift"

was

Lorelei bites her lip, unable to meet his gaze, twisting her fingers.

Lorelei: "I... I never got the chance to tell you how... Sorry I was. I never meant to hurt you."

Birb Marcus: [Is everything alright Suldae? That doesn't seem like the look of a champion.] Marcus comments over Telepathy

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'm so happy fo the two of you"

Lorelei: "It was all my fault. I... I don't have an explanation. I don't have an excuse."

"I'm sorry, Henry. I really, truly am."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry flicks her in the forehead

Lorelei: "I wish I had... I wish things had..."

"I've spent all these years thinking you hated me."

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry looks at her face neutral as he pinches both her cheeks and pulls them just enough that they hurt "Will you let me finish?"

Lorelei laughs.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I accept your aplogy for your sake" Henry says letting go "I'm over it, mostly" he would not admit how recently he got over it but hey he was the older one

"Genuien Love is nothing you should apologize for"

Lorelei: There are tears in her eyes, now. She knows how deeply she has wounded him, and how much that forgiveness must have cost. The years of guilt cannot be erased, but she is no longer the woman who made that mistake. She says: "Thank you."

Rhiannon: "Enough mush! Let's eat!"

Birb Marcus hops over the banquet table and pokes at Suldae's plate to get her attention

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry kisse Lorelei on the forehead "Come on, I thought you'd grown out of being a crybaby. Let me tell you about the shit I've seen and done while I introduce you to every one" He leans in close and whispers "I'm home"

Birb Marcus: [Hey! Miss storyteller! You're gunna keep with out creative edits of my demise in your songs about this, right?]

*our ["Perished in a beam of sunlight" rings better in notes than "hid in a chasm and baited Strahd out through taunts over sending stones."]

Suldae Westwind: [Oh don't worry I'll keep the ending to your version]

[First, it's epic, second, if I commit evil acts I won't be in the good Book's good books anymore]

Birb Marcus: [Well if not an epic story of conquest, the truth would probably make a good comedy.]

Suldae Westwind: [Eh. Not the kind I like]

Henry of Willowsbrook: [That reminds me] Henry stops in his retelling just as he was explaining how he meet Marcus and Suldae. He stands up and walks over.

Birb Marcus stares at Henry, sweating nervously

Birb Marcus: [Don't do it. Don't punch my face...]

[NOT THE FACE! AAAAA~!]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "So are you gonna take it like a man or like a bird. Either way works for me to be honest"

Henry is looming over him

Birb Marcus: [Bird. I aint blowing my cover over this!]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "everyone here knows anyway except the servents" Henry says dryly servants

Birb Marcus: [We aint in Barovia anymore; lycanthropy's frowned upon in these parts!]

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Wait, hang on one second, before you do that..."

Birb Marcus: [Once dinner's done, I'm finding a proper Aaracokra colony to blend into and working Dragonhide for a living. You can track me down by the markets for a reunion.]

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda carefully removes her ring, still holding it.

"Ok, go ahead."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You have to change anyway, because I'm not introducing you like this to my sister"

Birb Marcus: [...]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...I'll let you be my best man when I marry Joan if you change"

Birb Marcus: [Feh. Gimme two minutes for a cover story]

Joan: "Oh! Are we getting married!?"

Birb Marcus flies off out a window

Henry of Willowsbrook: "I'll tell her the whole truth anyway"

Joan: "How wonderful!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry catches him

Birb Marcus: [ACK! RELEASE ME! AAAA]

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Oh god just transform already" Henry sighs holding the him

Marcus Veranius poofs into existence in Henry's hands

Henry of Willowsbrook: "You done?"

Marcus Veranius: "This is supposed to be a big secret! I'm gunna get in loads of trouble for this!"

Marcus Veranius frowns

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry winds up for a punch

Marcus Veranius closes his eyes, flinching

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pulls his full weight and power into it but pulls to a stop a hairsbreadth away from Marcus face

Marcus Veranius is shaking furiously in fear

Marcus Veranius opens an eye to peek

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry pokes him in the forehead "Changed my mind" He says sticking out his tongue and grinning wide

Marcus Veranius angry squawks

Marcus Veranius: "No, you punch me right now!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry just laughs "You really don't look like the Hero of Barovia"

Marcus Veranius: "I came here dressed to be punched!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Okay" Henry slaps him with all his might

GM: (rofl)

Marcus Veranius makes a dramatic show of falling to the floor

Marcus Veranius: "Ow! That hurt!"

Ezmerelda Veranius: Ezmerelda puts her ring back on.

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Was supposed to" Henry comments still laughing
Henry holds out a hand

Marcus Veranius takes Henry's hand and hoists himself up, hoping no one remembers his immunity to nonmagic punch damage

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry is still wearing his magic armor

Marcus Veranius: ((OOF))

Henry of Willowsbrook: including gloves

GM: (I'm afraid to say I think Henry may be right lol)

Ezmerelda Veranius: "Honey, your nose is crooked."

Marcus Veranius puts a hand to his beak

Marcus Veranius tiny pained squawks

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Come on my still leagally wife is a cleric, she'll fix that"

Marcus Veranius deadpan stares

Marcus Veranius: "...of Pelor?" He winces

Henry of Willowsbrook: "...ugh Rhiannon?" Henry asks "Whos cleric are you?"

Rhiannon: "I'm a Cleric of Sune," says Rhiannon.

"Hold still, this will only hurt for a moment..."

There is a sharp flash of red light, and Marcus's nose is straight once more.

Marcus Veranius wipes his forehead in relief

Ezmerelda Veranius: "That's better," says Ezmerelda.

Marcus Veranius: "Going to be real with you; trying to hide from Pelor and the Raven Queen right now. Hoping that each thinks I went to the other's afterlife and they don't talk often enough to double check."

"Let's keep this meeting our secret.

"

Henry of Willowsbrook: "Now where was I, ah right and then this jackass just jumped out the window without a word! I thought he baileD"

Marcus Veranius: "Not true! I was there the entire time!"

"In a hole."

"Taunting a vampire into thinking I ascended."

"He was so distracted, think he didnt see your left hook coming!"

Henry of Willowsbrook: (Henry is talking about out First encounter in the coffin shop)

Marcus Veranius: "...oh. You mean the coffin shop."

"Yeah, no, your brother's right. I'm a jackass."

Marcus Veranius smugly grins

Ezmerelda Veranius: "He's my jackass," says Ezmerelda, protectively.

Rictavio: "Don't worry, Marcus," says Rictavio. "The moment sunlight falls upon you, Pelor will know. I think that he has gotten what he needed, from you. So long as that sword is passed on to a worthy bearer, I think you have nothing to fear from him."

Henry of Willowsbrook: "But in your defense you did have a good plan ypu jst didn't tell us about it" Henry says getting back into sharing his experiences with his Sister and soon to be exwife/sister-in-law

Ezmerelda Veranius: "And won't the Raven Queen know, just by sensing the fact that your Raven soul hasn't returned to her yet?"

Marcus Veranius: "..."

Ezmerelda Veranius: "I mean, hell, I don't know how it works."

"Maybe the Raven Queen doesn't know?"

Marcus Veranius sits down next to his wife, grumping. Spellcasters and divines, and otherworldly forces. THIS IS WHY HE WORKS WITH SHOES!!!

Marcus Veranius: Shoes are simple!

Rictavio: "I think the gods are done with all of us, for a while at least," said Rictavio. "We have each sacrificed, to do what we have done."

"And we have succeeded, against all odds."

Ireena Kolyana: "We're all... Free."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "So," says Ismark, to Kasimir. "Where will you go next?"

Kasimir Velikov: "Wherever you do, of course."

Ismark Kolyanovich: "I knew you were going to say that, but I still wanted to hear it."

Kasimir Velikov: Kasimir smiles to himself.

Rictavio: "I shall set off upon the road once more, I think... Pelor is not quite finished with me."

Marcus Veranius slides a sword handle over to Rictavio

Rictavio: "You can't mean that, man."

Marcus Veranius: "You're a good judge of character. I'm sure you'll find a proper home for this."

Rictavio: "Oh," says Rictavio, who was about to say "I'm not worthy"

"I shall endeavor to give it a good home," he says.

Henry of Willowsbrook: Henry, using his now noble sisters connections; leverages the Baron of Shoenemark into allowing him to found a Knightly Order which he will Grandmaster for a bit until it is established enough to then semi-retire into the "Call me when going gets rough" status. His time is mostly spend fishing and working his private land near the Rose Lake with Joan.

Marcus Veranius: "I'm sure Suldae can tell you a day's worth of stories that start with elders passing down artifacts of power to chosen youths."

"It'd make a good retirement plan."

"Hell, it already worked once before. Heard a story about an old man that passed some chosen youths some tomes of power, and they knocked over some dusty zombie king."

Marcus Veranius smiles. "You've got a track record already."

Rictavio: Rictavio smiles to himself, taking the sunsword reverentially. "Where Pelor wills me, I will take it."

"Then, I think I shall retire... Perhaps to Krezk."